The Law Regarding Newspapers and Periodicals.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscriptions.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers, the publisher may continue to send them until all subscriptions are paid, and subscribers are responsible for all the numbers sent.

3. Subscribers who neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office to which they are directed, have been held responsible till they have settled their bills and notified the proper office of the change.

4. The courts have decided that a refusal to take a newspaper or periodical from the office, or even without notifying the publisher, and the payment of all arrearages, is prima facie evidence of fraud.

5. Postmasters in newspapers or periodicals removing, are liable to pay or be long as the paper or periodical may be sent to the residence of the party at the time of subscription, unless notice is sent of such removal to the publication office.

THE EXPRESS.

Written for the Express.

The Herald's Staff.

Be ye slow to think that the Past is dead,
O'erwhelmed by the ceaseless surge of years—
For it's decds to immortal life are wed,
And little pick-ags of shrouds and biers
Man's poor frame may moulder to common earth,
The tomb o'er his grave may totter and fall,
But his thoughts still assert their heavenly birth,
Will wander on their old accustomed haunts
As the boat low word that startles the air
In caught on the wings of the waiting breeze
And is hushed so more, but still trembles there
While in wid ening circles it ever flows.
'Tiil the farthest portals of space are passed,
'Tis mingled, harmonious, in heaven at last!
Or yet as the pebble light dropped in broad river
Ripples small bands thatsee elapsed in baby glee,
Wake to life joyous waves that cease not forever,
But Nirvin the billowy-heaving sea—
So the words and the works of the centuries gone
Are sounding to-day down Time's corridors,
And the voice that I've caught in my jarring song,
Was heard o'er the din of Athenian wars.

From out the glowing East has poured a throng
O' swarthy warriors, with their gorgeous pomp
O' home-land clinging round their foreign course
As about their silken banners they bear wave
That roll twixt continents. Westward they sped
And conquering strove, till crag-built Greece in all
Her modest beauty stole upon their sight,
Peering from 'neath her him mist veil on scene
So strange: Slaves in her borders, freedom's own!
And as their touch had been pollution, back
She hurled them, scattering far the Persian's might.
With shouts that rung through Eastern palaces,
And boding told of dire defeat and all
The myriad woes of conflict deadly. Then
Matrons' tears did flow for the early dead,
And lullabies that wen the babe to sleep,
Were hushed to sobbings low and anxious,
For it's dead are Then bridal f wers drooped
And from them tender fingers wove chaplets
For new tombs.

And still the dread war was waged;
And still the battle-shout and requiem
Were mingled there in discord strange and hoarse,
For peeping Omens was warning for her hearth
And her temples Gods.
* * Now, th' Orient fag has trailed at Marathon,
And Spartan arms, at red Thermopylae
Had reared a mound where Freedom's spirit still
Sits brooding o'er the sweet sod trampled Greece.
Salamis had heard a shock of battle
Whose echoes lingered yet among her rocks,
When steering thence, the soft, Hesperian gales
Quick wafted the Helleni proud home.
Down 'mong the isle-fenced alleys of the sea
Where bloom the Cyclades-flowered pathway
Toward the Eastern world.

Far ploughed the salt sea's
Foam, that little bands, as had their fathers
On the way to Troy; and when the sun rose
Over Myeale, full flashed his bright beams
On their swelling sails, that vied in whiteness
With the silvery spray that dashed to shore
And wreathed the rose-hiped shells so wondrously.
There lay the hostile ships which rose and fell,
As gurgling swept beneath their bowling keels,
The long shore-swell-throbbings of that great heart
Which beats below the darkening waters,
Thus them, as two dark clouds in mid-sky
Marauding, await the quick, red, lightning flash.
Before they mingle—so these warring hosts
In peaceful silence yet forbore the fight.
All was still as starlit midnight, except
The rippling music around the vessel's prore.
A moment and 'twas o'er. The Greeks looked back
Toward the fatherland, ere trusting yet
It's liberty and life to fickleafate.
A strange sight met their eyes for while they gazed
There floated in among the ships, a herald's staff
Upborne by agentive waves, it came across
The wide Aegean sea and told a tale
Of irrepressible. Untold of home
And all the thousand things they cherished there!
A warrior's omen too, it whispered
"Victory"—and sooth to tell 'twas true;
For Persian pride had kissed the dust that day,
Around Platea's walls, and ere the West
Had blushed the sunset in, the Greek had won
Proud Mycale, for history and fame.

1. To those who have labored and striven in vain,
A lesson is taught in my simple rhyme
That shall cheer them on to the struggle again,
While a laurel is green 'neath the sunlight of Time.

2. Take courage and faint not! for o'er the waves
Which roll between you and your brother-ers
Voices are heard as they sink to their graves
Bidding you triumph by that which has been.

3. And thus as the herald's staff bore on it's way
Tidings of battle won—conquere's spoil—
Bright deed that cause fears from a far-off day
Breathe "Victory" always—"Triumph of toil."

OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

From Morgan.

WEST LINSBEY, July 7, 1858.

This is a delightful morning. The sun is just rising above the hills, and pouring over the broad acres, and the sweet air is redolent to my view is at once beautiful, refreshing and inspiring. The sanguine hopes of the glorious victory which awaits the democratic party in August next, is still more cheering; so much so, indeed, that I sometimes forget that Kentucky, our proud old State, ever bowed the knee to know nothing. But when memory carries me back to "bloody Monday," my heart throbs with unutterable emotions at the recollection that it yet groan under the yoke which lired but long enough to make its name conspicuous for deeds of rapine and ruthless violence.—But the leaders of that party are distracted and divided and its organization disorganized and I feel some anxiety to know where the members of it will pitch their tents—whether with the national democracy, or with the black republicans of the Ashland district, standing the sudden leap of Crittenden, Marshall and Underwood, I pretend to know but few who will follow the lead of the embrace of the avowed enemies of the South. Although the urgent appeals of George R. McKee to the people of Kentucky, is, to look to the reason, and follow the example of Crittenden and his associates, I think his eloquence on this point will prove unavailing. The opposition in Old Morgan has shuffled off at the "little end of the horn." They swear they wont endorse Douglas and his black republican associates at the North, nor Crittenden, Marshall and Underwood; and they wont vote for McKee because he endorses and defends the whole of this motley crew. Moreover, George R. McKee has spoken more against the interests of the mountains than any other man, living or dead. For the truth of this, I need only refer to his acts during the session of the Legislature of Kentucky in 1842-43. He declared in that place, some time ago, that he was the friend of the mountains; that he had watched over their interests and had sought to promote their welfare. Now, just as a sample of his fidelity to the mountains, I beg leave to refer you to his relation to the road reported to Common School System, House Journal, page 62, session 1842-3. This act of his is too well known to the people of Kentucky to require comment. Many of his official acts are of a like nature, and prove conclusively that he was not such a friend of the mountains as he professed to be.

Rankin R. Revill was here last Thursday, and made a telling speech to a good audience; and on Friday I accompanied him to Adamsville, where he addressed a large number of his fellow citizens, in a very happy manner. His speeches at both places were sound and logical, and full of unanswerable argument. He drew scores of friends around him at both places. He is a courteous, dignified, agreeable and personally popular gentleman; and withal is an effective and pleasant speaker. Some had thought, previous to his appearance in Morgan, that he possessed but little ability as a publicspeaker, but in this, I assure you, they were most agreeably disappointed.

Anti-Revill men here are few and far between. Our candidates for county court, some twenty-five, are, I believe, all for Revill, notwithstanding some of them were recently opposed to democracy. We hardly know where to hold Independent Democrats, for all seem to be right on the Kansas issue; and George R. McKee's position needs only to be fully exposed on that question, to insure Revill a majority of ONE THOUSAND in this county.

Our county canvass is progressing smoothly

Maysville, Ky., June 29th 1858.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—We have several communications, in prose and verse, in our drawer, which we cannot publish "because they are not accompanied by the real name of the author. In all cases, we require the name of the writer before we will insert anything whatever in the Express; and correspondents will please take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

☞We learn from our Lewis correspondence, that our old friend, B. H. Hann, is a candidate for Sheriff in that county. Hann is a genuine old fashioned democrat, a good man, and will make a first rate officer. We cannot believe that the gallant democrats of Lewis will allow old feuds or mere personal prejudices to defeat them in a contest, which by expect them to heal all their divisions and rally with perfect unanimity to the support of Hann. He is a worthy standard bearer, and should be elected.

☞The Charleston Courier announces that a process has been discovered by which cotton can be compressed into a solid form, harder than wood, impervious to the elements, fire-proof and water proof, and capable of use for building purposes, at about one-third of the cost of brick. The process is the invention of a South Carolinian named Legare.

☞Col. SAM PIKE has bought the Hillsboro (O.) Gazette, a long established democratic paper, and will soon take charge of it as editor and proprietor. Success to the old fish!

☞It is stated that not one side-wheel steamer now runs on Lake Erie, while but a few years ago two or three a day cleared from Buffalo.

☞Saturday's Eagle attempts to create sympathy for Mr. Conwell, the know nothing candidate for County Judge, by charging, that "the locofocos are engaged in their strongest, and bitterest, and most malignant efforts to defeat that gentleman, "simply because he has been confined to his sick bed by a painful disease." That the democrats, and every body in the county, except a portion of the most ultra know nothings, desire the re-election of Judge Whitaker, is, we have no doubt, true; but that any body is attempting to defeat Mr. Conwell simply "because he has been sick," is "simply" absurd. The Eagle don't believe it itself, and if it did, no other person would. None regret that Mr. Conwell has not been able to canvass the county more than do the friends of Judge Whitaker. Nor is there more truth in the charge that the "locofocos are engaged in their strongest, and bitterest, and most malignant efforts to defeat Mr. Conwell." No matter how much his defeat may have been desired, it is not true that any "bitterness" or "malignity" has entered into the contest. Present or absent, he has at all times been treated courteously, decorously and kindly by his political opponents; and we are sure he would not make capital, if he could, by invoking the sympathy, or attempting to arouse the prejudice, of his political friends, or of others, by such an article as that in the Eagle. Judge Whitaker has held the office for which he is now a candidate for one term. He has served, and which he has discharged its duties is known to the people of the county. We believe that he has been an active, efficient and vigilant officer. If so, the people know it, and they owe, if not less to themselves than to him to re-elect him. As a faithful and competent officer, it is due him that the people express their approbation of his official conduct. If he is defeated now, it will be a verdict against his official conduct; and we are sure the people do not wish to condemn that. He was elected at the previous election over a gentleman as popular, as well qualified, and as well fitted in every way for the office, as Mr. Conwell; and if he is defeated now, it must be because, he has disappointed the reasonable expectations of those by whom he was elected before. We appeal to his record, and expect it to be endorsed. Nite.

The Cairo Delta of the 24th ult., talks in this wise:

"It has been boasted that Mr. Douglas holds Illinois in his breeches pocket, and we can lead it away with him in support of whatever organizes his self-willed head may lead him into. This is a most tremendous mistake, and when the enemies of Democracy count upon such a state of facts, they are reckoning without their host. The Democracy of Southern Illinois will support Mr. Douglas as far as they consistently can, but not against Democracy. When it comes to the test, they will be found to be largely in favor of the Administration and the prompt admission of Kansas. It is true that some of them were led away for the moment by a clamor about "popular sovereignty," but they are finding out that the great principle is not in any danger and they are coming back in regiments, rising in the ranks to declare the slave question and give peace to the country."

☞The Cincinnati Enquirer copies our notice of the arrest of Ben. Ball, and adds:

"Along the Kentucky border there are men constantly employed in inveigling slaves away from their owners, only for the infinitesimal purpose of obtaining a livelihood thereby. They have their accomplices on this side of the river—with the Connell-ites in this city—with whom the funds are made to a considerable extent. Especially is and about Covington and along the river of this city are these women than any other quarter, owing, it is supposed, to the facilities afforded by the good roads from the southern portion of Kentucky to us."

The Election.

In less than two weeks the people of Kentucky will be called upon to take a most important part in the political contest, ever agitated this Commonwealth. The result of the approaching election, be it what it may, will, in all probability, effect some of the most important interests of the State in all future time. The triumph of those who have endorsed the suicidal course of Crittenden, Marshall, and their Southern colleagues, may not lead to the abolition of slavery in the State, but it will inevitably strengthen the enemies of that institution in the Union, and thus embitter the unhappy sectional contest which is now waged throughout the country, and the consequences of which threaten to be so disastrous to the vital interests of the United States. The national administration adopted and has pursued a policy in regard to the subject of slavery, which, when acquiesced in, will give peace to the country. Acquiescence in that policy can alone allay this dangerous agitation of the subject of slavery, because it secures the rights and maintains the honor of the Southern States, and without this, peace could only be secured at the expense of every thing which should be held sacred by a community or State. This policy, which is but the application of the fundamental principle of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, received the cordial support of every Southern democratic member of the last session of Congress, and was warmly sustained by a majority of the American members of that body, as well as by a decided majority of the democratic members from the Northern States. A few men from the South united with the whole black republican strength to oppose it. Three members of Congress from Kentucky united with Giddings, Hale, Wade, Wilson, Lovejoy, etc., in opposition to the admission of Kansas as a slave State. Their party friends in the State have endorsed their conduct, assailed the administration, and impugned the motives of those who sustained it. It has been proclaimed to the world, with brazen effrontery, that the administration policy in regard to the admission of Kansas, was "infamous," and that all, both democrats and "Americans," who supported it did so "knowing" it to be such. In vindicating the principle involved in that question, the people of Kentucky will also vindicate their political honesty and their personal integrity. But the issue itself, and we have ever maintained that this presents the only issue before the people, involves more than the assertion of a mere principle, more than the condemnation of Mr. Buchanan, more than the endorsement of Crittenden and his associates, and more than the vindication of personal integrity. It involves, as far as the action of a single state can affect it, the future peace of the whole country. It needs no argument to convince the people of this State, that as long as congress claims the right to legislate in regard to slavery, there can be no end to its agitation. It requires no reasoning to convince them, that "non-intervention" with that subject by the National Legislature, and the "sovereignty" of the people of the States and Territories with regard to it, within their respective limits, can alone secure them from the attacks of the enemies of Slavery, and guarantee future harmony — This question arises above all others; and the people must say by their vote at the polls, whether the democracy or the black republicans are right upon this subject—whether the people of the Territories are competent to regulate the domestic institutions of the former—whether the President and the message of the Southern members of Congress, of all parties, or Mr. Crittenden was right on the question of the admission of Kansas—whether more slave States shall ever be admitted into the Union or not. These are the questions involved in the issue now before the people of Kentucky. The action will strengthen, and encourage, and stimulate the friends of the constitutional rights of the States throughout the whole country, or, while this courraging and disheartening them, it will add to the zeal and increase the strength and power, and influence of those whose triumph would be the knell of the Union, the end all our hopes, and the realization of our worst fears.

Under such circumstances, it is not unjust to say, that those who suffer themselves to be influenced by any personal considerations, or any political prejudices, or any mere local reasons, to vote, against the dictates of their own best judgement, against a policy the justice and expediency and necessity of which is too apparent to admit of successful denial, are not true to their obligations to their country, to their State, to themselves, or to their posterity.

We wish to excite no prejudices. We have sought to arouse no passions. We have not attempted to add to the fearful sectional agitation which threatens the stability of our institutions. We would be madly and wilfully blind did we not see the danger with which we are threatened, and less than a patriot did we not attempt to avert it. If the arguments we have presented, and the facts we have from time to time laid before our readers, have not convinced the people, the interests of the whole country are vitally concerned in the result of the election in this State, on the first Monday in August, then we have labored in vain. If we have been successful in our attempts to present this subject in all bearings to them, they would be wanting in fidelity to their country were they to fail to discharge their whole duty at the polls.

☞Mrs. LIZZIE V. FRENCH, has revived the Ashland Kentuckian, which has been suspended for sometime, and will publish it hereafter as an independent paper. Its appearance has been much improved, and it is now one of the most handsome papers in the State. Mrs. French is a most estimable lady, talented, energetic, enterprising and persevering; and we meet sincerely hope that she may receive the liberal patronage she so well merits.

The Kentuckian is published at $1.50 a year in advance; and we hope every man in the 9th district will at once subscribe for it

☞See advertisement of a Mason county farm for sale in to-day's Express. This is one of the most desirable farms in the country, being located in the best part of the county, well improved, and in excellent condition. It has too many advantages to remain in market long.

THE TRUTH IN A NUTSHELL.—The Paris Citizen, in response to the allegation by the Democrat, that Crittenden "believed he could elect twenty free, never," Mr. Crittenden wished to give the people a fair chance to say whether they believed he could have been free in precise circumstances, with the great principle of popular sovereignty which the Democracy rang in our ears so persistently in the last Presidential contest. Having abandoned, in practice, the principle they so loudly professed, they now quarrel with other people for acting upon it.—Observer & Reporter.

The people of Kansas had said they wished slavery recognized in their territory, "in precise accordance with the great principle of popular sovereignty which the democracy rang in our ears so persistently in the last Presidential contest." And it was because they had said so that the black republicans opposed their admission into the Union. Mr. Crittenden acted with those who opposed the admission of Kansas for that reason; and those who put such an interpretation as the above upon his acts and votes must entertain a very poor opinion of the intelligence of the people. What Mr. Crittenden did, was just what, and is what the Democrats of Kentucky defeat. The people of Kansas had, in their own way, formed a Constitution, in which slavery was recognized, and with it applied for admission into the Union as a slave state. The black republicans proclaimed that no more slave states should ever be admitted into the Union, and opposed the bill to admit Kansas. Finding themselves unable to defeat this measure on that ground, they determined to place the question, or to create divisions; and in doing this they sought to obtain, in some form, a recognition of the power of Congress over slavery in the territories. To aid them in this, Mr. Crittenden offered his amendment, which proposed to send the Constitution back to the people to be voted upon again, thus giving the black republicans of the territory another opportunity to make it a free state, and asserting the right of Congress to interfere with the domestic affairs of the territories. Mr. Crittenden did not vote to give the people of Kansas a fair chance to say whether they wished slavery or not; but he did vote to compel them to reconsider a question which they had once fairly settled, and to do that in a mode which he prescribed. This is what he did, in conjunction with Douglas, Seward, Hale and Giddings; and this violates and outrages the principle of "popular sovereignty," as embodied in the Kansas-Nebraska Bill and the Cincinnati Platform, and as taught by the democratic party. The people of Kansas formed their Constitution, in their own way; and Crittenden, and those who acted with him, voted to require them to frame it over again, and to do so in a stipulated manner. If that is popular sovereignty, as applied to the territories, we have never understood the term. If that is popular sovereignty, we have never advocated it, and never will. If that is popular sovereignty, it has no place in the democratic confession of faith.

But Crittenden is not only opposed to popular sovereignty, as we have always understood that term, in which he is consistent, but he claims credit from the people of the South for an outrage which he sought to perpetrate upon them in the name of that cherished principle. He has thus added insult to injury. When Kansas had been made a slave state by the regular and legitimate application of this principle, Mr. Crittenden stepped in, and attempted to put a construction upon it which would give the enemies of slavery one more opportunity to accomplish their purposes—a construction which can be sustained by no fair reasoning, and which would utterly preclude a belief in his sincerity, did not the weakness of second childhood afford a satisfactory solution of our doubts. After the friends of slavery in Kansas had triumphed over their opponents, and emerged from a long, and desperate, and doubtful contest, completely successful, Mr. Crittenden gravely proposed to compel them to renew the conflict, that thereon might, perchance, be changed, and this he did in the name of an outraged constituency and of a violated principle. He this he asks the gratitude of the people of Kentucky, and in his defence his political friends have gone forth to the contest. On the first Monday in August, the people of this State must decide whether they endorse his acts and approve his votes.

Sanbed Again.

Ye "Americans" of Ohio have been badly treated by their black republican confederates. Their overtures have been rejected most disdainfully. Their most importunate requests have been refused peremptorily and insultingly. What will they do about it? What will their brethren in Kentucky say about it?

For months past, it has been well known, the most persistent attempts have been made to secure a fusion of all parties opposed to the administration. Prentice and Crittenden bargained and sold and labored most energetically at Washington last winter to this end. It was progressing swimmingly.—Steps taken to bring about such a fusion in New York, were believed to be about to result in success. In Pennsylvania the coalition was perfected. In New Jersey it had been entirely successful. In New England there were no objections. The subject was agitated just enough in Kentucky and a few of the leaders, knowing that the mass of the workers believe they would have no difficulty here, after the August election. It was important to bring about the union in Ohio; and to accomplish this, the Americans of that state labored most industriously. In this, they were aided by a portion of the Black republicans. Without a coalition in Ohio, it was feared the "People's party of the Union" would have no hopes of success. Sanbed, Tom Corwin, Giddings, Wade, "Americanism," and which has, or had, the names of Crittenden and Montgomery at its most head, for the Presidential contest in 1860, was exceedingly anxious for a union with the black republicans. To secure one, it alternately begged and threatened, implored, entreated, cajoled and denounced. But it was all in vain. The black republicans didn't want their aid and didn't care for their threats—such, at least, was their language. The entreaties of the Times were disregarded, its whinings despised, and its threats ridiculed. The "Americans" of that state had the inexpressible mortification to see their overtures rejected in the right of the whole country. The "Americans" of Kentucky must have their cheeks tingle with shame at the treatment of their brethren by their northern allies. Sanbed will be free in precise circumstances with the great principle of popular sovereignty which the Democracy rang in our ears so persistently in the last Presidential contest. Having abandoned, in practice, the principle they so loudly professed, they now quarrel with other people for acting upon it.—Observer & Reporter.

The people of Kansas had said they wished slavery recognized in their territory, "in precise accordance with the great principle of popular sovereignty which the democracy rang in our ears so persistently in the last Presidential contest." And it was because they had said so that the black republicans opposed their admission into the Union. Mr. Crittenden acted with those who opposed the admission of Kansas for that reason; and those who put such an interpretation as the above upon his acts and votes must entertain a very poor opinion of the intelligence of the people. What Mr. Crittenden did, was just what, and is what the Democrats of Kentucky defeat. The people of Kansas had, in their own way, formed a Constitution, in which slavery was recognized, and with it applied for admission into the Union as a slave state. The black republicans proclaimed that no more slave states should ever be admitted into the Union, and opposed the bill to admit Kansas. Finding themselves unable to defeat this measure on that ground, they determined to place the question, or to create divisions; and in doing this they sought to obtain, in some form, a recognition of the power of Congress over slavery in the territories. To aid them in this, Mr. Crittenden offered his amendment, which proposed to send the Constitution back to the people to be voted upon again, thus giving the black republicans of the territory another opportunity to make it a free state, and asserting the right of Congress to interfere with the domestic affairs of the territories. Mr. Crittenden did not vote to give the people of Kansas a fair chance to say whether they wished slavery or not; but he did vote to compel them to reconsider a question which they had once fairly settled, and to do that in a mode which he prescribed. This is what he did, in conjunction with Douglas, Seward, Hale and Giddings; and this violates and outrages the principle of "popular sovereignty," as embodied in the Kansas-Nebraska Bill and the Cincinnati Platform, and as taught by the democratic party. The people of Kansas formed their Constitution, in their own way; and Crittenden, and those who acted with him, voted to require them to frame it over again, and to do so in a stipulated manner. If that is popular sovereignty, as applied to the territories, we have never understood the term. If that is popular sovereignty, we have never advocated it, and never will. If that is popular sovereignty, it has no place in the democratic confession of faith.

But Crittenden is not only opposed to popular sovereignty, as we have always understood that term, in which he is consistent, but he claims credit from the people of the South for an outrage which he sought to perpetrate upon them in the name of that cherished principle. He has thus added insult to injury. When Kansas had been made a slave state by the regular and legitimate application of this principle, Mr. Crittenden stepped in, and attempted to put a construction upon it which would give the enemies of slavery one more opportunity to accomplish their purposes—a construction which can be sustained by no fair reasoning, and which would utterly preclude a belief in his sincerity, did not the weakness of second childhood afford a satisfactory solution of our doubts. After the friends of slavery in Kansas had triumphed over their opponents, and emerged from a long, and desperate, and doubtful contest, completely successful, Mr. Crittenden gravely proposed to compel them to renew the conflict, that thereon might, perchance, be changed; and this he did in the name of an outraged constituency and of a violated principle. For this he asks the gratitude of the people of Kentucky, and in his defence his political friends have gone forth to the contest. On the first Monday in August, the people of this State must decide whether they endorse his acts and approve his votes.

Sanbed Again.

Ye "Americans" of Ohio have been badly treated by their black republican confederates. Their overtures have been rejected most disdainfully. Their most importunate requests have been refused peremptorily and insultingly. What will they do about it? What will their brethren in Kentucky say about it?

For months past, it has been well known, the most persistent attempts have been made to secure a fusion of all parties opposed to the administration. Prentice and Crittenden bargained and sold and labored most energetically at Washington last winter to this end. It was progressing swimmingly.—Steps taken to bring about such a fusion in New York, were believed to be about to result in success. In Pennsylvania the coalition was perfected. In New Jersey it had been entirely successful. In New England there were no objections. The subject was agitated just enough in Kentucky and a few of the leaders, knowing that the mass of the workers believe they would have no difficulty here, after the August election. It was important to bring about the union in Ohio; and to accomplish this, the Americans of that state labored most industriously. In this, they were aided by a portion of the Black republicans. Without a coalition in Ohio, it was feared the "People's party of the Union" would have no hopes of success. Sanbed, Tom Corwin, Giddings, Wade, "Americanism," and which has, or had, the names of Crittenden and Montgomery at its most head, for the Presidential contest in 1860, was exceedingly anxious for a union with the black republicans. To secure one, it alternately begged and threatened, implored, entreated, cajoled and denounced. But it was all in vain. The black republicans didn't want their aid and didn't care for their threats—such, at least, was their language. The entreaties of the Times were disregarded, its whinings despised, and its threats ridiculed. The "Americans" of that state had the inexpressible mortification to see their overtures rejected in the right of the whole country. The "Americans" of Kentucky must have their cheeks tingle with shame at the treatment of their brethren by their northern allies. Sanbed will be free in precise circumstances, with the great principle of popular sovereignty which the Democracy rang in our ears so persistently in the last Presidential contest. Having abandoned, in practice, the principle they so loudly professed, they now quarrel with other people for acting upon it.—Observer & Reporter.

A Prescription for Females.

We trust that Dr Roback's advertisement, in another column, will not escape the notice of the sick and suffering. It is an unique and convincing document, and we have full faith in the encouragement held by the enchanted Sacred Marian Remedies—the Blood Pills and Blood Purifier—fully bear out the statement it contains. These great Vegetable Remedies are now very popular in the West. The settlers on new lands, the planters and farmers in the valleys of the Mississippi and the Ohio, the sugar-and-hemp-growers of the rich bottoms of the Red River, and in fact, the sick in all localities west of the Alleghanies have great faith in Dr. Roback's prepartions. OUR CORRESPONDENCE.

From Montgomery.

MR. EDITOR: As a following myself of the general invitation, which you have been pleased, to extend to your friends, in all the neighboring counties, I have concluded to drop you a few lines in relation to certain matters and things which are transpiring in our community, and which I trust will be received in all kindness by you, and be read with patience and charity, from motives, I hope, you should deem them worthy of publication in your valuable paper.

We may say, that the health of our town and vicinity is good; although we are occasionally called upon to record the death of some friend or acquaintance. The Rev. WM. MCMAHAN, died in this place, a few days ago, one of your ears an active and zealous member of the Kentucky Conference, departed this life, in the vicinity of Mount Sterling, a few days since, after a painful and protracted illness, which he bore with Christian fortitude and resignation. A. N. BRADSHAW, an old and esteemed citizen of the county, died at his residence on the morning of the 4th inst., much lamented by the community.

Miss M. C. BARTLEY, our gifted County Poetess, was stricken down, yesterday, and lied in the hymenial state, by our clever friend, DUCK OREAR, and you may rest well assured, that he is a happy fellow, and no mistake.

As to the political, and moral, your Correspondents "Tom" and "Looker on," have kept you so well posted up, that I need scarcely say a word concerning them.

Our friend Knipenby has recently been relieved of some of the embarrassments which circumstances had thrown around it. Capt. Howard has withdrawn from the contest and his retirement appears in the "Whig" of this morning. Dont neglect to read it.—He is a monument, of patience, long suffering and forbearance, rarely to be met with. After having been treated in the rudest and unfairest manner by his political associates, and thus, for the second time, crushed by the weight of certain machinery, he bears with all the stoicism of an ancient philosopher to their arbitrary power, and voluntarily submits, in imitation of "Job," to be cut out of the good of Argo!!

All good men will say, that the Captain's treatment has been bad, in reference to his nomination for Jailor, by those who claim to be his friends, and who opposed to him, say it was all right and fair,—that there was no fraud practiced, notwithstanding it appears, that all five of Howard's friends voted for him, on each ballot, and all five of Gatt's friends voted for him, and all five of Knipenby's friends voted for him, claiming as standing 4 for the former and six for the latter! Now, sir, how this could be, is not for me to know or even to guess at. The Captain considers it a mystery, and so it is. A mystery pertaining to the order of same nothingism, and one of its series of secrets, which have not yet been made public, for, in any of the exposes of that system, and one of the peculiarities and abominations of our country, which has made it the curse of the country!

Gatt is a good fellow, and has filled the office very well, excepting the extravagance of his friends, which he seemed willing, which he marked his administration. He has warm friends and deservedly so. Howard too is one of our ablest gentlemen—a man of exemplary morals. Has always been firm in his political career. He was formerly Clerk of our Circuit Court. In 1856 he was a candidate for Congress against the friends of J. M. Crawford, Esq., came to his rescue, and shouted rotation in office, to Howard's discomfiture. Not being able to stem the torrent of opposition, he withdrew from the track and Crawford "made the trip" without opposition. The same clique who then opposed Howard, and were the means of defeating him off, became boisterous last year for the elevation of Col. McKeefe Senatorial honors, and bitter in their denunciations of Col. Chiles, who was also spoken of in connection with that office. What was perhaps as strange as anything else, which transpired about this time, was the position of Howard in this contest. Chiles but the year before been one of his friends and sympathizers.—Gratitude would seem to have required of him, that he should, at least, have been neutral in this condition of affairs. Yet he took his stand in the ranks of this same squad, and loud vociferated against the opposition to his friend and in furtherance of the schemes of his opponents! But, alas! for him, he have received no thanks, for his interference, and is now left in the cold shade of the doctrine of rotation in office, for Gist has already been a Judge in Israel for eight years, and wants the place at least four years longer, but unless he could only parade four votes in caucus, when he had five friends all of whom voted for him, according to their published instructions.

The American party (so called) of this county are not so rampant as formerly, for they have at length begun to discern that they have been used as political tools long enough, and will have to give up the ghost before many more moons shall 'wax and wane.'

They have, however, a wonderful faculty for keeping up their spirits. In 1855 Cox received a majority in this county 180 votes or thereabouts over Stanton; last year his majority over Mason was about 130; a falling-off of fifty and more, and yet on the evening of the election after the polls were closed, you never heard such shouts of exultation as rang throughout the office on Brestow's! Shouting, I suppose, because in the course of two years they had not lost a greater number of their faithful forces!

The Whig of this morning announces the democratic ills of John Wyatt, the candidate of the k. n's. for Sheriff. Young, his opponent, is at his place, not troubled with rheumatics, and exceedingly prudent and careful of health; and will probably keep on foot until the election is over, and has a prospect of a fair run.

Dary and Hood are out for County Attorney. How the contest will terminate I cannot say. The independent position of the former on the Lecompton question, is not palatable to his old associates. They think he ought to have 'donned' the Crittenden collar, and followed obediently in a greater rut. How far they will undertake to punish him for being thus perverse and stiff-necked, the sequel will soon prove. I hope, however, that he will not be deserted by his democratic friends already sacrificed, and 'Argo' on, let for the nonce to be appeased. No more at present. Yours, &c., WILL.

LEWIS CO., July 15, 1858.

Dear Mc:

We had a fine rain in this county on Sunday and Monday last, which has done the corn crops a great deal of good; and wakes a fine prospect for a good corn crop this season. The oats crop has proven a failure in this part of our Father's vineyard. But we should never murmur, for we are promised a "crowd into heaven," and God is never slack in his promises, as some men call slackness.

There still seems a calmness in the political atmosphere. The great house nothingism is said to have taken a look out for a fellow to be hired. Underwood, poor Underwood cried in tears, but the tears of Judas can never be dried up. We wait in great suspense for the next whelming.

But for a little bit of home politics. The racers now commenced waxing warm between some of the Judicial candidates. The Democrats have a candidate in the field for Sheriff at last, and he is a good man and a strong one too. B. H. Hann is the man; a true and tried democrat, and he will make a clean sweep in the contest. Seth Parker is the opposition candidate, and his only great fault is, that he adheres too blindly to his party, and is too easy, to make a good Sheriff. The Democrats have no candidate in the field for County Judge, Clerk, &c. Their whole aim seems to be for the Sheriffalty, and I am afraid that owing to some former divisions among the democrats, for that office, that Parker will be elected. There are several aspirants to the office of Assessor, and owing to division, the opposition may be successful. Some of the offices seem to go a begging, as there are no candidates seeking them, for instance, Surveyor, Coroner, County Attorney.

R. R. R. is more in demand than when I wrote you last, and if the run continues upto the election, we will have to send off to Cincinnati for another supply. Some of our neighbors hope have had the cholera of late, and a little of the R. R. R. has in every case, proved efficacious. Quarter-of-a-dollar's worth killing cholera, why will it not also cure that other twin-sister malady, the Crittenden Mortshall-Greeley fever? Try it friends, you who have the chills, and the heathenish disease, for it will certainly do you good.

From your friend, LEWIS.

☞It has been reported that there were some deaths from cholera in Maysville last week.—Paris Flag.

There is no foundation for the report. There has not been a single case of Cholera here, nor of any thing like it. Maysville never was more healthy than it present.

AMALGAMATION MARRIAGES IN BOSTON.—The Boston matrimonial register shows that during the last year there have been no less than 1500 marriages between persons of your singular to say, they were all of white women with black or colored men; in no instance have a white man been registered as having married a negro woman, or a white ladies of Boston and there about have singular taste; certainly they seem to relish black bases, from all accounts, with regular gusto, and black or colored husbands are becoming a highly popular institution among them. Can anything prove more conclusively the growing degeneracy in public morality and decency, of pious, proper New England, than this horrible consequence, which strikes at the base of every thing like purity, and tends to obliterate every trace of nature? When women, the very guard of virtue and purity, stoops thus to degrade herself, preferring the wooly-headed sable lover, the degradation of mankind is necessary consequence must follow.—New York Dispatch.

☞Geo. QUITTEAU, died at his residence in Natchez, Miss., on Friday last.

THE EXPRESS.

MAYSVILLE, JULY 21, 1858.

NEW BUENEES HOUSE.—The opening of two extensive business houses in Maysville, within the last few weeks, speaks well for its prosperity. THOMAS & DORSEY are doing a land office business on Market street, as Grocery, Commission, Produce, Forwarding merchants; and W. R. TAPP & CO. have taken the large room adjoining the Drug Store of Messrs. STARTON, SHARP & Co., on Sutton street, but we do not know yet what business they intend to engage in.

THE LEE HOUSE.—This well known and very popular Hotel has been taken by Mr. A. M. TUDEMAN, who has refitted and refurnished it in the best style, and under whose excellent management, we have no doubt, it will more than sustain its former high reputation. It is to "gild refined gold" to speak in terms of praise of Mr. Tuffman. Under her charge, the old Goddard House established and maintained a reputation as a first cl. ss Hotel, second to that of none in the West; and its good name will be transferred to the Lee House, which will more than deserve it.

☞ Blessed are they who remember the printer, for they shall flourish as the green bay tree. Our neighbors, BROWN & BARNBURY, understand this, and act upon it, and hence they are prosperous and happy. The truth is, none but the best fellows in the world do "remember the printer," and those who do so are recognized every where as "natures noblemen." But it didn't require the excellent Ice Cream with which these gentlemen regaled the Express Office on Monday to prove that they were liberal, generous, whole-souled business men, for every person who ever dealt with them is willing to testify to that fact. We have heretofore commended them to the favorable consideration of the public; and we now advise every body who dont know them to become acquainted with them as soon as possible, and those who do know them to know-them better.

Indian War in Oregon—Col. Steptoe's Defeat Confirmed.

Some time since the public was astounded by a report that the Indians had attacked Col Steptoe's command in Oregon, and defeated it with serious loss. As the report was not well authenticated, we hoped it might prove incorrect; but the last mails leave no doubt of the fact. We give below an account of the battle, as it was furnished to the Oregon Times by an officer who participated in it. Among the killed, we regret to see is Capt. TAYLOR, a gallant soldier, who nobly fell in the discharge of his duty, leaving a young and devoted wife—the daughter of our esteemed fellow-citizen, J. C. Dawes—and two children, strangers in a strange land, to which they had followed their husband and parent only to see him meet a soldier's fate:

On Sunday morning, the 16th, on leaving camp, we were told that the Spokans had assembled and were ready to fight us. Not believing this, our march was continued until about eleven o'clock, when we found ourselves in the presence of six hundred warriors, in war costume. The command was halted for the purpose of having a talk, in which the Spokans announced that they had heard we had come for the purpose of whipping them out, and if that was the case they were ready to fight us, and that we should not cross the Spokan River. The Indians were well mounted, principally armed with rifles, and were extended along our flank, at the distance of one hundred yards. In some talk, the Colonel told us that we would have to fight, and we immediately put ourselves in position to move to better ground, determined that the Spokans should fire the first gun. And marching a mile we reached a sheet of water—it was decided to encamp and hold another talk with the Indians—Nothing resulted from this except the most insulting demonstrations on their part. We dared not dismount, and were kept in the saddle 4 hours, until the setting of the sun dispersed the Indians.

On Monday morning we left camp to return to the Palouse, marching in the following order. If company in advance, C in the center, with the packs, and E in the rear. At eight o'clock, the Indians began in great numbers about the rear of the column, and just at the advance year crossing a small stream they began firing. In twenty minutes the firing became continuous. Seeing that we must fight, and the action must become general, I wa ordered to move forward and occupy a hill the Indians were making for, and upon which they would have a close fire upon the head of the column. After a close race, I gained the hill in advance, on seeing which the Indians moved around and took possession of one commanding that which I occupied, leaving a few men to defend the first hill, and deploying my men, I charged the second and drove them off.

At this time the action was general; the three companies, numbering in all about one hundred and ten men, were warmly engaged with five hundred Indians. The companies were separated from one another some 50 yards, and fought entirely by making short charges. At eleven o'clock, I was reinforced by the howitzers, and the twecomp. Indians began to move toward the position I held, the Indians pressing closely upon them; As E company was approaching, a large body of Indians came between it and my company so that having it between two fires, they could wipe it out at once. Gatson perceiving this, moved quickly toward me, having the Indians close on his left, and when near me halted and I saw he was about to charge, I charged with H company. The result was, that our combined force, having the Indians in the right angle, in which angle we left twelve dead Indians.

After getting together, we kept up the fight for half an hour, and again started to reach the opposite hill; at this time we were distant and raking fire, under which our comrades Taylor and Gatson fell. We finally reached a hill upon the same ridge, and occupied the summit, and the Indians then moved completely surrounded it, we dismounted and picketed our horses close together in the center of the hill. Subsistence was then poured out from around the crest, making them lie flat on the ground, or the Indians were so close and so daring as to attempt to charge the hill, but although they were offering eight to one, they could not succeed.

Toward evening our ammunition began to give out, and we were compelled to work from third and fatigue, required all our attention to keep them up. To move from one point to another we had to crawl on our hands and knees, amid the howling of the Indians, the groans of the dying, and the whistling of balls and arrows. We were kept in this position until eight o'clock P. M., when, as night came on, it became apparent that on the morrow we must "go under," and that not one of us would escape. It was plain that our destruction was inevitable, we were completely surrounded by six or eight thousand Indians, and the most of them on points which we must pass to get away. Therefore it was determined to cut through the gauntlet, so that, if possible, some might escape. Abandoning everything, we mounted and left the hill at the o'clock, and, after a ride of nineteen miles, mostly at gallop, and without a rest, we reached Snake River, at Red Wolf Crossing, the next evening, and were met by our friends, the Nez Perces. We had two officers, five men, and three friendly Indians killed and ten men wounded; Sergeant Ball, of H company, missing. The Sergeant distinguished himself very much during the action, and we all hope he will yet come in.

Captain Taylor was shot through the neck, and Lieutenant Gatson through the body; they both fell fighting gallantly. The companies fought bravely, like true men. We begged out but seven of the horses, and these except about thirty, which were shot during the fight. The Indians made no captures. Before the battle was near over the Indians picked up nine of their dead. How many of them were killed is not known, but I can count fifteen. They acknowledge having forty wounded.

It will take a thousand men to go into the Spokan Country.

THE "ELIXIR,"

Prepared by DR. JAS. WILLIAMS, for the cure of DYSPEPSY, and nothing but DYSPEPSY, (as advertised in another column,) has, by its own merits, obtained for itself a high reputation in Philadelphia, that Physicians acquainted with its properties, are using it themselves and prescribing it to their patients, convinced, by observation, of its great efficacy in restoring the disordered digestive organs to healthy functions. Numerous cases of Dyspepsy, of the most aggravated character, which were abandoned as incurable by some of the Medical Faculty, have, by the use of this Elixir, been restored to perfect health, as testimonial certificates testify. COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

BEEF AND PORK SLAUGHTERING AND PACKING ESTABLISHMENT

FOR SALE!

The undersigned, as Commissioner appointed at the July Term of the Mason Circuit Court, in the suit of Sinclair Minnith, vs. Gurney & Dobson, et. al. will sell on the premises, at public auction,

On Saturday the 31st of July, 1858,

to the highest bidder, all that valuable and well arranged Beef and Pork Slaughtering and Packing Establishment, recently used by Messrs. Gurney and Dobson, in preparing Beef for the British Market. The establishment is conveniently located near the city of Maysville, within a few rods of the Eastern limits of the City, and is situated upon a lot fronting 500 feet on the Turnpike and running back to Limestone Creek. The buildings are large and commodious, were constructed with great care and contain a STEAM DRYER and every other apparatus necessary and good order for every detail of an extensive business. The establishment and all its appurtenances are the same complete for the purpose intended, of any in the State, and the location one of the best to be found anywhere.

To persons who desire to embark extensively in the Beef and Pork Slaughtering and Packing business, the sale of this property will afford a rare opportunity for obtaining a fine location, and an establishment complete in all its parts, and ready for immediate use.

ALSO, at the same time and place, a lot of Cooperage, Tierces, Barrels, &c. 500 Pickling hogsheads of the best quality.

Terms of Sale!

The Real Estate will be sold upon a credit of 8, 12, and 18 months, the purchaser, giving bond with Commissioner as Receiver, with good security, to have the benefit and effect of a stay of under execution, and a lien to be retained on the property to secure the payment of the purchase money. The personal property will be sold on a credit of 3 months, the purchaser giving like bond and security.

Any one desirous of examining the property before the sale, can do so by calling at the office of the Commissioner, Court Street, immediately opposite the Court House.

"Kentucky Harvester."

AS the Harvest is now approaching, I take pleasure in informing the farmers of Mason and the adjoining counties, that I have been appointed agent of the Manufacturers for the sale of the above superior Machines.

The following Testimonials have been awarded to this Machine during the Harvests of 1856-7.

First Premium as a mower, over Manny's Machine, on trial, before the Committee of the Kentucky State Fair. First Premium as a Reaper and Mower, over Manny's Machine, on trial, before the Committee of the Sixth Western Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Louisville, Ky. First Premium as a Reaper, over the New York Hub-Raking Reaper, the New York Self Raking Reaper, and Manny's Machine, at the Cincinnati State Fair, held in October, 1856. Also an extra Premium as a combined Reaper and Mower, over Manny's Machine at the same Fair.

The following splendid premium amounting to $450, the largest ever offered in the United States, were taken at St. Louis.

First Premium of $100—as a Combined Reaper and Mower, and $150 as a Reaper, by the St. Louis Agricultural and Mechanical Association, at their field trials, held at Kirkwood, in July last, in competition with the following Machines:

Atkins' Combined Reaper and Mower and Reaper, manufactured by John S. Wright & Co., Chicago.

G. H. Ruges' Square Draft Reaper and Mower manufactured at Ottawa, Illinois.

Manny's Combined Reaper and Mower, manufactured by W. N. & N. H. Purse, Ashley, Pike county, Missouri.

Easterly's Reaper and Mower, manufactured at Heart Prairie, Wisconsin.

Premiums taken at Eminence, Ky.

First Premium as a Reaper, over the Reaper, by the Union Agricultural and Mechanical Association, at Eminence Ky., in July last, on trial, in competition with ATKINS' COMBINED SELF-RAKER, and MANNY'S COMBINED MACHINE.

Premiums of Kentucky State Agricultural Society.

The Harvester was also awarded the handsome Premium, as a Combined Reaper and Mower, as Single Mower, by the Kentucky State Agricultural Society, at their appointed State trial, near Hendersonville, Ky., July 8th—the most appearing in competition.

This Harvester has proven itself to be beyond all question, the best Combined Reaper and Mower ever used, and has made a reputation never before enjoyed by any other Combined Machine in the South and West.

FINALLY—The strong points possessed by and claimed for the Kenty Harvester, over every other Reaper and Mower yet made, are, its great strength, simplicity, durability, lightness of draft, and freedom from side draft. These all important and essential qualities should fall to direct, at once, the attention of every intelligent farmer to a thorough inspection of the Harvester, before making any other Combined Machine in the South and West.

HOWARD ASSOCIATION,

PHILADELPHIA.

A Benevolent Institution established by special Endowment for the Relief of the Sick and Distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic Diseases.

THE HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sanual Diseases, and the miseries inseparable upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago, established the consulting Surgeon, as a CHARITY ACT worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of the class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give MEDICAL ADVICE GRATIS to all who apply by letter, with a correct statement of symptoms, (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.,) and in cases of extreme poverty, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE. It is necessary to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association, in their Annual Report, just published, speak of Sexual Diseases, for the year ending January 1st, 1856, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of the Consulting Surgeon in the cures of Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism or Self-abuse, &c., and offer a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

The Directors, on the review of the past, feel assured that their labors in behalf of Sexual Diseases, for the year ending January 1st, 1856, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of the Consulting Surgeon in the cures of Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism or Self-abuse, &c., and offer a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

The Directors, on the review of the past, feel assured that their labors in behalf of benevolent effort have been of great benefit to the afflicted, and they feel, in view of the past, they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important and much despised cause.

An abridged Report on Gonorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation, or Self-abuse, the consequence of sexual orgasm, by the Consulting Surgeon, will be sent by mail, in a sealed envelope, FREE OF CHARGE, on receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage. Other Reports and Lectures on the nature and treatment of sexual diseases, diet, dress, are constantly being published for gratuitous distribution, and will be sent to the afflicted. Some of the new remedies and methods of treatment discovered during the last year, are of great value.

Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. GEORGE R. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE.

I WISH to sell the farm upon which I now reside, containing about 200 acres, situated in Bracken county, Ky., one-half mile to the right of Maysville and Germantown Turnpike. About two hundred acres cleared and under a fine state of cultivation, balance is heavily timbered. Farm is under good fence and generally in good repair. It is also one of the best watered farms in Bracken county, having several never failing springs, and a fine pond of pure water. It is well adapted for a stock farm, or for the culture of corn, small grain, tobacco, &c.

Terms will be made easy. Persons desiring to purchase or further information will call upon me at my residence, or at the office of the Bracken House of Mitchell & Scholles, corner of Front and Wall streets, Maysville, Ky.

THE EXPRESS.

Gains and Losses.

Below, in some of his writings, expresses it as his deliberate opinion that no enjoyment of manhood, equals the joys of youth. Richard Henry Dana, in the following poem, gives a poetic form to the same truth, in the following lines:

There are times for all our longer
Life and death are balance'd well;
For every joy we lose in youth,
We gain in age, to make us amends;
For when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again.

We are wiser, and are better,
Under manhood's sterner reign;
Still we feel that something sweet
Has left the path of life behind,
And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain;
We behold it everywhere
On the earth and in the air,
But it never comes again.

A Remembrance.

Loving, laughing, wilful Kate,
Jocund, kind, fickle, sun we said
Was not vexed shall not sit by me,
And had made believe to fly from
Sister her first light bound, a curl—
A fragrant, glorious curl—I caught;
And so, with many a mock resistance,
Back my lovely captive brought.

Meeting, and provoking Kate
Blushed, and pouted, and frowned, were she sate;
And when I, for forfeit, kiss'd her,
Pettishness struggle to call—her sister;
But, when I kiss'd her sister, I ween
Disturbed her mother's twilight doze,
With dreamy, mischief-twinkling upturned eyes,
Said—I'd nearly crush'd her rose.

"I'm Afraid I've Told a Lie."

A little girl was Nelly Dawson; this she was seen in her face;

"Tought an evil feeling that's not true,
Ne'er made less beautiful the blue,
Unclouded heaven of her eye."

She was determined to speak the exactitruth, for she had been taught to do so. Her parents did not rely upon nature to give her sincerity, any more than to give wheat to their fields, or roses to summer's bright hour. Her mother did not deem it enough to insure good children to lather alone, and forbear to plant evil: she well knew that good must be planted, assiduously and nourished and cherished with tender care.

When Nelly was very little, she came one day, with a very sad face, to her mother, saying, "Mother, I'm afraid I've told a lie."

"Why do you think so, my dear?

"Because when Fanny asked me if there were any water for the boy, I said, I will let no; but when Nora went out to get some for tea, I went with her, and we found two beautiful ones on the ground."

"They were left after you were there?

I guess they were there, for they were under the leaves of the current bush, and I shouldn't have seen them if I hadn't been for Nora. Was it not wrong for me to say there were none there?

'Yes, it was wrong for you to say certainly there were none there, you should have said you thought there were none there; but it was not a lie unless you wished to deceive her.'

'I am very glad, then, but I am sorry to make mistakes; I suppose it is not quite right to make mistakes, is it?

No; you should think carefully; and it is very wrong to have a positive habit; a way of thinking that we cannot be mistaken.'

Thus, with the fear of falsehood as the greatest evil, Nelly's soul became the delightful spectacle, a mirror of truth; no crooked, indirect, and affected ways were here.—She knew that when she came into the spiritual world her lips could not utter what in her heart she thought not; and that thoughts and feelings are there seen in their true light, and all shams and disguises are here, by rending the spirit to the abode of the wretched.

Omnibus, Dray, Express, Stage, Cart, Farm and Wagon Drivers.

These and all others, who, in these hot, sweltering, killing days, have the care of horses, the following good advice should be read, and by them should not go unheeded:

We have a word to whisper in the ear of our drivers of horses and our fellow-sufferers in sweltering days. We would not speak in any spirit of fault-finding or dictation, but in simple, honest, earnest pity for the poor dumb brutes, who have your work for them, patiently and faithfully, but who have no power of speech to tell us when they are sick, or suffering, or overworked, or to appeal to us against our abuse and cruelty. There is something in this defenceless and forced silence of the poor animal that is telling in our service, and should be felt by every man who labors heavily whenever we see him overtasked, or otherwise maltreated. None of us know, because the silent, submissive sufferer cannot tell us, how often we are blind to her beyond his powers when he is out of health, or feels him inhumanly abuse the head or flanks for some fancied or fancifully-real fault he cannot avoid, or some occasional balking or sharp quickness, which may arise from weariness or distress.

We do have seen rough, coarse, heartless men jerk and swear at, and batter with the butt-end of the whip, or with any club they could lay their hands on, a poor mule or horse, which had failed in some effort too great for his strength, or exhibited trifling and natural sulkiness, into which he had been worked, and irritated by the cruelty, brutality of a stupid and bad-tempered driver. Scenes of the kind, which may be witnessed almost daily in our streets, are enough to make a very heart bleed. We beg those who are entrusted with the care and use of our draught animals, in this oppressive summer heat, to be forbearing, patient and kind, and not to drive remorselessly, when feelings to be hurt, strength to be exhausted by over work in the hot sun, but no freedom to rest may be given, and no kind, or merciful consideration of their weakness or their wants.

A Change of Sentiment.—Vermont has become tired of anti-slavery excitement; she has had too much of the good thing, and is now willing to take a little medicine from coming. Read the following from the Vermont Patriot:

What is to be done with this class of our population, is the question that has called forth lots of philanthropic and statesmen should be directed. The entering wedge to all action, is the immigration of some system by which it prevents the ill effects of the sudden introduction of colored persons into the free States. In other words, a log must be placed in the road to stop the immigration of blacks. This would prevent a large yearly increase of that class of population, which is hanging like a millstone around the neck of our Northern States. We think that the best way would be by fostering the colonization plan by all possible means, and the question, what shall we do with the free negroes of Vermont? is in a fair way of receiving practical solution.

NEW FIRM.

Brosee & Bertruff,

JOHN BROSEE and CHARLES BARTRUFF have formed a partnership, and will continue the business of Stove Mounting, at the old stand of John Brosee, on Second-St.

They are most respectfully solicited by the public the trade with all goods in their line at the lowest rates. They wholesale candies at 15 cents per pound, and retail at 20. They have just received a large stock of Rosaria, Almonds, &c. Their Fresh Lemon and Soda Fountains are the best extant, and they have for the accommodation of the public. They are prepared to charge Soda Fountains to order on reasonable terms. They are ready to supply them with Mineral Water in a few days.

Mr. Brosee thanks the public for the patronage they have so liberally bestowed upon the late firm of Brosee & Bertruff, and hopes by their strict attention to business and to merit, to receive a share of the same.

Dyspepsy, Indigestion, DYSPEPSY.

A MORBID sensibility of the stomach and digestive organs, attended with a disorder of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsy and its attendant ills such as Nausea, Headache, Vertigo, Dimness of Sight, Nervousness, Debility of the Nervous System, Hypochondria, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Wasting of strength, Flatulence, with frequent belching of wind, Vitiated Saliva, Constipation and uneasiness of the Bowels, Bilious Diarrhoea, Burning sensation at the pit of the stomach, Liver Complaint, Oppression after eating, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the pit of the stomach, or towards the right side, Sallowness of complexion, Depression of spirits, Irritability of temper &c. Have, in many cases, defied the skill, heretofore, of the best medical practitioners in the world, and many cases have been abandoned as incurable.

Dr. J. WILLIAMS, Chemist and Pharmaceutist, after studying closely the practice of Abernethy and J. Johnston, England, and observing the nature of the disease in all its stages, during a sojourn in the southern and western portions of the United States, where it prevails to a greater extent than elsewhere, particularly from South America, certain roots and herbs, from which he prepared an "Elixir," which, after eighteen years' use in private practice, has proved itself more efficacious in the cure of Dyspepsy, than any medicine that has been prepared in any age or any clime, for the same purpose.

Having submitted it, with an enumeration of its components, to a number of physicians of Philadelphia, among whom were the late Drs. Joseph Hartshorne and J. C. Morton, it has become the entire approval, and many of the Medical Faculty are now not only prescribing it in their practice, but are using it themselves personally, and in their families. As a tonic, it is unequalled, and its properties are so well invigorator a nature, that it is given with perfect safety and success to the most tender infants.

The "Elixir" is very gradual, but certain in its action upon the organs of digestion, the increased appetite will first appear, nauseous and noisome breathe of the stomach, and requires that only one dose be taken in twenty-four hours; for confirmed Dyspepsy can only be hurried by gradually restoring the organs of digestion to a healthy state. The patient must not wish in curing the most aggravated cases of Dyspepsy, accompanied sometimes with a high grade of hypochondriasis, has established the most unbounded confidence in the curative properties of this "Elixir" in corroboration of which, read the following testimonials:—

ATTESTATION.—We, having used Williams' "Anti-Dyspepsic Elixir" with the most perfect satisfaction and success, take great pleasure in recommending it to all persons suffering from Dyspepsy, as we are fully confirmed of its most unimable qualities in restoring the digestive powers, removing all pains, uneasiness, and imparting a healthy tone to the stomach.—

The list of names could be extended to almost any page, but the foregoing is considered sufficient.

Testimony of H. B. Sperry, who was abandoned as incurable and given up to die.

Dr. J. WILLIAMS—Dear Sir—For fifteen years previous to 1854, I suffered severe dyspepsia, so very, that I became completely prostrated, both in mind and body, and at length became so weakened, I could not attend to my business, and was sinking into a decline, and it was believed I never would recover; the best medical aid was sought for me, and every means resorted to without any relief, till Dr. Pain advised to use your "Elixir," from the time I began taking it, I gradually improved till I was completely restored to health.—I do not now feel suffering I endured at that time, I cannot describe; but I am confident that without the use of your "Elixir," I should be in my grave. I assert that I solemnly believe your "Elixir" has saved me from an early death. I remain yours in the enjoyment of most excellent health. H. N. SPERRY.

June 6, 1857. No 1104 N. Third-St., Philadelphia.

We, the undersigned, have known Mr. H. N. Sperry for several years, and take pleasure in stating that his assertion can be perfectly relied on, and that we ourselves know that he has been wonderfully restored to health from the brink of the grave, and we believe, as he asserts, solely by the use of Dr. Williams' "Elixir."

Testimonials might be adduced before you (one of the Aldermen of the City of Philadelphia,) H. N. Sperry, who, being duly affirmed, doth depose and say, that the facts set forth in the above certificate, are true in every particular.

Sworn and subscribed this 6th day of June, 1857,

Of all diseases, the first great cause, Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

SUFFER NOT!

When a CURE is guaranteed

IN ALL STAGES OF

SECRET DISEASES,

SELF-ABUSE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, STRICTURES, GLEETS, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS AND BLADDER, NERVOUS PAINS IN THE BONES AND ANCLES, DISEASES OF THE THROAT, NOSE AND SKIN, &c. &c. &c. ARISING UPON THE BODY OF LIMBS, CANCERS, BRONCHIAL SPLEEN, PAINS IN THE BONES, ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM A DERANGEMENT OF THE SECRETIVE ORGANS.

Such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, and Premature Decay, preceded before Eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Side, Pain in the back and head, Female irregularities and all improper discharges from both sexes. It matters not what the cause, or how long standing, or how severe long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a perfect cure can be affected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and ruined all their powers of cure. The medicines are pleasant without odor, coming and free from every thing injurious to health. During twenty years of practice, I have rescued from the jaws of death, many thousands, who in the last stages of the above mentioned disease had been given up to die by their physicians, which was the cause of sending to me the afflicted who may place themselves under my care, a perfect and lasting cure. Secret diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption. Scrofula and many other diseases, which should be kept from the family, as a permanent cure is scarcely ever attained, for which we are daily called into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, in the end, kills the sufferer into rapid scant nepitor

But when the disease has arisen from secret causes death speedily and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and are sickly, and are corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in Scrofula, Fever Sores, Blotches, Eruptions and Ulcerations of the skin, Eyes, Throat and Lungs, enabling upon them a brief existence of suffering, and finally consigning them to the grave.

SELF ABUSE is another formidable enemy to health. It has been the cause of the premature death of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system drawing its thousands of victims through a lingering life of suffering, death is a timely grave. It destroys the Nervous System, rapidly reduces the strong and healthy, to a mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all the joys of happiness, leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, fitting him for a premature grave. Many of these evils are to be dreaded than death itself. With the following cases, which are the results of Self Abuse that is permanent and speedy cure, can be affected, and with the abandonment of remedies, which are injurious to health, and a robust, vigorous health.

The prejudice entertained against the use of Patent Medicines, for there are so many impostors swarm in the columns of the public prints to deceive the public, and the public generally, which have their constitutions ruined by the vile compounds of the impostors, and the public prefer the nostrums vended as "Patent Medicines," have carefully analysed many of the so-called patent medicines, and find, that they are, in fact, contain Corrosive Sublimate, which is one of the most powerful mercurials, and is a deadly poison, which, instead of curing the disease, disables the system for life.

The prejudice entertained against the use of Patent Medicines, for there are so many impostors swarm in the columns of the public prints to deceive the public, and the public generally, which have their constitutions ruined by the vile compounds of the impostors, and the public prefer the nostrums vended as "Patent Medicines."

DR. ROBACK'S

ISLAND PURIFIER AND BLOOD PILLS

DISEASE VANQUISHED

Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Remedies.

AFTER years of study and experiment, Dr. Roback, the celebrated Swedish Physician, succeeded in producing a medicine from twenty-eight different species of mountain herbs of his native land, which will speedily root the cause of disease in the blood, and by restoring the corrupted humors to their purification of health, and purity, expels disease from the system, wherever it may be located, or whatever may be its character. Indigestion, nervous complaints, fever and ague, sore throat, bronchitis, fever and ague, asthma, low spirits, sexual incapacity, feminine weakness, prolapsus uteri, leucorrhœa, spermatorrhœa, rheumatism, neuralgia, tumor, cancer, diabetes, lassitude and debility, diarrhœa, and all other diseases of the organs of respiration, the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the nerves, or the muscular fiber, are thoroughly cured by this preparation. It is to the nervous world or seat of disease what an attack is to an aide: it neutralizes the virus with absolute certainty, while at the same time it regulates the secretions, removes obstructions from the bowels, creates appetite, renews bodily vigor, and regenerates every animal function. Such is the nature, such are the effects of Dr. Roback's Scandinavian Island Blood Pillers, which, if taken in conjunction with his Scandinavian Island Pills, will at once obliterate the most painful disease, but, prevent their recurrence, and laughing life beyond the ordinary span.

This is the CELEBRATED ISLAND BLOOD PILLS, Dr. Roback presents the result of twenty years of experiment, and of study and quiet research to what a perfect pill should be. No one can doubt their superiority after one single trial—for a few dollars invested in a single bottle, or half-bottle, or $5 per half-dozen; Scandinavian Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or five for $1.

Paxe, Miami County, Ind., Aug. 4, 1857.

Dr. C. W. Roback: I have received so much benefit from your Scandinavian Blood Purifier and Blood Pills, that I have thought it my duty, and it is to me a pleasure, to give you a plain statement of my case. I was for years afflicted with that bane of all comfort, and efficiency, as known to mankind, and I tried every all the so called remedies which I have used to cure myself of the disease, but found indeed that a melancholy catalogue. I also consulted with the best physicians I could hear of. I was induced to try your remedies, and I am happy to report to friend, and after using them a few days was greatly benefitted, and in a short time, but time is a month, I was entirely and permanently cured.—I was also afflicted with the most violent nervous headache, which I have also produced by a disordered stomach, for when my dispepsia left me, my headache left, and I feel much better in every respect than I have for ten years.

Very truly yours, JOHN S. HIGGITH.

From a Lady of Character.

LOUISVILLE, June 4, 1857.

Dear Doctor: Some time ago, I sent for one of your Pills, care of H. G. Card & Co., so I can get them next trip. Six weeks ago nothing could have convinced me that a female could live, or I could have relieved my obstinate chronic constipation, with laxative medicine. I told you so when I bought them, but I am bound to own that your Pills "kill the contract." Why, I have taken as many as six at a time, and have passed two or sometimes without effect and sometimes with two each effect; but I have no trouble with yours—they are just what I want.

Cincinnati, Friday, Sept. 4, 1857.

Dr. Roback—Dear Sir: I have been troubled with neuralgia or rheumatism for the past year and a half, and have tried your medicine, called the Scandinavian Blood Purifier, highly recommended by gentlemen with whom I am acquainted, I was induced to try it, and after using it I discontinued all other medicines. After using two bottles, I felt in effect very sensible of its strengthening power, I found myself perfectly cured.—You will allow me, therefore, to congratulate you upon making so valuable a discovery, and proving itself to be a worker of such wonders in the diseases of the human family.

GEORGE S. BENNETT,

Local Editor Cincinnati Daily Enquirer.

Enterprise, Clark County, Ohio, Sept. 1, 1857.

Dr. C. W. Roback—Dear Sir: I am now about 35 years of age, and have been afflicted with rheumatism and general nervous derangement with constant debility for the last 10 or 15 years, and have used almost every kind of "patent medicine," from which I have derived no benefit, also have tried a physician of the "regular" school of prose. I now feel thankful I have at length obtained a medicine which has given me relief. I have purchased two bottles your Island Blood Purifier and two boxes of Your Pills of Messrs. Reeves & Hardaway, Troy, agents for the place, which I have used. They have given me considerable relief. My limbs and feet have been greatly swollen but your medicines have reduced them to their proper size.

Very Respectfully Yours, WM. R. KING.

The above certificates and many others, can be seen at my office, or will be published in a few days, in my Family Medical Almanac, free, to any agents.

ATTENTION FARMERS!

THRESHERS & SEPERATORS!

WE Invite the attention of the Farming Community to our Improved Threshers and Seperators, for the present Season. This machine is well known to the Farming Community, and its excellence is so generally acknowledged, that we deem it unnecessary to say, that we have been satisfied by our liberal patronage in building them, aided by the suggestions of practical farmers, to add such improvements as our experience, we think, to any other machine now in use.

We have a Steam Thresher at depot at the Foundry of Mr. Joseph H. Dorst, corner of Second and Market Streets, Mayeville, Ky., where our Machines may always be seen, as also at our Manufactory in Aberdeen, Ohio. Mr. Black will give any information in regard to them that may be required.

Terms Cash. Our prices correspondingly low terms; and it is desirable that those having machines that need repairing should place them early in season. Machines will be received at Mayeville and delivered there free of charge.
