The Charge of the Paul Pry Brigade.

Up stairs and down stairs,
In the room below—
In the street and the green, I peep
Not quite a hundred.

Searching and peeping, went
Not quite a hundred;
With each scandal the news
Ten others blundered.
"Forward!" the chairman cries,
"Search all the nunneries,
Onward, ye gallant spies,
Not quite a hundred!"

"Forward, shrill Paul Pry,
Hark, comrades, your cry!
Who cares who blunders?
No one here dares reply,
No one but women sigh,
Then rouse your courage high,
Not quite a hundred.

Though not quite a hundred."

Ladies to the right of them,
Ladies to the left of them,
Ladies in the front of them,
Trembled and wondered;
Nothing could they oppose
To the invetiny foes,
Roaming where'er they chose,
Prying with eyes and nose,
Not quite a hundred.

Opening closets bare,
Tossing the dresses there,
Gallant and debonair,
Fumbling at reserve.

While ladies wondered
Where such gallants were bred;
Into the chapel sped
Heroes with hat on head;
Parts hence struck with dread,
Not quite a hundred.

Ladies to the right of them,
Ladies to the left of them,
Ladies in the front of them,
Trembled and wondered;
What cared these valiant men?
These shrill dragon men?
Harmed them not lady's fear,
Harmed them not lady's tear,
Thirty's mustache high,
Jale each corset pry,
Not quite a hundred.

When on their glory fled!
Did the bachelors charge they name?
While ladies wondered,
Hour the charge they made,
Hour, hour, hour!
Not quite a hundred!

From the Ohio Cultivator.

Directions for Setting the Hedge.

For this purpose the ground should be broken up to the depth of from twelve to eighteen inches, according to the quality of the soil—The ground should be at least ten feet wide. If any thin soil in the row it should be well subsoiled. It should not only be p'owed, but subsoiled, harrowed, and thoroughly prepared. The plants should be set in the center, which should leave five feet to be cultivated on each side. It would here state that the laws of Ohio allow the moving of fences, along the public roads, not less than six feet, which is sufficient distance to give an opportunity for growing a hedge at the proper place. When a hedge is to be set along an old fence row it is much better to have the ground ploughed a year previous, and the ground broken up and cultivated. It would then be in a better condition to receive the hedge. After the ground has been fully prepared, it is necessary to stake off the row, and draw a line to work by. The holes for inserting the plants, to be made with a steel dibble, twelve inches in length, and two and a half or three inches in diameter at the top, with a socket in which to insert a handle, at the top of the dibble, to bear the foot upon in pressing the plants grouted to make the holes, which holes should be six to eight inches apart; the plants then to be put in the holes about an inch deeper than they were in the ground when in the nursery; the earth then well pressed about the entire length of the root. Putting the plants in well, when transplanting, is one of the most important matters in having the hedge that succeed. Too much care cannot be taken in this particular. Then comes the cultivating, hoeing, plowing, etc. The soil on both sides the hedge wants thorough cultivation; and the hedge row kept clean during the whole of the summer season. No stock should be allowed in the enclosure where the hedge is set, till after harvest. In justice to the hedge, no stock should be allowed where the hedge is still fall, unless it is where the hedge has made a vigorous growth in the early part of the season. In such cases, a small amount of stock may be allowed in the latter part, will not materially injure it; but if no stock is allowed where it is still fall, the summer's growth will, by that time, become hard, and will then protect itself. The same prohibition should be continued for three years, at least, in the forepart of the season.

CUTTING OFF SHOOT DOWN.—The next spring, which is one year from the time the hedge is set, it must be cut off at the surface of the ground, below all the buds, just above where the root has a yellow appearance. The root will then swell up, and put out a number of strong shoots just at the top of the ground. It then needs to be thoroughly cultivated till about the middle of June, when, if the season has been favorable, and the growth vigorous, it should have another cutting within two or three inches of the former one; but if the growth has not been rapid and vigorous, the cutting should be deferred till the next spring. The cultivating, however, should be continued as mentioned above. There is a small part left yet to keep the hedge from stock, till the presence of cattle, which will be found necessary, we at once for a number of years, to keep the hedge from injury.

[illegible] with their use and best uses, and all classes of advertisements, the length or otherwise, beyond the regular rates, will be charged proportionally. For all such transient advertising, bills will be rendered quarterly, and prompt payment is desired.

No discontinuance will be tolerated by the year unless specified by contract between the parties. No contract of yearly advertisements will be discontinued without previous notice is given, nor will any change be made for less than one year at the yearly rates.

Advertisements not marked on the copy for a specified number of insertions will be continued until ordered out, and payment exacted accordingly.

All persons sending in advertisements or requesting notices, of fairs, soirees, concerts, or any public entertainments where charges are made for admission, and all notices of private enterprises or to promote individual interests, can only be inserted with the understanding that the same are to be paid for at the rate of $1 for first six lines, and five cents per line for all over.

Editorial notices, when requested, to be charged $1 for each insertion.

Payment for advertisements due when they are handed in for insertion, and PAY IN ADVANCE is required unless specially agreed to be executed. Regular monthly advertisers to pay half yearly in advance.

Dr. Peck's Imprisonment at Havana.

Dr. Peck, whose case attracted some attention, has, since his release from prison, in Havana, returned to the United States; and has published in the New Orleans papers a full account of his imprisonment, and the circumstances which led to it. A more unprovoked and indefensible outrage upon the person of a peaceable and unoffending man, we venture to say, was never perpetrated; and if it is to be suffered to pass without reparation or redress, so too many similar instances of Spanish official insolence and tyranny have been, we shall come to the conclusion that the announcement made by President Pierce in his Inaugural, that under his Administration the rights of the humblest American citizen should be respected at home and abroad, was premature.

From the publication of Dr. Peck we learn that he was induced to accompany a distinguished native of Cuba, to whom he had stood in the relation of medical attendant, to the Island, with the view of establishing himself there in the practice of his profession of Dentist.—His visit to Cuba had not the most remote connection with filibustering designs. He was not, and never had been, a politician, his whole life having been unobtrusively passed in attention to his business. He was from all accounts, the last man, from his antecedents and his character, who could be obnoxious to the suspicion of being an incendiary of revolution and rebellion. A quiet, mild, and inoffensive man, his whole ambition seems to have been limited to the harmless occupation of extracting and repairing teeth, and receiving the pay for the same—the very last man in the world to head a revolution, or plot schemes of violence and blood.

Dr. Peck, we are informed by him, made a peaceable location at an eligible point upon the Island, and commenced business with the most flattering prospects of success. He says that he had made contract's to the amount of more than a thousand dollars, in his profession, and had a fair prospect ahead of making a fortune, when the myrmidons of government pounced upon him, and without apology or explanation hurried him off to Havana, where he was cast into prison with felons, murderers and thieves of every stripe, refused a trial, and detained until it was the good pleasure of government to release him. All this was done without any specific charge against him, without trial, without investigation, and in the teeth of treaties. Here Dr. Peck remained for weeks, cut off from all intercourse with his friends, and subjected to indignity and insult, until he was released as suddenly and unceremoniously as he had been imprisoned, and without apology, explanation or redress thrust out of the country.

Whether the administration will think this a proper case for interference we do not know But one thing is certain, that the longer continuation of this state of things is intolerable. A state of open war with Spain and Cuba would be far better, than the these reiterated outrages upon the persons and property of unoffending American citizens, offered without redress, and rece ved by the government with tame pusillanimity.

☞The Rev. E. F. Berkley, of Lexington, one of the most eminent and talented Episcopal clergymen in the West, is announced to lecture at the Episcopal Church, this evening. Admission 25 cents—the proceeds for the benefit of the Church. We hope there will be a good attendance, to hear his able lecture, and the sweet music of the choir.

☞The steamer Dan't Boone when coming into port on Monday evening, passed the Pittsburgh, when just in front of the Lee House. The Boone was nearly or quite a half-mile behind, when she came in sight at the bend. Tall running, that!

☞This is the day set for the annual election of Directors of the Maysville and Lexington Railroad Company, at the City Hall. We had not heard the result, when our paper was put to press.

☞The Panorama of New York, now on exhibition at the City Hall, is a beautiful and very life-like painting, and should be seen by all of our citizens before it leaves. We understand a large audience witnessed its moving, on Saturday night. Remember, that to night and Wednesday night are probably the only times it will ever be exhibited in our city. Go, and take your families with you.

☞Those who love the drama are referred to the advertisement of a dramatic entertainment at the City Hall, on Thursday evening next. The performers are spoken of, in several of our exchanges, as persons of talent, who sustain their parts well.

Samuel Hunt, a resident of Daviess county, committed suicide on the 22 inst. No reason is assigned for the act.

Wm. Hall has been arrested in Cleveland on a charge of dealing in counterfeit money.

A bill has passed the Pennsylvania Legislature providing for the sale of the Main Line of the State Public Works—the price being fixed at $8,500,000.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger states that red ants and moths will immediately depart from any place where turpentine is sprinkled on a cloth, or a vial of it kept uncorked. The smell of turpentine is said to be disagreeable to these insects.

"When a person writes to publishers for insertion on business, a postage stamp should be enclosed if it is important to receive a reply." So writes a suggestive correspondent; and he is right. So reader, take the hint.

A Duel in Spain.—On the 6th ultimo, M. Corbian, editor of the Clamor Publico, and M. de Mand, editor of the Occidente, both of Madrid, fought a duel. To escape the penalty of the Spanish law the duel took place in a hired hall. The combatants fought with swords which were ground for the occasion, and having wounded one another, closed, intending to embrace each other's life. The seconds were compelled to tear them asunder.

Arrow-rot, equal to the best imported, is raised in Marion county, Florida.

Flood in Michigan.—The river Raisin, which passes through Adrian, has been getting high and tearing away the bridges upon it and doing other mischief. The Southern Railroad bridge five miles west of Adrian fell in just as a train of cars passed over it. Several millions were broken away, and Comstock's cloth manufactory was carried down stream some twenty rods. There has been nearly a clean sweep of all the bridges on the stream and damage to the amount of $50,000 done to property.

The warehouse and store at Browning, (Ill.), belonging to Mr. J. T. Keeny, was destroyed by fire on the 22d inst. Loss estimated at $20,000.

Park Benjamin is delivering a course of lectures in Philadelphia, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to purchase a library for the Union Mission School.

Powers' "Greek Slave" which was recently drawn in a lottery by some lucky individual, is now on exhibition in Massillon, Ohio.

The two ferocious bull dogs that so badly lacerated a woman near Pittsburgh, not long since, have been killed by order of the civil authorities. The suit for damages against the owner of the dogs has been compromised by his paying the injured woman $200. He was, also, fined $20 and sent to jail for two months.

A Drinking People.—Messrs. J. C. Downs & Co., in a communication to one of the San Francisco papers, state that five thousand gallons of distilled liquors have been consumed each day in California for the last four years, of which they at present furnish one thousand. The total amount of liquor consumed for four years past is, according to their calculation, about 122,600 hogsheads.

Consumption Baffled.—Since the days of Esculapius, medical men have striven in vain to conquer that arch enemy of mankind, consumption. Dr. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass, has we have every reason to believe, succeeded in attaining this object, nearer than any predecessor or contemporary. He calls his remedy Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, by which name it has been favorably known for many years in all parts of the world. It is recommended by numerous eminent persons as the best remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs extant. Dr. Ayer recently received a letter from Hon. Daniel Webster, in which that statesman speaks of the Pectoral in the highest terms, and mentions that he is personally knowing to the usefulness of this article in both America and Europe.—New York Sunday Times.

Sweet Potatoes.—The first step in the culture of sweet potatoes is to get the sprouts. They are raised by planting whole potatoes about six inches apart in a hotbed in April. In about a month, when the first sprouts are three or four inches high, they are separated from the parent tuber, and planted out in hills, leaving other shoots to follow for successive plantings. They are planted in hills about four feet apart, and must have clean culture.—Country Gentleman, April 19.

New England Rum at the Crimea.—New England rum is selling at Constantinople at eighty cents a gallon. The demand is for the French army. Quite an impetus has been given to the distilleries by the general failure of the grape and by the war. The quality is doubtless somewhat improved by the voyage; but we should think it was a pretty hard liquor to fight on.—Providence Journal.

"Was one through a glass, darkly?"

While the Washington Union enjoyed a reputed organship, its idle calumniatory course inspired so much apprehension of war with Spain that, although the print is divested of its semi-official character, the anxiety continues, and great solicitude still pervades the public mind regarding the intention of the Government and the steps taken in reference to possible contingencies in the West Indian waters. It would certainly be a convenient time for the public Administration had some responsible and recognised medium through which the views and measures could, so far as were proper, be made generally known. We are left, at any rate for the present, to penetrate the intentions of the Government and probable eventualities by such imperfect lights as the most astute unofficial writers furnish us with, and we offer the latest to our readers for what they are worth. They will perceive with pleasure that these extracts all concur in ascribing to the Administration a prudent and confidential course; while it is doubtful, to a free one, in the steps which it has taken in reference to Cuban occurrences:

From the Hartford Daily Courant, of Tuesday, Sept. 12, 1854.

The Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The condition of this office, notwithstanding the losses of the last two months, is sound. The capital is whole with a considerable surplus. The Company do not owe a dollar to any individual, Banking or other Institute for money borrowed; it has neither notes or acceptances outstanding in the hands of any individual or Institution, with a large balance in cash to their credit at the Bank. And every claim for losses now outstanding will be promptly paid at maturity or before. Their investments principally in Bank Stocks exceeds Four Hundred Thousand Dollars and for over forty years that this Company has been doing business it has been the endeavor of its Officers and Board of Directors to transact it in an honorable way, and in no instance can it be shown that they have sought to increase it by detracting from the good name of any other Insurance Company in this City.
