An interesting letter from Gen. Taylor General Butler of Louisiana descriptive of the battle of Buena Vista.

HEADQUARTERS AT AGUA NEVA, Army of Occupation, Mexico, Mar. 4, 1847.

MY DEAR GENERAL: Your very acceptable and interesting letter of the 15th November last, reached me at Buena Vista...

For several hours the fate of the day was extremely doubtful, and such that I was urged by some of the most experienced officers to fall back and take up a new position.

I have assured all who have written to me on the subject, ensuring them that I have my whole energies, mental and physical, were and had been absorbed in such a task.

[Here follows a brief statement of events from the time of Gen. Scott's arrival at the Brazos till Gen. Taylor's arrival from Victoria to Monterey. The letter then proceeds:]

I retraced my steps to Monterey, where I arrived towards the latter part of the month of January, 1, and where I expected to remain some time to recruit myself and horses; but a few days after my arrival I received information from the command in my front at Saltillo...

On the 22d, the enemy threw in our rear, through the passes of the mountains, 2,000 regulars, and early on the morning of the next day, the 23d, made demonstrations against Saltillo, and throughout the day...

The last on both sides was very great, as you may suppose; enough so on our side to cover the whole country with mourning, for among the noblest and purest of the land have fallen. We had no less than 100 killed and wounded.

With respect and esteem, your friend, Gen. E. G. V. BUTLER, Lt. Col.

power to bring them off; nor did I deem it advisable to attempt to regain the position.

The enemy made his principal efforts against our flanks. He was handsomely repulsed every where except on our right, but succeeded early in the day to get into the left, in consequence of the giving way of one of the volunteer regiments...

There were about 2000 men in the morning before the battle commenced. Our artillery did more than wonders. We lay on our arms all night, as we had done the two previous ones, without fire, there being no wood to be had, and the mercury below the freezing point...

Flour has also suffered a considerable decline; and the existing impression on the public mind is generally falling to be encouraged by the prospects of a plentiful harvest...

There has been several changes in our Corn Market since the sailing of the Herber. Large imports of all descriptions of bread-stuff, to every part of the United Kingdom, have had the effect of putting down the prices of all kinds of grain and flour.

There have been heavy transactions in flour at 37 s 3d per barrel, for Philadelphia and Baltimore 34 s 3d shillings.

There has been some made on the spot, with the usual allowances American wheat rates from 10s to 10s 10d per seventy pounds, for Southern, up to 11s 5d a 11s 1d for Northern white.

Quarter is selling from 4s to 50s per sixty. Bales is worth from 6s 2d to 7s 7s 6d; Blackey pea 6s 6d a 70s per imperial quarter.

There are buyers of wheat at full prices, and flour supports the amendment. Indian Corn is in request at 52 shillings per 480 pounds for Northern yellow.

The three others belonged to the New York Regiment, and their names were not ascertained. The companies of Captains Merrick, Bidwell and Smith, had arrived at New Orleans from Pittsburgh.

FOURTEEN DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE. ARRIVAL OF THE CAMBRIA. ADVANCE IN AMERICAN OATS.

Great decline in price of Corn—Decline in Flour, and the prospect of still further deterioration—Prospect of a fine Harvest in England.

The Cambria was telegraphed at twenty minutes past four this afternoon. I hasten to forward you the first advices received in this city, and which may be relied on as strictly correct.

The commercial news is of great importance. The Cambria brings fourteen days later news. The Corn market is receding in every direction, and in some description, Indian corn for instance, the fall has been astounding...
