Habitual 'Scofflaws' May Face Warrants On Parking Charges

Some 50-60 Moreheadians may soon be looking over warrants for their arrest if they continue to ignore parking tickets, a city spokesman said this week. These are the 50-60 persons who have ignored both the tickets and a courtesy reminder which is sent out as a matter of routine to persons who fail to show up in the allotted time following issuance of tickets.

"We have no alternative except to issue warrants for these scofflaws," the spokesman said. "The vast majority of citizens come in and take care of their parking violations promptly, but a small group chooses to ignore them. These are the people who will be brought in on warrants."

A check of the records at City Hall Wednesday showed many persons with more than two outstanding tickets and at least one with as many as 16. Another has 14 and several others had that figure.

"People who habitually ignore the law enforcement processes in the city can expect more aggressive efforts to bring them to court," the spokesman said.

Rural Electric Co-Op Members Meet Legislators

Representatives of Fleming-Mason RECC were among 200 officers and members of the Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Organization who met with Kentucky's legislative representatives in Washington Friday. Senator Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Martin, both congressmen from Morehead, were among the representatives of the state's seven congressional districts who were present as members of the Co-op.

Robert C. Adams, manager of the Jackson Purchase RECC, Paducah, Ky., presided at the meeting. "The RECC and its principal speaker," Adams said, "spoke on the vital subject of 'Rural Electrification and Kentucky's Economy' in which he briefed the congressional leaders on the problems and progress of rural electrification in Kentucky and the part it could play in Kentucky's future."

Fleming pointed out that there are now 244,820 rural electric consumers in the state, a total of 13,262,500 kilowatt-hours of electricity generated. They employ 1,887 persons with a combined annual income of $744,000. They spend $361,000 annually in transportation and spend $4,486,873 annually in other goods.

Tricky Tank Trick Police Fail To Believe All They See, Suspicions Confirmed By Full Search

It's appearance was about the same as that of a hundred similar rigs which ply the highways of Eastern Kentucky with regularity. On both doors were the neatly painted signs "Bulk Oil Company, Winchester, Ky." The rear also bore this designation.

The 1962 Chevrolet cab and chassis was in first class condition. So was the liquid-carrying tank which appeared to have a capacity of about 1,500 gallons.

The vehicle was being driven carefully and when a cruiser carrying four state police officers pulled it east of Mt. Sterling Apr. 22 only one officer appeared amiss. The license plate on the rear was mud-smeared and illegible.

Seeing something was up because of the muddy license and the unusual hour—it was 2:05 a.m.—officers in the cruiser decided to keep the truck under surveillance. Twenty-five miles further east on U.S. 60 about one-half mile east of Salt Lick—the cruiser's red light flashed and its siren screamed, signaling the operator to pull over and stop.

The driver, Kenneth Pultz, 27, of Haldeman, was arrested for improperly displaying a license plate on the four officers. Sgt. Harold Watson, Lind Trooper Doyle Elliott and George Robinson—began an inch-by-inch inspection of the vehicle in an effort to either confirm or refute their suspicions.

To determine exactly what the truck was hauling, Trooper Elliott climbed to the top of the tank and opened the single fill-hatch and peered in. Oil glistened in the beam of his flashlight and the smell verified what he saw.

To remove all remaining doubt, Elliott dipped his hand into the liquid and made the most discovery—the tank, supposedly carrying 1,500 gallons of oil—was only about three inches deep. Total oil in the truck appeared to be about two gallons.

Convinced that they had stumbled onto something, the officers intensified their inspection.

150 Pints of Blood To Be Sought Here By Red Cross Unit

A minimum of 150 pints of blood must be sought here Monday by the bloodmobile from the Huntington Regional Blood Center of the American Red Cross.

John Collis, local blood recruitment chairman, said the unit will be in Doran Student House from noon until 6 p.m. and would provide an opportunity for Rowan Countyans to help build up the county's "credit" with the center.

The noon-6 p.m. hours have been set in order that persons who work conveniently contribute, Collis said.

"The need for blood continues to be great," he pointed out. "One recipient alone used 37 pints of blood since the unit's last visit on Feb. 11."

Putting the appeal on a personal basis, the chairman said: "There is always the possibility that you or your family will have a need, so share in the community and county responsibility by being a donor."

Signs in the basement of the student house will direct potential donors to the station unit while there the unit will be set up.

Persons desiring to give blood are requested before 9 p.m. and earlier if possible, since about one hour is required to complete the entire process.

A total of 107 pints of blood was received when the mobile unit made its visit here in February. Four trips are scheduled to Morehead annually.

The slogan for the blood program is "Someone Lives When Someone Gives."

Preliminary Exams For Aspirants To Academies Slated

A Civil Service examination for young men interested in entering one of the service academies will be given Monday, July 8, Congressman Carl Perkins announced this week.

The exam is for men interested in the Air Force, Naval, Army and Merchant Marine academies. Perkins said he would make arrangements for all interested persons to take the preliminary Civil Service test and would supply a list of sample questions.

According to the Civil Service Commission, announcement of the purpose of the examination is to aid Senators and Representatives in the selection of appointees for the classes of 1964 in the four service academies. Those interested in taking this examination should write to Congressman Perkins, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C. before June 30.

Christian Will Take Court Seat In Fall

Herb Christian of Morehead will become a member of the Rowan Circuit Court shortly after the November election, it was learned Wednesday.

Christian was the only person to file on either the Democrat or Republican tickets for the remainder of the term of Bridges Johnson, District 1 Magistrate, who resigns of the middle of last year to accept a state position.

Christian is a Democrat and thus the court's balance will remain the same with the GOP holding a 3:1 margin.

More than two years of the term will remain when Christian takes office as soon as the canvass of the November election can be completed and Christian can qualify.

A former member of the Fiscal Court, Christian was elected to a four-year term from 1957-1961. He did not seek re-election when his term expired.

The post is presently being held by Elijah Hudgins, who was appointed by Gov. Bert Coombs shortly after Johnson relinquished it.

Death Comes To Howard Hudgins, 53

A well-known Morehead man in Howard Hudgins, died Saturday at his home on Bays Avenue following an illness of seven years. He was 53.

Hudgins, an electrician by trade, had been a patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Huntington, W. Va., until about three weeks ago. He had been in the hospital frequently since illness overtook him in 1956.

A son of the late Winston and Celia Inge Hudgins, he was a native of Morehead. He was born May 6, 1909.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Ellen Hudgins, Morehead, and Mrs. Betty Hale, Leesburg. O. Hudgins was a member of the Morehead Christian Church and the American Legion. He served in the Army from 1923 through 1930.

Funeral services were held Monday at 1 p.m. in Lane Funeral Home. Rev. Charles Brooks officiated.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery. —Turn to last page, this section

Business Aid Series Set Here Next Week

Interested in starting a new business or expanding an already existing one? Representatives of two state agencies and one federal unit will be in Morehead two days next week to assist persons interested in either, it was announced Wednesday.

J. M. Clayton and Adrian Razor of the Rowan County Development Association, said aides from the Kentucky Department of Commerce, the University of Kentucky and the Area Redevelopment Administration in Washington, will be here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Both expansion and initiation of business enterprises in this section will receive high priority, the two spokesmen said.

A public meeting will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Morehead City Hall. The following day, the state and federal representatives will be in the county agent's office in the courthouse where personal contact can be made.

Persons under 20 years of age are part of the over-all development plan for this area as sponsored by local, state and federal agencies. Sources of funds and methods of financing will be discussed and interested persons will be aided in making applications for loans for qualified projects.

The Area Redevelopment Administration makes four percent, long-term loans for eligible projects in designated areas.

Kennedy Asks Congress For $70,000 Planning Money For Cave Run

One of the traditional American virtues — being helpful — landed four juveniles in Rowan County jail for 30 days terms last week.

According to County Judge W. C. Flannery, the four were escape, thereby putting themselves in position where they were able to join him after he was recaptured.

Flannery said the prisoner, who was working together, bent the bars of the jail after his four friends, who were covering a window, forced the window and gave him room to crawl through.

His freedom was probably not worth it. The prisoner, and his four companions, were picked up a short distance from the jail on Rainier Street only a few minutes after the break took place about 8 p.m. on Apr. 21.

City police officers made the arrests.

Draft Board Calls One Inductee; Four To Get Physicals

One man will be inducted into the Armed Forces from Rowan County during May, while four others will receive pre-induction physical examinations.

The inductee is to be Gary Ruddell Adkins. Ella Mae Evans, clerk of Local Board No. 86, said he would report May 16.

The four who will take physicals are May 8 are Denford Jennings, James Jefferson Adkins, Gary Lee Jones and Raymond Junior Johnson.

Free Chest X-Rays Slated Wednesday At Health Center

Had a chest x-ray recently? If the answer is no, an excellent opportunity will present itself next Wednesday when the Mobile X-Ray Unit of the State Department of Health makes one of its periodic visits to Morehead.

The unit will be at the Rowan County Health Department from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Persons under 60 years of age who have not been x-rayed during the past year are eligible.

Former Resident To Be Buried In Arlington Today

Funeral services for Mrs. William H. Finestein of Arlington, Va., widow of the late Lewis of Morehead for several years, will be conducted tomorrow (Friday) afternoon in Arlington. Military services and burial will follow in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Finestein passed away Tuesday morning at the Washington, D. C. Central Hospital following a long illness.

Survivors include her husband, Dr. William H. Finestein; her mother, Mrs. S. A. Hannah Lewis of Ashland; a sister, Mrs. Reed French, also of Ashland; and two brothers, Clyde Lewis of Florida, and Wayne Lewis, Ravenna, O.

Request Is For Fiscal Year Starting July 1

Cave Run Reservoir moved a step nearer the construction stage this week when President Kennedy asked Congress to approve $70,000 to complete advance planning on the project.

This is the word from Washington. Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Senator John Sherman Cooper said the President had approved a shift in recommended funds which would make the $70,000 available to complete the advance engineering on the project in the fiscal year starting July 1.

At the same time, Kennedy also asked Congress for $20,000 for advance engineering and design on the Red River Reservoir.

The reservoir would control the run-off from a drainage area of 822 square miles.

Cooper, reporting the President's recommendations, said the White House announcement "makes clear it is recommending that Congress appropriate for the fiscal year beginning July 1, amounts equal to full capability of the Corps of Engineers."

In addition to Cave Run, construction of which some sources have said is assured, the Corps of Engineers also asked that Congress approve funds for:

• construction of Fishtrap Reservoir and North Fork of Pound Reservoir in the Big Sandy Valley;

• Planning Red River Reservoir and continuation planning on the Carr Fork Reservoir on the Kentucky River;

• A start of planning on the local flood protection project (foodwall) at Cumberland, Ky.;

• A survey of new and previously rejected flood projects in Eastern Kentucky.

"The President's action is in harmony with my recommendations to him of Apr. 3," Cooper said, "and will provide funds to carry out the flood control program already underway."

Both Cooper and Rep. Perkins have worked actively for approval and construction of the Cave Run Reservoir. Both have appeared before congressional committees looking into the project, and have urged the Corps of Engineers to speed work on the job.

WWI Veterans Group Meeting Planned

The monthly meeting of the Veterans of World War I will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Rowan County Courthouse.

The meeting will be held for election of delegates to the State Convention, which is to be held in Lexington June 14-16.

RETURN VISIT—The Kentucky Gull Train, carrying a display of arts and crafts representative of Kentucky work in these fields, will return to Morehead, May 3, 4, and 5, in conjunction with the Fine Arts Festival being held at Morehead State College. The train will open from 2 p.m. - 7 p.m. May 3 and 4, and from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. May 5. The unit made its first visit here about two months ago.

State Completes Work On Rules For Boilers In Public Places

Development and publication of rules and regulations for the installation and operation of boilers in buildings of public occupancy has been completed by the Board of Boiler Rules of the Kentucky Department of Public Safety.

The rules, adopted recently by the five-member group, were announced by State Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern who is also chairman of the new board.

The Kentucky Boiler Inspection Law, adopted by the 1962 session of the General Assembly, provides for inspection of boilers in all buildings of public occupancy and the approval of installation of new buildings in construction of new buildings of public occupancy. Such buildings include hospitals and schools.

The Boiler Bureau is an arm of the Division of Fire Prevention in the Department of Public Safety. The implementing of the boiler inspection program makes complete the over-all inspection program of that division. Inspectors of the division have for many years inspected all Kentucky schools annually.

Commissioner Lovern said the boiler safety program should help prevent the tragic results of boiler explosions. "It is the responsibility of this bureau to see that all boilers in proposed, inspected, and stamped in accordance with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Construction Code," Lovern emphasized.

Heavy Tax Levy On Cigarettes Is 'Oppressive,' Says Leaf Unit

The Tobacco Institute said last week that the states are subjecting cigarettes to "oppressive" tax exploitation. The industry organization, in its quarterly publication "Tobacco News," said taxes on cigarettes and other tobacco products have more than doubled in the past seven years. "No other product in America, so widely used by the nation's citizens, bears a burden so oppressive," the institute said. Citing figures from the Census Bureau, the institute said state taxes on tobacco products in 1962 averaged $3.91 for every citizen in the United States, while state property taxes averaged only $3.33 per capita. The institute said state tobacco taxes in 1962 passed the $1-billion mark for the second straight year, compared with about half that amount in 1956. With federal and local taxes added, the total tax load on tobacco users was $2.2 billion in 1962, the institute said, and "more than 97 per cent of the total came from cigarette smokers."

The institute quoted a report by the Tax Council of America, an industry organization with headquarters in Richmond, Va., as stating: "No one would contend that cigarettes should escape taxation. However, it is unreasonable to tax as it is done." "The World, the World and the Sacrament."

Boswell Elected To 2 Vice-Presidencies

Dr. George Boswell, chairman of the Division of Languages and Literature at Morehead State College, was selected at the recent Kentucky Education Association meeting for two vice presidencies. He is the vice-presidency of the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English and the Kentucky Folklore Society. Dr. Boswell has been at Morehead State College since 1960. He received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the Ph.D. from Vanderbilt University and the Ph.D. from George Peabody College. Before coming to Morehead, he served ten years in the English department of Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tennessee, the last seven as professor of English. His work record includes four years in the Signal Corps, and he separated with the rank of first lieutenant. He has written approximately 60 books, articles and reviews, one of the most recent of which (Fundamentals of Folk Literature) was published last year by Anthropological Publications.

Morehead Student Elected To Post In Church Group

Martin Huffman of Morehead was elected worship chairman of the Kentucky Methodist Student Movement at a spring conference held recently at Kentucky Wesleyan College, Owensboro. Huffman attends Morehead College. The Kentucky Methodist Student Movement is composed of Methodist students of the colleges and universities of Kentucky. A total of 208 students from 16 colleges attended the conference which had as its theme, "The World, the World and the Sacrament."

JFK Should Mind Own Business And Let Courts Do Same

President John F. Kennedy, at a recent news conference, commented on the federal government's two voter registration cases in Mississippi. The cases had not been decided when the President uttered his remarks.

We have spoken out in favor of the right of all qualified citizens to vote on many occasions. That principle is what this country is all about. No true American can oppose the right of every qualified citizen to vote.

However, another principle which he holds dear is that of not prejudging a jury in court litigation. President Kennedy said in his recent press conference remarks that it seemed to him there had been intimidation of voters in Mississippi, but that the courts hadn't decided the cases yet.

When the President of the United States tells the judges and the people of the country what things look like in a court case, before a jury has decided on the basis of the evidence presented in court, we think that is overstep.

Loss Of 'Thresher' Serious Blow

The loss of a nuclear attack submarine is a serious matter and while the case of the vanished Thresher is not yet solved, some of the story seems pretty clear.

The submarine was practicing a deep dive in a deep sea. Something in the ship either failed or someone failed, or it rammed an object or another ship.

The possibility that another submarine was rammed is a fantastic one, though in World War II submarines often spotted their adversaries and sometimes fought submarine duels with them. Though the Russians would likely remain silent in the case of such an accident, chances seem small that Thresher struck another submarine, especially since she was diving very deep.

There are only two other U.S. subs of the Thresher's class and only a very small number of nuclear attack submarines in operation, so the loss of this one, which was thought to be the fastest and deepest-diving in the world is a heavy one.

The loss of these trained and dedicated officers and men and this fine nuclear submarine is a tremendous loss to the Navy and to our security program. It should remind every citizen that while most of us live a peaceful and protected life, there are others constantly risking their lives in behalf of the freedom we enjoy. Airmen, soldiers and sailors who give their lives in the service, even in peacetime, give their lives for their country and for what the country stands for in this world.

What's In Food We're Eating?

It's about time Americans woke up to the fact they are eating chemicals instead of natural food, far too much of the time. Pick up your favorite snack or food and read the "contents" on the label. Chances are good that you will find "artificial color" and "artificial flavoring" on the wrapper.

The truth, then, is that you don't know what you are eating and enjoying. It may be a bright red cherry mint, with a delightful cherry flavor, but the red is artificial and no cherries ever came near the product. It contains artificial flavoring.

Europeans like their home-baked and home-cooked foods, and use no chemicals in them. When we buy vegetables which are artificially colored, we really don't know whether we're getting green vegetables or not.

When we get anything with artificial flavor, we are being subjected to the least sales techniques and often the most profitable production techniques. It is time for us to look for and honor honest foods, which are just what they appear to be, without any artificial color or flavor.

ping normal bounds, even of the presidential office.

It is a dangerous practice for us to slip into, even though the ideal of halting any interference with voters' rights is a great one, which we support. Enough of us are exercised with the question to guarantee results; no one seems concerned with the prejudged or the principle involved.

Refrigerator Deaths Up

Last year was the worst year on record for children's deaths in refrigerators. The National Safety Council, which keeps records on such things, says it cannot give a reason why 1962 was so tragic for U.S. children in this way.

All of us know discarded refrigerators are a danger to children, who are too often tempted to get inside and shut the door. Once this is done, there is no way for the trapped child inside to open the door. And if no one knows a child is inside and the door is not opened quickly, suffocation quickly follows, for air cannot penetrate into the refrigerator box.

Discarded refrigerators were not the only cause of refrigerator suffocations last year. Many youngsters closed themselves up in boxes which were being used. Those refrigerators in apartments which are only about three feet high are perfect temptations for children, especially when they are being defrosted.

In an apartment with a small refrigerator, one can easily stepped into from the floor level, should be careful about leaving children around it when it is being defrosted or when they might climb in and shut themselves in.

It reminds one parent of this danger, and saves another parent's life. It will have many times over served a worthwhile purpose. It is a timely warning in view of the record number of children who died unnecessarily in refrigerators in 1962.

Democracy Foreign To Africans

The United States is currently pouring money into various African countries and the State Department is treading ever so tenderly on the heels of these sensitive, under-developed people. What are they doing and where are they heading, and how are they working for democracy?

In many African nations, not only is there a lack of freedom but there is no tolerance of differences. When a United States leader voiced opinions which these African leaders did not like, last year, they refused him a permit to enter the country. No democratic country refuses entry to Africans who express views in opposition to the government's views.

Obviously, democracy is not in existence in many of these new countries, which we helped open up to democracy. Yet we continue to pour money into them and are too timid to speak frankly and candidly and call a spade a spade. It would be one thing if we could afford it, but right now the Treasury cannot.

GOP Faces Tough Baffle In '64

A recent Gallup poll showed President John F. Kennedy stands an excellent chance of being re-elected, in the opinion of the vast majority of Americans. The figures showed 74 percent of those questioned thought the Chief Executive would be re-elected to the top executive job in the United States in 1964.

The interesting thing about the poll is that 69 percent of the Republicans queried thought Kennedy would be re-elected. Among Democrats, some 25 percent said they thought the President would win a new four-year term in 1964.

The poll is not all-important as far as 1964 is concerned, for events can quickly change the entire complexion of an election, and one cannot assume that the same opinions will prevail in November of next year. The Republicans are up against a very tough proposition unless the tide changes.

Referring to the economic record of the Eisenhower administration, President Kennedy said it was "not a record we plan to duplicate."

There is ever an administration that planned to duplicate the record of the preceding administration of a rival political party?

Oh, ding... It's spring... And we don't want... To do a thing!

It is rare that an ome to spring sells for enough to pay what's owed to the grocer.

MAY DAY

Claig Sprout . . .

And His Friend, TIMOTHY TUGMOTT

Sez

Dear Mister Editor: I see by the papers where a fellow in North Carolina sent the state tax office a check for $3, said he didn't owe no tax but they "wanted to help out." They had to send the check back on account of their ain't no legal machinery for the state accepting cash gifts.

The Federal Government long ago pulled the stopper out of that jug and ever since in a while I see where some fellow has left his insurance money—to Uncle Sam. Anybody that wants to "help out" in these matters ought to be encouraged, and I think ever state should have some sort of law to accommodate such a generous soul. Maybe the doctor who writes two laws, one for accepting his money and another for having his head examined.

I see where a professor of chemistry in one of them big colleges is claiming that the worm in the apple is a "better source of vitamins" than the apple. Maybe it's the worm that the doctor that has been keeping the doctor away all these years. I tell you, Mister Editor, life is getting complicated. Personal, may come to the end of my days a little sicker on vitamin but I aim to keep on eating the apple and dodging the worm.

Well, I note where the post office had to destroy around 58,000,000 of them old 3-cent post cards. The post office folks know a year ago the post cards was going up to 4 cent, and the law was passed back in September, 4 months afore it went into effect in January. But they still had hundreds of millions of them 3-centers on hand. I reckon this is what you would call our usual careful Government planning.

I bring this item up at the country store Saturday night and Zeke Grubb said he no not to get alarmed over the matter, that this was due to our standard stockpile procedure. Zeke allowed as how the Social Security folks were taking care of our population till 10 year beyond eternity. He figures if they would change the form real sudden, it would take 16 battalions from now till next January hauling 'em out to sea and dumping 'em.

Ed Doolittle took sides with Zeke, claimed we couldn't get no place without good, standard stockpile procedures. Furthermore, Ed pointed out, big firms like General Motors is careless that way, don't stockpile except for the next year, but our Government stocks up for the next generation. On account the next generation is going to have to pay the bill, Ed claims the Government is following a sound fiscal policy in these matters.

Yours truly,
Claig Sprout

The Civil War in Kentucky

By Joe Jordan (Ky. Civil War Commissioner)

One hundred years ago this week two Confederate States Army officers, Capt. William F. Corbin, tried to execute a man, on a charge of harboring and concealing Confederate soldiers. He was sentenced to be hanged May 8 at Johnson's Island, but was not carried out. It was announced that he had signified his willingness to inform on other spies.

During the same week Gen. Burnside countermanded an order which the Union Army commander at Lexington had issued, forbidding the circulation of a three-page Enquirer in Lexington and vicinity. Joshua F. Bell, whom the "Union Democrat" got governor at its state convention at Louisville more than a month before, announced he would not make the race. This was not the pre-war Democrat Party, which the Union Army had forbidden to hold a state conven-a firing squad the same day. On the day after the Magraw-Corbin court martial, another such court tried Sampson D. Talbot of Bourbon County, on a charge of harboring and concealing Confederate soldiers. He was sentenced to be hanged May 8 at Johnson's Island, but was not carried out. It was announced that he had signified his willingness to inform on other spies.

Thomas M. Campbell of Nicholas County, a Confederate soldier, was condemned as a spy and was sentenced to be hanged May 8 at Johnson's Island. He was not carried out. It was announced that he had signified his willingness to inform on other spies.

Even Unscientific Polls Interesting In Election Year

In this season of politics, polls play an important part in campaign planning and strategy. Major candidates rely heavily on the findings of their public-opinion experts in mapping out the voters called to influence the moves and aid their campaigns.

Radio Station WMOR has been conducting its own poll on both the gubernatorial and local level during the past few weeks. Cast in the form of a 15-minute session in which 100 telephone calls are accepted, the WMOR poll is handled by the station's general manager, Bill Whitaker.

These are the results which Whitaker is reporting on with the end of seven 15-minute sessions:

- For Governor
 - A. B. Chandler 53
 - Edward T. Breathitt Jr. 47
- Harry Lee Waterfield 30
- John Breckinridge 30
- For Circuit Judge
 - James E. Clay 56
 - John J. Young Jr. 44
- For State Senator
 - Bruce Bots 78
 - Ed J. Kelley 22
- For Representative
 - Melvin "Frosty" Hardin 51
 - Allie W. Young Jr. 49
- For Circuit Court Clerk (Republican)
 - Herb Bradley 52
 - Lattie Powers 48
- For Circuit Court Clerk (Democrat)
 - Wathan Armstrong 62
 - Virgil Adkins 38

An effort to prevent rigging by partisans of one side or the other, the programs are not announced in advance. Whitaker makes no claim of scientific accuracy; rather, he points out, it is an interesting exercise in trying to follow the public's mind.

She Has Opinions - And Ideas, Also

Judy Caudill, a student at the Johnson School, has some comments on the schedule of the school bus which she rides to and from school.

Recently, Judy expressed her feelings in a letter to the editor of this newspaper. She said:

"I think that the Little Bus down at Johnson runs too early.

"Because some mornings he will run about 7:30 or 8:00 o'clock that is early to suit me. I think they should run about 8:15 or 8:30 that would be lots better.

"Also, in the evening he runs too late. He runs about 4:30 that is a half hour that we wait. He should come just as soon as we get out of school."

Sincerely Yours

She's A Pretty Busy Mother, We'd Say

Many Missionsists will remember Gay Banks, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Banks, as an accomplished musician. Gay is now known as Mrs. David Helreich of Port Richey, Fla., and despite being the parents of six, both she and her husband are members of the Tampa Philharmonic.

Recently, the Tampa Tribune devoted a full page to a story on the distasteful side of the orchestra and this is what the newspaper had to say about Gay:

"Having babies during the concert season has been managed by some of the women playing with the Philharmonic. Mrs. Helreich had her sixth child on Feb. 8, and she was back with the Philharmonic in time for the next performance . . . on Mar. 7.

"Maestro Anzoni was worried because he thought the baby I told him all along that the baby would be on time and he was, she said."

"Her two-year-old was born in May, 1961, just five days after the season ended. Her three-year-old was born the August before she joined the orchestra."

In a biographical sketch on Mrs. Helreich, the Tribune article said: "Each the Tribune article said: 'Gay Helreich and her husband, David, leave their six children with a sister and commute to Tampa with their mother for concerts and rehearsals. Both play the French horn with the orchestra. Pat, a soloist, teaches music at Patrick Harbor Junior High and privately.

"The children, ages 8, 6, 4, 2, and 6 weeks keep Mrs. Helreich busy, but she still finds time to practice. This is her third season with the orchestra. She had to take the youngest to several rehearsals.

"The four children not in school went along with the Helreichs to a recital on Wednesday, concert in Plant City. The three and four-year-olds were absorbed by the music and Mrs. Helreich, principal and soloist, teaches music at Patrick Harbor Junior High and privately.

"Mr. and Mrs. Helreich were up when they heard their talking in the front row, but Maestro Anzoni took it calmly.

"They're all right," he assured them, "just play!"

It May Get Lousy 'Rougher' Lous

This campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor promises to be a rough one. This quadrennial contest seems on the verge of topping them all at the state level.

Fortunately, Rowan County has for years avoided the mid-campaign to that level. Personality campaigns that have been common in some nearby counties, this year's campaign has anything to do with it, the present campaign here will not deteriorate to that level.

High-type leadership on both sides agree that nothing can tarnish a county's name more quickly than for its people to get involved in name-calling political contest. The reputation, but of our entire area can be severely damaged by such an affair.

We expect to carefully screen all political advertisements and political statements intended for publication in the next three weeks and we'll reject right abruptly any that we feel would tend to defame this section.

You're On Your Own This Derby Day

It's a mournful state of affairs, but our Kentucky Derby handicapper, a fellow who publicly makes known the results of only one race a year, has failed to come up with selections.

Whether its preoccupation with other affairs, whether he can't decide whether to try and fill in for a man with himself, or whether he's just plain forgetful that Saturday is Derby Day, we don't know.

We wouldn't presume to try and fill in for a man with himself, or whether he's just plain forgetful that Saturday is Derby Day, we don't know.

Lonne Ward, 30, Morehead, born May 9, 1937, daughter of Joe and Malisa Hall Ward, died Apr. 4.
Law Stewart, 96, Morehead, born Apr. 19, 1867, son of Alexander and Margaret Pigman Stewart, died Apr. 7.

"They weren't the good old days," Richard M. Scammon, director of the Census Bureau said in an interview. "They were the bad old days."
"Child deaths were way up. The standard of living was much lower. It's true that beer might have cost only a nickel a stein but the wages were 20 cents an hour and they usually were for a 60 or 70 hour week."
"No, the good old days exist only in people's minds and that's where they should stay."

Under questioning of Sen. George A. Smathers, (D-Fla.) Scammon explained that an explosion in population, a gain in real purchasing power and a higher education level had tarnished the allure of the past.
Scammon said the U.S. population will hit 210 or 215 million persons by 1970, time of the next national census, compared with about 169 million right now.
Starting population gains will continue in Florida, California and a few other states, Scammon told Smathers, while others gain less rapidly and a few even decline.

We can take a certain amount of what is known as "small talk" but we have, upon occasions, heard too much of it.

Chandler Pledges Roads, School Aid; Raps Former Congressman

Addressing overflow crowds at both Greenup and Olive Hill Friday, former governor and state legislator pledged support for road and school programs, reiterated his backing of organized labor and declared he would restore "fiscal sanity" to state government.

Chandler, seeking to become the first person ever elected to the terms as Kentucky's chief executive, also discussed local activities in both the Greenup County and Carter County addresses.

At Greenup he told a crowd estimated at 400 in the courthouse and another 200 outside listening on a public address system, that he was "temporarily" in Morehead. He learned that Joe B. Bates was opposing him, but said he found the probable reason for his opposition.

"He holds a special service contract with the Combs administration," Chandler revealed.

At Olive Hill, Chandler spoke to the largest audience of his campaign. The manager of a drive-in theatre where the meeting was held estimated the crowd at 5,200 and pointed out that by actual count 882 cars had entered the theatre for the speech.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate told the Olive Hill gathering that he had done more for Carter County "during my last administration than any other governor since Union" - probably more than all other governors combined.

He said over $3 million in road improvements came to Carter County during his administration.

Chandler also said that he heard the report that some people were criticizing him for neglecting the principal speech at the annual meeting of "Friends of Schools" in Carter County in 1951.

"If you blame me for this, I especially ask you to include the name of those people who were present, accepted the name invitation."

(This was after I had reorganized the state government and had a sound basis... it is probable that the governor's office could have handled him as the congressman from your district.

"I called a special election on June 15, 1952, and I was elected in every race he has made since that time. I was elected for me when I ran for governor. During the campaign he asked me to support him for senator against Earl Clements. I told him I would do that... a decision I was later to regret.

"Could Not Win"

"It became obvious to me at the outset of the 1952 senatorial campaign that Mr. Bates could not defeat Senator Clements. We tried to persuade Mr. Bates to stay out of the race. He was adamant, and stressed that I had told him I would give him my support.

"As I have done all my life, I live up to that commitment. I supported with all the resources at my command Mr. Bates for senator. I had a large number of supporters, insisted from the outset that this was a hopeless cause.

"Mr. Bates, advised he could not beat Senator Clements, had the good reply: 'I'm going to run if I don't get but two votes, my wife's and my own.'

"Personally, I do not believe in running for as high a post in the U.S. Senate.

"I know the story - Mr. Bates was unsuccessful. That was politically costly to my administration. It created an image over the Commonwealth that probably kept Harry Lee out of the governorship.

"A few weeks ago I was saddened to learn that Mr. Bates had died. I was glad to hear of his death and his support candidate. When I learned that he sat on the platform at the annual meeting of the Little Judge's Little Candidate he does not now hold a personal service contract with the state, but "I wish a contract for another Governor who was named to a federal position."

"I have certified titles under both Republican and Democratic administrations," the Greenup attorney said. "I had such a contract with the Eisenhower administration."

Bates said his break with Chandler came about as a result of Chandler's alliance with former Senator Earl C. Clements, the man who defeated Bates in 1952.

He said he told Chandler "more than a year ago in Greenup" that his alliance with Earl Clements could only be described as an obscene collusion and brazen defeat of the sensible voters of Kentucky.

"The Judge's puppet candidate probably didn't even know there was such a highway until he started running for governor. The truth is he probably didn't even know there were such things as Russell, Greenup, Putnam, Boone, Lincoln, South Shore and South Portsmouth.

"I am also the only governor who ever did anything about the eventual freeing-from-bonds the U.S. Grand Bridge. After legislative negotiations for the purchase of this land, the citizens didn't want to sell this lucrative money-maker which had drained your money for decades and through many state administrations that were unconcerned about this bridge.

"While these negotiations were in progress the owners of the bridge - the Dravo Company of Pittsburgh - seeing that we meant business, they agreed to negotiations with the State of Ohio for sale of the structure.

"To Learn Bridge Status"

"The State of Ohio advised that the bridge would be freed after the purchase price, plus interest, was paid for through tolls. As soon as I return to the governor's office I intend... and pledge to you to ascertain the status of the Department of Highways at Columbus, Ohio, to determine the status of the U.S. Grand Bridge, and move toward making it toll free.

"The Combs administration has entirely ignored their citizens' impressions that it is none of their business.

"Let us look further into the past record and you can only judge what a man will do in the future by what he has done in the past.

"Greenup County has been my friend... and I, in turn, have been the friend of your progressive industrial and farming county."

"During my past administration I built, improved, or blacktopped 68 miles of Greenup County roads at a cost of $674,380.22. The Combs administration has built, improved, or blacktopped only 29.5 miles.

"To mention a few of the roads I built, or improved: Frankfort-Rogers, Levens in Harlan; Access road to Columbia, Hydrocarbon plant; U.S. 23 - Bellefonte (Lumines); U.S. 23 - Hollow; Kehoe-Lower School; Lost Creek; Wurtland-Worthington; Route 102; Fullerton-Olive Hill; and Greenup-Ashtand.

"You may expect the same consideration and fair treatment to your roads, and all other public projects... during my next administration."

Flatwoods Mayor Cecil Castle introduced Chandler.

"Conceding his high speech at the 'Friends of Schools' program in Carter County Chandler said:

"On a recent visit to Carter County I was surprised to find little disillusioned... to learn how some misinformed people, or holders of state jobs or special service contracts... were criticizing me for making a speech in 1951 at your annual 'Friends of Schools' day.

"This evening I want to clarify... and emphasize... my position.

"I accepted this invitation from the some 1,000 Carter Countyans who had formed the 'Friends of Schools' organization. Although it was proffered by Sam Homan McGuire it was explained to me that the 'Friends of Schools' organization was officially charged with the duty of presenting to me... 'I do not see how I could possibly be criticized for that decision... or my remarks... on that occasion two years ago.

"In addition the engineering, planning and design for Ky. 1 was set up during my last administration and Federal Engineer J. C. Cobb was running for governor. The truth is he probably didn't even know there were such things as Russell, Greenup, Putnam, Boone, Lincoln, South Shore and South Portsmouth.

"I made a speech in 1952 at Russell, Greenup, Putnam, Boone, Lincoln, South Shore and South Portsmouth. I told you that I would improve U.S. 69 from east of Olive Hill to west of Olive Hill. This includes your Main Street. Did I do what I said I would? I did.

"I am also the only governor who ever did anything about the eventual freeing-from-bonds the U.S. Grand Bridge. After legislative negotiations for the purchase of this land, the citizens didn't want to sell this lucrative money-maker which had drained your money for decades and through many state administrations that were unconcerned about this bridge.

"The President of the United States is cutting taxes... most governors realize the people have had enough and the goose that lays the golden egg is about to be killed... the Indiana legislature last week killed a proposed two percent sales tax by a three to one vote."

"In 1951 I doubled the school per capita from $6 to $12 established the school retirement program, but when I returned to office in 1952 I found it was bankrupt and put $7 million in that fund... the school people said in 1952 the per capita should be increased from $42 to $80. And I increased it to $80 without any sales tax."

He was introduced at Olive Hill by State Senator Bert Kiser.

1,000 STUDENTS EXPECTED

Second Senior Day Scheduled Saturday

The second of two high school senior days will be held on the Morehead State College campus Saturday.

Over 1,000 seniors from 17 high schools will be on the campus Saturday. The first senior day, with over 1,500 seniors from 21 high schools, was held Friday, Apr. 26.

A registration and visitation period is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. until 10 a.m. followed by a general assembly in the Morehead Fieldhouse.

The college choir and band will perform and Morehead students will discuss social, recreational and religious opportunities at the college.

Roger L. Wilson, Dean of Students, will bring greetings. Monroe Wicker, director of School Services, will preside.

Sing-Along Following the general assembly, the visiting students will meet in various academic interest groups followed by a sing-along in Button Auditorium. Lunch will be served in the college cafeteria.

Tours of the campus will be held in the afternoon. The day will conclude with refreshments and social events in the Doran Student House.

High schools attending Saturday's senior day were: Aberdeen-Huntington, Deming, Estill County High, Inez, Jefferson Local, Lewis County High, Laurel, M. C. Napier, Owsingville, Rowan County High, Wheelwright, Camargo, Morgan County, Sardinia, Warfield, and Wolfe County.

High schools attending last Friday's senior day were: Blaine, Boyd County, Breathitt County, Breckinridge Training School, Camargo, Callertown, Carter City, Dubois, Ezel, Fleming County, Greenup County, Harrison County, Hazel Green Academy, Highlands, Hitches, Laurel, McKell, Menifee

'Bonus' Comes To County Road Funds

Efficiency in administering the Rural Highway County Aid Program has resulted in a bonus for Kentucky's 120 counties.

Highway Commissioner Henry said that $449,130 has been saved through better management practices. He credited the bulk of the savings to bringing both the state's rural programs under one administrative organization in 1960.

The savings amount to one and a half times the amount reserved for administration each year. By law, administrative expenses of the Rural Highway program are limited to six percent of the annual appropriation of $5,000,000.

T. R. Marum, deputy commissioner for Rural Highways, said the savings would be distributed among the 120 counties. According to a formula in use for many years, one-third of the $449,130 will be divided equally among the counties, another third will be allotted according to rural population, and the final third will be apportioned on the basis of rural area.

For Rowan County, the savings in administering the Rural Highway County Aid Program total $53,352, an amount which already has been credited to the county's Rural Highway account in the Records of Highways.

Lending Institutions Bulging With Money For Home Buying

If you're thinking about buying a new home, this is a good time to make your move. The mortgage money market is fairly bulging.

Not only is there plenty of money available from lending institutions for home purchases, the chances are you will find the interest rates a good deal more attractive on the money you borrow.

These are conclusions drawn by the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB) in a survey of the spring mortgage market.

In all three major areas of borrowing for home purchases — by conventional loan, FHA-insured loan and GI loan — there is more mortgage money available and the interest rates are generally more attractive than a year ago.

The competition for mortgage business is beneficial in two ways to the family that is changing homes — selling one and buying another. Lower interest rates are available in many areas on GI loans — those guaranteed by the Veterans Administration — and FHA loans, insured by the Federal Housing Administration, as well as conventional loans.

In selling, this could mean less outlay for "points" — the "discount" the seller must pay between the maximum interest rate allowed under the FHA and GI loans and the actual amount advanced by a lender. Each "point" is roughly equivalent to one-eighth percent interest.

Lending institutions simply will not set out money for mortgages at the 5 1/2 FHA interest maximum and the 5 1/4 GI loan maximum. The seller, rather than the purchaser, pays the "points" between the maximum allowed and the rate an institution will lend the money.

This works the other way around for the seller in his deal for a new house.

The NAREB said its survey of the mortgage market showed it has been years since there was as much money now available for FHA loans. It said reports from around the country indicated that "the source for FHA mortgages are as readily accessible as conventional loan funds."

The availability of GI loan money has been even greater over the past year, the NAREB said. It described the increase in VA-guaranteed loan funds over last year as "spectacular."

Other reports recently have indicated there is no major scarcity of homes available for purchase.

'Mother Of Year' For State From Bowling Green

Mrs. Bert R. Smith, a woman who reared two sons and found time to wage a vigorous crusade against tuberculosis among other activities, was honored at Morehead Saturday as Kentucky's "Mother of the Year" for 1962.

Mrs. Smith, 69, of Bowling Green, received the award at a luncheon at Morehead State College. She will go to New York next month to compete for the title of "American Mother of the Year."

Mrs. Smith was born in a log cabin in Graves County. Her mother died of tuberculosis when Mrs. Smith was 15, and, as her father was injured, she and a brother took over the family dairy operation.

Mrs. Smith attended Mayfield High School, Western Kentucky Normal, forerunner of Western Kentucky State College, and Peabody College, among other schools. She taught at Cuba High School in Graves County two years before she married Dr. Smith in 1917.

Dr. Smith served in school posts at Owensboro, Clinton and Nashville before they moved to Bowling Green, where he joined the Education Department at Western and served 38 years. He retired in 1956 and died in 1961.

Mrs. Smith has two sons, Ralston M. Smith, 43, an engineer in the Military Air Force Depot, Memphis, and Dr. Charles B. Smith, 39, a psychiatrist and neurologist at Nashville.

Clean-Up Plan Must Continue Combs Avers

Kentucky's clean-up and beautification program is one that Kentuckians must keep working at, Bert Combs told approximately 250 city and county officials and civic leaders from throughout the state during a recent Frankfort meeting.

Combs told the beautification meeting audience he must continue to keep our roads clean, plant flowers, shrubs, and trees at our homes and in our towns, paint and fix up our stores and city buildings.

The governor, in proclaiming the period from Apr. 15 to May 15 as Kentucky Clean-up and Beautification Month, has asked "all citizens, through their municipalities, schools, educational and religious groups, civic and social organizations to band together to remove accumulations of litter and trash and to help make Kentucky a cleaner, greener state — now and forever."

Fines Meted Out To Officials In Montgomery Co.

Montgomery County Deputy Sheriff Beauford Sorrell was fined $24 Friday for failing to pay delinquent parking tickets. He was one of four officials cited recently on the same charge.

Sorrell, who also serves as dog warden, said he had refused to pay because he was on official business when the tickets were issued.

After the trial before Police Judge Robert Wood, Sorrell announced he no longer would accept calls to pick up stray dogs in the city of Mt. Sterling. He also posted bond of $1,000 and indicated he would appeal Wood's decision.

Others who were required to pay parking tickets were County Judge Cas Lane, City Attorney William Presant, and Police Chief William Frederick.

Ashland Man Heads Alumni Body At MSC

James G. Gibson, Ashland, has been elected president of the Morehead State College Alumni Association and Lobby Council, Louisville, has been named vice-president.

Gibson earned the bachelor's degree in 1958 and the master's degree in 1959. He taught in Rowan County a year and served as principal for two years at Mt. Orab, O. Gibson has been at Ashland since 1961 as vice-principal at Colton Junior High School.

Control received the bachelor's degree in 1959. He teaches business education at Butler High school and is a member of the board of directors of the Jefferson County Education Association.

Members elected to the executive council of the Alumni Association are: Ted L. Crosslivate, Bardonia; Lucien H. Rice, Lexington; Harold Ross, Cincinnati; Terry McBrayer, Greenup; Johnny R. Duncan, Cincinnati; Emma Lee Friedman, Owensville; Henry Lee Pritchard, Beallsville; O. Francis Cain, Louisville; Custer Reynolds, Wilmore; and Joyce Chance, Morehead.

All will serve two-year terms. They will be installed at a banquet meeting May 25 in the college cafeteria.

General Telephone To Spend $120,000 In Salt Lick Area

General Telephone Company of Kentucky will spend more than $120,000 on projects to serve present and future customers in the Salt Lick-Midland area of Bath County as announced this week by M. E. Keller, district manager of the firm. Nearly 50 miles of buried and aerial phone lines will be contained in projects which will be completed by Aug. 18. At that time the Salt Lick switching center will be placed in service.

The switching center will initially serve 250 customers in that section. All telephones assigned to the new center will have seven digits with a prefix or a three number prefix "683" instead of the present 674, he added.

Bates for service will be the same as they are for the Owensville and Sharpburg exchanges. When these projects are finished, local calls can be completed between Salt Lick, Owensville, and Sharpburg by dialing the telephone number listed in the directory. Long distance calls will be handled by operators at the company's Morehead office, Keller said. The completion of these projects will provide that portion of Bath County with the latest in modern telephone service, as part of General Telephone Company of Kentucky's program to continually supply improved service to its customers, Keller declared.

General Telephone Company of Kentucky has a total plant investment of nearly $60,000,000 and serves more than 150,000 telephones in Kentucky. The company is a subsidiary of General Telephone and Electronics Corporation, the nation's largest independent system, serving over 5,300,000 telephones in the United States and abroad according to the district manager.

4 Seriously Burned In Morgan County Blaze Last Friday

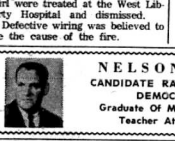

A young couple and their two children were burned early Friday, two seriously, when fire destroyed their home at Dellart, Morgan County.

The fire started in the attic and the burning ceiling fell in a.m. and 1:30 a.m. The four were unable to escape through the door of the small frame house because of the flames, but managed to get out through a window.

Two of the family, Mrs. Reba McGuire, 22, and Dennis McGuire, 8 months, were burned seriously. The father, Ronald McGuire, about 25, and Brenda McGuire, 3 1/2 years, were burned less seriously.

Mrs. McGuire and her son were taken to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington. Both were reported in fair condition. McGuire and the girl were treated at the West Liberty Hospital and discharged.

Defective wiring was believed to be the cause of the fire.

Schools Save $1,000 On Bus Buying

The State Department of Education has helped local school districts save as much as $1,000 each on the purchase of new school buses ordered this year, an education official has announced.

Louis Yandall, director of the Education Department's Division of Pupil Transportation, said the savings have been made possible by a contract worked out last year by the state and a school bus manufacturer. The contract covers several hundred dollars off the prevailing price of school buses.

Yandall said that local districts must order buses through his division in order to get the lower price. Prior to 1962, school districts bought buses on individual price contracts. Nearly all districts now buy buses through the state, Yandall said.

Delivery of 328 new buses ordered by 98 county and independent school districts in the state is expected to be made before Aug. 1, Yandall said.

National Economy Information Supplied By Southern Colleges

By WINFRED L. GODWIN

The national debt and unemployment, production costs and college textbooks to be found around the back pages of the front pages of the nation's papers.

They are referred to in many contexts — the domestic economy, international trade, foreign aid, politics here and abroad, and social problems at many levels.

All of the talk and the recurring worry about another recession or depression has whetted America's appetite for information about its economic system and what, besides the Wall Street machines, makes it tick.

At the Universities of South Carolina and Mississippi, the regular sophomore economics courses are built around the American Economy broadcasts.

At the University of Chattanooga uses its basic principles of economics courses to tell how a free enterprise economy works with special attention to determination of prices and income shares.

At Charleston, W. Va., Morris Harvey College offers an advanced television course on contemporary economic problems.

East Carolina College alerts its students and surrounding community an economics course dealing with American business practices and public policy as it relates to these practices.

TO STUDY TFX PROGRAM

An extensive new study will be made on the cost of the TFX warplane. The study will take up to 60 days and may provide a cooling-off period in the hot dispute over whether the contract for the fighter-bombers would cost taxpayers unnecessary millions of dollars.

The confusion that once surrounded the issue is best exemplified by Louisville's battle with time. In 1946, the Board of Aldermen passed a Daylight Saving Time ordinance only to have it nullified by the Court of Appeals.

Nothing Can Match Federal Government's Size, Its Complexity Or Its

Civilian Workers Total In Excess Of 2.5 Million

In its size, diversity and complexity, nothing can match the vast federal government.

Its 2.5 million civilian employees would fill sprawling Los Angeles.

It hires more people than the nation's 10 largest industrial firms combined.

To keep pace with the turnover requires 300,000 new employes a year, almost equal to the population of Wyoming.

A small army of 2,000 investigators checks on potential workers to see whether they are reasonably competent and sober and unquestionably loyal.

Yet the government's size, staggering as it is, is far easier to comprehend than its diversity and complexity.

Most of us still think of government work as typing or tending the mail.

We could not be more wrong.

The government — that is, we taxpayers — hires more engineers than it does clerks typists. Government laboratories and installations are staffed by 160,000 scientists, engineers and technicians.

As for the inventor, that once lonely inventor in garage or attic, well, the government has so many the "Civil Service Journal" needed, two issues to discuss them.

Only a civil service expert could know that the government employs:

- 27 neurologists, who puzzle over parasites.
- Termites?
- CALL BRUCE TERMINIX!
- "World's biggest termite control organization"
- Against Termites
- Termites Damage
- RECOMMENDED NATIONALLY BY OVER 1800 LUMBER DEALERS
- For free literature, call

35 mycologists, who study fungi.

228 specialists in geodesy, who fret about gravitational pull and the earth's curves while measuring vast areas.

123 cadastral surveyors, who get boundaries properly bounded, and 2 psychodramatists, who work on skills designed to help mental patients face real life situations.

Automation has hit government, too. So we have 481 employees involved in digital computer systems administration. These are not to be confused with the 413 in peripheral computer equipment operation.

But most jobs aren't difficult to understand. The government needs and hires everything from beauticians to glassblowers to funeral directors.

And in this wonderful age, when we seem to get more and more mail that says less and less, we require 589,284 postal workers to keep the mail flowing.

To make, sure the money rolls in to pay for these and other services the civilian payroll is tremendous. $3,256,000,000 a month — we employ 10,946 watchful Internal Revenue Service agents.

Even bare statistics give insights into government's complexity.

Up-to-the-instant data is collected on everyone on everything, but some of these facts on government itself, although the latest available, are almost two years old.

Nearly every dispute before Congress, its various committees and the federal government, its size and its nature. Yet for all this oratorical din, it is surprising how few of us know the vast and vital role government plays in our lives.

Let's look at what it is and how we use it where we are, and guess at what the future holds.

In 1784 the U.S. Army consisted of 80 privates commanded by Capt. John Doughty. Now the armed forces have 2,701,325 in uniform, including 334,588 officers.

When James Madison was secretary of state, his department had nine men, including a messenger. The State Department now has 41,091 employees.

Starting with George Washington, this government picked its workers with some regard for merit. But with Andrew Jackson a great change came, which was summed up in a speech by Sen. William Learned Marcy. On Jan. 21, 1832, Marcy told the Senate: "To the victor belong the spoils."

And so, to the discredit of the nation, they did.

With each new administration, clerks, messengers, janitors and flunkies were swept from their jobs and a new batch, whose careers were partly loyalty, took their places.

As usual, Abraham Lincoln said most.

While Civil War raged, he complained of the endless page seekers: "I am like a man so busy letting rooms at one end of the house that he has no time left to put out a fire that is blazing and destroying the other end."

During an attack of smallpox, Lincoln wryly observed: "Tell all the officers here to come in at once, for now I have something I can give to all of them."

Reforms come slowly. Ironically, they are made by the government.

The White House became a disorderly employment agency.

On Mar. 26, 1881, Charles Giteau wrote President James A. Garfield to say he wanted to be U.S. consul in Paris. In one sentence he gave the philosophy of the spoils system.

"The men that did the business here," Giteau said, "are the ones to be remembered."

Garfield saw no reason to remember Giteau; he didn't answer the letter.

It was a fatal error.

On July 2, 1881, while Garfield was in the old Baltimore and Potomac station in Washington for a train to take him on a tremendous strike him, President died Sept. 19. The bullet which killed him also killed the spoils system, although it, too, had a lingering death.

The nation was at last shocked into setting up a civil service system, in which merit, not party ties, was to be decisive. At the start only one job in 10 was covered, now nine out of 10 are competitive.

But this growth was slow, and there were many setbacks.

Looking back over this 80-year history, civil service buffs like to think the most interesting thing that ever happened to them was Theodore Roosevelt.

From 1889 until 1892 the flamboyant Teddy was a civil service commissioner, and he defended his workers with a vigor that seems shocking in this timorous age.

Pointing to a speech by Sen. Arthur P. Gorman of Maryland, Roosevelt bluntly told the senators: "There is not one word of truth in this statement from beginning to end; each individual assertion is a falsehood."

What bureaucrat today would dare call a senator a liar?

Theodore Roosevelt gave civil service a firm respectability. Franklin Roosevelt, through the New Deal, World War II and an increasingly complex society, expanded it far beyond the boldest dreams of its first planners.

Once a typical government worker probably was a female typist.

Today a civil service includes: Joe Walker, physicist, Walker joined the government in 1945, and, as an employee of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, soared in his X15 rocket to a record height, 46,7 miles. The highest flying physicist of all time.

Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, drug detective. An employee of the Food and Drug Administration, her skepticism kept thalidomide off the market, thereby preventing the great deformities of the children of Harry F. Hawkins Jr., weather man. A long range forecaster and a hurricane tracer, he is working on his Ph.D. degree at Florida State University.

Brenda Abbott, laboratory technician. On the floor of one building at the National Institute of Health is this ominous sign: "Anyone who has been in contact with polio virus do not enter."

At a microscope inside is Miss Abbott, 27, of Natick, Mass., fresh out of college and presumably virus free. Jobs with drug firms pay better, but she prefers the government. "Much more in-resting work," she says.

The lot could go on and on. For the federal government not only touches almost all our lives daily; it also touches, and hires workers in, almost all communities.

For those who worry about federal encroachment always look darkly at Washington, and it is true the capital has more federal employees than any other city — for any state. But the District of Columbia's quarter of a million federal workers are almost matched by those of California.

By skipping through a federal employment table you will find that New York, normally not considered a hotbed of federalism, has 129,478. Chicago has 68,847, Philadelphia 72,068, Los Angeles 68,709, Denver a mere 10,000, Las Vegas, Nev., and 825 in West Palm Beach, Fla.

It can be seen by now that filling these widely scattered jobs is a herculean task, and the civil service chairman, John W. Macy Jr., is acutely aware of it.

At 46, Macy has spent most of his working life as a government employee. Despite endless committee meetings, despite the frustrations inherent in his work, he remains enthusiastic and buoyant.

Although even well informed people may think otherwise, the Civil Service Commission hires nobody. It lines up what it hopes are suitable candidates for departments and agencies. There the final choice is made.

A couple of statistics will show why: Two-thirds of all money spent on research in this country is spent by us taxpayers. Two-thirds of the government research money is spent by the Department of Defense. Now a final misconception to clear up, one that annoys Commissioner Macy most of all:

Everyone seems to think now that if a government employee can't be fired for voting the wrong way he can't be fired at all.

In Mr. Macy's words:

"Particularly trying is the popular assumption that they're there for ever."

Not true. Not true at all, Macy said.

Fourteen thousand government workers were fired in each of the past four years.

As you can see, in government even dismissals are a big operation.

New Elizabethown Plant To Hire 60

W. W. Peterson, general manager of Dow Corning Corporation's engineering products division, has announced that a new plant to cost $2,500,000 and to employ about 60 persons initially will be located in Elizabethtown.

The plant will mix and package silicones in their rubber form. These structural sealants are used in the construction industry to join panels of certain wall on the outside of buildings. Another use is to house electronic equipment in space capsules.

Dow Corning is owned by the Dow Chemical Company and the Corning Glass Works.

Government being what it is, and Americans being what they are, it is likely criticism will continue. And despite criticism, it is likely that government will continue to expand into even more complex fields.

A couple of statistics will show why: Two-thirds of all money spent on research in this country is spent by us taxpayers. Two-thirds of the government research money is spent by the Department of Defense. Now a final misconception to clear up, one that annoys Commissioner Macy most of all:

Everyone seems to think now that if a government employee can't be fired for voting the wrong way he can't be fired at all.

In Mr. Macy's words:

TOTAL PERFORMANCE:

STRAIGHT AHEAD

IF YOU KNEW WHAT HE KNOWS...YOU'D BE DRIVING THE 1963 TOTAL PERFORMANCE FORD

Ford is traditionally the nation's Number One police car. The reason: Total Performance.

When it comes to ease the police don't take chances. Put yourself in a State Trooper's shoes. Every day you must patrol hundreds of miles in your cruiser. Mileage and time grind into a man and his machine. But when the bell rings you've got to be ready. Chase. Turn. Corner. Quick stop. You've got to be able to do it all at once going to do your job.

Listen to a trooper tell the reasons why he prefers a Ford and you realize how difficult it is for any car to measure up to his standards. The car must be strong... it has to stand up to big mileage. It must be silent... when you practically live in a car a rattle can sound like a kettle drum. It must be swift... powerful enough to catch any car on the road. It must be silent... dependable even in the face of the unexpected. Strong. Silent. Swift. Sure. A four word outline of total performance. The police demand it. That is why they choose the total performance Ford. Why should you settle for anything less?

'Lincoln Trail' Covers 900 Miles; Distinctive Plaques Due Soon

Motorists in Kentucky, Indiana, and Illinois will soon become familiar with a brand new highway marker. It's a round plaque showing a head-on profile of the young Abraham Lincoln and bearing the legend "Lincoln Heritage Trail."

It will mark a new historical route that connects places of importance in the life of Lincoln and his family. Approximately 900 miles of main highways comprise the main trail but each state has additional loops the motorist may explore.

The governors of the three states and their entourage met for luncheon at Kentucky Dam Village Apr. 16 to put their final approval on the Lincoln Heritage Trail. The governor of Iowa sat in as an observer.

Sparked by the American Petroleum Institute's travel department office, the trail program was assembled in record time. The idea was born in January 1962. Three conferences, at Springfield, Ill., Indianapolis, and Louisville, determined the actual route, approved the design of the marker along with a four-color brochure and countless miscellaneous details.

Copies of the brochure, 200,000 of which have been printed, were distributed at the luncheon. Total cost of the program, shared equally by the three states, is about $3,300. It is expected that one million brochures will be distributed during 1963. Costs of advertising and promoting the Lincoln Heritage Trail will be borne by civic organizations and commercial interests seeking to promote highway travel in some form.

Bill Knight, acting director of Kentucky's Tourist and Travel Bureau, told the group that the new trail fits in ideally with the state's tourist promotion program.

Rain Is Needed For Strawberry Crop In State

Kentucky's strawberry crop is in trouble if the state does not get rain soon. Agriculture Commissioner Emerson (Dale) Beauchamp said this week.

A good apple crop is in prospect, but the severe winter weather practically wiped out the peach crop, he said.

The state marketing director, C. Harold Bray, said a good rain within the next week might save the strawberry crop. Average strawberry production in Kentucky is about a hundred 16-quart crates per acre.

Won't Go Away

Aid For Schools Via Tax Relief Is Recurring Idea In Congress

The idea of federal school aid through tax relief, like the little man who was, there, has been proclaimed by experts to be a fixture of the imagination. But it still won't go away.

The bills have aroused even more interest than usual in the 86th Congress. In the months since Congress convened, more than 100 members of the House and Senate have sponsored legislation of this sort.

This year, for the first time, tax relief for educational expenses is given a slim chance, for several reasons. In past years, the strongest supporters of such bills knew they were backing unbeatable Treasury and White House opposition.

The government officials' principal objection is that the relief would cost too much. Educators argue the proposals would help some families hard-hit by no guarantee they would help the schools.

All the measures vary widely. Most would give tax relief for the expenses of sending a boy or girl through college. Some would cover the expenses of private and grade and high school levels.

The kind of tax relief offered makes a difference, both to the taxpayer and the government. For example, if a deduction were permitted for college tuition, books and living expenses up to $1,000 a year, the Treasury could figure on losing $750 million in tax revenues.

Area Postmasters Get Senate Nod

The senate has confirmed these Kentucky postmaster nominations by President Kennedy: Joseph L. Thomas, Glendale; Edward A. Runyan, James; James E. Morris, Nono; James H. Hicks, New Haven; Charles M. Crawford, Olive Hill; James C. Tracy, Smithland; Mary B. McCormack, Sparta.

Horseback Riding Added To Features At 2 More Parks

Horseback riding will be available this summer in two additional state parks — Lake Cumberland and Jeremy Wilby.

Charles Spears, director of recreation for the Department of Parks, reports that work is now under way to provide necessary facilities in each park. He said everything is expected to be ready when this year's program of supervised recreation is launched June 1.

Facilities in each park include a barn where the horses will be kept overnight; a covered hitching post; and two-and-a-half miles of scenic riding trails.

A Straight Truthful Message Vital To Young Democrats!

Kentucky voters will decide the state's fate for many years to come when they vote in the Primary Election, Tuesday, May 28, because: This state is debt ridden to the tune of something like $600,000,000, right now, as a result of an extravagant, inefficient, wasteful administration of its people's business under Governor Combs. The biggest part of this debt, you, your children and their children will be paying, experts say, for the next 30 years. Governor Combs has, apparently, relied upon a Money Tree which everybody else, except his hand-picked candidate for Governor, knows does not exist.
