DIPHTHERIA.

This Dreaded Disease in Olive Hill

There are several cases of diphtheria in Olive Hill, and quite a number of cases in the county. There have been several deaths so far, and it is about time that the law governing contagious diseases was vigorously enforced. The spread of the disease can be stopped by pursuing the proper course and rigidly enforcing the law, which should be done. We are of the opinion that the enforcement of the law has been rather lax, possibly from the reliance upon the common sense and honor of the heads of families in whose households the disease existed. But this is no excuse for the Board of Health, who have, as we understand it, unlimited power, backed by the law to stop the spread of diseases of this nature. The Board has the power to force every inmate of the house where the disease exists indoors and to keep out of contact with the outsiders. If they fail or refuse to comply with the law and the mandates of the Board, the Board can prosecute the same as in the infractions of any other law, and it should be done irrespective of social or other position. Diphtheria carries in its wake death, besides considerable worry and expense, and the object of the law is to protect and not to kill or cause suffering. The responsibility resting on the health officer is great, and he should leave no stone unturned that will stamp out the disease that is menacing our community. If he cannot or does not want to be the responsibility he should resign. It is hardly necessary to close the schools if the law is rigidly enforced without fear or favor, and MAKE the parents obey the law. The man who insists on running the risk of spreading a contagious disease in the face of the law and the mandates of the health officer is a criminal, and should be dealt with accordingly.

Force the parents and children where the disease exists to stay at home and keep neighbors away from the premises. Isolate the cases, and the schools can go on. The authorities should arrest every one promptly who disobeys and assess a heavy fine. Enforce the law. That is the best remedy to stop the spread of the disease, and is a very strong panacea for other violations. If the marshal or health officer neglects their duty go for them. This disease is too serious to allow friendship or charity to enter into it. A good citizen is the man who respects his neighbor as himself, and if he has diphtheria in his home he will obey the law and use every means to prevent the disease from spreading to the home of his neighbor, and if he will not do these things and his neighbor's child dies from the disease he is permitted to spread then he is a murderer.

Froze to Death.

Delta, Col., Oct. 9.—A searching party today found the frozen bodies of Louis McKean, 21, and Earl Rhodes, 22, both of Cedar Edge, Colorado. The men had lost their way while hunting deer on the Grand Mesa Saturday night.

Has Morehead a Newspaper

We have been trying to get several Kentucky newspapers on our exchange list for several weeks, but have failed. Surely the Kentucky editors are not lacking in journalistic courtesy.

Foil Effort to Escape Prison.

A daring attempt at a wholesale jail delivery was foiled by County Jailor DeBord at Catlettsburg shortly before midnight on Sunday night, when he surprised twelve prisoners from Pike county in the act of dropping out of a window in an upper story. The jailer fired at the leader, whose name was Sargraves, who immediately retreated to safety in his cell. Eleven other prisoners were found to be involved in the attempt to escape by sawing a hole in the steel ceiling of their cell, and making their way to the attic, from which they planned to drop to the ground by means of a rope made of bed clothing torn to strips. The prisoners involved in the attempted jail delivery were returned to stronger cells for future safe keeping.

May Accept Life Term

Sidney Allen and Wesley Edwards, alleged principal conspirators in the Hillsville, Va., courtroom tragedy, may accept life-term sentence to the penitentiary as a compromise and in lieu of standing trial. It is reported that negotiations for such a compromise are now pending. Their cases are set for trial at Wytheville, Va., October 25.

It is definitely stated that Miss Troler, Edwards' sweetheart, will receive none of the reward for the capture of the two men. Detectives followed her from Mt. Airy, N. C., to Des Moines, Iowa, where Edwards and Allen were recently captured. The girl's father who was said to have assisted the detectives, is reported to have received $500 of the reward a few days ago.

A Crossing Gate.

The Town Council Monday night instructed the city attorney to communicate with the C. & O. officials relative to the company putting in a gate at the railroad crossing near the depot. Gates should be placed at this point as the crossing there is extremely hazardous, and we believe the railroad company will do so without being forced to do so, which can be done, and should be done if they refuse.

Magoffin Again Heard From

Things were somewhat lively about 8 or 10 miles from Salyersville on Wednesday of last week. One of the Howards, first name not learned, shot an Isaac in the arm and nearly killed his own wife by a blow on the head. The "green-eyed monster" is supposed to have instigated the assault.—Louis News.

Carter County Honored

We are glad to note that the State W. C. T. U. convention at Mt. Sterling honored one of Carter county citizens, Mrs. Julia Powers, of Grayson, by electing her Vice President of the State W. C. T. U. It is also reported that all who heard her speak, that she delivered one of the best addresses that were given before that body. The Blue Grass section is beginning to awake to the fact that the mountains have some of as fine people as can be found anywhere.

Cheap Husband

Danville, Kentucky, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Helen Lane was fined $300 for killing her husband, Charles Lane, on Sept. 20.

"IN THE NAME OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

—Carter in Boston Journal.

BULL MOOSES NUMEROUS

Progressives Movement Spreading Very Rapidly

The second poll of the New York Herald, a bitter opponent of Colonel Roosevelt, printed Wednesday evening the straw vote of the New York Stock exchange, shows Roosevelt leading Wilson in New York state, with Roosevelt's vote double that of Taft's. This morning's Herald poll shows that a bad third in every state except five, where he runs second by a narrow margin.

Wisconsin—"Strongly Progressive. Every poll and straw vote taken gives Roosevelt big lead over all."

Montana—"Confident that Progressive ticket will have safe plurality. Progressive cause is growing in strength daily."

Colorado—"If the increase keeps on proportionally until election the Progressive party will have a landslide in Colorado. The straw votes, in some localities, indicate Roosevelt has 10 to 1."

Alabama—"Our Progressive minimim vote will be 50,000. Enthusiasm wonderful. We expect to elect county officers in one-third of the counties of Alabama."

Oregon—"Col. Roosevelt will carry the state by 12,000."

Massachusetts—"The Progressive ticket in this state is very strong. Many Democrats are joining the fight which is entirely between Democrats and the Progressives. The Republicans will run a bad third. We expect to carry the state for Roosevelt."

Nebraska—"Regard Nebraska safe for Roosevelt by safe majority."

Georgia—"Tremendous gains were made by Roosevelt by his recent Georgia speeches. The Democrats concede the Progressives one-third total vote."

Maine—"All indications point to a general upswing. We believe the state good for Roosevelt electors."

Pennsylvania—"There is no question but that Roosevelt's strength is growing daily. The equivocal position of Wilson on tariff and big business insures Pennsylvania for Roosevelt. Taft is out of the running."

Louisiana—"Roosevelt will poll a large vote in Louisiana. Three congressional districts in the southern portion of the state doubtful. Progressive cause is spreading like wildfire."

Arkansas—"The Progressive ticket will poll a large per cent of confederate soldier vote."

Michigan—"Col. Roosevelt will carry Michigan by 75,000 plurality. Fifty poll show him leading safely. Wilson is second and Taft a poor third."

Tennessee—"Would not be surprised if from 25,000 to 75,000 regular Democrats vote for Roosevelt."

Mississippi—"We estimate 25,000 votes for Roosevelt."

New Jersey—"Forecasts indicate growing strength in Roosevelt ticket."

Missouri—"The resignation of the electoral and county tickets indicates unmistakable panic in the Republican party. There are continued accession from the Democratic party. Meetings held are more largely attended than ever before in the history of Missouri politics."

Kentucky—"The result of the registration clearly indicates Roosevelt will receive twice as many votes in Kentucky as Taft."

Kansas—"If the election was held now Roosevelt will carry Kansas."

California—"Roosevelt and Johnson will carry California by at least 100,000 plurality."

Indiana—"Believe we will carry Indiana with Republican ticket running a poor third; Sentiments are growing wonderfully."

Illinois—"Roosevelt's indicated plurality is between one hundred and one hundred and fifty thousand. The state ticket is running with the national ticket and will undoubtedly be elected by an overwhelming plurality."

Rural School Teachers Pay

The Department of Education has made out a warrant for $407,569.56 the amount of the first payment to rural school teachers. Checks for the amount designated for each county will be mailed by the State Treasurer to the County Superintendent. This payment is not due until the end of this week, and checks will be sent out probably the first of next week. The amount due to cities will be made up next week, and the work of appropriation has been started.

SCHOOL CLOSED.

Health Officer Armstrong Issues Closing Orders.

Tuesday morning Health Officer Armstrong issued orders to close the school here for two weeks, or perhaps longer, on account of diphtheria in the community. Quite a number of our citizens take issue with the health officer in the matter, and think that the better plan would have been to institute a rigid quarantine. We believe that a mistake was made, not, however, intentionally, but possibly from care and apprehension of results. We are of the opinion that the health officer should investigate every case of supposed or assumed case of diphtheria, and enforce a rigid quarantine against the household. It is far safer and saner to let a few suffer a little inconvenience than a whole community. Again, the town has passed an ordinance against children from 14 years of age down from gathering in groups or rambling at will on the streets pending the epidemic. While the ordinance is a wise one, if it could be carried out, is true, but what are you going to do with 200 or 300 children barred from school from running at large, the most of whom were raised on the streets; about the only home they know is the street. There is only one way to keep them in—lock them up in a room and feed them through the key hole.

There is no doubt but that something must be done to check the spreading of diphtheria, but the best plan is, to our mind, the enforcement of the law. A strict quarantine, and a heavy fine upon those who will not obey it. We need an example or so, and the hearty cooperation of our citizens given the health officer. Some may cuss—let 'em cuss. This is a case that the law must be obeyed or suffer the consequences, and a case wherein the health officers must do their duty regardless of consequences. The law is behind them and they have the power to enforce that law.

Are a few families in a community, afflicted with diphtheria, to close our schools and stagnate business just because they will not obey the law, or exercise a little common sense? None of the inmates of a stricken house should be allowed to roam around the streets or hold close communion with the neighbors, nor allow the neighbors and family to visit them. If they do they should be jailed, and that is the law. No one can menace a community only at his or her peril. Enforce the law and open the schools. From our investigations we find but one or two cases in the corporate limits and two outside, or just beyond the line, and if that is the limit, we see no need to close the school here, but we do see the need of a strict rigid and enforced quarantine.

It may not be generally known, but we are informed that it is a fact, that were a death to occur from diphtheria, or any other contagious disease, from neglect of the health board or from the violation of the quarantine laws, the parties responsible can be sued for such death as well as be fined and indicted.

With proper attention diphtheria can be stopped from spreading. It will take the time of the officers to do it, but if they haven't the time to devote to it, let them resign for some one else who will.

The Town Council Meeting.

Last Monday night the town council held its regular monthly meeting. There was a full attendance and a good deal of routine business transacted.

The new road through Olive Hill was discussed and the building of the road is a sure go.

License was granted for the sale of soft drinks to a colored restaurant recently opened in Upper Olive Hill.

Assistance was voted for the repairing of the swinging bridge across Tygart.

Also aid was voted for repairing a road across the creek.

The council decided that it could not afford to alter, change or suspend the ordinances relative to privileges for running stands, games, etc.

Many claims against the town were ordered paid.

Next Saturday the bids will be opened and the award made for the construction of the new road. The council will meet again on that night.

Berthday Surprise Party

A very pleasant evening was spent by a number of Olive Hill's young folks last Monday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Irwin, on Main street. The occasion was the birthday of her son Cecil, one of our most popular and exemplary young men.

A delightful evening was spent and a bounteous repast was spread, and to which ample justice was done. Those present were:

Misses Jessie Cox, Edna James, Lucile King, Alma Tyree, Marie Jordan, Kate Kacarft, Adeline Waldeck; Goldie Erwin, Elaine Tyree, Archie McCarty, Colly Howes, John Sewell, Fred Evans, Tracy Heberlan, Leonard Cunningham, Lewis Erwin.

Searious Illness

Dr. A. T. Henderson and Miss Lottie Kitchen and James Kitchen, were called to Soldier, Kentucky, Sunday by the serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. King's little daughter, who had pneumonia. When Dr. Henderson left there the little girl was much improved and over long distance phone this morning, he learned she was getting along nicely.—Ashland Independent.

We want it understood that the Progressive is not knocking the town council nor the health officers. We are deeply concerned in the removal of diphtheria from our midst. We have an only child—motherless—and he has not long since passed through a siege of scarlet fever, and what we say is for his protection as much as for others. We are in earnest and give so much space to this subject for the good of the community.

A man or woman who has a little sense or humanity in them, as to expose this disease to others, should be tarred and feathered.

Since the above was written we learn that there has been about 30 cases of diphtheria in Olive Hill, to date, and that the closing of the school here was done at the request of the State Board of Health, who state that there has been 60,000 cases of diphtheria in the state.

Under the circumstances the local health officer has done the proper thing in the closing of the school. However, the quarantine law should be rigidly enforced, nevertheless, in every case that may be brought to his attention. The county board should do likewise.

OUR PLATFORM OF PRINCIPLES

1. Thou shalt love thy country, which preserves thy household and protects (or should protect) thee against anarchy.
  2. Thou shalt not yield thy manhood unto the keeling of any political or ecclesiastical party, nor worship any political idols, nor bow down to them, because their sins will be visited upon thy children and will be a curse to the country, even to the third and fourth generations.
  3. Thou shalt not profane the righteousness of patriotism, nor use it as a cloak beneath which to hide the selfishness and the desert of revolutionaries.
  4. Remember the day of election—that it is sacred and must be kept holy.
  5. Honor the virtues and the manliness of the ballot, and the sacredness of the ballot-box, that the centuries of this Republic may be many and peaceful.
  6. Thou shalt not murder the soul of freedom by failing to exercise thy royal rights of an enfranchised, manly citizen.
  7. Thou shalt not corrupt the purity of civic life by entering political office by changing political duties merely for gain, place or power.
  8. Thou shalt not encourage public officials to steal, commit iniquity or to be led into temptation by the indifference to the Nation's well-being.
  9. Thou shalt not give a reward for political reward and unrighteous party fealty to bear witness against thy patriotism.
  10. Thou shalt not cover public place or office for which thou art not fitted.
- These are the first and great commandments, the other and last one is like unto them:
11. Thou shalt respect and protect the rights of thy neighbor as thy own.
- On these two classes of commandments hang all the laws and the Constitution—the basis of our country's salvation.

O'Rear's Old Shoes.

For several weeks past it had been currently reported that Judge O'Rear, in the event of his nomination and election to the gubernatorial chair, would present Judge A. J. Kirk of this judicial circuit, his old Court of Appeals shoes. The statement was made that there was a promise on the part of Judge O'Rear to make Judge Kirk to do this. This statement appeared in the press also. Recently Judge O'Rear, in a public speech, denied that he made any such promise.

We believe the judge and the manly, in view of the knowledge, the proven facts, the condition of affairs in this judicial circuit, Judge O'Rear could not and would not place Judge Kirk on the Court of Appeals bench. Judge O'Rear stands for the law, the law-loving, and law-enforcing, just, and he would not prostitute his manhood, his honor, nor his oath of office.

Judge O'Rear knows that Judge Kirk is lacking in the solid essentials fitting him for the high position. It is a matter of no doubt, Judge Kirk is an aspirant.

Judge Kirk is limited in the knowledge of the law. His present position is merely a political creation, and not secured by reason of his fitness nor through his vast and unlimited knowledge as to what is law.

It is the general talk that at least 75 per cent. of his civil decisions have been turned down by the very court, the bench of which he now wishes to occupy. That is a very bad record for a judge.

Judge O'Rear is cognizant of these facts.

He is also well acquainted with the election contest case from this county, Ford vs. Hopkins. He sat on the bench of the Court of Appeals that decided that noted case, and had all the facts before him. He knows the history of that case up to the present moment. He knows every word, no doubt, that Judge Kirk has taken in this matter, consequently, even if Judge Kirk was fitted from the stand point of legal knowledge and acumen, he would be farther than ever in giving him the appointment.

The following extract is from the decision rendered by the Court of Appeals last December in this contest case of Ford vs. Hopkins:

"In an argument at the bar it was stated, and not denied, that although fraud and bribery were as openly carried on at the election under consideration and without little apparent desire by the contestants of religious services are usually conducted in churches, not one of the guilty parties has ever been indicted, nor has there been taken any other steps looking toward the punishment for their open and brazen violation of the statutes regulating elections. One party was just as guilty as the other; the difference in these guilty conduct being only one of degree, not of quality. There is no room in this case for the blessing of the political party who having accepted money from both sides for his vote, justifies his finally voting for the one who held the smallest sum by saying that he desired to uphold the party which was least corrupt. There is no more direct enemy to the government by the corrupt use of money, not only saps the moral integrity of the weak and vasillating, but it discourages the upright and strong. A good citizen can not be well blamed if he ceases to be interested in an election where his vote can count for nothing, or be offset by the vote of the purchased chitche of the political corruptionist. That such practices as this record offences can be carried on with impunity is a sad commentary on the want of efficient enforcement of the laws in the community where they are practiced.

Judge O'Rear was sitting on the bench that heard this case. He knows that no steps have been taken since that decision to bring the guilty parties to justice, and that Judge Kirk is head of the department of justice in this judicial circuit. He knows that the same office holders affected by that decision were elected by fraud, are still holding office, and he is aware that Judge Kirk labored hard to keep them there. Judge O'Rear is, no doubt, acquainted, yes, well informed in the history of this case from the beginning up to this moment, and for him to appoint Judge Kirk to the bench he vacates, provided he is elected governor, would be to impair the position he has so ably and honorably filled.

Judge Kirk is not qualified for that position. He is a better politician than he is a judge of law, or lawyer.

The above article was written by the editor of The Progressive and appeared in the columns of the Advocate published at Pikeville last year. Judge Kirk did not refute the charges then, and he was the largest stockholder in the Pikeville Herald—owned a controlling interest and controlled its policies, and had free access to its columns. He never made any denials in his newspaper nor any denials publicly that are known. E. D. Stephenson, the principle stockholder in the Advocate, and a lawyer (?) endorsed the article, likewise his partner, who is a Republican, and practiced in Kirk's court, also endorsed it. It was endorsed by the leading attorneys who practiced at that bar.

Judge Kirk, we are informed, is going over the district appealing to the voters for their support for the Appellate bench, on the strength of his moral and temperate character. He lays claim also to being a great Sunday school worker. These things are all new to those among whom he has lived all his life. He has the reputation of being a very immoral man; he will take a drink of red eye as quick and with as much uncton as the worst toper in the land. It is even told on him that he delivered a temperance address at Cattelburg, upon request, and had to have a grip full of old John Barleycorn to make his tongue work smoothly. His eldest son got into the liquor, got drunk and was arrested at that city, and on being questioned by the authorities as to where he got his whiskey, being a minor, he said he got it from his father's grip. One of Judge Kirk's best friends, (he should be) tells this incident on the Judge. As to his moral character, it is well known in his own section as being pretty bad. He is not fit for the Appellate bench, because he is not qualified; not fit because he is a corporation judge, in league with the railroads and travels on a railroad pass, it is charged; not fit because he is not a moral, temperate man, and we dare his denial; not fit because his record is bad in the Appellate Court as to decisions in civil cases, and the reputable people and a majority of the lawyers that practices in his courts can testify; not fit because he is prejudiced and partial; not fit because he has been mixed up in all kinds of election frauds, vote buying and selling, and winked the other eye at election frauds and graft as circuit judge, not fit because his election as circuit judge was a political creation and not one of fitness as a propeprman or of his qualifications as a jurist. Go to the honest litigants and the attorneys at Pikeville—those who are not swayed by friendship, those who own him no political debts—the class who are for right and for law and justice and they will tell you why he is not the propepr man in stronger and more pungent language than we have.

The Judge has been trying to straddle the Elephant and the Bull Moose both at the same time, but his political avardipps wouldn't admit of the straddle. He is resorting to the tactics of the peanut political—his crowning glory in the past—to land his job. But his record is known. He, in a great measure, is responsible for the damnable politics of Pike, Johnson and Martin counties. He was a candidate in the election which was contested in Pike. He sanctioned that steal and protected the thieves in his court. He contributed to the $15,000 slush fund that deprived honest men of their rights to have their choice as to who should hold the offices of that county. Not an indictment was made or attempted. And the opinion of the Supreme Court in that noted case says as plain as the English language can tell it that Judge Kirk is not fit for a seat on the Appellate bench. No judge or commonwealth's attorney ever received a more scathing rebuke in the State of Kentucky, from any court, than did Judge A. J. Kirk and John Butler, who is now the nominee of the Republican gang of office stealers of Pike for judge of the circuit court of Pike and Letcher counties.

These kind of office holders in the ranks of the Democratic and Republican parties—known as standpatters—are responsible for the political upheaval that is sweeping over this country. The honest yeomanry are tired of standpatters, political pilfering, gag rule, bossism, misrule, trust-protecting, tariff treachery, etc., ruining this country, State and National, and even in county and municipal administrations.

That is the reason the Progressives sprang into existence. The better element in both parties want to bring about a reformation for the betterment of all classes, and they became reformers or Progressives for the purpose of purifying politics, to bring about needed reforms, to put honest, capable, sober, moral, progressive men in office. This is the fundamental principle of the Progressives. You do not have to go to Washington to see the need of these reforms. The same things can be found at home, in your own county and state, and the cleaning up process should begin at home.

Let November 5, 1912, be clean up day, and your children will, in after years, call you blessed, even down to the third and fourth generation.

There are Republicans who have commissions signed by Roosevelt when he was president. They thought then that Teddy was the greatest man the world ever produced. If he should happen to be elected in November, and they are fortunate enough to get another commission signed to it, he will be a much greater man than this world ever produced.

From indications received from Pike county, John Butler and Pheobe Davis are joint candidates for circuit court judge. This may grow another shooting. Judge Mays, the police judge of that city, seems to be in the running with John and Pheobe, also. A lovely combination.

Is It Gospel Truth.

The Hon. John W. Langley, has at last come out on the Taft band wagon. John has been blind, deaf and dumb, for some time and has been operated on for political appendicitis, with the result that he is now running on the Taft ticket. Dear John has always claimed privately that he was for Roosevelt, and shouted the loudest at the Bull Moose convention, it is said. Well, good by, John, we know you would if you could and could if you would. You are sick, Johnny boy, but we are not all blind yet. Now that John's hand organ in Pike—the Herald—is singing mud on the Bull Mooses, it is not out of place here to ask: Did you really sell the Pikeville postoffice for $800? If you did not, for what was you paid $800. And is it true that you sold out, while in the legislature, to John C. C. Mayo for $1000? If you did not for what did John C. C. give you that amount?

E. D. Stephenson, you distinguished antagonist, says you did sell your vote and sold John C. C. for $25,000 damages, but that when the check was produced the suit was dropped. Now we were always of an enquiring mind, and we are anxious to know whether Mr. Stephenson lied or not. Not many people will swear by what your worthy competitor says, but a man who aspires to the high and exalted position of Congressman will hardly be a liar. We do not take stock in the word of many latter day congressmen after the first race. We may be prejudiced, and if so, we want to get straight, and believe in going direct to headquarters. Ain't that right John?

Judge O'Rear is hunching for the election of Judge Kirk for the Appellate bench. This is the same Judge O'Rear who sat on the bench in that noted contest case for Pike, as judge of the appellate court. How can he endorse Kirk after such a scathing rebuke given him by that court in its opinion in that case. How can O'Rear be a Progressive and at the same time endorse Kirk, who is a standpatter, a straddler, and an incompetent.

The Fall Fresh Cow.

In localities where nature has been good cows will be in good flesh at calving time in the fall. If pastures are not good before calving it is well worth while to supply the cow with some green feed. A few days of feeding night and morning is sufficient, and this practice can be continued with profit so long as there is green feed for use. As soon as the fall dries in, it is best to have the winter system of feeding should at once prevail. The point is that the fall fresh cow should be made to give her full dose of milk at freshening time, and that food should be maintained by good feeding and handling throughout the fall and winter. If the cow comes in a fall dry on a short pasture and has scant feed for a month or six weeks before winter feeding the milk flow will shrink, and very little of a fall crop can be restored. It is much easier to have the cow in condition for a full flow of milk at calving time and maintain that flow than to build up the flow after calving or after a period of short feeding.

Salt For Dairy Cows.

Many years ago the French government carried out some experiments to test the amount of salt required by the different kinds of farm stock and reckoned a milk cow required a total of two ounces daily, and this corresponds with Babcock's figure, allowing for differences in the size of different breeds. It is therefore a fair rule that a milk cow requires about an ounce of salt daily when in milk. Besides what she gets in her food. When out of doors the best way is to let her have access to rock salt to lick, but indoors it must be given in the food in the ordinary granular form.

Housing Farm Poultry.

A house fourteen to fifteen feet deep is best on the average farm, allowing for five square feet of floor space per hen. The front should be high enough to allow sunlight to reach the back of the house. Ventilation is an important matter. It is therefore a good plan to have a row of light walls, roof and floor and an open front will contain cold, dry and pure air. With such construction there will be no drafts. Cloth curtains over the openings can be dropped on cold nights or during stormy weather, and a glass window will allow the entrance of light at all times.—Iowa Homestead.

SELECTING COWS FOR THE DAIRY.

Little Difference in the Merits of Guernsey and Jersey

From a practical viewpoint there is comparatively little difference between the composition of Guernsey and Jersey milk. The Guernsey milk is a little heavier and contains perhaps a little less fat, but not enough to be of any importance. The two breeds produce practically the same amount of milk, perhaps the Jersey giving a little less. It can be said that the person will make no mistake in selecting either of these breeds as both are good substituted records, public tests and experiment station records show that each breed produces fat at about the same price. The Guernsey is a little larger than the Jersey, but this fact does not make her a better cow. At the present time the Guernsey is in greater demand than the Jersey; this is due to the fact that she is more capable, but the tide of popularity in her favor has taken hold of the breeders of dairy cattle. It was not so many years ago when the Jersey employed the same position a person who selects either of these breeds and gives it proper attention will not be disappointed in the result.—Hoard's Dairyman.

The Separator.

The cream separator is a high speed machine, the bowls running from 1,000 to 12,000 revolutions per minute. Necessarily there must be some high speed gears to produce such speed in the bowl. The parts should be kept oiled, thoroughly cleaned and the separator set on a firm foundation. Under these conditions the separator will do the best work. It is easy enough to lose the butter fat from one cow by improper operation of the separator, and so it is well worth while to keep the machine in perfect condition.

Rations For Ducks.

Pecking ducks are great eaters. They seem to eat almost as much as any other bird or animal. They need fresh meat, but not a great deal of grain. An abundance of green feed should also be given.

The Alling Hog.

When the hog seems to be losing the use of the limbs, feed him corn and more bran and oats chop. If the trouble is very bad, give eight or ten drops of turpentine to the feed twice a day. An abundance of green feed should also be given.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY.
In Re—M. W. Armstrong.
PETITION EX PARTE.

By virtue of an order of sale in the above entitled cause made and entered I will, until October 15th, 1912, offer for sale privately any or all of the notes held by the Olive Hill National Bank, cash and adopting European clothes than to the north. Since the beginning of the century the wheat harvested in France has only once exceeded the absolute needs of the French people. Within fifteen years there have been built in Berlin twenty-four bridges over the river Spree and neighboring ponds and to construct new streets. A London theatrical agent who has over 17,000 artists on his books declares that never more than one-third of these are employed at the same time. Despite American, German and Belg. competition steamships of England got the contract for building for Buenos Aires the greatest elevated water reservoir of its kind in the world. Italian shipbuilders have constructed a drydock in which submarine boats can be subjected to external pressure tests without the necessity of sinking them into deep water. A system of personal identification based on the patterns of the veins on the back of the hand has been invented by an Italian scientist, who claims that a no two men are the veins exactly alike. After a careful study of meteorological records, Dr. Pepper of the University of Glessen has reached the conclusion that 1912 marked the beginning of a cycle of dry summers which will last thirty five years. The shell of the largest quaggar found on Cape Cod weighs one pound sixteen ounces. The shell is five inches long and is thought to be more than forty years old. It was picked up on the Harwich flats. There is invested in hotels and restaurants in Switzerland about $100,000,000, and the aggregate number of persons employed in these establishments is over 100,000. The bootblack as a London institution is vanishing. Two or three decades ago bootblacks abounded in the business sections of the city, but now, existing within tiny small sections, one cannot be found in a day's walk. Take out an accident policy for $1.00 and get The Progressive for one year for only $1.60. The policy is good for one, and is as good as gold. Come and see the policy!

Little Girl's Gown.

The girl's gown pictured is a graceful model which may be carried out in pique, linen or rep. It has a scalloped placket, which adds length of line and lifts the little frock to distinction by its individuality of style. Through slashes

THE GIRL'S LINEN DRESS.

In the panel a broad black velvet sash is run, the loose bow falling over one hip. This side-bow is more modish than a stiff bow at the back. Black buttoned boots of dull calf with black stockings—accompany this frock. Intended for wear all winter under long coats.

Head Sets.
Beads are much worn. Unusual sets are gold embossed, strung alternately with beads of cut amber. A similar set of pink coral and gold beads is shown. Pale tints of coral beads, in graduated sizes, are much chosen for young girls to wear, and amuses are holding a foremost place. All these ornaments are especially lovely with the lace so dominant in the summer gowns.

White Veils Favored.
White veils alone seem to find favor with fashionables, and they are to be seen in all sorts of different net, lace, course, spider web and many other varieties. And these white veils lack particularly the feature which is so attractive in worn with black and white hats and in conjunction with navy blue tailored suits. This is the favorite combination for street wear.

RICH MATERIALS ARE SIMPLY MADE.

So Fashion Has Decried In Regard to Season's Garment.

In speaking of fall and winter suits the Dry Goods Economist says: "Much interest has been shown in the dem-tailored and dresser models. These feature is made of the materials of these suits which are unusually handsome. The richness of the fabric alone is sufficient to make a suit attractive; therefore manufacturers have used trimmings sparingly. In fact, the elaborately trimmed suit is seldom a good seller. The most expensive garments are those made of the materials with simple trimmings. "Notable features of the fancier suits are the Robesierre, direttore or Mecca collars. These collars are frequently wired so that they can be worn high up at the neck or turned down in the form of a tie down collar, as desired. Some of the more extreme suits show the wide turned back direttore cuffs, but the tendency is for a set-on cuff or a simulated cuff formed by the trimming. "Much attention has been given to vests, which are seen on many of the suits. Some of these are attached to the collars and show out in the upper portion of the vest; others are ordinary in front, showing the lower part of the waistcoat as well; others have the revers turned back and show a straight waistcoat from throat to waist line. "Frequently these vests are only fastened in and can be removed when desired. Others are made like separate suits, thus giving a woman an opportunity of having two or more for a single suit. "The material of the waistcoat depends largely upon the suit fabric. For example, broadcloth, flannel, wool velours or ratine suits have waistcoats of broadcloth, velvet, plush or light colored broadcloth, while suits of broad cloth or either broad cloth or fancy silk."

NOT AGILE.

A company of men, the traveler is of deep violet leather made in square box form about twelve inches wide by eighteen in length and four inches deep. This holds a white brush, one containing powder box and hat brush and mirror. It can be conveniently tucked in any trunk corner, but is particularly nice for automobile.
