A SHORT STAY AT MOREHEAD

Temperate Agitation—The Morehead Normal School

Recently a representative of the Advocate visited the county seat of Rowan, and for his report on the Normal School, we assume that he had the pleasures of a few hours' recreation.

The impression made upon anyone who enters the building, by the presence of a few hundred tables and chairs, is that of overcrowdedness. There is a considerable amount of crowding, however, which is not to be attributed to the smallness of the building, but rather to the small number of instructors and students. The school is well provided with libraries and study rooms, and the instructors are all well-qualified men. The plant is good, and the discipline is strict. The Normal School is in a very prosperous condition, and there is every reason to expect a large increase in the number of students next year.

Morehead is not what it used to be. The town is not as crowded as it was in the old days, and there is not as much business going on. The town is now a quiet, peaceful place, and the people are contented. The climate is healthful, and the scenery is beautiful. The Normal School is the chief attraction of the town, and the people are proud of it.

The indications are that Morehead is not going to be a populous town, but it will continue to be a healthy and pleasant place. The people are contented, and there is no reason to expect any great changes in the future.

Flaxie Britton. At the opening there were 100 pupils. During the first year the enrollment was 51; since then the increase has been gradual. Last year there were enrolled 191 Prof. Britton, the charges for teachers, and then Prof. Patil was enrolled for three years in charges. Prof. Britton in Sep- tember of this year was assigned to the management, and is still satisfactorily serving on the staff with an extensive aging prospect for the coming year. The Academy home is a three-story, brick building, the front being constructed of white marble. It is pleasantly situated, and contains a commodious library, a large auditorium, and a nice collection of books.

The school building has four floors, and is composed of five teachers: F. C. Britton, Principal; H. G. Combs, Assistant Principal; E. O. Johnson, Assistant Principal; and two others.

The school is well equipped with suitable facilities for the instruction of students.

The instruction in the Normal School is of the highest order, and is marked improved in the teachers of the county. About 100-pupils in the district, being taught by Mr. Ed. Goodner and Miss Linnie Goodner, pupils of the Normal, are now being taught by Prof. Lawrence, of Lebanon, and by Miss Linnie Goodner, pupils of the Normal.

Crops around Morehead are good, and the people are abundant.

George Carlin has rented the T. P. Rogers business house on East High street, and will more his undertakings and live in the school district. He is well adapted to the work he is doing, and the people are pleased.

Decisions will now be made as to which of the Facts and Observations in other columns.

R. M. Coles has his farm a fact or two in full bloom.
