POETRY.

DEAD!

1st Magni Nostalis Centra—In Memoriam Pro fesser S. F. B. Morse.

BY ROSA VEUTRE JEFFREY.

Thrill it down the electric wire,
Far and near, to town and mart,
Flash that word in prisoned fire
Through the nation's enlightenment heart
Unto every swarming nation
Let your sad, brief message go—
Swift and voiceless lamentation—
Through the earth a throb of woe!
Where the pallid North reposes,
Where the avalanche is born;
Whisper it into the ranges
Blushing round the "Golden Horn;"
Send it south from Scotia's mountains—
From her eagle's misty nest—
To the spray of Persian fountains,
Breaking on the lotus's breast;
From the Alpine torrents seething,
Thrill it—dumb amidst their swell—
To the amorous zephyrs breathing
Through Italia's "golden shell;"
Go where spring her pale bloom nurses,
Flash it down the Russian steeps
To red Vesuvius, muttering curses
By Campania's purple deeps;
From the arch that spans the river
Where Niagara's anthems rise,
Let your mournful message quiver
To the dismal "bridge of sighs"—
To the royal Adriatic
Yielding on her ocean throne—
And through spice-groves aromatic,
Southward to the torrid zone!
He has written as a story
On the earth in pulsing lines
From the—southlands, bleak and hoary,
To where the blue Marmora shines.
Through the deep track of the ocean,
Flashing past the coral isles,
Yawlow, voiceless, without motion,
Thrills his fame down countless miles.
On to oriental Cairo,
Past that waste where Egypt flings
Her glory from the tomb of Pharo,
A gauntlet unto living kings—
Where brooks her ancient sphinx, shaming
Modern problems to the last,
He stands a present wonder, flashing
Defiance at the stony past!
Men of every faith and nation
Honor, love, revere, admire
One who sought not adulation
When he chained the electric fire;
Who, discouraged and defeated,
Bore it with a patient grace,
By no boastful pride elated,
When he conquered time and space.
Faithful spirit, all undaunted,
Toiling, undismayed, for years,
Till along the wires enchanted
Greetings joined the kindred spherhes!
Then! all earthly praise despising,
With one holy, prayerful thought,
His fiery servant thus baptizing—
"Mark ye what the Lord has wrought"—
Fervent hallelujah springing,
Breathless down the electric vale,
Mighty mind!—these wires are winging
Now through earth one sad refrain,
"The master's dead"—their well is flying
"To shall see his face no more!"
North winds sob to south winds dying
On the old Byzantian shore!
Down the iron vein it shivers,
Potent, fervid, burning stream,
On through forests, deserts, rivers,
Passing time, and winds, and steam!
Subtle, fameless harmless fire,
The wail of nations down it springs
So silently, that on the wire
Wild birds perch and plume their wings!
He had irged a great magician
In the dark and heathen age,
Lights that scatter superstition—
Faith and science—call him 'sage.'
Sage and keen, lored of nations,
No! thy deathless soul has found
The lightning's mystic habitation,
Where its lurid bolts are bound!
Could a thousand a message thrilling
Earthward, it would be one more
"Eureka"—soul your task fulfilling;
In God's name, Excelsior!"

Losing a Hat.

An anecdote of Daniel Webster, come from a correspondent at Galveston, Texas, who writes as follows: While John Branch of North Carolina was Gen. Jackson's secretary of the Navy, he, Tazewell and Daniel Webster were walking on the north bank of the Potomac, at Washington. Tazewell, willing to amuse himself with Branch's simplicity, said, "Branch, I'll bet you a ten dollar hat that you are on the other side of the river."

"Done," said Branch.

"Well," said, Tazewell, pointing to the opposite side, "isn't that one side of the river."

"Yes."

"Well isn't this the other side."

"Yes."

"Then as you are here, are you not on the other side?"

"Why I declare," said poor Branch, so it is. But here comes Webster. I'll win the hat back from him." Webster had lagged behind, but now came up, and Branch accosted him. "Webster I'll bet you a ten dollar hat that I can prove that you are on the other side of the river."

"Done."

"Well, isn't this one side?"

"Yes,"

"Well, isn't that the other side?"

"Yes, but I am not on that side!"

Branch hung his head and submitted to the loss of the two hats as quietly as he could.

A SINGULAR DUEL.

Major Ruford called by the way of eminence, "the Major," was the most noted duelist of the day. A dead shot a perfect master of the fence, and in his enmities, utterly relentless, his name had become a terror to all who knew him.

In the midst of a knot of admiring friends one day, the Major was discussing his last "affair," and complacently explaining how it was that he mortally wounded his adversary, instead of killing him upon the spot, when one or two gentlemen standing inchearing, advanced and struck him in the face. The spectators stood aghast. What could have tempted the stranger to rush so madly upon his fate? He was an old man. Already to appearance, had three-score and ten years passed over his head. He must indeed have been weary of life, whose brief remnant he was ready to cast away so recklessly.

The Major was astonished. The very audacity of the act so struck him with amazement.

"Is the provocation enough, or must I repeat it?" inquired the assailant.

The Major's first impulse was to return blow for blow. But fierce and violent as were his passions, he had schooled himself to complete mastery over them, and a few moments reflection told him how bootless, under the present circumstances, would be a public brawl. The indignity he had received would admit of but one reparation and that he determined to lose no time in seeking.

"The insult is sufficient," he answered, with forced calmness. "Oblige me by naming a friend—for your own I care not—to whom I may refer one of my own.

"This gentleman," replied the other, resuming the arm of his companion, "will return here in an hour, to confer with any one you may designate.

And the two strangers took their leave together.

At sunrise on the following morning, the principals and seconds made their appearance on the ground selected. No one else was present—not even a surgeon. The Major, in his own past experience, never had need one; and his opponent, it was plain, was careless of the consequences.

There was no necessity for delay. The preliminaries had been settled. The parties were to fight with pistols, at ten paces, the combat to continue until one or both had fallen. One condition had been insisted upon by the stranger, which called an indignant blush to the Major's cheek, as it seemed to imply an imputation on his honor, though he submitted to it with the best grace he could. It was before placing the combatants the bodies of both should be inspected, to see that no secret protective device was employed by either.

The ground was measured, and the two men placed. There was a marked contrast between the two in, more respects than that of years. The old man erect and motionless as a statue, his whitened locks floating in the breeze, never once looked at his antagonist, though his side was turned. His face was stern, and determined, but nothing malignant in it. The Major, on the other hand, glared at his foe, seemed even to grudge him the few moments of life yet eked out to him.

"Were he my father, I would kill him!" he answered, audibly, to some whispered expostulations of his second, who was evidently touched by the old man's venerable appearance.

The pistols were put in the hands of the principals, and the giving of the word explained.

"Gentlemen are you ready?"

"Ready," both answered.

Still the old man moved not, nor did he direct a single glance at his adversary. His attitude was one of rapt attention. He seemed like one listening intently.

"Fire."

Without changing the direction of his gaze, or other movement than that of his arm which rose with the precision of a nicely adjusted machine, the old man brought his pistol to the level of his enemy's breast. For an instant he held it there. Still no look in the direction it pointed. Still the same appearance of eager listening.

The Major was in no hurry, he could afford to take his time with a man who held his pistol at random, without looking whitherward. He took deliberate aim. He was determined to make sure work. If his ball missed his adversary's heart even the fraction of an inch, he would never make any pretentions to skill again.

The sharp report of the stranger's pistol was followed by a convulsive jerk of the Major's arm, causing the discharge of his weapon wide of the mark while he staggered a few paces back ward, and fell heavily to the ground.

"Conduct me to him," said the old man to his friend.

The latter took his principal's arm, and led him to the prostrate form of the Major, whose second, was kneeling by his side, had torn open his garments, exposing to view the fatal wound in his breast made by the stranger's bullet.

"Is your friend seriously hurt?" inquired the latter, coolly.

"You can see for yourself, sir," the second answered.

"There you are in error," replied the other; "I am totally blind."

The wounded man who had by this time revived a little, and the second, looked at the stranger in astonishment. There was no visible defect in his organs of vision, but there was a fixity of look—that "boding of the eyes ou vacancy"—which so unmistakably evinces the absence of sight.

"Who are you? and what are your motives for seeking this encounter?" the Major faintly murmured.

"First are you in condition to renew it?" inquired the stranger.

"There is no need—am dying."

"When I have told you who I am," the stranger resumed, "you will scarcely require my motive for what I have done. No wonder you have forgotten James Morton," he continued, "for he is greatly changed no doubt."

The dying man started and groaned bitterly.

"But I have never forgotten you, James Buford, nor the injuries you have done me. A cherished daughter, the delight of my eyes, and the joy of her mother's heart, you enticed from her home, deceived by a sham marriage, and then abandoned her to die of a broken heart. My son, and only remaining child, in a rash attempt to revenge his sister's wrongs, fell a victim to your accursed skill. You even robbed him of the ordinary chance of combat, unequal as they would have been, by encasing your cowardly body in a concealed armor. The loss of both our children unsettled my wife's reason, and she died in a mad house. Could I have found you then I would have given you no chance for your life; but valient as you have professed to be, and coward as you are, you teased and evaded me. Yet I knew we should one day meet; and I registered a vow, that when we did, I would offer you a sacrifice to your own infernal art. To this end I studdied to become an adept in it, blindness cast its shadow upon me and seemed to render hopeless the fulfilment of my vow, instead of abandoning it, I betook myself to a new species of practice. I sought to make hearing take the place of sight.—Again I succeeded. I learned to take aim with ear, instead of the eye. When I heard your answer 'ready' to day, I knew the exact direction in which to point my pistol, as well as if I had seen you. Besides, I could hear you breathing, where you stood. You lost your chance in delaying your fire. You wished to make sure work, and over reached yourself."

More than once the Major looked appealingly at the speaker's face, but in those lomeveless, and sightless eyes, there was no sympathy. And as the labored breathing grew fainter, the old man resumed his listening attitude. At last all was still.

"He is dead," he said; and his wonted expression of sober melancholy settled on the old man's face, as, taking his companion's arm, he turned and walked leisurely away.

He Was Sure of It.

A wag was riding in an old-fashioned stage coach on a summer's day with a female friend of his; who had arrived at the age when the milk and sugar in woman's composition naturally turn a little acid. This fastidious female, upon passing a pond, was shocked beyond expression by observing five or six small urchins as naked as they were born, sporting in the water. "Oh, my! how disgraceful; what shocking vulgarity!" Her companion said nothing in reply at the time, but after the lapse of a few moments, as if the subject had just occurred to his mind, he suddenly remarked—"that was disgraceful conduct in those young ladies back there, in sight of every one, stark naked." "Young ladies!" squalls aunt vinegar, "they was every one of 'em boys." "Ah!" was the bland reply of her companion, "I did not notice."

☞ A man arriving at home at a late hour a little worse for too much supper, hatless and coatless, was asked his indignant spouse:

"Where's your hat and coat?"

"Sent 'em, my dear, to the Chicago (big) sufferers."

MURAT HALSTEAD.

What an Ohio Legislator Thinks of the Editor of the Cincinnati Commercial.

[Extracts from a speech by Hon. T. A Corcoran, in the House of Representatives, March 28th, 1872.]

The election came on, and the electors of Hamilton county, who are republican by a majority of three thousand, convicted him of falsehood and an attempt to black mail me, and vindicated me by re-electing me, a democrat, to the Legislature. But the only effect of this upon the thwarted libeler was to intensify his hatred; and from then until now he has pursued and persecuted me through the columns of his paper, which is the barriende of an infamous coward, from behind which he spews his dirty filth upon every passerby in a manner as cowardly and fiendish as infamous, or has the vicious fellow been satisfied to confine his base charge to me; for weeks past his paper has teemed with editorial paragraphs indiscriminately charging the members of the General Assembly with having been bribed, or waiting to be bribed, in reference to the same subject. Hence I have deemed it due to this General Assembly, as well as to myself, to once more publicly brand the accusation and the accusor with malicious falsehood, lest credulence should be in some place be given them—as a "lie well stuck, is sometimes as good as truth."

All the parties concerned have, again and again, unequivocally denied the base charge, which had and has to sustain it but the venemous and irresponsible assertions of Murat Halstead; and those who know him best would not believe him on oath. The virtue of other men and the falsehood virtues Baseness is an instinct in him. The impulse which drives him from one infamy to one in prosperity is as irresistible as that which drives the swallow and butterfly to the sun when the gloomy winter days are near.

No one escapes his indiscriminate abuse and shameful mendacity. The aged father of the President, stricken down by disease, tottering on the verge of the grave, Senators of this General Assembly—men of untarnished honor and unimpeachable integrity; the honored Speaker of this House—all have been maligned, abused, verified and vituperated by this venal scribbler, who shrinks from no employment, however infamous, when others equally base are willing to employ him. He never spares man in his hate, or woman in his lust. If the proper stimulus be applied; he is ever eager, like a Malay running a muck, to cut and stab every one he meets, whether friend or foe. His life, like his paper, is a daily lie—a conclusive example of total depravity. This censor of the public morals, who laments the degeneracy of the age, and weeps over a republic ruined because morality and integrity are found wanting in high places, comes seeking from the stews and brothels of Cincinnati, wherein courtesans furnish the congenial society for nights of pleasure, and inspirations for days of duty. The monster of depravity, unable to satiate his beastly lust in the haunts of those as abandoned as himself, seeks the society of the innocent and unguarded, but only to ruin and destroy. Some years ago this miscreant desolated a happy home in Butler county. He robbed a mother of a daughter, and that daughter of her virtue, gratifying his unbridled lust at the expense of a violated friendship, a betrayed confidence, and a broken heart. Is there still a lower depth of infamy where this wretch is festering? Yes, this modern Cato, dead to every sense of shame, callous to every feeling of manhood, bartered his family honor, pandered to his family's disgrace, to secure the position he now occupies on the Commercial. His touch is pollution. His abuse is eulogy. His praise infamy. His name is never mentioned by honest men, except with abhorrence and contempt. I re he denounce him as an infamous coward, scoundrel and liar.

☞ A person in a passion very often jumps at conclusions suddenly. "I say, neighbor, Snobs, if you don't keep your hens out of my garden, I will shoot them." "Very well, Doolittle, shoot away; only if you kill any of my hens, throw them into my yard." Crack went the fowling piece morning after morning, and large fat hens were pitched into neighbor Snob's yard. They cooked well. After a fortnight or so, Doolittle discovered that Snobs never had any hens, and he had been shooting his own, they having broken out of his own coop.

A New Organization of the Railroad Board.

From the Maysville Bulletin.

Mr. Abner Hord, who has been President of the Maysville and Lexington Railroad Company from its organization, resigned his office on last Monday, and Mr. James H. Hall of this city was immediately elected by the board of Directors to succeed him. The vacancy occasioned in the board by Mr. Hall's elevation to the presidency, was filled by the election of Mr. Joseph Wallingford to the directorship.

Mr. Hord has filled the position of president with great energy and efficiency, having succeeded under the most embarrassing difficulties and with most arduous labor in completing the construction of the road, in less time and more economical than any one ever supposed it could be done. The road is now in the most excellent condition, considering its recent completion, and its gross receipts exceeds the highest expectations of its most sanguine friends. It will stand forever as a most creditable monument to the prudent management of its builders, Mr. Hord and his faithful associates.

The selection of Mr. Hall as the successor of Mr. Hord in the presidency, is a wise and admirable arrangement, and will give additional faith and confidence to the public in the good management and permanent success of the road. Mr. Hall is well known to this community, as one of its most solid and substantial business men, with all the energy, capacity, experience and high integrity necessary to the discharge of the important executive duties imposed upon him. His great practical ability as the head of one of the largest manufacturing establishments in Kentucky, his long experience in the organization and distribution of labor, and the solid credit he has acquired by a long life of honest and successful business, eminently justify the confidence the directory have shown by making him president of the road.

Mr. Wallingford is also a great acquisition to the directory, he being also well known in this community, as a gentleman of great practical business experience, and exalted personal integrity and honor. The friends of the road may well congratulate themselves upon the solid basis upon which the road is now placed by the reorganization of the board.

A Rooster that Crows Without a Head.

From the Lafayette (Ind.) Reporter.

On last Friday, Mr. George Forrester, ex-member of the Legislature from Randolph County, and Colonel R. S. Heffelin, ex-member of Congress, passed through Lafayette with a living, headless rooster! The facts, as related to us by Mr. Forrester, to whom the chicken belongs, are about as follows: On the 5th of this month he had a log-rolling, and for the purpose of preparing a dinner for the occasion, began at an early hour to dispatch turkeys, chickens, etc, among them the rooster hereinmentioned, but this wonderful bird, although his head was cut smoothly off, refused to die. After the lapse of ten or fifteen minutes, perhaps, Mr. Forrester, observing that he was still alive, called in some of his neighbors to see the unnatural phenomenon. In the evening Mr. F. put the headless fowl into a basket in his room, thinking that he would certainly die before morning. But imagine his astonishment to hear the no-headed chicken crow distinctly several times during the night. After keeping him at home nine days, Mr. Forrester passed through here on his way to Opelika, where the remarkable sight was put on public exhibition, twenty-five cents admission being charged, which paid handsomely. Mr. Forrester has decided to visit New York with his "show," and will doubtless have exhibitions at points convenient on the route.

This seems to be an almost incredible story, but is nevertheless true; as many of our citizens can testify. We not only saw, but had the rooster in our hands, and know that there is no deception in this matter. The life of this remarkable chicken is sustained by meal and water introduced into its craw with a spoon.

Last Thursday, ten days after decapitation, his rooster ship crowed twenty-two times, and, impossible as it may appear yet it is said to be true, that he crows every night, with the most exact regularity, and occasionally during the day. "How is this for high?"

Our latest information is that Mr. Forrester has carried both his rooster-ship and ex-Congressman R. S. Heffin to Barnun's Museum.

THURSDAY, APRIL.....18, 1872.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

What has become of the Democratic County Committee? Why don't they call a Convention of the Democratic party to nominate a candidate for Sheriff? We are loosing time. Our candidate ought to be in the field, endorsed by the party. We hope our committee will neglect their duty no longer. It is time the convention was called. The people want it. We suggest the first Saturday in May as the day, and Flemingsburg as the place, what say the Committee? We hope the committee will act at once and call the convention.

The Branch Railroad

We now feel that we can assure the friends of the Flemingsburg Branch Railroad of the final success of that enterprise. The long agony is over and the labor of the past few weeks together with the election of a board of officers, which will take place next Saturday, will conclude the initiatory movements which will ultimately end in the construction of the road. That the road will be built is no longer a doubt. The preliminaries have been made and after the officers have been elected, the stock will be collected and the road put under contract—and finished in the shortest possible time. In our last issue we published the proceedings of the county court which appointed a committee of three members of that court to visit the Directory of the M. & L. R. R., the proceedings of which is familiar to our readers. The gentlemen visited the Directory of the aforesaid road and had an interview with them in the city of Maysville, on the 8th inst. The meeting was a very pleasant one and resulted in the passage of the following resolution by the board of Directors:

Resolved—That Flemingsburg and Fleming county be and are hereby permitted to make a Branch' Railroad from the Maysville & Lexington Railroad, Northern Division, diverging from said road at a point that will give the most eligible route to Flemingsburg, thence to such points as shall hereafter be agreed upon by the board of Directors of said branch road, and the board of Directors of the Maysville & Lexington Railroad. And the company of the Maysville & Lexington Railroad agree; that whilst said Branch Road is in the way of construction it will freight for the same any freightable material needed in the construction of the same, and take for such freights stock in said Branch Road."

The Maysville & Lexington Railroad Directory also rescinded all previous orders heretofore made by that road in regard to the Flemingsburg Branch and after stating that said railroad could not at the present time contribute any material aid to the Branch Road that in the future when relieved from their present embarrassments they would extend to this enterprise all the aid in their power possible.

At a meeting of the Fleming County court held on Saturday the 13th inst., the following proceedings were had:

Fleming County Court,
Special April Term, 1872.

The Committee consisting of Hon. W. H. Abney, County Judge, L. F. Bright, and E. Logan, Esqrs., to attend a meeting of the Directors' of the M. & L. R. R. N. D. and to confer with them upon the subject of the construction of the Branch Road to lead from the main stem of the said road, to Flemingsburg, made their verbal report thereof:

(1) On motion it is ordered that the order heretofore made requiring the completion of said Branch Road in two years, be set aside, and that the term for the completion of said Branch Road be extended to four years.

(2) It is ordered by the Court that David Wilson be and is hereby appointed Receiver to receive any money due the Flemingsburg Branch Road from the Fleming County Court, or from individual subscription to said Branch Road, or from any other source—said Wilson to first give bond, with approved security to the County Court for the amount of subscription already made by the County Court, and the said receiver to pay out said money as called for in the same proportion as private stock-holders and in no greater proportionable amount.

(2) It is ordered that the County Judge vote the said stock of Fleming County in the election of President and Directors of said Branch Road.

From the above proceedings of the Court it will seen that the restrictions placed upon the County subscriptions has been removed and the fund of the county and also of the private subscriptions to the road has been placed in the proper hands to insure a commencement of the work. We now look to the meeting of the stock-holders next Saturday, to place the means we have in the hands of enterprising, ardent men. Men who have the building of the road at heart and who will push the enterprise. Let the stock-holders elect a good president and an energetic board of directors. No favoritism must be allowed. Be sure a good set of men are elected. Let no one become lukewarm because he fails to be chosen. A pull, a long pull, and a pull altogether is now demanded. Let all unite in the good work.

TREMENDOUS MEETING IN NEW YORK.

The Reform Republicans of New York, held a tremendous meeting in that city, at Cooper Institute, on Friday evening last. It was the most imposing meeting yet held by the Reformers. The house was densely packed, and over ten thousand persons were crowded out. The meeting was organized by electing Col. Fred. Cook in to the chair, and Horace Greely and two hundred and fifty others as Vice Presidents. A platform of Principles were adopted and speeches were made by Senators Schurz, Trumbull, Hon Horace Greely and others. The following are the resolutions adopted:

We believe that the political action of individuals and conventions should be left free from the influence of political patronage, that business men should not, under fear of unjust obloquy, interfere with their affairs, be compelled to pay tribute for political purposes.

We believe that public offices are, or should be created for public subservience, and not as a reward for partisan services nor personal aggrandizement. That the acts of officials should be so fair, with the strict letter of the laws, creating such officials.

We believe that the triumph of Republican principles is of paramount importance, to the country, and that the success of those principles in the approaching National election, does not depend on any one individual.

We believe that the prosperity of the country demands a thorough, radical and immediate reform in all departments of the public service—civil military and naval; and that the one term principle' for the Presidential office will conduce most to that end than any other measure.

☞ Another terrible steamboat disaster occurred on the Mississippi river a few miles above Cairo, on Thursday morning last. The steamer Oceanus exploded her boilers and then took fire and burned. The Oceanus was a large steamer and run in the Red river and St. Louis trade. The boat is a total loss but her loss is no thing compared to the terrible loss of life. It is estimated that about seventy lives have been surrendered to the water and flames. The scene of the disaster was heart-rending.

☞ We notice that the Democracy of Bath county will present the claims of Hon. John D. Young for Congress in this District. There is no gentleman in the District whom we would prefer to Judge Young, for Congress. The Democracy of this District have been swindled out of his election, and Judge Young has claims upon the Democratic party that cannot be overlooked. If he is nominated he can poll more votes than any man in the District.

☞ The Maysville Republican thus nominates Hen. Botts, Esq., for sheriff of this county:—"We have heard the name of Ben. Botts, Esq., mentioned in connection with the sheriffalty of Fleming county. Mr. B. certainly has the confidence of his people, and they cannot in our judgement, make a better selection. We nominate him, and hope he may be elected over all comers."

THE COMING CONTEST—HOW THE FIGURES POOT U.

For the Louisville Ledger.

For the benefit of those Democrats who take for granted the clap-trap that there is no chance for the Democracy to elect its candidate for the Presidency in November, we have taken the trouble to compile the following table of probabilities as to the vote of the several States, basing the estimate upon the new apportionment, under which the Electoral College will number 357 votes—A majority being 179. After a careful survey of the field we make the following estimate as to the result, in a straight race between Grant and the Democratic nominee, viz.,

For the Democratic Candidate.

Alabama	9	Arkansas	6
California	6	Delaware	3
Florida	3	Georgia	11
Indiana	15	Kentucky	12
Maryland	8	Nevada	3
Missouri	15	New Jersey	9
New York	34	North Carolina	10
Oregon	3	Pennsylvania	28
Tennessee	11	Texas	9
Virginia	11	West Virginia	5
Total			209

For Grant.

Connecticut	6	Illinois	21
Iowa	11	Kansas	5
Louisiana	7	Maine	7
Massachusetts	13	Michigan	11
Minnesota	5	Nebraska	3
Mississippi	8	New Hampshire	4
Ohio	22	Rhode Island	4
South Carolina	7	Vermont	5
Wisconsin	10
Total			148

This result will give a majority of thirty one votes to the Democratic candidate. It will be observed that we have counted the States of Connecticut, Louisiana, and New Hampshire, with an aggregate of seventeen votes, for Grant neither of which we believe he can carry. Nor are Illinois and Ohio by any means certain to vote for him. Pennsylvania we have counted for the Democracy, and of the certainty of its being so cast—with Hancock on the ticket as Lee will be—we have not the slightest misgiving; but it will be seen that we can allow its twenty-eight votes to Grant, and still defeat him by a majority of twenty-three votes.

Let doubting Democrats analyze this calculation, and take courage. As certainly as the Democratic columns are true to their colors and present an unbroken front, we shall elect our ticket in November.

☞ The case of the Kentucky Central Railroad, which is to determine the ownership, has been taken up by the Court of Appeals, and will probably be ended by the first of June.

☞ The Kentucky State Medical Association will hold its next annual meeting at Paducah on the first Tuesday in April, 1873.

Thomas Calk, of Montgomery county, has a quantity of peach brandy which was distilled by his grandfather, Wm. Calk, deceased in 1808.—Courier-Journal.

Sixty-four Years Old! Just a drop of that to you please, Tom.

☞ Senator Trumbull says the notice of the Cincinnati Convention will be the next President.

☞ Hon. Garrett Davis has almost entirely recovered his health. He will return to Washington City in a few days.

☞ We hear that Judge Whitaker has Congressional aspirations.

Democratic Victory.—The municipal elections in Paris came off last Saturday and resulted in a sweeping Democratic victory—that city having been since the war under Radical rule. The Democrats elected five out of the six councilmen composing the board, and a Democrat—Mr. Pullen—was elected mayor by a majority of forty-six—the whole vote standing 326 for Pullen, 280 for his Radical opponent, Rankin. The True Kentuckian, speaking of the vote for councilmen, says "that one member of the old board was elected—the gentleman being Mr. Roger W. O'Connor, who being personally popular, not only carried the whole Radical strength, but received a large number of the votes of his Irish brethren, which gave him a larger vote than any of the twelve candidates. Rucker (Rad) cast a vote for Turney, his opponent, giving Mr. Turney a majority of one.—Tennessean.

AUGUST ELECTION, 1872.

We are authorized to announce the name of R. A. Plummer esq., as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Fleming county, subject to the decision of a Democratic convention should one be held.

We are authorized to announce Ben Botts, as a candidate for Sheriff of Fleming county at the ensuing August election.

Connections—B. Alexander's Springer, Maysville.

T. J. GLENN, Gen'l Supt.

The Railroad—Now that the Railroad is a fixed fact Flemingsburg is beginning to put on city airs.

Police Judge.—James W. Crain, Esq has been elected police judge of Hillsboro. He makes a good officer.

Hands.—As the work on the railroad is to be commenced at once, wonder if some of our loafers can't get a job.

Not Dead.—The report that Dr. Cook was dead is not true. We learn that the Doctor is now better and is in a fair way of recovering.

Fresh Groceries.—Go to Andrews & Bro's and lay in your stock of groceries. You have a new stock to select from.

Fresh Fish.—Johnny Wheeler, of Maysville, is now supplying this market with the choicest of fresh fish. He had a very fine lot in town last Friday.

"Mr. Conway."—Who is Mr. Conway? We hear his name hailed out very frequently but no one seems to enjoy a personal acquaintance with him.

The Branch Road.—The Branch Railroad Directory will be organized next Saturday. We hope to see our best men placed in this Directory.

New Music.—We are indebted to D. P. Faulds No 70. Main St. Louisville Ky., for several very pretty pieces of music.

Market.—Dudley & Carroll will hereafter keep fresh fish and vegetables regular every morning in connection with their meat market. See Advertisement.

Refused.—A gentleman refused to sell a piece of town property the other day, the reason assigned was that the railroad would certainly be built and he would get an increased price for it.

Personal.—James H. Rogers of the firm of H. Gray & Co., of Maysville, was in town last Monday. He reports trade in Maysville more brisk than it has been for some time.

Lost.—A plain gold ring, medium size, marked on the inside "B. E. B," the finder will confer a favor and will be rewarded by leaving it at this office.

New is the Time.—The railroad is a dead certainty. Flemingsburg is lively. Business is brightening up and now is the time to advertise if you want to do business.

Turnpike Election.—There will be an election for President and Directors of the Flemingsburg and Blue Bank turnpike road at the exchange bank of David Wilson, & Co., in this place, on Monday April 22nd, County Court day.

New Goods.—Messrs Andrews & Bro, are now receiving their new spring stock of goods. They have the largest and most complete stock of groceries, hardware &c. of any establishment in the whole country. We refer our readers to their new advertisment in to-days paper.

Wool Wanted.—We want to buy 5,000lbs of wool for which we will pay the highest market price in cash or trade. We are agents for the Murphysville woolen mills and will have on hand a full supply of their goods which we will exchange for wool at factory prices. P. S. Dudley & Bro.

april 18 tf.

Large Sale of fat Cattle.—Walker Stephens, of this county, sold on Thursday last to Ben. F. Offutt and J. D. Daddason, of Shelby county, 120 head of fat cattle averaging 1,565 pounds, at six cents per pound, gross. The purchasers, who deal largely in cattle, say they are the finest lot of cattle they have ever seen fed in one man.—Hereford Yeoman.

New is the Time to go to Jimmie Lenchens and select your spring clothes.

Louisiana State Fair.—We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend the Sixth State Fair of Louisiana, to be held in New Orleans, commencing on the 24th of April and continuing seven days.

Cattle for Sale.—Mr. Lewis H. Summers advertises some very fine cattle for sale, in to-day's paper. Parties wishing to purchase cattle will do well to refer to his advertisement published elsewhere.

☞ We have four years to build our branch railroad in. The road can and ought to be built in three months. Let us have no delay, build the road at once. The sooner the better.

The Ruins.—The ruins of last week were pretty general throughout the country. Our exchanges report heavy rains in all quarters. At Cincinnati the river had risen forty one feet. The Licking river was very high and considerable damage was done to coal fleets at Newport. The loss of coal on the Ohio will reach 1,000,000 bushels.

Colored Peoples Fair.—We learn from Isaac Bird that the enterprising colored people of Fleming County will hold a fair in this county during the last week in August. A preliminary meeting for the purpose of organization will be held in a few days. Preparations will be made to make this fair worthy the patronage of all the people of this and surroun ing counties. The fair will be held in two mile and a half of Flemingsburg and near the railroad. It.

Our Cemetery.—Our cemetery under the superintendency of Mr. Geo. Faulkner presents a very beautiful appearance just at this time. We paid a visit to this sacred spot on last Sunday afternoon and were very much gratified with the excellent manner in which Mr. Paulkner is conducting it. The grounds are perfectly clean of weeds and the walks and graves are kept in good condition. In fact our cemetery is an honor to the community, and after a few more years it will be one of the most attractive burial places in the State.

Tableaux.—The tableaux given by the lady members of the Good Templars on last Wednesday and Thursday evening was a decided success, considering the so short a time in which they were gotten up. Though we cannot pronounce them better than other tableaux heretofore given by the ladies of this place, they were very beautiful and attractive and reflect great credit upon the ladies who had them in charge. We understand that the sum of eighty two dollars was realized over and above all expenses, for which the Order return their thanks to the public for their liberal patronage.

Rukewood Jr.—We call the attention of our farmers and stock raisers to the advertisement of this fine horse in an other column. Rukewood jr., is a most beautiful animal and is a strictly thoroughbred. He was bred in Scotland, but was raised by Dr. R. P. Samuel, of this county. His sire has a public record of 2:40 and could not be bought for $5,000. Persons should go and examine this fine young horse before breeding elsewhere.

Germantown Fair.—The union agricultural society of Mason and Bracken counties held its regular annual meeting at Germantown, April 6th. The following board of officers was chosen for the ensuing year;

President—Col. J. C. Bradford.
First Vice President.—Col. Sam Forman.
Second Vice President.—Dr. C. S. Savage.
Third Vice President.—W. T. Sallee.
Secretary—J. M. Nolin.
Treasurer—J. C. Savage.
Superintendent.—Tilton Pollock.
Marshall.—Major P. S. Blades.

Mason County Directors.—Henry Smoot, J. H. Walton, Robert Terhune, Richard Kirk, J. B. Claybrook, R. D. Owens, Evan Lloyd, John Mannen.

Bracken County Directors.—W. W. Orr, H. F. Lloyd, James F. Best, Dr. J. H. Holton, W. A. Tallaferro, John Taylor, J. G. Lyon.

The fair will commence the first Tuesday in October, and continue five days.

The Kentucky Fairs.—The following dates are announced for several Fairs the approaching season:

Mercer county, at Harrodsburg, first Tuesday in August, four days.

Jessamine county, at Nicholasville first Tuesday in August four days.

Logan county, at Russellville, Wednesday August 21st, four days.

Daviess county, at Owensboro, first Tuesday in October.

North Kentucky, at Florence, Tues 26th of August, five days.

The Wheat.—The wheat generally is looking very well, as we learn after inquiry, and, in some localities, the prospect for an abundant yield was never more favorable. There are so many diseases to which wheat is subject, and there are so many influences that may affect it injuriously, that these early indications give no satisfactory basis for calculations as to the ultimate result. But it gratifies us to know that the prospect now is cheering, and if the season now proves favorable, our industrious farmers may be repaid for their labors by an old-time crop.

The breadth of land put in wheat last fall was somewhat larger than that of last year, at least, we understand that to be true as to this county.—Farmington Home Journal.

Railroad Election.—The Stock holders in the Branch Railroad will hold an election for President and Directors at the Exchange Bank of David Wilson & Co. on next Saturday, the 20th, inst. See advertisement.

Murder.—Ben. Johnson, of Madison, shot and killed Isaac Edwards, of Jackson county, on the 28th of last month. An old grudge had existed between the parties for a long time, and on the day named Johnson went near the house of Edwards and laid in wait for him. When Edwards came out of his house Johnson fired, the shot taking effect almost instantly. The murderer was arrested and is now confined in the McKee jail.—Danville Advocate.

The Huston Scandal.—A Baltimore dispatch says that enough is now known of the Huston investigation, which the Methodist Episcopal Conference is conducting, to show that the charges against that reverend gentleman, of eccentricities with a lady member of his congregation, are true. Huston prefers squatter charges against the principal witness against him, Rev. Dr. Muncey, but they are groundless.

A Man Without an Advertisement.—Our friend Eglar, of the West Union (O.,) Defender gets off the following: "Talk about a woman without a baby, a man without a wife, a ship without a rudder, a dog without a tail, a glass without a cocktail in it! What is the lack of each of these individuals or things to that of a man without an advertisement? He is a loneless cuss, a "goner in community." Talk of him being successful in business. You might as well talk of ascending to the moon on a greased moonbeam. People point at him in the street and say "Your Cassius has a lean hungry look." It may however be consoling to him to reflect that when he dies, he will be advertised at last, and gratuitously at that."

A Chance to win $50,000 and at the Same Time, Aid the Sick and Destitute.—The sale of tickets in the Grand Legal Enterprise at Omaha, in aid of Mercy Hospital, under the auspices of the Sisters of Mercy, will be continued until May 30th, when the drawing will positively take place, in open public. This charitable enterprise enjoys the confidence of the Governor, and best business men of Nebraska; also the Mayor and President of board of Trade, Omaha. Highest prize, $50,000. Total, $150,000, in cash. The tickets are $3 each, or two for $5. For further particulars, address Pattee & Gardiner, Business Managers, Omaha, Neb.

Ballou's Magazine for May.—The May number of Ballou's Magazine is out, and a capital number it is, filled with good stories, choice poetry, and some excellent engravings of interest. We know of no Magazine that will compare with this for real worth, when the price is taken into consideration. Think of a hundred pages of choice matter for the small sum of 15 cents, and twelve numbers in a year for only $1.50. Every family in the country could afford as much for the sake of the pleasure which Ballou's Magazine really imparts. The contents for the May number are: "Warwick Castle, England;" "Scene on the Hudson River;" "Notable Russian Scenes;" "The Ogilvie Pride;" "That Robber;" "The Song of the Gondolier;" "Kaltiehe;" "Dick's Boating;" "Retrospection;" "The Lost Baron," "After All;" "To the Author of 'At Sea;'" "A Chivalrous Revelation;" "The Lost Bride;" "Truth is Stranger than Fiction;" "Jinks; Phipps and I;" "Our Young People's Story-Teller—Guess; or the Son of a Politician;" "Fip's Prolicey;" "Casabianca;" "Curious Matters;" "The Housekeeper." "Facts and Fancies;" "For what our Summer Resorts are noted" — (Humorous Illustrations.) For sale at every periodical depot in the country, or address Thomes & Talbot, 62 Congress Street, Boston.

☞ Georgia is usurping the fame of Arkansas. A lively fight in a small place in Worth county, that State is thus described; "There was an election for Justices of the Peace being held, and the sovereigns, after attending to that matter and putting themselves outside of four gallons of whisky and schnapps, all there was at the place very naturally looked around for some diversion. Jim Bass cursed the small mail carrier, and Nep Taber took up for the carrier, and then Bill Keen and his two sons took up for Jim, and then the fight opened along the whole line. Pistols, knives, bludgeons, fence rails, weights, fists and whisky went in for an indiscriminate fandango, and one report says that every man in the crowd except two, were engaged either as belligerents, peace-makers or spectators. When the smoke of battle cleared away the scene of blood and carnage was appalling. Jim Keen was dangerously cut on the hip; Nep Taber was dangerously cut in the abdomen and side; Gus Scott, an innocent lookeron, was shot fatally in the abdomen. Phil Ford, colored, cut in shoulder and arm head split open with bludgeon and the pieces pitched out at the window. Bill Keen and his other son, and a stranger, cut more or less severely, and many others bruised and banged in the finest style of art. We [illegible]

Repairing.—Persons who have cane-bottomed chairs that need repairing have only to send them over to John Edwards, at Toner & McCartney's shop. He can put new bottoms in them in the best of style and do any other necessary repairing.

Alonzo Lamont.—Since the introduction of Alonzo Lamont many of our citizens have used it, and have received great benefit therefrom. Numerous certificates can be seen at Lyons & Lloyd's Drug Store, corner of Second and Sutton streets, Maysville, Ky. It cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and all similar complaints. Sold by druggists everywhere. For sale at Dr. H. P. Lindsays Drug Store.

The Best Chance.—H. C. Ashton is agent for "The People's Literary Companion," a large 40 column quarto Illustrated Paper, published by B. B. Allen & Co., Augusta Maine. The subscription price of which is only two dollars. The paper is accompanied by a large steel engraving already framed which is given free to every subscriber and is delivered without any charge for Express. Persons should only see this paper and the beautiful premium picture—and they will subscribe at once. It is the cheapest and best paper published for the money. Call on or address H. C. Ashton, Flemingsburg, Ky.

THE CATTLE MARKET.

Cincinnati Live Stock Market.

MONDAY EVENING, April 8, 1872.

BRIGHTON PENS—OFFICE BANS, SUPT.

The receipts of live stock at these yards for the week ending this evening and for the previous weeks, compare as follows:

	April 15.	April 8.	April 1
Cattle.....	1,200	1,075	1,150
Sheep.....	350	150	150
Hogs.....	850	1,395	950

Beef Cattle.—The receipts were more liberal, and the demand being hardly equal to the supply, the market was not so firm, though about all were sold at the close, and prices are without important change. The demand was fair both from butchers and shippers. We quote common $3@350; fair, $4@425; good, $450@475; prime butcher's stock $5@525, and shipping cattle, $550@6 per central gross.

Sheep.—Supply fair, but hardly equal to the demand, and very full prices were realized. The sales were at $5@8 per central. gross, as to quality.

Hogs.—The arrivals were light, but the supply was about equal to the demand. Very few were taken by shippers, and there was only a moderate demand from butchers. We quote light hogs $415@425 per central, gross.

Editorial Notices are so common that it is almost impossible for an editor to express his honest opinion of the merits of any article without being suspected of interested motives. This fact, however, shall not deter us from saying what we think of a new addition to the Materia Medica, to which our attention has recently been directed. We refer to Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, a remedy which is making its way into many families just now than all the other advertised medicines put together. There seems to be no question as to the potency of its tonic and alterative properties, while it possesses the great negative recommendation of containing neither alcohol or mineral poison. That it is a specific for Indigestion, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, and many complaints of nervous origin, we have reason to know; and we are assured on good authority that as a general invigorant, regulating and purifying medicine it has no equal. It is stated that its ingredients are derived from the wilds of California, a new to the medical world; and its extraordinary effects certainly warrant the conclusion that it is composed of agents hitherto unknown. If popularity is any criterion, there can be no doubt of the efficacy of the Vinegar Bitters, for the sale of the article is immense and continually increasing.

Dead or Dying.—Where the hair is unnaturally dry, you may be sure that it is dying and unless artificially vitalized, it will soon be as dead as leaves in November. Feed the withering fibers and stimulate the torpid scalp with Lyon's Kathairon, and the evil, which must otherwise soon culminate in baldness, will be speedily remedied. It is absolutely necessary for the health of the brain, that it be kept moderately moist with a preparation capable of nourishment and invigorating it. Lyon's Kathairon fulfills these conditions, and is the only article that actually puts new life into the capillary tubes, through which the natural nourishment has ceased to pass. This pure and harmless vegetable preparation is absorbed by the skin of the head to the roots of the hair, and passes into the filaments by the force of capillary attraction.

Died Suddenly of Heart Disease.—How common is the announcement. Thousands are suddenly swept into eternity by this fatal malady. This disease generally has its origin in impure blood filled with poisonous, putrescent matter, which, circulating through the heart, irritate its delicate tissues. Through the irritation may at first be only slight, producing a little palpitation or irregular action yet by and by the disease becomes firmly seated, and inflammation or hypertrophy, or thickening of the lining membrane or of the valves is produced. How wise to give early attention to a cure of this kind. Unnatural throbbing or pain in the region of the heart should admonish us that all is not right, and if you would preserve it from further disease, you must help it to beat rightly by the use of such a remedy as shall remove of the trouble. Use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before the disease has become too seated, and it will by its great blood purifying and wonderful regulating properties effect a perfect [illegible] Sold by druggists everywhere. The True Grounds of Confidence.

Whence comes that firm reliance that absolute, unshaking faith in the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in a case of indigestion, bilious disorder, intermittent and remittent fevers, which notoriously prevail in all parts of the United States? This confidence has been growing for twenty years, and is still extending. It is not the result of credulity; it has not been engendered by any hobby, but is the spontaneous and natural consequence of experience. What people see daily, hear daily, and know their own eyes they cannot do. When families in unhealthy districts that resort to this wholesome regulator take as a preventative, escape personal fevers, and their friends, or neighbors, who neglect this precaution, are prostrated by the disease, how is it impossible that the conclusion should be without its lesson? In like manner, when it is seen that obstinate cases of dyspepsia, of liver complaint, of complaints of nervous weakness, and of general debility, yield to the operation of the famous remedy, how can even incredulity itself withhold its endorsement? Eye witnesses testify that the salutary effects of the Bitters are to be found in every civilized settlement on this continent. The thousands upon thousands who owe their restoration to health to and strength or their preservation from sickness to extraordinary medical properties, are enthusiastic in its praise. The multitudes who recommend it to a friendly world, their friends and acquaintance as well as those who make public their testimonials of its virtues are always ready to state their reasons for the faith that is in them. They have either felt or witnessed their beneficial operation.

FLEMINGSBURG DEMOCRAT

A Bride Dies from Hydrophobia.

The Pittston (Pa.) Gazette gives the following particulars of a most distressing case of hydrophobia? About eleven weeks ago a young lady named Cox, daughter of Miles Cox of Stoddarsville, went into the yard to kill some chickens. The dog followed her, and picking up one of the chickens ran off with it. She chased him with a stick to recover it, and coming up with him he turned upon her bit her in the arm, lacerating it fearfully. Her mother and brother coming to rescue, were also badly bitten by the infuriated beast. The wounds healed, however, and nothing more thought of the matter. The young woman was engaged to be married to a young man living at Goldsboro, named Alfred Kerrick, and the wedding was appointed to come off at that place about two weeks ago. On the wedding morning as she was about to perform her ablutions the sight of water sent a shiver through her whole system and frightened her, and at the breakfast table the coffee had such an effect upon her that she spilled it over the table. She then complained of feeling unwell, and her friends advised her to remain at home, but she said she did not want to disappoint Al, and accompanied by a sister, proceeded to Goldsboro, where the wedding ceremony was performed. Immediately after this she was seized with spasms bearing all the indications of hydrophobia. In one of her lucid intervals she warned the company that she would bite them if they did not keep away from her. "But" said she to her husband, "Al you need not be afraid, I won't bite you." In one of her paroxysms she bit a lady who was endeavoring to soothe her. In was the wife of Doc. Hoffman who drives the stage from Goldsboro to the Cut, on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. Soon after assuring her husband that she would not bite him she was seized with convulsions, and, lying back in his arms, died. We have seldom been called upon to record so sad a case as this. For one moment a happy bride and then the victim of a horrid death. The other members of the family who were bitten by the dog have not yet displayed any symptoms of the disease, but they live in hourly dread.

"SEND HIM UP ANOTHER."

How Twain and Griswold Succeeded in Mixing Drinks on John B. Gough.

[From the Toledo Blade.]

"Keep your seat," said I, as my friend rose to go, "I can not help repeating that old boomerang joke attempted to be played upon Gough by every body's pet humorist, Mark Twain and that Falstaffian jokist, the Fat Contributor. It has been told before, but I should like to repeat it, stripping the story from the falsehoods by which it was formerly embellished."

One evening Twain and Gris found themselves together at the Sherman House, in Chicago, B. P. (before the fire.)

Drifting about in search of the picturesque, they followed the human stream, till (to wear the metaphor threadbare) they stranded on a bar. Mr. Gough was staying at the house at the time, and being unwell, had retired early. A bright idea struck Twain's restless mind. "Let's send him up a cocktail!"

Idea voted good and acted upon. Waiter arrived at Mr. Gough's room. "Some mistake; never touch liquor." Waiter positive; Mr. Gough more so.

On the way down it occurred to the darkey that it was a pity the cocktail should be wasted, so he drank it, and reported 'all right" at the bar. Twain and Gris intensely delighted, thought they had caught the lecturer napping. "Let's send him up another," said Gris. Same result; cocktail receipted home by darkey. Excitement at fever heat.

"Give him a brandy, strong," shouted Twain.

Disappearance of darkey—ditto cock tail. Report satisfactory, and the precious pair put their heads together, and were concocting a plan to mix liquors on the temperance man, when Mr. Gough entered the bar-room, approached our heroes, and said:

"I am afraid you rest under a misapprehension. Seeing that I was being made the victim of some practical joke, I followed the waiter down, and saw him drink the liquor that I suppose you thought I used. You will please refrain from sending any more up, as I have not felt the need of such drinks for years."

When the subject is brought up now to Twain, he says the Fat Contributor "retired within himself like a greased telescope," but further says that he (Twain) "was never in Chicago; didn't know that there was a Sherman House," etc.

Well—take care of yourself!

FOUTZ'S
CELEBRATED
HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly invigorate broken down, and time spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and bowels.
It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this climate, such as LUNG FEVER, CLOGGED, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE, AND VITAL DEBILITY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the speed, gives a smooth and glossy appearance, and fills the miserable skeleton into a fine looking and spirited horse.

To keep cattle free this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Blackleg, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk, from one to one-fourth per cent, and make the butter firm and sweet. It prevents the cattle from hooving their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.
To all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Fleers in the Lungs, Liver &c., this article acts as a specific. By giving from one-half a paper to a pound of meal, as the case may require, diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. Given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.
