Four motor vehicle accidents involving at least one truck were investigated by State Police in Rowan County during the last week.

Only one injury was sustained in the four reports on the mishaps shown.

Hurt slightly was Harry F. Riggins, 40, who stepped in front of a pickup truck being driven by Bertie Lee Moore, 63, about seven miles from Morehead on Ky. 32.

The investigating officer, Trooper Marvin Jennings, said Mrs. Moore was pulling out of a drive way when she struck the car. The accident happened about 7:25 p.m. Saturday.

A car attempting to pass on the right side of a Kentucky Department of Highways truck, which had stopped for a traffic light before making a right turn at the intersection of U.S. 60 and Ky. 32 in Morehead last Thursday, caused damage to both vehicles.

Frank Smith, 45, of the Church, Va., was the driver of the car attempting to pass, while Clinton Walker, 28, of Cleveland, was driver of the state truck.

Trooper James A. Farley investigated the mishap which took place about 7:45 a.m.

A Friday collision on Ky. 519 involved a one and one-half ton truck and a pickup truck.

Reports indicate that both vehicles were traveling south when the larger truck attempted to pass the pickup. At the same time, the driver of the pickup, Johnny E. Linton, 20, of Rt. 4, Morehead, made a left turn, colliding with the passing truck, driven by H. Buford Boyd, 21, also of Rt. 4.

Trooper Farley said there were no injuries. The wreck took place about 7:45 a.m.

A car which ran a stop sign at the intersection of old U.S. 60 and Ky. 801 was held responsible for an accident at 12:50 p.m. Sunday.

Trooper Robert Morrison said the driver, Nelson Caudill, 45, of Morehead, collided with the sign and his car collided with a two-ton truck turning from old U.S. 60 to Ky. 801.

Neither driver was hurt.

Ramblin' Thru Williba

We do not agree wholeheartedly with our pet duck to the rich. Our politics are entirely different. A short conversation with this duck leaves one without a doubt that the duck is all the way for Harry Chandler for governor. We Republicans resent this action of the duck.

Alva Howard and C. B. Stotwell and Howards' right were in 12.94 Willie's other day. These three gentlemen live right next to Chandler and we believe that they are actually stronger for Chandler than my duck. But they were impressed with the duck and wanted to buy some and take back to Versailles. We couldn't afford to sell some because this is our little young Jerry's pet and also the partly filled sack.

"Quack, Quack" in a very favorable manner for Chandler. "Do you think Chandler has 1.62 been the best governor Kentucky has ever had?" we asked. "To this question the duck quack. He said he and I had not seen 12.43 head in such a favorable confirm. 67.25 to which we felt like stamping 7.54 my duck right then and there 4.40 porch. It has always been our intentions to vote the Republican 15.49 tickets to support a $2,000,000 26.63 back in Frankfort and get the 29.22 Commonwealth on the road to 27.22 property and success. Let Republic 25.30 be convinced that the Democratic cannot do this regardless of what 19.15 this duck has to say about the 39.69 situation.

The Future Economy

The future economy has ample resources to support a $2,000,000,000 economy by the year 2,000 and apparently can continue to grow far into the 21st century. The report boasts that, after taxes are paid, the middle family will have a spendable income of $11,000 instead of today's $5,000 average.

Israel Should Be Held Responsible For Ruthless Activities

The tactics of the Israeli regime are certainly questionable agents that come to the Israeli's handling of Arab refugees and their secret service activities (in foreign countries) against those aiding any Arab country, even in an individual capacity.

The plight of the million Arab refugees who were moved out of Israel, who still live under the most pitiful conditions and without the bare necessities, is a world scandal. The Arab nations share some of the blame but it seems that Israel must bear the major share for continuance of their plight.

More disturbing are the activities of Israeli agents against Germans who are working, or have been working, for Egypt. These Germans are scientists and they have been hired by Egypt to build rockets.

Five persons have been killed so far in Cairo by explosives mailed to German scientists working there.

It seems more than apparent that it is the policy of Israeli agents to "get" any individual scientist who chooses to work for Egypt. This is a barbarous policy and cannot be condoned under any circumstances.

The United States, which is Israel's main benefactor, and which has furnished the Israelis with missiles, should make it plain that such activities will cease forthwith or U.S. aid will cease forthwith.

Nothing is ever done and the promoters go on prompting fight money and men continue to beat other men's brains out for money. Money is King!

Boxing — Just What Does It Prove?

The tragedy in a recent championship boxing bout on the West Coast is merely another in a long history of such events. Each time the brutal, savagery of this "sport" takes a life and thousands view a man being beaten to death a murmur of indecency arise and there is talk about regulating boxing rules and equipment, or eliminating it.

But nothing is ever done and the promoters go on prompting fight money and men continue to beat other men's brains out for money. Money is King!

It is past time to do something to regulate boxing so that head injuries would be less frequent. This is the minimum which should be done. Head gear should be mandatory, of course, and bigger gloves should be used.

It makes no difference whether the "fan" who pays his money sees fewer knockdowns and knockouts. If one life a year is saved the action would be justified.

American Public Pays The Bill

Darryl Zanuck, movie producer Hollywood style, recently announced he had spent $37,000,000 making a certain motion picture starring controversial Elizabeth Taylor.

The last three million, the movie maker said, has been spent in Spain on retakes. These became "necessary" after Zanuck and his director, one Joseph Mankiewicz, got into a brawl over the final version of the film.

Zanuck, nevertheless, spent three additional millions to retake certain Spanish scenes. That is his privilege — a rare one among most business individuals but a relatively common thing in the world of Hollywood.

So now he has spent $37,000,000 to give the world this motion picture. What that money could have been used for — if put to better purposes! How lavish and wasteful American-made movies have become!

Are they worth it? Some of the best pictures ever made are being made comparatively inexpensively in British or other foreign film centers. Big money does not produce big or good pictures.

The worst thing about it all is to realize that we, the public, make this sort of wastefulness, and the excessive salaries paid to the so-called "stars" possibly by paying to see poor pictures.

Bureaucrats Not Policy Makers

News publishers, editors and broadcasters, in a recent gathering in the national capital, have charged the government with deceiving the American people in the Cuban crisis last October.

Ten representatives of the group told a House government information subcommittee the government's tactics last October and Sylvester has defended himself with such statements as: "It is the government's right — and therefore the people's right — inherent if necessary, to lie to save itself."

The trouble with this statement, and this philosophy, is that it allows every two-bit appointed official to decide for himself whether he shall lie to the people or tell them the truth. That is obviously not good enough.

The government has the obligation to tell the truth at all times, and only the President should be given the right to decide when the facts will be withheld from the public for the sake of the nation's survival or security. These incidents and occasions will be few and this privilege should not even be abused by the President.

'Political Intelligence' Is Lacking In Leaders

The Editor:

It seems, from press reports, that the politicians are going to wait for John Breckinridge to "prove his strength" on a shoe-string before deciding to put their organized efforts behind him for the nomination for lieutenant-governor.

What do they want? Running on the principles of government he so sincerely believes in, he has already been a strong three-time winner!

I heard Sheriff George Ratterman, speaking at a fund-raising dinner Saturday night, say that John did more than any other official, in state or federal government, to help rid Newport of organized crime. He was the only candidate for state government who has the endorsement

New Foot Trail To Traverse A Scenic Section

Joe J. Maul

Last Monday a crew of workers started work on another foot trail. This one will begin on top of the dividing ridge between the Clear Creek Watershed in Bath County and Leatherwood Creek Watershed in Menifee County.

At the same dinner Charles Hatchett, president of the Carter County Good Government League, announced John's candidacy because of his invaluable assistance in their desperate struggle to rid their school system of the strangling hold of a politically-powerful school superintendent.

It's time for each of us to tie into that shoestring and elect a statesman, not a mere politician. Mr. J. B. Dennis Lexington, Ky.

And His Friend, TIMOTHY TUGMUTTON

Dear Mister Editor:

Zack Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night reported his joints was stiff from setting on committee meetings all week. He told the fellows he read once where a camel was a horse that was put together by a committee, said he wouldn't do it if none on account of they had committees in his church that put some of the fellows together.

He said they got 22 committees at his church, one more than last year, reported they added a new one on account of they wanted to show a increase for the year in everything. The new one, he announced, was the Watchdog Committee, a addition suggested by the Bishop on account of the many underground movements in most churches today.

He said the fellows called him Rufe Zindler's wife, the best head-hunter they got, chairman of the committee. He said he had a suspicion that he had a suspicion they was getting ready to tap his telephone.

The good Parson said the fellows if they was smoking more and enjoying it less, reported his topic was bring up Thursday night at the meeting of the Committee On Christian Living. Ellie Sanders, the solo singer in the choir, was in charge of the program and Ellie claimed smoking wasn't no sin. She said the Lord put everything here for a purpose and she couldn't find of nothing tobacco was good for except smoking and chewing.

Hezekiah Adams claimed it was a sin that of the Lord put everything here for a purpose, a man's nose wasn't put here for a smoke stick.

But the big topic of the week, reported the Parson, come Tuesday night at the meeting of the Christian Education Committee. Big Slim bring up the subject of evolution, said he was hearing some schools was teaching that us humans come from monkeys. According to Big Slim, these folks was claiming that at one time they wasn't nothing but monkeys but they kept getting better and better till they turned into humans.

The Parson told the fellows he was too shure we sprang from monkeys but it looked like the human race was going back to the monkeys. He said when God made man he was a pretty decent fellow but he's been going backwards and getting worse all the time. He claimed he knowed a few men, from the way they was acting, that if they had a few fleas you couldn't tell the difference.

The good Parson left a little early, said he had to take some bananas home to his six younguns.

Work Is Finished On Several New Livestock Ponds

H. M. Meadows, Dean McGuire, Jesse Collins and Albert Todd Jr. all completed livestock ponds last week. The ponds will all be fenced to keep out livestock and a drinking tank installed. This will prevent the water supply from being contaminated by manure and soiling the water.

Carl Sluss completed a sod waterway which will pick up water from nine acres and carry it across his fields. The water from this nine acres had been spreading all over the field, causing erosion and wet spots. He now plans to turn off the field to control runoff completely.

Yankee Acquisition Should Change View

Steve Hamilton's outlook on life must be considerably brighter this week.

Apparently consigned to a spot on the roster of the Washington Senators, where any pitcher is lucky to end up with a 300 season, and where a fan higher than 10th place in the American League would call for a riotous celebration, the former Morehead State College basketball and baseball star Sunday moved into professional baseball in the same situation as a place with the New York Yankees.

Hamilton was traded by the Senators Sunday for Jim Coates, the pitcher with the best career win-loss record on the Yankee staff.

The trade confirmed a spring training season rumor that the defending World champion Yankees were eyeing Hamilton with a view toward adding the 6'7 left-hander to the club.

Also a former professional baseball player with the Minnesota Vikings, Hamilton debuted unimpressively with Washington last season, ending the year with a 3-8 record, although his earned run average was one of the best in the best at 3.47. He had pitched three innings for Cleveland in 1961.

This game in relief, dropping a decision to Baltimore. The trade became effective after the Senators' Washington-New York game in Washington.

With the usual Yankee "luck," or now-a-days, state politics, New York intangible may be, Hamilton, can very well wind up the season in the World Series, rather than in the American League cellar.

You May Have To Fed For Yourself On Derby For many years the publisher of the Morehead News has been paid-up readers the benefit of his vast knowledge of, and long experience with, horse racing, and the Morehead News has taken the form of a prediction as to the outcome of the Kentucky Derby.

Since he's now involved in other activities which require his attention much of the time, it's uncertain whether or not his prediction on the outcome of racing's most storied event will be forthcoming. This work has been partly financed through cooperative accelerated public works funds allocated to the Rowan County area.

How's The Defense Dollar Spent? For people in this area who would like a close-up look at how the nation's defense money is being spent, the annual Armed Forces Day open house at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O., provides a good opportunity.

On display will be most of the nation's operational aircraft, including the B-52 bomber, the KC-135 tanker (military version of the KC-107 commercial airliner) which is used for a large number of other aircraft used for cargo.

Most of the planes will be involved in flying demonstrations, on Thursday and Sunday afternoons. The Air Force Museum, located at Wright-Patterson, has the world's largest collection of military aircraft, the B-52 bomber, the KC-135 tanker (military version of the KC-107 commercial airliner) which is used for a large number of other aircraft used for cargo.

Reynolds is married to the former Blandina Charles, daughter of Mrs. Frank Grant of Clearfield.

She's Not The Same Mother General! Mrs. Mary Anselm, mother general of the Sisters of Notre Dame, who visited Morehead State Hospital last week, is not the same person who was instrumental in the decision by the order to staff the hospital, when St. Claire was in the formative stage.

Call from Rome to the mother provincial in Covington gave approval about previous efforts to induce the order to staff the hospital. The mother general at that time has since passed away and Rev. Mother Mary Anselm succeeded her.

Incidentally, you may be interested in knowing how mothers general are chosen. The order (such as the Sisters of Notre Dame) are divided into "provinces." When a vacancy occurs, about 10 delegates are chosen from each province contained in the order and they go to Rome to elect a mother general. The new mother general takes up residence in Rome, and then returns to the order's administrative duties connected with her post. A good deal of travel is involved.

For instance, Rev. Mother Mary Anselm had just returned from Rome to take a visit to her provinces on that continent, before she began her current tour of provinces in the United States.

This Has Been Season For Ends and Ends It's probably more noticeable at the Morehead News, since we're dealing with publicity about the "bit at least four separate funding drives have been conducted here during the past six weeks.

'Pap Smear' Easily Determines Presence Of Uterine Cancer

Some 14,000 women in the United States will die of uterine cancer this year. Do they have to?

According to Dr. Billie Jo Caudill, medical director of the Rowan County unit of the American Cancer Society, deaths from uterine cancer, once the leading cancer-killer of women, can be even more drastically reduced.

"Twenty-five years ago," Dr. Caudill explained, "uterine cancer took the lives of more women than any other form of cancer. Today, this is no longer so. In the last 25 years, the death rate from uterine cancer has been cut in half."

Dr. Caudill said, "Most of the 14,000 deaths from uterine cancer this year will be unnecessary. The fact is that today we could save nearly all of the 40,000 women who develop cancer each year."

An important factor in saving most of the 14,000 lives lost to uterine cancer is the "Pap smear," a simple, painless technique for detecting cancer of the uterus in the very early stages when it is almost always curable.

Because of the possibility of saving the lives of so many women, Dr. Caudill, the American Cancer Society is making a major effort during its 1963 April crusade to persuade all adult women to have an annual health checkup, including a "Pap smear," for possible early uterine cancer.

"The Pap smear," she said, "is based on the microscopic study of cells normally cast off from living tissue. The Society has invested about $1,000,000 in this life-saving research and is now supporting research by the late Dr. Papanicolaou's associates. They are seeking to adapt his method of early detection to other parts of the body."

Dr. Caudill said that a recent poll indicated that an estimated 2,000,000 women, approximately 40 percent of the adult female population, are unaware of the "Pap" detection test. "However," she said, "progress is being made in persuading women to act for their own protection. Last year, an estimated 10,000,000 women had "Pap smears," many more than any previous year."

A. B. Chandler Versailles, Kentucky

To the Citizens of Kentucky:

I have repeatedly said that when I am elected Governor I will repeal the three percent sales tax on food, medicine, and clothing . . . and that I intend to do.

Tax experts have advised me that the loss in revenue through repeal of the sales tax on food, medicine, and clothing will be twenty-three million dollars a year. The Combs administration says it will be thirty-six million. Others versed in governmental financing say it will be sixteen million in the projected economy.

I say to you, in all candor and sincerity, no matter which of these figures you choose to accept, the difference can, and will, be made up. The excessive and bloated State Payroll is FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS more a year than the last year I was Governor in 1959. You may be sure that I will keep my promise to take the tax off the bare necessities of life.

Below is the current statement of the State Payroll . . . figures that are irrefutable because they are taken from the official records in the office of the State Treasurer. I hope you will analyze these payrolls because they reveal, more than anything I can say, the spending and waste so rampant in the Combs administration.

As this is written, I have before me newspapers, dated in 1959, from all over Kentucky. Combs said in these newspapers he would cut the State Payroll 15 percent. Also before me are 1959 newspapers from almost every county in which Combs said, often in a paid advertisement, and I quote him "If anybody says I am for a sales tax you can tell them this is a Chandler-Waterfield lie."

I hope you will join me in restoring integrity, and honesty in state government . . . in eliminating the oppressive sales tax on the bare necessities of life.

Respectfully yours,
A. B. CHANDLER

Compiled From The Official Records Of The State Treasurer
Frankfort, Kentucky

Total Payroll four years last Chandler Administration	$287,148,828
Payroll first three years of Combs' Administration	$302,123,689
Payroll of Combs' Administration for first two months of this year (January, February) was $21,041,123; based on those two months the projected 1963 payroll of the Combs Administration would be	$126,216,738
Four year payroll Combs Administration	$428,370,427
Difference between four year payroll of Chandler Administration and four year payroll of Combs' Administration	$140,921,599
Excess spent each year on payroll by Combs' Administration over the Chandler Administration	$ 35,230,399

The above does not include contract services to the Commonwealth. When these are added the Combs Administration is spending $50 million more per year than did the Chandler Administration for payrolls.

Colleges Approve Fund-Sharing Scheme Based On Enrollments

Kentucky educators outlined Saturday a proposed minimum foundation program designed to end the scramble over state aid among institutions of higher education. The plan would guarantee the University of Kentucky and the five state colleges a fair share of state appropriations. The plan was presented to and approved by the state Council on Public Higher Education. The next step is to get it through the 1964 legislature, officials said.

"If we can get the legislature to adopt this as the basis for calculating the budget for higher education, then we will have put the university and the colleges on a higher level," said Ellis Hartford, executive secretary of the council.

The plan is roughly similar to the state's minimum foundation law for elementary and secondary schools, which guarantees local school districts state aid in relation to the local school effort.

If it becomes law, the legislature and state administration would be bound by it when they prepare budgets and appropriate funds.

In the past, executives at UK and the colleges often have found themselves contending for funds, which are appropriated every two years.

Institutions affected, besides the university, are Eastern Kentucky State College, Western Kentucky, Morehead, Murray and Kentucky State.

The central factor in the formula is student enrollment at these schools, which is expected to rise sharply in the next three years. Hartford said the council's enrollment projections indicate a total increase of 19 percent for all the institutions in the 1964-65 school year, with another 16 percent boost the next year.

Enrollment figures will get another look in September, officials said.

A trial projection of how the formula would work produced a figure of more than $80 million as the amount needed for the biennium coming up. This compared to $61.5 million appropriate by the 1962 General Assembly for the current two-year period.

The $80 million plus would be divided among the schools, again using the formula. The total is a trial figure and officials said it undoubtedly would be altered before the 1964 session.

Council officials plan to ask gubernatorial candidates to endorse the plan and see that it is passed by the 1964 legislature.

Hartford and Dr. Frank Dickey, president of the University of Kentucky, said the formula would bring faculty salaries in Kentucky close to the national average.

It calls for equalizing the number of faculty members in each of the four teaching ranks — professor, associate professor, assistant professor and instructor. At present, there are too many instructors and not enough professors, they said.

The council figured the average salary of professors by September 1965 should be $12,415, associate professors $10,378, assistant professors $9,221 and instructors $7,309. More would be paid to faculty members in the doctoral and professional programs at UK.

At the university last year, the average salary for professors was $9,073 for a 10-month teaching period, among the lowest in the country, according to the American Association of University Professors.

Under the new formula, teaching costs would total 62.5 percent of the appropriation. Of the remainder, 5.5 percent would go for libraries, 13 percent for maintenance and operation, 13 percent for general expenses and 5 percent for administration.

Councilwide, the program at the beginning of 1963 included 2,532 Cub Scouts, 4,658 Boy Scouts and 579 Explorer Scouts. This compares with 1959 figures showing 1,148 Cub Scouts, 2,655 Boy Scouts and 116 Explorer Scouts.

The professional staff now includes 19 Scouters and four full-time office workers, compared with five Scouters and two office workers in 1959.

Only 512 boys attended summer camp in 1960, while nearly three times that many — 1,472 — took advantage of the McKee Scout Reservation in 1962.

Personal solicitations will be made at practically every home and business in Rowan County during the finance campaign.

Mountain People Resist Moves Regardless Of Area's Cruelty

Why do they stay in the poverty-stricken, flood-ravaged mountains of Eastern Kentucky?

The typical answer comes from a gaunt, unemployed miner near Harlan, bailing water out of his shack after the latest devastating flood: "Buddy, this is home. Ain't nowhere else I wanna go."

Yet, the census-takers report differently. In 1950 there were 800,000 people in a 32-county area comprising the main slice of picturesque Appalachia. Today there may be 650,000.

Says John Whisman, head of Kentucky's area program office: "Eastern Kentucky has the largest out-migration rate of any comparable area in the nation. The closer you get to the deep South east, where the floods always are worst, the heavier the out-migration becomes."

Still, there are the 650,000, many living under severe hardships. In one county the unemployment rate officially is 22 percent, in another 81 percent of the families earn less than $3,000 a year.

Much written about Eastern Kentucky perpetuates a false image nationally. The people purportedly are lanky, suspicious moonshiners addicted to carrying on deadly feuds; they are pure Anglo-Saxons who speak Elizaбетian dialect and cling to quaint customs; or they are prototypes of characters in the 'L'il Abner comic strip.

Most of these stereotypes are nonsense. But the brutal reality is that too much of the Appalachian region is engulfed in economic misery and inertia.

Bert Combs, who rose from humble origins in the area to become Kentucky's governor, says frankly there is one category of residents "who just don't have enough initiative to do anything else."

But he says another stay-at-home group "has some sort of feeling it's the land of their birth and they ought not leave as long as there is any hope."

"My daddy always told me," Combs said, "Whatever you are is a result of Eastern Kentucky and you owe a duty not to abandon it."

Jimmie Thompson, who has permanently left the tiny hamlet of Wayland for government work, gives this explanation: "The mountains are like a drug. It's a beautiful place to live in the summertime and for generations and generations these people have lived there."

"Poverty and misery is a part of life to them. They expect it. As sure as winter ends, the flood comes and they go through the same miserable cycle."

"My 80-year old grandmother has five children living elsewhere, all wanting to take her out of her comfortable homes. But do you know what she says? 'When they carry me from here I'll be to my grave.'"

Whisman, who comes from Clay City, says: "These are the kind of people who fight for a homeland. They consider natural disasters just another enemy and they won't be pushed around."

"And, remember this. It's not easy to leave when you have a large family, no cash, no known destination and no assurance of work."

The official hope expressed by all politicians is that Eastern Kentucky, if it gets adequate federal flood protection and state attention, eventually "will lift itself into a prosperous tourist paradise."

At least one civic observer thinks not. "I doubt if it would do any good for the area if the entire budget of Kentucky is poured into Eastern Kentucky in the next five years," says Harry M. Caudill, a Whitesburg lawyer and conservation champion.

"For all practical purposes the sentence of death has been imposed upon Harlan, Pikeville, Hazard and a number of other communities. They will survive, but only as sleepy ghost towns. Only a miracle can save them."

Gov. Combs' feeling: "We take the position that if Eastern Kentucky is the land of opportunity—if we could develop the resources."

ARA Approves Money For 2 State Cities

Two Kentucky cities - Benton and Tompkinsville - will receive federal money, leading to more jobs, through the Area Redevelopment Administration, W. L. Batt, Jr., ARA administrator, said this week.

An estimated 220 new jobs are expected to be created when a new Hays Garment Company plant is completed in Tompkinsville. The building is to be financed through a $26,350 ARA loan and a Tompkinsville Development Corporation loan of $28,000. A state agency, the Kentucky Industrial Finance Authority, will participate to the extent of $8,250.

A loan and grant to help pay for utility lines to the plant location has also been promised by the federal government.

At Benton the ARA is financing a study to determine whether a clay processing plant should be built there. A favorable report could lead to new jobs in a plant producing a fuller's earth type clay which is used in making lightweight clay products and is also used in insecticides and water purification materials.

The ARA will add $12,000 to approximately $2,500 already invested in beginning tests by D. J. Enterprises of Benton. The money only if the study leads to the plant being located in Benton.

State To Open Bids On 2 Rowan Road Projects May 10th

Bids will be opened in Frankfort on May 10 for two road surfacing jobs in Rowan County.

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said this week the projects, financed through the state's rural secondary program, are: old U.S. 60, from its intersection with new U.S. 60 at Bluestone to the bridge over Triplett Creek, a total of 1.150 miles; and Mabry Street, beginning at Kentucky 22 on the north city limits of Morehead and extending to the end of Mabry Street, a distance of two-tenths of a mile.

Both jobs call for a bituminous concrete (blacktop) surface.

The state's rural secondary road fund is operated with two cents of the gasoline tax, Ward pointed out.

Holding Their Breath

Waiting Period Began Apr. 15 For Country's Tax Chislers

For a minority of taxpayers, the Apr. 15 federal income tax deadline was the start of the waiting period for the chances of getting caught. Some will be tripped up because of misguided notions about the foolish sport of jousting with the tax collector.

The person who has talked himself into cheating usually has parcelled his conscience with one of these three arguments:

"They won't fool around with piddling little me. They're after the big boys."

"It isn't like I went whole hog for a big chunk of cash. I just kinda stretched things a bit here and there."

"My return is such a work of art that I'm starting to believe it myself."

The man who thinks his tax return has to look like it was drafted by an inept embezzler before the government gets suspicious is in for a sad revelation.

And the size of a person's income isn't necessarily the factor that will decide whether the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is going to take that fatal second look.

The government usually gives a second look over only to about 5 percent of the returns, although it checks every return to make sure the arithmetic is correct.

The IRS uses a variety of standards that change from year to year in selecting the 5 percent sample.

Chances are that most returns reporting an income of more than $50,000 will get a pretty close look. About 25 percent of those between $10,000 and $50,000 receive similar treatment.

Other samples may be selected because of some suspicion that there is a soft spot in enforcement policy in a certain occupation or section of the nation.

For instance IRS sleuths may suspect that waiters in a southern resort belt are fudging on reports. Their tips. They will then pull a large chunk of returns from this belt and include them with the sample.

Tax detectives searching for that little flicker or irregularity look for different things in different income classes.

Take the case of the man in a comparatively low income group who uses the standard form. The IRS knows from experience that if there is going to be some cheating here, it probably will be in exemption claims.

The taxpayers information is recorded on cards and fed into a computer. The computer is set to kick out any card where the exemption looks suspicious—or as the IRS puts it—"where it is not a usual family relationship."

For instance, if you are claiming an exemption for your Aunt Mable and she is living at another address, the machine will spot this unusual situation and out comes your card.

Aunt Mable may turn out to be a perfectly legitimate exemption but you may have to prove it by providing some additional information which the IRS will request by mail.

In the upper bracket taxpayers, the IRS searches for inflated deductions and unreported income. It has records showing the average deductions for medical expenses, interest, charity and local taxes in each income class.

If a return shows a lopsided claim the IRS may ask the taxpayer to show his cancelled checks. Just because a person makes less than $20,000, it doesn't mean he's home free. The IRS will look at other things before they decide to okay the return.

For example, agents will be a little skeptical if a man reports that he made $4,000 and claims a $1000 deduction for charitable donations. That's a lot of money for charity for a person in this income group.

Throughout Kentucky during March, sales of these bonds amounted to $5,028,758. Cumulative sales for the state during the first three months total $15,800,324 or 73% of the annual goal of $21,700,000.

Voter Approval To Be Asked For 2 Constitution Changes

Kentucky's Constitution, long regarded by some as restrictive in keeping some salaries at an unreasonably low figure and as being too difficult to amend, may be changed next November.

The Constitution limits pay of "officers" to $12,000 a year at the state level and lesser sums for district and local officers.

Another provision provides that not more than two amendments may be submitted for voter approval or rejection at one election.

Constitutional convention proposals under the document may be submitted for a vote of the people only after approval by two regular sessions of the General Assembly.

These provisions will be the topic of amendments to be voted in November.

Thus far, no opposition has appeared to either—or is there any organized support for either provision in the field at this juncture.

One of the amendments to be voted on in November would allow the General Assembly to fix the maximum pay for all officials. No specific sum is set.

The second amendment, to ease the manner of amending the Constitution, would permit these:

Up to five amendments could be submitted to the voters at any given time, instead of two as now fixed by the Constitution.

It also would provide that any session of the General Assembly either regular or special, could provide for a vote of the people on whether a Constitutional Convention should be called.

It also would eliminate the present clause by which the vote has to be held at the succeeding general election at which state officers are regularly chosen. This now requires 18 or more months between action by the lawmakers and submission to the voters.

The new proposal would permit action by voters at any state election, just 90 days before legislative action submitting the question and the election.

A further factor to be considered is that the 1964 General Assembly is due to act on the second rung of a convention call that would submit the whole new convention question for a vote in November 1965.

If the amendments to be acted on this fall are approved by voters then much of the "sting" behind the new convention call may be removed. The restrictive features either regular or special, has been heard—and given as the reason for a new convention—would be out of the way.

The same questions often have been submitted to the voters in various forms—and usually defeated.

For many years, the people rejected repeatedly attempts to remove a statewide salary limitation for all officers. Three years ago, the people raised the limit to $12,000.

The Court of Appeals then began the task of removing various classes of officers and employees from the terms of the amendment. First, it removed "employees," claiming that no longer did the term "officer" include "employees."

The last judicial action came when the court restricted terms of the amendment only to those "officers" in force when the present Constitution was adopted. Since that time, the General Assembly and administrative officers have seen fit to fix many salaries at figures beyond the $12,000.

But the court has clung to the theory that state officers who hold offices that were in existence in 1892 are still bound by a limitation.

FRENCH PLANES ARMED

The United States is arming two units of French fighter-bombers based in West Germany with nuclear weapons, but the weapons will remain under American control, Defense Department sources revealed. The report said that the arrangement was worked out in negotiations begun five years ago between France and the United States and only completed about a year ago.
