

"One To Every One" is the Slogan of Rowan County's Earnest Teachers.

With the cry of "One to every one," the teachers of Rowan county, already so distinguished for their fair, able and heroic work have gone forth into the field to the last illiterate and him in a position to better enjoy life and to accept the opportunities about him.

Every teacher is seeking the untutored to give him his lesson and to place their native County in the high ranks of the most educated people. Their great campaign has narrowed down to the point where but a few are to be searched out and taught. Letters of genuine gratitude are coming in daily from those who have learned and are glad of it. These letters speak in the highest praise of the teachers, who have aided the student to secure a permanent situation that they can now go on and improve themselves.

"One for every one" this week is sounding through the County, and in the issue of next week the teachers' work will be discussed substantially by their many friends, who have been writing their opinion with respect to the receipt, "Not One."

Farmers Institute.

The following officers were elected to govern the Farmers Institute of Rowan county for the coming year:

- M. T. Dillon, President.
- Samuel Caullif, Vice-President.
- B. P. Ham, Secretary.
- Mr. M. T. Dillon was elected delegate to the State Farmers Institute, to be held in Frankfort next Spring, with Robt. Johnston, Marse Wright and Boston Logan as alternates.

Besides their uses and construction with general side lights on the growing and feeding of beef cattle were discussed by Mr. Douglas, cane for young animals is claimed to put on fat to the exclusion of milt, and is not suited to the development of growing stock. Grow leguminous feeds and hay concentrated feeds, containing high portion to balance the corn ration.

Mr. H. T. Price of the Forestry Dept., made a strong appeal for re-foresting the steep hill sides, and condemned in no uncertain way the present careless method of cutting timber. Forest fires are reaping a heavy toll annually and must be controlled.

Vegetable matter was the subject of a thirty minute talk, by J. E. Hite.

Nitrogen is the limiting element in crop production and as it is stored in vegetable matter the soil should be always kept full of roots. The receipts are given on page 5 for the benefit of those who were not at the domestic science demonstration conducted by Mrs. J. W. Jamison.

E. F. Amburgey Kills Himself.

E. F. Amburgey, section foreman of the C. & O. Railroad Company at Thompson Station, killed himself at a late hour last night at his home, by firing a bullet from a .32-caliber Smith & Wesson revolver into his heart. Amburgey was in the best of health and spirits at 7:30 o'clock in the evening when he called on his friend, Martin Thomas, who is spent at the depot at Thompson Station. He returned home and retired, and several hours later while his wife slept at his side, he fired the fatal shot. The ball entered the center of his chest and passed entirely through his body. Coroner H. C. Nunnally went to the home this morning and held an inquest, finding that he came to his death by his own hand.

Amburgey was about thirty-three years of age. He came to Clark County from near Morehead, Rowan County, about three years ago and located at Thompson Station, where he was made a section foreman. His wife, who was Miss Margaret Royce, of Morehead, and three children, five, three and two years of age, were with him at the time of his death. The body will be taken to Rockwell, where it will be buried at the place Thursday at noon, under the auspices of the order of Orlis. Mr. Amburgey wrote his will a short time before he died. It was dated December 1, 1913, and in substance is as follows:

"I want all my belongings to go to my son, Robert Edward. The property consists of a house and lot at Morehead, some two-year-old heifers, a Jersey cow, $97 in money in the Clark County National Bank, $15 loaned Carl Garrett, and household goods, including a typewriter."

On the reverse side of the will, which was in Amburgey's handwriting, was a typewritten poem signed by Amburgey. He said in the poem that he was taking his life because some one had ceased to love him. Exchange.

E. F. Amburgey was a son of John Amburgey of this place, and his death is greatly deplored by friends here.

Rube Field Dies of Apoplexy

Rube Field, whose phenomenal powers as a rapid calculator have puzzled expert mathematicians from all parts of the country, died of apoplexy yesterday at the Jackson County Poor Farm, where he had been cared for since 1907. He was 70 years old.

Field's brain specialized on figures. Apparently without ambition and always dependent upon others, he regarded mathematical powers as a gift of God that would be taken from him if turned to worldly gain. He was unable to read or write.

Given the distance by rail between two cities and the dimensions of a car wheel, he would tell an inquirer how many revolutions of the wheel would be required to cover the distance, almost before the statement of the problem was complete. It was said that he could tell the exact time at any hour without hesitation and without reference to clock, sun or other outside agency.

On several occasions Field consulted voluntarily to aid in making invoices in stores at Independence, Mo., near the County Farm. Given the number of yards of goods in a belt, the number of bolts and the price per yard, Field would tell instantly the total value of the goods on the shelf.

Field was born in Rowan county, Ky., and was reared in the mountains of the State. He was a member of the Methodist church and was a member of the Grand Lodge of the State of Kentucky.

Hook-worm Campaign Closes

The hook-worm campaign conducted by the State Board of Health through Doctors A. T. McCormack, Lillian South, J. A. Sherley, Stevie Ferrel and Misses Allen and James closes to-morrow. A very large number of specimens have been examined and have been found infected. It has been a remarkable campaign, and the interest is increasing every day. The prizes offered have stimulated the teachers and pupils in the schools to work. Mrs. M. A. Lytleton's room in the Morehead Public School won the prize of $5 in gold for the best specimens, and room in the Morehead Normal won the prize for the largest number from that school.

The campaign has not merely relieved hundreds of hook-worm disease. But the lectures have been highly instructive along the line of preventing typhoid fever, tuberculosis and other fearful diseases. The campaign has cost the State Board of Health a considerable sum, and the County one hundred dollars. One child relieved is worth the amount and more. Rowan is the first county in this section to have such a campaign, and is proud of the record and grateful for the opportunity to have health and sanitation preached to her people, and to have the sick and afflicted relieved.

THE MOUNTAINEER

Issued Every Saturday by

Mountaineer Publishing Company

CORA WILSON STEWART, - - - EDITOR

Entered at the Postoffice at Morehead, Ky., as Second-Class Mail matter

Subscription: 1 Year, $1.00; 6 Months, 60c.; 3 Months, 35c.

The Eastern Kentucky State Normal offers to pay half the cost of fruit trees for Rowan county citizens—that is for one tree, the purchaser pays one-half cent and the State Normal pays half. This proposition surely is fair enough, and will enable any citizen, however poor, to start a good orchard.

Rowan county is planning to be the first mountain county to have a "Farmer's champion." Such a movement was planned for the autumn following the Warren county movement. Madison county, however, has secured many of the best speakers and the county has a number of the best speakers.

There is considerable complaint among subscribers about the Mountaineer not reaching them, some claiming that they miss it two and three weeks at a time. This seems to be a general complaint, and there is evident neglect of duty somewhere. The paper goes out from The Mountaineer office and the postage is paid, the postage bill having trebled in the last few months. The question is, where are these papers going? We are going to investigate the matter, and wherever the fault lies, the offender will have to suffer.

Emm Elam, the able editor of The Kentucky Mountaineer devoted a column last week to a teacher who supplied his district with a good library and made a practical plan for the circulation of books during the winter months. "Josephus Howard, Hero," the head-lines ran. We wish to offer congratulations to "Josephus Howard, Hero," for starting a university in his district at the close of his public school term; for this is what he is doing when he provides a library.

A survey of the newspapers of the State convinces one that there is a marked tendency to ignore the sensational and unimportant items of news, and to give prominence to education, good roads, the prevention of disease and those things which make for the State's development. But, it appears that in no section is there such a studied and concerted effort being made in this direction as in the mountains of Kentucky, where each editor seems to feel that he has a mission and is inspired for a holy task. The space devoted to education, to horticulture, to good roads, to church and Sunday school, activities to inspiring local and sectional pride and patriotism, to the correction of false opinions and the removal of foolish prejudices, speaks for itself as to the interest of these editors in the development of their country; and, perhaps, nothing speaks more loudly than their persistent elimination of those things which tend to reflect upon this section. A great constructive policy seems to have shaped its self in the minds of these men, and at last, we seem to have the right man, and they seem to be placing emphasis upon the proper things. This we believe to be the most important thing, which has yet come to the attention of the people of our country and the advancement of the mountain people.

Successful Mountaineers.

One who chisels a natural and graceful figure out of marble or molds a life-like bust of clay, or paints on canvas a fine imitation of mortal face or sublime scene, or cultivates fruits and flowers into a state of higher perfection, may become honored and sung by all the world; but what of the one who takes a human being in helplessness infancy or in childhood and develops and trains it into the fullness and perfection of human life?

Mary Coffey, a girl who earns her own living and supports a widowed mother, took a child—a little girl, helpless, destitute, starving, freezing and diseased, a most unattractive and unpromising lump of humanity, a wreck, a mere human mass with the breath of life in it, and that breath almost ready to go out. Here in a community where there is no great wealth or luxury, but at the same time where there is much comfort, and where much is wasted, where furs and diamonds and feathers are worn, and carpets and pianos and portieres and lace curtains and costly things, and unnecessary things are indulged in by professed Christians, as well as sinners, a child was starving, freezing, dying. It would have died, had not Mary Coffey given it food and shelter. It was not pretty and winsome and fine enough bred for most of us. But, Mary Coffey took the little one into her home and her mother mothered her, and Mary became big sister to her. For three weeks the child was so emaciated and weakened that it showed none of the instincts of childhood not even so much as to notice anyone or to play or to look out of the window, but sat in a little chair with her head down, and the only evidence of her being alive was that she would reach out the cup for milk and bread. After three weeks, this child, whose suffering the rest of the world ignored, raised its head and looked into Mary Coffey's face, and saw the face of a friend, and the joy came into her heart, and a smile lighted up her face, and she began to play and sing and laugh and live. She received her first kiss of affection from her self-appointed sister with astonishment, it being a new and strange demonstration to her.

Now, Estelle is one of the sweetest, brightest little tots in our town, one of the pets of the Sunday-school, and a leader in her class at school, and it must bring joy to any human heart to see her skipping along the street, holding to Mary's hand, and reciting her childish experiences and expressing her childish wishes. And how about us—the same populace who sat with folded hands while Mary rescued this child? Have we applauded this as the act of a noble woman? We have been unconcerned, for the most part, but some of us have been interested enough to wonder whether Mary had really been wise in her selection of a protegee—selection, and mind you, when a child was starving! We have shaken our heads and with an expression of criticism, have talked about STOCK and BLOOD and BREEDING and PEDIGREE, and remarked that if Mary had wanted to take a child to raise, she should have investigated its lineage, and chosen one of FINE STOCK, for, "blood will tell," says our great criterion, public opinion. BUT, Mary simply wanted to aid a helpless child, being who was suffering. She had no idea of dealing in pedigreed stock, or of training blooded animals. She is to busy supporting her mother and herself to be a fancier. But, when it comes to being a humanitarian, Mary Coffey has time and means to spare; so, Estelle is a living, growing, happy child, with all the promise of beautiful and glorious propitiation. Mary might reply to those who thrust the pedigree proposition at her in the words of the wisest of men that, "it's a wise child who knows his own father," and she might cite many instances where the best bred, or the supposedly best bred, children have been the source of bitterest disappointment to their parents, yet she does not reply at all, but goes on and does her duty by Estelle, and to Estelle the sun that shines is not so bright and fair as Mary's face.

While it may seem a digression, it is important to relate that Mary's mother advertised for a girl the other day to come and stay in their home and help with the work and go to school, and another worthy child has found a home—not a place to drudge and to wait on the idle and the thoughtless, but a place to share in the household tasks, to learn her lesson and keep and to be happy and to be a sister to Mary. And Estelle, ADVERTISED for a girl! Is giving her a home while she worked her way through school, when dozens of the ambitious young girls have come and trudged the streets of the town and applied in vain at the door of other homes for work that they might earn their expenses while in school, and when hundreds are writing and begging for scholarships upon any terms and willing to do any sort of work! A widow and her daughter can afford to give a girl a chance—to give her time to go to school; when in a dozen homes, at least, in the town young girls are employed who could be spared to go to school if the housewives would simplify their household affairs, and could be content to see their spoiled darlings pampered and waited on less.

Here's success to Mary Coffey and her human enterprise! She'll prosper, never fear! She is not worrying about the high and mighty ones who have declared her enterprise to be a foolish venture. Mary Coffey is one of the few who knows duty when she sees it without having to have a formal introduction to it. Mary has had struggles, herself. While she was securing her education at the Morehead Normal and the Midway Orphan School she knew privation and dependence. Again HERE'S SUCCESS TO MARY AND HER FAMILY—her mother, Estelle, Hattie and herself. We should have a good town and a happy one, if we had no one else in it but these four. And, last, but not least, remember that Mary is A MOUNTAINEER.

"The Kentuckian," a monthly paper, published at Jackson, made its first appearance this week, and judging from the first issue will maintain a standard worthy of the name. Elyand Minkie, is the editor, and is a writer of marked ability. We offer congratulations to the Kentuckian. It started in the right place—in the mountains, and from the sentiments expressed below we believe that it has started on the right track:

"To elect a fair and judicious election laws whereby the honest people may have the enjoyment of office, the right to govern and to govern with the rich and that popular government may become a reality, and that our home, made sacred by the love and virtue of our ancestors, may not become deserted dwellings, this paper is pledged to do."

Dr. T. A. E. Evans has been appointed trustee at Farmers to take the place of C. T. Flannery, who has resigned.

Christmas entertainments with a Christmas tree and Santa Claus, as attractions, are being planned in most of the schools.

A large number of teachers attended the meeting here Saturday, and after discussion it was the unanimous decision that their Niagara trip should be made in summer, and the date July 1st was agreed upon.

They voted to abandon the school fair for the year, since the demands of the illiteracy and other campaigns have been so heavy that they have not had sufficient time to prepare their exhibits.

One hundred and fifty beautiful pictures were distributed for use in the school rooms, and several books were claimed by those whose pupils had won them in the night school contest. Each teacher agreed to make a further and final effort in wiping out the remaining small percentage of illiteracy from the County.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Worlie Hall, Miss Glenna Flannery, Mr. Bethel Hall, Miss Mahala Seaggs, Miss Pearl Bailey, Miss Mollie Seaggs, Miss Verda Surratt, Mr. D. B. Peyton, Mr. F. E. Ellington, Mr. C. C. Crosthwaite, Mr. Audrey Ellington, Miss Bethel McGlosson, Mr. C. C. Tussey, Mr. Ciella Porter, Mr. Jasper Howard, Mr. J. M. Butcher, Mr. John Crisp, Miss Mary Seaggs, Mr. Taylor Fleming, Mr. H. C. Black, Mr. R. W. Kline, Mr. Herbert Tackett, Miss Flora Messer, Mr. H. G. Tackett, Miss Conie Mauk, Mr. J. V. Harris, Mr. Thomas Hogs.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroy, Ky.—In interesting advice from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and at my friends' request, some thought I would die. He advised me to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and get only a couple of taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

"I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Dr. Williams' Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure vegetable matter, contains no dangerous ingredients, and is as sure as a star. It can be found at all drug stores, or sent direct to the publishers, Dr. J. C. Williams, 200 N. 3rd St., Philadelphia, Pa.

This Is Vital to Every Owner OF A Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Car

Made at Tarrytown, N. Y. and New Castle, Ind., 1905 to 1913

Also to all Owners of Stoddard-Dayton, 1905 to 1914; Columbia Gasoline and Electric, 1906 to 1914; Everitt Cars of Any Model; Brush, Sampson and Courier Cars

THERE ARE THREE GOOD REASONS why you should have your car overhauled now and worn parts replaced.

FIRST: The garage man can give you better service—and you can spare the car better now than later.

SECOND: We are able to furnish replacement parts for all models of about 48 hours from receipt of order.

THIRD: And perhaps the best reason why you should secure your requirements now—we must increase prices 20% January 1st.

THE MAXWELL MOTOR COMPANY DID. We considered it good business, even if not a moral or legal obligation.

WE FOUND 122,000 owners out in the cold, as it were—pleading for parts. Their cars laid up and useless in most cases.

WE'VE INVESTED about one and three-quarters millions ($1,750,000) dollars in a plant and stock of parts, for over 150 different models.

WE TOOK THE NAME MAXWELL, solely for the protection of 60,000 persons who had bought cars under that name.

HAD WE CHOSEN ANOTHER NAME, those 60,000 cars would have had almost no value in the second-hand market.

ANY RECOGNIZED DEALER or repair man—whether he handles the present Maxwell line or not—can procure these parts for you.

Road Department Makes Good Report.

Frankfort, Ky.—The first report of the Department of Roads, now being prepared by Commissioner of Roads R. C. Terrell, who organized the department in July 1912, gives the number of miles of road in Kentucky at 58,000, of which only 20,636.5 miles are improved, besides which there are 300 miles of toll roads remaining. The number of acres included in the highways is 220,000, valued at $50,000 based on the estimated cost of reproduction. The counties raised by local taxation $1,932,000 for road work in 1912, most of which was used in repair and maintenance of roads and bridges, only about 20 per cent of the fund being spent on the new roads. New roads and bridges in 1912 cost $204,000 and 220,000, respectively. The counties had employed on the roads during that period 100,000 free labor.

Terrell would recommend that, as a matter of economy, Fiscal Courts provide the County Road Engineers with cheap automobiles, so that they can get around to inspect the roads in all sections and supervise work in progress.

DO IT NOW

Morehead People Should Not Wait Until It Is Too Late

The appalling death-rate from kidney disease is due largely to the fact that the little kidney troubles are usually neglected until they become serious. The slight symptoms often give place to chronic disorders and the sufferer may slip gradually into some serious form of kidney complaint.

If you suffer from backache, headaches, dizzy spells, if the kidney secretions are irregular of passage and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. Help the kidneys at once.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney disorders—they act where others fail. Over one hundred thousand people have recommended them. Here's a case at home: Mrs. T. M. Hurley, White St., Morehead, Ky., says: "We have used Doan's Kidney Pills in our family and they have proven very beneficial. My kidneys were weak and I had backache. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a supply from Bishop's Drug Store. They made my back and kidneys strong."

For sale by all druggists. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.
