FALL SEMESTER AT COLLEGE TO OPEN MONDAY

Enrollment Increase Over Last Year's Record Registration Expected

ADDITIONAL CLASSES OFFERED

Officially the Morehead State Teachers College starts enrolling students Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The college is scheduled to open Monday, but in keeping with the usual Freshman Orientation Week, first year students will begin arriving Friday.

In the college auditorium Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the freshmen will be welcomed to the college. At 10:30 Saturday morning the freshmen classification test will be given in the college gymnasium. A swimming party with all freshmen as guests is scheduled for 2:30 Saturday afternoon, and a picture show at the college theatre is set for 7:30.

Yesper services on the roof garden at 5:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon and a buffet supper at the same place at 6:30 complete the orientation program.

Registration will be held all day Monday in the gymnasium for all students. Classes start Tuesday morning.

Officials at the school felt that last year's record enrollment was probably the climax to a 12-year's growth, but advance reservations for rooms indicate a still further increase. Dean W. E. Vanhook said: "Correspondence from probable students has been much heavier this fall than before according to tradition."

Fire Destroys Dwelling In Thomas Addition Here

A frame residence belonging to Alfred Jones and occupied by Carl Jones in the Thomas Addition was destroyed by fire Monday evening.

The Morehead Fire Department was summoned at the blaze, but the dwelling was practically consumed before the alarm was turned in. None of the furniture was saved.

The Jones family was away at the time, leaving the origin of the blaze a mystery.

This is the first fire in Morehead and vicinity within the past three months, marking a new low for fire damage here.

SLATE JENNINGS FOR G. O. P. HEAD

County Judge Probable Choice For Swope Manager Here

With the Democratic run-off primary over, and a definite knowledge of who their opponent will be, Republicans throughout the state turned to campaign organization this week in preparation for the November election.

Rowan Republican leaders plan their organization meeting either Saturday or Monday. At this time initial plans for the conducting of the G. O. P. Campaign in Rowan will be drafted.

One fact seems paramount among local Republican heads, and that is the selection of County Judge C. E. Jennings for campaign chairman.

Approached about the matter today, Judge Jennings said that several Republicans had talked to him about taking the chairmanship, but he was not sure that his father is a candidate for county judge, and that his duties as County Judge take up a great deal of his time.

Despite his reluctance, Judge Jennings remains the choice for local campaign manager. Republicans have not been idle during the past two months, and it was reliably learned that plans were already past the formation stage.

ELLIOTT COUNTY MAN SHOT HERE BY CITY POLICE

Patrolman Ed Hall Held Under $5,000 Bond On Count In City Court

Charlie Crum hurt seriously

The case of Ed Hall, Morehead patrolman, charged with shooting and wounding Charlie Crum, 38, of Elliott County, with intent to kill, was laid over until Monday morning in city court.

Hall is under a $5,000 bond for his appearance at Monday's examining trial. He bond was signed by Mayor Haran Blair and Rev. T. F. Lyons.

Crum's condition was reported as serious at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, where he was taken Friday night after he had been shot by Hall. Tuesday the hospital reported he was in "fair" condition, but Wednesday he took a turn for the worse.

Hall said he attempted to arrest Crum in front of the Cozy Theatre on Main Street on a charge of drunkenness, but that Crum would not submit to arrest, and drew his knife. Hall said he hit Crum over the head with his pistol, and Crum ran into the yard of Dr. G. C. Nickell. According to the version the Morehead patrolman gave, Hall pursued Crum into the yard, and Crum wheeled around attempting to cut him with a knife. Hall said it was then he shot.

The bullet, fired from a .38 calibre gun, penetrated Crum's abdomen. Hall said he withdrew the bullet.

Independent To Publish Special 1935 Fair Edition

A special edition of the Morehead Independent, carrying all the details and particulars of the Rowan County School and Agricultural Fair will appear on September 26.

This special edition will be published by the Independent, in conjunction with the fair association of officers. All the rings and other affairs connected with the fair will be in it.

The 44 page fair catalog will be off the press by Monday. This year's catalog is the most elaborate that the fair association has ever published. Copies may be secured at the Independent office, from any school teacher in the county, or any fair association officer. Copies will likely be given out at stores and business houses throughout the county.

CHANDLER DEFEATS RHEA FOR GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION BY 25,565, COUNT DISCLOSES

CHANDLER WINS COUNTY BY 612

City Precincts Roll Up Majority For Anti-Administration

Carrying 15 out of the 17 precincts in Rowan County, A. B. Chandler held a majority of 612 votes over Thomas S. Rhea for the gubernatorial nomination for Governor in Saturday's primary. The vote: Rhea 984; Chandler 1,693.

An increase in votes for Mr. Chandler in the 3 Morehead precincts enabled him to carry the county by 99 votes more than he did in the first primary. Approximately 500 more votes were cast in the county in the second primary, and Mr. Rhea received over 300 more than he did in August. Chandler had a slight advantage in the heavier vote, however.

Mr. Chandler's majority was about the same as predicted by the local Rhea headquarters following the Saturday vote. Chandler supporter had believed their majority larger, but failed to carry Morehead by as large a margin.

Mr. Rhea carried Bruns by 14 votes, slightly less than before. He lost Cranston and McKenzie, the latter by 1 vote, as compared with his carrying them in the first primary. However, the Rhea forces offset a 42 majority for Chandler at Bruns primary by carrying Haldeman 2 votes for Mr. Rhea. This was due largely because of local conditions at Haldeman, and

Versailles Candidate Picks Up Strength Throughout State In Democratic Primary

RHEA GETS MAJORITY IN 8TH

A surprise blow was dealt most political observers throughout the state this week as the final unofficial tabulation of the votes in the race for Governor showed that A. B. "Happy" Chandler of Versailles had won the nomination by 25,565 votes over Thomas S. Rhea, Administration candidate.

Advocating repeal of the sales tax until the last, Chandler was swept into the nomination on the popular side of the issue. Mr. Rhea had led in the first primary by 13,500 votes, but the combined influence of Frederick A. Wallis and Bailey F. Wootton, defeated in the August vote, plus a record breaking vote at the primary Saturday, proved too much of a handicap for the Rhea organization.

Of the 494,411 votes cast in the run-off—a record for a state wide primary—Chandler received 250,488 and Rhea 233,923. The run-off vote exceeded by 44,520 that of the first primary. Chandler benefitted by the increased vote.

Chandler carried five of the nine Congressional Districts, the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth. Rhea carried the Second, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth. In the first primary Rhea carried five districts, but Chandler reversed the vote in the first district, presumably because of the help of Mr. Wallis, who spent most of his time during the past month delivering speeches there for him.

Part of the Rhea slate was victorious however. In the November election the Democrats will have practically half Rhea and half Chandler men on the ticket.

WPA MAY START ON LICKING ROAD

Grading, draining and surfacing of 2 miles of the Upper Licking River road will probably be the first WPA project to get under way in Rowan County. W. T. Wells, Superintendent of Projects and Planning for this district, Project Officer Dixon Shouse and County Judge C. E. Jennings went over the road last week to determine the amount of materials that will be needed to start work.

Although no definite date has been announced, it is thought that the Upper Licking road project will get under way within 10 days. Bids are being submitted for dump trucks and teams to work on the project.

Other WPA projects for the county are in Washington, and approval on many of them is expected shortly.

WPA wage scales for this county will be:

- $21 per month for maximum 130 hours work of unskilled laborers
- $30 per month for maximum 120 hours work of semi-skilled men
- $38 per month for maximum 130 hours work of skilled men.

Bride Of Two Months Is Adjudged Suidic

Frances Little, 22 year old Rowan County girl, a bride of less than 2 months took her own life Thursday, by shooting herself with a .32 caliber pistol. James Brown gave a verdict of suicide.

Mr. Little had been in ill health for some time, and this was given as the probable reason for her turning the gun on herself.

Only Mrs. Little and her mother-in-law were at the home on the Flemingburg Highway when she shot herself. Her mother-in-law in an upstairs room heard the shot and rushed downstairs to find Mrs. Little dead. Death was instantaneous.

The deceased is the daughter of Jim Ed Plank.

Morehead Principal Elected Conference President

Prof. Dennie D. Caudill, Principal of the Morehead Consolidated School was elected President of the Eastern Kentucky Athletic Conference, of which Morehead High is a member, at a meeting held in Ashland Monday evening.

The selection of Mr. Caudill marks the first time that the Presidency of the Association has come to Morehead or left Ashland. The conference was formerly known as the Little Eight.

John McGlothlin, Ashland, was elected to the vice-presidency, and Brady Black, sports editor of the Ashland Daily Independent, secretary.

Governor May Call Special Session

A special session of the state legislature to repeal the sales tax may be called within ten days, Governor Ruby Laffoon told newspapermen at Frankfort yesterday.

The sales tax is Governor Laffoon's pet revenue raising measure, but the administration supported candidate Tom Rhea was defeated on that platform. Chandler leadership was perturbed over the Governor's announcement since they fear immediate repeal of the sales tax would remove the principal plank in the Democratic nominee's platform for the fall election.

Many politicians feel that Laffoon will ask repeal of the onerous law in his call. This law permits the Governor to remove any appointee at any time by simply entering it on the journal. Politicians feel that Laffoon does not want his successor to have this power.

4 HIGH SCHOOLS ENROLLMENT HIGH

Largest Registration Recorded At Morehead

More than one thousand students have enrolled in the four consolidated schools of the county, and this number is expected to increase during the week. Approximate numbers at each of the schools are: Morehead, 400; Haldeman, 325; Elliottville, 150; Farmers, 125.

An added feature at the Morehead High School is the manual training department under the direction of Buell Hogge. A commercial course, including typing and shorthand, is being offered by Miss Anna Lee Martin.

Gain Shown By Rhea In Elliott County

Elliott county returned a majority of 171 votes for Chandler in Saturday's primary, about half the plurality that was given him in the August election. Concentrated efforts on the part of the Elliott Rhea organization is believed to be the reason for the decrease in Mr. Chandler's majority there.

The vote on all races:

GOVERNOR: Rhea 922; Chandler 1932. Chandler's majority 171.

STATE GOVERNOR: Wise 841; Johnson 450. Wise's majority 31.

SECRETARY STATE: Eudaley 297; Arnett 487. Arnett's majority 190.

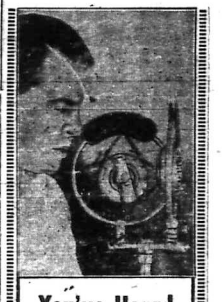

ATTORNEY GENERAL: Vincent 463; Burke 112. Vincent's majority 351.

STATE TREASURER: Mahan 376; Buckingham 428. Buckingham's majority 262.

CLERK COURT OF APPEALS: O'Connell 484; Kirchdorfer 225. O'Connell's majority 159.

Make it clear that the modern war means "the rule of the country first, the little people afterward," and was not last long.

Near Burbank, Calif., a plane crashes. Three occupants, two pilots and a stewardess burn to death, after striking a live wire.

It has been said, "Alcohol and gasoline do not mix well," meaning that men should not drink when driving.

Air fields and live wires do not mix well either. The Department of Commerce, ruling aviation and exercising admirable rules, might include among the latter a rule against exposed live wires near air fields.

There is an unnecessary fear about American business men having secured in Abyssinia rights to develop oil and mineral wealth.

Strange sight in a New York court—two boys, nine and ten years old, of killing a girl by hitting her on the head with a stone because she denied his assertion that he could eat more peaches than she could.

The nine-year-old boy seemed quite unconcerned, except that he thought his dog, "Lucky," would be lonesome without him.

Prosecuting authorities accuse the nine-year-old boy of murder, but he is charged with drinking and quarreling for children.

Will stridentultracians and eugenists explain these youthful crime phenomena?

The sad death of the queen of Belgium proves that the open car is the dangerous car. She was struck by her head against a tree, and was instantly killed.

San Francisco, as old in the minds of Americans as the word "California" itself, is cheerful. The great bridge that will span the Golden Gate across the bay is progressing rapidly.

Thanks to good management and an excellent engineer, Mr. Strauss, this Golden Gate bridge, with its magnificent span of more than 4,000 feet, will be finished on time and for less than the $35,000,000 guaranteed as maximum price.

Rat Steals Girl's Hair

AND here's as strange a true tale, boys and girls, as Poe ever conjured up in his most imaginative moments.

Incidentally, we've had a lot of hair-raising tales in this "thrill corner" of ours, but in this one Mrs. Johnson's hair not only rose on end, but it actually LEFT HER HEAD!

One night as she lay dreaming that a big man with a pair of scissors was chasing her to cut off her hair—she wore it long then—she felt a distinct tug on her scalp and woke up with a start.

The sensation that her hair had been pulled was so strong that she turned on the light and looked around the room.

The next night the same thing occurred. She was awakened from a sound sleep by a ringing sensation on her scalp exactly as though some one had pulled her hair.

Well, you know how fathers are. Margareta's was no exception, and she just laughed and said she had a good imagination and suggested that she go back to sleep.

Well, sir, Margie began to think she was about due for the psycho-patch when she glanced again at the head of her bed.

All thought of sleep driven now from her mind, the panic-stricken girl kept the light on and read a book, tried to read.

Some persons are absorbed in making themselves physically handsome, and are so concerned with their slightest blemishes occur in their make-up, their collars, or their costumes.

Another group of persons give precedence to words and acts. Blemishes of character are their concern, whether they are in themselves or discerned in others.

There are pretty faces that are repellent because they betray blemishes of character such as petulance, jealousy, avarice, etc.

SKY RIDE tower, last landmark of World's Fair, is brought DOWN

Nearly 40,000,000 persons paid to see A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago during the summers of 1933 and 1934, and one of the supreme thrills of the whole World's fair for them was the towering Sky Ride.

The two great steel towers, christened Amos and Andy, after the radio comedians, were the principal landmarks of the fair, their 625-foot height—greater than any building in the United States outside of New York—making them visible for many miles.

When wreckers felled Andy, the east tower, a vast throng of 200,000 Chicagoans gathered on the lake shore to watch the last familiar mark of what was once their beloved exposition fall.

Thermit, a chemical which attains a heat of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit in 30 seconds, was used to melt the steel of Andy's legs on one side; then the pressure of cables craned the metal giant to fall earthward. Amos, the other tower, had had his legs dynamited from under him some weeks before. The operation that time was conducted at dawn in great secrecy so that no one would be hurt. When it was found that the flying steel fell within 10 feet of limits estimated by engineers, a grand-stand was built and the public was invited to watch Andy's execution.

ETHIOPIANS fearing Italian bombing of Addis Ababa have to FLEE

The busy intersection of Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, is busy with a new kind of activity these days, for the emperor, Haile Selassie, Conquering Lion of Judah, has ordered the African city evacuated by the populace. Bombs are the reason. It is said that the capital will be the objective for bombing attacks by Italy.

Addis Ababa, incidentally, is pronounced "AH-dee-AH-ee-wa." The Ethiopians pronounce a "b" like "w."

There is little danger now that Americans may become involved in the Ethiopian fracas, for Washington has announced a policy of strict neutrality. Fears of American involvement were expressed when it was learned recently that Haile Selassie had turned over vast Ethiopian oil fields to American and British firms for exploitation.

Recognizing the danger, the State department requested the officials of the American firm to cancel the negotiations, and they did.

Cleaning Up

It is indeed gratifying to note that most Morehead business houses have done considerable reconducting, remodeling and stock building during the past month in preparation for the opening of the fall term of the Morehead State Teachers College (Monday).

The general appearance of practically every store in Morehead is better as a result. Such practices go far towards bringing standards to Morehead, besides attracting the local buyer to trade in Morehead instead of elsewhere. For Morehead August is a general clean-up month, and during the past month, despite poor business conditions, merchants have spent thousands of dollars in the clean-up; in fact this August has brought more activity in building and remodeling here than it has any year in the past.

New merchandise attractively displayed is apparently the order of the day.

Eighteenth Amendment

The editorial in last week's Independent entitled "Is Kentucky Going Wet?" has caused more than the usual amount of comment and several queries directed at the editor. We feel that the text of that editorial is especially true.

The activities shown by the drys to date is such that wet leaders will be facing with a real battle this fall, unless there is a decided change. The woman vote will prove the deciding factor on this "question, and it is almost safe to say at this stage that the vote of the female is going to the dry side.

Chandler's Victory

The victory of A. B. Chandler in the primary disclosed that the majority of Kentucky Democrats feel he is the best standard bearer this fall.

Our personal sentiments were toward Mr. Ehas. However, the Russellville candidate could not overcome the sales tax; in our opinion a question that has been misleading to the public. The people are not educated to the sales tax, and that brought defeat to Mr. Ehas. It was the sales tax that was largely responsible for Mr. Chandler's victory in Rowan County, and not the popularity of one faction or the unpopularity of the other.

It is probable that Mr. Chandler is the stronger candidate for the November race, in view of the bitterness that many people hold against the 3 per cent sales tax. It has been written and spoken for the past 2 months that the sales tax had ceased to be an issue. As a matter of fact it was the issue. With both Mr. Chandler and Mr. Swope opposed to the sales tax, it is conjectured whether it will be an issue in the November election.

Mr. Chandler is to be congratulated upon his victory. Mr. Ehas, who has given 30 years of his life to managing other people's campaigns, is a victim of circumstances. He made his race at the most inopportune time; the issue he could not overcome.

It is not our want to take glory from Mr. Chandler's victory. It is now time to bandage the wounds and heal the sores. It is a breathing spell. Just how well these wounds are put together and mended into a vote-getting machine depends principally on the Chandler group. Ehas supporters in a military, are not adverse to overturn, but they must come from the Chandler organization.

Politics Business Et Cetera

JOBS; In a veiled manner whippers are going the rounds that several influential instructors at the Morehead State Teachers College will lose their jobs since the nomination of A. B. Chandler. Incidentally these men include supporters for Ehas in the primary.

It seems with another election coming up the local Democratic heads should do more toward healing the wounds of the Chandler-Ehas race instead of splitting the party further by unbusinesslike efforts and anti-Democratic tactics. The Democrats are needing all the support they can get in November, and there is no surer way of splitting the ranks than by leaving the Ehas group out of consideration. Mr. Chandler has clearly demonstrated his ability to defeat Mr. Ehas, but at the same time it is up to him and his organization throughout the state to win the Ehas group over. Whether or not that can be done remains in doubt, taking into consideration the bitterness of the past campaign.

Democratic politicians despise schools are very much in politics. At the same time it is very unattractive and is sadly lacking in diplomacy to openly mix the school system in state politics, even though they have and should have a prominent place there.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK: The prospects for better business in Morehead and Rowan County are daily growing better after a near-dismal summer. The opening of the Morehead State Teachers College next Monday will be a boost to local business houses and bring thousands of dollars here. The strike situation at Holston and Chandler remains unsettled, but there is a general feeling—no one knows from where it came—that things are about to be done more righted at these plants. It is to be hoped a harmonious settlement is in the offing.

GAS: More than a year ago the city council let a franchise for the supplying of natural gas to the city of Morehead. The supply was supposed to come from Rowan County. Although several good wells have been drilled in recently, as far as we know, there is no effort being made to pipe it into Morehead. Another winter is coming on and Morehead is again "gasless."

It is ironic that city that lays a just claim to being the fastest growing and most progressive city in eastern Kentucky would be without natural gas while all or neighbors are enjoying its benefits. We can hope and wait, and perhaps sometime the city will let a franchise that will actually mean natural gas for Morehead, or better still that the holders of the present franchise will realize the investment possibilities of the venture.

CITY COUNCIL: In addition to the many items that will call for a vote this fall, which includes the state prohibition amendment, there is the election of the city councilman.

It is customary for the council to hold office four years, even though they are elected every 2 years. Present councilmen—W. C. Lapsley, Robert Bishop, W. H. Rice, Tom Trumble and Steve Callahan, will be up for reelection. At this time they appear easily the strongest slate. Mayor Herbin Blain holds his office for 4 years and will not be up for re-election for 2 more years—if chosen.

HIGH SCHOOL AID FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Details of the National Youth Administration of high school aid for boys and girls, between the ages of 16 to 25, who are at present unable to attend school for lack of money for tuition, books, text books, and other incidental necessities was announced today by Frank R. Parsons, Director for Kentucky. According to Mr. Parsons, the assistance to any student may not exceed more than $6 per calendar month from the beginning of the school fall term after September 1, 1935 to the end of the spring term. Young persons will be included on the following considerations:

- 1. Need. The student must be a member of a family of relief status as of May, 1935. Certification must be made by local relief authorities to educational authorities within the school district of the young person concerned.
2. Character and ability to do school work. The student must possess such ability and character as to give assurance he will do high grade work in school.
3. Status of Attendance. Only students carrying three-fourths of a regular school program will be eligible to participate in this program.

4. Method of Selection. Careful selection of those students most in need of assistance must be done by the school officials in cooperation with local relief authorities. If the school officer sees fit, he may select a committee of representative citizens to aid him in the selection of the most qualified students. Representative of the local relief authorities must be included on such a committee.

In return for high school assistance, those students benefiting by the program must do socially desirable work, theoretical, practical, clerical work, the teaching of students' exercises, etc. The school principal must pass on the acceptability of the work assigned to students and is responsible for assuring that the character of the work performed is not inferior and under proper supervision. Employment will not be regarded in the case of students who are especially well qualified to devote all of their time to their studies for whom the assignment work is impracticable. Since the principal objective of the High School Aid Program is to make it possible for students of relief families to continue their education, NYA funds may not be used to finance any kind of work which would supplement routine work that should have to be carried on anyway. However, additional employments may be assigned to work which would supplement routine activities.

Students who are granted assistance in return for work will receive monthly remuneration such as is commonly paid by the school for the type of service rendered. No student may be required more than ten hours in any week, or more than three hours in any day.

All high-graduating making school institutions below college grade are eligible for this program. In case of question as to eligibility, the State Director of the NYA, with the aid or advice of the State Department of education, will determine which institutions may participate in the program. The number of students who will be given aid will be 7 percent of the number of young persons between the ages of 16 and 25 on relief as of May, 1935.

CARD OF THANKS We desire to extend our deepest appreciation and sincere thanks to those who aided us during the illness and death of Emil Cox. Especially do we wish to thank Captain H. H. Darrach, C. E. Lane, the boys at the CCC camp, and those who sent such beautiful flowers. We are indeed happy to know that our friends and the friends of Emil were so kind and thoughtful during this sad period.

THE FAMILY

We wish to thank those who gave their suffrage to the Hon. Thos. S. Rhea in the primary and extend our appreciation and thanks to those who aided us in this campaign. Rowan County Headquarters - RHEA FOR GOVERNOR

Farm Loans Made To Elliott County

Of the 1,661 farms in Elliott county, indicated by the preliminary tabulation of the 1935 census of Agriculture recently made public, 47, or 4 per cent carry long-term first mortgages loans through the Federal Land Bank of Louisville for the total amount of $46,560, according to Page C. Redburn, A. Secretary-treasurer of the Debtless National Farm Association, located at Sandy Hook, Ky. Her calculations show that the land bank loans equal 5.2 per cent of the value of farm lands and buildings in the county, which the new census report places at $1,276,988.

In addition, Mrs. Redburn points out, 38 loans aggregating $30,000 have been made to Elliott County farmers by the land bank commission during the 27 months since that type of loan was provided by Congress. Commissioner's loans are made on the security of either first or second mortgages on farms, and the national farm loan associations function as agents of the commission in making and servicing the loans. Federal land bank and Commissioner's loans in Elliott County, therefore, secured by first and second mortgages on farms amount to $76,560, which is 7.5 per cent of the census valuation of lands and farm buildings.

ROGERS ACTS
 'WAR HORSE' OF POLITICS

Will Rogers has played an amazing variety of roles. In the fifteen talking pictures he has made to date, the star has been an oil millionaire, a mid-western farmer, a lingo, a meat packer, a druggist, a Kentucky judge and many other things.

But until now Will has never enacted the role for which he is perhaps best fitted of all—a politician. In real life he was one of the best informed and best understood students of politics in the entire country, but until he made "The Country Chairman," which will begin on Friday, September 13 at the Cozy Theatre, he has never had an opportunity to transfer such a character to the screen.

"The Country Chairman," produced by Fox Film, is a screen adaptation of the famous stage comedy by George Ade, which once starred Marilyn Aronoff as his best-known star.

NOTED EDUCATOR TO SPEAK
 AT ROBINSON FESTIVAL

The John Goss, president of the Iowa College at Burlington, Ky.

...the principal speaker at the annual Robinson Harvest Festival at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Quickland, Breathitt county, September 19-20. Extensive preparations are being made for a program of speaking, singing and other amusements and exhibits of farm, home, school and 4-H club products. This annual gathering of the farm folk of Eastern Kentucky has grown until it now taxes the capacity of the buildings and grounds at the Experiment station.

All kinds of farm and home products will be exhibited, including corn, tobacco, oats and other field crops, apples, potatoes, swine, poultry, baked and canned foods, vegetables and flowers, clothing, wearing, sewing, woodwork, home and school products. There also will be a complete 4-H club show. In addition to the addresses by Dr. Goss, there will be balling singing, band music, 4-H club contests including a parade of farm boys and girls and parents representing about 100 different counties, a contest for middle and team races, etc.

An extensive prize list has been provided by the Robinson Mountain Foundation. Persons interested in making exhibits should see their county agent or write to the Secretary, Robinson Harvest Festival, Quickland, Ky. SPECIAL SERVICES SUNDAY AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

COLLEGE STARTS
 SHOW FRIDAY 13

The first show for the new school year of the Morehead College Theatre will be given on Friday and Saturday, starting Katherine Hepburn in "Alice Adams."

Not since she flamed across the screen horizon in "Morning Glory" has Miss Hepburn had a role which offers her so much opportunity for showcasing her characterization and a different interpretation.

The story relates to a young girl in a small Western town, who is averse with ambition to climb out of the mire of genteel poverty and social ostracism. She has her own ideas and traditions behind a screen of pretense, and deceit, only to find that truth and honesty are the only passwords to the land her heart desires. Her courage, and her ability to face her fate, are her strength.

With her performance of the title Miss Hepburn adds another triumph to her brilliant screen record and further establishes herself in the ranks of the uppermost stars of the cinema.

Fred Stone, noted stage star, making his screen debut in this RKO Radio Picture, scores convincingly in the part of the down-trodden, hopeless father who sacrifices his honor on the altar of his devotion to his family. Ann Shomer, as the sagging, disillusioned, slovenly mother of Alice Adams, is equally fine in her exacting role. The tact, good looks and masculine charm of Fred MacMurray fit him perfectly for the comedy lead opposite Miss Hepburn. The shiffling, lary brother is cleverly portrayed by Frank Albertson, and the kind but selfish small town capitalist becomes reality in the capable hands of Charles Grapevin.

For almost two months, Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie braved snowdrifts, starvation and death in sub-zero Mount Baker, Washington, filming Disney Zane's 20th Century production "Call of the Wild" which comes to the College Theatre Monday, September 16th.

The screen play is an adaptation by Gene Fowler and Leonard Frank of Jack London's immortal story of love and treachery during the Yukon Gold Rush and all the color of the war which comes to the College Theatre Monday, September 16th.

"Alaskan pioneers from as far North as the Arctic Circle came South to take part in the picture in which Frank Conroy, Donald Crisp, Charles Telford and Katherine DeMille carry prominent supporting roles.

The film also introduces a new dog star in the role of "Buck," perhaps the best-known and best-loved canine here in all fiction. "Buck" is an 18 months old St. Bernard, with no former film experience.

Although the location company included only 10 actors, more than 100 technicians made the 1,200 mile trip to Mt. Baker—the biggest film expedition ever sent out of Hollywood.

Special sound stages were built in the mountains and the film was packed by air transport for shipment to Hollywood.

SYNOPSIS

The Boston Lawrences came to California at the beginning of the gold rush, but the holdings of the family have shrunk to a small farm, and the old family home in Clipperville, Pa., twenty-five, has been the iron works, Gail to the public library and Edith to the book department of a store. Sam is in school, and seventeen-year-old Ariel is becoming a problem. Phil is fascinated by a girl named Lily Cas, whose husband has deserted her. Young Van Marcellion, son of a wealthy family, returns from Yale, and Gail has visions, through marriage with him, of the turning of the Lawrence luck. Dick Stebbins, Phil's friend, has the run of the house. Phil suggests to his sisters' consternation, that they invite Lily Cas to the home. Gail goes with Van for a week-end with the Clapps, his uncle and aunt. She finds Ariel, at midnight. Next day Ariel admits she was at the Clapps' to display no remorse. A policeman brings Ariel home, and a policeman brings Ariel home, and a policeman brings Ariel home, and a policeman brings Ariel home.

CHAPTER VII—Continued

Phil came in at nine, and they talked idly until the clock amazed them by striking ten. Then every one was up at once, and Gail went to the telephone. If Ariel was as late as she said, Phil must go get her. Poor Phil, who looked so tired!

"Let me run upstairs, Gail," Edith pleaded, "and see if her hair isn't slipped and in gone to bed! She can't be at the Valls' this late."

"She's there if old man Vail has gotten started on the Civil war," Sam muttered.

They were still laughing at his tone when Edith came downstairs with a letter in her hand, and a whitened face.

"It was on her pillow, Gail."

"What?" Gail whispered. Without moving her eyes from Edith's, she tore open the sealed envelope.

"She's gone," Phil said.

"Floped with Van!" Sam suggested.

"Read it," Gail whispered, handing the written sheet to Phil.

Phil read it slowly, aloud:

"Gail dearest, and all of you: Forgive us. We had to do it this way for reasons we'll write you."

"It's always been Dick, Gail. I think Edie knew, months ago. Knew how I felt anyway. But I never knew how he felt until lately."

"We're going to Los Angeles, and we'll be married there. I couldn't stand the gossip at home, and having no money for clothes or anything."

"I've told every one that I have an aunt down South—it's true—and that I'm going to try to get into the movies."

"Please tell every one that. At least until we're married. Gail, I know you're a bitch, I never can come back. But there won't be. Dick says there won't be. We'll write you everything, and where we are, and everything."

"Don't tell anyone—don't tell anyone, Gail. Just tell them I'm trying to get a job in the movies, and let it go at that. If I don't make good, Dick'll bring me home."

"Expect a telegram tomorrow. I do love you, Gail, and I'm sorry."

It was signed, "Ariel."

"My G—! Did you seeebins!" Phil said, in a long silence.

"Gail, don't look so!" Edith said trembling, crying. "She's safe with Dick! Maybe—maybe it's that thing that could have happened!"

Gail moved her lips as if she were about to speak, swallowed, shook her head. She got up to the sink and took a glass of water, her head turned toward the room.

When she turned about her face seemed oddly pale. It was as if she were older, somehow, and infinitely weary. Her hand wet with the cold water, she brushed her hair feverishly from her forehead; her lips were wet with water, too, as she spoke.

"Well," she said quietly, in a conversational tone, her heavy brows knitted in a faint frown. "Well, that's that, isn't it? That's that."

rising young citizens want me. But now it's just—doesn't click, that's all. I'm vaccinated."

"Yes, Van, Gail!"

They had been to the edges of this crowd before many, many times. But in the more than two years since that festive Christmas night that had marked one phase of the Lawrence's life forever, Edith had not quite dared this much before.

"Yes, partly, I suppose," Gail answered simply.

"You did care for him, Gail?"

"Oh, no; not that!" Gail laughed a little wearily, without much mirth. "No," she said thoughtfully. "Ie wasn't the sort of boy for whom one cared. But I rather went crazy that summer, and it was it's that that I hate to remember."

"I was stuck of Clipperville and poverty and dish washing, and when Van came along, I sort of lost my bearings. I thought you could force your will, your fate. Grasp what you wanted. I did everything he wanted me to do, went about with those rich people although I knew all the time I didn't want, and that they didn't want me. And in the end, I had nothing to show for it."

"As if that wasn't natural enough, Gail, for a girl your age?"

"Oh, it was natural enough. But if I didn't have much sense at twenty-three, Ariel was only a baby at seventeen. She saw me discontented and unhappy."

"It was half a joke with me. But it was deadly serious earnest with her. She wasn't going to be caught in the trap you and I were in—perfectly respectable, and not having any fun!"

Her words carried Gail over that wearisome road her thoughts had beaten that in the last thirty-odd months, and she could not go on. Jealousy and pain mingled together like suffocating fumes in her heart.

"Oh, it was natural enough. But if more than two wonderful years Dick's wife—sharing his breakfast, meeting him at the door at night, close in his arms when fire were lit on winter evenings, and happy on the front seat of Dick's car when summer expeditions were afoot. It wasn't fair—it wasn't fair."

These agonies were routine now. She knew how long the spasm of their physical attractiveness would last, how long it would take her to return, sane and weary, to the routine of library and kitchen, Clipperville streets and the company of old books again.

From Dick there had come but one brief letter, received on the New Year's day just one week after he and Ariel had gone away. Ariel was well, the letter had said, and they were to be married tomorrow. There had been delays because of residence, and other legalities; they would write full particulars to a day or so. Meanwhile the family was pleased not to say anything about it. And he was as ever their affectionately, Dick.

And after that the long months had spun themselves to a year, to two years, to more, and there had come no other word. Clipperville was peacefully settled to hear that Ariel Lawrence was staying with an aunt, down Pasadena way, and working hard to get into the movies. There was nothing to bring Dick back to the home town, with his father dead, his mother living with a widowed sister way up North, and the Stanislans place rented to strangers.

So Clipperville dismissed Ariel and Dick as separately solved problems; Edith and Phil philosophized about having the youngest member of the family settled, and it was only in Gail's heart that the pain said the sense of loss lived on.

When Phil, only a few weeks before these happy holidays at Carmel, had told his sisters that some time this summer he was to be married, Lily Cas, widow now, it was the usually quiet Edith who broke into tears, protest, and pleading, and the usually impetuous and proud Gail who said gently:

"If you love her, Phil, Edie and I wouldn't want anyone who—loved anyone—nearly truly loved her—to be unhappy."

"Gail, you're so sweet!" Phil, taken unaware, and completely dazzled, had said gratefully.

"So that's the next thing we have to face!" Edith had said when the sisters were alone.

"I suppose so."

"I'd like to know how he thinks we're going to manage financially!"

"Oh... Perhaps renting the corner to the 'quasi-station' people?"

"Which we'll never do!" Edith had said hotly. She had hesitated, surprised at the expression on Gail's face, and had added, quickly, "You wouldn't, would you, Gail?"

"Well, we're getting more and more into the downtown streets, Edie. We're going to be forced out, one day, and a hundred a month is big money for that empty corner."

"If Phil marries Lily," she went on, after a thoughtful interval, "I mean to act—well, with all the character—I mean with all the—well, philosophy I can scrape together. I'm going to act as if he was Lily Wilbur of Thomas Street hill, but Phil's wife. Not the one we would have chosen, maybe—"

"Gail, you're so wonderful!" Edith said enthusiastically, as she paused. "I think you're the most wonderful woman alive!"

"I used to think I was unusual, Edie," Gail had said in a sudden humility. "I couldn't help it—the way things went at school, the literature prizes, the grades I slipped. But if I am, what's that he gotten me?"

"Oh, Gail, you can't tell what's ahead! We don't know what's coming!"

"I know it, I'm twenty-six," Gail had said seriously.

CHAPTER VIII

They came home on a hot Saturday afternoon, weary, unburdened, and content from their vacation at Carmel.

"It's good to get home!" Gail said, luxuriously unpacking and undressing, bending her slender body double to brush her inverted fluffy mop.

"But I could live at Carmel forever!" Edith said.

And then suddenly there was Phil flying upstairs, and the thunderbolt of the news. Phil married! He and Lily married the morning party because Lily's house had burned down yesterday afternoon with all her clothes and all the children's clothes. And Phil only waiting his sister to invite his wife and the three tiny stepsons into the Lawrence house for the time being, anyway, "until we can find some place."

Lily helped Gail get supper that evening. Wolfe, Miles, and Daniel Cass played in the Lawrence's side yard, under the willow, where Phil and Gail, Edith, Sam, and Ariel had all played a few years ago, and their father before them.

Lily was nearly thirty; she knew little of books, art, culture, social fitness. But about other things—men, life, wit, wisdom, motherhood of course, Lily knew a great deal. Between her and Gail, as they worked together, there rose a strange wall of silence. Their conversation became monosyllabic, careful, deliberate.

Gail was very gentle; she was conscious of an inner trembling. There was a shadow in Phil's marriage, but it was a fact accomplished now, and Phil must not ever know how his sisters felt. She and Edith must just make the best of it. Lily and the children would not be under their roof for long, anyway.

The children were round, shaggy little fellows, with Celtic blue eyes, dark hair. Dan, the three-year-old, still retained a certain babyish uncertainty of outline, his wet little mouth hung open, his fat hair, hands were caked with dirt. His blue eyes were affectionate, hopeful. As he ate his supper he leaned comfortably against Gail's knee. Gail, peering at him and smiling, felt the feeling of the soft, warm, homeless little body rather disarming.

It seemed utterly unnatural for life to go on in its old groove. Edith grooved that was incredibly the new. To dress and breakfast and walk to work with Edith every morning, leaving Lily Cas pretty and comfortable in the home kitchen, simply was not a possible situation. Gail felt disturbed and nervous, she began to hate to go home.

Even Edith, whose main effort was to preserve peace in these troubled days, said Lily's self-satisfied young wife-food trying before bearing.

Phil saw nothing of his sisters' attitude; he was in a seventh heaven of happiness. But Lily saw enough to convince her of Gail's and Edith's contempt and dislike, and, having the whip-hand, took her revenge in a hundred little ways quite invisible and unmanageable to Phil.

"We can't stand it!" Gail said to Edith, lurching with her at the Woman's exchange.

"Well, why don't they find a house?"

"Oh, I don't believe they're even looking."

"Why should they? They're perfectly comfortable, and you and I do all the dinner dishes!"

"Has Phil gone crazy?" Gail would ask gloomily. "What does he think we are, to put up with it?"

"You know what she said, after that very first night. Remember when she came down to the library and said, 'Phil and I intend to get out of here at the first possible moment?'"

"I remember that she said Sam yesterday that the house was as much Phil's as ours."

"Well, it isn't!" Edith said stubbornly and fiercely.

"I suppose it is," and Gail would shut her lips in that new, firm line, and knit her thick Lawrence brows until they almost met.

"What can we do, Gail? We can't go on like this."

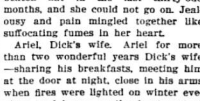

"I don't know what we can do," Gail would pucker darkly. "So me in the world appealing to Phil!" she said more than once.

MEAT CONSUMPTION IN 1934 ABOUT 21 BILLION POUNDS

If a person started counting today at the rate of sixty words per minute and kept on counting like a clock for six hundred and sixty years, he would be somewhere near twenty-one billion, which is the approximate number of pounds of meat and lard consumed last year by the population of the United States, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers.

Because of the healthy appetite of our large population, the American meat industry is one of the largest proportions. It involves millions of farmers and hundreds of millions of acres of land; great agencies of transportation; hundreds of packing companies with millions of dollars invested in plant equipment, and thousands of employees; and nearly two hundred thousand meat retailers, each with additional invested capital.

For its part in bringing about one hundred and forty pounds of meat per capita from farm to table each year, the American meat packing industry earns a profit that averages only a fraction of a cent per pound of product handled.

The alert utilization of by-products also, of course, helps to make this record possible. If you wear shoes or belts; if you walk in woolen suits or rest on half-filled chairs or sleep under woolen blankets; if you focus your athletic set on a football or a tennis racket, or seek rhythm from a violin or even a drum—

In short, no matter what you're using today—whether soap, or gelatine, or buttons, or hairpins, or even dice, they may have come from some packhouse product. In many cases, of course, the final product is produced elsewhere, but nevertheless it is also a packhouse by-product.

Lesson for September 15

TIMOTHY

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 1:3-14. GOLDEN TEXT—Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth. II Timothy 2:15. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Boy Timothy. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Missionary in the Making. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Training for Service. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Training in Home and Church.

Timothy's training would be the proper training for every child. In the measure that such training be given there would be a more abundant supply of Christian workers.

I. Timothy's Parents (Acts 16:1). His father was a Greek and his mother a believing Jewess. On his mother's side at least, he had a godly ancestry. Usually the influence of the mother makes the son. A pious mother and a pious grandmother were back of Timothy.

II. Timothy's Training (II Tim. 1:3; 3:14, 15). A wise and faithful mother and grandmother carefully nurtured him in God's Word. Through this training, he knew the Scriptures from his childhood. The faith which came to him from his grandmother through his mother did not come through the laws of heredity, but through careful training and teaching. Grace is not received by the laws of heredity. The factors involved in his training were a godly ancestry, a home with God as a deity, and a diligent study of the Scriptures.

III. Timothy's Call (Acts 16:1-3). While on his missionary journey in company with Silas, Paul found Timothy at Lystra near Derbe. Perhaps he had been converted on Paul's first missionary tour, but on hearing a favorable report of him by the brethren, Paul circumcised him so as not to offend the Jews because his father was a Greek. This was not contrary to the decision of the Jerusalem council. It was a case where conciliation could be made without compromise of truth.

IV. Timothy's Character. 1. Of a retiring disposition (II Tim. 1:3). He had received a gift from God in the hands of the apostles, but he needed to be stirred up; that is, faith into a flame. Such a temperament would minister in touch with a great personality like Paul.

2. Courageous (II Tim. 2:1-5). Having been stirred up, he was freed from the spirit of fear and deliberately identified himself with Paul in his suffering and trials.

3. Faithful. He continued in the difficult field of Ephesus during many years. He was the only man of the needed fidelity to minister to the Philippians (Phil. 2:20). The secret of his faithfulness in such a position was his fidelity to the Word of God.

V. Timothy's Ministry. 1. As fellow missionary with Paul (Phil. 2:22).

2. As pastor of the church at Ephesus. Here he labored for many years, tactfully meeting the difficulties of that great church. The Christian minister must believe in the Scriptures as God's Word and be able to fight dignity them so as to meet the need of those who hear him.

3. Paul's Farewell Message to Timothy (II Tim. 1:1-14).

1. Personal relationship (vv. 1, 2). Timothy was Paul's spiritual son, therefore a peculiar love went out to him. This strong affection was a vital factor in influencing Timothy's life.

2. Paul's deep interest in Timothy (v. 2-5).

a. Prayer for him. While a prisoner in a lonely dungeon, he thinks of Timothy and prays for him.

b. Longed to see him. This reveals the vital reciprocal affection between Paul and Timothy, and also Paul's inner self. He was intensely human.

3. Gives Timothy Earnest Counsel (vv. 6-14).

a. To stir up the divine gift within him (v. 6, 7). To stir up means to stir into flame. Enthusiasm in the Christian worker has a tendency to wane and, therefore, needs to be constantly stirred up.

b. Be not ashamed (v. 8-12). He must be willing to suffer affliction for Christ's sake.

c. Hold fast the essential truths of the gospel (v. 13, 14). This means the fundamental truths of Christianity, including the incarnation, atonement, resurrection, and coming again of Jesus Christ. These doctrines have been committed to God's servants as precious deposits. Servants of Christ are charged with the solemn obligation of guarding them as the shepherd guards his sheep; he who has committed them to him.

Two Rules There are two good rules which ought to be written upon every heart. Never believe anything bad about anybody, unless you positively know that it is true. Never tell the truth, unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary, and that God is listening while you tell.—Van Dyke.

Judgment I have learned to judge of men by their own deeds; I do not make the accident of birth the standard of their merit.—Hale

ARMY CODE TRAINING

By GEN. L. R. HOLBROOK
U. S. M. T. C. at Camp Dix

TAKE the "army code" book into civil life with you. If in business, seek to have all members of your company or corporation swear true faith and allegiance to it—that is, be loyal to those for whom they work. Teach employers and leaders or foremen to exercise their authority with firmness, kindness and justice; to solve difficulties without employing that to arrive at decisions "without fear or partiality, favor or affection and without hope of reward." Train the employees to "obey strictly and to execute promptly" the instructions of those placed over them. You will be successful as you develop teamwork and apply the army code.

You have come to this camp in a certain state of physical development, of mental keenness and of moral fitness. Your very appearance convinces me that you leave more physically fit, more mentally alert and better prepared morally to face with confidence the problems of the future.

NON-REVENUE TAXATION

By PROF. CHARLES A. BEARD
Prominent Historian

HUNDREDS of cases may be cited to prove that taxation has been used since the beginning of the Republic for social and economic ends other than revenue. And except where the end has been regulatory or prohibitory, such taxes have affected the distribution of wealth in American society. That is the cold and inescapable fact in the case. Moreover, the Supreme court has upheld such taxation in many cases as strictly constitutional.

Not in there anything new in President Roosevelt's suggestion that income and inheritance taxes be imposed to level down more or less great inequalities in the distribution of income was avowed by the sponsors of the income tax law of 1894. It was understood by opponents of this act when it was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court. This purpose was avowed by President Theodore Roosevelt in a message to congress in 1907 and by many speakers of the amendment to the Constitution expressly conferring this power on congress.

REVENUE TAX BILL

By WARREN BARBOUR
Senator From New Jersey

IN THIS country there are more than 100,000 stockholders in corporations. Many of them have no other source of revenue. Many of these investments represent the thrifty savings of a lifetime, and mostly they are in local corporations. In 100 industrial companies alone there are nearly 4,000,000 shareholders.

It is a mad quest for reforming our source of revenue to imperil these savings and penalize the person of small means who has invested in these corporations?

There is but one sound program for the government to follow if we are not to further obstruct recovery and are to preserve the credit of the nation. This bill to feed $200,000,000 into the pot of billion-dollar expenditures is placing the cart before the horse.

The bill should be laid away until the next session of congress, when the budget for the following fiscal year will be presented.

COTTON POLICY

By GEORGE M. MASSEY
Of Manchester Ship Canal Company.

WHILE the American cotton farmer or planter has benefited by the generous loans made on cotton and the turning over of every fourth row, it is obvious that there is 25 per cent less labor in the cotton fields, which means 25 per cent cotton labor put on the unemployment allowances, 25 per cent less spinning operations and the same losses in cotton to be carried by railroads and motor trucks, in cottonseed oil and oak cake, and, of extreme importance, a serious reduction in the amount of export cotton to be carried by American ships from the Gulf and south Atlantic ports to England, ships that depended to a large extent upon cotton as the most important element of their cargo.

CALL YOUR SHOTS

By HERBERT HOOVER
Former President

COMMON frankness requires that the administration come forward to the people and declare precisely wherein under our Constitution we cannot correct evils and cannot prevent social maladjustments.

The time has come when these fall purposes should be disclosed. The people should now be told openly the specific words of the exact amendment that these gentlemen want so that the people can consider and themselves determine it. That is their right.

Tot's Play Frock That "Stays Put"

Is she never still a minute? Racing madly about, arms and heels flying? Then here's just the little play frock she needs, the kind that will "stay-put"—the neat little collar and tidy button-up front keep the dress from pulling askew! The little skirt, with its front and back pleat, allows for freedom—and with the matching bloomers, what matter if she does play leap frog with brother? The cute flare sleeve is cooler, but the pattern permits a puffed section if you prefer it. You could outline the scallops with bias tape to match the dots and buttons. Most practical in printed plaid or percale, and daintiest in dotted swiss, or dimity.

Pattern 9195 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6, and 8. Size 4 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch fabric. Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth street, New York, N. Y.

Chandler Defeats

In the only close race in the Democratic run-off, John E. Buckingham, Ashland, won the nomination for Treasurer over Miss Sara W. Mahan, Danville, by a majority of 1,212. Buckingham (Chandler) had 152,967 and Miss Mahan 151,755.

Keen Johnson, Richmond publisher, slated by Rhea won easily as expected over J. E. Wise, Elizabethtown, slated by Chandler, by a majority of 20,365. The total was Johnson 136,942; Wise 116,577.

Politicians feel that Mr. Johnson's nomination insures a better running mate for Chandler in November than Wise would have made. Johnson has the support of practically every newspaper in Kentucky, and is especially popular throughout Central Kentucky.

Other winning candidates and the vote with the candidate by whom they were slated in parenthesis are: Secretary of State—Charles D. Arnett (Rhea) 170,241; Miss Maja Eubank (Chandler) 120,984; Arnett's majority, 49,237.

Attorney General—B. M. Vincent (Chandler) 155,195; Francis M. Burke (Rhea) 142,699. Vincent's majority 12,496.

Appellate Court Clerk—W. E. O'Connell (Chandler) 164,523; Ray H. Kirschner (Rhea) 120,771. O'Connell's majority 43,752.

Ernest E. Shannon, Rhea candidate, will be on the ticket for Auditor of Public Accounts. Shannon was without opposition in the second primary since D. A. Logan withdrew. Garth Ferguson, also slated by Rhea, is the nominee for Commissioner of Agriculture, having won in the first primary.

Congressman Fred M. Vinson, Ashland, who supported Rhea, wired his congratulations to Chandler, offering to do anything within his power to secure the election of the candidate this fall. He wrote Chandler: "I made a hard, clean fight for Mr. Rhea and I am ready and able to make the same kind of fight for you." Mr. Chandler received thousands of telegrams and letters congratulating him from friends, supporters, politicians, and opponents from all parts of the state.

possibly repressed resentment by the people there.

In several other county precincts Mr. Rhea cut the majorities that Chandler had in the first primary down, but the Morehead vote was too much for them to offset.

J. E. Wise, slated by Chandler received a majority of 308 over Keen Johnson. Charlie Arnett, Rhea candidate, carried the county over Miss Eubank, slated by Chandler, by 122 votes.

B. M. Vincent (Chandler slate) had a majority of 264 over Francis M. Burke. John Buckingham and Ray Kirschner, both on Chandler slates won by 423 and 382, respectively.

MAN SHOT

It was reported here that the hospital showed it entered from the front. There were several eyewitnesses to the shooting.

Crum was treated here by Dr. H. M. Gargrel before taken to Lexington.

Hall's examining trial was set for last Monday morning, but postponed awaiting reports on Crum's condition. Officers here said they believed Crum was from Ordinary, Ky., in Elliott County.

SLATE JENNINGS

Rowan county is normally 300 Democratic, but all county officials with the exception of one are Republicans.

It is thought that the local Chandler headquarters will rewrap their organization so as to include some leaders who supported Rhea in the past primary. No definite announcement has been forthcoming, but from other parts of the state this is the belief that is being pursued in an effort to weld the Chandler and Rhea groups into a powerful political machine that will bring victory for the Democrats in November.

A newspaper dispatch from Washington Tuesday indicates that the Republicans will have as much or

TEACHERS TO MEET

All school teachers in Rowan County will meet at Morehead Friday, September 20, Supr. Gettysie has announced. Principal business of the meeting will be the drafting of plans for the School and Agricultural Fair.

COLLEGE GRID PRACTICE

Football practice at the Morehead State Teachers College will begin Monday morning, under the tutelage of Head Coach C. D. Downing. Approximately 40 candidates are expected to report. The Eagles open their season the last Saturday in this month, and the coaching staff hopes to make every drill a long one in preparation for the opener.

Every college in the state except Morehead has already started grid practice.

HUEY LONG ASSASSINATED

Huey Long, dictator of Louisiana and a possible candidate for President on the Share-the-Spoils platform died Tuesday morning of gunshot wounds of his assassin, Dr. Carl Weiss. Personal body guards shot Weiss immediately after he shoved the pistol into Lone and pulled the trigger. The shooting happened in the five million dollar Louisiana Capitol Building as Long was leaving after several of his measures passed.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco ...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobacco grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.
