Miscellaneous Wishes.

A happy pair, in smart array,
By holy church united,
From London town in one day,
Set out, by love invited.

The wife was dull as dull could be,
So, (dreaming of no pun,) Unveth, (alas, if hope, my dear, that we May have a little sun.)

To which his bride, with simple heart,
Replied, ('twas nature taught her,)
"Well, I confess, for my part,
I'd rather have a daughter."

BEAR HUNT IN SPAIN.—The Memorial des Pyrenees has the following details of a bear hunt at Urdos, on the 20th ult:

Last evening about thirty hunters descended the side of the mountain of Borce, near this place, with joyous shouts and rolling fire musketry, in sign of joy. The bear which had managed to get rid of a bear which they had sought to kill during seven or eight years.—His track was discovered through the snow, which had latterly fallen on the mountains. Being pursued, and driven from under cover, he was fired on, and successfully hit by several hunters; but seven shots were not sufficient to bring him down.

At length he arrived where M. Lapedague was posted, and dared forward to devour him, when that gentleman discharged three balls into his mouth. The animal however still remained upon his feet, prepared to destroy his adversary. In the extremity, and in the impossibility of another fire, M. Lapedague was exposed to great danger, but he preserved his sang froid, and thrust into the bear's mouth his large iron-bound club, which was immediately shivered to pieces. Brought down at last by the bear, the hunter fell on his back, and could not defend himself with his hands and feet, and it seemed as if all was over with him, when three fresh shots were heard, and the animal fell dead."

THE FAST YOUNG LADY.—The fast young lady is one of the developments of female liberty. Young and handsome she is, of course, a full form of vitality. Darling and dashing, she a blossomed extravagant things, but youth and beauty lend such a charm to all she does that we are attracted more than is quite right for our prim propriety to acknowledge. From the very first, she is visited by no maiden blushes, and checked by no coy shyness, but boldly faces the world, and rushes into its embrace. She becomes known everywhere; she is at every ball of the season, and every party of the night. She is as familiar to the frequenters of Broadway as the Astor House. Her reckless dollys are on every tongue; how she was at six parties in one night; how she kissed young Ballinace in the ball-room, out-drank him in champagne at the supper table, and ambled one of his cigars on her way home;—is indefatigable in her coquetry; while revolving, in the arms of one beau, she will illuminate another by her bright glances; her hand will receive the warm pressure of a devoted admirer, while her little foot is busy in the intimate confidence with his rival. In the race with fashion she is always ahead. If red is the prevailing color, she will be seen in scarlet; if it is permitted to display the shoulders, she will reveal to the waist. Her daring spirit is always flying beyond the verge of decorum, and hovering in the dangerous neighborhood of vice.

"What's that horse out of?" said a fellow, with a view to quin a farmer's boy, who was riding an old horse which showed less blood than bone.

"Out of!"

"Yes, what's he out of; do you know?"

"Yes, I do."

"Of all, what?"

"Hide and tallow."

A VERSE WITHOUT AN E.—The following verse contains every letter in the English alphabet except E; which in general, is more frequently used than any other:

A jovial swain may sing his pain
And for his fancy wight
To quin in vain, for his most plain
That what I say is right.

A THOUGHTFUL FRIEND.—A gentleman who had been absent from home two years, says that the first one who came to congratulate him on his return was the tax-collector.

Birth on Dents.—Large plaids are most becoming to tall persons; the same may be said of flounced dresses for ladies.

The effect of tucks is to increase the height of a person.

Brown colors are becoming to persons of ruddy complexion. Generally speaking however, these colors are worn by elderly persons and those of mature age.

Large shoes allow the foot to spread; and tight shoes are uncomfortable. The effect of either is to increase the size of your foot.

As a general thing colored shoes are anything but elegant; even for the gayest party white or black satin is decidedly preferable.

Fancy colors are more becoming to persons of a sanguine temperament and florid complexion.

Those who are troubled with perspiration of the hands and feet, or with a greasy motion on the face, should know that flannel worn next to the skin increases the evil. Dampness, more important considerations may require its use.

To the ladies with light complexion, fair hands and pretty ankles, the delicate shades of blue are quite becoming; where the complexion is pale, buff or white should be preferred; and when dresses plainly will never be accounted fashionably. Next to plainness, is neatness of dress and taste, in the selection of colors.

A STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.—Some one recently threw a large mastiff dog into the Genesee river, near the Falls, at Rochester, New York. The Union says:—"So strongly was the sympathy of spectators excited in behalf of the poor brute, that money would have been freely given for his rescue; but that was impossible without a great risk of human life. But a few moments were occupied in calculating the chances of the dog. He resisted with much power the tide that bore him onward, but all to no purpose. He passed over the dam, rose to the surface, and struck out sagaciously for one of the piers of the railroad bridge. He did not reach it, but was taken swiftly over the Great Falls. The spectators, or some of them, hastened to get a view of the river below, all hoping that the dog would yet be saved from death. And they were not disappointed. In a few minutes after he went over he was seen to emerge from the boiling foam, at the bottom of the sheet, and strike out for the shore, which was speedily gained. The spectators breathed freer and welcomed the dog to the shore with shouts of joy."

"NO ACCOUNTING FOR TASTES."—Among the marriages recorded at the City Register's office, in Boston, Mass., within a few days, is that of a colored man of forty, to a white girl of nineteen.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.—A few days since, a couple were married at Jonesville, N. Y., who had attained, respectively, the age of seventy-two.

DAGUERREOTYPE AND MEZZOGRAPH GALLERY.

THIS is a question we are often asked—we will endeavor to give a short explanation. They are Daguerreotypes on paper, very like a Mezzotint Engraving, but possessing all the detail of a Daguerreotype on the Metalplate. They can be colored to represent a Miniature on Ivory, at a very small expense. By this process Daguerreotypes can be copied and enlarged if desired—they are perfectly durable—can be handled like an Engraving, and rubbed without the least injury. Persons wishing first or a dozen, can get them at much less cost than Daguerreotypes; and if they wish them colored, their complexion can be represented to life. The Mezzographic Portraits you can see in any light you place them, because they do not possess that Metallic glare of the Silver, which to many is a very great objection. They are light and portable—can be easily sent by mail to any part of the country, at a trifling expense—and all who examine them, pronounce them superior to Daguerreotypes. The plain, and many beautifully colored pictures, can be seen everyday at PORTER'S DAGUERREOTYPE AND MEZZOGRAPH GALLERY.

Mr. Porter being the only one working this new process in the city, he invites all who have not seen his pictures to call and examine for themselves—he feels sure they will please, and he will take a pleasure in showing and explaining all to them that they may wish to know.

West side of Market, Third street, Market street,

MAYSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

ARE now receiving and opening a various and extensive stock of CHINA, QUEENS and GLASS WARE, comprising a variety of styles, some of which are entirely new and very desirable. Their stock has been purchased entirely for cash from the agents of European manufacturers, residents in the Eastern cities, which fact, coupled with ten years' experience in the trade, of one of the partners, will enable them, as they confidently believe, to offer such advantages to buyers as have not heretofore been offered in this market. As an evidence of their sincerity in the belief, they now pledge themselves to duplicate any regular Cincinnati bill (wholesale or retail) without the addition of carriage; or any Philadelphia bill purchase, within the last year, with the usual allowance of cost of transportation, with the current rate of exchange added.

They invite the attention of country merchants, as well as of families, to their stock, and pledge themselves not to be undersold west of the mountains. They will warrant their goods and the packing, and hope, by strict attention to business, to receive their share of public patronage.

Mammoth.

The Mammoth Eagle Printing Establishment has been removed to the new building on the West side of Court Street, second door south of the corner of Second, and a few doors south of the Court House.

The mention of Providence to us as a people here seems so manifest and abundant during the last year, that cold and insensate indeed must be the heart that does not lift itself in gratitude and thanksgiving to the Giver of all good. Doubt must be the tongue that does not utter a syllable of obligation, and doubted must be the intellect that does not recognize the goodness of God in all the bounties and blessings with which our people are surrounded. Our fields are manifestly carpeted with grain and our mountains and valleys are covered with grass. The labors of the husbandman throughout all the broad land have been rewarded with abundant yield. "Peace is within our walls, and prosperity is our palace." The gloomy apprehensions of famine which but lately chilled our hearts, have passed away, the gaul nuisance coming in their stead that our barns and granaries will be filled even to overflowing. And then, never perhaps have we enjoyed such a universal exemption from pestilence as at the present time. Epidemical disease is a stranger in our midst. Health, abundance and prosperity greet us on every side, and when our exemption from war which is now scattering sorrow and tears and misery over Europe, is added, truly can it be said that "our cup runneth o'er." It would be impious to say that our deserts as a people are greater than those of other nations. It would be wicked presumption for us to congratulate ourselves with any conviction that we are better than those fair portions of the world which are drenched in blood and tears, or more worthy of heaven's protection than the scattered and persecuted races of the earth who are fast falling in their own tottering footsteps, and passing away. That we so largely participate the divine favor, should lead us to private and public acknowledgments of the unmerited blessings of a protecting Providence. It becomes every creature that is capable of gratitude, to make some suitable acknowledgments, for certainly we are entering upon a year of remarkable prosperity and extraordinary abundance, having already had a large foretaste of coming prosperity, enough to enable us to rejoice to some degree, the broken fortunes of the past.

We notice that in some States in our confederacy, days have been set aside a special occasion for thanksgiving, for the plenteousness of our fields, our exemption from pestilence, and our peaceful relations with all mankind. Such manifestations are but the spontaneous outbursts of a common gratitude, the natural acknowledgement of the creature to the Creator. We move in some of our States to be commended, and we would hope that our State would make the same sacred, public acknowledgment. It argues well. It shows that notwithstanding a spirit of gross materialism, with its studied exaltation of human pride and human presumption, there is still in the great heart of the nation some of that instinctive gratitude which directs the eye above, that humble sense of reliance upon Him who sends the "early and the latter rain," which was so becoming and beautiful a trait in what we call the earlier and better days of our Republic.

Cholera in Lewis County, Ky.

We heard, last week, of the ravages of Cholera in and around Rome, Ohio, some 24 miles above this point, on the River. We did not learn the number of deaths.

We now have heard that the pestilence has crossed the River, into Lewis county. Mrs. David Doyle and one child died this week, and three others of her children were down and would probably die. Mrs. Elijah Cox was dead; and a neighboring family, on Quick's Run, consisting of husband, wife and two children, were all dead, and none about to bury them. Other cases were in the neighborhood. The whole neighborhood is alarmed.

☞The rumor that Cassius Clay and John G. Fee had been killed in Rockcastle county, turns out to be false. The report reached Lexington; it was telegraphed to Cincinnati, and by that time was reached this city. No difficulty occurred where the speaking took place.

☞The advertisement of the Maysville Institute, in another column, announces some alterations in the principal and corps of teachers, and arrangements for greatly extending the advantages of the Institute as a boarding school. The corps, we understand, is now more complete and the facilities for a superior education greater, than ever before. Of course it will be well sustained.

☞We call special attention to the advertisement of the Concert on Tuesday evening next. We will refer to it again. We anticipate a rich treat from an able corps of professional singers.

For the Maysville Eagle.

Mr. Editor and gentlemen, on an invitation of a friend, I went to hear, by invitation, the pupils of the Academy, on Friday last, to hear the exercises of the pupils of the American party. His opening was handsome and eloquent, and he was getting fairly under waist, what promised to be an able and highly acceptable address, when he was called, when he was suddenly ill—the effect of an accident, in jumping from a buggy, on the morning of that day—and compelled to desist. Much regret was felt and shown at the misfortune which thus made him a sufferer and deprived the audience of a capital speech.

The crowd were determined to hear a speech, and called out Mr. Henry M Scudder, of this city, who spoke for about three quarters of an hour, in a manner so able and eloquent as to receive the most enthusiastic and repeated cheers. We did not hear his speech, but have heard the strongest encomiums pronounced upon it, for its clearness, boldness and fine reasoning, by citizens and strangers who were present.

Charming News Items.

Mixture of Letters from responsible correspondents.

MAYSLICK, July 26, 1855.

To the Editor of the Maysville Eagle:

As we are on the eve of a great and important election, important to Kentucky for the many issues in which she should feel an abiding interest, I take the liberty of trespassing upon private confidence for a few items of intelligence that may prove of some interest to the readers of the Eagle. Finger-boards direct the stranger to poin a unknown to him, and "strews show which way the wind blows."

Judge Giff in a note to Jno. R. Runyon, Esq. dated Mt. Sterling, July 23d, reports Capt. Cox's probable majority at 1350 in the district.

Harry Daniel and Thomas Hazlerigg, the avowed champions of Sag Nicklam, have gone to the mountains, to make speeches against "Sam." Would it not be well for us to send Senator Wadsworth, or Wm. P. Cornell, Esq., to Morgan and Bath, to meet the Anties in that region?

A letter from one high in authority, dated Frankfort, July 25th, reports the numerical strength of the American order in Kentucky at 100,000!

Morehead, the gallant and chivalrous Morehead, is in fine spirits. He has met the enemy and made them cours. Clarke will be demolished before they close, and what is left of him the people will finish! Our accounts from all quarters are cheering. The everlasting Pritchie is making Sag Nicklam quake in its shoes, wherever he goes. Gen. Jno. M. Harlan, son of the Attorney General, is astonishing everybody with his eloquence. Gov. Chittenden has taken the field, Col. Bim is rolling the ball, and Gov. Metcalfe is putting in some vigorous "stone hammer" blows for the obliquitous and irregular "Sam."

A letter from Newport says: "Our armor is bright. Our weapons are in order. We are prepared for the fray. We have considered all the issues at stake, and have firmly resolved to strike for freedom, justice and right." Morehead is emphatically the people's favorite, and we predict for him a more brilliant victory in August than ever decked the brow, in times past, of Kentucky's champions and distinguished favorite s.

Our prospects never wore a more pleasant aspect than at this time. We have no fears of the issue, with its continually increasing triumphs, which are coming to us from every direction, and by every mail; and sincerely hoping, now that the best interests of our country are in the hands of those who will not betray them, that we may by no means compromise our own success in any manner whatever, I remain yours, in the faith, purity and integrity of the American cause,

JNO. B. HERNDON.

The examination of these Schools closed June 27th and 28th.

The position high position of Rev. R. McMurdy, as an educator, was fully sustained, and Mr. Warner has placed himself in an elevated situation as a successful teacher and is a valuable acquisition to the community.

The morning of Wednesday was chiefly occupied by the examination of the Junior Classes, and the afternoon by the examination of the young gentlemen.

While it was evident that Reading, Orthography and Chirography were not neglected, the demonstrations in Mathematics and the Readings in Latin have been a seldom exciting. Congratulations were repeatedly given by the delighted auditory, that the want of a first class Male School, long felt in the community, had been supplied; so that what has been done and is doing for young ladies, may also be done for our young men. The orations were entirely original and were highly applauded. The following was the programme:

John E. Walton—Romanism vs. Knowothingism.

Chas. A. Bingers—Try.

Thos. L. Best—Formation of Character.

Isaac R. Best—Character of Andrew Jackson.

George Forman, (Maysville)—Coming events cast their shadows before.

Frank L. Kendrick, (Chillicothe, Ohio,)—Napoleon Bonaparte.

Edward B. McMurdy—What should be our aim?

Jno. C. Kirk—Where the Dead is will, there is dck.

Jno. N. Gallcher—America's Fate.

R. M. Peck—Thomas Pathetical to Glory.

Rev. R. McMurdy, A. M. the valedictory of the young ladies of the Female Department commenced with a class of Analysis in Young's Night Thoughts, and was followed by classes of young ladies in Chemistry, Botany, English History and Punctuation.

On Thursday, P. M. the classes in French Composition, Natural Philosophy, Mental Philosophy and The Fine Arts, acquitted themselves in a manner to call forth the admiration of an overflowing audience. The Graduating Class, six in number, sustained themselves nobly.

Their Essays were as follows:

Miss Kate Owens—R view of Ruth Hall.

Miss Fanny Best—Intellectual Culture.

Miss Mary Brownsiro—Review of the Lamplighter.

Miss Phebe Forman—Review of Life in Kentucky.

Miss Sarah Claybrooke—Review of Beauchesne's Life of the Dauphin of France.

Miss E. P. Curtis—Review of Home Influence.

The talent, manifested by these Essays, and the charming manner in which they were pronounced, were highly appreciated and produced a happy effect.

On Thursday night, before the time of commencement, the house was filled in every part, and numbers went away for, want of accommodation, thus testifying to the popularity of the school and the high regard for Mr. McMurdy and his associates.

The order of exercises for the evening was as follows:

1. Quadrilles, played by twelve hands on three pianos.

2. An original Colloquy.—subject, Hard Times—spoken by three young ladies.

3. A Cantata—The Four Seasons—in which this large female college appeared to fine advantage.

4. Proceedings of the A'umna.

5. French Salutatory—by Miss Brownsiro.

6. History of the School—by Miss Owens.

7. Latin Valedictory—by Miss Curtis.

8. English " by Miss Forman.

9. Degrees conferred upon the Graduates, and address by Rev. R. McMurdy.

10. Parting Hymn, composed for the occasion, and Benediction.

Music, under the direction of Mrs. Palmer; by the young ladies, principally of the school, and exclusively, was interspersed among the various exercises. All the exercises for the evening were unusually interesting and entertaining. The salutatory in Latin, the Valedictory and the English Valedictory were prepared, read and received, must plead our excuse for making an extract or two from each.

Miss Owens says in the History: "When we recall the past and bring to mind its many events, we would notice one in particular, and that is the prosperity of our Institution,—prosperity, so unexpected as it is marked and general, having exceeded the most sanguine expectations of its most zealous advocates, and warmest friends. This increased prosperity, under all the circumstances, must be regarded as a sure token that our beloved institution has taken a deep and permanent hold of the affections and sympathies of the people." Our institution is not of that fluctuating character so common in this part of our community, but is a regularly incorporated institution, long and favorably known for their literary attainments and high moral worth. The President of our Board of Trustees, the Hon. Adam Beatty, is a gentleman of the most sterling integrity and high moral worth, one who enjoys the unbounded confidence of the entire community, who has ever manifested the most commendable zeal in the purpose of science and will stands high as a scientific contributor to various literary periodicals of the day.

Besides several highly intelligent gentlemen in this vicinity, we have the Hon. Garrett Davis, Rev. Dr. Burr, of Portsmouth, Ohio, Rev. Mr. Berkeley of Lexington, and Rev. Mr. Crane of Louisville. With such an intelligent and able Board of Trustees, and such an efficient and faithful corps of Teachers, why should we not expect the future to be even more prosperous than the past?

The Valedictory was highly applauded. We make but one extract:

"And our much beloved Principal, it is to you, before we leave this Institution, that we must turn and say the parting word. Ever will up and passes of the many valuable lessons you have taught us,—the kind advice we have received, by which we may always profit,—the religious and moral teachings, we intend to use we would never accomplish, and which were only performed by following your advice and instructions. May our future course be an exemplification of these teachings, and show that we have profited by the superior opportunities we have enjoyed while under your care. We feel that you will ever hereafter be sure of a place in the kind, faithful teachers, the esteem and affection of all those who graduate from your Institution. And we, who have been so many years under your care, who have grown up under your fostering care, we bid you farewell, without expressing our heartfelt gratitude for your watchful care and truly parental guidance; and, begging you to accept our best wishes for your prosperity and happiness,—we bid you a sad yet tender farewell."

On motion of Miss Galleher, voted: That if any sister Alumnæ be prevented from attending the next annual meeting, she is hereby requested to send a communication to this Association.

On motion of Miss Lizzie Owens, voted: That the Graduates commended to the graduates, the postponement of the period of their leaving school to the remotest possible reasonable period.

LUCY LASHBROOKE, President.

Anne H Burr, Secretary.

The largest audience ever assembled in Washington upon such an occasion, from every part of the country, separated in fine spirits, and with the full and enthusiastic determination, that as institutions and gentlemen so important to the welfare of the community and the young, should be well and permanently sustained. The scholars, through the year, we learn, exceeded in number One Hundred. The classes in the Latin, Greek, French and German languages, in Music, in Mathematics, and in the higher English Branches, were unusually large. The prospects for an increase the next year are flattering beyond those of any previous year. We learn that the Rev. R. McMurdy has left for an Eastern tour in connection with the interests of the School, and that Mr. Warner will remain in Washington during the vacation.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.

Correspondence of the Maysville Eagle.

Prairie Country.

R. H. Collins, Esq.,

Dear Sir:—In my last letter I gave you an outline view of the prairies from the Neches river to the main Trinity river, a distance of about 70 miles from South East to North West, and in fact it was a mere outline of the appearance only. The prairies here, as in the Great West, are covered with the grasses peculiar to them, and look much like extended meadows, only differing in the greater variety of their flowers, which are very numerous, and under the intense drouth of this season, exhibit a very considerable and delightful variety, giving many hues of color in the morning or evening sun that cannot be represented in the prairies of this, more than of any other country. I have ever been in, the refraction of the rays of light give the distant prairie an apparent elevation of many feet, and occasionally seem to fix you in a vast amphitheatre, the ground seeming to be higher in every point than where you are standing. Objects at a distance also appear much larger than they really are, the refraction and the reflection of the rays of light magnifying objects so much that one unaccustomed to this prairie will be often deceived, and take an insignificant wagon or other object for one much larger and more important. I remember to have seen at a distance of a mile and on a slight elevation above me, a two horse wagon with three persons in it, and following on horseback, with two or three colts, and I believed for some time that it was a large caravan of Indians. Such deceptions are common until you become used to looking at objects in the prairies.

The first prairie, for a distance of 20 to 30 miles in width from the Neches river, is level as the Neches river West, are not so rich as those intervening a line about midway the Kingsborough or great prairie, and the cross timbers, 30 miles West of the main Trinity River from the town of Dallas in Dallas county.

The first are, however, very rich, and produce fine crops, and will be selected by many in preference to the latter, on account of one grand peculiarity of the soil, in not being waxy and adhesive when wet as in the black lands on either side of the Trinity river. The soil in this first district of prairie is dark mulatto, with a slight amount of sand, that seems to destroy the adhesive quality, and makes it less productive in a drouth. The prairie here is inclined to hold water more than in the black prairie lands, on account of the subsoil being more of the white and yellow clay formation, consequently the beds of limestone are more much muddy, and pools of water stand longer than in the waxy lands where the dark, rich loam rests on the white soft limestone, that takes it up and passes it off more rapidly.

On the West side of 12 Mile, or what by many is called Bruton's prairie, the first limestone formation occurs, and is found in a deep strata, which has never been fully penetrated, intermixed with beds of pure sand. This immense vein of limestone formation is from 3 to 6 miles in width, passes from below Dallas and starts in the neighborhood of Fort Towson, and crops out heavily on the Red River in that region, about 15 degrees East of North, and runs parallel with the Trinity, through Texas, the State of Texas, crossing the Colorado river below the city of Austin, and continues South about 15 degrees West. This astonishing vein of pure bed blue and gray limestone, as I said, is mixed with very pure beds of white sand, and yields the purest of hard limestone water abundantly in 10 to 25 feet deep.

The geological formation of this country, is shell and secondary growth, of marine deposite. The rock makes the best of yellow limestone, and abounds in it almost universally extending in width as it descends on each side, and runs in a zigzag course, keeping the same general direction, and is covered on each side as it descends into the earth with soft marine formations. It is generally covered with a pretty good growth of timber and might be properly termed the Eastern cross timbers.—

There is a similar geological formation, if not entirely like it, passing through portions of Indiana, Illinois, the Southwest of Kentucky, and the Eastern part of Arkansas, and has the general course of this, but with probably more interruption. The stream of limestone is the first found after crossing the Neches River, and consequently most of importance to persons on the Eastern part of Texas and Western Louisiana they will still be well supplied from this bed with lime, and will be of immense advantage to this entire country, as the lands will have to be resuscitated and improved by it, as they will shortly fail, and the country become a waste, so far as agriculture is concerned, without it.

The formation, East and West of this, underlying the dark and tarry lands, termed the Wheat country, and also throughout the East Eastern Texas and Western Louisiana, on the upper Red River, (leave a few interruptions in Rusk, Cherokee, Smith, and a few other counties, where the Iron ore, and Iron sandstone makes its appearance, parallel to the blue and grey limestone formation, and is lost in the gulf of Mexico. I am of impression, that a similar strata, but abounding more in Iron ore, extends through Indian, Kentucky and Tennessee. The cross timbers set on the same formation, and is a continuation of the high mountains of Missouri, is a clay and lime with some silicious matter in it, and is much like marl formations, though it is composed chiefly of clay, and is, therefore, generally called a soapstone formation. What is termed the white limestone, differs from the latter in its composition and formation, being more recent, overlying the blue or grey wax stone, and being one of the cretaceous and marine, and less of the argillaceous formation. This peculiar rock, for such it may be styled) abounds in Red river, and many other counties of this State, passing through the West of Red river, and part of Lamar, south of Fannin, north of Hunt, Northwest of Kaufman, Collin, Dallas, Denton, Parker, Ellis, Navarro, and through to middle and Western Texas, possible as far as San Antonio. This formation makes what is termed the Cross Timbers District, and it gives that peculiar black and adhesive quality to the land, which has caused it to be termed the tarry, and waxy lands of Texas.—This formation lies very generally level, and is not primitive, and therefore not so solid as the grey lime stone formation. It crops out on the banks of streams, creeks and branches, looking often as white as the chalk banks of England, and comes up immediately under the black soil of this district and seems to feed by a gradual hardening of the surface particles under the influence of the seasons, and keeps the earth literally full of fine invisible lime stone particles, and here and there they are distributed in pieces visible to the eye, thus furnishing an impure limestone readily dissolved by the elements, that will feed the earth for ages to come. In fact, ages will not consume it, and therefore can never impoverish the lands of the prairies of this peculiar region of Texas. They cannot be exhausted by ages of cultivation. The rock is very soft and may be whittled with a pen-knife and reading as a pine stick, without raping or materially dulling it. It is hewn with the axe, and sawed into any shape by the aid of a common saw, or other instrument. The most beautiful chimneys I have ever seen in my life, are constructed of it.

The blocks are readily quarried (long quilt sawing across the grain, and splitting, generally from East to West) and then sawed into the form and size desired, and then dressed off with a plane, such as is used for dressing wood, and is then made as even and as smooth as can be desired, and then with ordinary lime cement is placed on to the chimney or building. The State House at Austin, I believe, is constructed of it, and churches are now being built with it. The better qualities of it are said to be durable. I have examined it closely, and it seems to withstand the effects of fire as well as the grey lime stone of Kentucky, and does not scale or pulverize under the influence of the weather, when arranged in the buildings as it laid in the bed or quarry.

It makes an impure, and therefore a weak lime; but I am informed it may be used in ordinary work, though it need to be good for plastering, being too much clay and possibly a little magnesium in it.

This geological district extends to the cross timbers West of the main Trinity river, and is peculiar in soil and productions, growing the Bois d'arc or Osage Orange, Pecan and other flowers, which by no means common in the other vast prairie regions of the country.

The beds of branches and creeks in this district are covered with the small fragments and particles of this impure limestone, (by many called "rotten lime stone,") and give a beautiful contrast with the sluggish and very muddy streams of Western Louisiana. The branches and creeks are run off rapidly and afford a very pure and, limpid water, without any mud or vegetable debris remaining to cause sickness, and the banks and bottoms of the smaller streams being entirely free from the swamps or even damp or marshy places. I have never seen branches or bottoms so entirely clear from mud holes and other disagreeable points of dampness in any country. In the white limestone formation, neither have I ever seen the water in branches, in so dry a season, so limpid and pure. The water in a soft limestone, taking much less soap in washing than in the limestone regions of Kentucky.

The springs in this region are abundant, and many of them are very fine, containing an amount of water; many strong enough to run a saw or grist mill the entire year in ordinary seasons. I have examined one on 10 mile creek in Dallas county, on which is now located a carding factory, capable of running it the most of the year. There are an unusual number of large fine springs in this district. The water is generally procured in from 10 to 40 feet, the average depth being about 30 ft.

On the highest prairie in the Southern part of Dallas county I visited one of the finest wells I have ever seen. It was 30 feet deep, and although there has not been in this neighborhood a good rain for more than a year, there is in this well 15 feet of water, supplying all of the stock on the farm, and furnishing all used by three or four neighbors! But in some high prairies water has not as yet been procured, though I have seen one here in a well over 40 feet, and my impression is, that water may be obtained in abundance in all or any part of this district of geological formation by going deeper, say 50 or 60 feet. The wells do not have to be walled in this region, the walls or sides standing firmly. After passing through the black superstratum of earth, from 4 to 12 feet, the white rock is generally penetrated, and after passing it in various depths from 1 to 30 feet, the blue clay and soap stone formation is entered, and is continued with various shades and degrees of solidity for a great depth. Only one well that I have heard of in this formation, when the hard blue limestone has been penetrated, five miles West of Dallas on the county seat of Dallas county, which is said to be only 35 feet below the surface. My information is that the rock in that well is hard and that it is pure blue limestone. I will here mention that there is another stream of gray limestone in this State, equidistant between the lower or middle and upper or Western cross timbers, which is said to be more extensive than the Eastern stream.

The prairie country of the white limestone formation is certainly as pretty and delightful to look upon as any open country region of earth can be. The prairies are generally high and rolling, very dry and beautifully drained, extending for miles in one continued series of ridges, divided by beautiful meadows of grass, with rivulets and larger streams, extending very generally literally into them from the main streams of the country, and there crossed and segmented again by lesser streams at right angles with them, with their banks lined with the larger or lesser timber of the country, seated entirely below the high summits of the opposing prairies, giving the breezes of the Gulf a clear sweep that invigorates and refreshes both animate and inanimate nature as they pass rapidly away to the North.

As I said before, I shall attempt to describe the lands in a private, and I hope to be guilty of the folly of attempting to describe that which is more beautiful still, but which cities all to come and see which is beyond description.

The Crimean News.

The latest intelligence from the war is contained in the following dispatch from General Simpson, dated July 4th:

"Nothing of importance has occurred since my last. The French works on the right are going on well. The health of Gen. Eyre is re-established."

The telegraphic dispatch from Halifax mentioned that 5000 Russians had penetrated into the suburbs of Sebastopol, and held a strong embrasure at the Russians. The following account is given of this affair:

The correspondent of the Times asserts that four companies of the 18th at sally succeeded in getting possession of the suburb. Captain Hayman was gallantly leading on his company when he was shot through the knee. Captain Esmonde followed, and the men, once established, prepared to defend the houses they occupied. As they drove the Russians out, they kept pelted with large stones, and they let out their way up to the battery, which quite confounds the suburb. The Russians could not depress their guns sufficiently to fire down on them, but they directed a heavy flanking fire upon them from an angle of the Redan works. There was nothing for it but to keep up a vigorous fire from the houses, and to defeat the enemy into the hollow where the occupiers were more numerous than they were. Meantime the Russians did their utmost to blow down the houses with shell and shot, and fired grape incessantly, but the soldiers kept close, though they lost men occasionally, and they were most materially aided by the fire of the regiments in the camp behind them, which was directed at the Russian embrasures; so that the enemy could not get out to fire down on the houses below.

Some of the houses were comfortably furnished. One of them was as well fitted up as most English mansions, the rooms full of furniture, a piano, a drawing-room, and articles of luxury and taste not definable. Our men unfortunately found that the cellars were not empty, and that there was abundance of fine sweet wine from the Russian cellars in the Crimea, and of the stronger wines perfumed with roses and mixed with fruits, which are grown in the interior, in the better sort of houses. Some of the soldiers drunk, they went away, carried off articles of clothing and papers as proofs of their entrance into the place, and some others took a way pigeons and guinea pigs, which were tame in the houses. The troops entered the place about four o'clock in the morning, and could not leave until nine o'clock in the evening. The Russians blew up many of the houses and set fire to others, and when our men retired the flames were spreading along the street.

When the men retreated, overwhelmed by the storm from the enemy's battery, several officers and men were left behind wounded, and endured fearful agonies for hours without a cup of water or a cheering voice to comfort them. Lieutenant Ermiston lay for five hours under the shattle of the Redan, and was reported dead, but he watched his opportunity and got away with only a concussion of the knee. Mr. Kennedy, senior mate of the London, and of the Naval Brigade, was also left behind, close to the abattis, and, after several hours of painful concealment, he rolled himself over and over like a ball down the declivity, and managed to get into the trench. Lieutenant Kidd came in all safe, and receiving the congratulations of a brother officer, when he saw a wounded soldier lying in the open space. He at once exclaimed, "We must go and save him!" and leaped over the parapet in order to do so. He had scarcely gone a yard when he was shot through the breast and died in an hour after. Only three officers came out of the action untouched.

A letter from the camp gives the following pleasant account of affairs:

One must rise here not with the lark, but with the blue bottle and other flies, or else, at the risk of being shot or bayoneted, envelope one's head, face, and neck in a thick pocket handkerchief—a couple, if at all possible—in order to be unconscious of their perigrinations. But that is not all, you must have your one's bed at night jump in and out of your little pure and pans, make trenches in Dutch and Gruyere cheeses, and ambushes in loaves, and for their great pains get sometimes drowned in your scanty store of water, generally brought, with no little trouble, from a not inconsiderable distance. The gratification at such a choice of their labors is very much diminished by the loss of the invaluable liquid.

News, which has been cannonaded by the allied fleets, is a small fort in the Gulf of Finland, 140 kilometers (about 87½ miles) southwest of St. Petersburg. A disastrous sowetie for Russia is attached to this town; as it was there that in 1700 Charles XII, at the head of 9,000 Swedes, defeated 60,000 Russians, commanded by Peter the Great.

From the 24th of September, when the camp was first established before Sevastopol, until the 23d of November—a period of 60 days—Lord Raglan, as is evidenced by a private diary kept by one of his aids, made no less than 46 personal inspections of the lines.

Great Rowing Match in Boston Harbor.—An exciting rowing match, witnessed by several thousand persons, came off on Wednesday at Boston, between the eight-oared gigs, Maid of Erin and T. F. Meagher, resulting in favor of the former. The distance was nine miles—three times out and back. The time made by the former was: first round, 29m. 42s.; second, 23m. 01s.; third, 28m. 51s.—making the entire distance in 67m. 34s.

What a Change.—In the year 1788, eight hundred acres of land, the present site of Cincinnati, were purchased for five hundred dollars. The value of that same land at the present time can scarcely be estimated.

Our Minister to France.—The Richmond Enquirer learns from a Virginia friend who passed three months with Judge John Y. Mason in Paris, that his mind is as strong as it ever was, and his body but slightly affected. Moreover, letters from him family received by the very latest steamer, give us the agreeable assurance of his continued improvement.

A horrid murder took place in Boston on the 16th, by a Swede named Peter Brown, on the person of his wife, an Irish girl. The weapon with which the fiend committed the deed was a three-cornered file, the edges of which had been ground down to a sharp point. The murderer is in custody, and acknowledges the deed.

A convention of railroad men was held at Buffalo on Wednesday and Thursday, and all the main roads were represented. The Erie delegates withdrew, and the rest adopted resolutions, among others to do away with all runners, handbills, posters, &c., so as to lessen expenses.

Hemp—The St. Louis Republican says:

Dispatches from the points on the Missouri mention that the growing crop has suffered materially from various causes, and the prospect of an average crop is much lessened. Sales at the levee of 300 to 400 bales ranged from $100 to $110.

Mr. Joe D. Harbin, Superintendent of the Southern telegraph, arrived yesterday P. M., at the Burnett House, en route to Maysville.

The Official Vote of Virginia.

The following is the official vote for Governor of Virginia in all but seven counties:

For H. A. Wise.	79,951
For Thos. S. Flourney,	69,878
Majority for Wise,	10 073

The majority for McComas for Lieutenant Governor in the same counties is 12,023, and for Sawyer for Attorney General 11,929. The six counties to be heard from gave Wise a reported majority of 63. The vote of the whole State, as above given, and including the six counties not included in the list, is for Wise 83,355, for Flourney 73 290—making the very large aggregate of 156,575.

The diggers in Australia have been lately cheered by the finding of several considerable nuggets.

The most remarkable nugget found of late deserves some notice. It was taken out of an abandoned hole. "It been several pick marks, showing that every tool for the prime former workers of the hole must have been. It weighs 64 pounds, is quite free from quartz, and is nearly pure. Its value in London will exceed £4 per ounce, or £4,000. In the old days here would be described as that of a "damper" or, what our readers will understand better that of a bonanza. Brothers would call it an enormous button of nearly pure gold.

The population of Australia is 236,798; males 166,888, females 80, 912.

"I am happy to say of your CATHARTIC PILLS, that I have found them invaluable in my family for many years, when any other within my knowledge. Many of my friends have realized similar benefits from your pills, and I feel in duty bound to do all in my power to make my fellow-citizens acquainted with the fact, that these pills are the most powerful and yet safest cathartic now in use. They are not only efficient but safe and pleasant to be taken, qualities which make them valued by the public, when they are known."

The venerable Chancellor WARDLAW writes from Belmont, 15th July, 1854:

"Dr. J. C. AYER—Sir: I have taken your Pills with great benefit for the complaint of the liver, dyspepsia and Bilious headache, which has of late years overtaken me in the spring. I do not know that any other pills I have used your Cherry Pectoral many years in my family for coughs and colds, I consider the Pills as the make medicines which cure, and I feel it a pleasure to commend you for the skill and perseverance with which you have brought your medicines to perfection."

JOHN P. BRATTY, Esq., Sec. of the Penn. Railroad Co., writes:

"Sir: I take pleasure in stating my testimony to the efficacy of your medicines, having derived very material benefit from the use of both your Pills and Cathartic Pills. I am never without them in my family, nor shall I ever consent to be without them while they continue to be the widely renowned S. S. STEVENS, M. D., of Wentworth, N. H., writes:

"Having used your CATHARTIC PILLS in my practice, I certify from experience, that they are an invaluable purgative. In cases of Costiveness, Derangement of the liver, causing headache, indigestion, costiveness, and the great variety of diseases that are produced by the liver, they are unequalled by any other. In all cases where a purgative remedy is required, I confidently recommend your Pills as the best pills, as superior to any other I have ever found. They are safe in their operation, and perfectly safe in all cases, which make them an invaluable article for public use. I have for many years known your Cherry Pectoral as the best Cough medicine in the world, and these Pills are in me also imported the same advantageous results in the treatment of diseases."

Boston, Ms., Nov. 25, 1853.

"Dr. J. C. AYER—Dear Sir: I have been afflicted from my birth with costiveness, which has been, and still is, after twenty years' trial, and an untold of amount of suffering, have been completely cured by the use of your Pills. With such feelings of rejoicing I write, can only be imagined when you realize what I have suffered, and how long.

"Never until now have I been free from this loathsome disease in some form, and now it is already three weeks, and made me almost blind, besides the unendurable pain; at another time it would be the piles, which has destroyed my hair, and has kept me partly bald all my days; sometimes it would be the Tetter, which has for months a tray sore.

"About two weeks ago I commenced taking your Cathartic Pills, and now am entirely free from the complaint. My eyes are strong, my skin is clear, and my hair has commenced a healthy growth; all of which makes me feel already a new man.

"Hoping this statement may be the means of conveying information that shall be of value to others, I am, with every sentiment of gratitude, Yours, &c., MARIA RICKER."

"I have known the above named Maria Ricker from her childhood, and her statement is strictly true.

ANDREW J. MERRYE,

Overseer of the Massachusetts Glass Manufacturing Co."

CAPT. JOEL PRATT, of the ship Marion, writes from Boston, 20th July, 1854:

"Your Pills have cured me of a long and severe Costiveness, from which I suffered the first year I went to sea, which was so severe as to make life a burden. I had tried every remedy I could try, but to no effect. I tried your Pills have completely restored me to health. I have given them to my children, who have found the same effects. They were promptly cured. I recommended them to a friend for costiveness, which had troubled him for months; he told me in a few days they had cured him. He says he never knew what it was to be well, and he has to say so."

Read the testimony of the distinguished Solicitor of the Supreme Court, whose brilliant abilities have made him well known, not only in this but the neighboring States.

Washington City, 5th Feb., 1854.

"Sir: I have great satisfaction in asserting you that my wife and family have been greatly benefited by your medicines. My wife was cured two years since, of a severe and obstinate cough, by your CHERRY PECTORAL, and since then, has enjoyed perfect health. My children have several times been cured, from attacks of the influenza and Croup by it. It is an invaluable remedy for these complaints. Your CATHARTIC PILLS have entirely cured me from a dyspepsia and costiveness, which has grown upon me during the last twelve years, and is more important, from the fact that I had failed to get relief from the best Physicians of this city, and from the costly effects, and from any of the numerous remedies I had taken.

"You are at liberty to use my name in recommending to our family, and you may well suppose we are not uninfluential of it.

LEAVITT THAXTER."

"Senate Chamber, Albany, Nov. 24, 1854.

"Dr. J. C. AYER—Honored Sir: I have made a thorough trial of the CATHARTIC PILLS, in my family, and have been cared by them of the dreadful Rheumatism which has afflicted me for years. I have also used them for liver complaint, and a few subsequent doses have entirely removed the disease. Now I enjoy better health now than for years before, which I attribute entirely to the effects of your CATHARTIC PILLS. Yours, respectfully, LUCIUS B. METCALF."

The above are all from persons who are publicly known and respectable. Now let the sick read and make their statements without a thorough conviction that they can be cured.
