Student Council Talent Show Displays Talent

By June Gray

The Student Council Talent Show presented Tuesday evening, Feb. 24, at 7:30 was labeled a huge success by the student body.

The superb performances of the Campus Satellites and the Rock-a-Fellows plus the individual talents displayed by the other participants made this one of the most memorable talent shows ever presented on the Morehead State College campus.

The night's performance began with George Neilson's version of "Kalegia", and was followed by a modified version of a modern folk dance, the Turkey Trot with the hula hoop, by Holly Pieratt.

The atmosphere was quickly switched from the lively folk music to sentimental standards in the popular line by Nancy Fannin as she sang "Autumn Leaves", and "Blue Moon". This was followed by Camelo Taleriacho who sang "Carolina Moon". The audience then heard Dorothy Dorton's own composition of "These Blues Are Getting Me Down".

The only performer who does not attend Morehead State was Gretta Bo Todd who did a ballet dance. Randy Wells sang two of the Platter's hit songs, "Twilight Time" and "Only You". Imitations of Fats Domino's "Blue Monday" and Jerry Lee Lewis' "You Win Again" were given by Ronny Wright. The program took on a comical aspect as Johnny Duncan did a pantomime of "It's in the

The program was climaxed with a rock 'n roll show presented by the Rock-a-Fellows and the Campus Satellites. The Rock-a-Fellows sang "Rhythm Rock", which is one side of their record that will be released this month, and many others. The Campus Satellites did their own composition of "Down in my Heart". The response of the audience was tremendous and the group was encoered many times.

Johnny Duncan was master of ceremonies.

Who's Who Election Criticized

Last week the primary election for "Who's Who in American Colleges" was held on the campus of Morehead State College. This editorial is not written in criticism of those students who were elected to these positions, but instead it is criticism of the method in which they were selected.

When it came time for the selection of these students, what did we do at M.S.C.? The students are voted in by other students who feel it's their duty to vote for their friends, or voted "Jackson" in because it would be a great joke.

This type of election is great for "Most Popular" and "The One Most Likely to Succeed" and so on, but it hardly seems suitable for selecting people to represent our school.

We think that perhaps a faculty-student committee should be set up to take care of "Who's Who" and other matters of this nature. This way for students for "Who's Who" could be selected not only on the basis of their popularity with their classmates, but their scholastic abilities also.

As we said before, this is not a criticism of those who were selected this year or any other year. It is merely a suggestion for what we feel would be a better way of choosing these candidates.

Figures Made Available On Campus Election Participation

At the March 26 convocation, Doug Hayes, president of the student council, asked the student body to turn out in greater numbers and vote in the Mountain Laurel Queen nomination finals. His plea did not go unheeded.

Though only 200 (approximately) had voted in the primary of this election, 380 students voted in the finals, or 28.7 percent of the 1,323 full time students on campus voted. Only four of the 456 part time students voted.

By classes, the junior class edged out the senior class by four-tenths of one percent, to have the largest percentage of their class voting. Most of the 226 full time juniors voted, to give them a turnout of 36.3 percent. The senior class had 78 of 217 voting for a 35.9 percent turnout.

Of the other classes, the sophomores had 87 of 283 voting for 30.7 percent and the freshmen had 133 of 576 voting for 23.1 percent. The graduate students brought up the rear with 2 of the 21 full time graduate students voting for a low 9.5 percent turnout.

When the votes were counted, Rheba Martin of Mt. Sterling had won the Morehead State College's nomination.

Harry Lee Waterfield got one vote to Bert Comb's zero. This was thrown out because the contest is open only to single people.

The polls were held open from 10:45 to 5:00 Thursday, March 26, with Allan Fry, a sophomore casting the last ballot. Information on the first vote is not available.

"I would estimate that this was the biggest turnout of this year," Hayes said.

Vanlandingham And Crager Candidates For Council Prexy

The final election for the officers of the Morehead State College Student Council will be held this Thursday in the Doran Student House. Buford Crager, Prestonsburg, and Lois Vanlandingham, Maysville, both members of this year's sophomore class, will be the students' choices for president.

Other candidates on the Thursday ballot will be: Tony Cavallo and Billy Thomas, vice-president; Wanda Peace and Harlan Collins, secretary; Morris Shufflebarger and Sidney Cure, treasurer; Johnny Duncan and Kenneth Akers, reporter; and Gary Branson and George Kerr, historian.

Crager, a football letterman for two years, is president of the sophomore class. He is a 1957 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, majoring in physical edu-

Lois is a French major and a graduate of Maysville High School. Cavallo is a sophomore from Gary, W. Va., and Thomas, also a sophomore, is from Vanceburg.

Wanda Peace, a graduate of Southern High School in Louisville, is the newly elected secretary of next year's sophomore class. Her opponent, Collins, is from Whitesburg.

Shufflebarger, a chemistry major, is from McDowell; Cure is from Gary, W. Va. John Duncan, popular disc jockey on Radio Station WMOR, Morehead, is a graduate of Breckinridge Training School. His opponent, Akers, is from Prestonsburg.

Branson is from McDowell and Kerr from Circleville, O.

The president-elect will succeed Doug Hayes, elected last spring to serve the 1958-59 school year.

Staff Salutes Student Council Officers

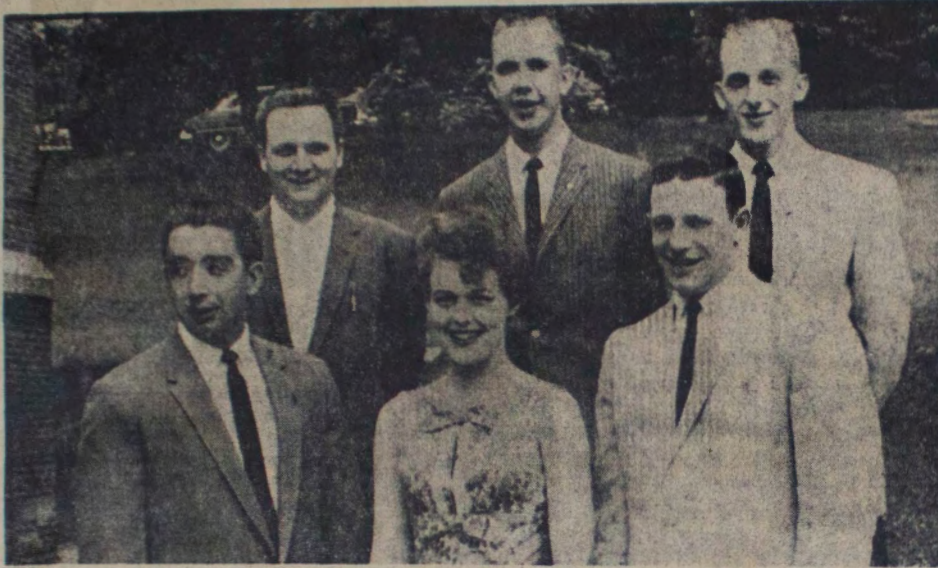

Just recently an election was held to choose the president of next year's Student Council. Candidates for the various offices carried on campaigns that were in most respects fair and above-board and we would like to say that we think this was good.

However, there must always be a few obnoxious juvenile persons who persist in ruining everything by producing small scale riots. Isn't it pitiful that students in college who are supposedly adults can find no better release for their emotions than common fighting?

Back to the subject at hand. There's no use wasting space and time on the type of people who probably don't read anyway. We feel that although this year's campaign wasn't carried out to the extent of last year's, it was successful in that there were no unusually bitter feelings or oppositions produced.

May we congratulate those persons who were elected to officer positions on the council and say that we will try to help the Student Council in any way possible.

Crager Elected Student Council President; Cavallo, Peace, Duncan, Kerr, Shufflebarger Also Named

By Pat Spencer

Buford Crager, sophomore, was elected recently to serve as president of the Student Council for the 1959-60 school year.

Buford, who is from Prestonsburg, is a member of the Campus Club, was vice-president of his freshman class, president of the sophomore class, a member of the football team, and was on the baseball team last year. Buford is majoring in Business Administration and Physical Education.

Others who were selected for positions as officers on the council were: Tony Cavallo, vice-president; Wanda Peace, secretary; Mickey Shufflebarger, treasurer; and Johnny Duncan, reporter.

Tony, who is also a sophomore, comes from Gary, W. Va. and is working for an area of concentration in Commerce. He is a member of the Newman Club, was class representative to this year's Student Council, and is a member of the Campus Club. He will be serving as secretary of the Campus Club next year and his name has appeared on the honor roll.

Freshman Wanda Peace of Louisville was freshman representative to the Student Council this year and is an active worker in debate. Wanda has been on honor roll and is now on academic scholarship. In addition to serving as secretary of the Council, she was selected to fill the position of secretary to her sophomore class.

Mickey Shufflebarger is a member of the Vets Club, Les Courants, Mu Sigma Chi, and is president of the Beta Chi Gamma. A premier major, he has been on the honor roll and is a native of McDowell. Mickey is a member of the junior class.

George Kerr, a first semester sophomore from Circleville, O., is a mathematics and chemistry major. He is a member of the Mu Sigma Chi, the Beta Chi Gamma, and was on the dean's list first semester. This is the first time that George has ever served on the Council.

A favorite of the WMOR broadcasting audience is Johnny Duncan who will serve as reporter for the Council next year. Johnny is a junior and although much of his time is taken up at the station, his name was still listed on the honor roll.

Student Council Selects Theme For Homecoming

The theme for Morehead State College's 1959-60 Homecoming, Then "And . . . Now", was decided on Monday, Oct. 5, at the second meeting of the Student Council, which was presided over by President Buford Crager and Vice-President Tony Cavallo.

The theme Then "And . . . Now" will personify the marked progress that Morehead State College has made throughout the years by contrasting the different aspects of the Morehead of yesterday with the Morehead of today. It should prove especially appropriate for the numerous returning alumnae who will remember the school as it was in their day.

Among other topics discussed was the election of a Homecoming Queen and her Court; it was voted to continue with the same procedure of election as had been previously followed.

Homecoming Election Needs To Be Modernized

Last week eleven girls were selected by popular vote of the student body to vie for the honor of Homecoming Queen. It may truthfully be said that each of these girls are representative of the well-rounded college student, however we feel that the election itself was not conducted in the manner it should have been.

Many say, "Well, why worry about how it was conducted because after all, we have a fine group of girls." True, but some time we are going to end up with some undesirables as happened last year in one of the elections. Some contend that listing the names of all the upperclass girls is just about as fair as any other way. We don't think so! For example, many of the freshmen don't even know eleven upperclass girls and as a result they are subject to fall prey to all sorts of influence in voting. One boy said that he knew four girls so he checked their names and then for the other seven names he chose those whose names were similar to baseball player's names. Is that fair?

Oh and there is more! A whole group of freshmen called one of the older students and asked him to fill out their ballots because they didn't know but a few of the girls. Should the freshmen, because they haven't been here long enough to get acquainted be deprived of the right to vote for the Homecoming Queen? No, that isn't the answer either, because after all, they enter a float and are just as much a part of the activities as anyone else.

Should only those girls who are listed on the honor roll or in a certain number of clubs be the ones whose names appear on the ballots? Anyone can see how impractical this would be. It's a problem . . . and a big one because there is going to come the day when the election won't show that pretty, popular, and intelligent girls were selected.

At some of the larger schools each fraternity and sorority puts up a candidate and then the whole school votes on these girls, but we don't have social sororities and fraternities. Perhaps we could have each club or organization on campus put up a candidate. Or maybe a committee composed of students and faculty could select the finalists and let the student body make the final decision on the queen.

We're just throwing out some ideas here, but we're sure that most students will agree that the manner in which the Homecoming election, and the elections in general are held just isn't fair in many respects. We leave it to the students to rectify the matter some way . . . through the Student Council, petition, or something just as long as it solves the problem.

Wanda Peace Reigns As Queen At Homecoming

Miss Wanda Peace, a sophomore from Louisville, reigned as Queen of the Homecoming at Morehead State College Saturday.

Wanda, who is majoring in political science, has proven to be not only a lovely girl, but a good student in her year and a half at Morehead. She is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club, Student Council, is secretary of the sophomore class, counselor for the Freshmen girls and her name has also appeared on the Dean's list.

The announcement of the Queen was made by Dr. Adron Doran shortly after ten o'clock last Saturday morning after individual introductions were made of all the queen candidates on the steps of the Doran Student House. Wanda indicated surprise by a startled gasp, but soon gained composure to accept a bouquet of yellow mums from the president of the college.

After pictures were snapped Queen Wanda and her court were escorted by members of the Board Regents through the ranks of M.S.C.'s marching band to their convertibles, and the Queen's float.

During intermission at the Homecoming Dance Miss Peace was introduced along with her court and was presented a silver loving cup by Joel Slaughter, president of the Mystic Club. Escorted by football captain Bill Davidson to her throne, Wanda rejoined Bill for the Queen's Dance.

Members of the Homecoming Court were Arlene Shadrach, Virginia Gainer, Rheba Martin, Scottie Copher, Helen Ison, Jude

Wilson, Carol Bentley, Judy Brown, Pat Caudill, and Bonnie Davidson. The Queen and her court were elected by popular vote of the student body.

ROYALTY—Two little misses don't seem too impressed with the fact that they are riding with royalty. Queen Wanda seems a little overwhelmed with it all though. Both of the younger girls are from Morehead.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE—Judie Wilson and Bonnie Davidson present a good idea of what Queen candidates should look like as they smile in spite of the beginning drizzle of rain.

HOMEcoming CANDIDATES—Smiling prettily for both the crowd and the photographer are juniors Helen Ison and Scottye Copher as they were seen in Saturday's parade.

Faculty Members
Morehead State College
Morehead, Kentucky

Dear Faculty Member:

As we all realize, the time for final examinations is drawing near. These examinations can mean a great deal to many students who want to make good grades in an honest manner. As in all things, however, there are those who want to take the proverbial "path of least resistance" and cheat. In the past, many students have complained to the Student Council that this cheating has resulted in lower grades for the non-cheating students.

Since the Council has received these complaints, we of the Student Council would like to admonish you to be extremely careful with the final examinations before they are administered, during the administration, and with the administered papers until such time as they are marked and the final grades recorded.

We would appreciate your cooperation regarding this matter; you may rest assured that the Council will cooperate to the fullest extent.

Respectfully,

Wanda Peace Is Elected MS Laurel Representative

By Barbara Ellen Anglin

Wanda Peace, a sophomore from Louisville, will represent Morehead State College at the annual Mountain Laurel Festival, which will take place the last week of May, in Pine Mountain State Park, Pineville.

Wanda, a political science and history major, is by MSC student vote a beautiful and popular girl and has also proven to be an excellent student, being on the Dean's list every semester during her college career.

She is presently serving as secretary of the Student Council and of the sophomore class, is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club, and is serving as a counselor for the Freshmen girls. Miss Peace also reigned as Queen of the 1959 Homecoming here at MSC.

Candidates for the title of Mountain Laurel Representative were nominated by a committee elected by the Student Council. The five nominees were chosen on the basis of beauty, charm, poise, intelligence, personality, and other qualities that a representative to this festival should possess.

The five nominees selected were Judith Brown, Patricia Caudill, Scottye Copher, Wanda Peace and Judie Wilson. Of these, Wanda was elected by popular vote of the student body.

The Festival will be a three-day affair, during which time the representatives from Kentucky colleges will be observed and judged on the above mentioned qualities by men and women unknown to them. They will also appear in several formal attires, as well as casual clothes and sports outfits.

During the Festival, Wanda will be escorted by Tony Gast, MSC football player.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL FESTIVAL REPRESENTATIVE—Wanda Peace will represent Morehead State College at the annual Mountain Laurel Festival which will be held in Pineville in May. Tony Gast, Blue and Gold gridder, will escort Wanda during the Festival.

Woody Herman Performs In Student Council Program

CONCERT—Woody Herman and his band will entertain Morehead State College students and other interested persons with a concert next week. The program will be presented by the Student Council as one of its events of the year designed to entertain the MSC student body.

Woody Herman, who brings his award winning orchestra, America's Greatest Entertaining Unit to Morehead State College on March 29 is often called the "youngest old timer in the music business."

Herman, who has recently signed with Capitol records is one of the most popular band leaders in the business. A triple threat performer . . . he sings, plays the clarinet and the alto saxophone.

Herman will present his entire orchestra of 17 world famous instrumentalists and a lovely girl vocalist. Coming directly from successful engagements in Chicago, Hollywood, and New York, Herman will begin playing at 7:30 in Button Auditorium.

This famed group has appeared on Morehead's College campus previously and has been well received by the faculty and students alike. Herman has been playing the clarinet professionally for over 30 years. His latest band group has been voted tops in the country by the readers of Metronome magazine and has been hailed by TIME, PARADE and other magazines as the "band that brought back dancing."

Herman is the only popular band leader in the world to have a composition written especially for him by Igor Stravinsky, the celebrated classical composer. Stravinsky wrote "Ebony Concerto", which Herman played at Carnegie Hall.

With the critics' typewriters pounding out praise and the cheers of audiences everywhere ringing in his ears, Woody himself, says, "It took me about 200 musicians to find the band I was looking for, but now I'm happy at last. This is a fine, great group of guys."

The success of this band with the critics and the public is a tribute to the integrity, courage and prescience of the leader. When the music business was at an all time low Woody laid the plans for his re-entry into the big band field.

Realizing the stresses of the post war years were over, Woody foresaw that big bands would come back again once the fans had a chance to really hear them. It was a long hard, struggle, but it has been worth it to forge a band like this one.

Tickets for this concert will be $1 and may be purchased at the door.

Student Council Restricts Vets Village Parking

Effective immediately parking in Veteran's Village is "off limits" for anyone who is not a resident of the area, the Morehead State College Student Council announced today.

The council agreed that if any car was found parked in the Village, except those belonging to residents of the Village, necessary action will be taken to remove the car.

The council strongly recommended that residents of the Village who own automobiles should not drive their cars to the classes on the campus.

THIS COULD
YOU—!

The Student Council is challenging any club on campus to beat its percentage of blood donors during the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit on Monday, May 9, from 9:00 until 5:00. Each student who volunteers to give a pint of blood will register his name under all the clubs and the class to which he belongs. When the mobile unit closes at 5:00 p.m. all the donors will be tallied and names drawn to see who will win the prizes to be offered.

The organization which has the largest percent of volunteer donors (whether they are accepted or not) will win a cash prize of $15.00. There will be a second prize of $10.00 and a third prize of $5.00. Watch for the graph of all the clubs' volunteers in the Doran Student House!

If you are under 21 see your club or class president or any Student Council member for a permission slip to be signed by your parents before May 9.

There will be a Trail theatre ticket given free to any person who volunteers to give a pint of blood whether he is accepted or not. The other prizes offered include cash, merchandise certificates, and dinners.

This project is being sponsored jointly by the efforts of the American Red Cross, the Morehead State College Student Council and Russell Brown, Blood Recruitment Chairman of Rowan County and is being carried out in your behalf. All the blood received on this date will be credited to Morehead State College and if, at any time, any student or any other person affiliated with Morehead State College has need of blood in an emergency, it will be available to him because of the efforts of the college students and personnel. This also applies to any member of your immediate family. If you or any member of your family need blood at any time, the Red Cross will furnish this blood free of cost.

The only charge you will have to pay will be the cost of the administering of the blood. This drive will benefit YOU!

Salisbury Impressed By Interest Shown By Student Council Representatives Here

By George Stevens

"I was very much impressed by the interest shown by the representatives in the first meeting of the Student Council," stated Bill Salisbury, President of the Morehead Student Council. "I would also like to urge all students to voice their ideas and opinions to the representatives and we will give it due consideration in the Council," he added.

dent governing body on campus instituted to promote the better interests of the students. It is composed of the officers, and 25 members representing the classes, dormitories, commuters, Vet's Village and the Morehead student residents.

The first meeting of the council was held Monday, Oct. 7, in the Audio Visual room of the Doran Student House. The group met with Dean Wilson, faculty sponsor, to discuss the Homecoming parade.

It was recided that a central theme of song titles will be used this year for the annual event. Mr. John Collis, representing the Alumni Association, proposed the idea of having the floats related to the Homecoming game by using a central theme.

Committees were also appointed to encourage the businessmen of Morehead to decorate their store windows for Homecoming and another group was set up to judge these decorations.

The officers of the Student Council are Gene Carroll, Vice President; Nancy Fannin, Secretary; Alice Fannin, Treasurer; Ratsy Taylor, Reporter; Jane Carver, Historian and are under the leadership of Bill Salisbury, President. Bill is a 20-year-old senior from Stockdale, O. and is majoring in biology.

Eastern Students To Participate In Social

Kicking off "Best Dressed Week" will be an inter-school social with students from Eastern State College beginning at 5 p. m. in the Doran Student House.

The Student Council at Morehead State College has invited 50 top students to represent Eastern to meet with students from our school in order to establish a better relationship between the two schools, and to alleviate as much of the intense rivalry which we have had in the past as possible.

The idea for the social was initiated by Dr. Doran at a meeting of the Presidents Council and was immediately accepted by all members. The Student Council and was immediately accepted by all members. The Student Council asked for permission to sponsor such an event and immediately began making plans for it.

So let's all join the Student Council in throwing out the welcome mat for the students from Eastern.

Student Council Sponsors Trip

By Nadine Carver

Members of the Morehead Student Council and their guests traveled to Eastern State College for a "good will" get together preceding the game Thursday night.

This trip was a return invitation from Eastern's council, which met our students in the same type program before the Morehead-Eastern game played here.

This program was started by our council in hopes that better relations could be established between the two colleges. The rivalry between the schools had grown to the extent that frequent visits were made to the campuses of both colleges, and property was defaced.

Morehead's council believed that if the students were given the opportunity of becoming better acquainted, such actions might be stopped.

The Morehead students were greeted Thursday afternoon at the Student Union. A tea and a get acquainted period was the first of the activities of the afternoon.

The visitors were shown hospitality during the afternoon at the Student Union, and a dinner was given in their honor Thursday evening.

The president of Eastern's council welcomed the visitors at the dinner and expressed his hopes of the success of such a program. Bill Salsbury, president of Morehead's Council expressed hopes of better relations coming from these meetings and thanked the hosts for the opportunity of meeting again with them and for the hospitality extended to them.

Dean Wilson and Miss Pemberton, along with members of the Eastern faculty, were guests at the dinner.

Dean Wilson said at the dinner that he believed the meetings had been very successful and many good things had been derived from them.

Following the dinner the students attended the game and then returned to Morehead.

Just Where Is The Student Council?

Where is our Student Council?

We have heard rumors to the effect that they are still meeting, and a few of its members have been seen on campus. Yet, we wonder if it could possibly be true, since we have heard nothing from them for such a long time.

If, there are any members left on campus, and who can spare a minute or two of their seemingly most precious time, we humbly beseech you to drop around and say "hello."

If, by electing you to our most important campus organization, that of our governing body, we have ex-communicated you from our campus and your friends, we most apologetically ask your forgiveness.

It would certainly be most commendable should you be able to govern our student body while engrossed in your shroud-like silence. However, this doesn't seem possible and we doubt very seriously that it is.

We as students, have a right to know what you are doing, and it is this right which we are seeking.

To the Editor:

I want to assure the student body that the Student Council is very much alive, helping to build Morehead bigger and better. However, we have not been publicizing our activities too much.

I was not surprised to read your recent editorial in The Trail Blazer concerning the Student Council. These articles have become annual affairs. It seems that about this time every year the editor proceeds to write a critical editorial about the Council.

I don't know what is expected of the Council by individuals such as the one who wrote the above mentioned editorial. He seems to think that nothing is being accomplished unless there is a controversy going on between the Council and the administration, accompanied by a lot of noise in the paper. The Student Council believes that nothing can be accomplished by handling a problem in this manner.

If there is a legitimate problem concerning the students, there is only one way for the Council to handle it. This is to take the problem to the administration and work cooperatively toward the best possible solution for everyone concerned. The Council has found the administration to be most cooperative and helpful in all matters involving student welfare.

It is not my objective to enter into a controversy with our school paper, as I believe more can be accomplished by the Student Council and Trail Blazer working together to improve the college community for all our fellow students.

Thank you,
Bill Salisbury, President
Student Council

Fun Night Proves Highly Successful

Orchids to the Student Council! Yes, the Student Council finally emerged and made themselves known to the college students.

Fun Night, a stranger to all freshmen and several upper-classmen, was taken from the shelf and rejuvenated last week. In spite of a year's absence, the program needed only a little dusting and re-modeling to prove that it is still as effective as in previous years.

Just what is Fun Night? It is a night of carefully planned and well organized fun and frolic for all college students.

The students who attended and participated in the Fun Night activities were entertained for three hours with relaxing recreation. Folk dancing helped to break the ice and get the ball rolling, then a band provided music for social dancing. Diversion of this type is always popular with college students and the Student Council is to be commended for a fine job.

With such a large number of people, it is often difficult to keep everyone entertained. However, there was no lag in the program and the continuity of the activities and fun left no one time to be bored.

With results such as these, it is indeed a shame that Fun Night has not become a regular part of the college's recreation program. Not only would it have afforded us another night out on our social calendar, but the gaiety would have broken the monotony that accompanies the winter months.

Had the Student Council looked ahead, perhaps the crowd would have been larger. Publicity for Fun Night did not appear until the very day it was held. Therefore, it came as a surprise to many. If notices had been posted a few days prior, perhaps all students would have attended and not just the majority.

Intramural games, which are in full swing, were also interrupted by this sudden act of the Student Council. Again we say that if this program had been planned previously, no inconvenience would have been caused.

In spite of the sudden move taken by the Student Council, the results were very rewarding. We hope that this will spur them into action more often. The leadership is there, as was proven. Why not put it to a practical use more often?

Student Leadership Is Lacking

Student leadership on our campus has not been exploited for a long time. When there is no need for leadership, it soon dies. We need leadership now more than ever before. Our enrollment is increasing steadily each semester and we do not realize what leaders we do have on campus.

We do agree that there are traits of leadership among us, but have these qualities been used to the utmost?

The Student Council, a self-governing unit of the student body, has let us down. What good has this organization done for us in relationship to the qualities of leadership it possesses?

Very few clubs on our campus are strong. They neither live up to their standards nor their constitutions. How many clubs have read their constitution in an open meeting in the last four years? Since the club members can not know the reasons for which their club exists, how then can they uphold their club to the many mockers and scoffers who find clubs good only for jokes? What honor can a club possess in a situation like this?

Just what are the qualities of good college organizations? They promote fellowship, stress campus improvement, act as an outlet for student ideas, and build and develop leadership. How many of our clubs have these ideals? Perhaps they live up to some of these standards, but truly leadership is lagging.

Student leaders often die out before they get a good start. When a club does have a good idea, the idea is generally pigeon-holed or dies of unnatural causes.

There is no selectivity whatsoever in the majority of our clubs. Clubs of this kind hold irregular meetings and contribute nothing to the college. Groups such as these resemble greatly a bunch of Indian papooses without a chief.

Freshmen just entering college cannot be expected to take a front seat in leadership. Therefore, it is imperative that leadership should be stressed now so that they will develop into excellent followers and continue to grow into top-notch leaders.

It is not too soon for the clubs on campus to get off their dead ends and build and construct for the future. Consider the mistakes you have made in the past and profit by them.

We depend on our clubs to lead us, to make the way clearer to us. It is up to you, the clubs on campus, to prepare us for the future.

Student Council Election Should Receive Support

The Student Council is providing an opportunity for students on campus to stress their potentialities and leadership capacity.

This organization, which has been lagging for some time, is now doing its utmost to promote interest and cooperation among students.

By holding the annual Student Council election in such a democratic manner, the nominees and voters alike have equal chances.

The candidates will have two weeks to stress their qualifications and to answer all questions regarding their ability to lead a campus governmental unit.

The voters, by listening and observing during these weeks, will have enough time to consider, choose, and determine the person they want to represent the student body.

It is hoped that these primary and final elections will serve the purpose they are intended for. It is up to every student to make a success of this campaign. Do not let this function turn into something without an objective.

This is your chance to voice your opinion. Choose your candidate, support him, and help the Student Council select the most worthy persons to lead us next year.

Remember, the students elected will be representing you and your school in all important matters. Let's stress leadership and let popularity alone.

Hays Edges McBrayer In Student Council Election

Campaigns Lively In "Best Ever" Election

By Gary Eldridge

"The campaign assembly, first of its kind to be held in this manner, was a fine example of collegiate spirit," said Billy Salisbury, president of the Student Council after Thursday's chapel program.

Festivities began Wednesday night with a parade in honor of one of the candidates for president, Doug Hays. The parade was led by the local police car followed by two prancing horses ridden by Doug Moore and Bernie Shimmfessel. An estimated 50 cars followed, many decorated with crepe paper and banners bearing signs for support of Doug Hays.

Wednesday night the campus was quite active with impromptu serenading of the various dorms done by supporters of Terry McBrayer. "Good Night Nelson" was one of the selections the crooners warbled on their singing tour of the campus. After visiting the various dorms, capers ended that night with a big gathering at the music building.

The election for president of the Student Council continued Thursday as the program was presented by both groups. After flipping a coin for first presentation of their candidates, the campaign managers carried through in exposing "their man" for office.

Siding for Terry McBrayer were the "Haircuts", in Bermuda shorts and sun glasses. "He's (Terry) got the While Campus in His Hands", was delivered in quartet vocal style in the same tune as Laurie London's "He's Got the While World In His Hands".

"Spookie" Vittetow added his comment to the program as he said, "Terry McBrayer for president."

R. T. Holbrook spoke before McBrayer addressed the student body.

McBrayer's speech was flavored with the thought that election of the Student Council president should be considered with serious thought about qualifications of each candidate.

Gene Harper, campaign manager for McBrayer had ten minutes in which to present his candidate.

Opposing Gene Harper was Nelson Allen as campaign manager. Nelson started his allotted ten minutes with a serious attitude but ended with music furnished by parading musicians.

Bobby Lowe, a pre-med student speaking in favor of Doug Hays, believed that Doug would support the minority groups on campus such as the Science and English majors.

Curt Cassel mounted the speakers platform for the first time in his career and delivered his remarks for the support of Doug Hays for president.

Questions were received from the floor concerning actions that would be taken if Hays were elected president, and answered by the campaign manager Nelson Allen.

Doug was given a few moments to deliver his campaign speech and then the marching musicians paraded around the audience while the "Haircuts" handed out Terry McBrayer cards.

"It has certainly been the liveliest and best campaign we have had since I have been here," was the concluding remark of Dean Wilson.

Doug Hays emerged victorious in the race for the 1958-59 Student Council President as he edged out Terry McBrayer in one of the closest elections ever held on Morehead's campus. Hays collected 343 votes to eke out a bare margin over McBrayer's 330 votes.

Other officers elected were: Dick Rannels, Vice President; Nancy Fannin, Secretary; Glenna Begley, Treasurer; George Stevens, Reporter; and Jane Carver, Historian.

The race for president was a nip and tuck battle all the way. There was never more than 20 votes difference in the battle. The voting was tied several times during the count.

Rannels won the vice presidency with a margin of 43 votes. He collected 344 compared to Tom Inslee's 301. The outcome of this race was anybody's guess at first, but the last few votes clinched the victory for Rannels.

Nancy Fannin was never in serious trouble as she overpowered Betty Sizemore 410 votes to 249 votes. Fannin led the entire time in this contest.

The office of treasurer was sought for by three candidates. This was also a close decision, but Begley edged out her two opponents with 256 votes. Alice Fannin was second with 205 votes and Sue Plummer was third with 196 votes.

George Stevens received a total of 428 votes. Stevens' opponent in the election was Phyllis VanHoose who tallied 214 votes.

Jane Carver and Lois Vanleadingham split the vote several times, but Carver pulled to the front mid-way in the counting and remained in the lead until the votes were counted. Carver gathered 432 votes to Vanleadingham's 228 votes. Carver also received the highest vote of any candidate.

This election was the closest election that has ever been held here. There were a record number of votes cast. As near as can be tallied, the entire number of votes was around 860.

As soon as the tabulation was made known, Hays was almost speechless. When asked if he had anything to say regarding his victory, Hays said, "Tell everybody I'm very grateful for their vote."
