NORMAL SCHOOL ADDS MANY NEW STUDENTS IN PASSED WEEK AS THINGS ARE RUNNING SMOOTH

New President Gives Splendid Chapel Address In Welcoming Students To School—Faculty Is Now Complete With All Members Present On Job—Coach Downing Gives Workout For First Time.

The Morehead Teachers' College added many new students during the passed week and swelled the enrollment till it has passed all previous marks on the same corresponding day after the beginning of a fall term. The students have entered upon their work enthusiastically and all promises to make this semester in scholarly attainment the best since the establishment of the institution.

At the opening chapel exercise President J. Howard Payne gave a splendid address in welcoming the student body to the school. His words of guidance and encouragement were an inspiration to all with in his hearing. Many of the towns people attended the opening exercise and complimented the school and President Payne in the opening exercises.

The faculty is now complete and every teacher needed for the fall term is on the job. President Payne is receiving many compliments on the selection of his faculty and among them are many outstanding educators. Several additional teachers with Ph. D. Degrees have been added besides those with Masters Degrees. With the addition of these to the present staff the school ranks with that of any in the state in scholarly attainment.

The Board of agents has entered into contract for the construction of a library that will accommodate increases in the student body for years to come and have sufficient room to house hundreds of thousands of new volumes.

The present librarian has made many changes in the library beginning this fall and the library will be found open from 7:45 A. M. till 9 P. M. in the evening. Heretofore the library has been closing at 5 P. M. in the afternoon. The student body is rejoicing over the extension of hours. The first evening of the extension of time found the library crowded with busy students and these have expressed their appreciation to those who are responsible for the change. The library is also open during the dinner hour which is a convenience to those who have to return home early in the afternoon by train and bus.

Coach Downing has many new faces on the football field and the men are rapidly whipping into condition for their first game. Many of the Normal school men asked for a uniform this week and with the turning out of this group, the varsity men will have material to give them a good scrimmage each afternoon. On Friday evening President and Mrs. Payne will be host to the faculty and student body to an informal reception at the gymnasium.

The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. are hosts to the student body at the gym building last Saturday night. After participating in games ably led by Mrs. Clark Layne, delightful refreshments were served. The gaiety of the evening and response of those present made it one of the most enjoyable affairs sponsored by these two organizations.

MR. AND MRS. G. S. SNYDER HONORS MRS. C. P. JACOB

A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Snyder last Thursday evening in honor of Mrs. Snyder's sister, Mrs. C. P. Jacob who has been visiting here for several weeks. Those present were, Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Drew Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis, and Mrs. S. M. R. Hurt. A social evening was followed by delightful refreshments.

Morehead Team Goes To Grayson

Friday of this week, late in the afternoon the Blacks of Morehead High School will be able to decide whether Friday is a lucky or an unlucky day for them.

For Friday afternoon the Black Cats will have their first baptism or initiation or whatever, you want to call it, in the great American game of Football, when they meet the Grayson aggregation at Grayson. Grayson is said to have an exceptionally strong team this year and the Cats will need every claw to stop them or top them. However, the Cats believe they are equal to the occasion and expect to bring home a few pieces of Grayson hide. A large number from Morehead are planning on accompanying the team to Grayson and backing them to the limit. Everyone who has a car or can grab a ride is asked to do so, so that the boys will feel that they are backed by local supporters who want to see them win.

With regard to the season's schedule Mr. Holbrooks now has only one date, October 17 or 18. The schedule follows: Grayson, there, October 5. Pending October 12. Olive Hill, there October 26. Grayson, here November 2. Olive Hill, here November 9. Greenup, here November 14.

It will be seen from the above schedule that five and possibly six games will be played at home. The regular single admission to a game is 50 cent. However, Mr. Holbrooks is planning on offering season tickets that will entitle the holder to admission to every home game during the season for $1.50. He hopes that every one will be willing to invest that sum in the boys of Morehead. Everyone knows that it is impossible to equip a football team without money. Mr. Holbrook does not intend to do what is done in most towns, solicit funds from the citizens with which to buy equipment. He has already acquired a large part of the equipment necessary but there still remains sweaters and other items that make it necessary to hold the season ticket sale. Just remember when you are approached to buy a ticket, that the money goes to the boys of Morehead to help them put over their football team.

Ordinary equipment for a football squad would cost in the neighborhood of $600.00. The Morehead Squad will be able to get by with a great deal less. However, they need around $250.00 which must be raised.

The sale of season tickets will be held at once. Adult season tickets will be $1.50. If you attend every game single admissions would cost you at least $2.50. Student season tickets will cost $1.00. Buy at least one and help keep a boy in school.

Kiwanis Observes Constitution Day

The Kiwanis Clubs throughout the United States and Canada observed "Constitution Week" at this time this week, as a fitting tribute to the constitution, since it was signed on September 17, 1787. "The outstanding objective was to promote an intelligent, aggressive understanding of the government's part of personal responsibility as citizens to actively participate in the solution of public problems."

The Morehead Kiwanis Club had as a speaker a man who knows the development of the Constitution, Prof. C. O. Peratt. According to the speaker if the source of the constitution were traced, it would lead to the study of English History and perhaps one would have to go back to Roman History. The immediate beginning was from the Continental Congress when they addressed a document to the King of England, one to the English people and one to the Canadian people. The speaker pointed out that there was an inconsistency in the two papers addressed to the English and Canadian people. The Continental Congress did not last long, it went home to meet again the following year. Some of its members wanted to break with the British Government and some did not. Prof. Peratt pointed out that from the Continental Congress there was formed a federation. The last interested state confirmed this action in 1781.

The month work on the Constitution was from 1781-1789. From the federation the delegates felt they would not be able to work out a government. Several things were suggested, the plan finally agreed upon was the Virginia plan offered by James Madison. The plan is practically what we have today as the Constitution of the United States. Had it not been for the spirit of compromise, according to the speaker, nothing could have come out of these deliberations that would have stood the test. The plan was before the Congress and they decided this matter must be passed for a conclusion may be met for this purpose in May 1877 and remained in session until the work was completed in September of the same year.

Dog Owners Must Pay Tax

Unlicensed dog owners. I have this morning hired a man and started him out to look up all the dogs that have not been tagged. As the law requires me to get the man or the dog or turn in to the grand jury any man's name that owns or harbors a dog about him that has not been tagged for the year 1929 in Rowan county, I am sorry to do this, but it is the requirements of the law, and for my failure of my duty, as the law requires, I am liable to a fine of one Thousand Dollars ($1000) and six months in jail.

I do not receive any compensation nor one cent for what the law is forcing me to do. So I am out the price of a man and the expense of "ill conveniences and nothing in return" only a cursing from a number of people that do not stop to think for a moment, and look at it at a different view point. I would say, I will pay if my neighbor pays. Now to all citizens of Rowan county. Take a friend's advice and do not, or the pitiful sum of one dollar get me in trouble of yourself, by violating the law because your neighbor does. I have tried my best to serve you, and my duty according to law in every instance with impartiality toward no one. I told the fathers and mothers of this county in my campaign that I would treat them or their boys as near the same as I would want them to treat me or my boys.

"Placing themselves, in the same position that I am as Sheriff of Rowan county, and I feel like that I have carried it out in every instance according to law and my oath as sheriff of this county."

Now to all citizens of Rowan county I am your friend whether you are mine or not. Now to those that have not gotten their dog tags come and get your tag by the first Monday in October, and relieve me of a burden that has been on my shoulder ever since I have been sheriff of your county. As I would like to know and feel that when I go out of office (first Monday, January 1930); that I have done my duty as sheriff of this county, and have no ill will toward any one.

If any man, woman or child of Rowan county will come and show me where I have taken one cent wrong from them, or that I have hurt their feelings in any conversation or misinterpreting mispeaking anything, I will make it good in the bounds of reason.

Boys do not forget your DOG TAG. I am as ever, J. W. FOUCH, Sheriff Rowan County

Legion Convention Starts Monday 30th

Many Legionnaires from the Corbie Ellington Post are planning on attending the National Legion Convention which opens at Louisville, next Monday, September 30.

The following communication to Rev. A. R. Perkins will be of interest to all who have not succeeded in making reservations:

To all members of the Kentucky National Guard.

In view of the numerous inquiries to this office regarding accommodations in Louisville during the National Convention of the American Legion, week of September 30th to October 5th, 1929, the Adjutant General through the co-operation of the National Guard Officers at Louisville, has secured a building which will be available to all officers and enlisted men of the Kentucky National Guard, and World War Veterans who may desire to avail themselves of the privileges as far as available equipment will permit. Cots and blankets will be furnished but in this connection, in view of the limited supply of blankets on hand at the arsenal, it is suggested that members of the National Guard provide their own blankets.

The building will be policed by a special detachment detailed for that purpose and every precaution will be taken for the comfort and safety of the visitors with the provisions of a special check room for the keeping of such personal equipment as may be desired.

Weather Men Predict Mild Weather

Although the weather-man may predict snow and near zero weather, The N. E. Kennars Hardware will do their part to kill the chill inside, and make the winter months known line of Allen Parlor Furnaces. This parlor furnace is described as a heating plant which sets above the floor and heats the whole house by moist, warm air circulation. Your attention is invited to a series of advertisements which are appearing in this paper beginning with today's issue. These ads are of educational value in acquainting the public with this leader in Heating equipment.

The Haldeман Warriors traveled to Mt. Sterling, Sunday and made two best out of three by trouncing the Reds by the score of 7 to 3. It being the second defeat for the Reds this season, and the Warriors holding both of those over them.

The game was played before a record crowd, with a multitude of the loyal Haldeман fans present cheering the Warriors on to victory. The Warriors marked a tally in the first inning and allowed the Reds to score two in the last of the first by some loose fielding on the infield and after they worked like big leaguers. The first of the second inning opened with Mt. Sterling two and Haldeман one with Reb McKenzie at the bat and Reb must be trying to better Babe Ruth's record for the first ball pitched. He drove it far over the center divided in deep center for the circuiting fly score. And came the fatal third with Frayley on who was out, Arnold to Daugherty. Fugate followed with a hot single to right and scored on Nolan's triple to left and Turner followed with another triple scoring Nolan. Turner's drive should have gone for a home run had it not been for the cars stopping it. Day was out to McCaw unassisted. McKenzie followed with a clean single down the right field foul line, scoring Turner. Clayton flied to McCaw. From this point on the game was a mere board reading. Mt. Sterling two and Haldeман one.

The Reds were unable to tally any more until the eighth where F. Arnold drove a line drive between left and center for a home run. The Warriors scored again in the eighth when McKenzie tripled his third hit of the day, and scoring on Clayton's sacrifice, and in the ninth Frayley reached first on Arnold's error and scored on Fugate's sacrifice fly. Bush who did the twirling for the Warriors pitched a brilliant brand of ball throughout the game and was never in any danger. The Reds being unable to solve his curves and fast ones, getting only three safeties in the entire game. Rhodes did the twirling for the Reds and pitched good ball although the Warriors whom going for extra bases. Outside of Nolan's, Turner's, and McKenzie's triples and Reb's home run and Cartee's double the rest of the hits were clean one base hits.

money change. Why not a Stock Yard at Morehead?"

As a business proposition it would in a short time prove a money maker. This county will in a few years be a livestock county. Other counties around are building that industry. A few years will see a road in every direction. Nearby counties would bring their stock here rather than drive or haul it thirty miles further, taking the resultant shrinkage. Buyers would come here as readily as they would come to Mt. Sterling, Paris or Lexington. Railway facilities are as satisfactory as elsewhere. There is every reason why this city would be an ideal location for a small stock yards company.

This is only one of the many things that may be had for a small outlay of money at it would be an advantage not only to the city itself, but to the farmers who would patronize it. We are too apt to think in terms of race horses before we're out of the "plug" class. We want to run before we can walk.

The "DESERT MOON MYSTERY"

By KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN.

SYNOPSIS
CHAPTER I—Sam Stanley, wealthy owner of the Desert Moon ranch, informs his housekeeper, Mary Ma, who tells the story, that his former wife's twin daughters, Danielle and Gabrielle, are coming to the ranch to live, their mother being dead, their father, Dani Canzianzi who had been the cause of Sam divorcing his wife, in the penitentiary. Sam has adopted a boy, John, now grown to manhood, and a girl, Martha, twenty-one, physically healthy but weak-minded. Mrs. Ollie Ricker, Martha's nurse, lives with them.

CHAPTER II—Hubert Hand, a wanderer, and Chadwick Canfield, Sam's wartime buddy, who is an expert ventriloquist, are the other members of the household. The girls arrive.

SAM gave them his blessing. That is to say, he said that any agreement they wanted to make was all right with him. If Danny was sure she would be satisfied to live on the Desert Moon and if they would wait a year to be married. They agreed to this, the year of waiting, reluctantly. The only people who were downright pleased with Sam's decision were Gaby and myself. I, for certain reasons of my own. Gaby because she was choosing to consider herself also in love with John.

I made no bones about her feelings. She did not do so as John did, and yet all of her own advances toward him down to sister-in-law affection. Still, I didn't believe that she was in love with John, until I hid in the clothes closet that evening and heard Danny and her talking together.

Gaby's actions, that evening, to my mind, had been so downright disgusting, sitting on the arm of his chair, and trying to coax him out of the house to see the mountains by moonlight, and hanging herself around his neck when they danced together, and so on that I had a notion Danny might have a little conversation ready for her when she could get a moment's privacy.

I had waited about ten minutes when I heard the door of Gaby's room open. I was so tickled I all but squealed, when I heard that Danny had come in with her, instead of going on down the hall to her room. Evidently they had begun their conversation in the hall for Gaby's first words were, "Jealous, my dear Dan."

"I don't know. But it is silly for you to act as you do. John is in love with me. Why should you try to take him away from me, when you don't want him yourself?"

"Are you sure of that?"

"Yes, I am. His good looks fascinate you, and so does his amphotacticity. You'd like the fortune he is to inherit. But you would never be satisfied to marry him and live right here for the remainder of your life."

"No, I would not. I'd marry him if he didn't have a penny—it is you who are always thinking about his fortune—but I wouldn't allow him to hurt himself, and his beauty, and charm in the Godforsaken country. I'd get him out into the world, and have him take his place there. With his ability and energy, and with me to help him, what a place it might be! For you to have him in—waste, waste! You don't know anything about love. You'll never learn. I told you I can't hear it, it isn't fair."

"So began to cry, hollow sounding sobs, that seemed to catch in her throat and wrench me from my seat."

"It was sorry, I love John. He means to me peace, and security, and decent living—the things I want most for my life. Why should I risk it all?"

"Coward! Coward! Peace and security! He means life to me. All of it; full and complete. Love, and passion, and adventure, and attainment, for him stand for me, too. Do you think I'll stand by, and allow you to have him, to bury his wonder in your peace and another his possibilities—with your security and decent living?"

"I think," Danny answered, "that you will have to. John and I love each other. You, nor anyone, can change that."

"Suppose I should tell John why I was eating Martha, though she had nursed do it when Sam was present. One of Gaby's pleasant little ways

But, if you threaten that, just once more, I will go straight to John and tell him the truth—"

"I haven't broken my promise. If you shan't, if you don't. But you must know that I haven't any interest left in the thing."

"What about you desire for revenge?"

"That desire was yours, not mine. I never considered that side of it at all."

"Coward! Quitter! Stool-pigeon!"

"That isn't fair, Gaby. I'd help if I can. I have been helping, haven't I? I won't hinder in any way. But the time is short now. Remember that."

"Danny—" There was a new tone in Gaby's voice, sweet like, and appealing. I did not trust it for a minute; but I think Danny did, for she answered, gently, "Yes, dear."

"Forgive me. Let's twiney again. Friends?" I could hear the treachery in that as plainly as I could hear the words. I think Danny did not hear it, for she answered, "I do want to be friends, Gaby. I do, truly. Only—please, dear, won't you leave my man alone?"

"And you'll help me. And you won't tell him anything—"

"Of course I won't tell Gaby. It is really your secret, now; not mine. And I'll help you all I can."

Revenge. Out of all that crazy conversation the one word kept peering me like a leaking faucet. Die people revenge other people, or have revenge on them, or—what? I looked it up in the dictionary. "Malicious injuries it return for an injury of offense received."

I got a piece of paper and wrote it down. "The Camoziano girls want to injure, maliciously, some one on the Desert Moon ranch, in return for an injury or an offense received." I crossed out "The Camoziano," since Danny had said that she had never considered that side of it at all. It did not help any at all, not make sense.

Since Sam and I were the only people on the ranch they had known before they came here this time, it seemed as if they had come to injure, maliciously, one of us. I had never done either of them a mile of harm in my life. Sam had never done anything but good for them. Of course, Sam had not been very gentle with their father. But, as I took pains to discover, neither of them had any kind feelings for their father. Both of them laid their mother's death at Canzianzi's door.

I had heard that Hubert Hand had killed her. It was senseless, less to suppose that they were harboring a grudge against Sam for anything that he had ever done to Camoziano.

The Desert Moon was like a threering circus during the months of May and June. There were the girls overabundantly searching for something, leaving the house shortly after the men left it, each morning returning, tired out, just in time for dinner; off again for the afternoon, and coming home just in time to pretty up for supper. After a while, I began to lose interest in that; and being a woman, I allowed my attention to become distracted by the center ring where all the love interest was going on. Most of my attention went to the clown in the ring—old Chad.

I cannot explain it, now or ever; but Chad, from the very first, was head over heels in love with Gaby. He had no more chance of winning her, penniless, funny, kind little fellow that he was, than an amateur has of riding an outlaw pony.

She never gave him two looks. He couldn't even make her laugh with his joke and his songs, as he could the rest of the crew. He followed her about and waited on her, instead of having her man up to the house, instead of allowing one of the outfit to do it. He brought her desert flowers, which she tossed away to wither. And Martha was half mad with jealousy.

Right at first, I think that some of the others thought that Martha's jealousy was something of a joke. I never did think so. Before long we all began to feel that it was more than a little serious. Sam talked to Chad, and to Gaby about it. Chad did the best he could, after that, to be as attentive to Martha as he had been before; but if he so much as open a door for Gaby's jealousy would set into temper fits, and sulking spells.

As for Gaby, Sam's talk with her made things worse. She had never noticed Chad at all, so she had not noticed that Martha was jealous of him. She welcomed the news as another tool she could use to tease and torment the poor girl. All along she had delighted in teasing and tormenting Martha, though she had nursed do it when Sam was present. One of Gaby's pleasant little ways was to refer to Martha as an idiot, right before her face.

"Lo-la!" Gaby exclaimed one evening, when Martha was wandering about. "The idiot gets on my nerves. Can't you make her keep still, Mrs. Ricker?"

"She isn't harming anyone," I said since Mrs. Ricker, as usual, said nothing. "You leave her alone, and stop talking like that, Miss."

"I'm not harming anyone, now. Martha pipped up. "But some day I might do. Why don't you tell her to go to hell, or at least to get lost?"

Gaby, "If you'll give me five gold pieces, I'll be good then, for always."

It was a bracelet charm of Gaby's a gold monkey, about the size of a large almond, with jaded eyes. The minute Martha had seen it she had begun to beg for it. Gaby would not give it to her; would not so much as allow her to wear it for a few hours at a time. As usual, this evening, she refused to let Martha touch it.

"Yes, and you'll be sorry," Martha threatened.

Just as she had hated Gaby from the start, Martha had loved Danny, but she could not tell them apart. It seemed incredible that even Martha could be confused about the two girls; because, if ever girls were opposites, these girls were. Their faces, just their faces, did look alike. They both had large brown eyes, straight noses, small mouths, pointed chins, and complexions the color of real light caramel frosting. Danny's cheeks showed a faint pink coming and going. Gaby painted her cheekbones, clear pink to her ears, with deep orange-buff color. Their hair, both ways, dark brown, hair cut just the same in the back, neck close fitting and down to a point. But Gaby brushed her hair straight back from her forehead and put varnish shing on it. It was as sleek and shining as patent leather. Gaby's clothes were all kind of colored, and she—black turned gaudy. When she put it on—and they were all inseparably hippering, too defiant of paper patterns to be quite moral. Danny's clothes were as neat and quiet as a pigeon's.

Since Hubert Hand was too selfish ever to love anything that his nose wasn't attached to, his carryings on with Gaby should be classed I think, not in the center ring, but as the main attraction of the third ring. As far as Gaby was concerned, he was her father, with white coming in to his hair at his temples!

To this day I have never understood those two, during those months when she was in love with Hubert Hand was in love with John Hubert Hand. Yet they hugged and kissed, and seemed to think that calling it "necking" made it respectable. It wasn't a flirtation with them. It was more like a fight, where each of them was fighting for something they did not want. It perfectly foolproof, non-to wholesome performance.

Why Not A Livestock Market Here?

We of Rowan county are continually talking of hard times. We discuss them with our meals and in our businesses. We digest them daily and hourly and we discuss at the same time ways and means of eliminating them and bringing "good times" here to stay.

The truth is and it has undoubtedly occurred to many, that much of our hard times is our own fault, because we fail to take advantage of the opportunities that lie within our reach. We are looking for easy methods of gaining riches and overlooking many of the things that are to be had with very little effort and a comparatively small outlay of capital.

A few days ago this fact was brought very forcibly to our minds, while we were spending a few hours in Mt. Sterling. It so happened that it was one of Mt. Sterling's Stock Days, a day when the stock yards at that place are open and stock from country for miles around are being brought in to the market. It proved to be an eye opener to us.

Stock of all kinds, sheep, cattle and hogs were being brought in by farmers and sold through the Mt. Sterling yards. They were there from not only Montgomery county but from Elliott, Carter, Rowan, Bath, Morgan, Wolf and Fleming counties. It was a surprise to us to learn of the amount of stock that was passing right through Morehead and being hauled or driven to the Mt. Sterling market.

Then the thought occurred to us, "Why not keep that

Kiwanis Club Observes Day

The speaker asked a question that should concern every American citizen, and the question was: "Why is the Constitution Important?" Then he proceeded to tell why, as follows: First, the constitution braces wisdom and experience of the men who found the government. These men had had experience in matters of government. They had come further with the colonial government than we have since their day with the National Government. Edmond Burke said: "During this period more law books sent to American colonies, than were sent anywhere else." Second, it has stood the test of time. It is the best thing we have found. Most of the governments that have framed a government since the Constitution of the United States have used this as a basis. The government of Mexico, five in Central America, some in South America, Dominion of Canada, France, Switzerland, Belgium and Australia. These governments did not follow it verbatim, but they followed its general outlines.

Prof. Peratt pointed out that changes, especially of law were brought about by the activities of the States. The states passed the laws that brought about the 18th and 19th amendments. The Federal Government senses the will of the people and proposed these amendments.

Mr. Dale Haven of the Music Department, Normal School guest of the Club. The following men were elected to active membership in the Club: Prof. R. L. Hoke, Mr. A. H. Points, and Prof. R. F. Terrill.

On next Monday evening, Rev. A. C. Brooks of Mt. Sterling will be the speaker. He will be helping Rev. C. B. Cloyd in a revival meeting.

From the County Agent

TOBACCO GRADING

The United States Department of Agriculture, September Crop Report states that the estimate of the 1929 Burley tobacco crop is 300 million pounds, or about 10% larger than it was last year. In the outer part of the burley section where the plants attained good size and normal maturity, the quality is expected to be as good as or better than it was last year. In the Central part of the burley section where the tobacco was dwarfed and prematurely ripened by continued drought, the quality is expected to be lower than last year.

The above statement was taken from Notes on the Kentucky Situation. It indicates that Rowan county is in a section that has tobacco of better quality than that produced in the central bluegrass because this section has not suffered from drought as the bluegrass farmers did. This probably means that the better quality tobacco in this county will bring exceptionally good prices.

The County Agent has obtained the services of Mr. Eric C. Vaughn for one day to give tobacco grading daughter, Zena May, Mr. Criss Mynhier of Clearfield and Mrs. Rosie Jenking and son Ralph of Clearfield, Mr. Sern Mynhier and son, Maeta, of Morehead, Ky., Mr. Gilbert and Carl Jones. All reported an enjoyable day and many good things to eat.

demonstrations. A grading demonstration will be given at 10 o'clock, Friday morning, October 25th at Mr. John Jones' farm near Bluestone and another at Mr. Boyd Littons' near Hilda at 2 o'clock that afternoon. Mr. Vaughn is a Specialist in grading tobacco and will explain fully why the tobacco market demands that tobacco be graded as he instructs. He will point out the common mistakes in grading tobacco and show how they may be avoided. Mr. Vaughn asks that each man on whose place a demonstration is held should bulk about 100 pounds of tobacco before hand so that it will be in order at the time to give the demonstration. He should also strip and grade about 10 sticks according to his usual custom and have this in good handling condition. In addition to this each man who has tobacco to strip and attends the demonstration should bring a few hands of tobacco that he has already stripped and graded. In handling the demonstration in this way Mr. Vaughn can give instruction in grading tobacco and also point out any mistakes made in grading if any have been made. Many farmers who have stripped and graded tobacco do so without having any definite instruction as to what the market demands and why. A few very small mistakes in grading tobacco makes a difference or two or three cents per pound is very costly when it takes no more labor to do it right than wrong. Every farmer who possibly can should arrange to attend one or the other of these demonstrations.

VIRGINIA TOBACCO GRADING

ATTRACTS KENTUCKY GROWERS

Grading of tobacco before it is sold on the loose leaf floors at Lynchburg, Va., has proved so satisfactory that other markets are planning to inaugurate a similar service this year, according to the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

tucky. Men in the marketing department at the Station think a similar plan might be helpful to farmers, warehouse owners and manufacturers in this state.

The system used on the Virginia markets differs in only one respect from that commonly followed in Kentucky. At the request of the grower, an expert grader examines an opening bid is made on his tobacco and places an official grade designation upon it. United States standard grades are used each basket of tobacco, its grade is announced so that all prospective buyers may hear. If the buyers wish to use the grader's judgment to check their own they may do so; if not, they need pay no attention to the official grade.

According to the marketing specialists at the Experiment Station, the grading service has several advantages over the present system of marketing. First, it is of educational value to the growers in teaching them how to grade their tobacco better and in demonstrating which grades are in most active demand. Secondly, price information on graded tobacco is made available which permits market quotations by grades. This is of value to both buyers and sellers in keeping in line with the market. In the third place, buyers who in the rush of sales do not have an opportunity to examine a pile of tobacco thoroughly will have the judgment of the grader to substantiate or disprove their hurried observation.

In Virginia the grading plan has met with such approval from buyers, warehousemen and farmers that plans are under way to extend the service to nearly all warehouses in Danville and Lynchburg before the 1929 season opens. Several markets in North Carolina also are considering the service for next fall.

POTATO PRICE PROSPECT

There are farmers in all parts of the county who have more Irish potatoes this fall than they need for home use. Many of them are trying to sell the surplus this fall and will have to take a low price if not one below market value for their product. It will be far better to grade these potatoes and save all the first grade to sell next spring. All small, cut or bruised potatoes should be culled out and used at home and the better ones sold next spring on the market. This year's crop of potatoes is a short one for the United States as a whole and prices will be much better next spring than they are now. However, only the smooth potatoes free from cuts and bruises should be stored. Potatoes may be kept in pits or in cellars that are dry and cool. The best storage temperature is between 35 and 40 degrees.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I suffered from indigestion—everything I ate gave me heartburn," says Mrs. Mattie Mullins of Pound, Va.

"For months, I did not see a well day. I worked along, but never felt well. When I got a package of Theodore's Black-Draught at the store and began taking it—a dose every night before going to bed. I had been having an awful pain. After I had taken Black-Draught, this pain entirely stopped. I began to gain in weight, and rested well at night. In a few months I was feeling fine. My health was better than it had been in years."

"I keep Black-Draught in our home, and we all take it for constipation and upset stomach."

The New ALLEN'S Parlor Furnace is Now on Display

You are invited to visit our store and examine this wonderfully improved New Allen's

With HEAT Radiating FINS

The New Allen's is constructed with Heat Radiating Fins which increase heating surface 100 per cent. They also strengthen the castings—prolong the life of the heating unit—Save fuel. The biggest feature developed during recent years in a heating system.

100% INCREASED HEATING SURFACE

Air is not warmed by heat rays, but is heated by coming in contact with heat surfaces. In the New Allen's with the Heat Radiating Fins the hot surface over which the air passes is doubled. Thus the heating capacity is greatly increased—circulation of warm air is more rapid—less fuel is required.

To understand the tremendous importance in home heating of this exclusive Allen feature, you should come in to see and examine it. Don't buy a heating system until you know all about Allen's Heat Radiating Fins.

When the outer cabinet doors are opened you have all the cheer and glow of the fire—an exclusive Allen feature.

Allen's Parlor Furnace is a compact heating system that is placed above the floor. Requires no basement, no pipes, radiators or other fittings. Heats the whole house. Finished in porcelain enamel, natural grained walnut effect. As beautiful and easy to clean as a piece of furniture.

In Five MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

There are times when all a mother's love can't soothe a fretful baby. No way of telling just what's wrong, yet something must be done. Castoria time! A few drops, and Baby has dropped off to sleep. Yet this marvelous means of quieting a restless infant is utterly harmless. There is not one ingredient but what all doctors know and approve, and would let you give your baby every day in the week. In fact Castoria is a purely vegetable product. Gas pains, constipation, even diarrhea can be dissolved in this same manner. Castoria is older than you are, but physicians still say "nothing better for babies" than an old-fashioned remedy if you count its years, but parents are old-fashioned who still raise babies without its aid! And at least five million modern mothers keep it handy day and night, for twenty-five million bottles were bought last year! Buy yours now; don't wait until you need it.
