CUTTER & GRY.

To the Public.

THE very extensive use of "Holladays Blue Lick Water," makes it necessary, in justice to ourselves, as well as those who use this valuable water, to make it known, that notwithstanding the fact, that we have for several years, taken the precaution to brand all the barrels, "Holladay's Blue Lick Water," it has not succeeded in preventing those who are not thoroughly acquainted with the water, from being imposed upon by the sale of other waters, as being ours. We are credibly informed, that the Proprietors of the Drennon Springs, on the Kentucky River purchase barrels that have contained "Holladay's Blue Lick Water," and fill them with water from the Drennon Springs, and it is sold as "Holladay's Blue Lick Water." As far as possible to guard against such impositions, we advise the public that A. M. Janney, Esq., of Maysville, Ky. is our only agent, for all the Blue Lick Water, shipped to points below or above Maysville, whether on the Ohio, the Mississippi, or any of their tributaries. Druggists and others who procure Water from our agent, should advertise the fact, as none other, than that obtained of him, in the region of country designated is genuine. T. & L. P. HOLLADAY.

Nautilus Mutual Life Insurance Company, 20, Wall Street, N. York.

THIS Company which confines its business exclusively to LIFE INSURANCE, has now been in operation for two years and a half, during which period it has issued 1523 policies; and for the first fifteen months experienced no loss. Its losses for the whole time have been less than $18,000, leaving an accumulation of about $65,000 on hand, beyond the payment of claims and expenses This added to the original guaranty capital of $50,000, places the security of the Company on a basis so solid as no longer to admit of a rational doubt.

All its profits accrue to the credit of the dealers, and are divided annually among them, whether the the policy be issued for a limited period or for the whole term of life, a feature unknown in the character of any other Mutual Life Insurance Company incorporated in this State.

Two dividends of 50 per cent. each, on the amount of premium received, in accordance with the provisions of the charter, have been declared, and are credited to the assured, and for which scrip certificates will be issued.

A dividend of 6 per cent. on the first year's scrip, has likewise been declared, payable in CASH, to the holders thereof, on demand, at the office of the Company.

For policies granted for the whole term of life, when the premium thereof amounts to $50—a note for 40 per cent. with interest at 6 per cent.—with our guaranty, may be received in payment, or it may be paid in cash, in which case it is expected, should the party survive to make 13 annual payments, leaving the dividends to accumulate, the policy will be fully paid for, and the accumulation ultimately added to the policy.

For further information, the public are referred to the pamphlets and forms of proposal, which may be obtained at the office of the company or any of its Agencies.

It is used successfully in the removal and permanent cure of all diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood, or habit of the system. It differs so essentially, and is so vastly superior to all other patent remedies that it is not permitted to go into the hands of those whose shelves constantly groan under the weight of worthless nostrums, whose chief efficacy is concealed within a mysterious and unmeaning name.

TRI-WEEKLY HERALD.

J. SPRIGG CHAMBERS, EDITOR.

Maysville, April 24, 1848.

FOR GOVERNOR.
Hon. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN.

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.
Hon. JOHN L. HELM.

An Anchor to the Windward.

The Louisville Journal, of Friday morning last, has a long and able article, deprecating in the most earnest manner, the growing tendency in the Whig ranks to the assumption of extreme positions. We think the article well timed. "Clay or nobody!"—"Taylor or nobody!" How harshly such language grates upon the ear of a true patriot! A sensible Whig, unaccustomed to look beyond the success of his principles, and the respectability of the candidate selected to maintain them, might well doubt the truth of the statement, that there are Whigs who will solemnly affirm their determination, to withhold their support from this or that candidate if nominated, because of his devotion to another, entertaining similar views, and not more respectable, in all the elements of good character.

The unwelcome truth, however, forces itself upon us, that such men do exist in our midst, and claim for themselves the honored name of Whigs. Their position is a false one, their policy suicidal. Devotion to the great principles of public policy advocated by the Whig party, for the good of our common country, not devotion to the success of this or that candidate, professing those principles, constitutes the distinctive characteristic of a true Whig; and so far from suffering personal prejudice or personal attachment, to control us in the disposition of our suffrages, it is the duty of every friend of his country and her institutions, to rise above all such influences, and submit gracefully to whatever course, the good sense and honest convictions of the representatives of the party in convention assembled, point out as most likely to result, in the successful establishment of Whig policy, in the administration of the government. Indeed, we hesitate not to say that the errors of the party in power, (to call them by no harder name,) glaring and palpable as they are, will inevitably be perpetuated, gaining increased strength by success, unless the Whigs of the Union unite upon the chosen standard bearer of their party, with a determination to transfer to him for the time being, whatever of zeal or enthusiasm, his principles are calculated to inspire.

We can conceive of no more embarrassing or mortifying position, than that of an intelligent man, professing a sincere belief in the excellence of his political principles, and anxious for their success, standing aloof from the struggle in which defeat is to overwhelm, or victory to enthrone those principles,—because in a moment of rashness or folly, he has sworn that he would under no circumstances, support the candidate whom his party has chosen for its standard bearer. Even the shouts which welcomed the victory of his principles, would pain his ear, because of the mortifying consciousness, that he has voluntarily assumed the position of a non-combatant, while compelled to receive the grape and cannister of a relentless foe. Such oaths are more sinful when kept, than when broken; but certainly should be avoided by sensible men, who have at heart the prosperity of their country. These remarks we deem called for, by indications of the state of feeling which they are intended to rebuke, with the hope that they may exercise some little influence, in preventing a state of things which every true Whig must regret, yet which is inevitable, unless the tendency to which we alluded in the commencement of this article is arrested.

☞We publish in to-day's paper the letter of Cassius M. Clay to the Hon. Henry Clay. There is great anxiety manifested to see it, and so far as we have read or heard, any expression of opinion in regard to the character of the letter, it is universally unfavorable. It is looked upon as an ill-natured, uncalled for exhibition of the writer's spleen which it were far better for his own fame if he had never indulged in.

☞See Poynitz & Pearce's advertisement of "Wool wanted." It will doubtless not be forgotten by farmers, that there is a cash demand for their surplus wool in Maysville.

☞That Jewelry of Gilpin's is a little handsomer than anything we have before seen. The styles of a large portion of ware now, and we think decidedly superior in elegance and taste to the recent productions of the jeweler's art found in the shew cases of our City dealers.

The Foreign News by the Sarah Sands which we publish to day, will be read with much interest.

☞The Circus boat, has landed at our wharf and the boys, are all eagerness for the show.

☞The shooting match, between the sportsmen of Louisville and Cincinnati, which came off on Thursday last at the latter city, resulted in a tie. Each club shot 43 birds.

"Save Me From My Friends!"

Horace Greely, the bold and talent Editor of the New York Tribune, is the author of the following unkind, and disingenuous attack upon Gen. Taylor:

"Our Washington Correspondent mentions that another and a more satisfactory bid for the Presidency from Gen. Taylor is expected shortly. We understand; by advices from that city, that a letter was produced by Mr. Taylor's friends in Congress, agreed upon as satisfactory, and sent to be transcribed and returned in the handwriting of Gen. Taylor as his opinions. If this is what our correspondent refers to, surely this letter will not be forthcoming. General Taylor must have too much self-respect to take part in any such transaction."

Mr. Greely's known enthusiasm in the support of Mr. Clay's pretensions to the Presidency, is a subject of general remark, and so far as we are concerned, is certainly not at all censurable, so long as he abstains from the use of language calculated to irritate the friends of other distinguished citizens, spoken of in connection with the office. But certainly the intimation that Gen. Taylor's friends, have been guilty of any thing so insulting to the old Hero, as the writing and transmission of a letter, of the character spoken of in the above extract, and for the purpose designated, is a covert blow at the character and capacity of Gen. Taylor himself, not to be indulged in with any thing short of absolute proof, of the correctness of the charge. It is one of those paragraphs which we had occasion to remark a few days ago, may well cause Mr. Clay to exclaim 'Save me from my friends.'

Since the foregoing was written, we have seen the same extract in the Lexington Atlas whose editors, like sensible men and true Whigs, as they are, condemn the spirit of the extract as calculated to injure Mr. Clay, and weaken the Whig cause.

☞The Georgetown Herald says that Col. Johnson addressed a public meeting in that place, on Monday last. His remarks drew forth repeated manifestations of approbation from the large audience assembled.

☞The Washington correspondent of N. Y. Tribune announces that the friends of Gen. Taylor say, that a letter from the old hero will soon be published, which will satisfy every body.

SUPPRESSED RESOLUTIONS.—The Washington "Union" of the 13th, announces that a "monster meeting" of all parties was held in Cincinnati, to give expression of sympathy and joy at the free movements in France, &c. And the Executive organ then copies the resolutions adopted by the meeting, suppressing the following.

Resolved, That we regard the decree of the Provisional Government of the French Republic declaring the immediate and unconditional emancipation of the slaves in its colonies, as a noble proof of the sincerity of the French people, especially deserving the admiration and gratitude of all lovers of liberty!

Resolved, That as friends of universal liberty, we hail with satisfaction the destruction of the unequal classes of society in France, and the emancipation of all slaves under her dominion; and that we hope that the time is not far distant, when our own country will imitate her glorious example.

The Editor of this same official organ, in the same paper, exults at the disappearance of hostility to slave extension—rejoices that the "democratic masses" and leading statesmen met the question frankly, and jeers at the Barnburners of New York representing them to be in a state of "lingering vitality" upon the subject of slavery: and then has the unfairness and meanness, to cowardly suppress the above resolutions, lauding the French Republic for emancipating their colonial slaves!!—Cin. Gaz.

A REMARKABLE MEETING.—The following notice, by an American Missionary, of a late meeting in Constantinople, shows the harmonizing tendency of Missions:

"Think of a great union meeting, consisting of Armenians, Jews, Americans, English, Scotch, German, Greeks, and Greek Jews, all sitting down together at the table of the Lord,—Congregationalists, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists, Methodists, baptized Jews and Protestants Armenians. The elements were distributed by a Jew, a German and the two deacons of the Protestant Armenians.—Prayers were offered in three languages' Turkish, English and Armenian. Remarks and exortations were made in four languages, German, English, Armenian and Turkish.—And hymns were sung to the same tune, and at the same moment, in three different languages, Armenian, German and English. The first tune was Old Hundred, the same that will be sung in the Millenium. There was no confusion, no discord. No one was out of time or out of tune. The harmony was perfect while each, with the mind and the understanding, and with the greatest power and might, was singing in his own tongue wherein he was born, or with which he is now familiar, the high praises of God. The effect was overpowering! It was 'the voice of a great multitude,' redeemed out of many nations, kindreds and tongues; and it rose on high like 'the sounding of many waters!' Our chapel was crowded with outsiders; and our hearts were filled with emotions to big for utterance."

A GENUINE COMPLIMENT.—It is said that a lady, of extraordinary beauty, once confessed that the only real compliment she ever received was from a coal heaver, who asked permission to light his pipe in her eyes. We have lately met with another compliment paid by a sailor, who was directed by his captain to carry a letter to the lady of his love. The sailor, having performed his errand, stood gazing in silent admiration upon the countenance of the lady, for she was "beautiful exceedingly."—"Well my, honest man," she said, "for what do you wait? there is no answer expected." "Lady," said the sailor. "I would like to know your name." "And why?" she replied, "why should you seek to know my name?" "Because," said he, 'because I would call upon it in a storm, and save some ship from sinking.'

Letter From Cassius M. Clay

We publish the following letter, not from any desire to be held responsible for what it expresses, but to satisfy a curiosity felt by many persons to read it. We do not like the tone of the letter; although we are opposed to the nomination of Mr. Clay, our opposition arises from our conviction that he could not be chosen. Our confidence in and respect for the man under whose banner we have done some service remains unabated, and we should regret to decry him. While we are firmly opposed to running him again for the Presidency, we shall ever cherish towards him a feeling of respect and veneration, as of one who has done his country good service, and been an honor and an ornament to the Whig party. With this explanation of our views, we publish the letter of C. M. Clay.—Boston. Atlas.

NEW YORK, April 13, 1848.

HON HENRY CLAY:

SIR—In the Tribune of this morning I find a letter dated Ashland, April 10th, 1848, over your signature. The letter is addressed, I presume, to the American people. If I did not know you well, the intervening space of three days only between its dates and its arrival here, would lead me to suspect its authenticity. If your determination to allow your name to go before the Philadelphia Convention as a candidate for the Presidency had been in accordance merely with your wishes and individual judgement, I should have kept a respectful silence. But as your determination is based upon the supposed interest, of the Whig party, I shall venture unasked, to add my opinion to that of the numerous Whigs to whom you refer. When I tell you that royalty rarely hears the truth, you will think, no doubt, that I repeat a very stale dogma, if not altogether out of place in a republic. But there are parasites in republics as well as despotisms, and of those you have a very liberal portion just now. Were I to claim to be your personal friend, I might better, perhaps, accomplish my purpose; but as I have never avowed one atom of sentiment, while, in reality holding another, I tell you frankly that although from my earliest youth I had been something more than a cold admirer of yourself, so when you started, on the 14th of August, 1845, to the Virginia Springs, leaving your friends and family to murder me in my sick bed, for vindicating those principles which you had taught me in your speeches at Lexington, I ceased to be your friend, and became by the necessity of my nature, your enemy. What I shall say to you now, then, will have the more weight, because you will see that it comes from an honest, if not an unprejudiced man; whilst I shall attempt to divest myself of the individual and speak as the member of a great party.

I shall then take my own letter in proper order. In saying that you had "a strong disinclination to the use of my [your] name in connection with that office," courtesy leads me to confine myself to the remark that you deceive yourself—but no one else! So soon as you were defeated in the last election, a committee of your friends from Frankfort waited upon you and conferred with you on this subject. Immediately you responded in a manner that led me, almost with the power of certainty, to remark to some friends that Henry Clay is a candidate again for the Presidency. Time attests my sagacity.

So strong was my conviction that you would be a candidate, when letters were read in the Convention of the "Whig friends of Gen. Taylor," in the State House at Frankfort, from the Hon. J. J. Crittenden, Hon. Charles S. Morehead and Hon. J. P. Gaines, begging us not to nominate Gen. Taylor, and thus push you from the track, and saying that you would on your return home retire from the canvass, in the presence of the thousands there assembled, I rose up and declared, that although I respected these gentlemen I had not the least confidence that you would in truth withdraw. Time attests my sagacity. After you had gone on to New York, and delegates were chosen to the National Convention, whilst you were the city's guest, and it was again asserted that you would declare on your return home, I said not you refused to go to New York last summer; you would not have gone now, unless you had determined to run for the Presidency. Time attests the truth of the prediction. You say that your friends represent that "the withdrawal of my name would be fatal to their success." If they so speak to you, they speak a different language elsewhere. I have been told that all the members of Congress from our own State but one, told you that you could not be elected, and that divers whom I could name, told you the same thing.—But if these reports be untrue, allow me to tell you, that I have heard almost universally that your name would again bring us defeat. In that opinion I concur, and I will give you my reasons. Because I am not guiltless myself, and because of the bad taste of the thing, I will not urge objections to your private character. Neither will I press your prestige of ill-luck, in saying that all the measures which you have urged upon the people, except the Missouri compromise, have been erased from the statute book.—For we lament in common, the fall of the tariff, the bank, and internal improvements, under your lead! I shall confine myself, then, to the question of availability. Three times have we run you, and three times your name has brought us defeat! So soon as Gen. W. H. Harrison had brought us up from a miserable minority, where you left us, to a large majority, you hurried on to Washington, when Mr. Tyler under Mr. Webster's lead was doing good service to the country and party, and by attempting to force on him and us the "obsolete Bank" which he had purposely slurred in the canvass, you brought us to a speedy minority!

A "long time ago," being too old to perform the duties of a preeminently laborious Senator, you gave the public a farewell address, and retired from public life. The Democratic party, by the excess of its numbers, was at once split into widely separated fragments. Messrs. Cass, Calhoun, Van Buren, Tyler, Polk, and others, were all pressing their claims with a bitterness before unknown to the party. "Whom the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad."—They determined to bring Texas into the Union, avowedly to break down the power of the free North, and to make this nation a slave empire. The friends of liberty rallied once more, and in spite of your Missouri compromise, and your consistent denunciation of all real anti-slavery action, your Raleigh letter made you by some fatality our candidate once more. The democratic feuds were at once cured up by the greater hatred of Henry Clay. Mr. Van Buren, who had taken similar ground with yourself, but who could not unite the party, was overthrown, and Mr. James K. Polk substituted. Notwithstanding the claims of other Whigs, I will now restrict myself to saying your equals, postponed, who no one now doubts could have been elected, we, the Whig party, all united on you. We fought with the ardor of brotherhood, and with the moral power of a noble cause. Our success seemed certain. Now once more, by that fatality which attends you, you cast out your Gazette letter, and disclaim any sympathy with emancipation. It is true there was a little inconsistency in this, inasmuch as you had always avowed just the opposite doctrine; but as you wrote to me "go on, good Cassius!" I thought at last all things would come out right.

This, however, was a small affair between you and me, and our abolition friends. But all at once, you came out in your Alabama letter, when you would "not reject a permanent acquisition of territory on account of a temporary institution!" This was a very different affair. It lay at the foundation of the whole contest. You "changed front." The Whigs of the North were disgusted. They had nothing left to contend for. The battle was lost. We felt our country's wounds in your person. We paid your debts, we condoled with you in your retirement once more, and raised monuments to your memory! Once more the excesses of the Democratic Party began to exhibit themselves. The unconstitutional annexation of Texas, and the Presidential war, began to stir the souls of indignant freemen. Seeing that we were in a minority, and without the sympathies of the people—having experienced that a peace party can never have the confidence of a Republic during a raging war,—our wise Whig leaders voted supplies, and the Whigs turned out to the war, and once more we steadily brought ourselves up from a minority where you had again left us, into a majority.

The Administration had all the responsibility of the loss of honor, men, and money, by the war; our Whig generals reaped all the glory. The success of our party was certain. The public, with a unanimity never before seen in this country, looked to one man; a man who, growing too great for the powers at Washington, was left to perish with a handful of men before twenty thousand troops in the enemy's country.—But Zachary Taylor was not the man to die, to accommodate either President Polk or his ally Santa Anna! The battle of Buena Vista fixed General Taylor in the hearts of this people! Neither you, nor the wireworkers of party, nor the President can cause him or his friends to "surrender!" The honest old soldier was generous enough to give a parting compliment to your name, by saying he would have preferred you to himself to lead us once more to the battle. You have taken him at this word! Emulatingly your friends of the "secret circular," under the pretence of being "the friends of General Taylor," stab him to the vitals.—Then sharp sighted patriots found out that General Taylor was not the choice of the Whigs—that this willingness of the grateful heart of the people was all a sham affair: in a word, that you would reluctantly consent to run again. I tell you plain spoken man, sir; I tell you I know these men; they would not have ventured to take this step without your consent! It is true this is not fair play! It looks to me like political assassination! No: will it be cured in the eyes of all disinterested men by the spirit of violence, which your friends in Frankfort—in Baltimore—in Cincinnati—and in New York, have ventured against the friends of Taylor and "the liberty of speech."—The verdict of a jury against your son lately in Kentucky, ought to teach you and them, that we are not slaves even to Henry Clay.

It is true that this is in you deep in gratitude to Gen. Taylor; but you are just playing out your life-long game; for when did ever Henry Clay spare an enemy or a friend? I congratulate you upon your determination at last to denounce the Native American party, to whom you wrote encouraging letters during the last canvass; and which they were kind enough to suppress: you can do so with impunity! The Native American party is dead! But whether the memory of the Irish and other foreigners will be so easy in forgetting a wrong as you are in not remembering a favor, remains to be seen! Space compels me to pass over the log roll of your self-advocacy and confine myself to two specifications. You seem to think that Ohio will not go for any "one residing in the Slave States" but you; and that New York would more certainly bestow her vote on you, than any other candidate."

Ohio went for you, by the Western Reserve vote, which I assisted in getting for you, because you were suspected of truth, in declaiming against Slavery! I had too much respect for your talents to suppose that you would again attempt the same shallow game! No, your Janus-faced reputation, for taking advantage of the blindest "fanatics." Besides, if the free North would not take you, when the question was Clay and no slave territory, will they take the issue which you covertly tender them, Clay and no free territory?

With regard to New York, you seem strangely to have forgotten the fact, that the Whig members of the Legislature have declared that the State will go for "any other Whig," to close the mouths of your partizans here! The city election of a Democratic Mayor, in New York, whilst your friends put the election upon your popularity here, demonstrates that your name is indeed "all powerful" to change a Whig majority into a minority at least! If the Whig party are capable of learning, in this they will read the future. I know the strength of party organization, and the desperation of those who have life estates in your person—you may succeed in pushing Webster, and McLean, and Seward, and Corwin, and Scott, and others from the track once more—the dagger of your "secret" committee and your public inquisitors may kill off Gen. Taylor, just now—but the deceiver may be himself deceived! Yes, Henry Clay can never be President of these States!

I have the honor to subscribe myself,
ever a Whig, and your obt'nt serv't,
C. M. CLAY.

From the Manchester Examiner.

ENGLISH OPINIONS.

The Middle and Working Classes Position.

Human passion, like the human countenance; has its generic characteristics; and, therefore, all revolutions must exhibit similarities in action and results. Notwithstanding the great change which has passed over society, we see, in the French Revolution of 1848, much that exhibits a striking analogy to that of 1789. There is similar alarm; hope and fear, the motive powers of human conduct, are in alternate ascendency; dreams of social regeneration animate the ardent, a dread of indefinite change agitates the timid; and, for the time, social existence resembles a vessel steered in arctic seas, in perpetual danger of being crushed between conflicting masses.

The similarity is also striking between the effect produced on the public mind of England by the French Revolution of sixty years ago, and that which the present great change is exciting now. Sixty years ago, the working classes of this country demanded the realization of the "Five Points of the Charter," and they found a Duke of Richmond to embody them in a bill, which he actually presented to the consideration of Parliament Sixty and seventy years ago, Democracy raised its head with a sterner and more menacing aspect than it exhibits now, and found men of the highest genius to reiterate demands more sweeping in their nature than have yet obtained expression in the general voice of the people. "Kingcraft," and "priestcraft," as the phrases went, awoke a fiercer hostility; all existing institutions in Church and State seemed destined to a more sudden and inevitable overthrow; good men from the pulpit announced the dawning of a new era, full of blessings for the human race; and human progress and perfectability were the watchwords of earnest thinkers and hopeful reformers. In the American War of Independence, religious, Puritan New England was set on fire by a smart, shrewd, yet shallow and flippant pamphlet, called "Common Sense," written by Thomas Payne. During the political excitement that preceded the first French Revolution, sentiments were uttered by public men in England which would be thought extreme even at the more advanced period at which we now live; and Pitt himself, ere he subsided into a triple that weathered the storm," encouraged the demand for Parliamentary Reform by speeches that might have elicited cheers in our Free Trade Hall. Then it was that Bentham, in his "Fragment on Government," pierced to the very core the fallacies, the fictions, the phrases, of that glorious constitution in Church and State, which, eulogized by Blackstone, and admired by Dolowne. Then it was that Godwin wrote of "Political Justice," and his wife of the "Rights of Woman;" when Mackintosh fleshed his maiden sword, and achieved his first reputation, in his vindication of the French Revolution from the vituperative invectives of Burke; when Wordsworth and Southey dreamt of cresting "a Pantisocracy on the banks of the Susquehanna;" and the whole edifice of European power, shaken to its foundation by the throes of the blind strong man, seemed about to bury everything in its ruins.

But though in this respect there are striking similarities between the two revolutions, the dissimilarities are not less remarkable. We have heard intelligent and liberal-minded men avow their opinion that the present French Revolution will run a course similar to that of the first one—and that change will be followed by anarchy, and anarchy by military despotism. It is, as Lord John Russell remarked on Monday night, somewhat hazardous to prophesy—the Future of the French Republic has unquestionably very dark and stormy aspects. But is there not also, in the entire character of public opinion, both in France and England, a something which may inspire the most timid with hope? Blood has been shed; senselessness has been excited; wild demands are made; unreasonable expectations have been raised; a financial crisis impends; panic ties up money-bags, and Commerce looks forward, uneasy and foreboding. But is there not also a breadth in public opinion, on which confidence in the maintenance of public order may rest with far more security than at any former period? Are the masses in France and England as restless, as ferocious, as much inclined to the destruction of life and property as was the case in both countries during the first French Revolution? It were a slander to affirm it. That very increase of our population, which makes so great a difference between the present and former revolutionary periods, and which in one point of view, renders the present period more perilous, is also an additional element of security. The population are thoroughly impressed with the conviction that in such a country as this existence can only be obtained by regular industry, through the orderly operations of trade and commerce; and that convition operating as a perpetual demonstration, will more certainly keep the peace than troops and special constables, who might feel they were going through a painful duty without heart or hope, or care for the interests at stake.

But there is another point of view which marks a great difference in the present period, and which is calculated to inspire both hope and fear. What ever may be the inward feeling of the upper classes, there is no exhibition of the old ascendency spirit. The word "rabble" is all but blotted out of their vocabulary, and the people have become a fact. Kings, dignities and hierarchies speak with deference of an invisible power, which formerly they knew not, and would not recognize.—Everywhere, even in Russia, the common mass of men are becoming actualities—facts—a something which, if not taken into prompt account, will render Government an impossibility. This is a stupendous fact—a mighty change. The people begin to know that they have risen into a living power in the apprehensions of those who were once almost their absolute rulers; and it is this conviction which inspires the great body with disgust at the senseless riots which have recently taken place. Walk among a group even of young lads in fustian jackets, and you will hear them speaking with unqualified contempt of the conduct of the rioters. There is no use, they say, in such things, and they disclaim all sympathy or association with blackguards, whose only object is to destroy and plunder. Now, although this conviction arises from intellectual appreciation, from the knowledge which tells them of the folly as well as the criminality of such conduct, it is also a manifestation of the quiet consciousness of power. There may be furious declamation at public meetings, and wild expressions used by indiscreet orators; but the mass of the people will not tolerate rioting, simply because they consider that it is not only foolish in itself, but also because all their objects can be attained without it.

Now, this is a very critical point at which the popular mind has arrived; and the middle classes are responsible for it. For at least a quarter of a century, that have been educating the working classes, and convincing them that everything is to be obtained by peaceful, orderly, constitutional agitation. By that means, all the changes have been effected that have taken place, from the repeal of the Test and Corporation acts down to Free Trade. Nay, more, the middle classes have been indebted to the working classes (as during the Reform agitation) for a little of that salutary terrorism which convinced temporal and spiritual lords that concession is much more safe and more salutary than repression. Now, the working classes may fairly say to the middle classes: By our joint efforts we obtained Catholic Emancipation, repeal of the Test and Corporation acts, Parliamentary and Municipal Reform, abolition of the Food Monopoly, and various other installments of justice, do we now, once for all, part company, you to stand still, we to go on?

What answer is to be given? Shall we join the aristocracy in hoping that another Napoleon will arise in France, another Pitt in England, another suspension of cash payments, a few hundred millions more added to the National Debt, and a stoppage of further concession by another Continental War? Or shall we, like business men, take up the demands of the working classes, with the view of ascertaining to what extent the changes sought would conduce to the welfare of the whole community?—Thirty millions of us are here living together; we wish to live as rational, industrious people; we do not wish to interrupt any man's pursuits, or to appropriate any man's gains; we seek peace, order, everything that may enable us to exist together as a civilized and truly great people. Can we attain these objects by further changes? If so—how? Would annual Parliaments give us a more representative House of Commons? Would electoral districts abrogate those small boroughs, sinks of corruption, where drunken voters can be bought like rotten sheep? Are we prepared to extend the suffrage? How can we most speedily and most effectually reform the Church, secure economy in the administration of the finances, put down the mere aristocratic influences, and render Government an instrument of good to the entire community? These are great and grave questions; and ere long as classes we will be called upon to give them a practical answer.

From Douglas Jerrold's Newspaper.

We are living in an age when the people of nearly all Europe are pating to realize the ideal of a perfect Government. France has unfurled the banner of political liberty, and is striving to solve the idustrial problem. The Italian principalities, weak in their disunion, are hopeful that the day has dawned when the cause of independence of the peninsula may be consolidated through the representative system. Germany aspires through the concentration of its intelligence in a Federal Assembly, to preserve the integrity of the fatherland against foreign aggression and internal tyranny.—Spain, with scarcely any definite object in view, ever changing, never settled, shows, by its perpetual restlessness, is discontent with the present, without displaying any capacity to mould the future to is will.

This general movement throughout Europe appears to us to be an effort to investigate the Science of Society, and reduce its principles into action. A new philosophy is invoked * * * The European philosophy is running to realize the ideal of a perfect government. It hopes to succeed through the application of the associative principle, in which it has faith, as the antagonist of that class legislation to which human suffering is usually ascribed. It may not yet be prepared to reduce that principle into practice, but it perceives its beneficial action in various cases where the experiment has been tried, and this creates a confidence in its efficacy. It is seen in full vigor in insurance offices, established on the mutual principle, where all the members share in the division of the profits, and partially where a more exclusive system dominates. It is seen to act most powerfully in the clubs of the West-end, where it gives equal comfort to the holder of a few hundreds a year as to the millionaire. The river steamboat and the omnibus are additional illustrations, and one of its latest forms is that of Building Societies. In point of fact the associative principle lies at the root of civilization, and when men are scared by it expressed in such words as Communism, Fourierism, St. Simonianism, Owenism, and similar phrases, it can only be with its excesses or its tendencies. It is imagined that processes which increase the happiness of the higher and middle classes, if adopted by those who live on wages, would prove destructive; as if the sources of well-being were dangerous when they ceased to be monopolies.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE!

Arrival of a Packet-ship.

King of Prussia Dethroned and Ministers Imprisoned—Revolution in Lombardy Complete—King of Bavaria Abdicated—Bloody Battle in Milan—The City in Possession of the People—Austria Compelled to Abdicate—King of Naples Yielded to the Demands of the People—Russia Refuses to Recognize the French Republic—Army Ordered to Resist Anarchy.

NEW YORK, April 19th.

The Ship Duchess of Orleans arrived here to-day from Havre, bringing intelligence from France and other parts of Europe. The news by this arrival is of equal interest with any previous advices, showing, as they do, the almost entire success of the people in the several nations in which they are struggling for Liberty.

The King of Prussia had been dethroned by the people, and the Minister imprisoned. The Prince Royal escaped to England.—The Polish prisoners, had all been liberated.

Archduke Stephen was appointed Viceroy of Hungary.

The King of Bavaria abdicated in favor of the Prince Royal, who ascended the throne, under the title of Maximilian II.

In Milan, a bloody battle was fought, after which the people obtained possession of the City.

The King of Hanover acceded to all the demands of the people. He was obliged to submit by utter necessity. Anabrick, a liberal deputy, was called to fill a place in the Cabinet.

It was expected that the Emperor of Austria, would be compelled to abdicate.

The Emperor of Russia had ordered his Army to resist the flood of anarchy, and refused to recognize the French Republic.

The King of Naples had yielded to all the demands of the people.

The greatest excitement prevailed at Paris, owing to serious difficulties between the rich and lower classes. The former were compelled to bar the doors of their houses, and the Military were called out to suppress the riots. The financial embarrassments continued, and heavy failures occurred daily. The house of Rothschilds, was mentioned as having suspended, but the report is doubted.

The Polish Revolution was confirmed, and four hundred Poles had left Paris to join their countrymen.

Genoa was declared separate from Sardinia, with a Republican government.

From England or Ireland there is no later intelligence than received by the Steamer.

STILL LATER from EUROPE!

Arrival of the "Sarah Sands!!"

Highly Important Intelligence—Austrian Troops Expelled Sardinia—Denmark Preparing for War—Disturbances in Stockholm—Venice Declared a Republic—Russian Troops Going to Poland French Army Moving Northward—Great Agitation in France—Postponement of the Election—Prussian Republic not Confirmed—Austrian Loss at Lombardy, 20,000—The Markets, &c., &c.

NEW YORK, April 21st.

The auxiliary Steamship, Sarah Sands has arrived from Liverpool, after a passage of eighteen days, having sailed on the 2d inst., being nine days later than the Hibernia, and six days later than the Duchess de Orleans. The news by this arrival, of which I send you the substance, is of the greatest importance.

The Austrian troops had been driven out of Sardinia.

Denmark, awakened and alarmed by the movements in neighboring countries, was making great preparations for war.

In Stockholm, serious disturbances had taken place.

Venice, following in the wake of France and other countries, had declared for a Republic.

A large number of French advanced into Belgium, but were driven back.

The Emperor of Russia was sending troops to Poland.

The French Army was moving towards the North.

Great agitation continued in France. The La Presse had come out openly against the Provisional Government. The general election has been postponed to 23d instant, and the meeting of the General Assembly to the 4th of May.

At Milan, a provisional Government has been formed.

The establishment of a Republican Government in Prussia, is not confirmed.

One hundred and fifty thousand soldiers, has been ordered to Poland.

The report of the Revolution in Lombardy is fully confirmed. The Austrian troops after a desperate STRUGGLE, in which they lost TWENTY-THOUSAND MEN, were withdrawn.

THE MARKETS.—At London the receipts of Breadstuffs were large, and the markets dull for all descriptions.

At Liverpool on the 3d inst., Flour was in very moderate request, at 27a28s.Sallings.

Wheat 7s8d to 9s per 60 lbs' Indian Corn 26 to 30s per quarter.

COTTON—Bowel 4s to 5s ½d; New Orleans 3la5½d.

Rice 18a18s 6d per cwt. Baltimore Quricitron 9s per cwt. Turpentine 37s. Tallow 51s 6da57s.

PROVISIONS—The market for Pork was unchanged. Bacon was lower. Lard had declined 1a2s per cwt.

Excitement at Washington—Mob Threatened!

WASHINGTON, April 20.

The fugitive slave case has produced great excitement. The office of the National Era has been threatened with a mob, but Law has thus far prevailed.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, April 19—P. M.

The SENATE to-day passed the bill allowing the Steamers plying between New York and New Orleans to touch at Havana and land passengers and mails.

The HOUSE was occupied the entire day with the contested election case of Monroe and Jackson. The seat was finally declared vacant.

WASHINGTON, April 21st.

The SENATE, yesterday, was engaged discussing Hale's Bill relative to riots, and unlawful assemblies in the District of Columbia.—A very warm debate ensued on the subject of Slavery, which was continued until a late hour. But the Senate adjourned until Monday, without action.

The HOUSE was engaged in exciting debate on the resolution of Mr. Palfrey, to appoint a select committee to inquire into the fugitive slave case, and also personal threats. Before action was had on the resolution, the House adjourned.

To-day the Speaker announced as the first thing in order, yesterday's unfinished business. Mr. Palfrey's resolution was then taken up. Mr. Stanton, of Tennessee, took the floor, and spoke in terms of opposition to the appointment of select committee.

The Feeling in Mexico For General Scott.

In the various letters published in the New Orleans papers of the City of Mexico, there is a strong feeling manifested for him, and a general condemnation of the treatment he has been subject to. The following letter is from the correspondent of the Crescent, dated

CITY OF MEXICO, March 19, 1848.

The Court of Inquiry has been in session here for three days, the proceedings of which accompany this. Scott feels deeply mortified at the course things have taken, and he does not look like the same man. He stated in the court, on the second day in a sort of preface to a paper withdrawing the charges, that he had requested a Court Martial to try the offenders; and that Gen. Worth instead of ordering one, reluctantly convened a Court of Inquiry, and before such a court he thought it useless to waste time, and consequently, so far as he was concerned, the trial would end.

It is beyond doubt that the President has treated the General badly. A Brigadier General broke open his dispatches to Taylor at Monterey, and their importance being buzzed about, the bearer, a gallant officer of the army, was overtaken and killed at Villa Grande, the dispatches sent to Santa Anna, and he advised of the withdrawal of the regular troops, marched at once from San Luis to Encarnacion, and shortly after cut off Taylor at Buena Vista.—For this offence of opening a public document, General Scott preferred charges and sent them to the Secretary of War. But no court was ordered. After the capture of the city, he deemed it necessary for the good of the service, to arrest three officers of the army, and again sent charges to Washington. This time he hoped a Court Martial would be called, but he was mistaken. One of the arrested, who had preferred charges against him, was released without a trial, whilst a Court of Inquiry was ordered to inquire into the charges preferred by the one released. Under the circumstances, can you wonder that Scott, feels chagrined? Can you wonder that the proud spirit which bore him from victory to victory in this valley has been partially broken and the firm eye which was wont to tread the earth so proudly, has been changed to the slow pace of the disconsolate! I confess that my heart bled when I saw Winfield Scott standing before the court a criminal (to use his own language.) I could scarcely realize the fact. To see him there amongst those he had accused, "scrambling for justice," impressed me with a feeling I cannot portray. I thought at the last six months, of the great services he had rendered his country, and, for the moment, thought applicable the saying, that "Republics are ungrateful." I thought of the battles in this valley—from the Contreras to the National Palace—of the time when things looked darkest, and he showed himself to the troops—what confidence it inspired in them, and how shortly they were moved forward to attack the foe sanguine of success when he directed.

I contended these times with the present, and I was painfully I never saw him look sorrowful then. When Churubusco was being stormed and he had sent his body-guard to the fight, and when then the only reserve regiment—the Rifles—were ordered to the support of Shields'—when the last were disposed of—when the hardest had to fend off—there was an anxiety in his face, but nought like sorrow. I soon had the pleasure, then, to see him smile, for the legions of Santa Anna had been put to flight by his well directed columns. But there was nothing of that sort to change the countenance in the Court of Inquiry. He entered it sorrowfully, and left it without a change. It is true that his lip would curl with disdain, occasionally during the progress of the trial, but then it would again resume its melancholy.

Gentlemen, I would not possess the feelings that actuate Gen. Scott now for all the high honors that he won. He cannot be under the least apprehensions as to the result of any court, but then he had a right to expect better things from that country, whose honor and character in war he had so far advanced. I believe that no man but Winfield Scott, crippled as he was in resources, and with the handful of men, could have ever made his way into this capital, where he is now a "prisoner at large." Who is to reward him now for all that he endured from Vera Cruz to this capital? for the sleepless nights he has passed in his tent, tracing the lines of the maps to find the easiest access to the city? What can compensate him for all this, I ask, when the powers of Washington have hurled him from command brought him before a military court at the instance of those he had accused, and by so doing sought to rob him of the laurels which adorned the brow of the greatest general alive? He will soon return to the United States, and should he pass through your city, I trust that you will give him that welcome he deserves State of Louisiana knows so well how to bestow.

CHAPARRAL.

From the New York Tribune.

To the Evening Zephyr.

BY MISS ALICE CARRY.

I sit where the wild bee is humming,
And listen in vain for thy song;
I've waited before for thy coming,
But never, oh never, so long!

How oft with the blue sky above us,
And waves breaking light on the shore,
Thou, knowing they would not reprove us,
Hast kissed me a thousand time o'er!

So sweet were thy dewy embraces,
Thy falsity who could believe!
Some phantom thy fondness effaces—
Thou could'st not have aimed to deceive!

Thou told'st thy love for me never,
But all the blandishments of the skies,
Though striving to do so forever,
Could scarcely have numbered thy sighs.

Alone in the gathering shadows,
Still waiting, sweet Zephyr, for thee,
I look for the waves of the meadows,
And dimples to dot the blue sea.

The blossoms that waited to greet thee,
With heat of the noontide oppressed.
Now flutter so lightly to meet thee,
Thou'rt coming, I know, from the west.

Alas! if thou findest me pouting,
'Tis only my love that alarms;
Forgive, then, I pray thee, my doubting,
And take one once more to thy arms!

FASHIONABLE CHANGES.—The use of chloroform has become so general that we should not wonder at cases of insensibility being brought up before the magistrates.—How horrible it would be to read in the police reports, "Miss Tomkins fined 5s. for being found insensible under the influence of chloroform." A change has come o'er the spirit of our drams! We no longer drink—we only breathe.—Drunkards are led astray now literally by the nose. There is no more drunkenness—the word for it is obliviousness." Father Mathew will have to start a 'Total-Chloroform-and-Ether-Abstinence pledge.'

LAWSUIT BETWEEN A PASTOR AND ONE OF HIS DEACONS.—The newspapers report a recent law-suit at Northampton, the parties being Rev. George Waters vs. Deacon Increase Gilbert who had represented that Waters had altered the church records in relation to his salary, and made them read $500 instead of $150. After the examination of a great many witnesses, and a lengthy trial, the jury gave a verdict against Waters.—Mr. Waters was formerly pastor of the Baptist church in Amherst, Mass. and Mr. Gilbert was one of the deacons.

Being anxious that Esq. W. D. Coryell shall represent us in the next Legislature, we respectfully solicit him to become a candidate; and, if he will so do, he will receive the cordial support of a large number of the voters of

ROCKWELL & CO'S CIRCUS.

The proprietors of this immense and talented Equestrian Establishment take great pleasure in announcing to the citizens of Maysville and the adjacent vicinity, the approaching performance of the unrivalled Troupe.

In order to be able to visit all the important river towns, they have purchased a steamboat, of exceedinglight draught. which will enable them to run in advantage of their many ports of the Western rivers, without incurring the risk of any disappointment whatever.

The Proprietors feel a peculiar satisfaction in referring to the strength as well as to the brilliant talent, and unapproachable skill and grace which they have been enabled in the course of time, and by extra labor and expense to concentrate in one establishment. They feel great pride in calling particular attention to the name of whose representation you see in the large pictorial bill, in his wonderful act of throwing 76 somersetts. A number never before equalled by any other performer in the world. Together with his terrific double. somersett, through balloons, over banners, nooses, &c. &c. Also his daring one, two and four horse riding, with his astonishing cord volant performances, which truly make him the wonder of the age.

Artists without number, and certainly without regard to expense, have been employed during the past winter in manufacturing new costumes, housings, trappings, decorations, and other paraphernalia to correspond with their magnificent pageantries, tournaments, cavalcades and processions, which this company give on every representation, and which have created such a tremendous sensation everywhere upon their route, and always attended with so great eclat, that hundreds who never visited a Circus before, are now found among the patrons of this greatest of Circuses.

There is also attached to this company, the Queen City Brass Band, who will entertain the audience by "discoursing most eloquent music.

Henry Rockwell & Co., Proprietors.
S. Q. Stokes, Manager.
John Shay, Equestrian Director.
A. W. Pell, Treasurer.
J. Rockwell & W. Lake, Clowns.

Will Exhibit at Maysville, on Monday, the 24th day of April. 1848. For one day only. Doors open at 2 Performances to commence at 2½ o'clock. Admission, Boxes, 50 cents. Pit, 25, cents. Children under twelve years of age half price. Box positively no half Price to Pit.

The performance will commence with the Magnificent Equestrian spectacle, entitled the Halt of the Bedouins, or, the Arab's Bivouac.

Comic Song by Rockwell and Lake.

Grand Trampoline Leaps and double leaps, over banners and horses; and through hoops and balloons concluding by turning a double somerset from a lofty object, by the "Champion Trampolinist" Mr. Hiram W. Franklin.

Vaulting by the company, led by H.W. Franklin, who has performed the almost incredible feat of throwing 76 consecutive somersets.

After which the pride and pet of the arena Mast. W. Grady will perform his beautiful act on two Ponies.

Fakir of Avar, or Chinese Juggling, by Mr. John Shay.

After which, will be enacted an astonishing act of horsemanship and Gymnastic evolutions, on two horses, entitled the Rival Romans, or Olympian Bounders, by Messrs. B. Runnels and H. W. Franklin. This scene is remarkable for the display of muscular power and corporeal pliancy as well as sublimity of figures and fury of speed.

Mr. Blake will introduce his trained dogs.

Massaniello, or the Fisherman of Naples, by Mr. B. Runnels, is a piece so familiar with ancient history, and especially with the history of Naples, will be both surprised and delighted at the correct and historical manner in which Mr. Runnels portrays the character of Massaniello. The scenery is perfect, and it is a pleasure to witness him and watch the progress of the performer, from the obscure fisherman, to the crowned king of Naples, and thence to the finale of his history.

Mr. H. W. Franklin, the greatest Slack Rope performer in the world, will perform some of those inimitable feats on the rope, which have obtained for him the appellation of the Sprite of the air.

Two horse Allemande, by Mrs. H. W. Steward and Mr. B. Runnells.

Mr. H.W. Franklin, and his pupil the beautiful and talented Master William Grady, will next appear in their celebrated antipodean gymnastics and classical and muscular evolutions. The matchless symmetry of their Apollo-like and classical forms, (which a painter or sculptor might envy) the apparent recklessness of their difficult performances and the ease, skill and grace and celerity with which they are executed, thrill the spectator with astonishment while at the same time he is filled with awe and delight.

Indian Warrior by Mr. Shindle. Mr. Shindle far surpasses any rider of the present age, in his life-like delineations of the passions and habits of the wild man of the forest.

Pantomophic exercises or feats of posturing, by Mr. Wm. F. Steward.

Master Wm. Grady, will next be introduced and ride his brilliant single horse act, the precocious and juvenile equestrian has already, by his beauty, talent, grace and s.ill, obtained for him the flattering soubriquet of the young Duerow of America.

Among the stud of highly trained horses, will be particularly noticed the feats of the celebrated fighting Ponies.

The whole to conclude with a laughable afterpiece.

DR. SMITH'S GREAT NATIONAL PILLS.

Dr. G. Benj. Smith's

Improved Indian Vegetable [Sugar Coated] Pill

ARE the medicine of the United States, and their superiority over all others for entire efficacy and pleasantness has won for them a pre-eminence of fame which needs no foreign influence to perpetuate. Almost unheralded they have silently worked their way, and have gained a permanent hold on the approbation of the people. Their mild medicine or opposition can relax For about four years they have triumphed over disease; and brought joy and gladness to many an anxious bosom. The purity, as a medical compound, commends them to the most delicate, and even the more hardy, who have suffered from the effects of impure properties in the stomach, will of course be pleased with the delightful operation of these Pills. They have the rare merit of the most carefully selected ingredients, are always safe, and there can be no danger of taking them improperly at any time. A single trial will manifest their excellence in relieving the body of many precursors of alarming diseases, keeping the bowels gently open, thereby ensuring the continuance of health. The most eminent chemist in New York has given his certificate that these Pills are purely vegetable, or Nature's own remedy.

The great principle recognized by the inventor of this invaluable medicine is, that every part of the body, whether in health or disease, is brought under the influence of the digestive organs. This plain and rational doctrine forms the only ground on which a good family medicine can be recommended. Operating according to this principle, Dr. S's Pills strengthen the stomach, promote the secretions of the liver, skin and kidneys, and regulate the bowels, thereby adopting the only natural and consistent method of rendering the life blood pure, by correcting the vitiated humors of the whole system. It is impossible to give every particular in this brief notice, but these Pills are earnestly recommended as a means of preventing so much misery and disease, which grow out of constipation of the bowels, neglected colds, slight attacks, &c., and which it is in the power of all to prevent. These pills do not palliate but they cure most all the diseases of the Western Country, and in all bilious disorders, they stand alone, unparalleled—the sick man's friend. Among the complaints for which these pills are highly recommended, are the following, viz.

Fevers, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Costiveness, Headache, Bad Appetite, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Liver Complaint; Heartburn Bilious Cholic, Foul Stomach, Jaundice, Pain in the Breast, Scrofula, Bad Blood, Gravacium, Female Complaints, Rheumatism, Whooping Cough, Weak Nerves, Hysterics, Coughs Colds, Influenza, Pimples, Low Spirits, Blues, &c.

By following the simple directions which accompany every box of genuine pills, a permanent cure will be effected. Most of the hospitals in New York have given these pills the preference over more than 20 kinds that have been tested, and several eminent physicians in New York and elswhere use them in their practice.

Beware of Imposition!

The demand for Dr. Smith's Pills being every where great, several unprincipled persons have made Pills of the most miserable and dangerous stuff, and palm them off for genuine, have put on a "coating of sugar." Therefore, beware, and always look for the written signature of G. Benj. Smith, on the bottom of every box, to counteract which is forgery!

More than 1000 certificates have been received at the principal office, and the people are referred to Smith's Herald & Gazette, where they can read of the most important cures. We give, for want of room, but a few Testimonials.

Dr. Smith's Pills are purely vegetable, operate well, and produce a good result. L. LEE.
Editor of the True Wesleyan.

My wife has taken Moffat's, Morrison's, and many others, but she has received more benefit from Dr. Smith's Pills than all others. She believes they may be used by females with perfect safety, without changing their employment or diet, and at any season. JOHN KELLETT, 127 Myrtle Avenue. Brooklyn.

Dr. G. Benj. Smith's Pills have entirely cured me of dizziness in my head, and general weakness of my system. My family use them with the best results. I would not be without them.

F. H. NASH, 99 Forsyth-st.

Dr. Smith's Pills are free from the objections to which other Pills are liable, and are the best medicine that I have yet seen. J. GREENE.

Voice of the Press.

At the request of Dr. G. Benjamin Smith's agent we cheerfully state that we visited the office of Dr. Smith in September last, while in New York, and found him carrying on a very extensive business with the Indian Vegetable Pills. The extent of his establishment would astonish any one not initiated in the Mysteries of the Pill trade.—Louisville Journal.

Dr. G. Benj. Smith's Sugar Coated Pills are all the rage in Boston now. Children cry for them.

Boston Post.

Very much so in Rochester. The dear little "responsibilities" won't believe they are medicine, so how.—Rochester Daily Advertiser.

They sell well at Carbondale—and so they ought to. Purchase them of sweet & Ensign, or of Dr. A. P. Gardner, who are duly authorized agents for the sale of Dr. G. Benj. Smith's Sugar Coated Pills. Give them a trial and they must stand as high in your estimation as they now do in ours.—Carbondale (Pa.) Reporter.

Voice from Kentucky.

I have been afflicted with dyspepsia in the most aggravated form for three years past, and I found no relief until I used Dr. G. Benj. Smith's Improved Indian Vegetable Pills. After using sixes boxes o said valuable pills. I am entirely cured. They are a general remedy. J. K. LEEMAN.

nov 12 SEATON & SHARPE.

Pospectus of the Maysville Herald, TRI-WEEKLY AND WEEKLY.

THE undersigned proposes to publish a Tri-Weekly and Weekly paper in the city of Maysville, to be called "THE MAYSVILLE HERALD," which will be devoted, in its political department, to the advocacy of the principles of National Policy professed by the Whig party.

Relying mainly for support, upon a Commercial and Trading people, the Editor will seek to bring prominently into view, the advantages which Maysville affords to the surrounding country, as a market, for the produce of the South, the manufacturers of the North and East, and the productions of the agriculture and domestic industry and skill of Northern Kentucky and Southern Ohio.

The HERALD will contain the latest Political and Commercial News, foreign and domestic, and keep its readers well advised of the state of those markets most frequented by the Merchants and Traders of that section of country in which it is published. It will also contain the usual amount of Literary and Miscellaneous matter to be found in papers of its class.

The subject of facilitating intercourse between the City and surrounding country, so important to the prosperity of both, will receive such attention as may be necessary to place it properly before those most interested in the subject.

We shall foster and encourage, by all the means in our power, the Manufacturing and Mechanical interest, from a conviction that no town or city can prosper greatly, whose citizens neglect to give to their surplus products all the value which reproductive industry can bestow, before making them the subject of her commerce.

So soon as the necessary arrangements can be made, we intend to publish, for the benefit of our Farmers, such information upon the subject of their noble pursuit, as experience and the application of the principles of science have developed, or may hereafter make known.

In short, we will aid, to the utmost of our power, by all legitimate means, in bringing into action the springs of prosperity, upon which the happiness of those most interested in our labors depends.

TERMS:

For Tri-Weekly paper, four dollars in advance, four fifty within the year, or five at the expiration of the year.

The Weekly Herald on a large double-medium sheet, two dollars in advance, two fifty within the year, or three at the end of year.

AGUE AND FEVER.

FLETCHER'S
CELEBRATED IMPERIAL
AGUE AND FEVER OR TONIC PILLS

THE proprietors of this invaluable remedy for Ague and Fever or Intermittent Fever, deem it unnecessary to enter into a long dissertation, relative to the disease for the radical cure of which, the remedy now offered stands unrivalled. The universal prevalence of the Ague and Fever, and Intermittent Fever, throughout most of the states of the Union, and the thousands who annually suffer from it, unhappily render it so well known, that to dilate on its symptoms or pathology, seems wholly unnecessary. It may, however, with propriety be observed, that the best object to cure what is too often called "only the Ague and Fever," often leads to diseases more fatal in their nature—among which may be classed, diseases of the Liver and enlargement of the Spleen, commonly called Ague Cake, which in too many cases proves fatal.

Thousands of certificates might be published in reference to the efficacy of the Pills now offered to the public, which the proprietors deem unnecessary to publish. Suffice it to say, they have never been known to fail in a single instance. ONE BOX, when taken according to directions, is warranted to cure any case of Ague and Fever, or Intermittent Fever. The ingredients being PURELY VEGETABLE, and entirely free from any deleterious substance, they are confidently recommended as the safest, as well as the most efficacious article ever offered to the Public! The form in which these Pills are put up, (small tin boxes,) renders them more convenient than any other, as a man can carry them in his vest pocket without the slightest inconvenience.

FLETCHER'S
"NE PLUS ULTRA" VEGETABLE COMPOUND
CATHARTIC AND DEOBSTRUENT PILLS.

These Pills, now for the first time offered to the Public, have been used in private practice upwards of Forty Years, by a celebrated Physician, formerly a member of the Royal College of Surgeons of London and Edinburg, and Licentiate of Dublin University.

The proprietors deem it unnecessary to enter into any lengthened discussion as to the merits of these Pills—neither will they say, that they "will cure all the ills that human flesh is heir to"—but they lay claim to one great fact, and that is this; they are the very best pills ever invented, not merely as a simple CATHARTIC, as their properties are various. They are a Compound Cathartic, and Deobstruent Pill. They cleanse the Stomach and Bowels without pain or griping; they act specifically upon the Liver and Kidneys, and as a Diuretic, they cause an increased discharge of Urine—restoring a healthful and proper action to the URINARY ORGANS. For monthly complaints, to which Females are liable, they will be found most efficacious in removing obstructions and restoring them to perfect health. It is perhaps needless to add, that if the STOMACH and BOWELS are kept in a proper state, no fears should be entertained in reference to the welfare of the body.

We need only say to those who have tried all other Pills, of whatever name, to give the "NE Plus Ultra's," one trial, and we feel perfectly confident, that they will satisfy all that they are THE PILLS! unequalled as well as unapproachable!!
