POETRY

From the London Society.

FROM THE BATTLE FIELD.

GOOD NIGHT.

Are you watching for me, darling—are you looking out for me?
Do you think I may be coming by the path along the sea?
My love! with golden tresses and ever-varying cheek,
And the welcome to your glances which your sly lips seldom speak.

I can close mine eyes and see you in the mellow evening gleam,
Your earnest face uplighted by some pure and happy dream;
By the chiming ocean billows in the radiance of the west,
Those busy fingers folded for a little while at rest.

Ah! I see you looking downward at the slender golden ring,
With a quick faint blush—you prize it, the foolish, worthless thing!
You are thinking of the kiss that dared press your fingers, dear,
I have never touched your lips yet, and I am lying here.

On the field of a lost battle, all, save dead and dying, gone;
A cold, slow rain is falling, and the night is drawing on;
Our flag, deep stained with crimson is wrapped in my arm—
I have saved it with my life-blood through this battle-day's alarm.

My passion has been silent, we have only been true friends,
Thank Heaven we were not lovers, since this is how it ends;
I know your heart is tender, and has given both prayers and tears
To your well-beloved companion, your friend of early years.

May they turn to joy in blessings—may my darling never know
A single tear more bitter than those for me which flow!

* * * * * *

Who will tell her of my fate! I am dying here alone,
So yearning for one tender look, one gentle, pitying tone!

I thought to bring back honor, and lay it at your feet;
I thought to win a glorious name, and whisper, "Share it, sweet!"
But dying, eyes so clearly, I never won your heart—
Well, better so, far better—it is easy now to part!

There are many moaning round me, but my wounds have ceased to pain;
I hardly hear the night-wind or feel the chilling rain.
They will find me here to-morrow, and bury me where I lie,
In a nameless grave, without a prayer—and I am young to die.

But it must be so, my darling, if you were by my side
You must kiss me a "good night"—the last before I died.
Farewell! God shield you, dearest! and sometimes think of me
As you sit in your sunny window beside the sparkling sea.

She Was Only A Shop Girl.

Gloves, sir? What number?"

The words fell with a tired sigh from the lips of the young girl who stood behind the counter, and caused Douglas Lennox to take a second look into the sweet face, and dark grey eyes which met his for the first time.

Bending over the box of gloves which she had taken down for his inspection, the young girl sighed again, and Douglas hastily rose from the stool upon which he had lazily dropped.

"I am ashamed to sit when you are standing," he said, "I am sure you must be very tired are you not?"

The young girl would have refused to notice the remark from most strangers, upon any subject except their purchases, but there are some people we instinctively feel we can trust, and Douglas Lennox's kind voice and frank, honest face effectually disarmed resentment. She looked and said:

"Rather tired. I have been on my feet all day," and the faint smile which dimpled the corners of her mouth, added in the young man's eyes, to the winning beauty of her face.

"But surely you can sit down when you have a spare moment!" he said, somewhat indignantly.

The young girl shook her head. "No, not in business hours."

"It is a shame," said Douglas, "I have heard that such abominations existed in our city, but I never really believed it."

"It is allowed in some stores," said the young lady.

"Then why do you not leave your place here, and go to such one?" asked Douglas.

She gave another faint smile. "If you had been a shop girl for four years and know the difficulty of getting a situation, you would not ask that question." Then hastily pushing a second box of gloves towards him. she added in a lower tone.

"Mr. Sheldon is coming this way. I should lose my place here if he heard what I said. Please look at the gloves."

And Douglas, not stopping to examine whether he got the number he wanted or not, quickly selected two or three pairs paid for them and left the store.

But carried with him the image of the sweet faced shop girl, and it haunted him, unaccountable, all day.

"Poor little tired thing!" he said, pityingly, "I wish she were my sister, and then she need not work so hard."

Once or twice he curled his haughty lip at the idea of himself, the aristocratic Douglas Lennox, who was sole master of a handsome place upon the Delaway, who counted his money by thousands, and who had been for several seasons the lawful prey of all the managing mammas and matrimonially inclined daughters in "society," should be wasting so many thoughts on a little shop girl!

But if he was aristocratic, Lennox was also democratic, and had no false notions about the disgrace the same claim to honor in his mind that she would have held had she been a queen.

And when, rather early next morning, he took his way to the same store. Douglas acknowledged to himself that his purchase was merely an excuse, and his real object and honor interest in, and a warm desire to see again, the winning face which haunted him since yesterday.

That she recognized him Douglas felt sure, from the faint, sweet smile, which again dimpled the corners of her small mouth. But he said nothing, however, with an early glance of admiration, and when, in making the change, her soft hand accidentally touched his, it sent a thrill through his whole frame.

"Whew!" he said to himself, lifting his hat, and drawing a free breath as he left the store. "Douglas Lennox, I believe in my soul you're captivated at last! And that, too, by a little shop girl whose name you don't even know! Wonder what sister would say!" And as he thought of his stylish sister entering that very store, and perhaps trading with that very little girl, entirely unconscious that her brother's eye had ever rested admiringly on the sweet face, Douglas laughed aloud.

Well after the little speech he made as he left the store, I think you can imagine about what followed. It was astonishing how many little purchases Douglas found he could not do without in the next few weeks. And from dropping at any store he happened to pass, he only went to one particular store. And it is so happened that he was waited on by any other than one particular clerk, he had the blues all day in consequence.

How earnstly he longed to learn her name, nobody knew but himself. He dared not ask her, and he did not know how else he should learn. But "fortune favors the brave," you know, so one morning, while he was busily selecting some cambric hankerchiefs from a box, the proprietor of the store came up and addressed her, calling her "Miss Romer."

Douglas flashed a quick, pleased glance at her, and the color deepened on the young girl's cheek as she met it with her eye.

"Miss Romer," he repeated, "I am glad I have learned your name, because you reminded me of my sister." (Oh, Douglas! it wasn't because she looked like her then!)

"I have no sisters, or brothers either," said she sadly.

"Have you not?" said Lennox, pityingly. I should be very lonely without mine, though I have only one sister. Now that I have learned your name, may I tell you mine?"

"If you please," said Miss Romer.

"It is Douglas Lennox, at your service. "Please consider the owner your friend, Miss Romer," said the young man, so gravely and kindly that she could not be offended.

"Thank you," she said, simply. Then pushing the box of handkerchiefs near him added, Do these suit?"

Douglas was very quick to take the gentle reminders which she sometimes gave him, that he was prolonging his stay, so he turned his attention to the handkerchiefs.

It chanced that Miss Romer still let her hand rest on the edge of the box. It was a very small, white hand, with little dimples at the joints, and pink, shell like nails, and Lennox, who was a passionate admirer of pretty hands, longed to clasp them in his own, and press them to his lips. But he was a chivalrous gentleman, and would not have taken any liberty with the humble shop girl than with the highest lady in the land.

About this time Douglas took to early morning walks, which generally led down to Chestnut street. Whether the fact that he occasionally met Miss Romer on her way to the store, and once or twice walked with her, had anything to do with the matter or not I cannot say. But after such occasions, I do not know that the spirits of Mr. Douglas Lennox improved considerably.

One Sunday afternoon near sunset Douglas left a lively circle in his sister's parlor and went out for a quiet walk by himself. He entered one of the parks, and was strolling through the sunny, green paths, when his heart gave a quick bound at the sight of a trim little figure in blue, resting upon one of the shady seats. For a moment he hesitated, then he crossed over and spoke,

"Good evening, Miss Romer."

Miss Romer arose with the lady-like grace which had long ago told Douglas that she was used to cultivated society, and returned his salutation. And then they sat down together, and yielding to the calm Sabbath evening influences they fell into a quiet talk, naturally as if they had been old acquaintances.

They talked of themselves, and Miss Romer told Douglas that her home had been in New Haven, and her father was a gentleman of means, who had lavished upon her, his only child, every advantage which money and taste could procure. She told him of the death of her father and mother in a single week, and how her father's estate proved involved, and left her penniless and alone.

She told him she had sought for some means by which to support herself, and she had finally obtained her situation in Mr. Sheldon's store and kept herself in comfort.

And Douglas told her that he, too, was an orphan, only himself and Belle left; but he touched very lightly on the wealth that was his, lest it should give her pain.

While they talked, Miss Romer dropped her fan, and Douglas, picking it up, saw written on the plain ivory handle the name, "Helen Romer."

"Helen was my mother's name," said he "reverently,

"Was it?" "It is mine," said Miss Romer, in pleased surprise.

"I am glad it is yours," said Douglas, And she fell to thinking how often he he had written his mothers name "Helen Lennox," and how much he would like to write it again with an "R" between the names.

They sat very still a little while, hardly talking at all, and forgetting the lateness of the hour, until the gleam of the street-lamps close by startled Miss Romer.

She hastily arose, saying, "I did not know it was so late. I must go home at once."

Douglas rose too, saying, "May I accompanying you?"

She hesitated a moment, her color came and went, and then she looking up with a pleading glance, said, "I had rather you did not, Mr. Lennox."

Douglas flushed then, but he asked gently, "Will you tell me why?"

Helen was silent, and crimson deepening in her fair face, and presently Douglas repeated his demand in a firmer tone, "Please tell me why, Miss Romer."

"Because, Mr. Lennox, a young girl in my position can not have the friendship of a gentleman in youre, without—without—" she hesitated and could not go on.

"Without making herself a mark for idle and thoughtless tongues, I suppose you mean?" asked Douglas with a dash of bitterness in his tone.

She bowed her head in assent.

Douglas quickly asked another question. "Miss Romer, I have sought your society, a good many times lately. Have I been the cause of any such pain to you?"

Helen seemed deeply agitated, and did not reply until the young man said entreatingly, "Tell me Miss Romer."

"A little," she answered faintly, then once more looking up at him with a pleading glance, which touched his heart, she added, "But I know you did not intend it, and I have been trying all the evening to get courage to tell you that when we part here, it had better be for good."

The young man's resolution was instantly taken.

"You shall not tell me any such thing, for I do not mean to part with you at all. I understand what you mean, and I would give my right hand—yes, my life—rather than injure you. But suppose even a shop girl may have an honest lover, a husband, and a home, Miss Romer—Helen—if I offer you these, will you accept them?"

Helen Romer trembled so she was obliged to sit down again. "You can not mean it," she faltered. "Oh, Mr. Lennox don't trifle with me!"

Douglas sat down beside her, and took in his own one of the little hands he had so longed to hold and caress. "God knows I would not trifle with you dear girl," he said solemnly, "and He knows I do mean it, as I never meant anything in my life before. I have loved you, Helen—let me call you so—ever since the first time I noticed you in the store, and I have longed to take you away from your toil, and surround you with luxury. I am able to do this Helen, for I am wealthy, though I did not tell you so before."

"And I am only a poor girl, with nothing to offer you in return," said Helen, sadly.

"Nothing? you have the most precious possession that ever comes to a man in the world—you have a woman's heart, my darling! Will you give me that?"

And Helen blushing deeply, but brave and fearless in her confidence in him raised her clear eyes to his and answered:

"If you will take it, Mr. Lennox."

And Lennox, too deeply moved to speak, drew her close to his heart as they sat in the thick shadow, and pressed his first kiss upon her lips.

Helen's days of varying toil were over, but she never forgot, while reigning queen of her husband's princely home, how his love sought her out when "only a shop girl."

And many a young girl who stood in her former position found a true friend and ready helper in the beautiful and petted wife of Douglas Lennox.

Behind the Veil.

It is not always the practice of pretty ladies to wear a veil. Not even coquetry will dispense with the pleasure of showing a lovely countenance, and the most modest and retiring beauty likes to be admired for the regularity and delicacy of her features.

These reflections passed rapidly through the mind of a well known magistrate riding up town recently.—By his side sat a lady, who from a single glimpse of her countenance he imagined that he knew. At last he ventured the remark that the day was pleasant.

"Yes," murmured the female.

"Why do you wear a veil?" inquired the disposer of justice.

"Lest I attract attention."

"It is the province of gentlemen to admire," replied the gallant man of law.

"Not when they are married."

"But I'm not."

"Indeed!"

"Oh, no; I'm a bachelor."

The lady quietly removed her veil disclosing to the astonished magistrate the face of his mother-in-law. He had business elsewhere suddenly.—N. O. Picayune.

Napoleon's Flower.

The violet is the emblematic flower of the Bonapartes, as the lily is of the Bourbons. When Eugene agreed to accept Napoleon's offer of marriage, she expressed it only by appearing one evening dressed in an exquisite violet toilet—violets in her hair, in her dress, even to a bunch in her hand. Napoleon, while consoled, selected this as his flower. It was through Josephine asking him to bring her a bouquet of them on her birthday—a desire he was only able to serve after very great difficulty. He cultivated them assiduously while a prisoner at St. Helena; and they were profusely planted over the grave of Josephine. After his death, his coffin was covered with the humble flowers he loved. It is even said that in the earlier days of Louis Napoleon he was silently made acquainted with whom his secret friends were by a cautious display of violets.

A Family Without the Newspaper

Nothing presents a sadder commentary upon the present unhealthy condition of our once loved and prosperous country than the large number of families both in the city and country, but more especially in the latter, that subscribe to no paper of any kind. Hundreds and thousands of families are thus growing up in utter ignorance of what is daily transpiring in the world around them—ignorant of the mighty events of to day.

But who can tell the vast amount of injury that is being inflicted upon the rising generation—those who are to take our places in the busy world at no distant day—growing up without any knowledge of the present, the past, or any study of the future; and this ignorance, too, being imbued into them by the sanction of those who should, and doubtless do, know better, they only think of the injurious effects of their insane course. Let the head of every family think of time, and place in the hands of those for whom he is responsible the means of acquiring a thorough knowledge of the moving panoramin in which we enact our parts.

THURSDAY APRIL 20, 1871.

☞ We charge $10 dollars for announcing candidates for State officers in this column.

FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL,

GEN. JOHN ROBMAN,

OF FRANKLIN.

Subject to the decision of the Democratic State Convention, May next. 4td.

Democratic Convention.

A meeting of the Democratic party of Fleming county, will be held at the Court House, in Flemingsburg, on Monday, April 24th, 1871, (county court day) to appoint delegates to the Democratic State Convention, to be held in Frankfort, on the 3d day of May next. The several precincts are requested to send delegates.

By order of Democratic County Committee.

JAMES E. SMITH, CHAIRMAN.

Cause and Effect.

To reason from cause to effect, is the only method by which we can possibly arrive at correct conclusions, and form a just conception of the remedies to be applied. This can only be done with calmness and deliberation, and when the public mind is so composed as to reason thus and arrive at a deliberate opinion it is what we usually denominate "the sober second thought of the people."

Much time and labor has been expended during the present session of Congress in effecting the passage of the Ku-Klux bill without any regard whatever of the constitutionality of its provisions, simply justifying the proceeding upon the pretext that a State of circumstances exists that demand such measures. While we have had occasion to simply advert to the subject before, yet we deem it highly important that we take a more serious review of the causes which have led to such a result, as to enable us to demand for an innovation upon the rights and liberties of the people, by the employment of arbitrary and tyrannical means. To this end we feel justified and sustained in the assertion that the state of disorder that pervades the States lately in rebellion, have their origin in the action of the general government, and upon which rests the whole weight of responsibility. In other words the general government itself is responsible, and will, sooner or later, be so held by the people, for causing the State of affairs that has produced nothing more than what may be termed a natural result. If I administer a dose of poison to a friend from the effects of which he dies, where rests the weight of responsibility whereby those effects were produced, in the action of the poison itself as the immediate cause, or myself who instituted it as the first cause, and without which the second would not have existed? The incendiary is held responsible and punished by the law, for having applied the torch to his neighbors building by which he sustains an imparable injury, yet who would be so insane as to contend that another dose of poison would restore the life of the one, or the application of another torch the property of the other? While this is a system of reasoning that is made easy and comprehensive, in its application to the philosophy of those simpler matters connected with our every day life, yet in matters of more vital importance to the people at large in a political or municipal body, the true philosophy that should govern us is wholy lost in the whirlpool of fanaticism, reckless ambition, profligacy and corruption.

This has been plainly manifest in almost all the legislative proceedings upon the part of Congress, towards the Southern States, since 1865. Having the perpetuity of party ascendency wholy in view, immediately upon the close of the war, when peace and tranquility might have been restored with lasting credit and honor to the dominant party, instead of adopting a policy best calculated to heal the breach that a four year sanguinay war had produced, and restoring at once our ancient form and system of government, a plan was set on foot, for what was termed a reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion. To this end the Fourteenth Amendment was fraudulently forced upon the people, by which all the wealth and intelligence of the South were disfranchised—and placed beyond the possibility of a participation in matters of legislation either state or national, until Congress shall see proper by the exercise of its gracious clemency, and magnanimity of soul to the disabilities imposed. To consummate the purpose in view, the Fifteenth Amendment was forced also upon the people, by which the negroes, a servile race just freed from slavery and wholy unfit to exercise the rights of either citizens or freemen, were invested with all those rights and privileges which were taken from the white population, thereby taking the burden of legislation and a wise and intelligent administration of State government from the hands of those who were most competent to control them and placing in those of incompetency, ignorance and stupidity have taken the place of wisdom and intelligence, and those most competent to control the best interest of the public, and preserve order and tranquility are made, by the operation of the government itself, subservient to the passions, prejudices, and animosities of those who have never learned any thing more noble than servitude. Yet the government demands peace. It seeks to quench the fire it has kindled, only by adding fuel to the flame. Nero, whose own hands had kindled the flame that enveloped Rome in a sea of fire, in order to afford him a pretext for this persecution of the Christians, was guilty of no greater crime, than those who acts have been the prime cause of whatever state of circumstances may exist at this time in the Southern States. Grant once said "let us have peace"—the country responded, amen. The power to restore peace was placed in his own hands. He has employed it for any other purpose. The perpetuation of the Republican party was of far more vital importance to him than the peace of the country. Its life depended upon agitation, discord, hatred, malice, and revenge. Hence that system of legislation best calculated to encourage these were the better adapted to the purpose in view. Those upon whom the burden of taxation falls so heavily in the South as to almost amount to confiscation, are of that class who are disfranchised, and denied the republican guarantees of the constitution, while their lives, their property, and their all, are subject to the capricious and malicious legislation of an irresponsible class whose poverty, ignorance, and prejudice, are their only qualifications to official position.

In conclusion we have but one remedy to suggest for the correction of the evil, viz: Remove the cause and the effect must cease. To this end if Congress, instead of aggravating the evil by the passage of the most odious and irritable laws, would at once declare general amnesty, restore the States at once to their constitutional rights, conceding to each a republican form of government repeal all class legislation, and place the States in a condition in which they could select their wise and best men to conduct the State Governments, whose authority would be respected and whose laws could be enforced, confine the powers of the general government within the prescribed limits of the constitution, and concede those that constitutionally belong to the States, we have no hesitancy in saying that in less than twelve months, the deplorable State of affairs that are complained of in the South, by all parties, would cease to exist and peace and harmony would prevail instead. No Ku-Klux legislation can ever effect the purpose, except so far as it may succeed in the subversion of our free institutions, and the erection of a centralized despotism upon their ruins.

☞ The Maysville Eagle suppocts a long-winded correspondent from Fleming county "who never voted other than the Democratic ticket." We shall now look for some spicy democracy in the columns of the Eagle.

☞ The Democrats made a clean sweep in St. Louis, electing their entire municipal ticket by 2,600 majority. The result is as gratifying as it was unexpected, and indicates beyond a doubt that Missouri is lost to the radicals and henceforth can be counted safely in the Democratic column.

☞ The Democracy of Boyd County, at their meeting on the 27th ultimo, adopted a resolution expressing their preference for the Hon. Emery Whitaker for the office of Lieutenant Governor of the State, and instructing their representatives in the Convention to vote for his nomination.

☞ Crab Orchard Springs, with about seventy-five acres of surrounding land, have been sold to Isaac Shelby jr., of Lincoln, for $17,500.

☞ A little daughter of Mr. George Castleman, of Fayette county, was severely gored by an infuriated cow, a few days since, and had her collar bone broken. The little sufferer was doing well when last heard from.

☞ The disreputable Forty-first Congress squandered, in the way of appropriations, one hundred and seventy-five millions of the people's money.

☞ A Louisville man, who was killed, left his wife in destitute circumstances, when a religious neighbor circulated a subscription paper and raised $1,000, proposed to the widow immediately, was accepted, married her, and put the money in his trousers. He is said to be the best business man belonging to his church, and was made a deacon without delay. They call him "Old Benevolent."

Our Letter Bag.

The following are a few among the many letters which we receive every day.

An old citizen of Fleming county lie in Missouri, writes to us from Warrensburg, under date of April 3d, 1871, as follows:

ED. DEMOCRAT—Dear Sir: Enclosed find money order for $2.00. Not knowing at what time my subscription would expire and not wishing to miss a single number, I thought best to send in advance. The DEMOCRAT is a welcome visitor, coming as it does from the land of my boyhood and all the more because it bears the old time-hallowed name of "Democrat," and advocates pure democratic principles. Wishing you abundant success, I remain as ever, Respectfully, your friend, H. D.

H. D. has our thanks for the $2 received, and he stands paid to June 23, 1872. His complimentary remarks are appreciated.....A gentleman writing to us from Mt. Olivet, says:

ED. DEMOCRAT.—Enclosed find $6.00 which please place to my credit. Your paper is interesting and ably edited. Very truly Yours,

We feel highly complimented in the above when we know that the writer is a distinguished gentleman of Robertson county and a Republican in politics. We aim to make our paper interesting to all our readers and we are glad to know that our efforts are appreciated and commended by friends outside of our own party. We acknowledge receipt of six dollars and send receipt according.....A young lady living at Grayson, Carter county, Ky., for whom we have great respect, sends us the following, which drops into our letter-bag as one of its choicest treasures.

MR. ASHTON:—I would be obliged if you would send me the numbers of the DEMOCRAT on the 2d and 9th of March. I wanted impatiently for them, it may be a fault of the mails, but that as it may, they have failed to come. I prize the paper so highly that I do not wish to lose a single copy.

Respectfully, ——

If we had permission we'd sign that name, but as we have not and have the original in our possession that is sufficient for us. Of course we complied with the request as near as we could. The ladies, God bless them! This is not an exceptional opinion of what they think of the Democrat. We feel their influence daily. Our long list of subscribers tells us too well of their efforts in our behalf. Men are careless about taking their county paper—the women are not—if their husbands wont subscribe they generally make them do it themselves. In fact there is no trade or profession that can possibly be prosecuted with success without the holy influence of women. They are the center of gravity and philosophically speaking "very attractive." We hope our lady friends will continue to lend us their influence. We have prospered by it in the past and we hope to merit it in the future. But probably this is disgression, we will quote one more letter and and close our letter-bag for the present week..... A gentleman living not a thousand miles from Flemingsburg, writes us the following curious epistle, and as he says, he is evidently taking "too many papers."

mister Ashtn, I Dont Know wether you dimsirat any More I is a takin ur 2 Menny papers, and It Bethers me two Read So much, inclosed I Cand $1. And a kwARter For the 5 MOnths which I just outght, katy Likes it sum But I Duzzent knot u Deb.

The paper was promptly discontinued with the recommendation that the writer purchase a Websters spelling book immediately and let "katy" give him a few instructions in orthography. We withold his name for the sake of the intelligent community in which he lives.

☞ We publish elsewhere a communication, signed by some of our best Democrats, calling upon Judge Hargis to allow his name to be used in connection with the State Senatorship. The signers of this call live in all portions of the county; and it may be taken as an index of the wishes of the Democracy on the subject. Indeed, we may say the Democracy of Nicholas are nearly a unit for Hargis. The Democracy of Rowan want him as their standard bearer in the Senatorial canvass whilst the Democracy of Fleming, as we are assured, are anxious for him to get the nomination. If Judge Hargis consents to have his name before the convention, (and we hope he will), we should not be surprised if he received the nomination with unanimity.—Carlisle Mercury.

☞ A Dutchman met an Irishman on a lonely highway. As they met each smiled, thinking he knew the other. Pat, on seeing his mistake, remarked, with a look of disappointment:

"Faith, an' I thought it was you, an, you thought it was me, an' it's nayther of us."

"Yaw, dat is dhru. I amander man, and you is not yourself, we poth udder podies."

Public Speaking.—Hon. A. G. Talbott, of Boyle county, will address the people of this county, at the Court House, on Monday April 24th, (County Court day), on the political issues of the day. The ladies are invited to attend.

Fit.—An unknown gentlemen fell down in the street the other day in a fit. He remained unconscious for some time but finally got over it.

Out Again.—We are glad to see our friend John H. Crain out again. He has almost entirely recovered from his serious accident. He will be all right in a few days.

NEWS DEPOT.—MR. JOS. I. DORSEY keeps at the post office all kinds of Magazines, Newspapers &c.

Still Continued.—Our friend and good county attorney, Mr. A. E. Cox, is still confined to his house by sickness.

TO THE LADIES.—Go to J. B. Dudleys drug store and buy a bottle of Natures Hair Restorative. It is the best in the world.

Administrator's Sale.—Read the advertisement of Jas F. Smith Adm'r of Moses Hord, dec'd, to be found in another column. Mr. Mr. Smith will sell the stock and personal property of said decedent on Wednesday April 26th 1871.

Fire.—Ratrow took fire last Thursday evening about 3 o'clock but was soon extinguished. This is the second time this dilapidated old building has caught fire and in the very same place. If it is not torn down or put to other use than a tenant house it will be the cause of a general conflagration in our midst.

Cool Reduced.—Messrs. Thompson and Piles have reduced the price of coal at their yard in Maysville to 11 cents per bushel, Mess's. A. K. Marshall & Bro are the authorized agents of this firm at the Lewisburg depot. tm.

Arrested.—Patton the man who murdered Suax, in Aberdeen, a fortnightago, was arrested in this county last Thursday and taken to Maysville for trial.

HO! FOR CAMPAIGN OF 1871.—It has been about five years since the close of our late civil war and things are now settling finally on a peace basis. All articles of merchandise are approaching the old ante-war prices and Andrew T. Cox, has embarked in the grocery campaign for 1871 in the City of Maysville. See his advertisement elsewhere.

Horse and Jack Bills.—We are prepared to print horse and jack bills in the very finest style. We have now type and new cuts and will do the work as cheap as any other printing establishment in the country. Call at this office and leave your orders.

Hillsboro.—Hemmings & Coopers great menagerie and circus will exhibit at Hillsboro, on Thursday April 27th. There will be a crowded tent at that place.

The Metropolitan Hotel.—This hotel is doing a first class business in Cincinnati just at this time. It is a great favorite with Kentuckians and during the spring season it is crowded with Kentucky merchants. If you want to meet with old fashioned Kentucky hospitality stop at the Metropolitan.

A Big Business.—The Steamer Boston has been doing a big business. On one occasion to visit the city a few days ago and were astonished to see the amount of freight that she gathered up along the way and delivered at Cincinnati. We hope she may always see brisk times as her officers are all gentlemen of the first class.

Attention Ladies.—MRS. A. BILLESBACH of Maysville will be down on next Monday with a large stock of ladies hats and bonnets for sale. Her stock embraces a great variety and of the latest style gotten up in the most exquisite taste. We advise all our lady friends to call and see her at the Dudley House. She will probably remain in Flemingsburg a few days but we advise all to call on Monday for fear that they miss this rare opportunity to purchase something new and fashionable.

U. S. Court.—C. E. Johnson, H. T. Paxton, Jas. B. Davis, T. S. Cox and Bruce Stone, arrested for assault on a negro, started for Covington last Monday, to put in their appearance before Judge Ballard, to answer to said charge. They were accompanied by about a dozen witnesses for and against.

Crowded.—The crowded state of our advertisement columns and the also sues of both the editors will be an excuse for the limited amount of reading matter this week.

New Boot & Shoe establishment.—As will be seen from an advertisement which we publish on this page of the Democrat, Mr. E. O. Sullivan is now in full operation in his new boot, shoe, hat & cap establishment at the old stand of John O. Sullivan. Mr. S. has on hand a very handsome stock of boots, shoes, hats and caps which he is selling at greatly reduced prices for cash. He is also making gentlemens boots to order, and in his department of his business, he is without a superior in point of quality and workmanship. His work is all warranted to give satisfaction. Read his card on this page and go and see him.

Prodigious.—Alfred Rice, of this county, had a cow to give birth to a calf last week that weighed 124 pounds. The calf was born without eyes and tail and up to this time is living and doing well.

Remarkable.—There is a blind negro in this County who can take a lot of dogs and go out and hunt rabits. It we are called on to prove this we will refer to uncle Jack Moran of course.

Attention Democracy.—The Democracy of Fleming county are requested to meet in convention, at this place, on Monday next for the purpose of appointing delegates to the Democratic Convention which assembles at Frankfort, on the 3rd day of May next. It is of vital importance that the democracy send a good set of delegates to Frankfort, and we hope the convention on Monday will select good men who will be certain to attend. Let every democrat interested be on our States ticket be present. It is an important convention and should be well attended.

County Court.—Monday next is county court day. We hope our friends in the county who are indebted to us, who happen in town will make it convenient to call and pay us. We have a large obligation hanging over our head and we need the wherewith to meet it.

Coming at Last.—As will be seen from our advertisement columns the great unprecedented circus and menagerie of Hemmings and Cooper, will exhibit at this place, on Friday, April 28th. This extensive establishment is newly equipped and organized and is just starting out on the summer campaign. The horses are all fresh and their performers are of the first class. From our exchanges we learn that this is one of the best combinations of the kind in the world. It is truly a merely moral exhibition. The tents are so arranged that those who wish to see the animals without witnessing the circus performance can do so without any extra charge, as a fifty cent ticket will admit to both exhibitions. From the very flattering manner in which this company is spoken of we can cheerfully recommend it to our people. Remember the day and date, and save your postal currency and come in to the circus. See advertisement.

Panorama.—We understand there is to be an exhibition of a very interesting and instructive character at the court house, to-night, a panorama of Europe and the Bible, together with the American Civil War, accompanied by a lecture from Mr. G. H. Graham, late of London England. The press elsewhere speaks in the highest terms of the exhibition and lecture. We have seen the programe, and predict a very pleasant and instructive night's entertainment. This same exhibition will be at Poplar Plains, Mt. Carmel, and Elizaville, in a few days.

The Democratic Canvass.

The following counties have held conventions and appointed their delegates to cast their votes for Governor in the May convention, for the individuals named:

Delegates not instructed—Boyle, Garrard, Washington, Clinton, Pulaski, Wayne, Jessamine, Spencer, Pendleton, Montgomery, Meade, Clarke, Knox, Letcher, Menifee, Fayette, Lincoln Madison, Scott, Nelson—29.

Total counties that have appointed delegates—73; yet to appoint, 43, to wit: Bath, Bracken, Bullitt, Butler, Caldwell, Carter, Edmonson, Estill, Fleming, Floyd, Grayson, Henry, Hopkins, Jackson, Jefferson, Johnson, Kenton, Lawrence, Lewis, Loyn, Magoffin, Marion, Martin, Mason, Muhlenburg, Nicholas, Ohio, Owen, Owsley, Pike, Powell, Rockcastle, Lowan, Taylor, Trigg, Union, Whitley, Woodford, Wolfe, Davies, Laurel, Oldham.

The Next National Convention.

(From the Courier-Journal.

The first National Democratic Convention assembled at Baltimore in 1836, Baltimore was chosen because of its proximity to Washington and its middle place upon the map of the period. It continued to be preferred until the Know-Nothing riots of 1855, which suggested a change, and Cincinnati was selected for the convention of the following year.

In 1860 the South claimed the location and fixed upon Charleston. But, failing to agree, the convention adjourned to Baltimore. Since then there have been two conventions, that at Chicago in 1864 and that at New York in 1868.

Where shall the next convention be held? We learn from Washington that there is talk of Louisville in political circles. Certainly the convention ought to meet this side of the Alleghenies and as close to the border line as possible. Louisville is the commercial metropolis of the State that polls the heaviest Democratic majority in the Union. It is the railroad focus of the South. It has the most direct and speedy railway communication with the North and West of any city on the continent. Its hotel accommodations are unequaled outside of New York. It is to the country of to-day what Baltimore was to the country of five and thirty years ago, a middle point, an accessible point, a point from which sound ideas and good influences can take a ready and radiating departure.

What the Democratic party needs is light; and if the North and West will come here they can look directly into the South and get a perfect notion of the Southern situation, which is again to be the bone of contention. No locality presents so many inducements of a political and geographical description. Wedged in the heart of two great States, Louisville will rally the Democracy of Indiana and Kentucky in advance, and when the Democracy of all rest of the States get here they will be met by a reception unparalleled in the annals of party enthusiasm.

☞ The Ku-Klux have developed in Pennsylvania. The coal miners, in the Scranton District, after having been on a protracted strike, and serving all kinds of secret warnings on their former employers, have risen and killed eight or ten persons. The affair comes up in a dangerous form, as a conflict between labor and capital indicates a condition of lawlessness, which will, no doubt if continued, call on a Presidential proclamation.—Frankfort Yeoman.

Babies and Feeding-Bottles.

The London Chemists and Druggists says:

The latest lead poisoning sensation, for which certain Liverpool chemists are responsible, reveals the horrible fact that we are now training our babies to this addition to their nutriment, by feeding them through tubes composed of "India rubber dissolved in 10 per cent, of bisulfuret resin and sometimes oxysulphuret of antimony, from which, when it comes in contact with the milk, sulphuretted hydrogen is evolved, and lactate of lead formed in the stomach. The fact that several millions of infants have not only survived this treatment, but have to all appearances thrived on it, somewhat diminishes the horror which we have at experience on learning this report. But we remember, and now for the first time intelligently comprehend, the touching American epitaph in a graveyard a very long way out West:

"Grim death has taken darling little Jerry,
The son of Joseph and Syrona Howe.
Seven days he wrestled with the dysentery
And then he perished with his little bowels.
Most likely it was weaning injured little Jerry,
His bottle seemed to hurt his stomach;
But with the angels he'll get plump and merry,
For there's no nursing bottles where he goes."

The fact that some millions of infants have thrived on one form or another of feeding bottles is indeed capable of forming consolation, but the comfort we derived from that reflection will be materially diminished by calling to mind the many millions who have perished.

Ben Wade Rides a Bull.

The bulls of San Domingo are a quiet, inoffensive set of animals, and the one ridden by the Chairman, sturdy old Ben Wade, was a specimen animal of great power. The three rode off surrounded by natives and followed by correspondents, some walking and some carried on the backs of negroes, so that the cavalcade presented a very imposing appearance. The venerable Hope expressed himself very much pleased with his beast. He said the slow, undulating motion promoted digestion and stimulated poetic reflections and he sang aloud our national anthem, as written by his accomplished lady, to the tune of John Brown. Whether it was this singing to which the beast was unaccustomed, never having heard of our great martyr, alarmed it or not the specimen bull under sturdy Ben Wade took fright and suddenly ran away.—A bull' running is not much as to speed but it is strong and very jolting. Our venerable ex-Senator had to hold on to the horns and saddle to retain his seat, and disappeared from the eyes of his friends and followers in the deep forest that abound in that island. When again seen he was found sitting upon some rocks scraping the mud from his sturdy person. He swore terribly at the event, and ended by ordering one of the other Commissioners to dismount, so that the Chairman of the Commission could continue his important excursion. This the other Commissioner flatly refused to do. In this way the quarrel began.—The Capital.

Bear in Mind

When disease has undermined the health and the physical system has become prostrated, a stimulant that will not only strengthen, but nourish and build up the body is plainly resorted to. Mental distress is also a fruitful source of the breaking down of the constitution, and the ravages of this enemy to health are truly alarming. For all such maladies Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have been found unequaled. By acting directly upon the digestive organ they remove the heavy, disagreeable feeling after eating, so often complained of by persons of a delicate temperament. As soon as digestion is restored the appetite is also greatly increasing and his general health improved.

Thousand of persons certify that it may be relied on in all cases of weakness or nervous debility attendant upon sedentary habits. The popularity of Bitters are so disagreeable to the taste that they are objectionable to a weak stomach. This is not the case with Hostetter's Bitters, which will be found mild and extremely pleasant. Balmy herbs, barks and roots contribute their restorative juices to render it soothing and strengthening. Its basis is the only pure stimulant which has ever been produced, containing no fusel oil, or any other deleterious ingredient. The most eminent analytical chemists have analyzed the Bitters, and pronounce them harmless. This is scientific testimony; but the testimony of the hundreds of thousands who have experienced the preventive and curative powers of the GREAT VEGETABLE TONIC and ALTERATIVE of modern times is still more conclusive. In Fever and Ague, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Nervous Complaints, Chronic Complaints and general debility it is as nearly infallible as anything in this infallible world can be.

Several Reasons why Chase, Dimmitt & Collins, of Maysville, Ky., can sell Lumber, Shingles, Doors, Sash, Blinds, Flooring &c. Cheaper than can be had at any other point south of Pittsburg.

1st. They keep a Larger Stock than any other establishment.

2nd. Their equipment on the Alleghaney enables them to buy their stock cheaper.

3rd. They have the very best machinery and every convenience for manufacturing.

4th. They understand their business and bring dependent on their employees.

CONSUMPTION,
Its Cure and Its Preventive,
BY J. H. SCHENCK, M. D.

MANY a human bling has passed away, for whom the grave would have been a more merciful resting place than the region of snow and indisputably proven means of cure. Thousands of such deaths annually occur, and are chronicled in the dreamless slumber into which, laid they calmly adopted and avoided the sudden or slow but wonderful effectiveness undoubtedly would not have fallen.

Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that whatever seemingly vitality reasons, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, inoculated into the dying consumptive.

In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid it is made on representations which is not a thousand times substantiated by living and dying witnesses. The result of Dr. Schenck's treatment and medicines is as simple as it is unfailing. The philosophy of cure is as simple as it is astonishing, and conclusive.

The Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two medicines with which the treatment of the invalid is assailed. Two-thirds of the cases of consumption originate in a disorder of the stomach and functionally disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They are affected by the morbid action of the liver. How then comes the enfeebling cough, and the wilting, wasting, and other distressing symptoms, of consumption?

CONSUMPTION,

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's ablest physicians, Dr. Mandrake, (Podophyllin,) and all the blood-cause bling, alterative properties of colomel, but free unlike colomel, they

"LEAVE NO STING BEHIND,"

The work of cure is now beginning. The stimulant and tonic properties of the liver are called in to complete and consummate the cure. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It ceases from its regular functions. The stomach acts spasmodically, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting well.

A SUPPLY OF GOOD BLOOD, is the next thing. Some authorities say the Pills, pulmonic and consultative with the food Chylification is now progressing without its proper nutriment. Digestion is impossible, and the cure is soon to be at hand. There is no stomach for food, and no appetite for food. An appetite sets in.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is the greatest blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is the great medicine to the bronchitis and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon the work. Ripens the sputum, loosens it, softens and dispels the hospital and diseased portions of the lungs. In the further progress of the cure it ripens the sputum, and let in a very short time the malady is completely subdued, and the patient, by a healthy appetite and needs now, and the potent, in all the dignity of vigorous vigor, and a healthy appetite, is the manifested of the nourishment that was.

BUILDING UP ALSO,

The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold while the lungs are diseased, but it can be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Tonics and pills are only auxiliary in this cure. Live in the country in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who have tried to cure consumption have failed, because they have not kept the patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, out of doors. Some they do in the Pulmonic Syrup, and lie down quiet; they must, will be cured. Our business is to tell of a disease that can be cured, and how it is cured, and how it can be cured, and how it can be cured. This has a great deal to do with the success of Dr. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup.

To display of more after such evidence of its possibilities, and such a cure, and moral certainty in all cases, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal attendance to the Faculty of his own cure, and his medicines, is unequaled.

"Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption, coughing up pus and blood, and expectorating my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man, I catching at a straw, I tried the old standard remedies, which I now offer to the public, and they saved my life. I am now in the prime of life, and I feel then possessed as a whole system. The same ripened the matter in my lungs, and I coughed it up, and I spent a plant of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

As soon as that began to subside my cough, fever, night sweats, and pain in the side left me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating enough to hurt me. I gained in flesh and have grown in flesh every since.

"I was considered the worst case of recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton, weighing only 90 pounds, and now I weigh 200 pounds, and for 'thirty hundred and twenty-five Cabinet Organs, and for 'thirty hundred and twenty-five respected health.'"

Dr. Schenck's Medicines are all his prepared ones to New York and Boston. Here his only Dr. J. H. Schenck Jr., will be in attendance at their office, No. 15 North sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who desire to have a thorough examination with the Professor will be charged $5. The Professor will give advice and a written opinion for $3. Patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the constitutional peculiarities of invalids. Those Pulmonic and Mad Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some instances the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines, good no other accompanying remedy than the perfect cure, and the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylactic against consumption in any of its forms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, $1.50 a bottle, or $6 half a dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor is any one medicine so universally adapted, by its virtues, to every case, and among all classes, as the well selected, purgative pill. The distinctive virtues in this pill have tested it, know that it stands from those who have tried it, know that it cures their sufferings, and rejoice in the opportunity to make known what they know and all know that when it does cure a disease, it will never fail, through fault or failure of its composition. We know, and our friends know, that our pills do cure the complaints for which they are recommended, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all the varied conditions in all climates, they are neither colored or any deleterious thing, but are so compounded as to be easy of operation. Their range confines prevents them ever fresh and unbroken in their virtues, and they have been popularized wherever they can arrive from their use in any quantity.

Their action is so gentle and powerful as to make them universal favorites by purifying the blood and stimulating the healthy action, remove the disorders of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, so strengthen their energetic action to health, and by correction, wherever they exist, such derangements as first induce sickness or disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills speedily cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore the healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaints and Diseases arising from Biliousness, Bilious Headaches, Jaundice, Dysentery, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken to produce such a gentle action of the bowels as shall be required in each case, to correct the disordered action. For costiveness the dose should be increased.

For Dysentery or Diarrhoea, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to unloose the disease, action of the system. With such change their complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Liver Complaints and Liver Dropsy, they should be taken in such doses as will produce the desired effect by evacuation.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose to relieve the stomach and bowels has a healthy action, restores the appetite, and has a healthy action on the digestive organs, whose functions are in a manner derangement exists, and who feel sensibly the effects of such state that one of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their mildness and renovating effect on the digestive organs.

DONE AT THIS OFFICE.

FLEMINGSBURG DEMOCRAT

☞ The Elizabethtown News says there is a boy in that town only 16 years old, who is six feet five inches in height and still growing.

☞ During the year 1869 there were sold in Schools, Sa., 26,639 miles, and 32,249 during 1870, making nearly 60,000 miles in a little over two years.

☞ The Wyoming papers say the property in that Territory are about to abandon female suffrage "as both mischievous and impraticable."

☞ A. T. Stewart's collection of pictures is large and valuable, its chief attraction being Rosa Bonheur's "Horse Fair," for which Mr. Stewart paid Mr. Derby $40,000.

☞ There is a lady living four miles east of Rochester, Butler county, Kentucky, who gave birth to three sons at one time. The children are fifteen months old, and are in good health now.

☞ The Savannah Republican notices the following miraculous escape from a horrible death: Yesterday morning about 9 o'clock a passenger from Jacksonville, while labouring under the effects of too much benzine, fell between the cars of a train on the Atlantic and Gulf railroad. The train was soon stopped and the unfortunate man was found beneath one of the trucks with his head resting on the rail immediately in front of one of the wheels, after having been dragged about two rods in that position.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S Compound Fluid EXTRACT CATAWBA GRAPE PILLS. Component Parts—Fluid Extract Rhubarb and Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Juice. For Liver complaint, Jaundice, Bilious Affections Sick or Nervous Headache, Constipation, etc. Purely Vegetable, Containing no Mercury, Minerals or Poisonous Drugs. These Pills are the most delightfully pleasant purgative, superseding castor oil, salts, magnesia, etc. There is nothing more acceptable to the stomach. They give time, and relieve other more severe purging pains. They are composed of the Finest Ingredients. After a few days' use of them, such an invigoration of the entire system takes place to appear astonishing to the world unacquainted, whether arising from imprudence or disease. H. T. Helmbold's Compound Fluid Extract Catawba Grape Pills are not sugar-coated, from the fact that sugar-coated Pills do not dissolve, but pass through the stomach without dissolving, consequently do not produce the desire effect. The Catawba Grape Pills, being pleasant to taste and odor, do not neutralize their being sugar-coated. Price Fifty cents per box.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED COMPOUND Fluid Extract Sarsaparilla WILL radically exterminate from the system scrofula, syphilis, mercury, old sores, ulcers, nodes, white swellings, tumors, from the white swelling, bunions, inveterate abscesses, tubes, tickets, glandular scrofulous, which swell, ulcerate, and form ugly sores, eruptions, rheumatism, dropsies, and all diseases that have been established to be system for years. Being prepared expressly for the above complaints its blood purifying properties are greater than any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. It gives the complexion a healthy color, and the patient a healthy appetite, a clear skin of health and purity, purifying the blood, removing chronic constitutional diseases, and thus putting the state of the blood, and the only reliable and effectual known remedy for the cure of pains and swelling of the joints, glandular of the throat and legs, blotches, pimples on the face, eruptions and all scaly eruptions of the skin, and beautifying the complexion. Price, $1.50 per bottle.

HENRY T. HELMBOLD'S CONCENTRATED Fluid Extract Buchu, THE GREAT DIURETIC. has cured every one of the cases in which it has been given, irritation of the neck of the bladder and inflammation of the bladder, retention of the urine, bloody urine, retention of urine, diseases of the prostrate glands, stone and gravel, dropsical swellings, deposit, red mucous milky discharges, and for enfeebled adults, and old men, and both sexes, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to exertion, loss of power, loss of the vigor of the system, nervous weak nervous trembling, horror of disease, wakefulness, dimness of vision, pain in the back, hot hands, flushing of the body, dryness of the skin, eruption on the face, pale countenance, universal debility of the muscular system, etc.

Given to persons from the age of sixteen to twenty-five, to fifty-five, or in the decline or lungs of life, after confinement of labor pains, bed-wetting in children.

Helmbold's Extract Buchu is diuretic and blood purifying, and cures all diseases arising from habits of dissipation, excess, or exposure, strengthens the system, purifies the blood, etc., supersedes the use of copaiba in affections for which it is used, and cures in a few days those diseases used in connection with Helmbold's Buchu Wash.

LADIES. In many affections peculiar to ladies, the Extract Buchu is unequaled, for obstructions, whether from accidental causes, indulgence, pregnancy, parturition or exposure, it invigorates the system, stops the urine flow of the aged, incontinence or urine at night, and for all complaints for which it is recommended, or any indisposition or inability of discharging. It is prescribed extensively by the most eminent physicians, and for weak and nervous, for feeble and delicate constitutions, of both sexes and all ages, attended with any of the above diseases or symptoms.

O

H. T. HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU Cures Diseases Arising from Imprudence, HABITS OF DISSIPATION, ETC. in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience, and no exposure. It causes frequent desire, gravel, deposits like mucus, weakness, nervousness, dimness of sight, dizziness, pain in the back, dyspepsia, dry skin, pimples on the face, lassitude, universal prostration of the system, etc. Preventing and Curing Strictures, Inflammation, Allaying Pain and Irritation, so frequent in this class of diseases, and expelling all poisonous matter.

Thousands who have been the victims of incompetent persons, and who have tried every thing, have found at last, to their sorrow, that they have been cheated, and that the "Poison of Life" has been permanently established, has dried up in the system, to break out in a more aggravated form perhaps ten years after.

To HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU for all diseases and troubles of the urinary organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. PRICE ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER BOTTLE.
