Tables Are Set to Represent Iron Works in Full Blast. At Banquet at Stevens Institute of Technology in Honor of Mr. Carnegie the Food is Cooked and served in Novel Way. The dinner and the table decorations on the recent occasion of the dedication of the new laboratory of engineering presented by Mr. Andrew Carnegie to the Stevens Institute of Technology of Hoboken, N. J., were of such a novel character as to be worthy of public notice. The tables were set to represent iron works in full blast.

President Roosevelt is taking a keen interest in naval target practice. He has been furnished copies of recent reports of the work of the men behind the guns, and has instructed the naval ordnance officers to do everything in their power to keep up the supply of ammunition. This gun is a large one, and during the present year will cost the government $500,000. The instructions are to have vessels which are laid up for repairs thoroughly overhauled, supplied with new gun carriages, powder ammunition hoists, etc., and maintain the efficiency of the gun crews.

Would Be Living Subject for the Surgeons' Knives. The startling details of his plans for vivisection, not likely to be carried out owing to the objection of his wife. A Brooklyn doctor, James Edwin Russell, has come forward with the startling proposition of becoming the subject of sectional vivisection for the advancement of science, and in defense of the practice in the interests of the human race, but his wife says the shock, and it is probable her opposition will prevent the realization of his self-imposed sacrifice, even though he were able to find surgeons who would meet his conditions and proceed to cut him up and experiment upon him as long as life lasted. Dr. Russell, who is one of the best-known physicians of Brooklyn, having practiced medicine there for 12 years, in his statement to the public says: "I, James E. Russell, do hereby declare that I offer myself as a subject for vivisection in any direction or along any line whatsoever which may be selected, save the veins, which I reserve for my able and competent assistant vivisectionists, by such notes as may be of interest or value to them or me.

Congress Asked to Make Appropriation for the Purpose of Thorough Experiment. Admiral Melville is in favor of experimenting with oil as fuel for the vessels of the navy, and through his secretary of the navy has recommended that congress appropriate $30,000 for the investigation of the best means of burning liquid fuel. In his letter transmitted to congress Admiral Melville says: "In view of the fact that there now appears to be an unlimited quantity of crude petroleum, both in California and Texas oil fields, which can be delivered at tidewater at a comparatively slight cost, the bureau believes there is necessity to compare extended experiments for determining how much combustible can be adapted for naval use.

International Competition Planned for St. Louis Fair. Herr Victor Silberer, President of VII Aero Club, Talks of Regiments Necessary to Make it a Real Success. It has been proposed to have an international competition of airships as one of the features of the Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis next year. The aerostatic committee of the exposition has taken initial steps to bring this interesting feature to a practical realization. Herr Victor Silberer, president of the Vienna Aero Club, whose experience in all matters relating to ballooning is well known, says, where it is in regard to the project, manifested deep interest, and expressed confidence in the possibility of its practical realization.

STEAL DOLLARS FROM FLOOR.

New Yorkers in Hard Luck, Except Nicer Decorations from a Nodded Sloop. Reform in "die At" district of New York city reached the saloon of the late "Silver Dollar" Smith, in East 57th street, the other day, when, outside of the saloon's widow and his son, "Half-Dollar" Smith, the silver dollar in the marble floor was removed by a stone-cutter with a hammer and chisel.

The dinner and the table decorations on the recent occasion of the dedication of the new laboratory of engineering presented by Mr. Andrew Carnegie to the Stevens Institute of Technology of Hoboken, N. J., were of such a novel character as to be worthy of public notice. The tables were set to represent iron works in full blast. Oysters were served from an open-hearth furnace, cakes were baked in a miniature baker's converters and the punch was drawn from a roaring blast furnace.

President Roosevelt set his feet on the ground with actual confidence. He has been furnished copies of recent reports of the work of the men behind the guns, and has instructed the naval ordnance officers to do everything in their power to keep up the supply of ammunition. This gun is a large one, and during the present year will cost the government $500,000.

WIRELESS PHONES ON FARMS.

Two Men "Wireless" New Invention. Ind. Rev. Mr. White, who lives in two miles southwest of Hanover, Ind., has been using wireless telephones for two months. Each of the two is in the hands of a farmer's system of telephones. Hall lives at the north end of the system that ends in the town of Hanover, while White lives at the south. Asium White, whose house is a mile west of Hall's, has a "phone" on the north end of a system owned by the resident of the town of Hanover. There is absolutely no communication between the two systems, and no electrical expert has yet been able to explain the mystery.

CHICAGO AHEAD IN MUSIC.

Carl Ammerse Terk Who Gran Will Not Return to the Western Metropolis. "Chicago is the superior of New York in all musical matters," said Carl Ammerse Terk, a New York composer, at a recent concert in New York city. He is a well-known Wagnerite and has for many years stage directed at the famous Bayreuth theater. He has been touring the country during the past year. He subjects to much criticism Maurice Grau and his star collection of singers.

WEDDING HINGED ON NICKEL.

Sixteen-Year-Old Bride, Is Satisfied With Husband Got by Flipping a Coin. Mrs. Harry T. McCune, born Celeste McGann, arrived in Brookline, Pa., from her home in Philadelphia the other day to investigate the status of her husband, who she married suddenly last week before the practical courtship at Cincinnati. McCune is a dentist at Brookline. He and Druggist W. A. Kulp, of the same town, have been married for nearly two years. Mrs. J. C. McCann Kinsey, and both men fell in love with the 16-year-old beauty. They matched wagers on whether he would give up the girl. Kulp won, but he gave up in favor of his friend, McCune. Mrs. McCune's stepfather was the winner when her young women got home and told him of the escapade. He asked what the woman knew of McCune, and she came home alone after the wedding. The young bride was satisfied with her investigation and took McCune to Philadelphia.

OPPOSES THE CO-EDS.

Opening of Swimming Pool to Women of Columbia Opposed by Walter Bates of Officers of Objection. The first evidence of student interest in the spring of coeducation at Columbia university was sounded the other day by an editorial which appeared in the Columbia Spectator, which professes in no uncertain terms against the use of the swimming pool by women students. The editor, Walter Bates, expressed a great deal of disapproval at the university, reads in part as follows: "An announcement that the gymnasium swimming pool will be opened on Wednesday evenings for women students, has created a storm of protest such action, not from any spirit of selfishness, but merely for regard for Columbia tradition. Columbia is not a coeducational college, and though certain schools for women have recently been included in the university, they were so because of their geographical location in buildings off the campus. The constant presence of women students on the campus and their admission to the gymnasium, the gymnasium is a bar to that spirit of cordial fraternity that is one of the pleasant characteristics of life at college.

FROM SOCIETY TO WORKSHOP.

Algermon Sartoris' Engagement Makes Him Ambitious to Become Electrical Engineer. Much surprise was caused at Washington by the announcement at the annual dinner of the Columbia Spectator, the grandson of Gen. Grant, would follow the example of young Vanderbilt, and enter the law department of an electrical works that he might become prominent in the business. Mr. Sartoris is a general favorite socially, but was not credited with being a serious thinker in life than that afforded by society. However, he has always been studious, a great reader, and was educated in the best schools of England. It is said that many conversations with Mr. George Westinghouse, who is an electrical engineer, have led Mr. Sartoris to adopt his present plan, and he will enter the Westinghouse works at Pittsburgh.

A MYSTERIOUS GIFT.

Admiral Schley Receives a Thousand Dollar Piano from a Stranger and His Admirer. A mahogany piano stands in Rear Admiral Schley's apartments, and the rear admiral and Mrs. Schley are wondering what it is, and where it came from. The admiral's desk is a receipted bill of $1,000 for the instrument. Several days ago a man dressed up in the costume of a beggar came to the rear admiral's door to unload a piano, which he said was for Rear Admiral Schley's.

PLANS FOR ARMY POSTS.

Port Sheridan to Be Made the Largest and Most Complete Military Post of Army. For some time a general board of army officers has been studying the purpose of settling sites for four great camps where troops can be mobilized and trained. The board has announced that the proposed camps will be made public until passed upon by the secretary of war. In addition to selecting the camp sites, one of which is to be on Fort Sheridan, the board has been charged with the duty of determining what army posts shall be retained and what shall be made permanent military centers. While the report of the board is still withheld, it is known that it favors the retention of Fort Sheridan, and in fact its large development. It is not suited for the purpose of a large practice camp, but members of the board say that in all probability it will be made the largest and most complete military post in the United States.

ALWAYS ROOM AT THE TOP.

Always Room at the Top. A man who began railroading as a bridge carpenter is to be one of the most prominent and practical head of the New York Central railroad system. Go ahead, boys, exclaims the Chicago Record-Herald; the man who tries hard keeps on getting there.

DISISE IS IMPORTED.

Diseases from Imported Cattle Embodied in Warning from the Secretary of Agriculture. In a paper read before the Central Shorthorn Breeders' association at its annual meeting at Kansas City, Mo., the other day, the secretary said that tuberculosis is being spread by pure bred imported animals, and he suggested the propriety of shutting down on the importation of cattle and sheep. Glanders, too, he says, is an imported disease, and he suggests that it be excluded from the American market. "That idea," continues the secretary, "is not a mere suggestion, but a reality that the American breeder should not forget to bear in mind."

COSTLY THAN FLOWERS.

Costly Than Flowers. A woman in the French chamber of commerce has the eggs at the representatives of the people, the other day, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, which would indicate that the acreage in France is more than in this country. That is, if they are not cold-storage eggs.

FUTURE FOR AMERICAN SOLDIER.

Future for American Soldier. The French government is thinking of using the services of the great American carrier-bats. The time may come, says a Chicago Inter Ocean, when some of the great American soldiers will be recruited with American soldiers. We do high grade boy work.

A "DRINKARD'S" DIRECTORY.

Salvation Army Making a Classified List of All of New York's Inebriates. Catalogued, classified and indexed, the names of all New York's inebriates will be compiled in a "Drinkard's Directory." The publishers of the directory will be the Salvation Army. Rich or poor of high or low estate, the names of the inebriates and the fact as to their position and the amount of their assets and position, all names that belong there will be without discrimination, without fear or favor set down in naked simplicity. The directory will not be for the public. It is part of a serious and far-reaching campaign against the liquor habit, which has been organized and inaugurated by Gen. Booth of the Salvation Army, at a mass meeting held in London last year. The campaign was headed by Mr. Tucker said that the crusade would be carried to America, and that the directory would be here, as a means of doing the work. "It will be divulged to anyone," he said. THE DISPATCH, 31 per year.
