COULD BE ANOTHER EDDIE ARCARO

Jerry Stamper, Farmers, Aims At Riding On Major 'Tracks'

Rowan County has a thoroughbred race track jockey - the first in its 107 year old history. He is Jerry Stamper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Stamper of Farmers.
As a boy, and teen-ager, Jerry was first opportunity as an apprentice aboard Stappy Win, a 4-51 longshot. "I would have won that race if it had been longer than 4 1/2 lengths because I was starting to move," Jerry said.
He also passed along this inside from the jockey's money information: "Snappy Win will win the next time out if I ride her and the distance is about six or six and a half lengths." (A furlong is one-eighth of a mile.)
Hedley Woodhouse is the best jockey in the nation, according to Jerry. He was involved in a spill and the injuries put him on the shelf until this spring.
K. Haggin, nationally recognized trainer, gave Jerry his first opportunity as an apprentice aboard Stappy Win, a 4-51 longshot. "I would have won that race if it had been longer than 4 1/2 lengths because I was starting to move," Jerry said.
He also passed along this inside from the jockey's money information: "Snappy Win will win the next time out if I ride her and the distance is about six or six and a half lengths." (A furlong is one-eighth of a mile.)
Hedley Woodhouse is the best jockey in the nation, according to Jerry. He was involved in a spill and the injuries put him on the shelf until this spring.

But, he weighs only 108 pounds, low enough to take advantage of most apprentice allowances. Jerry has three brothers and two sisters. They have little interest in horses except they hope their brother becomes another Arcaro, Hartack, Shoemaker or Ycaza. These jockeys earn up to $100,000 a year.
The Rowan County jockey makes his home in Miami, Florida and expects to ride in Florida tracks this winter. Jerry is married and his wife is expecting a baby.

Dear Mister Editor:
I was reading one of them national syndicated articles to the effect that Happy Chandler and Earl Chester were has been permanently retired.
These fellows has had a lifetime of experience and has no serious doubts on this observation. I am reminded of Sol Chulterberg, an old Poision Ivy flak. Twenty years ago they said Sol had a in flak disease and a short spell to live.
His good daughter, Maribelle, was the one who has done so good as Maribelle, all came from Detroit. They made arrangements with the funeral home, even to a down payment for Sol's funeral.
And everything would be in order and they would legal-legal-legal the home place they has him make a last will and testament. They even took his only 12 country home from the most house to Detroit.
Well, Sol is still a living. One of his sons has passed and Maribelle has been in the hospital several times.
It really proves it's mighty, mighty hard to kill off these flak-kind doctors and I am sure that maybe Albert Benjamin and Earl Chester ain't plotted their last row of flak.

I see by the papers where a fellow named Edward Harriman that has charge of such matters for the Post Office Department has given permission to manufacturers to come out with some new models for rural mail boxes. He recommends the new model be put on the back side instead of the highway side so the youngsters can fetch the mail without getting hit by a truck. I didn't say how the rural mail carrier was going to stuff the mail in the backside, but I reckon one of them Government agencies will solve this problem just as soon as they get a couple million "research" appropriation from the Congress for this purpose.

Brother Harriman says the Government ain't setting no price tag on the new boxes and if a fellow wants to get himself some "status" in the community, he can have one made special, maybe gold-plated and costing $1,000 or more. Personal, I'd prefer a barrel mounted on four tower posts and opening from the bottom so's I could run the Delaware at Wilmington. He took office May 1 as president of the Chamber of Commerce and he is encouraging businessmen to help their communities solve their own problems.

Government must be kept at home as much as possible, Neelan says. "When it gets far away as Washington, you just ain't got no control here."
For the steady growth of the local economy and the building of the new state, Neelan credits the career servants.
"Never quote me as blaming the Kennedy or Eisenhower administration for the big budget," Neelan says. "The creators of our budget are the career policy-makers of the board of the Bank of

C.C. Head Thinks Businessmen Soft

Edwin N. Neelan, new president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, believes that the little "soft" and is taking things a little easy and needs to buckle down for this purpose.
When he calls businessmen "soft," Neelan, a former semi-pro tennis player, means that they are not taking the initiative to mobilize local talent and resources to solve local problems.
He is convinced that a revival of grass roots initiative and a sense of responsibility is badly needed. He says, "our cities and counties are being nationalized right out from under us."

Cave Run, Grayson Reservoirs Are Proceeding Slowly But Surely

The Louisville Courier-Journal, and other Kentucky newspapers last week reported news and feature articles, stating that a large part of Western Kentucky is economically booming.

The reason for this high economic barometer in Western Kentucky is emphasized in all the reports... It is the reservoirs and impoundment of the waters of the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers by Kentucky Dam near Gibraltarville and Barkley Dam near Kuttawa and Eddyville.

Millions of dollars in tourist business is being poured into the Paducah area. But, this is insignificant compared to the payrolls of industrial plants already under operation and the many others under construction or in the planning stage.

President Kennedy said last year that the long range economy of the nation primarily depended upon dams and reservoirs so that our waters may be impounded and used beneficially for mankind instead of being a destructive force.

Two dams are scheduled for this area of Kentucky -- the Grayson reservoir on Little Sandy near the Carter-Greener counties line, and Cave Run on Licking River on the Bath-Rowan counties line.

It is unfortunate that a few uninformed persons have voiced opposition. However, it is fortunately obvious to all that the state and Congressman Carl D. Perkins are proceeding with these two projects. In fact, they are being accelerated with all the money placed in the President's budget that the Army Corps of Engineers can use during the next fiscal year.

With the Interstate Highway, super highway facilities, and an ample labor supply through the two areas could skyrocket economically, industrially and recreationally in the next two decades.

Congressman Perkins, and Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston Morton, have properly contended in all pleadings and hearings that priority be given Grayson Reservoir and Cave Run Reservoir because these are depressed areas with high unemployment and a disturbingly high distribution of welfare checks.

President Kennedy concurs, as does Governor Bert Coombs and his predecessor, A. B. Chandler. The President, Perkins, Cooper and Morton have made it plain that the money is available for both projects. But, the engineers say they have a tremendous work load and have been reluctant to approve an appropriation for both.

Are World's Fairs Too Plentiful?

Although Seattle just completed a world fair New York is going ahead with another American world fair, scheduled to last two years. Though this New York proposition didn't get full world recognition or approval, it is nonetheless...

The result is that the United States is obviously overdoing the international fair business in the eyes of the rest of the world. One country seldom has more than one world fair in a period of a half century.

We are now giving the world the choice of bringing its dollars to two world fairs in the space of a few years, countries refuse to do so, not consistent with past world practice and common sense.

Such overemphasis on U.S. world fairs tends to support charges from other countries that the New York affair is mainly a project to bring in tourists and money to New York.

That is why some countries refuse to appropriate the money for exhibit buildings at the New York fair.

The last New York world fair was in the thirties so not even half a century has passed since the New York staged its last world fair. The 1939 fair, however, brought great publicity and many tourists to New York and no doubt the 1965-66 fair will produce the same result.

Health Care Assistance Offer From University To M'head

The Editor: This letter is to convey the University of Kentucky Medical Center's interest in and support of the efforts being made by the North East Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., the Sisters of Notre Dame, owners and administrators of the St. Claire Hospital, and the physicians in Rowan County to develop the Morehead Medical Center. The undertaking in which you are now engaged should demonstrate how a rural community can secure high quality, comprehensive medical services, and coordinate the services of family physical medical specialists in the best interest of patient care.

Your present plans, with their emphasis on the general practitioner as the primary responsibility for day-to-day medical care of families, and your efforts to meet these problems of the medical specialists you are now recruiting, the insistence upon high quality service within the hospital, and the focus upon the hospital as a community institution around which preventive, therapeutic, and rehabilitative efforts be made, all seem to be the most promising developments in the field of health services in Kentucky.

Your people are to be congratulated upon their recognition of the health needs of the people in your area, and upon your willingness to meet these needs through a new, solution oriented, and professionally staffed institution. In recognition of its responsibility to the people of Kentucky, the University of Kentucky Medical Center stands ready to assist you in your organizational efforts. We will be happy to provide the Morehead area with a new, high quality medical center. We will be happy to meet the standards and requirements of the various departments in the Medical Center and are willing to participate in the teaching program of the Medical Center. Furthermore, we are dependent upon the quality of the staff in your hospital which develops and maintains the relationship with the University of Kentucky Medical Center. We are particularly interested in the assignment of four year medical students to the Morehead Medical Center and the assignment of medical residents affiliated with selected departments in the Medical Center of the University of Kentucky. There are other ways in which the University of Kentucky Medical Center can be of help to you. There is a very good chance that Tommy (Kirk) may get to come back from a publicity tour that Disney has him on now, via bus, on his own. He phoned me and told me from Detroit last Friday that he would have one week for Disney's with Amette, Candy Candido and some others in New York. I do hope you would let him stay two weeks on his own here and make the name and location of people to see in Kentucky, including interviews like a call-back from the studio here for last minute changes, on "Hillin' Time" which is already filmed, he probably will be in Morehead. I do hope you already and I asked him to look you up. First, to thank you for your interest and support, and second, to see Morehead through the eyes of someone who knows and loves the old home town. I do hope you can spare him a little time.

Incidentally, I just received a copy of notes bearing to see a community attempt to solve its own health problems, and it is also stimulating provided by the practitioners of medicine in Rowan County. This certainly is in the finest tradition of the willingness of the American people to do something for themselves, and it is also in the tradition of medical leadership devoted only to the improved service for patients. I would encourage you people to continue in the path that you have started, one which retains

Record Set In Laying Of Concrete

A paving contractor on the Western Kentucky Parkway has set a new record for laying concrete. Arcote-Midwest Corp. of Evansville, Ind., in one workday in early June completed 3.82 linear feet (or almost two miles) of 24-foot wide, 8-inch-thick pavement in Hopkins county.

The previous record was 3,101 feet in a single day set by Pioneer Contracting Co. of Saginaw, Mich., in August 1962 on Interstate 66 near Saginaw.

"We set this new world's record without a bump or variation in the work," said Ernest A. Beederman, vice-president of the Illinois corporation.

The work force, described as normal by Beederman, accomplished its feat in about 19 1/2 hours working time.

Arcote established its record in Kentucky, despite previous jobs of a similar nature in many states. The company has paved many of the new expressways in Chicago, turkeys in Indiana, Illinois, and Pennsylvania; portions of the New York Thruway; and Orlene Field in Chicago.

Decision To Quit Politics - That is For A Month Or So

Most of our thinking, progressive, God-fearing (and paid up) readers, though, I know without we write, when we wrote in left-handed fashion last December that we were running a sandy...

1. The Rowan County News would soon cease to be a newspaper. 2. A fellow by the name of W. E. Crutcher would no longer be editor.

Unlike our Kentucky Derby predictions, we think you will not agree that both forecasts have come to pass... and successfully so, because these policy decisions were reached only after thought and meditation.

The Rowan County News was changed to the 'Morehead News', Fourth Estate trade journals editorials praised this name change, and some have given us credit for having stood the name change, and publications containing the name 'County' in the masthead followed our lead.

Actually, we were co-cops in this respect, and the name change which we had corresponded with, or contacted, other community newspapers that preceded us, we think you'll find to our credit. The Publisher installed a new editor only after long consideration and he is one of Kentucky's best.

Marvin Wilson Jr. grew up in the newspaper business. In our book Kentucky has no better editor. Probably as important, he is a native of Morehead and loves the people of Rowan County and the state of Kentucky. He has a special interest in your welfare and our people's interest in the education and the welfare of our people.

After all, two heads in the operation of a good newspaper is better than one. It will be a relief and a goal to have.

When that comes to pass you'll be agreeably surprised the kind of newspaper you'll be getting. I think we will be a case of converting what we think is Kentucky's best weekly into the best of the nation. We so predict.

WRONG AGAIN - Several subscribers complained that we didn't carry our Kentucky Derby predictions this year. We were wrong. We were right. We were wrong. We were right. We were wrong. We were right.

MISERY LOVES COMFORT - Our deck is cluttered with cards of condolence following the election. Friends piously inquire how we feel. Our answer - like the little boy who stomping his foot and crying, but was big enough that he held the toe back. Dr. to put in another way we feel like Wendell Wilkie, Tom Dewey, Adlai Stevenson and Richard Nixon. Dr. to bring it closer to home about the case as Bruce Botte and Melvin Jordan. (We could add Glenn Land to the list.)

PROGRESS - If Morehead falls to accept the United Fund program people will be making a considerable mistake. I might raise the question of whether or not these many (almost every week or so) editorial support. Most progressive communities have steered to the United Fund route.

APPLICABLE - During the recent gubernatorial campaign, Chandler often told their story about the roster rolling an article about in the barn lot and telling the hens: "Ladies, I don't like to complain but I think you ought to see what they're doing elsewhere." This should be good advice for the few people who oppose, without valid reason, construction of the Cave Run Dam. We have visited, within the past two months, TIPS ARE TAPPO - Gossamer's tips are not as good as they might well adopt in the United States. Employees at loss of their homes, and they are in the States consider it an insult to offer them a tip. It is the only area around in America. By the way, - TIP is the abbreviation, 'To Insure From'.

SUBSCRIBERS - Among this week's subscribers to the Morehead News is one Hamilton. He is relief pitcher for the New York Times. He says he enjoys the New York Times on the Dairy. He says he likes it. He says he likes it. He says he likes it.

all the major reservoirs in Kentucky. I know without we write. ENERGY TO BURN NEWS - The head State College's President Adrien Duran is an amazing and aggressive person. While his staff enjoyed a week's vacation between the spring semester and summer school Dr. Duran conducted a large revival in Tennessee. But, it he doesn't slow up he might come down with compulsive hypertension... something we know something about.

SPICES - Morehead State College is taking a basketball campus A couple weeks ago - a tall lad from Michigan; no other state college knew about this prime prospect. Last week he signed with Eastern State and he's off to the big time. "I've had me some folks on the campus. He's got as good an education as the other one, although as they pretend, although on the NSC payroll.

BLUE LIVES - The annual Kentucky Medical Conference issued a strong statement last week that "Sunday being made a holiday instead of a holiday day" means that we're not in with William C. Kibbey, Grayson, the Republican nominee. It is significant that the conference, which by its passing official made highly definable and as the law.

It is significant that the conference, which by its passing official made highly definable and as the law.

LOTS OF CARS - The Automobile Safety Council predicts that 84 million cars will be on the road in this country by the end of 1965. This is a record. The state of Kentucky has the most cars per capita in the nation. The state of Kentucky has the most cars per capita in the nation. The state of Kentucky has the most cars per capita in the nation.

Combs Plans Housing For State Elderly

Gov. Bert Combs has pledged his cooperation to improve housing for Kentucky's elderly. The governor, speaking at a meeting of the Kentucky State Council on Aging, said he would recommend to the State's correctional board his major projects during his re-election campaign.

The 16-member Commission, headed by the Rev. Walter L. Brantley, Louisville, passed a resolution commending a local official for the cooperation in bringing to Kentucky a unique federally-financed housing project for the aged. The low-rent housing is slated to be built in Manchester, Columbia, and Cave City and will be leased and operated by local non-profit organizations at a price of 25 percent of possible nationwide adoption.

Dr. H. L. McPheeters, State commissioner of mental health and chairman of the Commission's housing committee, told the governing board that 200 to 300 elderly residents of the State's four mental hospitals are not actually receiving institutional care and could live in private homes or in special housing if the facilities were available at reasonable cost.

Dr. McPheeters suggested that the Commission consider the feasibility of setting up loans to finance the construction of such facilities.

Among projects for the coming fiscal year, the Commission plans to set Federal or private institutions for more local committees for the aged, through an accelerated educational program of film presentations, slides, etc.

The Commission, created by the 1926 General Assembly, presented the governor with a report of its first year's activities, covering such fields as recreation, religious activities, employment, housing, and local organizations.

CORRECT NAME - Everybody will call it St. Claire Hospital. But, the correct name is St. Claire Medical Center. This title will be officially adopted Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Directors of Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc. Reason that Medical Center is used is because of the Professional Board and the cooperative plan of working with the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

Chandler May Charge 3 Large Newspapers Will Desert Breathitt

A top-level strategist in the Chandler-Waterfield state headquarters told this newspaper by telephone this morning that Chandler will, in due time, issue a statement saying the owners of the three largest newspapers in Kentucky have collaborated and planned for months to elect a Republican governor in November.

Louie Nunn is the Republican nominee. He will oppose Democrat Bert Breathitt who defeated Chandler by about 60,000 votes in the May 28 primary.

This top adviser to Chandler said he (Chandler) would make a statement like this —

"The owners of the Louisville Courier-Journal, the Paducah Sun-Democrat and the Lexington newspapers first planned to resort to any tactics to defeat me. They were successful in doing this, and now it is their intention to cut Breathitt's throat and help Louie Nunn. The Courier-Journal was never really for Wilson Wyatt in last year's Senatorial race. On the surface they gave him token support, but their publicity was slanted to Morton . . . and Morton got the breaks in their news coverage. They are also against President Kennedy."

"The owners of the Lexington and Paducah newspapers are playing a ring-around-the-rose game, and are now not for Breathitt."

This newspaper was unable to reach Chandler at his home in Versailles for comment.

Critics Newspaper
During the recent primary Chandler told the Associated Press that because of the scurrilous attacks on me in the campaign, it would be difficult for me to be active for Edward T. "Red" Breathitt.

Breathitt, endorsed by the Combs Administration, defeated Chandler in last month's primary by about 60,000 votes.

Plans Not Disclosed
But the former Governor held out on what would be his actual role, if any, in the fall election. "That remains to be seen," he said. "You can speculate on it if you want to."

Asked whether he will try to unify the party, Chandler replied: "I have not heard from those other former Governors. I haven't sought to hear from them, you understand."

He said Breathitt and his forces "abused me without any excuse."

Chandler was asked if he would come out for party unity treatment or if his friends should come to him seeking it.

ader said: "If I had operated the state government and committed as many illegal acts during my two terms as Governor Chandler has done in front of the Paducah Sun-Democrat with the Lexington Herald knocking the noise."

The source that divulged this information to this newspaper was asked: "Will Eric Clements do . . . what will support Breathitt?"

His answer: "I don't know. I haven't talked with Senator Clements, but I wouldn't be surprised if the truth about the truck deal is brought out."

"(The truck deal concerns Truckee Cook who served a term in the penitentiary. It was charged that Cooke arranged to sell obsolete trucks to the state for absurd prices. Cooke was Combs' state finance chairman in the 1958 campaign. Clements was highway commissioner at the time of the alleged illegal transaction.)"

Chandler Talks to APC
Creedence that Chandler, and perhaps Clements, may not support Breathitt in November, came yesterday following a telephone interview with Chandler and Bill Neikirk, Associated Press political writer. Neikirk wrote under the Frankfort dateline —

"Former Governor A. B. Chandler said Tuesday he isn't through in Kentucky politics and charges forces of Governor Bert Combs with using money and jobs to win the gubernatorial primary election."

In a telephone interview, Chandler told the Associated Press that he is not going to be counted out of anything. You know they said Adams was too old, Churchill was too old. They're much older than I am," Chandler is 64.

Another Offer Planned
But he said his candidate definitely will have a field in the 1967 gubernatorial primary.

"The chances are that I will not be a candidate, but I am not ruling out the possibility," he said. "I have a responsibility to 260,000 people in Kentucky. I am going to try to discharge that responsibility."

Chandler charged the Courier-Journal with scurrilous tactics in his defeat. "They don't belong to our party," he said.

He noted that an article appeared in the newspaper a week after the election praising his accomplishments in two terms as governor.

Chandler said school boards all over Kentucky are passing resolutions forbidding campaigning in schools. He said he was in 100 high schools during his campaign. Chandler said one resolution was passed in Floyd County, where Combs lives.

The former governor said he isn't taking back anything he said during the campaign. "I thought they ran a bad government. I think they are going to bankrupt the State."

"He Can't Come"
"He's not coming." He can't come. They were responsible for the scurrilous campaign I won't be a party to that," Chandler said.

Then, attacking the fiscal policies of the Combs Administration he did during the campaign, Chandler said:

"If they hadn't smothered people with money and jobs, we would have won the election."

"This faction is not dead. It's lively, any faction that can get as many votes as it did . . . 264,000 . . . isn't dead."

As for Breathitt, he said: "I haven't any high opinion of this fellow I never have had." He said Breathitt has pledged to continue Combs' policies, which Chandler said would put the State into bankruptcy.

Peace Not Predicted
Chandler said he foresees no end to the factionalism within the Democratic Party. "My people will stay together."

Asked about his future in Kentucky politics, Chandler said, "I've never been out of it. What will happen depends on time and circumstances."

He did not rule out the possibility that he would try for the governorship again.

"I'm not going to be counted out of anything. You know they said Adams was too old, Macmillan was too old, Churchill was too old. They're much older than I am," Chandler is 64.

himself in the laying and installation of a party to that," Chandler said.

Then, attacking the fiscal policies of the Combs Administration he did during the campaign, Chandler said:

"If they hadn't smothered people with money and jobs, we would have won the election."

"This faction is not dead. It's lively, any faction that can get as many votes as it did . . . 264,000 . . . isn't dead."

As for Breathitt, he said: "I haven't any high opinion of this fellow I never have had." He said Breathitt has pledged to continue Combs' policies, which Chandler said would put the State into bankruptcy.

Peace Not Predicted
Chandler said he foresees no end to the factionalism within the Democratic Party. "My people will stay together."

Asked about his future in Kentucky politics, Chandler said, "I've never been out of it. What will happen depends on time and circumstances."

He did not rule out the possibility that he would try for the governorship again.

"I'm not going to be counted out of anything. You know they said Adams was too old, Macmillan was too old, Churchill was too old. They're much older than I am," Chandler is 64.

Another Offer Planned
But he said his candidate definitely will have a field in the 1967 gubernatorial primary.

"The chances are that I will not be a candidate, but I am not ruling out the possibility," he said. "I have a responsibility to 260,000 people in Kentucky. I am going to try to discharge that responsibility."

Chandler charged the Courier-Journal with scurrilous tactics in his defeat. "They don't belong to our party," he said.

He noted that an article appeared in the newspaper a week after the election praising his accomplishments in two terms as governor.

Chandler said school boards all over Kentucky are passing resolutions forbidding campaigning in schools. He said he was in 100 high schools during his campaign. Chandler said one resolution was passed in Floyd County, where Combs lives.

The former governor said he isn't taking back anything he said during the campaign. "I thought they ran a bad government. I think they are going to bankrupt the State."

Juvenile Problem Is Under Study

By Richard J. Clendenen
Commissioner, Department of Child Welfare

Kentucky has done more than most states in at least one part of her program for helping the troubled child. This is in the area of which Kentucky is a leader, in group treatment at the three inpatient hospitals at the Kentucky Reception Center, and the Barkley Boys Camp.

The traditional "training school" program of other years had common denominators of personality and conduct, its rigid disciplines, its idea that holding and controlling the delinquent was the only way for professionals — but the diagnostician and practitioner — the therapist rather than the drill sergeant and turkey.

In applying this knowledge at Kentucky Village, the Department of Child Welfare has accomplished results in a large part of the population that begins to look like the group breakthrough in treatment of delinquency. There is mounting evidence that the program of Group Treatment, established on a large scale only within the past few years, has proved to be a dramatically effective addition to the tools of society.

The aims and nature of Group Treatment are best understood by describing the process. In scientific language it may be referred to as Group Therapy, or more simply, Group Psychotherapy. Simply, it calls for setting up groups of about ten boys or ten girls, usually 13 years old or more.

Arrangements are made for the group to live, work and learn together, so that they may see and attempt to solve their own problems. In daily sessions the group spends most of its time in a discussion of one of its members. A member volunteers to be questioned and to accept discussion, however deep or pointed, of his "problem."

They come more and more to know each other in the group living, they become more interested in seeing the progress each other makes as the group itself helps bring about change in attitudes during the all-day group relationship.

The discussions often become heated, stormy. The group tries to keep the member under discussion "honest" or objective in his revelations. And this they can do, and will do with special keenness; for they are peers in age and in general experience; they speak a common language; within the group they are free to talk to or from one another.

In this way, they are protected against the inhibition and reticence — the fear, hostility, scorn of "squares," all those blocks to naturally-conditioned intuitions, they know the answers in their hearts from the operation, there may come a dawning that their own answers for themselves, as well as the explanation of their own attitudes and troubles.

The catalyst works not in the groups but through the groups — through the interaction of forces, confining and merging, such as society in the large world, but he keeps out of the way of the group leader, who is being discussed and not hurt him — or let him be hurt. Then the leader summarizes the results of the discussion before the group is dismissed and tries to point out the meanings. This is not to say that he directs the discussion, but he guides it. He sees that the discussion is conducted so as to help the child part of himself and never an item for record and penalty. This knowledge must be rooted almost as a part of instinct, calling for no calculation or reservation.

It calls for an endowment of sympathy and understanding. It serves best when a leader's personality is the sort that induces a child's trust. Above all, the boy in a group must know that the utmost of frankness and completeness of his self-revelation is encouraged, and never an item for record and penalty. This knowledge must be rooted almost as a part of instinct, calling for no calculation or reservation.

Carla Fraley, Suffering From Many Allergies, Doesn't Miss A Day During The School Term

Each year perhaps two or three percent of the students in Rowan County's grade and consolidated schools receive perfect attendance certificates.

But, this June an extra special one was conferred.

It went to a bright-eyed, smiling six year old girl . . . a little girl who wasn't supposed to live, and who has struggled each day of her life through adversity and pain.

She is Carla Sue Fraley, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carl Fraley, Flemingsburg Road.

Carla was born with one of the digestive juices negative. Her parents have consulted many physicians and specialists, but they have been unable to vitalize the glands so that this vital chemical can be produced in Carla's body.

Each week she bravely goes by herself to the Cadillac Clinic in Morehead where Nurse Susie Halberd administers, by needle injection, a chemical substitute. This keeps Carla alive. Carla says Nurse Susie can give "shots" better than anybody in the world.

Last fall was a banner day in Carla's life as she entered school. And, although she has been ill several times Carla insists on going to school each morning.

She loves school and other children.

Her teacher, Miss Grace Lewis,

Carla Sue Fraley . . . more determination than strength who has deep affection for Carla. Fraley conferred a little slip of paper on Carla stating she had not missed a day of school during the nine months term. Miss Lewis choked up a little as she said, "Carla, your determination exceeds your strength."

Absence of the digestive juice has made Carla allergic to many things and has weakened her resistance to fight any disease. It was the latter that doctors feared might take Carla's life before she learned to walk. This remains a constant danger. Many church congregations have said special prayers for Carla.

Carla is particularly allergic to medicines, the touch or smell of new clothes, and the weather. The weekly injection she receives makes her ill, but she snaps back.

Carla has her worst time shortly before it rains as she sneezes and her skin starts breaking out.

Rev. and Mrs. Fraley say the finest thing that has happened to her is her love for school and for her teacher and playmates.

Carla is particularly fond of reading the first grade illustrated story books and she spends countless hours reciting them to her Lanesville doll.

Disabled Veteran Burns To Death

A 50-year-old disabled war veteran died early Saturday in a fire that destroyed the home of a friend at Greaser in Morgan County.

The victim was James May, 57.

His friend, Harry Jones said May was spending the night at the Jones home when the fire broke out about 2 a.m.

Jones said he managed to get out of the four room frame house but that May, a disabled veteran of World War II, was trapped. May's body still was in bed when recovered from the ruins.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Tribute Paid To 'Bossy' In Dairy Month

(Prepared by Kentucky Bankers Association)

Again this June we join the nation in recognizing the importance of the dairy industry to the state and nation June Dairy Month is here and throughout the country tribute is being paid to the cow and to the dairy farmers and those who produce, process and distribute milk and milk products. Parades and milk contests will be held in many areas. In some areas, parades crowned; more milk will be drunk, more cheese and ice cream eaten, and more cream and butter consumed, but all the while billy-eyed old Bossy will go blithely on making milk from grass grain and water. She is the real manufacturer of milk, and the queen of the industry.

Kentucky has good reason to celebrate June Dairy Month. Next to tobacco, it provides through the sale of milk, veal and cattle, the largest income to Kentucky farmers. Besides that, the delivery, processing and manufacturing of dairy products is one of the largest industries in the state. Over one and one-fourth million tons of milk are produced on Kentucky farms each year, putting the state in twelfth place as a dairy state. It ranks fourth in the manufacturing of unevaporated milk and sixth in cheese.

Modern dairy farms require tremendous capital outlays in land, buildings, livestock and equipment. Even modest operations require from 50 to 100 thousand dollars capital outlay, but often the farm owner's income is less than that of the truck driver that delivers his product. Ninety-five percent of the investment in the dairy industry is held by farm operators and only five percent by manufacturers and distributors.

The June Dairy Month program is an activity of the American Dairy Association, with the cooperation of agricultural and industrial organizations interested in the health and welfare of the people. The ADA is, in itself, unique. Its membership consists of practically every commercial dairy farmer in 48 states and it is financed by a voluntary assessment of 2 cents per 100 pounds of milk, or 1 cent per pound butterfat, marketed.

Last year over seven and one-half million dollars were collected and spent in promoting the use of dairy products. It is agricultural and example of cooperative promotional activity. In spite of all this effort the per capita consumption of dairy products continues decrease.

ASCS Checks 974 Rowan County Farms

Rowan County's more than 974 farms are currently being visited by ASCS representatives. Approximately 11 reporters chosen on the basis of their ability and willingness to do careful and accurate work were specially trained for acreage measurement work and will be working on the summer job of checking crop acreages on allotment, Feed Grain and Soil Bank Farms.

Delmar Padgett, ASCS committee chairman, said he is thankful for past cooperation farmers have given reporters in measurement work. "Producer cooperation," he said, "helps us do the kind of work that is necessary to make ASCS programs operate efficiently, effectively, and economically." The work of reporters is only part of the performance check, Mr. Padgett points out.

The reporter records the measurements or outlines planned acreage on an aerial photograph is returned to the county office where operators under the direction of the office manager determine acreages for each farm. Major speakers during the week will be: H. E. Cheatey, associate professor, Department of History and Political Science, Kentucky State College, who will give the keynote address on Monday night; Carl W. Hall, President of Kentucky State College, who will speak to the group Tuesday morning about "Youth's Role in Citizenship"; Ray R. Ranta, chairman of UK Extension 4-H programs, whose topic on Wednesday morning will be "4-H Club Work and Citizenship Development"; and Miss Viola K. One afternoon will consist of a soil tour showing the different kinds of soil and how they are suited to different uses. Another afternoon will be spent observing conservation in operation on the Robert Bishop farm.

Other agencies will present similar programs showing their particular interest in conservation.

Versailles Plant To Be Expanded

The Versailles plant of Texas Instruments, Inc. is to be expanded and improved at a cost of $200,000 over a three-year period, the commercial controls manufacturing firm has announced.

Initial construction on the project is expected to begin late in June. When all construction is completed in three years the plant size will have been increased by nearly 30 percent, company officials said.

These Breck students were sponsored by Corby Ellington Post of the American Legion which defrayed most of their expenses.

State Democrats Observing Problems They May Face To Achieve Victory In November

Winchester's Democrats, with the primary all but forgotten, are getting ready to take a hard look at politics, general election style.

Charles Mainey, Madisonville chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, late last week issued a call for committee members and candidates to meet next Sunday in Louisville to map campaign strategy.

The party will be faced with a problem different from that posed by the primary.

Then the big job was to get "that young fellow" known to get the "Breathitt" image imprinted in the public mind.

That's all in the past.

If there is any Kentucky to-day who doesn't know who Ned Breathitt is, he probably wouldn't know a voting machine from a voting machine anyway.

The big chores facing the Democrats:

1. To develop and meet the needs of the campaign progress.
2. To pace the campaign for that mythical "peak" in election day.
3. To hammer toward party unity.

A lot of Democrats would like to see some face-to-face debates between Breathitt and Judge Louis B. Nunn, his Republican opponent.

The big debates of 1960, most observers feel, did much to decide the Kennedy-Nixon race.

Breathitt, it is believed, could handle himself ably in such a debating situation.

Poster Ockerman, who was Breathitt's campaign chairman, last week resigned as commissioner of the Department of Motor Transportation.

It's almost a certainty that Ockerman will serve as state campaign chairman for the November election.

And if the Democrats prevail, he can pretty well call his shot as to what post he wants in the new administration. Commissioner of finance, maybe?

One long-range prediction: Whatever post Ockerman takes, he'll have his eye on 1967. That's when a governor is elected again.

Remember the time when everybody rushed out of doors to see a lone airplane flying overhead?

RAI BAILLIE plays the starring role of James Howard in "Home is the Hunter." Robert E. McDowell's drama is premiering June 29 in the outdoor amphitheatre at Pioneer-Memorial State Park in Harrodsburg. Much of old Fort Harrod becomes the natural setting of the play.

Outdoor Drama Set At Harrodsburg

"Home is the Hunter," Robert E. McDowell's outdoor drama of the settlement of Kentucky and the opening of the Northwest went into rehearsal at the specially built amphitheatre in Pioneer Memorial State Park at Harrodsburg, Ky.

Rai Baillie plays the principal role of James Howard, the pioneer leader who founded the first permanent settlement west of the Alleghenies.

Well seasoned in outdoor dramas, Baillie has appeared in major roles in Paul Green's "The Common Glory," "The Founders," and "The Confederacy," and in Kermit Hunter's famed drama of the Cherokee, "Unto These Hills."

In television he starred as the original Pony Express Rider and was a recently associated with NBC's "Today Show" in New Orleans.

As producer-director of the "Ballie Theatre Lab" he toured throughout the United States under the sponsorship of various concert and lecture bureaus.

The "Lacy B Players" gained a national reputation for their performances of the old time melodramas at Glenwood Springs and Denver, Colo. under the direction of this versatile man.

Several Kentuckians are among those chosen from the hundreds of actors and actresses who were auditioned for parts.

Russ Mobley of Lexington, Howard Foly of Berea, and Linda Rue of Harrodsburg performed in the Berea production of "Wilderness Road."

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By Joe Jordan

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week Federal authorities arrested "a number of females" at De Mossville, in Pendleton County, "and some at other points" to be sent south and passed through Union Army lines into Confederate territory. It was said that they were "regarded as dangerous to the U. S. Government."

That citizens could be taken into custody and exiled, and the public told so little about it, was due to a general proclamation by President Lincoln, which provided that during the "insurrection" persons accused of disloyal practices could be tried by courts-martial or military commissions and denied the habeas-corpus privilege which in normal times would have enabled them to get their cases into civilian courts. In Kentucky, most of those so arrested were taken up under Major Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside's General Order No. 28. It stated that "any thing which would no longer be tolerated was the habit of declaring sympathies for the enemy."

On June 3, Gen. Burnside left his Cincinnati headquarters to take charge of a long-planned movement of his Union Army, the Ohio from Kentucky into East Tennessee. For some time Federal troops had been collecting in Kentucky for that purpose. Confederate intelligence had learned of the projected invasion and for that reason, as related in an earlier installment of this series, Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan's Third Confederate Cavalry Division early in the fall of 1862 crossed the Cumberland River in Wayne, Clinton and Cumberland, to keep Union Army troops out of the region south of the river if possible, and if Burnside came in such strength that Morgan's force could not delay the advance until Gen. Braxton Bragg could make troop movements designed to halt the Federal advance somewhere south of the Kentucky-Tennessee state line.

Burnside had waiting for him in Kentucky two divisions of the Ninth Army Corps and part of the

'Bully' Program Gives Hope To Area's Poor And Needy'

By Glennie Holton

No doubt there is a Guiding Hand that directs and leads the destinies of our pore and needy. Just when things begin to look the bleakest and just when the oceans have reached their coolest and the disaster season is over for the year, something good comes up to keep us pore and needy of Eastern Kentucky in good spirits.

Only a few days ago, the big county papers let out the secret that is going to be the very salvation of our pore and needy looks and reads like this: The new program is designed to help us pore until the need of Federal Handouts is gone to be practically nonexistent. So says the information we gather.

This new program of salvation for the pore is known as the Bull Performance Program and being fetched about by a Foundation Program in Breathitt County thru the help of the University of Kentucky and its dependent Extension Department. The program is set up whereby you pore and needy can ship out your bull to the Bull Program and get his muscles going for 150 days with the super-technique. There after the 150 days, the bull owner can call for his brute and fetch him back home with his muscles in top condition and get ready to get another bull in the muscle building program.

Always before my old cow raised a little bull calf. This time it was a heifer. I'm always unlucky. It seems like I wanted so much to elevate my standing within my community by being the owner of a cut Kirk out of the super-technique muscle techniques.

Anderson Rose has got him a little black bull that has been showed some neglect in his life looks like. We believe that Anderson will be interested in this Program and will immediately ship his little black bull off for the Adjustments to be give them Extension bullists. This bull will come back to the Anderson farm and will be cry of the other unlucky bulls of the community.

The best part of the Program is that it ain't a going to cost nothin'.

Looks At Clock And Sees Snake

Phyllis Walker, secretary at Radio Station WAKU, Georgetown, answered the telephone Saturday morning and was asked the correct time. She looked at the clock on the wall and replied, "It's 10 minutes after—oh my goodness it's a snake!"

A 10-foot nonpoisonous snake was coiled around the wall clock.

Disc jockey Billy Skelton was broadcasting but quickly grabbed an ax and killed the intruder. They did not know how the snake entered the building.

Rejection Of Draftees Is Alarming

Kentucky's draftee rejection rate has increased more than 10 percent since the Army instituted selective written test, Selective Service headquarters said.

The more difficult Armed Force Qualification Test went into effect May 1.

Statistics show that in April, 600 of 1,109 youths examined were rejected, slightly more than 45 percent.

Last month 686 of 1,246 examined were rejected, almost 55 percent.

Col. Marshall Sanders, deputy state director of Selective Service, said that in 1962 Kentucky's rejection rate averaged about 50 percent, close to national figures.

"The increase last month might be accounted for partly by the run down of boys we had," he said. "But the great portion undoubtedly is due to the increased severity of the qualification tests."

Sanders said the state has no good basic elementary education and "those with some knowledge of mechanics would have no trouble" passing the new test.

Yet the report of last month shows that one college freshman flunked it — in addition to 35 high school seniors and 20 high school juniors.

Sanders said the state has no information on how draftees are faring nationally with the stricter exams.

He said Selective Service officials, in cooperation with the state Education Department, have been going into schools to try to cut down the draft rejection trend.

275 Entries Received For Theatre Name

Some 275 entries have been received in the contest to name the new $25-seat amphitheatre at Pioneer Memorial State Park, Harrodsburg, where the outdoor historical drama "Home is the Hunter" will open June 29.

The contest closes midnight June 15. All entries should be mailed on postal cards or in a letter to: Amphitheatre Contest, Box 300, Frankfort, Ky.

The producers of "Home is the Hunter" will award the contest winner a $50 United States savings bond and four free tickets to the amphitheatre production.

Kentucky Winning Tuberculosis Battle

The fight against tuberculosis in Kentucky is resulting in the discovery and treatment of cases which would have gone undetected except for better reporting and case finding techniques.

Dr. M. Stuart Lander of the State Health Department reported that 2,386 active cases of tuberculosis are now known in the state compared with 2,308 five years ago. He also reported that the number of inactive cases dropped from 14,678 to 2,984 during the same period.

"I want the best for my family and that's why we live Electrically"

"Our growing youngsters have growing appetites too — and an electric refrigerator-freezer is the practical way to serve up delicious, healthful meals that don't cost a small fortune. It's a hard-working appliance and a perfect partner for our electric range.

You could measure the value of electric service by putting a price tag on it. But I measure it in terms of pleasure, convenience, peace of mind — and that makes it practically priceless.

We live electrically. To me, that's the only modern way to have the best for my family.
