Morehead Visited By Virginia Boosters

The Regional Chamber of Commerce From Southwest Virginia Here Wednesday.

The motorcade of the Southwest Chamber of Commerce which starts from Norton, Va., Monday, and which includes nineteen counties of the South Western part of the State of Virginia and four cities, Norton, Roanoke and S. Paul, Va., and Bluefield, W. Va., came through Morehead Wednesday at noon.

They were met by the businessmen of Morehead and welcomed to our city with all the splendor and courtesy due Southern ladies and gentlemen. An elegant luncheon was prepared by the ladies of the Christian church and served to the visiting guests as well as the businessmen of this community. The editor being a lady and not a "business man" wants to thank the committee for the special invitation.

The welcome address was made by Dr. M. E. Stiles of the Baptist church, who in a short speech told of the many things in and around Morehead that we were proud of, but ended by saying that most of all Morehead was proud of its girls and boys. The response was made by Irvin L. Spangler, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Wytheville, Va. Charley Farrington, of the Daily Telegraph, of Bluefield, W. Va., made a short but humorous speech, telling why he was glad the motorcade came this way, one reason was the wonderful luncheon served them by the ladies.

Several of the men who started from Norton, Va., with them turned back at Huntington, W. Va., because of the extreme hot weather.

P. T. Atkinson, editor of the Coal Field Progress at Norton, Va., one of the sponsors of the trip, was also along as were a few ladies who braved the heat so as to make the trip and admire the scenery of the Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky states.

Hugh Ikehott, editor of the Bluefield Daily Telegraph, came along with several of his reporters and office men. They brought with them a truck load of a special edition of their paper, setting forth the advantages of Southwest Virginia.

All in all it was a pleasant day for the business people of Morehead who had the opportunity of meeting and mixing with the ladies and gentlemen who made the Good Will Tour for no other reason than to get better acquainted with the people along the route and to give to them the glad hand of fellowship. Come again Virginians, we welcome you.

The party left at one o'clock for their next stop which was Mt. Sterling, where they were met by the business people at the Court House lawn and extended the hand of friendship.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. T. B. Tippett entertained thirty-five little girls and boys, Tuesday from 3 to 5 p. m. in honor of the eighth birthday of her grandson, Orion Lee Marple, of Hampton, Virginia.

Games conducted by Mary Eather Hurt and Mary Olive Elder, were played on the large shady lawn, after which the cream and angel-cake made added a refreshing pleasure to a very happy afternoon. Orion received many beautiful and useful gifts and pronounced it the best birthday he had ever had.

BOY RUN OVER BY WAGON

James Allen Bugher the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Butcher was run over by the rear wheel of a wagon driven by Mr. Wells, driver for the Morehead Coal and Lumber Company, Tuesday, and was seriously injured. The child happened on the breaks of the wagon and Mr. Wells did not know he was there until the accident had taken place. He was rushed to a Lexington hospital for treatment and is getting along nicely. The wagon was loaded with lumber and passed over his chest.

JAILER IN HOSPITAL

Jailer Melvin Hamm left this week for Lexington to enter a hospital for treatment. His many friends hope for his speedy recovery.

RESTAURANT BOUGHT

The restaurant formerly owned by Mr. Stidham on Railroad street has been bought by J. W. Conley of Morgan county.

A POLITE CLERK

Roscoe Hutchison has accepted a position with Daniels and Haven's meat market, where he will be glad to meet his old friends as well as new ones.

JUDGE TUSSEY BETTER

We are glad to report that Judge Richmond Tussey, who has been quite ill the past week, is improving. Judge Tussey was stricken a week ago with acute indigestion.

EAGLE'S NEST PAINTED

The interior of the Eagle's Nest is receiving a new coat of paint this week. The work is being finished in blue and gold with a bronze eagle on the back wall. Also the booths are being refinished. This will be quite an improvement for the Eagle's Nest.

WARD ELY HURT

Thursday while working were working at the water line on Railroad street, a water cap flew off striking Ward Ely in the head just above the eye inflicting a wound which required seven stitches to close. Mr. Ely's many friends are glad that it didn't prove more serious.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Frank Davis, of this city, was stricken Monday evening with apoplexy. Tuesday morning he was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital at Lexington and operated on. At last reports he was doing nicely. His brother, Charley Davis, accompanied him to Lexington and remained until after the operation.

CIRCLE MEETING

Miss Mildred Blair was hostess Tuesday afternoon to the regular meeting of the last Faith Humphrey Mission Circle of the Christian church. After the program a delicious luncheon consisting of sandwiches, pickles and olives, cake and punch were served the following young ladies:

Miss Annie Lee Martin, Lida Marie Caudill, Margarette Calvert, Pearl Adams, Louise Hunt, and Mildred Watly. Miss Grace Cassity was the guest of the circle.

HAWKINS PLAYERS HAVE A GOOD WEEK

"Customers" of the Bud Hawkins' show have been royally entertained this week by the play and vaudeville acts given by the company. Each play has had a good hearty laugh from start to finish as well as a lesson in it. The test has been filled each night. The company will give a Merchant's Fair this afternoon (Saturday) and it will be free to all who ask for tickets from the various merchants. The music given by the orchestra was excellent and much enjoyed by the audience. We believe that this is the best year of all. Bud Hawkins with his quaint humor is always welcome to Morehead.

RECEPTION FOR MRS. NICKELL

A pretty reception was held Saturday evening of last week at the parlors of the Baptist church in honor of Mrs. Clarence Nickell who left Monday for Nicholasville, Ky., where Prof. Nickell is principal of the high school there.

The parlor was decorated with pretty garden flowers of the season. During the social hour Mrs. H. C. Hagan, president of the club, in an appropriate speech, presented to Mrs. Nickell a beautiful picture of "Baby" Stuart. Mrs. Nickell in her acceptance of the token told the ladies how the work with the club had been a pleasure, and that she was not going so far but that she would come back and visit with the club and again enjoy the companionship of the ladies when she had worked with for two years. At the close of the reception delightful refreshments were served. Several members were present.

Democratic Candidate For Governor Here

Robert T. Crowe Visitor in Morehead.—Brands Attack on Citizenship as Ridiculous.

Robert T. Crowe, of La Grange, who is candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor was in Morehead Tuesday in the interest of his race. While here he was a visitor at the Scorchers office. Mr. Crowe is a man of pleasing personality and congeniality.

Mr. Crowe said that the attacks made on his citizenship were too ridiculous to merit answer.

Mr. Crowe was born in Ontario, Canada, May 27, 1875, near the United States border. He came to this country when a small boy, with his parents. As soon as he became 21 years of age he became naturalized in the year 1896 in Ontario, Canada, May 27, 1875, near the United States border. Mr. Crowe has in his possession a copy of the court record and the information was furnished to the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times by W. L. Dawson, editor of the Oldham Era. La Grange, in January, immediately after Mr. Crowe had announced for this office.

NORMAL NOTES

The second term of the summer school started Tuesday morning with an enrollment of 175. This is the largest enrollment for the second term since the Normal School has been established. The small number for the second term of course is because of the fact that the teachers have to go to their respective schools as the rural schools begin so early.

The following have leave of absence for this term: Misses Evelyn Royally, music teacher; Emma Shady, express; Prof. Clarence Nickell, H. C. and Prof. McGuire, history.

Prof. H. C. Hagan could not meet his classes Tuesday and Wednesday because of illness.

Miss Dorothy Hesson will leave Friday for her home in Vanceburg. Miss Hesson will spend her vacation at home and return at the beginning of the next semester this fall.

Misses Lydia and Mabel Amberg were invited to Grayson and Ashland and spent the week-end.

Several from here have been attending the Redpath Chautauqua at Mt. Sterling this week.

Miss Bryant, demonstration teacher, will meet with the primary education classes this term.

Clark Lane went to Owingsville Monday on business.

The following are the new members of the faculty who have been here during the two summer terms: Dr. Wm. H. Jillean, State Geologist; Prof. F. A. Scott, of Paris Senior High School; Prof. L. D. Caldwell, Superintendent Boyd County Schools; Superintendent C. E. Ackley, of the Ashland City Schools; Prof. McKinley Elam, and Prof. W. A. Ashbrook, both of Lexington, and Miss Katy Bryan, who taught primary methods.

Misses Katherine Braun and Ruby Hard spent the week-end at points of interest up the Big Sandy Valley.

ROLLERS AT RAILROAD TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

As a means for reducing automobile accidents at railroad crossings, an Ohio inventor has patented a roller device which has proved effective under tests, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. There are two sets of rollers, each eighteen feet long, installed in the highway near the rail approach. They revolve only one way and when the automobile strikes them, as a train is approaching, they turn, keeping the car from going forward. When the train passes, a switch locks the rollers so that the auto can proceed.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Eighteen years ago an Italian manufacturer, noting the steady column of volcanic steam coming from the ground in an Italian mountain valley, conceived the idea that this steam could be made to drive an engine.

This experiment in the utilization of volcanic steam has been successfully followed in many parts of the world. In Bolivia the government has granted a concession through which steam from Mt. Tatío will be made use of in generating electrical energy for Bolivian railroads.

Engineers state that our own country, particularly Yellowstone Park, possesses untold sources of wealth of this description.

Mechanical engineers are becoming more and more interested in the problem of utilizing the tides of the sea for generating electric power.

English engineers have stated that it is only a matter of time until the tidal activities in the harbors of Southern England will be made use of, while engineers in the United States and Canada are interested in making use of the problem of tides in the Bay of Fundy.

The development of hydro-electric power, which in recent years has reached large proportions, is, in the opinion of many experts, only in its infancy.

Scientists are experimenting, with apparent hopes of success, in utilizing the sun's rays in the wild as a source of power.

The development of these projects not only provides an interesting study as to what the next 50 or 100 years will bring in the daily lives of the people but it illustrates the great fundamental truth that thrift, conservation and efficiency are among the impelling factors in all human progress.

Why is it that a man never thinks of mending his ways until he finds that he is broke.

HOW IT FEELS TO GO STRAIGHT UP EIGHT MILES

How does it feel to soar more than eight miles into the air, higher than man has ever gone before, up where the air becomes too thin to support life; where the thermometer, headed for the absolute zero of outer space, has already reached nearly seventy below zero.

A few weeks ago I did it, reached 42,470 feet above sea level, and broke every world's altitude record for any kind of craft—airplane or balloon. Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, U. S. A., tells J. Earle Miller in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Within a few weeks I am going up again, confident of making more than 43,000 feet. An 80,000-cubic-foot balloon took me up from Scott field, Belleville, Ill., and once I had reached its ceiling it brought me back so fast that I had to leave it and stop off in space with a parachute to check my descent.

At 42,000 feet, having been kept alive by compressed oxygen for the last four miles, I was listening to a jazz orchestra playing in St. Louis, the music coming in clear and loud on my radio, without a single trace of static.

Up above the cloudless sky was a deep, almost cobalt blue. The dust particles that turn sunlight white are all below me and in the thin and rarefied air above, the sky was magnificent in the depth of its color.

At 40,000 feet I had released the last of my 4,700 pounds of steel ballast and came to a stop. But I had prepared for that by having special parachutes built to carry the weight of each piece of equipment.

One of the pieces of equipment which had been emptied on the way up, and the cylinder, a twenty-five pound steel flask, was dropped over the side. In the rare air, and weakened by breathing oxygen for some time, it seemed to weigh about 150 pounds as I struggled to lift it over the basket rim.

At that height, though still descended less than one-eight of the gas I had started with, as the balloon had climbed into lighter air, and the pressure against it was removed, the gas had rushed out the bottom, keeping the silvered fabric up, the balloon would be full up, the balloon would be full up, the balloon would be full up.

It was time to start back, and a slight pull on the valve cord, which passes up through the inside of the bag to the valve at the top, and, once started, it began to drop, faster and faster, as the altimeter, which records the rate of ascent and descent, indicated. To check it, I began to attach parachutes to other articles of equipment and drop them over the side.

The parachute, which was designed to fall at sixteen feet a second, the same rate as the large chute used by flyers, but the bag was falling so much more rapidly that when I dropped it straight over the side it appeared to fly straight up in the air, because I went past them so fast.

falling 1,800 feet a minute, which is twice the safe landing speed in a parachute, so I finally was forced to leave my ship.

Climbing up on the side of the basket, I held onto the lead ring above, in which all the rigging is concentrated, reached for the valve cord, pulled it down and tied it to the ring so that the bag, when it reached the ground would deflate itself.

Then I jumped and pulled the rip-cord ring of my chute, and drifted downward, while the movie plane circled around and filmed the final chapter.

TESTS OUT COMBINED HARVESTER-THRASHER

Looking forward to the possibility of cutting down wheat growing costs in Kentucky, as has been done in Kansas and other western states, the Agricultural Experiment Station has secured a combined harvester and thrasher to test out and to exhibit in a year or two.

The wheat fields of Kansas hummed to the tune of 10,000 combines this year, eliminating the cost of 30,000 highly paid harvest hands, according to press reports. The cost of harvesting wheat has been materially reduced through the introduction of the combine.

Can Kentucky farmers follow Kansas farmers? That is the question which Director Thomas P. Cooper and his staff at the Agricultural Experiment Station hope to be able to answer in a year or two.

The J. I. Case Threshing Machine Company of Racine, Wis., lent the Experiment Station a combine for exhibition to farmers at the fourth annual crops and soil field day, August 10, a great deal of other modern machinery also will be on exhibition.

Railroads have granted reduced fares from western Kentucky points, and a large attendance is expected from all over the state.

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture. Late Cabbage.

Now is the setting time for late cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and kindred crops, unless the scheme of sowing the seed in the garden row, a few weeks previous, has been used.

The plants should be about a month old, with thick thirty stems, for in the stems is stored the reserve that will make the plants survive transplanting well.

Be compact ball of roots, as well, to insure a large feeding surface. Most plants grown only in a seedling bed are inclined to have long unbranched and rany roots; plants once transplanted are better because of the ball of roots each has. Since trans-

HON. W. C. HAMILTON

For Commonwealth's Attorney

Endorsed for the position and urged to make the race for re-election by Hon. Dan W. Doggett, County Attorney of Bath County, (now a candidate for the same office), by County Judge Josh Ewing, and other officials of the 21st Judicial District.

Mr. Hamilton announced for the position, and has been making a dignified campaign, free from mud-slinging or efforts at deception, telling the voters the truth and asking their support on his record as their servant.

His record in office is without a flaw. He has never side-tracked any duty, but has, without malice or without prejudice, performed every trust faithfully and well. His position has been a trying one—one which has taxed his energies, his mind, his strength, but he has never failed to answer duty's call. His motto has been "No compromise with dishonor."

As a man Mr. Hamilton stands as high as it is possible for human beings to stand in the estimation of the people. He has always taken an active interest in every movement that has been for the betterment of the people of his District.

Sober, discreet, courageous, well versed in the law, and a power in argument before a jury Mr. Hamilton has made a record as an official unsurpassed in the entire State.

Give him your vote and influence at the State Primary Saturday, August 6, 1927.

Members of Hamilton Club

21st Judicial District.

Democrats, Think About This!

The following is submitted for the consideration of Democratic voters in the primary of August 6:

What Mr. Crowe is For—

- Completing the program of the highway commission and respecting all its obligations to the counties.
- Keeping the charitable and penal institutions out of politics.
- Upholding the record of a Democratic administration which has reduced the state debt.
- Protection of labor in its just rights.
- Fairness to all citizens of Kentucky.
- Carrying on the fight for clean elections in Louisville and all the state.
- Regular financial audits and a budget system.
- Saving coal industry from destructive taxes.
- Reduction in the tax rate on real estate.
- Increasing the road funds by continuation of the 5-cent gasoline tax made fair by reduction of the motor license tax.

What is Mr. Beckham For?

He filed suit to repudiate debts of $3,564,497.71 which the highway commission owed, a suit which, if successful, would have stopped road building, ruined numerous banks and bankrupted contractors.

When he was governor, Percy Haly, as chairman, used the board of control to build up a political machine, used in primaries.

He and his backers, Haly and Bingham, have done all in their power to harass the Democratic administration.

The Kentucky state federation of labor opposed him in 1920 and opposes him now.

He voted against woman suffrage.

The record of the old Beckham-Haly machine in primary elections would nullify the Democratic fight for clean elections.

Delivers general assembly "should give thought" to modernizing state government's business methods.

Against a coal tax AT PRESENT, although Bingham, Haly and Hamilton led the fight for it.

His backers say Governor can't effect tax rate.

Vague about gas and motor license taxes, though "Courier-Journal" and W. C. Montgomery attack Crowe plan.

Mr. Crowe Can Win in November

- He has never lost a race.
- He can unite the Democratic party.
- He can carry the city of Louisville as Fields carried it.
- He has made no bitter enemies, since he has been fair to all.
- He has given wholehearted support to the Democratic nominees in the past.
- He will not repudiate the record of an efficient and progressive Democratic administration.

Can Mr. Beckham Win in November?

He was defeated by Senator Ernst when Cox carried the state. He was succeeded by a Republican Governor. W. O. Bradley defeated him for the senate. No subsequent action has enhanced his political strength, though it has been considerably impaired.

His opposition to the road program, the vicious attacks of the "Courier-Journal" on sections of Kentucky and the fear of Percy Haly will alienate many Democrats.

He lost the city of Louisville by 14,000 in 1920.

He is the candidate of a faction which has bitterly assailed the Democratic record of the past four years.

How many Democrats have heard Beckham speak for a nominee in recent years? The "Courier-Journal" did not support Stanley, Fields or Barkley.

Beckham, Bingham and Haly have been the outstanding enemies of the Democratic administration, their policy being that of rule or ruin.

Butter market Chicago today on 90 Score Standards is 29 1/2 cents. New York market 92 Score Extras is 41 1/2 cents. Since Monday last week, there has been an advance in Chicago of 1 cent, and in New York of 3 cents.

The Eastern butter markets have strengthened slightly. Trading has been heavier and the situation generally has been more satisfactory, which has resulted in the slight advance in quotations. Production of butterfat and butter being manufactured has decreased slightly during the past week, but receipts are holding up well to this season of the year, and prospects are good for continued heavy production.

Chicago egg market today on First is 23 to 24 cents, an advance of one cent per dozen compared with Monday week ago. New York market on First is quoted at 24 1/2 to 25 cents. Top quotations have remained unchanged during the week.

Receipts of eggs in Chicago, New York, Boston and Philadelphia as shown by Government reports are considerably lighter than the previous week and also the same week a year ago. The egg market at this time is quite irregular owing to differences in quality and the supply of eggs available while showing a decrease in liberal compared with actual buying demand.

Live poultry markets have shown a slightly higher tendency during the past week and there has been some shortening of supplies, which has resulted in some advance in quotations. Live town market Chicago today is 18 to 23 cents, an advance since Monday of last week of 2 to 3 cents a pound. New York market 28 to 30 cents, an advance of 3 to 4 cents a pound. Live market on broilers has also advanced. Quotations Chicago today for heavy weight stock 33 cents, medium weights 29 cents, legorns and light weights 23 to 25 cents.

Following is the report of cold storage holdings in twenty-six largest cities of the United States, issued by U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Table with columns for date, item, and quantity. Includes Butter (Lbs), Eggs (Cs), and Dr. Poultry (Lbs) for July 2, 1927 and July 3, 1927.

Secondary roads are being protected with penetration macadam the same width as the paved roads so that, as the country develops, they can be further surfaced with asphalt without reconstruction of the base.

City type pavements for country highways are proving to be the most economical, and lower in maintenance cost than improperly constructed roads.

POISON CRYSTALS IS SAFE TO FOIL ROBBERS

Volumes of poisonous gas are produced the moment a drill penetrates the steel in the safe. A German inventor has devised to defeat robbers. Crystals of deadly chemicals are deposited between the walls in a bed of porous concrete and are converted into gas by heat from the drill or blowtorch. The crystals are a compound of chlorine, carbon monoxide and hydrocyanic acid and the fumes are said to be more deadly than any used during the war and will penetrate any mask yet invented.

FIND HUGE PETRIFIED FOREST IN TEXAS VALLEY

Nearly 100 miles from the nearest railroad, a petrified forest, said to surpass any previously known, has been discovered in an almost inaccessible valley of the Big Bend region of Texas. Few white persons have visited the locality, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, and the ground is covered with a thick layer of volcanic ashes and pumicestones, which partly hide some of the stone trunks and indicate that the forest is of great antiquity, for no volcanic disturbances have occurred in the region for hundreds of years.

PLAYING TAG WITH WHALES

To learn more about the habits and travels of whales, Norwegian fishermen are tagging them with metal labels, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A specially designed crossbow is used to shoot a small dart, bearing the tag, into them and when a tagged whale is captured, the report is made to the Norwegian fishery headquarters, giving the data appearing on the tag and where and under what conditions the whale was caught.

YEAR UNDER PALACE ROOF

Winter sports can be enjoyed at all times of the year in a huge building recently opened in Berlin says Popular Mechanics Magazine. There are ski runs, toboggan slides and ice rinks. An artificial substitute for snow is used, but proves satisfactory as the grades of the slides are steep. The dimensions of the palace are such as to permit large crowds enjoying it at the same time.

DIKE OF ICE SHUTS OFF

Water aids submarine construction at Huzum, Germany, an interesting method of shutting off the water has been developed, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Instead of using sheet piling or building caissons, a solid dike is formed by the sinking a system of pipes along the line the dike is to follow and partly filling them with liquid air, which when evaporating, lowers the temperature to 180 degrees Centigrade below zero.

ROLLER-SKATE BASKET

Basket ball on roller skates has been introduced by Lieut. Barney L. Meeden at Camp Normoye, Texas, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. It was played with slight modifications of the standard game, and contrary to expectations, was not as fast as the usual sport and there were few falls. The players were men who had served of other teams and knew how to skate as well.

SIX $1,000,000 FORTUNES WAIT TAKERS

Six fortunes of one billion dollars each are ready and waiting for somebody to take them, says Dr. Henry Smith Williams, president of the Science Association in the American Magazine, published lately. Dr. Williams is the author of more than 50 scientific works and college textbooks.

None of the fields wherein these fortunes lie is impossible or even improbable of access. Dr. Williams declares in his non-technical summing-up of approaching scientific achievements. The six fortunes lie in the following briefly stated accomplishments:

Conversion of hydrogen into helium, thus gaining heat and power that would throw coal and oil into the discard.

Combining ordinary atoms, all of which are now known, and containing in a tumbler of water, into all kinds of synthetic foods.

Harvesting the trees successfully through the development of other principles than those now partially successful.

Transmission of heat in one direction, probably through the discovery of the relation between electric currents and heat transmission, thus giving intense heat or absolute frigidity at will.

Perfection of the present highly possible theories for the manufacture of gold from material such as mercury. This is already being done to be successful development of a study of separating and regrouping atoms.

Reaching and putting to use the inexhaustible heat beneath the earth's crust, which for ages has manifested being accessible by volcanoes and hot springs.

Why have all these opportunities been so long neglected? asks Dr. Williams, and answers that "Old Mother Necessity has not been at hand."

Two Amendments To Be Voted On

One Provides for Lifting of Salary Limit of $5,000; Other Pertains to Registration in Cities of More Than 5,000.

March 25, provides that section 246 of the Constitution shall be repealed and the following inserted in its place: "The General Assembly shall have power and it shall be its duty to fix reasonable compensation for all public officers, and the method or methods of paying such compensations."

The first amendment, which is found in Chapter 71 of the Acts of the 1925 General Assembly, provides that citizens in cities of 5,000 or more shall register, and that all those eligible for voting, who do not register shall not be allowed to vote. The proposed amendment reads:

The General Assembly shall provide by law for the registration of all persons entitled to vote in cities and towns having a population of 5,000 persons or more and may provide by general law for the registration of other voters in the State. Where registration is required, only persons registered shall have the right to vote. The mode of registration shall be prescribed by the General Assembly. In all elections by persons in a representative capacity, the voting shall be viva voce and made a matter of record; but all elections by the people shall be by secret official ballot, furnished by public authority to the voters at the polls, and marked by each voter in private at the polls, and then and there deposited. Provided, however, that the General Assembly may enact laws to permit electors or voters who are unavoidably absent, or who are required by their regular business or occupation to be absent, from their voting precincts on the day of the election, to exercise the rights of suffrage, and to vote in all elections by ballot, in their precincts, and to provide all necessary means for preparing, delivering and having counted such votes. The word "elections" in this section includes the decisions of questions submitted to the voters, as well as the choice of officers by them. The first General Assembly held after the adoption of this Constitution shall pass all necessary laws to enforce this provision and shall provide that persons illiterate, blind or in any way disabled, may have their ballot marked as herein required.

Salary Amendment The second amendment, Chapter 72 of the Acts of 1925, approved

ANOTHER SIGN OF

U. S. SUPREMACY

At the beginning of the present year there were approximately 2,600,000 telephones on farms of the United States, which means that out of every hundred farms are equipped with telephones. There can be no question but what the telephone is rapidly becoming more and more essential to successful farm operation.

The United States far surpasses all European countries in the extent of telephone development on its farms. In fact, farmers' telephones which have played a large part in breaking down the isolation of rural Europe, are almost unknown in Europe.

There are more telephones on farms in the U. S. than there are total telephones in the entire countries of France, Germany and Russia, combined.

KANGAROO BEATS RACE HORSE IN SPEED TEST

One of the fastest Australian race horses, ridden by an expert jockey, was decisively defeated by a kangaroo in a recent trial near Sydney, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The contest was described as a "procection" with the horse pounding away and losing at every bound of the big kangaroo. The animal covered more than thirty feet at a jump when at full speed.

TEACHING THE CHILD UNSELFISHNESS

(John Faux Douglas)

One of the first things that every child should learn in the way of etiquette is to be unselfish and considerate of the rights of others. This is one thing which can be taught with comparative ease when the child is at the plastic age, but which is almost impossible for him to learn later.

An only child is very apt to be selfish and inconsiderate of the rights of others unless he is taught at an early age that he can't always have his own way. Sometimes such a child will be so lonely for other children's companionship that he will agree to anything that another child desires, but this is the exception rather than the rule.

When I was but a tot, I knew a girl by the name of Concella. She was in the habit of playing with children I played with, and I had a chance to learn much about selfish children from her. She was the chief interest of a rich family. When she wanted a thing she asked for it, and, unless her wish was extremely extravagant, she got what she desired. This made her entirely unwilling to give in to the other children. She would want to play with our playthings, and if she took a fancy to them, she would try to keep them. The worst part of it was that her parents would defend her atrocious behavior. She very soon became so unpopular that none of the other children would permit her to play with them. Of course she was quite hurt at this. I don't consider, now, that she was to any great extent to blame for her actions.

If her parents had taught her to give in to other children at least half of the time, she would have been liked by everyone, because she was by nature a sweet child, I believe. The children of a large family are naturally do, learn to give in to each other. If a child is not to be taught not to complain if one member of the family receives a gift or favor and they do not. It may be their turn next time. In any case, the children should be taught—not told—to rejoice in each other's good fortune. Of course parents should not "play favorites"; this causes ill-feeling toward the one favored.

It is especially essential that the father should always treat his wife with great respect and deference before his young children so that they will always regard their mother in the same respectful way. They will treat Mother unselfishly if Father does. So, in order to set the proper example, if for no other reason, Father should always try to treat Mother with the greatest kindness. Children learn very much by watching others, principally their parents, and if they see that Mother is always treated with great consideration by Father they will just naturally think that there is no other way to do. Father will come in for his share of devotion when the children are older, for they will be sure to think that their father is better than other fathers if he treats his wife better than other men do.

RUBBER MEASURED BY RADIO TO INSURE EQUAL THICKNESS

One of the latest applications of radio principles to industry is in measuring the thickness of rubber for tires, bathing caps and similar articles, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. Like many other discoveries, this was the result of an "accident." One night, an inventor placed a piece of tissue paper in the condenser of his radio receiver, thinking that the station he was hearing would come in better. He got an entirely different station. The thicker piece of paper brought in still another. He had not discovered a new radio principle, for it was then well known that affecting the condenser in that way would alter the set's performance. If, he reasoned, changing the size of the paper, changes the receiver's action, why could not the thickness of the paper be measured by noting the change in wavelength? Accordingly he constructed an apparatus whereby this radio principle was utilized to measure, in thousands of an inch, the thickness of the rubber sheets as they pass through the rolling machines. Any variation was recorded on a visible dial so that the operator can make proper adjustments to correct the error.

SIMPLIFIED COOKING

In cooking arrichoks, the Woman's Home Companion suggests that the first thing to do is to "remove choke." This is simply following the plan of the best cooks in preparing arrichoks, who always remove the skin in cooking arrichoks on the other hand, modern cooks do not take out the gas.

RECOMMENDS SALTS

FOR SICK CHICKS When chicks fry six to two hours, the water containing the salts is given, the chickens should receive no other water nor milk, in order that they will drink enough of the water containing salts. As soon as the water containing salts is removed, fresh water or milk should be put before the birds.

When droppings seem loose, or the wings droop, or the combs turn pale or purplish, or other symptoms of indigestion occur, epsom salts in water should be given.

EXTRA CARE OF BABY'S FOOD PREVENTS SICKNESS
By Edward Sherrard Rimer, M. D. New York City.

Summer should be the ideal season for the child. He can be outdoors all day long. Nature provides much for his entertainment. But unfortunately certain dangers attend the hot weather. A succession of hot days, especially accompanied by humidity, lowers the vitality and the resistance of disease. The baby's digestion is impaired, and he is much more easily upset by change in his regimen. The hot weather not only affects the baby, but it may spoil his food.

The most common diseases of children in summer are those involving the digestion—diarrhea, dysentery, "summer complaint," and other disturbances of the stomach and bowels. The most common derangements of the digestive tract are, first those due to overeating, next improper food. Most parents carefully nurse the baby throughout the first year. Then later when it comes time to add solid food, they are guilty of all sorts of foolish indulgences, and the baby suffers.

The baby's diet should be just as vigorously observed in the second year as in the first. Bits from the table, over-rich food, desserts, including ice-cream soda, candy, cake, excess fruits, particularly unripe or partly-decayed fruit all may be responsible for baby's illness.

Most dangerous of all is tainted or spoiled, or contaminated food. Milk, for example, may become spoiled through insufficient cooling. Milk is a natural culture medium for germs. Certain bacteria are always present in cow's milk.

Cow's milk is the basis of diet in practically all artificially fed babies, hence the importance of keeping this milk clean cannot be over-emphasized. Keep the milk covered, in the ice box or spring house, and buy the purest milk you can get. The danger from other spoiled foods is much less because none are so readily affected by warmth and contamination, and, to, because milk forms so great a part of the young child's diet.

Whoever is responsible for the child's food should always taste everything that is offered. In this way unfit food may often be detected.

Long hours of sleep are essential to health. The child who is allowed to stay up late usually suffers from malnutrition or nervousness, or both. The good effect of a summer in the country may be spoiled by lack of proper rest and sleep.

At the first evidence of illness, stop giving all food. Water may be given in small amounts at frequent intervals. But because disease germs progress so rapidly in infants, do not wait for alarming symptoms before consulting your family physician.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES

"Whether you stay at home or go away this summer, be inoculated against typhoid fever." This is the advice of Dr. A. T. McCormack, State-Health Officer.

Vaccination against typhoid fever is an inexpensive and safe form of health and life insurance. Three inoculations, one each week for three weeks, are required. You spend about five minutes a week for three weeks and you are protected against typhoid fever for about three years.

Typhoid fever is not limited to any age group. The figures on file at the State Board of Health show that the largest percentage of cases are below thirty-five years of age. In 1926 there occurred in Kentucky approximately seven thousand cases, and four hundred and fifty-nine deaths from typhoid fever. What a tremendous amount of suffering resulted from this preventable disease.

Typhoid fever is an unnecessary disease. To get it you have to take the germ into your mouth. This germ lives in the bladder and in the intestines of those ill with typhoid fever and who are typhoid fever carriers. In other words, to contract typhoid fever you must have taken into your system, through the mouth, human excreta. In being vaccinated against typhoid fever you have practically eliminated all chances of contracting the disease.

My advice to every citizen in Kentucky who hasn't been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last two years, is to go to your doctor immediately and have it done. Don't take any chances.

College students who think they are pulling something new in advocating "trial marriages" only show how young they really are. They'll learn that most of these modern marriages are only trials.

THE MODERN BOY! That boy will win out in this land—he'll always get his share—see how he lets the old folks stand—and hogs the only chair.
