

ally, which it appears that a sum exceeding half a million of dollars has been collected.

The amount would undoubtedly have been much larger, but for the difficulty of keeping open communication between the coast and the interior, and for the want of the merchandise imported to transport and vend it to the inhabitants of the country.

It is only expected that this difficulty will, to a great extent, be soon removed, by our increased forces which have been sent to the field.

Measures have recently been adopted, by which internal, as well as external revenue in all parts of our military operations will be received, and appropriated to the use of our army and navy.

The policy of the Government in carrying out the levying upon the citizens of the various nations, which it may be practicable for our military commanders to adopt, should be rigidly enforced, and orders to that effect have accordingly been given.

By such a policy at the same time that our treasury will be enriched, that our people will be relieved from the burthen of the war, and consulting their own interests, may be induced to give to us their resources, and to give us their aid.

After the adjustment of the last session of Congress, several measures of importance were proposed, which, in my judgment, required a greater number of troops in the field than had been anticipated.

It is deemed important that Congress, in the first year of their session, should have raised an additional regiment, and have authorized a further increase of the number of troops in the field, and have also authorized a further increase of the number of troops in the field.
