SCHOOL TO OPEN MONDAY WITH BIGGEST ENROLLMENT EVER EXPECTED FOR FALL TERM

Many Reservations Received For Fall Term As The Biggest Enrollment Is Expected—New Teachers Are Hired With High Degrees—Most Of Which Are Kentuckians Of Kentucky Training.

The Morehead State Teachers' College will open for the fall semester with a complete faculty, all the positions left vacant having already been filled with the exceptions of the Biology, Home Economics and Foreign Languages. Judging from the advance reservations that have been made, the enrollment will be larger than it has been at the opening of any previous fall term.

The following changes in the faculty have been recommended by the President and approved by the Board of Regents:

Dr. J. G. Black, head of the Department of Mathematics, taking the place of Dr. E. F. Allen, resigned. Dr. Black received his Ph. D. from the University of Michigan and comes highly recommended from the schools which he has taught. He is a Kentuckian from Mercer county and took his Bachelor's Degree from the University of Kentucky.

Harriet Glascock, who is a Kentuckian, was appointed to a position in the English Department, taking the place of Mrs. S. H. McGuire. Miss Glascock holds an A. M. Degree from the University of Kentucky and comes highly recommended by the English Department of the University. She has been teaching at Morehead.

Miss Ora Edith Fullen takes the place of Mrs. Nannie G. Faulkner as librarian. Miss Fullen is a graduate of Kansas Wesleyan and has had post graduate work at Columbia University. She was assistant librarian in the great Columbia University library during her post graduate days.

Mrs. I. A. Ratcliff of Campbellsville was appointed Matron of Allie Young Hall in the place of Mrs. Mayme Wiley. Mrs. Ratcliff is a Kentuckian, having once lived at Sharnsburg.

In the training school, W. C. Lippin remains as director. Miss Mildred Silver takes the place of Capt. Sola Simpson as seventh and eighth grade critic teacher. Miss Chalk holds an A. B. Degree from Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill. Miss Rebecca Thompson takes the place of Miss Jessie Stone as fifth and sixth grade critic teacher. She holds an A. M. Degree from Georgia Peabody College for Teachers.

Miss Pearl Jordan remains as critic teacher for the third and fourth grades.

Miss Edna Neal takes the place of Miss Ruby Hard as critic teacher for the first and second grades.

James Clay And Family Return From Trip

James Clay and family returned last Tuesday evening from a trip to Texas, where they visited relatives and friends. The trip was made by auto the party passing through Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Mr. Clay reports that from his observations, that section is suffering from the effects of the drought of last month to such an extent that the farm crops are practically a total loss. Corn is baked brown. Cotton is dying in the fields, and as those are the staple crops of that section, the farmers are naturally suffering.

The return trip was made through Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

John Bailey Accepts Teaching Position

John Bailey who was formerly employed at the office of the Rowan County News, has accepted a position as teacher in the schools of Boyd county and has entered upon his duties in that capacity.

Mr. Bailey was a student in the Morehead Public Schools and Morehead State Normal School, and has made his own way through school for several years, since coming from the Masonic Widows and Orphans Home.

W. J. Sample Is Circulation Manager

A letter from William Sample states that he is new circulation manager on the Middletown, Ohio News Signal a daily Newspaper with a circulation of over 17,000.

Mr. Sample was a former student in the Morehead State Teachers' College, having been editor and business manager of the Morehead Light. He gained his first newspaper experience on the Rowan County News as advertising salesman.

Big Enrollment In Public School

With seventy nine students enrolled and the promise of a great many more to swell that enrollment, Morehead High School opened on Monday what promises to be the banner year in the history of the school. The high school is under the direction of Prof. A. F. McGuire who is serving his third year as principal of the Morehead School.

The Grade Department under the principalship of Roy E. Holbrook has a total enrollment of 234, which will also be considerably increased before the close of the week.

While the school is just opening, a wonderful spirit prevails which indicates one of the most successful years the school has ever enjoyed.

The following is the enrollment by grades:

First Grade	72
Second Grade	32
Third Grade	32
Fourth Grade	29
Fifth Grade	20
Sixth Grade	22
Seventh Grade	16
Eighth Grade	17
TOTAL	274

The enrollment by grade in the High School Departments as follows:

First Year	32
Second Year	28
Third year	14
Fourth Year	10
TOTAL	79

The entire school program is getting under nicely and already running smoothly. Athletics is playing

Golde Department Store To Open 13th

In this issue you will find the announcement advertisement of The Golde Department Store which opens on Friday of this week. The new store is under the management of Harry Goldberg, and according to his plans will carry a complete line of ladies' ready-to-wear and accessories and men's clothing and furnishings, as well as a complete assortment of shoes and footwear for the entire family.

We suggest that our readers look over the advertisement of the Golde Store and that they visit the store on its opening day and get acquainted with these new members of our community.

TRAINING SCHOOL HAS VACANCIES

According to Prof. W. C. Lippin, director of training school at the Morehead State Normal School and Teachers College, there are still a few openings in certain grades that may be filled by making application to him. The announcement is on another page of this issue.

New Service Station Announces Opening

On the Midland Trail, just west of Morehead, a new filling and service station has just been opened that is one of the most complete in this section of the state. The new service station is under the management of its owner, Mort May who formerly operated a service station at Farmers.

In this issue Mr. May announces the formal opening of his service station, and invites every motorist of Rowan county to visit the station on Saturday, September 14th. As a special inducement, he is offering to give five cents of charge with each five gallons of gasoline purchased, one quart of Mobilil.

Read Mr. May's ad in this issue of the News.

New Resident Dies In Hospital

G. R. Gray of this city, died at the C. & O. Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia, on Friday night of last week, following an illness of only a few days. Mr. Gray and his family had moved to Morehead only a week before his death, from Hills, Kentucky, where for the past twenty-five years he has been in charge of the C. & O. station.

He was retired only two months ago after fifty years continuous service in the employ of the C. & O.

He was at the time of his death lacking one week of being 72 years of age, having been born on September 14.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Gray and one son, Lawrence, who lives with him at Morehead, and by five daughters and one son by his former marriage, as follows: Mrs. H. W. Scott, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Mrs. Doris O'Brien all of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Harry Fitzhugh of Richmond, Virginia and E. S. Gray of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Cecil Fraley of this city.

Funeral services were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. W. Scott in Huntington by the pastor of the Methodist Church of which organization he was a member on Sunday afternoon, interment being made in Woodmere Cemetery at Huntington.

Mr. Gray was a member of the Order of Railway Telegraphers. He was well known among the railroad men, having been one of the oldest of the C. and O. employees.

W. T. Baumstark Has Big Removal Sale

W. T. Baumstark has just returned from a trip to market where he has purchased his fall line of merchandise, which is now arriving daily and which he is throwing into his Removal Sale.

Mr. Baumstark has leased the building on Main Street now under construction, and which was to have been completed by the first of the month. Unfortunately handicaps delayed the construction work so that he was unable to carry out his plans of moving and he is forced to continue at his present location. He is, however, continuing his big removal sale and is including in it all new fall merchandise he is buying.

Vacationists Are Glad To Return

Well, we're back. The editorial staff and the family, returned to Morehead last Tuesday night, following a trip through the Middle West which took through Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, Kansas and Missouri. And after a close examination of those states, they state they are delighted to be back in Morehead and Rowan county.

Many have asked for information with regard to the crop conditions in those states. At the beginning of August conditions could not have been more promising, with the outlook for bumper crop being the best they had been in years.

However, August proved to be a dry month, and by the close, the promise of the first of the month were far from being realized. In Northeast Nebraska and Iowa the outlook was still good, with the prospects in some places of yields of from 60 to 70 bushel to the acre. In the majority of instances, however, the dry weather combined with the strong winds had done untold damage, so much so, that whereas, the first days of August had given promise of great crops, the closing days of the month had found the farmers, wondering where their winters feed was coming from.

GLENWOOD SCHOOL HAS PIE SUPPER

Mrs. Evelyn Hamm who is teaching in the Glenwood School, reports that there are forty-five pupils enrolled and all are working hard to make this the banner school year. Miss Hamm's pupils are planning a pie supper to be held at the school on Friday, September 13th. Everybody is invited and the girls are requested to bring pies.

Langley Adkins and family returned to their home in Florida last week, after a visit with friends here.

High School Has Good Material

With the opening of the school year at the public school, the newest high school sport in Morehead, football, got under way in real earnest, with a squad of candidates that would do justice to a school much larger than the local institution. Twenty-two candidates have reported to Coach Roy E. Helbrook for practice.

As a matter of fact, practice has been going on for the past two weeks and the team has already been whipped into a semblance of form. Mr. Helbrook has been assisted in his work by Prof. Warran Lippin and Frank Laughlin. The first scrimmage was held last Saturday and the boys, most of whom had never occupied a football uniform showed up in good shape.

The squad has some likely candidates for every position on the team with Mason Jayne, Watt Prichard, June Evans, Fred Cassidy, App Honaker, Fred Caudill, Earl Caskey, and Earl Barber, running for back-field positions, and Roy Cassidy, Alben Robinson, Arthur Barber, Charles Adams, Dick Clay, Glenmore Roberts, Leo Reed, Clay Trombo, Marvin Boardard, Curtis Caudill, Ed

Two More High Schools In County

With an enrollment of 251 in the grades and 32 in the high school department, the Haldeman Consolidated School got under way to a good start on Monday, with what is the largest enrollment they have ever enjoyed. More students are expected to enroll within a few days, which will further increase the total over previous years.

The schools are under the direction of Prof. H. W. Mobley, A. M., who is the first school man holding a Masters Degree to accept a position in the Rowan county school system. In the high school department he is assisted by Roy Cornette who teaches history and science and by Miss Nelle Cassidy who has charge of the English and Latin departments. Mr. Mobley teaches mathematics. The high school is completely accredited for the full four years course.

The grade teachers are as follows: Miss Mae Cart, seventh and eighth grades, and Miss Leta Powers, Miss Lottie Powers, third and fourth; Miss Lulla Cogswood, second; Miss Lula Lewis, first; Mrs. Ollie Click, primer.

Miss Emma Shaefer will have charge of the music department in the Haldeman School, dividing her

RAIN CAUSES DELAY IN BASEBALL CONTEST

Rain, wet grounds and rain checks were the net result of the trip made by the Haldeman Warriors to Mt. Sterling last Sunday, where they were scheduled to meet Mt. Sterling's best in the stellar game of the season. The game was postponed.

However, the same teams are scheduled to meet at Haldeman next Saturday and promise to issue thrills as freely as they issued rain checks last Sunday and that is taking in some Territory, according to reports.

Contracts Are Let For New Library

At a meeting of the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Normal School and Teachers' College held here on Tuesday of this week the contract for the new library building was let to the contracting firm of Murphy and Murphy of Bowling Green, Kentucky. The Murphy bid which was accepted called for an expenditure of $137,763.00 on the building in addition to approximately $18,000.00 additional contracts for heat, light and plumbing. These contracts were awarded as follows: Heat to Ben F. Hurst of Richmond; Electrical contract to the Winchester Wiring and Contracting of Winchester; Plumbing to Grant Whitl and Sons.

Construction work is to begin on the new building at once and the contract calls for its completion by August 1, 1930.

The new building which is to be erected on the present site of Burgess Hall which is to be torn down, will be one of the most impressive buildings on the campus, and will reach the highest peak among all the structures in beauty of architecture. The general style of architecture will conform to that of the

There Are Worse Places Than Rowan

We of Rowan county are inclined to criticize and "knock" Rowan county as the seat of all poverty and "hard-up-ness."

It has been said that Rowan county does not even have any farm lands and has had nothing to lose, therefore they are satisfied with little or nothing.

On the contrary Rowan county has diversified industries. We have only begun to realize the importance of farming in this county as an industry.

The "DESERT MOON MYSTERY"

By KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN.

CHAPTER I The Canneziano

I knew, that evening in April, when Sam got home from Rattall and came stamping snow into my kitchen, his good old red white and blue face stretched long and wide in its usual grin, that he had brought some hot news with him.

"I had a letter today," he said, "from the Canneziano twins."

I am like a lot of folks who say that they are not superstitious, who just happen to think that it is bad luck to walk under a ladder. More than likely the shivery, creepy sensation I felt, when Sam said that, was due to the cold he brought in with him, and was not due to the fact that those words of his were the forerunners for all of the grim mysteries and the tragedies that made the Desert Moon ranch, before the end of July, a place of horror.

"How much do they want?" I questioned.

"No Mary; they want to come here to live. Danielle wrote the letter. She says they want to come here and rest, indefinitely. She says she longs for it with all her soul, or something like that."

"Danielle," I said, "always was the best of the two. You going to let them come, Sam?"

"Anything else for me to do?"

"Not a thing for you. Theirs'd be plenty of others. Those girls are no kin of yours. Let me see—eight years old when they were here in 1909, makes them twenty-four years old now, according to my figures. Why a couple of women twins aggregating forty—eight years—should decide to come here and rest their souls, at your expense, is beyond me."

"I have plenty."

"So has Henry Ford. Why don't they go rest their souls with him? They've got as much claim on him as they have on you. None leave those girls rest their souls right there where they are, Sam."

"No—I don't know, Mary. I guess I'll write them a letter and tell them to come along. Lots of room."

I didn't argue any more about it. For twenty-five years I had been housekeeper of the Desert Moon ranch-house and I had learned during that time, that there was only one subject, concerning Sam, or the place, on which I could never hope to have any say-so. Trying to argue with Sam about anything that had to do in any way, with Margarita Ditsie, when she was Margarita Ditsie the Stanley, or when she was Margarita Ditsie Canneziano, was about as sensible as holding a chiffon parasol for protection in the midst of one of our Nevada mountain cloudbursts.

Margarita Ditsie was of French-Canadian parentage a dark-haired big-eyed beauty. Her father kept a gambling hole in Emeralda county in the early days. Her mother had run away from a convent, after she had become a nun, to marry him. The girl had some of the man, some of the runaway, and some of the gambling house proprietor in her. It made a queer combination.

When she was eighteen years old she came from Carson to visit Lily Trooper, over on the Three Bars ranch, about sixty miles from here. She met her there. She and Sam were married two weeks later. She was a lot younger than Sam; but, even then, he was the richest man in the valley, with every unwedded woman for a hundred miles around setting her cap for him.

Whether Margarita married him for his wealth, or whether it was to spite the other girls who would have liked to marry him, I don't know. All I know is that Margarita never had a mite of love for him. She stayed with him, though, and acted decent enough for two years, until Dan Canneziano came to the ranch and got a job on it as a ranchman.

It was during those two years that Sam built this ranch-house for her. Sam's lead and silver mine had just come in, and there was not anything from Italian marble fireplaces to teakwood floors, that was too grand for what Margarita called the Stanley mansion. She left it, all the elegance and the luxury, and she broke her marriage vows, for love of this way covoucher. That, I guess, is fair and full enough description of Margarita Canneziano.

"I don't blame her. I quit blaming folks for things a good many years ago when, after firing three Chinese cooks in six weeks, I decided that, if we were to live healthy and wholesome, I'd have to take over the job of cooking as well as house-keeping for the Desert Moon ranch, and set about it, and learned to cook. In other words, when I became a creator myself, I got to know creation and so quit blaming all of them.

If I forget to put the soda in the sour milk pancakes, it isn't their fault if they don't rise. They are as I made them. Margarita was as the Lord made her. He, I suppose, either had His own good reasons for turning out such a mess, or else He tried, or flustered, or maybe, was just experimenting on the road to something better when He did it.

I should explain, I suppose, wishing to be as honest as possible in spite of the fact that I am writing a mystery story, that Canneziano had a good education; he talked poetry, and played the violin. Margarita heard him playing, down in the outfit's quarters one day, and had Sam invite him up to the house to play. She accompanied him on the grand piano that Sam had bought for her.

Before long Dan Canneziano was spending a good part of his time at the ranch-house. Sam, being nobody's fool, soon saw how the land lay; but he, according to his custom then and now, kept his mouth shut and his eyes open. Sure enough, one evening they tried to elope together. Sam went after them and brought them back. The three of them had about half and hour's talk together. Then Sam heard Canneziano down to the outfit's quarters and, I suppose, told the men to keep him there, for there he stayed until Sam was ready for him again.

The next morning Sam started to the county seat. He reached there that evening. The following morning he got his divorce. He came back to the Desert Moon on the third morning, with his divorce and with a preacher. He sent for Canneziano, and stood by, while the preacher married Margarita Stanley to Dan Canneziano, decent and regular, according to the laws of Nevada.

There is should have ended. It didn't, because Sam never got over loving Margarita. So when, nine years later, she came back to the Desert Moon, with twin girls, Danielle and Gabrielle, and said that Canneziano had deserted her and the children Sam took them all right.

I don't know, yet, whether or not they took him in.

Certainly he did not show much surprise when, in about ten days, Canneziano put in an appearance.

Sam allowed him to get a good start with his threats; and then he took him across his knees and give him a sound spanking, and passed him over to Margarita to dry his tears, and washed his own hands and went fishing.

That evening he had one of the men hitch up and take the whole kit and caboodle of Canneziano to Rattall in time to catch the east-bound train. I am ashamed to say that Sam gave them money. I don't know how much. A tidy sum, I'll be bound, for shortly after we heard that Canneziano had opened the finest gambling house south of the Mason and Dixon line, in New Orleans.

Sam wanted to keep the children. He offered to adopt them. Margarita would not consider it.

When Margarita died, in France, seven years after she had paid us her blackmailing visit, Sam, the nanny, wrote to Canneziano and again offered to adopt the girls and give them a good home on the Desert Moon. He got a few insulting, insinuating lines for an answer. Canneziano had his own plans for his daughters, who had developed into brace beauties.

But, if Sam was soft with the women, he was not soft with the children. He had showed up here, beaming and broke, about three years ago. He had left suddenly after having seen Sam and no one else, less beaming but quite as broke as he had been when he had come. I thought, maybe, Sam was forgetting that side of the family and that this might be a good time to remind him.

"Is Canneziano planning to come on later, too, and rest?" I asked.

"Just at present he is in Sann Quentin, serving a three years' term. Danielle didn't say for what deity. Poor little girls!" Sam went on, "I reckon we haven't any idea of what they've been through, all these years."

"I reckon not," I agreed. "But they aren't little girls any more. Seems queer to me, with all the beauty their father was bragging about, that neither of them has married. Twenty-four is getting along."

"I'll bet," Sam answered, "it is because they have never had any decent opportunities. Considering the life that they've had to lead, and all I think it speaks pretty well for them that they have come through straight and clean."

Instead of asking him how he knew that, I said, "You'd be willing, then, to have John marry one of them?"

John, Sam's adopted son, was the apple of Sam's eye. He would have the ranch, and Sam's fortune, other dependents provided for, when Sam died. Whether or not the girls'd be married would be contested by him of the ranch, and I don't know how it would keep up its traditions, making it one of the proudest spots in Nevada, was a mighty important thing to Sam.

He waited so long before answering my question that, I was sure I had hit the nail on the head.

"John," he finally said, "as old enough to take care of himself."

With that he turned and went out of my kitchen, not giving me a chance to say that, though I had lived through fifty-six years, I had never yet seen a man of the ore he had just mentioned. I knew that if these Canneziano girls came to the Desert Moon, they would bring trouble with them. I was right. A merciful Providence he franked that, for a time at least, my knowledge of how terribly right I was, was spared me.

I am not an admirer of men. Looking at most any man, I find myself thinking what a pity it was he had to grow up since as a little helpless child he would have made a complete success.

Sam Stanley is different. There is some of the child left in Sam, just as there is, I think, in any good man or woman—a little seasoning of simplicity, really is all it amounts to—but there is a quality about Sam that makes a person feel that he set out, early in life, to follow the recipe for being a man, and that he has made a thorough job of it.

Why he, as a young man with a pretty fair education and a tidy sum of money left him by his father, who had been a well-thought-of lawyer in Massachusetts, should come out here to Nevada, take up his homestead land, and settle content for the rest of his life, has always been more or less of a mystery to me, unless you take Sam's explanation of it.

He says that, when his father died, it left him without a relative, whom he knew of, in the world. He was twenty years old, and he owned a set of roving toes and an imagination. So he went to California seeking romance and gold. Finding neither, he came down here to Nevada.

He staked out his hundred and sixty acres with Boulder creek gambling and roasting through them. He built his cabin. His hired help, and built fences, and dug ditches, and planted crops, and bought stock. He bought more land. He hired more help, dug more ditches, planted bigger crops, bought more stock. He has been doing that regularly ever since. And, of course, he located the lead and silver mine on his property, that made him millions if it made him a cent, before it played out. But, in spite of the money that "Old Lady Luck," as he called his mine, made for him, Sam never gave his heart to it. It was the Desert Moon ranch that he loved, and the money he made from the big wind-mill of that was why, when the honor of the ranch went under, during these terrible weeks last summer, Sam all but went under with it.

State Convention Is Attended

The Morehead Kiwanis Club met at the Blue Moon Cafe Monday evening. The attendance indicated those who have been on vacation are rapidly returning. The program was given by Prof. E. V. Hollis, who is the District Trustee of this club and who had just returned from the Kentucky-Tennessee convention at Crab Orchard Springs.

Prof. Hollis told the changes in the Kiwanis Districts leaving Morehead in District number one. The change was brought about because this district was so large that it made it almost impossible for the Lieut.-Governor to get around the clubs that constitute district number one are: Covington, Morehead, Ashland, Paintsville, Pikeville and Prestonburg. Mount Sterling, Danville, Lexington and other clubs in this part of the State that once belonged to District number one now constitute a new district with Kiwanian John Y. Brown, Lexington as Lieut.-Governor. The new Lieut.-Governor for the district which includes the Morehead Club is Rev. T. B. Ashley, Pastor Methodist Episcopal Church at Paintsville, Ky.

One of the interesting features was the new Governor for the Kentucky-Tennessee District. Mr. Harper Gatton, Supt. of Schools, Madisonville, Ky., who school men over the State know, and who was District Secretary for four years was elected Governor for the year of all clubs in Kentucky and Tennessee.

The speaker was interested in the displays at the convention, showing how the clubs do an effective work through the State. This display was usually by photographs. One of the interesting features of this was the student loan fund, shown by the pictures. Memphis, Tenn., has the largest student loan fund in the Kentucky-Tennessee District. Another club that has the record for the underprivileged children is our own Barbourville Club. Barbourville, in Southeastern Kentucky raises more money for the underprivileged child than any club. This is usually raised through sponsoring a horse show.

The Club will meet next Monday evening at the Blue Moon Cafe at 6:15 P. M.

Masters Have Family Re-union

On September 1st there was a dinner given at the home of Mr. G. M. Masters on Flat Fork of Tygart in honor of his seventy-sixth birthday. Among those present were: his daughter, Mrs. Flora Reeder, husband and son of Braddock, Pa., his son, Mr. H. Masters, wife and two children of Fleming county, his son Leah Masters, wife and three children of Rowan county, his daughter, Mrs. Lona Day, husband, and four children of Haywood, Ky., his daughter, Mrs. Ella Reeder and husband of Upper Tygart and their two grandsons of Knightstown, Ind., his daughter in law, Mrs. Hannah Masters and daughter of Braddock, Pa., his grand daughter, Mrs. Earl Masters and four children of Olive Hill, Ky. Mrs. Maud Sabers and son of Upper Tygart. All reported a fine time and plenty to eat.

Late in the afternoon his grand-daughter, Mrs. C. A. Gustafson, husband and three children of Pittsburgh, Pa., arrived. All delighted to see them, but sorry they were late for the dinner.

gene Miles, Graydon Hackney, and Arthur Tatum making the race for line positions. The squad ranges in weight from 250 pounds, at which figure Glenmore Roberts tips the beam down to half that amount, 120 Earl Caskey pulling that weight. The line, as planned at present will average 170 pounds while the back field will average 155. Roy Cassidy is the likely center with Arthur Tatum in the running. Dick Clay and Glenmore Roberts are likely tackles; guards will probably be Alden Robinson, Chas. Adams, Arthur Barber and Lee Reed; ends are between Curtis Canehill, Graydon Hackney, Eugene Miles and Arthur Tatum.

The first game will be either September 22 or 29. The exact date will be announced as soon as definite arrangements are settled. It will probably be with either Grayson or Olive Hill, according to the present dope.

Morehead High School will sport green uniforms with white letters.

Season tickets to all football games will be offered for sale as soon as the schedule of games is completed. It is the hope of the management that every citizen of Morehead will help boost the Morehead High School football team by buying one of these season tickets.

The dopesters have it that the team is going to be good and, contrary to the usual condition may be expected to win several of their games this first season. If they do they will be going good, and whether they do or not, they will be worth following and supporting because they represent Morehead's and Rowan county's best.

other college buildings, the entire front being of Bowling Green cut stone. It will consist of two stories and a basement.

The basement will include a large stock room and a number of small seminar rooms. On the second floor will be the library proper. Here on either side will be located the two large reading rooms, separated by the central distribution desk. Immediately back of the distribution desk will be the book stacks, with ample shelf room for a library of 100,000 volumes. These stacks may be enlarged as found necessary, so that the library building will be capable of taking care of the needs of the school for many years to come. It is estimated that the stack that will be provided at the start 100,000 volumes will be sufficient to take care of the needs of the school for the next ten years.

In front of the corridor on the second floor will be found a large cataloging room for the cataloging of new volumes as they arrive. Next will be found the private office of the librarian.

On the same floor will be found a large room 30 by 60 feet that will be used for faculty study purposes.

The Art Department of the college will occupy a large room on the third floor directly over the faculty study room, as well as a number of rooms for studio facilities. The rest of the third floor will be divided into small seminar rooms for the meetings for committees and discussion groups.

Housekeeping is no curse

A wise woman doesn't try to beat NATURE! Stop doing the system, and try KARNAK! Every organ in the body will respond to this marvelous NATURAL stimulant. One spoonful of this LIQUID SUNSHINE will make most women feel an almost instant pick-up!

The best thing about KARNAK is its perfect purity and harmlessness. The only "habit" about it is the habitual habit that follows. For KARNAK is a CORRECTIVE — a scientific blend of fine herbs, and roots, and barks. Nature makes it. As good for you as it tastes! Give the kiddies some, too — and the men, folks. Then see how the whole family LIKE TO EAT and ENJOY LIFE.

There's more PEP in one big, family bottle of KARNAK than a month in the mountains might bring. All drug stores.

In 5 MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

A host of babies will enjoy sound sleep tonight. And their parents will have unbroken rest. Castoria is the cause of this contentment in a multitude of homes.

Good old Castoria! Children cry for it. Mothers swear by it. Not a household where there is an infant should ever be without it. A few drops of Castoria quiet Baby in a perfectly innocent manner. It is natural, harmless, that follows. Castoria is a purely vegetable product. No opiates. No narcotics. Of any kind.

Now you know why trained nurses give Castoria as often as an infant is ailing, or even restless. And why doctors tell mothers it is the first and only home remedy when Baby has constipation, colic, diarrhea, or other upset. It is made for babies, and safe to give babies, and other things are not.

Fletcher's Castoria is "old-fashioned" if you count its fifty years, but it's an old-fashioned mother, nowadays, who worries along without it. Twenty-five million bottles bought last year — a mark of the number of mothers who rely on Castoria. All these mothers want to know? To keep a bottle in the home is a precaution you owe your little one.

ANCIENT TAX ON WINDOWS RECALLED BY MODERN "RE-DISCOVERY" OF SUNLIGHT

Amazing Levy Sharp Contrast To Present Sun Worship

BY levying one of the most astounding taxes in all history the British government in 1697 began the transformation of thousands of bright, sunny homes into dark, cheerless, unhealthy dwellings.

Neither the tax on tea which spurred the American colonists to revolt or the even more infamous French tax on salt, one of the many high crimes of the Bourbons which eventually cost them their heads, offer a parallel for this strangest of all government exactions.

As hard as it is to conceive of a government levying what amounted virtually to a tax on sunshine, that is exactly what William the Third did. In order to make up a budget deficiency due to the recoinage of silver during his reign, he placed a high levy on every window in the British Isles. So many coins had been clipped or otherwise defaced and brought below standard weight that the exchequer found itself in an embarrassing position when the re-issue began. The historic "sunshine tax" resulted.

So hard did the burden fall on the middle classes that even today in many of the old English homes traces can be seen of endeavors to lighten the load by bricking up practically all windows, leaving the interiors unhealthy breeding places for germs, and depriving the family of the health giving rays of the sun.

Booting Windows

The effect of the tax was so great that when it was finally repealed in 1851 there were only 275,000 houses in the entire British Isles with more than 10 windows.

A touch of modernism is given to accounts of the times by dark stories of "bootleg" windows—windows so constructed as to be concealed and made to look like a part of the house walls when the tax assessor appeared. Despite these bootleg efforts, however, the tax was successful and was six times increased before its final repeal in 1851.

Scientific investigation has shown sunshine to be so important to health that it would be impossible today for a government to levy any such tax. Moreover, science has discovered that windows do not entirely solve the problem of adequate sunshine, inasmuch as an important group of the sun's rays do not penetrate glass. Close on this discovery came the perfection of lamps to provide artificially the sunshine which most persons' mode of living prevents them from getting naturally. Some of these lamps throw off special rays, such as the ultra-violet rays of the quartz mercury lamp. One of them, generating light from an electric arc plying between two carbons, throws off not only the ultra-violet rays but all of the other beneficial sun rays as well, including the visible and infrared. This type, known as the "carbon arc" sunshine lamp, is coming more and more into favor as public health experts continue to stress the importance of adequate sunshine to health. The sun worship of ancient civilizations has its counterpart in the present appreciation of its health giving qualities. The fact that its vital rays are necessary for the maintenance of health has found universal acceptance. In strong contrast, at any rate, is the present attitude with the action of the British Government in levying a tax on the most important single factor in the world's health.

Ky. Conference Does Great Work

The Kentucky Annual Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South convened in its one hundred and ninth annual session at the Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, Ky., on Wednesday, September 4, 1929. Bishop U. V. W. Darlington, the Bishop in Charge of our European work and also the Illinois and Kentucky Conferences in the United States presided.

One of the outstanding things of interest this year was the election of delegates to the General Conference to be held in Dallas, Texas, next May. The clerical delegates elected were: Dr. W. G. Cram, Secretary Board of Missions, Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. W. S. Maxwell, Presiding Elder, Covington District, J. L. Clark, Presiding Elder of the Danville District, W. L. Clark, Pastor First Methodist Church, Covington, Ky.

An equal number of lay delegates were elected as follows: Mrs. J. H. Spillman, Harrodsburg, J. T. Cannon, Cynthia, Marcus Redwine, Winchester, and Dr. A. W. Atkin, Flemingsburg, Ky.

A memorial was presented to the Conference to be sent to the General Conference asking that the Ashland District, which by natural location, belongs to the Kentucky Conference, be embraced in the Kentucky Conference.

The regular reports of the conference showed the following statistics of interest to Methodist people: Pastoral charges 134, number of members 24,408, number of Sunday schools, 274. Officers and Teachers 3,473 pupils more than 26,000, the Kentucky Wesleyan College has 17 Teachers, property worth $450,000 and an endowment of $100,000. The Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington has 35 officers and nurses and 200 beds with more than 3,000 patients for the year. The property valued at more than $800,000. The total amount of money raised throughout the Kentucky Conference this year for all purposes was more than $725,000.

That thing that might be of personal interest to the people of Morehead is the former pastor, Rev. E. C. Watts, went back to Butler, Ky., for his sixth year. Reverend Watts holding the second longevity record, only being surpassed for service by Rev. Wm. Williams, Central Church, Mayville, who went back for his seventh year. Rev. C. R. Thomas who was here just one year ago moved at his own request from Blue Diamond and was assigned to Lynch, Kentucky.

The Conference meets at Carlisle next year.

This session is likely to be Bishop Darlington's last Conference in Kentucky. For a number of years the Conference will reassign all the Bishops next May. They usually change fields.

Vacationists Back

Kentuckians believe they suffer from heat. One Saturday in South Dakota the temperature ranged to 102 in that state and as they say in South Dakota, there was no shade. Combine this extreme heat with a wind that is literally a wave of fire; and let it blow over a drying corn field for a few hours, and you have no corn. That is the condition that exists in South Dakota, Kansas, and Missouri at present.

Old timers say that for the past four years they have experienced a period of growth that has put their crops and has literally paperized the entire section. Others say that practically every farm in the section is plastered with a mortgage of the size that no farm can bear. The section is, according to these authorities bankrupt.

Rowan county citizens should bear in mind that this section of which we are writing is regarded as the agricultural center of the United States, the wheat producing section.

Rowan county still has other industries on which she may depend to a large extent. That section has little other than agriculture on which to depend. Consequently, when the farming industry goes bad in that country, the entire country is financially injured.

Taken by and large, citizens of this county, should visit other sections, in order to be able to appreciate what we have at home.

time between Haldeman and Morehead. She will send half time in each school, thus placing the opportunity to acquire a foundation in music with the children in each community.

While it is yet early to predict what the outlook will be for the coming year, from an athletic viewpoint, Prof. Mobley believes that the school will be able to make a creditable showing in basketball which is the major sport in Haldeman during the school year. The boys and girls have already started to toss the ball and while a good many of the stars of last year are not in school through graduation, yet the material that is available is promising.

The school at Farmers has a two year high school course for the first time, with a total enrollment of fifteen in that department which Beulah Burrows is the principal. Eighty are enrolled in the grades at that place, with the following teachers: Mrs. Wynona Jennings, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth; Vester Mauk, third and fourth; Cleo C. Raybourn, first and second.

county agricultural agent, three purebred Jersey sires have been introduced as well as several purebred registered Jersey heifers. This forms the nucleus for the future industry. Never before in the county has there been such a growing interest. Farmers are harvesting a greater acreage of cowpeas, soybeans, and other foreign crops to feed to their dairy cows. Next year will still witness a larger acreage in these crops.

The ROWAN COUNTY NEWS desires to assist and encourage the farmer and it knows of no better advice than to produce butterfat, feed the skim milk out back home to other stock, secure higher producing cows, use better sires and produce more home grown feeds.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system, and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did advise of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Eyrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colic. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: 1. Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. 2. For a free trial bottle, just write "Eyrup Pepsin," Dept. B6, Monticello, Illinois.

WHEN CHILDREN Need a Laxative

"We have used Theodor's Black-Draught in our family for nineteen years. I have found it of great help in raising my family. I have given it to all six of my children. Whenever they complain of upset stomach, or begin to look pale, and sickly, I make use of Black-Draught and begin giving it to them. In a day or two they are all right. I give it to them for constipation, our very husband and I both take it. I always give it for colds in winter, for I believe a way to prevent them is to keep the system clean."

Mrs. Dottie Terry, 1205 Fourth Avenue, Decatur, Ala.

Reducing Diets Are Lazy Substitute For Youth - Prolonging Exercise
W. Ward Beam Holds

GIRLS, be careful how you indulge in reducing diets to cut down your weight. If you want to stand in the good graces of W. Ward Beam, physical director of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, and famous for the physical training classes he has conducted on the beach at Ocean City, New Jersey, for several years.

Sometimes, under medical supervision, reducing diets may be advisable, but usually, in Mr. Beam's opinion, they are only a lazy and unhealthy substitute for exercise. From the aesthetic as well as the health point of view, Mr. Beam is set against the practice of cutting out essential foods in the quest of a slender figure.

"There is nothing," Mr. Beam says, "more attractive than the form of a young woman in the full bloom of her youth, health and vigor; while the picture of the fat-chested victim of the boyish figure craze is only too frequently the very reverse. Worst of all, the underweight girl is liable to be weakened both mentally and physically by her elimination of body-building and energizing foods."

"The girl who shuns the starches, sweets and fats in an attempt to fill her body into an unnatural mold would do far better to aim at a perfect figure by continuing a full, properly balanced diet, and absorbing the various food constituents by a normal amount of healthful exercise."

Youth as well as weight, in Mr. Beam's opinion, is largely a matter of sufficient physical exertion, and he holds that old age is not a question of years, but of the condition of the muscles, tissues and body organs. Youth, he believes, can be prolonged many years by proper exercise.
