massers, we bilety, has failed. Considering the distress which now persalts so widelymong the speaks of the country, this proposition to well the already bloated enodoments of public mes, comes dist accreating mal aymice principles. The pay of Hembers of Conmess is slindly chort instalt hydis for the 1bor they perform and the services they render, to say nothing of the propulsiter, legitimate they noly, and uncareplacing with them. and lilegitimate, honest and dishoused, which they egloy, and uncarepaleurly avail titem-selves of. It has become a trite: truism that politics has got to be a regular trade, which men follow as the means of making money. The fread and corrupti a introduced by the growth of this merceany spirituanong our pub-lic men is enormous, and is the source of innucelesions astraragines of the expenditure, who increase of pay, the nicrease of pay, then expect that it would have the fact of sincing complaints.
