POETRY

A KISS AT THE DOOR.

We were standing in the doorway
My little wife and I—
The golden sunshine bathed her
Fed down so sweetly,
A small white hand upon my arm,
What could I ask more?
Than the kindly glance of loving eyes,
As she kissed me at the door.

I knew she loves with all her heart
The one who stands beside!
And the tears have bounce joyous
Since first I called her bride!
We've had so much of happiness
Since we met in years before,
But the happier time of all was
When she kissed me at the door.

Who cares for wealth of land or gold,
Of fame or matchless power!
It does not give the happiness
Of but one little hour
With one who loves me as her life—
She says she "loves me more"—
And I thought she did this morning,
When she kissed me at the door.

At times it seems that all the world
With all its wealth of gold,
Is very small and poor indeed,
Compared with what I hold!
And when the cloudy hang grim and dark
I only think the more
Of "one" who smiles my coming step
To kiss me at the door.

If she lives till age shall scatter
The frost upon her head,
I know she'll love me just the same
As the morning we were wed;
But if the angels call
And we pass to Heaven before,
I shall know her where I meet her,
For she'll kiss me at the door.

Fall of the First Napoleon.

[From the New York Times.]

The incidents that attended the final descent from the French throne of Napoleon I are endowed with fresh interest at the moment of the downfall of the eagles. It is fair to remember in estimating the comparative difficulties by which the two men were surrounded, that Napoleon III ascended the throne at about the same age at which Napoleon I was finally overthrown, and that the reign of the former as Emperor was about double in years as that of the latter. Napoleon III wielded the sceptre about as long as his predecessor, Louis Philippe—that is to say, a few months short of eighteen years. So far as credit is due for maintaining and disarming long parleys, over an exceptionally turbulent and excitable people, Napoleon III deserves a large share of it.

Unlike his uncle, who abdicated, he was dethroned in his absence by the act of the people. Paris never turned upon him while present, and although he imputed saying that he will return thither "only to gave a warning, but to exact one," may be the utterance of resentful despair. We must not forget that from 1852 he was only in Paris as a reigning sovereign.

Napoleon I thoroughly expected to have won the battle of Waterloo. His exulting exclamation on seeing the English army, on the morning of the 8th of June, drawn up on the heights opposite the eminence of La Belle Alliance, "At last, then, I have these English in my grasp," entirely represented his anticipations of triumph. Of his subsequent observations on the subject, those made to O'Meara, at St. Helena, are among the clearest and most decisive:

"I told him," said O'Meara, "that Lord Wellington had determined never to quit the field of battle alive."

"He could not leave it," replied Napoleon; "he could not retreat. He would have been destroyed with his whole army. He said so himself to that cavalry officer who was wounded. If Grouchy had come up at that time instead of the Prussians, not a man would have escaped."

O'Meara asked him if he had not believed for a long time that the Prussians who advanced on his right were Grouchy's division. He replied:

"To be sure I did; and I can even now scarcely account for the reason why it was not Grouchy's division instead of them."

O'Meara then asked him what he supposed would have been the event if neither Grouchy nor the Prussians had come up to that day—if it would not have been a drawn battle—whether both armies would not have kept their ground? "No," was his reply, "the English army would have been destroyed. It was defeated before midday. I should have gained every thing. I had gained every thing. I beat the Prussians, but accident, or misconduct, decided that I should be Wellington should gain it, and he did so. He was fortunate—accident and destiny favored him. I could scarcely have believed, he would have given me battle, because, if he had retreated, as he ought to have done, to Antwerp, I must have been overwhelmed by armies of three or four hundred thousand men coming against me whom I could not possibly have resisted. Besides, if they intended to give battle, it was the greatest folly now in the world to separate the Prussian and English armies; they ought to have been united, and I can not conceive the reason of their separation. It was also roguery in him to hazard a battle in a place where, if defeated, all must have been lost, for he could not retreat. He would have been altogether destroyed. He suffered himself to be surprised by me. He ought to have had all his army encamped from the beginning of June, as he must have known that I intended to attack him, he might have lost every thing by it, it was a great fault on his part, but he has been fortunate, and every thing he did will meet with applause. My intentions were to destroy the English army. This I knew would produce immediate change of Ministry. The indignation against the 40,000 of the flower of the English army of the sons of first families and others who would have perished there, would excited such a popular commotion that they would have been turned out. The people would have said: What is it to us who is on the throne of France, Louis or Napoleon! * * The English would have made peace * * The Saxons, Bavarians, Belgians, Vorterbergers and others would have joined me. The Prussians would have made peace. "I should have been quietly seated on the throne."

The effect of the loss of Waterloo on Napoleon was almost maddening. He raved in alternate paroxysms of grief and anger although he did not, as, according to Caulincourt, he tried to do after his abdication in 1814, attempt to commit suicide by taking poison at Fontainebleau. He returned after Waterloo, as is known, immediately to the Elysee. "Has confidence ceased?" says Caulincourt, "to give vent to the emotions of his heart, but his oppressed respiration permitted him to articulate only broken sentences. "Go army," he said, "has performed prodigies of valor * * inconceivable efforts. * * What hopes! Ney behaved like a madman! * * He caused my rivalry to be cut to pieces. * * All has been sacrificed. * * I am ill and exhausted. * * I must lie down for an hour or two. * * My head burns. * * I must take a bath. After his bath, it is previous, he continued, "to think that we should be overcome after so many heroic efforts. My most brilliant victories do not shed more glory on the French army than the defeat of Mont St. Jean. * * Our troops have not been beaten; they have been sacrificed—massacred by enormous numbers. My troops suffered themselves to be cut to pieces without asking for quarter. I wished to have died with them! but they exclaimed: 'Withdraw withdraw, you see that death is inevitable! Spare your Majesty! and, opening their ranks my old grenadiers screened me from the carnage, forming around me a rampart of their bodies. * * My brave, my valorous guard has been destroyed * * and I have not perished with them! * * *

Democratic State Convention

ROOMS DEMOCRATIC STATE CENT. COM'T.
FRANKFORT, KY., Sept. 15, 1870.

To the Democracy of Kentucky:

In accordance of the duty devolving upon us to designate the time and place at which a State Convention shall be held, we hereby invite you to meet in Frankfort, on Saturday, January 7th, 1871, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the following offices to be filled at the next August election—Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Auditor, Treasurer, Register of the Land Office, and Superintendent Public Instruction.

In order that the Convention may, as nearly as possible, be a true representation of the party, the County Committees are instructed, after full and timely notice, to call meetings to be held in the various counties of the State, for the purpose of appointing delegates, the number of which it is recommended shall, as nearly as practicable, conform to the number of votes to which each county will be entitled in Convention, estimated by the rule finally adopted of one vote for every 100 Democratic votes and one vote for each fraction of fifty and over. The Presidential election of 1868 being taking as the basis.

Democratic State Convention

As will be seen from the call of the Democratic State Central Committee which we insert in another column, a Democratic State Convention is called to meet at Frankfort, on Saturday, January 7th, 1871, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Auditor, Treasurer, Register of the Land Office and Superintendent of public Instruction. We think that the action of the committee is too hasty, in calling the convention to meet so early a day, but the wise ones at Frankfort doubtless know better than we. We think that the convention could have been held in June or July, and the results been more satisfactory to the people. We are opposed to hasty nominations from the simple fact that it usually results in a bad nomination. The reasons why the convention was called so early are given in the Yeoman and they are good ones. We quote from the Yeoman: We publish this morning the call of the Democratic State Central Committee for a State Convention to assemble in this city on Saturday, January 7th, 1871, to nominate a State ticket for the next August election. The 8th of January, usually designated for the meeting of such bodies, unfortunately will be Sunday, and the committee have fixed on Saturday in its stead. While referring to this we may also with propriety anticipate some of the discussion which may arise on the subject by giving the reason why the committee have selected the earlier day instead of the 22d of February. The subject was very thoroughly and maturely considered by the committee, and there were arguments advanced in favor of the latter time, but the consideration which united the committee and made them unanimous in their action was that it would be better in every respect to have the convention over as soon as practicable after the meeting of the Legislature, so as to let the deliberations of that body be as free as possible from the excitement which an impending convention would cause. The session will begin on the 6th, so that when the convention meets, should the voters of remote counties, as is usual, be directed to be cast by the Representatives, they will be on hand to do so. The convention, having gotten through with its labors, the Legislature will be able to enter at once upon its work without having the minds of the members diverted for six weeks by the anticipated convention, as would be the case if the time of meeting had been fixed for the 22d of February. As to meeting on Saturday, it will not be so inconvenient as one might suppose, as by arranging for extra trains, every one who cannot get off on Saturday night can leave for home on Sunday.

It is to be hoped, as the committee say, that the convention will be a true index of the Kentucky Democracy. The interval is ample for the party to hold meetings throughout the State after the sufficient notice by the County Committees of the time and object for which they are to be held. The convention will have an important work before it, not only in the nomination of a ticket, but in fixing the position of the Democracy upon many questions which have arisen since the party last met in council.

It should address itself to this duty with earnestness, and with full sense of the weight which will be attached to its utterances. To this end, let the best men be sent as delegates, and everywhere let it be the aim of county meetings to act in their deliberations rather with a view to the general good of the party and the State than in the interest of individual aspirants for office. As to the meeting of the convention here, we can only promise in behalf of the committee and of the citizens, that nothing shall be left undone to provide for the comfortable accommodation of all who may attend.

☞ In several counties, conventions have already been held and delegates chosen and instructed to vote for certain candidates for State officers at the approaching January convention. This we think is entirely too hasty. There are many aspirants in the field and there is likely to be many more before the convention is to be held. It behooves the Democratic party at this time to nominate none but good and reliable and trustworthy men. We are in power in the State now, and if we select incompetent and unreliable men we may loose our power. Above all things let us be sure that our candidates are sober and capable of filling the office which he is nominated for. It is important at this time that we select a candidate for Governor who will enforce the State laws to the very letter, and a Lieutenant Governor that should the Governor be displaced by any unforseen event he will be certain to do the same thing. Our safety as a party demands it.

The Ninth District

The Republican party in the Ninth district seems to be rather at loose ends just now. The organization is defective some way, and, with better prospects in other districts in the State, except the Seventh and Eighth, precious time is slipping away in inaction. If a convention can't be got together at once, we hope Colonel G. M. Thomas, or some other good man will announce himself, and make the race on his own hook. We don't doubt that Colonel Thomas would be entirely acceptable to the district as a candidate, and there are others probably who would be as much so. Something must be done, then, at once.

We clip the above from the Louisville Commercial, the Radical State organ. It shows how dend the radicals are in this District. We hope however that the Radicals will take the Commercial's advice and trot out Colonel (?) Morg. Say Mr. Commercial where did Morg get that Colonel from? On what bloody battle field did he get promoted? Or was he "Colonel" in the Lewis County Home Guards, or Bramlette Militia? The only way we can account for this big handle to Morg's name was when the rebel boys up at Vanceburg called on him to attack the Bonsons and capture those Indian Dutch soldiers in 1861. Morg was a rebel then and the boys may have dubbed him—"Colonel."

Probably our friend EVLAR, of the Peoples Defender can give us some valuable information on this important (?) subject.

☞ The Maysville Eagle says:

The report is current upon the street that Hon. R. H. Stanton has been invited to take charge of a new Democratic paper to be started in Louisville in opposition to the Courier Journal. It is to be the organ of the Bourbon Democracy and will contain the most fiery sort of politics. Mr. Stanton is an industrous writer and a fluent one. It will require an immense capital to run such an organ in Louisville as first class daily, but it men can be found willing to loose a hundred thousand dollars the first year, we do not doubt the undertaking might eventually prove a success. But by the time the time the paper gets fairly established on a paying basis there will be no room for red hot Democrats in Kentucky, and it will change its tune.

☞ General Murray, U. S. Marshal of this State, served a process last week, emanating from the Federal District Court of Kentucky, upon Attorney General Bodman, His Honor Judge George W. Triplett, County Judge, and Major John P. Thompson, Circuit Clerk of Daviess County, to appear before Judge Ballard's court in Louisville, in October next, and show cause why they are holding office in violation of the provisions of the so-called Fourteenth Amendment, by which it is alleged they are disqualified.—Frankfort Yeoman.

Subscribe for the Democrat.

☞ Every county in the State which is not perfectly certain of Democratic majorities is clamoring for Sam. McKee to come over and help them. Since he aided the Fleming Democrats so much during the late campaign he has been in great demand. Wonder how the Radicals like it?—Mt. Sterling Sentinel.

STOCKWELL DISTILLERY,

Situated three miles North of Flemingsburg on the Maysville turnpike. The machinery, stills, &c., are all nearly new, and in an excellent state of repair. For years the quality of whisky manufactured in this Distillery has sustained a first-class reputation, and there is no brand in the State that out-sells it. With plenty of cold water in a rich grain growing region where fat can be readily and cheaply procured, there is no better opportunity in the State for a practical Distiller to invest in a safe and

"OUR FATHER'S HOUSE;" or, THE UNWRITTEN WORD.

By DANIEL MARCH, D. D., author of the popular "Night Scenes." This master in thought and language shows us untold riches and beauties in the Great Mansion, with its Blooming flowers, Singing birds, Waving trees, Rolling clouds, Beautiful bow, Sacred mountains, Delightful rivers, Mighty oceans, Thundering voices, Blazing heavens and vast numbers of countless beings in millions of worlds, and reads to us in such this Unwritten Word. Rose-tinted paper, ornate engraved binding. "Rich and varied in thought." "Chaste." "Easy and graceful in style." "Correct, pure and elevating in its tendency." "Beautiful, and good." "A household treasure." Commendations like the above from College Presidents and professors, ministers of all denominations, and the religious and secular press all over the country. Its freshness, purity of language, with clear open type, fine steel engravings, substantial binding, and low price, make it the book for the masses. Agents are selling from 50 to 150 per week.

We want Clergymen, School Teachers, young men and ladies to introduce the work for us in every township, and we will pay liberally. No intelligent man or woman need be without a paying business.

Subscribers who do not receive the Democrat next week, will understand that the time paid for has expired or that they owe us so much that we can not afford to send the paper any longer on credit. Cash or no trade.

STRAY NOTICE.—See stray notice elsewhere.

THE NEW BRIDGE.—The new bridge across the town branch is at last completed.

FRESH ARRIVAL.—Lev Steele—he come by the Kilgoreno express.

FARM FOR SALE.—We call the attention of readers to the advertisement of L. H. Summers, Esq. He offers his farm for sale.

FOR SALE.—Mr. Thos. Darnall advertises his farm for sale in todays paper. It is a very desirable place. See advertisement.

RETIRED.—Dr. W. S. Moores has returned home and is now at his office in the practice of his profession.

SOLD.—The Distillery of Hayber & Dunlevy was sold by the U. S. Collector last week for unpaid taxes. We understand that Thos. H. Manning was the purchaser at $9,300.

QUARTERLY COURT.—This Court commenced last Monday Judge W. H. Abney presiding. It was the Judge's first day on the bench. He presided with a good deal of dignity and discharged his duties in a lawyer-like manner.

IS AN INCREDIBLE short space of time NATURE'S HAIR RESTORATIVE has won its way into public favor. Why? Because it does the work, and never no ill effects. See advertisement.

U. S. COLLECTOR'S SALE.—E. B. Powell, deputy U. S. Collector for this district will sell at public sale the well known distillery property of Dupuy &Co., situated in this place, on the 15th of next October. See the advertisement to that effect in this paper.

CHEERFULNESS, BEAUTY AND STRENGTH!—You can obtain all three by the use of Robert's Preparations. His Cordial invigorates the Stomach and create a cheerful feeling. his Purifier will cleanse the Blood and thereby beautify the Complexion and his Bitters will invigorate the Vital powers and give strength to the Body.

VALUABLE PROPERTY TO BE SOLD.—Mr Jno. Peck, executor of Wm. R. Dent, dec'd, will sell at public auction on Saturday October 8th, the valuable residence of the late W. M. Dent, situated on Water Street, and also the new house and lot recently occupied by Mr. Rigby and known as the Dr. Miller property. See advertisement.

TOWN ORDINANCE.—We call attention to the town ordinance published in this paper in regard to ringing a bell, beating gongs, hollowing shouting, &c by day or night. The ordinance has become so common in Flemingsburg, that the people cannot sleep at night because this ordinance. Boys read the law and then keep your tin pans and sausage machines at home. A word to the wise is sufficient.

REMOVED.—Mr. Chas. W. West has removed his grocery store to the store room recently occupied by A. T. McDonald. Mr. Westerfield speaks as a business man, and is doing a very large business. All his old friends will be glad to know that he is now in better quarters and as he proposes to sell goods still lower down for cash they will call on him and secure their trade. Success to him.

THE CHEAPEST HOUR.—Weesze, by the October number that the publishers (T. S. ARTHUR & SONS of Philadelphia) of this pure and beautiful magazine, are preparing for the coming year their budget of good things for the little ones. If you have never taken it for your children, send for specimen copy, and you are very sure that it's appearance among them will make their eyes glow and their hearts beat with pleasure.

ARTHUR'S LADY'S HOME MAGAZINE for October contains a brilliant programme for the coming year. It is the announced intention of the publishers of this high-toned periodical to make it the "Queen of the Lady's Magazines for 1871. Having striven to make it the most reading magazine of the day, now they propose to give all the attractions of the most popular fashion monthlies, such as colored steel fashion plates, etc, etc. and to add new features never yet attempted by any of them. Among these are a series of earthen colored paper. These, as we understand it, are to be finely engraved copies, double in size the ordinary page of the magazine, of choice pictures, and will be a novel and highly popular feature. The beauty, tasteful excellence and rare interest of its literary contents, combined with all those new attractions cannot help making ARTHUR'S LADY'S HOME MAGAZINE the favorite of the coming season. Specimens sent free. Published by T. S. ARTHUR & SONS, Philadelphia, Pa., at $2 a year, with large reductions for clubs.

NEW GOODS.—Mr. D. S. Lane, the most tasty dry goods merchant in Maysville has just returned from the East where he has purchased one of the largest and most handsome stocks of dry goods ever brought to this country. He understands the wants of the people and he never fails to bring goods to suit them. We advise our readers to read Mr. Lane's advertisement in this paper and then go to Maysville and buy your goods cheap. He is clerks and accommodating and will be a delight to attend to. Remember his stand is at No 2 Second St., Maysville Ky.

ADDISON'S WINDOW FASTENER.—We doubt if human ingenuity can devise a more simple and efficient contrivance for holding windows up or down, than the one above named. It works easily well on upper or lower sash, and gives the best ventilation at one tenth the cost of box frames, weights, cords and pulleys, thus adding greatly to comfort and health at all times, and especially in warm weather. Any one desiring to see its practical operation can do so by looking at our office windows.

He has testimonials from many well known citizens in various parts of the State, showing that his fasteners give great satisfaction.

We cordially commend the invention to the public, and the inventor as just the man to put it into practical use, and from a short acquaintance we will add, for only an impulsive, but an intelligent and very sociable gentleman.—Carrollton Democrat.

Mr. Addison has put his fastener on the windows of our office, and we fully endorse all that the Democrat says of the invention and the inventor, and will add that we think what he don't know about fixing overold fashioned windows is not worth knowing. It is our opinion that this simple invention is destined to supercede everything else of the kind. He is boarding at Mrs. Mary J. Lee's and will be happy to put his fasteners on the windows of any of our citizens who may desire them.

D. S. BARNHILL & SON.—We call the attention of the people in the vicinity of Hillsboro to the advertisement of Messrs D. S. Barnhill & son, they are now receiving their fall stock of dry goods, boots, shoes, hats &c. They have a very fine stock to select from and they can suit the taste of all. We advise everybody to call on them and examine their stock before purchasing elsewhere. They are prompt, energetic and reliable business men and deserve the patronage of the public.

GONE TO CINCINNATI.—Mr. T. S. Andrews of the new firm of Andrews & Brother left on Tuesday morning last for Cincinnati, for the purpose of purchasing an entire new stock of groceries &c. They have been making extensive preparations recently for the accommodation of a large stock, and we doubt not that they will have in a few days one of the best variety of goods ever brought into this market. Their old customers and friends are notified of this fact and are invited to call when the goods are opened.

TO THE LADIES.—Mr. J. B. Dudley has just received a very large assortment of fancy goods, perfumery, toilet articles &c. He has now and the most handsome stock of goods ever brought to this place. Go and buy of him.

HORACE CARR.—We had the pleasure of meeting with our old friend Horace Carr on Tuesday last. He informs us that he has at last completed his new livery stable in Mt. Sterling and is now prepared to accommodate the public in his line. Horace is a noble fellow and we know he will do well in Mt. Sterling. He has a thorough knowledge of how a livery stable ought to be kept and we doubt not his will be a first class institution in Mt. Sterling. Everybody from this section should patronize him. See advertisement on 4th week.

REV. B. B. HOTCHKIN, Pastor of the Marple Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, Pa., says: Of our Fathers House. Tht theme for the main, and the man for the theme. Dr. March has an unusually felicious taste for selecting that which is intrinsically of high interest. I am impressed with this as I walk with him through "Our Father's House," and not the objects to which I turn my attention, and I am much indebted to him for pasing me often in new angels of observation, which disclosed in those objects hitherto not before discovered, and reveal in the Father himself some glorious hitherto unthought of. The wide appreciation bestowed on his former book renders it pretty much superfluous to express the hope that this will be read by many thousands. See advertisement.

STATE NEWS.

Two drunken brutes went to the house of an old negro man, near the toll gate, on the Jeffersonville pike, a few nights since, and fired their pistols at him, and ran him off, when they dismounted, went in the house and ravished his wife. We are informed that the woman was nursing twin babies at the time. If they could be found out in any way, they should be summarily dealt with.—Mt. Sterling Gazette.

The male trade in Bourbon continues dull. Some few traders looking about with the view of purchasing.—Horses are more lively. Good stock is selling high, but there is little demand for common. Three buyers from Hopkinsville, Ky., arrived here a few days ago and within a few hours purchased twenty-three head of horses, at prices ranging from $165 to $300.

The shipments South have been very light. C. H. Meng started to Alabama yesterday with a car-load of horses, and Jas. Secrest, a car-load to Georgia. Cattle are reported to us at 7 to 7½ cents, and hogs at 9 to 9½ cents.—Paris Citizen.

The title to the buildings, fencing and other improvements belonging to the Maysville trotting park association was sold to F. M. Weedon, Esq., on Monday, for $371 cash. The original cost was upward of $3,600 and the sale was made with a view to Mr. Weedon's transfer of the property and right to a company, which is now being formed, for the purpose of converting the park into a fair ground.—Maysville Eagle.

The well known banker David A. Sayre, died at his residence in Lexington, on Sunday last, aged seventy seven years. "The Statesman of this morning says that it is known that he gave away $500,000 in acts of benevolence. He was an old member of the Presbyterian church for more than forty years. In a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in his season, he has come to his grave, and has entered upon that reward which remaineth to the people of God."—Paris Citizen.

On yesterday (Friday) morning between 6 and 7 o'clock, when the locomotive was making her first trip for the day, pushing cars with laborers and freight for the end of the line, and pulling the train engaged in hauling dirt for the filling, and had reached Watkin's cut, the rear cars were uncoupled so as to push more easily and rapidly the front ones up the hill. On its return to recouple, it struck the jar on meeting threw off Thomas Lynch who was sitting on the end of the last car with his feet hanging over—he fell across the rail, and the cars ran over him, killing him instantly. His body was brought immediately back to the depot where Coroner Cockrel and a jury held an inquest, giving a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

Lynch was a very clever, industrious man—had lived in Maysville 15 or 20 years, and leaves an invalid wife and six children.—Maysville Eagle.

Bourbon Fair.

The Kentuckian says: "The present intelligibly so huge a thing as the Bourbon County Fair we should resort to minute dissection. Taking it piece by piece and then bidding reconstructing it we might hope for a somewhat juster idea of its immensity. We have a ready given upon four columns to one feature. How shall we compass with words what remains? How tell adequately (for this the public very urgently demands of us) what we saw and heard? But this posing our readers is cheapest trifling. Let us to the effort. First then it was a grand success—over topping all the past. Everybody was there looking better and feeling better than they ever did. In fact, so much good health, good spirits, good humor and good looks to go no farther were never seen, we venture to believe, in the same compass. Thus throng! Who shall number it? Large from the beginning it reached its maximum on Thursday declining but little, if at all, on Friday. Few were attempted to look at in grass but this could not be. Our eyes would none of our report, but would linger where was the soft and mellow radiance.

Suffice it to say the crowd was equal to the utmost capacity of the accommodations. It was the most brilliant and orderly assemblage, say the oldest, ever witnessed here. The sumptuous tables would have done credit to wedding feasts.

The Floral Hall was eagerly sought and was probably not without visitors at any time during the four days. All warmly commend its testimony to the admirable house wifery, vinous skill and horticultural taste of our paper.

We congratulate the society upon the result of this, their 33d exhibition."

Georgia State Agricultural Society.

The following resolution passed the Georgia State Agricultural Society unanimously, having a representation from over one hundred counties:

WHEREAS—The Fair to be held in Atlanta during the month of October, 1870, is intended to be a grand exhibition of American industry; and

WHEREAS—Said exhibition will be held under the immediate control and supervision of the Georgia State Agricultural Society; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the delegates and representatives to the Georgia State Agricultural Society—assembled, do hereby extend to our fellow-citizens of the North, East and West a cordial invitation to meet their brethren of the South, at said Fair, to exchange friendly greetings, to exhibit stock, agricultural implements and other articles of home industry, and thus promote the material interest of all sections.

☞ James W. Tate, Esq., is a candidate for re election as State Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic State Convention.

What does Reason say.

The little mongoose when bitten by a deadly serpent resorts to a certain plant, eats of it, and escapes the effect of the poison. That is instinct. Human beings on the other hand, must depend on reason and experience in selecting the means of protecting health, and life against unwholesome influences. Now, what does reason say on this vital subject. Does it not tell us that to invigorate and purify system is the best way to protect it against the deadly poison which generates disease? Surely it does. The next question is, what guide shall we follow in choosing a medicinal safeguard? Reason replies let your monitor be experience. Well, the experience of eighteen years comprised in one unbroken series of satisfactory testimonials assures us that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters possess strengthening, regulating and sanitary properties which are not combined in the same happy proportions in any other preparation extant. This therefore is the attitude to which reason bids us rest when our health is imperilled either by the malaria which produces epidemic disorders, or by any other cause, whether inherent and constitutional or connected with our habits, occupations and pursuits.

(ILLEGITIMATE.)

The venom of a copperhead is scarcely more subtle and dangerous than that which lurks in foul air and impure water. To escape the fevers, bilious disorders, disturbances of the bowels, and other serious maladies produced by these insalubrious agencies, it is absolutely necessary that the stomach and all the secretive organs should be, so to speak, in a robust condition. Upon the amount of resistance which the vital system can oppose to the deleterious influences that assail it, the safety of the health depends, and it is because the GREAT VEGETABLE INVIGORANT imparts energy and regularity to the most important functions of the body, that it can be recommended and guaranteed as an invaluable preventive medicine.

LANCASTER, O., Dec. 28, 1869.

MESSRS. F. E. SCHAE & SON, Cincinnati, O.

Gentlemen—We have been selling your WAYNE'S KIDNEY PILLS, Buchu, Juniper and Acetate of Potash, and from what we hear of its use, would state that it gives better satisfaction than any other article we sell, in complaints of the Kidneys. Respectfully,

SLOCUM & WHITE, GEO. G. BECK, D. SPRIGGS, A. DAVIDSON, MUELLER & SCHLER.

HAIR VIGOR.—In common with many we have had a lively interest in the investigations which Dr. Ayer has been making to discover the causes of failure of the hair, and to provide a remedy. His researches are said to have been much more thorough and exhaustive than any ever made before. The result is now before us in the form of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. We have given it a trial, and with full satisfaction. It equals our most favorable anticipations. Our gray hairs have disappeared, we resumed their original color, and a vigorous growth of soft, silken hair has started on a part of the scalp which was entirely bald.—Democrat, Abington Va.

PARTIES AND WEDDINGS.—If you are going to have a party or wedding go to B. C. Ashton & Co. and they will fix you up in style in the way of fancy cakes of all kinds and confectionaries. For they keep the largest stock of goods in that line of any house in town, and will sell them low

Several Reasons why Chase, Dimmitt & Collins, of Maysville, Ky., can sell Lumber, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Blinds, Moulding &c. Cheaper than can be had at any other point south of Pittsburg.

1st. They keep a Larger Stock than any other establishment.

2nd. Their acquaintance on the Alleghaney enables them to buy their stock cheaper.

3rd. They have the very best machinery and every convenience for manufacturing.

4th. They understand their business not being dependent on their employees.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this extract of Sarsaparilla has long been deservedly in high repute, is derived from its power, many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by its operation. Scrofulous affections and disorders which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination, have been rendered tolerable and in many instances cured in such great numbers, that we think we may safely say, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues.

Scrofulous poison is one of the most formidable enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and subtil poison lies dormant in the blood, undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, manifesting itself in some form of disease, which it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, at some favorable occasion, rapidly develops into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or deeper seated in the vitals. In the latter, it sometimes may be suddenly deposited in the lungs, or heart, or kidneys, or in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Now the ostensible cause of a footle of this Sarsaparilla is adequate, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find radical relief after a fair length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA—St. Anthony's Fire, Boils or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Tumors, Tumor in the Face, Sores of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more common forms of Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Costiveness, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine Diseases.

Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. Of a scrofulous nature is the common ulcer, which the complaint, Leucorrhea or Whites, Uterine Ulceration, and Female Weakness are commonly seen relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of extraneous matter in the joints, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaint, Torpidity, Congestion, Inflammation of the Liver, and Dropsical Swellings, which are the usual results of the accumulation of poisons in the blood. The SARSAPARILLA is a great promoter for the strength and health of the system. Those who are Tormented and Tortured with Rheumatism, Gout, Scrofula, Troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections consequent upon Debility, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

Bad Oyster Story.

This is an original story. It originated with somebody years ago. It is a highly interesting story, said never to have been published before it appeared in some newspaper many years ago, and although not exactly in season, it's good.

Scene — Steamboat pantry — Enter Frenchman:

"Sair, you keep ze raw oystair?"

Steward—"Yes, sir, five la Prince Rye."

Frenchman—"Tres bien; I will eat some raw oystair."

The steward opens a fine raw one and puts it on a plate before the Frenchman, who eyes it some time, then says:

"Monsieur, you will call this good oystair?"

"Yes sir, prime."

The Frenchman swallows it, (the first he ever ate,) opens his eyes, and put his hands on his bread basket, and "Bi-ap" up it comes the oyster on the plate.

"Sagratum! by gar, zat is no good oystair!"

"You do not put on salt and pepper sir."

"Oh, pardon me," puts on salt and pepper, and swallows it.

"Bi-ap!" up it come again.

"Now you tell me zat oystair good?"

"Why, sir, you must use vinegar."

"Oh! oui, certainement be gar; oui," and swallows the same spirit.

"Bi-ap!" and up come it comes on the plate.

Just then a Bohemian enters.

"Give me a dozen raw."

The Bohemian turns to him:

"Ah! my friend, you eat ze raw oystair?"

"Of course."

"You call zat ze raw oystair!"

"Yes, fine fat vhe."

"Ha! ha! think is zat good oystair, suppose you eat him?"

"With pleasure, sir," and the man of notes gave it a dash of peppersauce, and bolted it.

The terrified steward stood aghast; he didn't mind "swaing" a Frenchman, but an old customer was another thing.

The Frenchman turned on his heel.

"My friend, that may be a good oyster, but I did not like him—I swallow zat oystair three times."

"Bi-ap" and up came the oyster, and the Frenchman danced with delight.

"Ah! monsieur, had oyster, oui ce tainement!"

The reporter, speechless with horror, ran to a brandy decanter, swallows about half, and nizzled.

The Frenchman followed, remarking, "zat tam bad oyster."

A Strong Man.

There is man living in Calhoun county, Mississippi, who is supposed to be the strongest man in the State, if not in the entire South. He is thirty five years of age, and weighs 235 pounds He has been known to carry three bars of railroad iron when it takes from four to five ordinary men to carry one. He can take a cask containing forty gallons of whisky or water (the former is perferred we presume), and raise it from the ground and drink out of the bunghole with as much ease as others out of a common pitcher; and he has frequently taken a barrel of flour under each arm and carried them several hundred yards, with apparently but little effort. He offers to bet that he can lift thirteen hundred pounds.
