Chain Letter Craze

Morehead went chain-letter crazy yesterday and today. Crowds congregated on the streets and every restaurant and public place was a bee-hive for letter sales and discussions. Proponents of the plan used their chains in 2 foot pieces. Instead of mailing the letter, it is sold directly and the buyer sends the person whose name appears at the top of the list a $1.00 through the mails. The seller must see the buyer mail the dollar.

Chandler Scores Laffoon

Before a crowd of 500 here tonight at the court-house, Lieut. Governor A. E. "Happy" Chandler continued his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor with ex-Congressman John V. Brown pointing the finger in his behalf.

Chandler hurled charges of "mismanagement and misconduct" at the Laffoon administration, which he said spent $500,000 per year in collecting the sales tax.

He stated, "Sales tax" Tom and Ruby were unable to buy enough of the Democratic members in the House and Senate of the 1934 General Assembly for support of the sales tax by the use of jobs and promises of jobs, so they joined with a bloc and by that hybrid bipartisan coalition passed the sales tax and divided the spoils."

"I shall urge passage of laws to help President Roosevelt's social security programme."

Endorsing the school programme, Chandler stated, "I will see that the teachers of the State of Kentucky will have the same salaries as at present without the sales tax."

Congressman Brown declared that Chandler was responsible for the people being able to vote in the August primary. He stated, "When the time comes the people of Kentucky will know the Laffoon administration that they know how to vote."

He pointed out that the state machine had been able to beat him in his own district, but that when he ran State-at-large, the people had elected him. He charged that the administration's votes were "for the Laffoon."

"The Democrats must back together if the Republicans are to be beaten," he declared in closing.

Accompanying Lieut. Gov. Chandler and Congressman Brown was State Auditor J. Dan Talbott.

Sheriff's Settlement Made With Rowan Fiscal Court

Sixteen thousand five hundred three dollars and seventy cents was collected for the General fund, by Sheriff Mori May, it was disclosed today when he made his settlement with the Fiscal Court. The Sinking fund collections amounted to $6,888.33.

Judge C. E. Jennings congratulated the Sheriff for his work in gathering the taxes, and pointed to the high percentage of collections. The anticipated revenue for the sinking fund had been set at $18,500 and the General fund $6,900. Sheriff May averaged 85 per cent of his collections.

The Fiscal Court met Tuesday, but adjourned until today. Wednesday the entire court went to Frankfort to discuss the budget, now being made up, with the budget inspector.

The court will meet again on May 31, for the purpose of laying levies and adopting the budget.

Squire Russell Burrows and W. P. Kestley, recently appointed by Governor Laffoon, sat with the court for the first time.

KEETON RELEASED BY FILING $5,000 BOND SATURDAY

Joe Peed Improving from Gun Shot Wounds

Bill Keeton, Morehead restaurant owner, charged with shooting and wounding Joe Peed, Farmers, during an altercation here May 12, was released under $5,000 bond Saturday morning, for his appearance before the June Grand jury. Keeton's bond was signed by Tom Trumbo and Attorney James Clay.

Peed is still in a critical condition in the Good Samaritan Hospital at Lexington, but has a good chance to recover. Immediately after the shooting he was not expected to live. Keeton fired 3 shots, one taking effect in the arm and the other near the abdomen. He was rushed to the hospital immediately.

Bill Lane, charged with assault and battery on a warrant preferred by Keeton, who claimed that he (Lane) and Peed attacked him, was released under $500 bond. His bond was placed at 11:00 Monday morning, but raised on an examining trial in the court of City Judge E. E. Maggard Friday.

Keeton, according to Dr. A. W. Adkins, has a broken arm and dislocated elbow. The nature of the wound indicated that he had not been hit, but that the arm had been twisted while held in a full position, Dr. Adkins said.

Rowan, Elliott And Bath Counties Show Profit From Sales Tax Levy

During the past year Rowan County paid to the state a total of $13,667.90 in sales tax and $3,311.41 in property tax exclusive of franchise corporations, statistics released this week reveal.

They received from the state $69,814.05, or $46,824.74 more than they paid in. The profit to Rowan county, and all other small-populated counties of the state naturally came from metropolitan centers such as Louisville in Jefferson county, Fayette, Boyd, etc.

Of the $69,814.05 received by Rowan, it was prorated as follows: Sales tax, $20,067.16; School property, $46,632.66; Free textbook money, $3,114.89.

The above figures show that the sales tax has brought Rowan approximately forty-five thousand dollars more than it paid out during the past year.

The neighboring county of Elliott actually received $45,005.92 less than it paid in. Elliott had more tax collections than any county in the state, and only Menifee pays less property tax. During the year Elliott paid in $1,959.34 in property tax, and $4,143.92 in sales tax, making a total of $5,203.26, which represents the smallest tax paid by any of Kentucky's 120 counties.

Elliott realized from this investment $18,510.72 in sales tax returns;

Make Selection for Your Quilt

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

Each patch work or applique quilt requires quilting, and a design should be selected that harmonizes with the design used in the patches. Space for quilting also varies, and the women who do this work should have quite an assortment of quilting designs on hand from which to make a selection. We have pictured here different sets of perforated quilting patterns in past issues.

The above twelve patterns are not perforated. They are, however, printed in dots on perforated bond paper and must be perforated with a pin, which can be done in about ten minutes for each pattern. The patterns are eight times as large as the illustrations above.

Package No. 51A contains these twelve patterns, with cotton and blue powder for stamping; also full instructions how to perforate and stamp them will be mailed to you postpaid upon receipt of 10c. Address—HOME CRAFT COMPANY, DEPARTMENT D, Nineteenth and St. Louis Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Enclose a stamped addressed envelope for reply when writing for any information.

Involved Mathematics

Mathematical knowledge has developed so tremendously in the past century that today it would require the lifelong work of 20 gifted men to master it all, writes C. H. Austin, Bradford, Mass., in Collier's Weekly. Even higher arithmetic alone now probably requires the mastery of any two geniuses. In fact this science has become so specialized that at meetings where, for example, 50 different papers are presented, not more than five are wholly intelligible to any one man.

Should Be Excepted

"Only foolish men visit at their work," declares a professor. This seems unduly hard on locomotive engineers.

Preparing for Another Stratosphere Flight

Establish Camp in South Dakota

Preparations for another flight into the stratosphere are being made by the National Geographic society and the United States army. A camp is now under construction near Rapid City, S. D. In the photograph, army trucks are shown unloading equipment, marking first activities at the camp scene.

The American record for stratosphere flights was set by Lieut. Com. T. G. Sottie, U. S. N., and Maj. C. L. Fordney of the marine corps at Akron, Ohio, on November 30, 1934. While Russian balloonists are said to have exceeded the American record of 61,257 feet, their flight ended disastrously.

Those sponsoring the flight this year hope that new and valuable data on a number of scientific subjects may be gained.

Here is Dr. John D. Brock, sportsman pilot of Kansas City, Mo., who was honored by the National Aeronautic association in Washington after he had made his two thousandth consecutive daily flight.

HOCKEY MANAGER

Marvin (Red) Dutton, hard hitting defense man of the New York Americans, has been signed as manager of that hockey team for the 1935-36 season. He succeeds "Bullet Joe" Simpson.

Appointed Work Relief Executive

Morris L. Cooke, Atlanta engineer, has been appointed head of the rural electrification division of the works relief administration. Much research work has already been done on the problem of rural electrification, and Cooke's appointment is expected to speed this program.

"The advantage of electrification for the farm home and the farm itself are so obvious that there is hardly any need for comment on this work which the President and the congress have delegated to the Rural Electrification administration," Cooke said when interviewed.

"Approximately 86 per cent of the farms today are without electricity and the advantage it brings."

Representatives Study Japanese Competition

Examine Oriental Imports

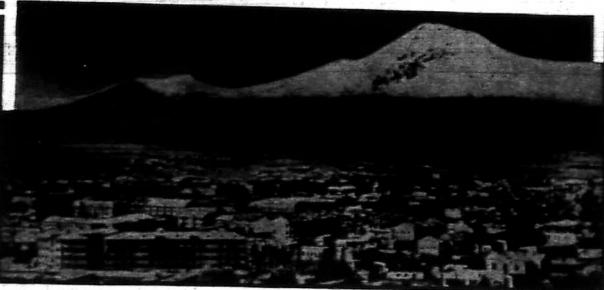

Representatives Edith Nourse Rogers and Allen T. Treadway, both of Massachusetts, with samples of Japanese textiles of similar quality, which they tested for points of difference as to color and texture of fabric to show the degree of competition that American-produced textiles are facing. The photograph was made during a session of the textile hearings at the Department of Commerce at Washington.

American industries, particularly those engaged in producing textiles, have suffered seriously from Japanese imports. Because the Japanese pay extremely low wages they are able to undersell American mills, and loss of this business has been responsible for closing many United States factories, and an increasing number of unemployed textile workers.

Many lines besides textile manufacturing are similarly affected. There has been much agitation for added protection which will permit American goods to compete with those from the Orient.

Earthquake Shakes Mountain Where Ark Landed

Reports from Turkey tell of a violent earthquake at Erivan which stirred into volcanic activity Mount Ararat, the 17,000-foot peak on which Noah's Ark landed, according to tradition. Many persons were killed or injured by the tremor. The illustration shows Erivan with Mount Ararat in the background.

QUESTION ANSWERER

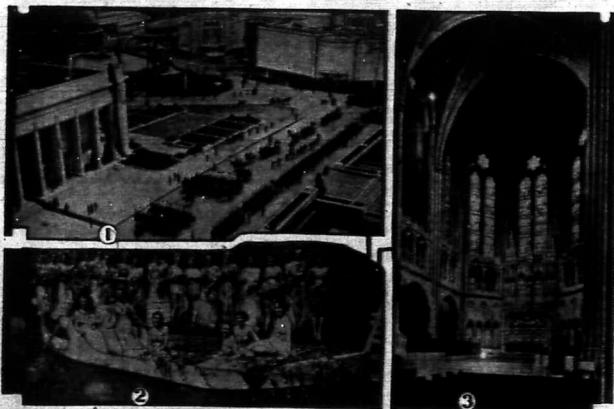

Much of the work of Frank C. Walker's new works relief division of applications and information is falling upon the United States information service, headed by Miss Harriet M. Root, who is pictured above. This service is part of the National Emergency council and is noted for its ability to give quick, accurate answers to all sorts of questions.

Two Pulitzer Prize Winners

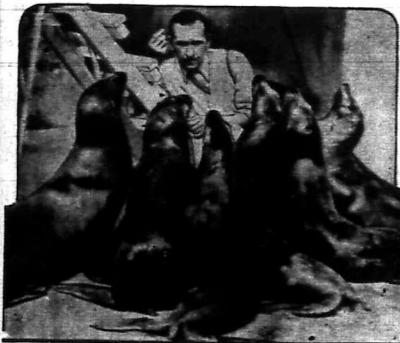

Here are two of the fortunate winners of the 1934 Pulitzer prizes. Josephus Winslow Johnson won the award for his first novel, "Now in November," and Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman was given the biography prize for his "R. E. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University following the annual dinner of the annual of the Pulitzer School of Journalism. Special precautions were taken this year to prevent advance information reaching the newspapers. "Leaks" last year caused the prize committee considerable embarrassment.

Chain Letter Craze

Morehead has hit the chain letter craze.

Here, however, the letter fans are dodging the postal regulations, and instead of mailing the letters they are passed from hand to hand, each passing resulting in the forwarding of a dollar to the persons name who fortunately appears at the top. The idea of "Get Rich Quick" has spread like wildfire, and like all other fads there must be a peak. Right now we are at the top. Those who have already purchased their letters are apt to get their money back with considerable interest.

Where there is a winner, there must be a loser. It follows that with the decline of the craze, the last investors are the ones that will be stung. After all the amount is only one dollar, and the investment is assuredly a safer and more advisable one than buying a sweeps-stakes ticket, where your chance is something like 1 in 1 million of getting a prize.

The chain letter fad started in the mid-west and branched out all over the country. The wave, like a tidal storm, has reached Morehead. It will pass on eventually like all waves, both good and bad, blow itself out.

In the meantime for a dollar investment you can at least look forward to a thousand dollars or so, although your chances of receiving this amount are indeed slim.

Commencement

Three steps from the portals of our school system this year another group of bright faces, with sheepskin tucked under the arm, facing with a smile the future with school days forever past.

It has been said that life begins at 40. Might not it be more truthful to say that life really begins as graduation?

Commencement time, and another group launch themselves upon the world to make a living. Those graduates do not know what faces them when it comes to earning a livelihood. Some will be immensely successful. Many will be a credit to their community. A few will fall by the wayside in the steady flow of life.

An education has equipped most of those who don caps and gowns with something that many of us lack. They will be more successful than the ordinary run of people.

Commencement is beautiful. The opening of a new world that means opportunity to those who work diligently, progress slowly and surely.

With bright eyes we meet the bright eyes of our graduates.

2 Political Factions

The formation of the "Waits for Governor" Club here this week, and the address of Lieutenant-Governor A. B. Chandler assures Rowan county of two factions fighting hard to put their nominees across in the coming gubernatorial race.

Rowan county is apt to prove another hot-bed of political interest and battle this summer and fall, with the election of a State Senator and Representative up, the Governor's fight should prove all the more heated.

The Republican party will find its greatest interest in the Senatorial campaign, since it is virtually conceded that King Swope, Lexington jurist, will be the G. O. P. nominee for Governor. Although normally a Democratic District, political leaders concede the Republican nominee for Senator an excellent opportunity to be carried into office on the wings of a possible State-wide Republican victory.

The prediction of the Independent that Rowan would have all the other counties in the District combined apparently was correct. Two Rowan Counties have already cast their hat in the ring, while at least three others are seriously considering the race. It is probable that 2 Democrats or more from here will announce—one of them on the platform of continuing the policies of the late Senator Young.

English Stage Star to Be at Cozy

Hands are more important to the actress than perhaps anything else she has to depict, emotion with. So believes Constance Collier, famous English stage star, who makes her talking picture debut in "Shadow of Doubt." Metro Goldwyn-Mayer detective mystery which opened at the Cozy Theatre last night.

"Watch your hands—study what you can do with them," is her principal advice to younger players' essaying screen fame.

"Eyes may mirror the soul," she says, "and are very important, especially in pictures, but with the hands one can express any emotion, and any instinct. For instance, to depict fear, nothing can be so expressive as one's hands, properly used. There is a psychological reason. In the presence of sudden terror, the first instinct of a human being is to protect one's face. Hence the hands involuntary travel upward.

The Lucky Lawrences

CHAPTER I

The Lawrence family, although in the best sense of the word pioneers, had not come to the Golden West by means of covered wagons. They had left their Boston moorings, like the gentlefolk of means and leisure that they were, in the year of our Lord 1840, and had sailed elegantly for Bix, for Buenos Aires, and around the Horn. They had lotted in Valparaiso and in Lima for some weeks, taking things easily, in a leisurely way, and had in due time come up the stormy coast of California, and had dropped anchor in the opalescent harbor of peaceful Yerba Buena.

For San Francisco had been still familiarly known as Yerba Buena, then, and the blue waters of the bay had lapped the streets of Montezumy Street. The globe trotters, magnificent Philip Lawrence and his frail, Indiana-bred, pretty wife, had remained on the ship for a few days for the settlement on shore promised small comfort for tourists.

Early in their second week, however, they had been obliged to seek lodging ashore. This was for two reasons, one important, one ridiculous. The important reason was that an heir to the Lawrences was about to be born. The absurd reason was that some preposterous person had discovered gold, or had pretended to, at a place called Sutter Creek, and that everyone in Yerba Buena had promptly lost his senses.

Philip and Abigail Lawrence naturally did not lose their senses. They were rich anyway; they were above this undignified scramble for lucre. Philip had an income of three thousand a year, and Abigail's own owned five sailing vessels, including this very Abby Baldwin in which they had made their wonderful honeymoon trip.

But the sailors, and indeed the officials of the Abby Baldwin, had felt differently. They were not above acquiring fortunes, and they had instantly deserted the ship and made for the gold region. The rumor of gold, spreading like prairie fire between breakfast and the noon dinner, had found the ship emptied by sunset. Philip and Abigail had signaled a Chinese crab catcher, and in his little shallop with stained brown sails he had rowed them and their carpet bag ashore.

"This would do for the present, she had said. But one could not live quite like a savage, after all, and immediately after breakfast tomorrow Philip must find a really nice place, and a nurse. If not, then they would have to go back to the ship.

So much for Philip's benefit. But when he had gone out after supper Abigail had felt very low-spirited indeed. They had been eleven months getting so far, and a baby was due in a few weeks' time. Perhaps it would be weeks before they could get a crew on the Abby Baldwin.

Philip had returned flushed, distressed, and annoyed from his search the next morning; he had returned, flushed, distressed, and increasingly annoyed from the searches of the following days. The Frenchwoman was not only the best. It appeared to be the only possible place for Abigail to stay, and to contemplate a life there, with the noise and drinking and the smell of wine below stairs, and with nobody but whiskered old Madame Bovier to attend her, was not a very attractive prospect. Philip had rented a spanking team and a loose-wheeled buggy and had begun to drive about the adjoining country looking for shelter.

da, and was willing to rent this one to the strangers. It had contained no furnishings whatever when the Lawrences had moved in.

But many trips to the Abby Baldwin had pretty well transformed the dismal place. Philip, breathlessly grateful that somehow, with the aid of a Mormon doctor from Benicome and the care of two stolid, wall-eyed Mexican women, Abigail had actually brought forth a first-born daughter, had made no complaint. He had had carried down wagon loads of chairs, carpets, china, bed linen, books—all the personal possessions of himself and his bride.

A bride! Poor Abigail had laughed scornfully on the first anniversary of her wedding day. It had found her weary and starchy, and on a mattress on the floor of one of the cool rooms, with a burning August day hammering away at the spread level acres of the rafters outside. Beside her had been Annie Sarah.

They had brought her in hot dusky grapes, and hot dusty figs, and warm milk, and finally given her to suckle her in her ordeal. Except for that, neither Mexican woman had volunteered anything. They had watched the frightened, doubtful, breathless struggle asthetically, until their oily brown hands had actually grasped Annie Sarah. After that they had seemed capable enough.

Anyway, it had been gotten over, somehow, and Abigail had been free to cry a little, thinking of her room at home, in an orderly, busy, Massachusetts village, with Ma's lavender-scented linen on the smooth bed, roses in a green glass vase on the bureau, and the lace curtains blowing softly in and out of the opened upstairs windows. Lilies, trembling grass, and Grandpa's grave in the graveyard, and doughnuts and curries, jelly—oh, dear. As soon as the baby and the mother were well upon the road to normal living, Philip and Abigail had seriously discussed going home.

Then old Senora Castellano had died, and her sons had wished to dispose of the Santa Clara hacienda. Four hundred acres for a hundred dollars! Philip had considered it a wise investment. There was fruit—some fruit—there already, there were sheep and cattle included in the sale price. In figs and grapes would grow there, why not other fruits—peaches and pears?

He would take his wife and daughter back to New England, he promised, on the first suitable ship; it would be a long hard trip for a woman with a baby, but the journey across the plains would be worse, and there was no further hope of the Abby Baldwin.

No, upon consideration it had seemed to Philip, that this sunshiny, sheltered flat region, well inland, was the coming district, and that by holding onto this property ten years, fifteen years, he and Abigail could not fall to be among the prosperous pioneers of the new world. Philip was one of the men who had shot dead the gold craze with an epigram: "a fast in the pan."

Meanwhile Fanny Lucy had been born. "Look here, young lady, aren't there any boys where you came from?" Philip had said, in a serious, half-teasing, as he held his second daughter in his arms. Abigail had looked at him anxiously. But he had not been really angry.

Only it had been rather trying that a fine ship had left for South America and eastern ports for the very next day. She had delayed so long in San Francisco harbor that Philip and Abigail had really hoped to be able to sail on her. But Fanny Lucy had delayed, too, and had unconsciously affected her parents' decision thereby.

For letters had gone to Boston on that ship, and letters, four months later, somehow had straggled overland in answer. The respective families of Abigail and Philip had been perfectly delighted at their venture, and wrote that they were certainly envious of the dwellers-in-a-country where there was no snow, no thunderstorms, and no poverty.

Abigail wrote glowing accounts of her new life to the family at home. She and Philip were going to build a really nice frame house, with bay windows, a bathroom, and a cupola. Everything they touched prospered; they called them "the Lucky Lawrences."

And Abigail had eight daughters and one son, and the girls all married, opening the late Sixties and early Seventies, in a land in which women were still rare and prized.

Abigail wrote glowing accounts of her new life to the family at home. She and Philip were going to build a really nice frame house, with bay windows, a bathroom, and a cupola. Everything they touched prospered; they called them "the Lucky Lawrences."

When Powdered Sugar Lumps

It is very annoying when powdered sugar lumps, as it is impossible to use it for most purposes. You need not be too much annoyed. Put the caked sugar into your food chopper. You will find that it grinds easily, and that in a very short time your sugar is again powdered.

Health Teaching Part of School Curriculum?

"Health teaching is as much a part of the school's field as any other kind of teaching," says Mary G. McCormick, of New York state department of education. This authority thus lays down a rule that should be taken to heart by the educational systems all over the country.

In an interview, Miss McCormick pointed out that the responsibility of health teaching does not rest wholly upon the teachers. Parents must also help, she says. In this field, parents have a special opportunity to aid in bringing up strong, healthy children.

How can they help? "They must first learn the fundamentals of good health for themselves and practice them in the home," says Miss McCormick.

"Healthy homes produce healthy children, not so much because of heredity as because there the practices which lead to health, such as proper eating, blent, of rest, tranquility and cleanliness become part of the child's habits automatically. For the same reason, unhealthy homes tend to produce children with health defects. The child of such a home imitates the bad health habits of his parents."

Ellis' Indian Bible Sold from the library of John Bosterton Stetson, Jr., of Philadelphia, Rev. John Ellis' Indian Bible brought $2,400. Dated 1933, it was a translation into the Indian language and was used by Ellis in his New England. Approximately 1,000 copies were printed; only 90 are in existence.—Literary Digest.

Picturesque for Afternoon Wear

PATTERN 9311

A little bit demure, a little bit picturesque, and a very pleasing fashion is this afternoon dress. The wide drop-shoulder yoke continues in a panel to the hem—and gives youth in doing so. The soft gathers and the tiny tucks at the waist add to the feminine, wearable quality of this gown which will grace all afternoon occasions. For wear right now it is new and right—make it in one of the melodious, color-harmony prints that will enhance your own natural coloring—when countless days arrive choose a cape-line or bonnet brim hat—stunning!

Pattern 9311 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE. Complete, diagrammed sew chart included. Address your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 252 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

During the week ending May 19, the K. E. R. A. worked 25 projects. Five hundred twenty-six men were assigned to work, and actually 498 were on the job, putting in a total of 7,829 man hours. The total money assigned was $1,824.40, while that spent totaled $1,729.80. Contributions in equipment and materials amounted to approximately one hundred dollars.

A twenty foot single span bridge using cement rubble abutments and heavy oak sills, and 3 inch flooring was completed this week at Silome, near the home of Lonnie Flannery. This job was under the direction of Allie Sorrell and was declared one of the best to be completed in Rowan County.

During June it is planned to work 34 projects. The assignments are now being made.

important development was the announcement of Keen Johnson, editor of the Daily Register, Richmond, for Lieutenant Governor on the Democratic ticket. Johnson leaped into the limelight recently when he was named editor of a paper in Louisville, which so far has not been launched.

Fredrick A. Wallis finished a campaign of eastern Kentucky, which touched mostly on the Big Sandy section.

His friends claim they have built a powerful organization in the eastern part of the state. Wallis favors an amended sales tax, with milk, bread and other necessities tax-except.

Line was heard from Thomas S. Rhea, Administration leader and Lafoon-supported candidate, that there has been since the campaign started, but it is known that he is bent on concentrated strength in Western Kentucky.

This Senatorial district is composed of Rowan, Bath, Menifee, Fleming and Mason counties. Of the other four counties J. Pracee Hart, Democrat, Flemingsburg, is the only candidate so far.
