

Cartmell Hall to remain closed until Nov. 4

**UPDATED 11/01/08 AT 4:15 P.M.**

Cartmell Hall will remain closed to residents until Tuesday, Nov. 4. Students who have traveled home for the weekend and are not within a convenient commuting distance will be excused from classes on Monday, Nov. 3. Those Cartmell residents who have been relocated to Waterfield Hall or have made other temporary arrangements are asked to attend Monday classes as scheduled. There will be no office hours or classes on Tuesday, Nov. 4 in observation of the national election.

Residents of Cartmell Hall may return to the hall after 3 p.m. on Tuesday. If the situation has not been resolved, students will be provided other short-term housing arrangements and will be expected to return to classes as scheduled on Wednesday, Nov. 5.

Excused absence information applies only to current Cartmell Hall residents. All other MSU students need to attend class as usual. For the latest updates on Cartmell Hall, please monitor the MSU homepage at www.moreheadstate.edu. Additional information is available by calling the MSUPD at (606) 783-2035.

Cartmell Hall closed, due to broken steam pipe

A broken steam pipe in Morehead State University's Cartmell Hall on Friday, Oct. 31, at approximately 11:30 p.m., caused electrical outage and the closing of the building until damages can be assessed, repairs made, and it is safe to move students back into the residence hall.

Waterfield Hall has been opened to accommodate students on a temporary basis. Students who live in the Morehead area are encouraged to return to their homes for the weekend.

Students have been assisted in retrieving belongings and relocating to Waterfield Hall by MSU's housing staff and the MSU Police Department.

Students still needing access to Cartmell to retrieve personal belongings or seeking a room assignment in Waterfield Hall may do so between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Nov. 1 and 2.

Students must be under escort to access Cartmell Hall. Students needing assistance in other hours are directed to contact MSUPD at (606) 783-2035.

New information will be updated on MSU's Web site. Additional information is available by calling MSUPD.

Inscape accepting submissions

Inscape, Morehead State University's literary and visual art publication, is accepting student submissions in three categories for its next edition.

Contests are being held for best cover design, and art and writing for the interior of the publication. The deadline for submissions to all the competitions is Dec. 5.

Prizes are being offered in both art competitions, with a first place prize of $100 for the selected cover design. A $100 award will be given for the best artwork submitted for the interior of the publication, with second, third and honorable mention prizes of $75, $50 and $25, respectively, to be awarded.

Students may submit poetry, fiction, nonfiction or drama for inclusion in the interior of the publication. Prizes of $50 for first place and $25 for honorable mention will be awarded in the poetry, fiction and nonfiction categories.

Inscape is an annual MSU publication with a long history of cutting edge visual and literary art. Media and genres of work range from prose, poetry, short story, long narrative, nonfiction and creative essays to photography, printmaking, painting, design, drawing, digital art and sculpture.

Additional information and the complete list of guidelines on the competitions are available on the Web at <http://www.moreheadstate.edu/inscape/>.

Baker receives KLA award

Morehead State University's Donna Baker has received an award from the Kentucky Library Association.

Baker, librarian and head of special collections at Camden-Carroll Library, received the Kentucky Library Association's Academic Library Section's Professional Development Award at the recent KLA annual conference.

The grant award can be used for a number of professional development opportunities for librarians. Baker plans to use the grant to enroll in a special collections administration class, possibly next summer.

The class is offered by the Rare Books School at the University of Virginia. The Rare Books School is an independent, nonprofit institute supporting the study of the history of books, old and rare books, manuscripts, special collections, printing and related subjects.

"Some of the best practitioners in my field teach at the Rare Book School," said Baker. "I am confident this course will help me clearly articulate and implement my vision regarding our special collections and the University archives."

Special collections at MSU's Camden-Carroll Library are located on the fifth floor. The collections include Appalachia-Kentucky books, genealogical and local history materials, photographs, oral histories, quilt patterns, Kentucky pamphlet and newspaper clipping files and MSU archival materials.

Three special collections are housed separately at Camden-Carroll Library. These collections are devoted to the works and personal items of Dr. Roger Barbour, James Still and Jesse Stuart.

More information is available by calling Baker at (606) 783-5122.

MSU to dedicate memorial to Medal of Honor recipient

Morehead State University and local veterans will pause here Monday, Nov. 10, at 4 p.m. to recognize an MSU alumnus who earned America's highest award for wartime heroism.

A memorial marker will be dedicated near the Little Bell Tower in honor of the late William E. Barber, a native of Morgan County. Barber, then a captain, received the Medal of Honor for heroically leading his Marine rifle company in a desperate five-day defense of a frozen mountain pass vital to the 1st Marine Division's breakout to the sea in December 1950 in the Chosin Reservoir campaign of the Korean War. He received the medal in 1952 from President Harry Truman.

A World War II veteran and former paramarine, Barber also earned the Silver Star Medal and his first of two Purple Hearts as a second lieutenant at Iwo Jima, where he disregarded his own wounds and direct fire to rescue two wounded Marines from enemy territory. He also received the Legion of Merit for his service in Vietnam.

Participating in the dedication ceremony will be MSU President Wayne D. Andrews, Army LTC Max Ammons, MSU professor of military science; John (Pete) Hamm, chaplain of American Legion Post No. 126 of Morehead, Dr. George Barber, nephew of the honoree; and former Navy corpsman George Marsh of Paris, who served with Barber on Iwo Jima.

Barber enrolled at MSU after graduating from high school but interrupted his studies to enlist in the Marines in 1940. He returned to MSU while on active duty and earned a bachelor's degree in 1964. He retired from the Marine Corps in 1970 at the rank of colonel. He died in 2002 and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

He was a brother of the late Woodrow Barber, a former MSU professor.

The public is invited to attend.

Dr. Hennen to speak at KFAC Nov. 19

Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center (KFAC) and Morehead State University's Appalachian Heritage Program have announced the next installment of the speakers series "Appalachia: Yesterday and Today."

Dr. John Hennen will present "Blood, Sweat, & Tears: Lewis Hine's Child Workers, 1900-1920" on Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m. at the KFAC. The program is free and open to the public.

He will examine the history of child labor in America and Appalachia and discuss the important contributions that Hine made in bringing an end to the widespread and often brutal child labor practices in America in the early 20th century.

An MSU associate professor of history, Dr. Hennen is author of "The Americanization of West Virginia: Creating a Modern Industrial State, 1916-1925." His research interests include labor relations and labor history of Appalachia, union organization among Appalachian healthcare workers, company unionism in the 1930s, and oral history.

Dr. Hennen's presentation is held in conjunction with KFAC's current display, "Let Children Be Children: Lewis Wickes Hine's Crusade Against Child Labor." An exhibition of 55 black and white images by Hine reveals the appalling circumstances that poor, working class children endured until legislation against child labor prevailed. It is drawn entirely from the George Eastman House's photographic collection, which contains nearly 10,000 of Hine's original photographs, negatives and artifacts. The exhibition runs through Nov. 30.

"We're very excited about Dr. Hennen's presentation," said Matt Collinsworth, KFAC director. "This fall, visitors have expressed keen interest in the exhibition of Hine's famous photographs. The serious problem of child labor in America in the early stages of American industrialization has been forgotten by many people.

"Can you imagine your 10-year-old son or daughter pulling a 16-hour shift in a coal mine or a cannery? The good old days weren't always that good for a lot of people. It's fantastic that we have someone like Dr. Hennen to add more historical context to the exhibition. I can't imagine a better way to close the show."

New speakers and dates for the speakers series will be announced as they are scheduled.

Additional information is available by calling (606) 783-2204. KFAC, located at 102 West First Street in Morehead, is open Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Barber honored with memorial marker

Morehead State University and local veterans paused Monday, Nov. 10, to recognize an MSU alumnus who earned America's highest award for wartime heroism.

A memorial marker was dedicated near the Little Bell Tower in honor of the late William E. Barber. Barber, then a captain, received the Medal of Honor for heroically leading his Marine rifle company in a desperate five-day defense of a frozen mountain pass vital to the 1st Marine Division's breakout to the sea in December 1950 in the Chosin Reservoir campaign of the Korean War. He received the medal in 1952 from President Harry Truman.

"This is a somber occasion, but it also is a cause for celebrating the heroic achievements of a brave young Marine officer who was a graduate of Morehead State University and a native of Morgan County," said President Wayne D. Andrews.

A World War II veteran and former paramarine, Barber also earned the Silver Star Medal and his first of two Purple Hearts as a second lieutenant at Iwo Jima, where he disregarded his own wounds and direct fire to rescue two wounded Marines from enemy territory. He also received the Legion of Merit for his service in Vietnam.

Barber enrolled at MSU after graduating from high school but interrupted his studies to enlist in the Marines in 1940. He returned to MSU while on active duty and earned a bachelor's degree in 1964. He retired from the Marine Corps in 1970 at the rank of colonel. He died in 2002 and was buried in Arlington National Cemetery. He was a brother of the late Woodrow Barber, a former MSU professor.

"What more fitting tribute than to honor this man who represents all who have served and will serve our country in the preservation of our individual freedoms and our American way of life," said Dr. Andrews.

A veteran of two tours of duty during the Vietnam War, Dr. Andrews closed the ceremony with a line that honored Col. Barber along with all other veterans.

"We few, we happy few, we band of brothers...for he today that sheds his blood with me shall be my brother."

Carpenter honored by MSU

A 1954 graduate of MSU with a bachelor's degree in speech and theatre, he earned a master's degree from the University of Mississippi. Carpenter also did additional graduate work at Columbia, Florida State and the Institute in Arts Administration at Harvard.

He taught at the Woodleigh School in Maysville before beginning a 26-year career in higher education. His career included faculty positions at Northwest Mississippi Junior College, West Georgia College and Middle Georgia College where he served as chairman of the Speech and Drama Department.

He worked professionally at Unto These Hills in North Carolina, the Legion Star Playhouse in Pa., and the Asolo Theatre Festival in Florida.

Throughout his career, he directed more than 60 productions and in 1988 was recognized as Volunteer of the Year by the Georgia Department of Corrections for his work with the inmate drama program.

He endowed the Nelson M. Carpenter scholarship to assist worthy theatre students at MSU.

The first Carpenter Scholarships were awarded on Sunday, Oct. 19, to Cal Harris, Cincinnati junior, and Mary Linehan, Findlay, Ohio, sophomore.

He also is a charter member of MSU's Circle of Excellence.

OperaWorks to salute Giacomo Puccini

This year (2008) marks the 150th anniversary of the birth of the great Italian opera composer Giacomo Puccini. To celebrate the composer's contributions to the world of opera, Morehead State University's OperaWorks will present an evening of Puccini opera scenes on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 20-21.

The performances begin at 8 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall in the Baird Music Hall.

There will be no admission charge, but donations toward the ongoing endowment of MSU Opera Fellowships will be accepted.

The evening will open with a scene from Act II of Puccini's Madame Butterfly. It is the tragic story of an American naval officer and his Japanese geisha wife, whom he abandons to marry a "real" wife, an American woman. Playing the role of the young geisha, Cio-Cio San, will be Kristen Brown, Richmond senior, while Stacey Kennard, Chillicothe, Ohio, sophomore, will play her servant, Suzuki.

A lesser-known scene follows, the quintet from Gianni Schicchi, the one-act opera from the collection of one acts known as Il Trittico. One of his few comic operas, it comments on the greediness of a well-to-do 13th century Florentine family. The scene features Mallory Draughn, Pikeville senior; Ashley Pennington, Russell sophomore; Rachael Fannin, Morehead freshman; Blake Huffaker, Troy, Ohio, freshman; and Josh Joseph, Russell junior. In true Puccini fashion, the person playing the role of Gianni Schicchi will be a surprise.

The grand finale of the evening will be the entire second act of one of Puccini's most famous and beloved works, La Bohème. The work brings the audience into the lives of some very real but stock figures of Parisian life, the struggling young artists of that society. Although the opera has a tragic ending, Act II takes place on Christmas Eve in the heart of the famous Latin Quarter, and is full of joy, hope, romance and festivity.

The principal players in La Bohème include Dustin Stevens, Morehead junior, as the poet Rodolfo; Brown as Mimi, the seamstress; Amy Painter, Louisa senior, as Musetta, the party girl; Will Murphy, Hawesville junior, as Marcello, the artist;

Huffaker as Shaunard, the musician; Kyle Bentley, Pikeville senior, as Colline, the philosopher; Heath Tackett, Lucasville, Ohio, freshman, as the wealthy Alcindoro and Cameron Painter, Morehead senior, as the toy seller, Parpignol.

Featured as the ever cunning and wandering street urchins will be students from Lakeside Christian Academy.

Dr. Prindle established OperaWorks in 1993 to provide valuable stage experience for voice majors. This premiere vocal performance ensemble has performed extensively throughout the region and has taken two international performance tours, to Ireland in 2000 and to England and Wales in 2004.

Additional information is available from Dr. Prindle at (606) 783-2481 or by e-mailing her at r.prindle@moreheadstate.edu.

Taylor presents recital

Dr. Paul Taylor, associate professor of music at Morehead State University, will perform a lecture recital on Sunday, Nov. 23, at 3 p.m. in Duncan Recital Hall of Baird Music Hall.

The recital features several unpublished works that have rarely if ever been performed. The novelty of these works lies in that they were written for piano and narration: The Raven by Edgar Allen Poe, The Chirling and Death's Remembrance by William Butler Yeats, Ballade by Adam Mickewicz, and Late Love by D.H. Lawrence.

A bachelor's degree graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, Dr. Taylor holds a master's degree from the University of Illinois and a doctoral degree from the University of Wisconsin.

At MSU, Dr. Taylor teaches piano, music history and various other courses. He has been published in numerous music education journals, and has performed at many festivals, recitals and workshops around the world.

He will be joined by Michael Harford, professor of management, Dr. Mark Minor, professor emeritus; and poet Melodie Past. Joey Thieman, Kettering, Ohio, senior, a 2008 recipient of an undergraduate fellowship, will present his edition of a work for piano and trumpet.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Addition information is available by calling Dr. Taylor in the Department of Music at (606) 783-2473.

Americana Crossroads Live slated for Nov. 28

Leigha Knipp, Sasha Colette and The Last Date, and the Tommy Webb Band will perform at the next edition of "Americana Crossroads Live."

Morehead State Public Radio (MSPR) and the Kentucky Center for Traditional Music will present the program on Friday, Nov. 28, at the Morehead Conference Center, located on First Street. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with the music to start at 7 p.m.

Knipp grew-up in eastern Kentucky listening to Bluegrass and country music. Taking her music roots on the road and after a career as a back-up singer in Nashville, she completed her college degree in social work at Morehead State University. Knipp is currently employed as a professional development counselor with STARS for Kids Now, a program assisting with quality child care throughout Kentucky. She will be accompanied by Jason Hale and her father, Sandy Knipp.

A native of Olive Hill, Americana singer/songwriter Colette bases her music on Appalachian folk, country and blues. Her songs embrace honest vocals with rich lyrics of people, places and lifestyles from east Kentucky. Joining her will be musicians Paul Calliccoat and Bob Shortridge. Colette's latest CD is titled "Vegas For A Day." She also can be heard as host of "Americana Crossroads" weeknights on MSPR.

Formed in 2005 and based in east Kentucky, the Tommy Webb Band has performed its popular Bluegrass music for fans across Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. Showcasing a rich vocal style along with original songs and first-class musicians, the band's latest CD is titled "Now That You Are Gone." They also will perform at the Sipp Theater in Paintsville on Dec. 6 and at the Blue Ribbon Foxhunter's Lodge in Catlettsburg on Dec. 13.

"Americana Crossroads Live" is supported by Toyota Motor Manufacturing of Kentucky, Morehead Conference Center, Morehead Tourism Commission and EAT Gallery. Community partners include the Kentucky Folk Art Center, Morehead State University's Caudill College of Humanities, Arts and Humanities Council, Office of Communications and Marketing, Root-A-Baker's, Ale-8-One and Papa John's.

The series is now heard on 35 radio stations across the United States, Canada and in the Philippines. Concessions and door prizes will be available. Admission is $5 per person or $20 for a Family Pack of five. Children, 12 and under, are admitted free.

Additional information on "Americana Crossroads Live" is available on MSPR's Web site at www.mspradio.com or by calling MSPR at (606) 783-2001 or (800) 286-9659.

Geography Awareness Week activities underway

Morehead State University will join the annual celebration of physical and human diversity during Geography Awareness Week (GAW), Nov. 17-21.

Geography can be divided into two main areas, physical and human. Physical geographers study natural patterns and processes like global warming, water resources and deforestation. Human geographers examine social and cultural patterns and processes such as migration, urbanization and tourism.

Geographers use a wide range of tools to portray and analyze information associated with a geographic location, including maps, geographic information systems, aircraft and satellite remote sensing, mathematical modeling and more.

GAW was established when former President Ronald Reagan signed legislation that established the week, to be held the third week of November. Each year, the National Geographic Society uses a different theme to illustrate the importance of geography in education and in everyday life. The theme for this year's national observation is "My Wonderful World," and several events are planned on the MSU campus to commemorate the event.

In celebration of GAW 2008, the Geographical Society will present "Trival Pursuit: Student vs. Faculty" on Monday, Nov. 17, from 7-8:30 p.m. in 225 Radar Hall. Pizza and drinks will be provided.

On Tuesday, Nov. 18, the Geography Club will present "Map of the Dead: Mapping and Excavations at Ancient Mayapan" at 6:30 p.m. in 112 Rader Hall.

Additional information is available by calling the Department of Geography, Government and History at (606) 783-2655.

'A Mind of Winter' exhibit open at KFAC

Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center has announced the opening of "A Mind of Winter: An Exhibition of Folk and Fine Art from Kentucky."

It will remain on display through Feb. 21.

"A Mind of Winter" will feature more than 40 paintings, photographs, and works in other media by 26 Kentucky artists. The exhibition presents works by trained and self-taught artists.

Artists included are Marie Braden, Soldier; Brent Collinsworth, Hazel Green; Joan Dance, Paducah; Marilyn Foulke, Louisville; Ron Gevedon, Cannel City; Brandon Horton, Winchester; Joe Sartor, Morehead; and Michael Wagner, Wallingford.

"Periodically, we like to do an exhibition that features the work of both trained and self-taught artist," said Adrian Swain, KFAC artistic director. "This creates a unique tension within the exhibition. Visitors can compare and contrast how the artists, with different levels of formal training, explore the same theme. 'A Mind of Winter' offers both surprises and challenges."

"The title of the exhibition, 'A Mind of Winter,' comes from Wallace Steven's famous poem, 'The Snowman,' " said Matt Collinsworth, KFAC director. "In that poem, Steven's seems to say that to see winter as it really is, the viewer must become like the snowman, casting aside human feelings and assumptions, But I've always wondered how that could be any fun at all. By contrast, this exhibition offers many very human engaging takes on the theme of winter, and I think our visitors will have a great time with it."

Kentucky Folk Art Center is a cultural, educational and economic development service of Morehead State University. The Center is open Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 1-5 p.m. (April-December).

A photo look at Rachel Barton Pine's visit to MSU

Acclaimed violinist and philanthropist Rachel Barton Pine visited Morehead State University's campus last week (Nov. 13-15).

As the guest artist in the String Residency Project in MSU's Department of Music, Pine held a variety of presentations, lectures, workshops and performances during her three-day stay.

Pine is one of the world's leading violinists and has soloed with the Chicago, Philadelphia, Atlanta, St. Louis, Dallas, Montreal, Vienna, New Zealand and Budapest Orchestras. She has enjoyed collaborations with the rock band Kansas; pianists Daniel Barenboim, Christopher O'Riley and Christopher Eschenbach; baritone William Warfield; and violinist/fiddler Mark O'Connor.

Pine's Artist in Residency for String at MSU was funded, in part, by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in partnership with the Southern Arts Federation and the Kentucky Arts Council. Other sponsors include Virginia Harpham, the Buckner and Sally S. Hinkle Endowment for Humanities, Communications and Marketing, Morehead State Public Radio and MSU's Department of Music.

Tickets on sale for 'Ye Olde Madrigal Feaste'

Once a year, Morehead State University students, staff and faculty step back in time and place to medieval Europe to present "Ye Olde Madrigal Feaste."

The campus community is invited to spend an evening in the company of the lords and ladies, knights and naves, and jesters and jugglers. Preparations are now under way for the musical, visual and culinary celebration, scheduled to be held Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 4-6.

The Feaste, the University's official holiday dinner, is a 21st century recreation of Renaissance feasts held in baronial halls throughout England, celebrating the 12 days of Christmas. The event will feature gourmet food, themed entertainment, vocal and instrumental music and roving performers.

It will be held in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center at 7 p.m. each evening. The doors open at 6:30 p.m., with traditional holiday music.

The evening's activities will begin with the grand processional of the lords and ladies, minstrels and chanteuses and the "Lord of Misrule" -- Dr. Bob Willenbrink, chair of the Department of Communication and Theatre and master of ceremonies for the feaste. Brass fanfare will introduce the madrigal singers, who will fill the "castle" with sounds of the season.

A meal "fit for a king" will be served, complete with wassail and topped off with festive flaming plum pudding. Those who attend are encouraged to come dressed in Renaissance festival costumes, or traditional holiday attire.

Sponsored by MSU's Arts and Humanities Council, Department of Music and theatre and dance programs, Ye Olde Madrigal Feaste is presented by faculty, staff and students in the departments of art, music and communication and theatre. It is an annual fundraiser that supports educational opportunities for students enrolled in programs within the Caudill College of Humanities.

Several academic units collaborate for the celebration, including the Office of Communications and Marketing, Morehead State Public Radio and University Advancement.

Advance reservations are necessary by Friday, Nov. 28. Individual tickets are $25. Group tickets for tables of eight or more guests also are available.

Additional information on reservations or sponsoring this year's Madrigal Feaste is available by calling Allison Caudill at (606) 783-5473 or (877) 690-GIVE (4483).

President Andrews hosting two sessions with faculty and staff

President Wayne D. Andrews is hosting two public meetings with Morehead State University faculty and staff members during the first week of December. Both sessions will be held in Room 419 of Reed Hall.

"In keeping with my commitment to be as candid as possible in communicating with our academic community, I will conduct an open forum for faculty and staff members on Dec. 2 at 2 p.m. and again on Dec. 5 at 9 a.m.," Dr. Andrews said. "I intend to respond to questions on any topic. I also plan to share information on several matters."

Dr. Andrews said those who choose not to ask questions in public are welcome to submit them to him via e-mail at presidentandrews@moreheadstate.edu.

He stated:

"I realize that state and national economic conditions are sources of anxiety for our employees and their families. We also have some internal matters that have created a degree of unease, such as the academic audit and the general education review. It is important that we have open conversation about these and other matters that may be causing stress for any of us."

Dr. Prindle judges vocal competitions

Dr. Roma Prindle, associate professor of voice at Morehead State University, was recently contracted as an adjudicator for three prominent American vocal competitions.

The competitions were sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singing (NATS), in which Dr. Prindle holds a national office on the board of directors. On Nov. 8, she judged the finals of the Edward Baird Singer of the Year Award, a pre-professional competition hosted by the Texoma Region of NATS, held this year at Oklahoma City University. Edward Baird was the national president of NATS from 1985-1988.

Also that day, Dr. Prindle was an adjudicator for the H. Grady Harlan Award, presented to the senior or graduate student in the NATS Texoma Region with the most promising professional voice. Dr. Grady Harlan established that region's student auditions in 1951.

Earlier this year, Dr. Prindle was a judge for the semifinal auditions of the prestigious National Association of Singers of Singing Artists Awards. This national competition is held every other year during the national conference of the organization, which took place in June at the Gaylord Opryland Resort in Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Patrick earns Exemplary Service Award

Morehead State University's Dr. Charles Patrick, assistant to the provost/SACS director, will receive the Exemplary Service Award from the National Association of Industrial Technology (NAIT) during its banquet on Friday, Nov. 21, in Nashville.

The NAIT Exemplary Service Award was established in 1988 and was renamed the Dr. Alvin Rudisill Exemplary Service Award in 2002 in honor of Al Rudisill who served as NAIT's executive director for more than 20 years before his retirement in 2002.

Prior to 1987, this award was known as the President's award. The selection is made by the NAIT executive board chair and is presented on occasion to individuals deemed to have made exemplary contributions to the national association.

Dr. Patrick has served as the board chair of the Journal of Industrial Technology since 2004.

He holds the Ph.D. degree in mining engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. Additionally, he earned a master's degree in industrial engineering from the University of Pittsburgh, and a master's degree in mining engineering from West Virginia University. Dr. Patrick also is a graduate of the West Virginia Institute of Technology, where he earned degrees in mining engineering technology.

Giles named major gifts officer

Morehead State University has announced that Darold Giles has joined the Office of Development as major gifts officer.

In his new position, he will work with both current and prospective major gift donors of the University. He will be responsible for cultivating and stewarding the University's relationship with assigned major gift prospects resulting in increased private giving.

Private giving assures MSU of an unparalleled flexibility to meet emerging needs and respond to world-class opportunities by providing need-based scholarships, state-of-the-art equipment and technology, and research opportunities leading to important discoveries in science, medicine and the arts.

"Returning to Morehead State is truly like coming home," Giles said. "MSU alumni and friends have so many things to be proud of and the University's vision of what MSU will become will only bolster that pride."

Giles comes to Morehead State from his previous position as director of sales and marketing for Gateway Manufacturing Inc. Prior to that position, he served in several executive capacities in the association management division of Host Communications Inc.

He holds a Bachelor of Arts degree and is currently pursuing a master's in business administration degree at MSU.

KY AHED gets ARC funding

Morehead State University has been awarded funding from the Appalachian Regional Commission to continue its work with the Kentucky Appalachian Higher Education Network (KY AHED).

The value of the grant is $300,000 and runs through June 30, 2010. This brings the total amount funded to more than $900,000.

KY AHED is a collaborative partnership among MSU, the ARC, four community and technical colleges, 19 county school systems and the Governor's Office for Local Development in Frankfort.

The project is led by Dr. Dale Duvall, grant writer of the program and special assistant to the president for the P-16 program at MSU, and Keith Walker, KY AHED grant coordinator.

KY AHED's purpose is to assist partner high schools through grants and other resources to help students overcome barriers in education. The program primarily focuses on providing information on applying for college and financial aid to students. In working with the program, MSU also sponsors parental involvement programs in local high schools, providing information on financial aid strategies and entrance requirements, as well as holding college and career fairs and various speakers.

Schools in financially distressed counties in the Appalachian region of Kentucky are eligible to participate in this competitive program. Schools submit an application, and if accepted, receive an award of $5,000 for the year.

The award allows for the education of both students and parents on the importance of continuing education. Students at participating schools are encouraged to visit an institution of their choice, whether it is a four-year college or university, community college, technical college or another option.

Four community colleges are currently participating in the program with MSU, including Hazard Community and Technical College, Southeast Community and Technical College, Big Sandy Community and Technical College and Ashland Community and Technical College.

Nineteen counties are currently participating in the KY AHED program with MSU. Those include Breathitt, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Harlan, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Lewis, Letcher, Magoffin, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Powell and Wolfe.

"Eventually, we'd like to see every school district in Kentucky that is eligible to be a part of this program," said Duvall. Only five counties were involved with KY AHED's first year and Duvall is expecting 27 high schools to participate in 2010.

The KY AHED program at MSU continues to increase the number of students participating in the program. In exposing students to the idea of attending a university, college, community college or technical school, the program is making positive impacts. This process is building students' confidence and self-esteem.

The program also encourages career exploration and awareness in its participating school districts as well as helping students learn what academic skills will be needed in their first year of higher education.

The KY AHED program at MSU also also established a network between the high schools and area higher education institutions to help students prepare for college success, with a particular emphasis on math and science.

During its first three years the KY AHED program at MSU has positively affected 498 students in this region.

More information on the program is available by contacting Dr. Duvall at (606) 783-9379 or Walker at (606) 783-9519.

Inclement weather plan

As the winter months generally bring unpredictable weather patterns, Morehead State University has announced its policy for announcing delays and cancellations.

The University will select from one of three options when dealing with inclement weather that may affect the daily schedule of faculty, staff and students or visitors to the main campus.

Plan A. MSU is closed . All administrative offices will be closed and classes will not meet.

Plan B. MSU will operate on a two-hour delay . Offices will open at 10 a.m. Students will begin the day with the 10:20 a.m. class.

Plan C. MSU classes are on a two-hour delay . Offices will open at 8 a.m., as usual. Students will begin the day with the 10:20 a.m. class.

Essential service personnel will continue to report when Plans A and B are in operation. All questions and/or concerns should be directed to the employee's immediate supervisor.

Evening classes at off-campus sites will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis.

When the normal hours of operation are interrupted, a bulletin broadcast review message will be placed on the University's voice messaging system, as well as the (606) 783-INFO (4636) number.

In the event of a weather emergency, an alert button will be activated on the University's homepage at www.moreheadstate.edu. Information also will be provided to Morehead State Public Radio (90.3 FM, WMKY; 88.3 FM WOCS, Leros/Booneville; W202BH, 88.3 FM, Inez), the University's public radio network, and other radio and television stations in the area.

Decisions on schedule changes will be available for listeners/viewers by approximately 6 a.m. whenever possible. Additional information on the weather plan is available from MSU's Police Department at (606) 783-2035.

Nearly Naked Mile slated for Dec. 3

Morehead State University's Student Alumni Ambassadors will host the second annual "Nearly Naked Mile" on Wednesday, Dec. 3.

The one-mile charity run will begin on the lawn of the Adron Doran University Center on the MSU campus. The event will begin at 8:30 p.m.

The "Nearly Naked Mile" is a coat drive benefit event for families in the Morehead community. Faculty, staff, students and community members are encouraged to donate new or unwanted coats, which will be given to Christian Social Services in Morehead for distribution.

Coats can be dropped off at the MSU Alumni Center now until Dec. 3. They also can be donated on the evening of the event.

Participants in the "Nearly Naked Mile" can come dressed in costume or in comfortable running clothes. Popcorn and hot chocolate will be provided.

Prizes for the event will be awarded to first, second and third place finishers, as well as the most creative costume and the "Nearly Naked" award.

In last year's inaugural run, 65 runners participated in the one-mile run for charity. In addition, more than 120 coats were collected.

More information on the "Nearly Naked Mile" is available by calling MSU's Office of Alumni Relations at (606) 783-2080.

Free business workshop to be set for West Liberty

Morehead State University at West Liberty's Small Business Development Center will host a workshop on "How to Grow and Protect Your Business" on Tuesday, Dec. 2.

The free workshop will be held at the Regional Enterprise Center, 151 University Drive, in West Liberty. The seminar will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Small business owners need access to tax, accounting, legal, technology and marketing people. Most times, all of these services are too expensive for a small business owner and some businesses may fail because they do not have this type of access.

Workshop topics include:

- How to afford unlimited access to top rated attorneys
- How to gain unlimited access to business experts
- How to get a good Web site to expose your business
- Free listings to market your business on the Internet
- Free web-based accounting tools.

This workshop is one of many provided by MSU's small business development centers. To register, call the West Liberty SBDC at (606) 743-4005 or visit online at www.ksbdc.org .

Training programs, sponsored or cosponsored by SBDC, are available to all individuals without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

For a list of upcoming events, you may visit the MSU SBDC Web site at www.moreheadstate.edu/sbdc .

Extraordinary journey makes flag unique

But this is just not just a normal flag. It has special meaning because of the unique journey it traveled to reach MSU.

The flag was flown on combat missions aboard U.S. Army helicopters operating in and around Baghdad, Iraq. The aviators who carried that flag did so at the request of their former comrade in arms, Lt. Col. Max Ammons, now the professor of military science at MSU. They had served together during Ammons' second combat tour in Iraq with the 2nd Battalion, 3rd Aviation Regiment, 3rd Infantry Division.

Ammons presented the flag last week to MSU President Wayne D. Andrews, a Vietnam veteran, during the Veterans Day ceremony honoring the late William E. Barber, a Medal of Honor recipient.

"We promised the Barber family and those veterans who attended that this special flag would be flown every day in tribute to their service to our country and in honor of those now in harm's way," Dr. Andrews said.

MSU's 21st Century Education Enterprise receives grant

Morehead State University's 21st Century Education Enterprise Inc. is expanding its reach. Since September when the MSU Board of Regents authorized the creation of the new nonprofit corporation to promote community engagement partnerships, professional development, and classroom technology innovations, the program has hosted workshops for more than 250 teachers and administrators from Bath, Boyd, Fleming, Floyd, Johnson, Lewis, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Owsley and Rowan counties.

"Recently the College of Education was awarded a significant grant that will be administered by the 21st Century Education Enterprise," said Krista Pack Barton, director.

The Improving Educator Quality (IEQ) grant program focuses on increasing the academic achievement of all students through professional development initiatives that ensure K-12 teachers and administrators are highly qualified.

Previously called the Eisenhower Professional Development Program for Math and Science, the IEQ grant program is supported by federal funds authorized by Title II, Part A of the No Child Left Behind Act.

The grant was awarded through the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education. Other partners include the U.S. Department of Education and Kentucky Department of Education.

According to Dr. Cathy Gunn, dean of MSU's College of Education, "the successful proposal was a collaborative effort by Barton; Janet Graybell, grants and contracts administrator; Rebecca Roach, professional development associate; and Dr. Paul Steele, director of the Institute for Correctional Research and Training."

The $280,000 grant is designated for two years beginning Jan. 1.

"This is MSU's second IEQ grant but the first multi-year funded IEQ proposal that will boost the University's ability to impact the quality of the teachers in the K-12 classrooms," said Barton. "Teachers in our service region and faculty at the University have been very receptive to our 21st century initiatives."

Additional information regarding the enterprise and its programs is available by calling (606) 783-2393.

Thomas wins MSPR tickets

Dr. Cathy Thomas of Morehead is the winner of two tickets to Neil Berg's 100 Years of Broadway on Saturday, Jan. 31, at the Norton Center for the Arts in Danville. Neil Berg's 100 Years of Broadway features selections from several Broadway musicals, including Phantom of the Opera, Jersey Boys, Mamma Mia and Chicago. The giveaway was sponsored by Morehead State Public Radio. Additional information available by calling (606) 783-2001 or visit its Web site at www.msuradio.com.

MSU takes part in Empty Bowl campaign

Morehead State University students and faculty from the Department of Art's ceramic lab have crafted more than 500 bowls that will be contributed to a project to fight hunger.

MSU students and faculty will donate their work to Empty Bowls, an international movement comprised of independent community events joined together to fight hunger. Empty Bowls was started by potters to encourage the intersection of ceramic production and community involvement.

Each event is organized locally and raises money that goes to feed the hungry in that region.

The local event will be held at Morlan Gallery at Transylvania University in Lexington on Wednesday, Dec. 3, from 6-7:30 p.m. Guests who purchase a bowl also will enjoy a chili dinner.

"Our students have been so excited about turning their creative production towards a service-oriented project," said Kira Campbell, assistant professor of art. "The ceramics lab has been swimming in bowls for weeks now and this is a very tangible way for our students to see how artists can impact society."

More information on Empty Bowls and the participation of the MSU ceramics lab is available by calling Campbell at (606) 783-2787.

Don B. Young Sr., former art professor and alumni director, dies

Don B. Young Sr., 74, assistant professor emeritus of art and former director of alumni relations at MoreheadState University, died Monday, Nov. 24, at his home.

A two-time MSU graduate, Young earned his bachelor's degree in art and English, and his master's degree in supervision. He was an Air Force veteran and a former high school teacher.

He served the University from 1967 to his retirement in 1994. After his retirement, he continued to work part-time and served as interim director of the Kentucky Folk Art Center in 2002.

He is survived by his wife, Pauline Young, university editor at MSU, one son, one daughter, one step-daughter, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday, Nov. 26, at 10:30 a.m. at Northcutt and Son Home for Funerals in Morehead with Dr. J. D. Reeder officiating. Full military rites will be conducted by Morehead American Legion Post No. 126, who also will serve as pallbearers.

Visitation is Tuesday, Nov. 25, from 6-8 p.m. at Northcutt and Son Home for Funerals. Masonic services will be conducted at 7 p.m. by Morehead Masonic Lodge No. 654.

In lieu of flowers, memorials are suggested to the MSU Department of Art, Morehead State University Foundation, Palmer Development House, Morehead, KY 40351.

Christmas in the Mountains slated Dec. 12-13

A warm and cozy holiday remembrance, highlighting traditional Appalachian and Celtic customs, music and dance along with regional literary works will be presented this season as the kick-off event of the Highlands Light Opera Heritage Series. "Christmas in the Mountains" is slated for Friday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m. at the McNabb Middle School theatre in Mt. Sterling and Saturday, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m. at the Morehead Conference Center.

The White Horse String Band, a popular local ensemble, will be featured in the program. They will perform solo numbers and provide accompaniment for the traditional songs and dances. Familiar songs, such as Kentucky Wassail, The Cherry Tree Carol, What Wondrous Love Is This, and Brightest and Best, will be performed by the soloists and chorus of the Highlands Light Opera, directed by founder Dr. Roma Prindle.

Less familiar tunes brought to the mountains by African-American railroad workers and mining immigrants from Italy, Germany and Yugoslavia, also will be presented. The audience will have a chance to join in a carol sing.

Several personalities will read excerpts from works focused on the region, including those of Jean Ritchie, Wendell Berry, Truman Capote and Richard Chase.

At the center of the evening will be a short mummer's play, a vestige of British heritage, practiced at one time in certain mountain areas. It is the hope of Dr. Prindle that "Christmas in the Mountains" will become a part of the annual holiday festivities for local families.

"It will evolve from year to year, always bringing nearly forgotten family and regional customs, songs and stories to our audiences," she said.

The soloists and chorus for the program include Mallory Draughn, Pikeville; Hillary Keese, Belfry; Stacey Kennard, Chillicothe, Ohio; Will Murphy, Hawesville; Lori Patterson, Harrodsburg; Holly Forbes, Greenup; Melanie Everman, Lexington; and Emma Irick and Blake Huffaker, Troy, Ohio;

Admission is $5. Tickets for the shows will be available at the door. Reservations are not necessary. More information is available by calling (606) 783-2481.

Marks wins KACE award

Andrea Marks, Morehead State University graduate in agriculture, of Lewisburg, Ohio, recently received the prestigious Ken Noah Award for Outstanding University co-op/intern student for 2008.

The award is given annually by the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Employers (KACE). Students are nominated from all Kentucky colleges and universities by career professionals. The honor included a plaque and $300 cash award. To be eligible, nominees have had to have made a significant contribution to their internship employer and received an outstanding performance evaluation. The KACE Awards Committee reviews all nominations and selects recipients based on information submitted by their employer and career liaison.

"She was a career counselor's dream student in that Andrea did not seek an internship to add to her resume, but that she wanted to help change the world for the better. She was pro-active and the internship Andrea chose was very competitive," said Hawkins.

"The application process was involved and strenuous. Getting the money to go to Washington was also hard. But, Andrea never complained. She kept a positive attitude and her eye on what she wanted."

Not only did Marks receive the coveted internship with the USDA APHIS Biotechnology Regulatory Service and excellent evaluations on her class work and internship, but she also received a job offer before the end of the summer. She has remained full-time in Washington, D.C., with the USDA and, indeed is helping make a better world through research and regulatory standards in areas that affect everyone of us...food on our table.

Marks traveled to Bowling Green to accept the award at the annual KACE conference.

In her acceptance speech, Marks said "I couldn't have done it without the support of my parents and the career services staff (MSU)."

She also said that she would like to acknowledge The Washington Center for helping her find the internship. The Washington Center is an organization that works with governmental, for-profit, nonprofit and international organizations to promote internships.

The program includes a substantive full-time professional work experience tailored to the student's interest, academic courses, and a leadership forum. The leadership forum includes speakers such as ambassadors, CEOs, cabinet and congress members, and leading journalists. To be eligible for this type of internship, students must be enrolled in an accredited college, be at least a second-semester sophomore, maintain a GPA of at least 2.75, remain enrolled at university and receive academic credit, and receive the endorsement of a campus liaison.

Hawkins stated that in more than 10 years as a career professional, it was the first time she has nominated a student for this award.

"Andrea is an exceptional student with a smile that lights up a room and a lot of determination. She would have been successful no matter what. But, going the internship route got her where she wanted faster. More students need to take advantage of internship programs."

Office of Enrollment Services names new counselor for diversity

Morehead State University has announced that Tashanna Rucker has joined the University's Office of Enrollment Services as an enrollment services counselor for diversity.

She will represent the University in a variety of marketing events targeted to minority populations to assist the university in its minority student recruitment efforts.

Prior to joining the enrollment services team at MSU, Rucker worked as a scholarship counselor at Missouri State University in Springfield, Mo.

During her spare time, she served as an adviser to the Multicultural Student Recruitment Team, assisted the University in its diversity initiatives, and was an executive member of the local NAACP.

Rucker holds a master's degree in public administration and policy analysis with the emphasis in nonprofit administration from Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville and a bachelor's degree in criminal justice emphasizing corrections from Southeast Missouri State University.

'Endgame' to be staged at MSU

Morehead State University theatre students will present the play "Endgame" next month in the Lucille Caudill Little Theatre on the MSU campus.

This one-act play by Samuel Beckett will be presented Tuesday through Saturday, Dec. 2-6, at 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 7, at 2 p.m.

"Endgame" explores many themes and issues through its story through tight space and a small cast.

"The world is ending, and Beckett's characters, all of whom have specific physical limitations, are trapped in a bunker because no one can survive outside for long," said Greg Carlisle, MSU instructor of communications and director of the play. "They pass the time in a chess-like battle of words, both hilarious and sad."

Zach March, Falmouth junior, will portray Hamm; Dustin Caudill, Bellevue junior, as Clov; Joel Bentley, California, junior, as Nagg; and Mary Linehan, Findlay sophomore, as Nell.

After the performance on opening night, a question and answer session will be held in the Little Theatre. This will give the audience the opportunity to converse with the cast and crew about the play.

Single ticket admission is $8 for adults and $4 for senior citizens and non-MSU students. All MSU students will be admitted free with a valid EagleCard ID. Seating is limited and advance reservations are recommended.

Poinsettias for sale

One of the most familiar and enduring symbols of the holiday season is the brightly-colored leaves of the poinsettia, and several beautiful varieties of the plant will be available for sale at Morehead State University.

Students in the Department of Agricultural and Human Sciences have produced varieties of the poinsettia, which also is known as the Mexican flame leaf or Christmas star. The plants will be offered for sale in the campus greenhouse, adjacent to Reed Hall, from Dec. 1-12, while supplies last. Sales will be held weekdays from 12:30-5:30 p.m.

Colors and varieties available are: red, white, pink and burgundy. Red and white Rose Poinsettias also will be available.

Poinsettias will be sold in 6-inch (at $6) and 8-inch (at $8.50) pots, and 10-inch double pot ($12). Foil wrap is available for $1 for 6-inch pots and $1.75 for all others.

Additional information, or to place a large order, is available by calling the department at (606) 783-2662.

MSUCorps wins food drive

MSUCorps at Morehead State University recently won top honors in the Make a Difference Day Food Drive Competition, sponsored by the Kentucky Commission on Community Volunteerism and Service.

The 31-member team from MSUCorps collected 878,739 ounces of canned goods and other nonperishable food. The MSU team began collecting food in early October.

Food collected in this campaign will be donated to food pantries and emergency feeding centers in the communities where the food is collected. Several other programs from across the state also participated in the collection drive.

"We wanted to help our local food banks be able to meet the need of the increase in the numbers of people seeking assistance," said Sherrie Bennett, project director for MSUCorps. "Some local food pantries have been hit hard due to the economic tough times we are facing as a nation," she said.

Created by USA Weekend Magazine, Make a Difference Day is an annual event observed on the fourth Saturday of October. The goal of the day is to inspire and encourage local residents to participate in community service projects.

MSUCorps will receive a Governor's Make a Difference Day Traveling Award in the spring at the annual Governor's Awards for Outstanding Volunteer Service.

More information is available by contacting Bennett at (606) 783-2719.
