

Calendar for 1906, March. Shows dates from Sunday to Saturday with numbers 1-31.

John Meadows, of Hoods, is very low with pneumonia fever, at Portsmouth. His brother Ed, living there, died a few days ago. I suppose he was there waiting on him when he taken sick. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Miss Melva Ramey was visiting at Mande Worthington's over Sunday. Misses Alpha, Laura and Nellie Everman, and Edna Artist were the welcome guests of Mrs. Alice Ramey Tuesday.

Dr. Ferguson was looking for his sweetheart, Miss Clara Wilks of Portsmouth, in on the train Saturday, but when she failed to arrive they said he looked as blue as Indigo. Cheer up Dr. Ferguson she will come yet.

Miss Sallie Worthington is now clerking in Pharaoh Ramey's post office, and Dr. does not like it very well, he said he wanted Clara to have that place.

Misses Mabel and Nellie Ramey, while on their way to Sunday School were 'thrown' from their horses into a mud hole, but glad to say neither was hurt. I suppose it was because they had a soft place to fall in. The horse got scared at some peese on the hillside.

Quite a large crowd were present at Sunday School, at Corinth Sunday. It was quite amusing after it closed to see who was going to win the day with the Miss Duncan as both of her beams happened in about the same time so she thought she would slip off but out came Robert and here came Edgar. 'The last shall be first and the first shall be last.' So Edgar went, but while Edgar came home for dinner, Robert climbed in and now we do not know what the matter is between them and you, Peck.

Henry Turner, one of our jolly town citizens, has sold his town property and has purchased him a farm beyond the 'Rhubarbs' of our city. Don't forget Henry that we have a market for farm products.

We can almost hear the wedding bells chime. How about it Lias? We know it to be more than a mere dream, and should we not hear from you soon we will send our shiverie committee to investigate C.

Buried in garven cemetery the 11th inst., Mrs. Leslie Cauldill. Dr. Logan, attendant.

Levi Owens and wife were the pleasant guests of A. L. Adams and wife Sunday.

A. M. Shay is the happiest man in town since his wife has returned from a few weeks visit to Kansas. A. M. says absence makes the heart grow fonder.

Dear May Blossom, we should like to know the present whereabouts of the fair damsel that so miraculously escaped being gandered in your city not long since. We congratulate her on her home run, for really the young men of this place are as afraid of the old gray goose as they are of a moth er-in-law.

The quarterly meeting of this congregation will be the 21st and 22nd of April by Rev. J. C. Dougherty, all invited to come.

A MURDEROUS WEAPON. The explosive, Margaron, the White Hunter's Chief Projectile.

The explosive, Margaron, which is the modern white hunter's chief reliance, is a very much improved, and is not in length and shape, in proportion, made chiefly of malleable iron and admirably designed for the slaying of the fugitive creature. It is most striking feature is that it is so constructed that it is certain that it will explode in the vitals of the white.

White, the device that prevents the harpoon 'driving' out of the body into the sea, the chief aim of the wounded monster's frantic efforts is to escape. This consists of four hinged blades, which lie along the spine before it is fired, but which are forced back and forth into the vitals of the white after he is hit, so that if the prize escapes, which sometimes occurs, it is only by breaking the rope.

When fired, it is a tremendous force and there is a chance of hitting more than one in a day a novel method adopted while the first brand of this weapon was used, a hook is beveled through its back late its approach and air is pumped into it by a pipe from the trigger's engine and it is induced into a great whizz. The engine is then closed with a wooden plug, and a man is left alongside in apparent ignorance of the killing apparatus, while the white creature is in quest of other prey. As many as five whales have been killed by this in one day, from one or two hundred yards, and these are not uncommonly got. A single shot killed a whale in a week, and the vessel's work, for one is 225 feet long and weighs 1000 lbs. It is employed that on stormy days it is impossible to catch at all, as the spray they the gun and that during the winter months the ship is disabled. During that period the white's strike on the coast to escape the ice does to length, the white's power is great, being in the vessel makes him an enormous whale. It is now the commonest weapon of the whaler and the whaler's chief reliance. It is further improved by the addition of a self-actuated wheel.

Another Man To The West.

Morehead is to have another newspaper, so we understand. Morehead is a good newspaper town and there is no reason why two good newspapers shouldn't do an enormous business in the little city. Milton Hawkins, an experienced and highly influential newspaper man, will install a $10,000.00 plant there within the next thirty days. Mr. Hawkins has been in the business for 30 or 40 years and is of the Horace Greely type, so we predict for him unbounded success. Here is wishing to you Mr. Hawkins, that your craft will never be dashed to pieces on the rocks of the Journalistic Sea.

Sam Casaday's new paper at Pikeville, the Plain Dealer, has arrived. It is all right, for Sam makes no other kind. A versatile writer, a nose for news and the know-how assures for him a newspaper, and the people up there should see to it that it does not become an occupant of a graveyard full of "try weeklies" that have gone before.—Grapess Tribune.

Kentucky, with its shady dells and beautiful hills, is sweet to us as a land from Apollo, the great god of music. Nothing could entice us to believe other than this to be a land of Paradise. When we are only a few leagues away from this, our beloved home, and hear the choir stir the noted words of "Old Kentucky Home" our minds wander back to youthful days. We think of the garden, with its sweet-scented flowers, the loved ones that helped plant and transplant them. What can we say to not make this a land of the gay and spirited.

Now as Spring is about here, with its usual mildness, we rejoice to hear the clatter of the farmer's wagon, as he hauls in seed to sprinkle the ground. It seems as all nature says welcome. Mr. Farmer: the blue-birds are digging holes in the old gum stumps, where oats are being scattered and the groundhogs are pecking away in the "Shade of the Old Chestnut Tree," that sounds like Abraham Lincoln splitting rails. The trees are putting on their wedding gowns of green, the flowers their nicest bouquets of all hues. Boys and girls now take jolly walks to some noted haunts that they have not visited since last year. What do you think of such a home as this?

DOCTORS ARE PUZZLED

The remarkable discovery of Kenneth Melver, of Vanceboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the Throat and congestion of the Lungs, three doctors gave me up to die, when, as a last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say, it saved my life." Cures the worst Coughs and Colds, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Weak Lungs, Hoarseness and Legrippe. Guaranteed.

Sam Lewis, formerly of Counts I Roads, who is working at Portsmouth, O., is in town this week.

Robt. Hunt, 309 Sunsell street, Covington, Ky., has laid before the Grand Jury, thrice convicted of the murder of Mr. Goebel, evidence of a sensational nature, tending to show that in summoning veniremen for the trial of Powers, Goebel Democrats carried out a skilfully arranged plan to allow no one but friends on the panel, and that, having gotten them there, to keep them under discipline by means of spotters, says the Cincinnati Times Star.

Powers gave a motion for the first time Monday to the Times-Star. The evidence he has secured both encouraged and discouraged him. It appeared to him more conclusively than ever before that his three previous trials were mere travesties, but it also showed to him that he had little to hope for among men who had treated him with such unscrupulous methods in the past. At the conclusion of the statement given to the Grand Jury, Mr. Powers was asked in view of the fact that the United States Supreme Court had refused to take the case away from the Kentucky courts, he had any reason to expect a fair trial when the case comes up for the fourth time. Mr. Powers replied with something like resignation, but without any diminution of his fighting spirit: "In Georgetown? I have not the ghost of a show."

Robt. Hunt, now living in Covington, formerly lived in Bourbon county, and was summoned as a jurymen in the last trial of Caleb Powers. He is, or was, at least, a Goebel Democrat, which makes his disclosure still more important.—He went to Powers in the New-Orleans jail a few days ago and realized what he claimed are facts as to the inner workings of the last venire of 176 men drawn to try powers. He says he was approached by spotters for the Goebel faction, who sought to pump him. He refused to commit himself. Thereupon, when he was given his preliminary examination as his qualifications to serve, he was peremptorily excused. Hunt gave powers names of those who costed him.

The Jury in the last trial came from Bourbon county. This county gave McKinley 400 majority over Bryan in 1896. I state this fact because in the light of who follows, it is significant. Out of 176 men summoned from Bourbon county for jury service in the last trial 173 men were partisan Goebel Democrats.

"The 176 men were herded together and taken on the same train to Georgetown, when they reached the depot at Paris for the purpose of going on to Georgetown to serve at the trial, certain men went among those summoned and secretly ascertained from them just how they stood on the question of a try null or innocents, and what their attitude would be at the trial.

"Robert Hunt, a Goebel Democrat, was among the jurymen who was summoned among the 176 men. He now lives in Covington. Mr. Hunt came to me on a recent date, and in the presence of a man named Stivers, and his father, now living on Second Street, Newport, made an important statement. Stivers is a carpenter. He formerly lives in Bourbon County and knows the parties concerned.

Several of the boys are courting this week.
 Prof. Mabry was in town Saturday and says that school is getting better everyday. He says that there are lawyers, doctors, and preachers attending.

We were glad to hear of the goose fight, or rather the gander fight, last week at Elliottville.

Dennis Holbrook has moved back to his farm on Sinking.

Caleb Powers will be tried again in the Kentucky courts. The Supreme this afternoon held that the case could not be transferred to the Federal Court upon the ground set forth by the defendant, and the State was awarded custody of the prisoner.

Mr. Justice Harlan, in discussing the case, indicated that it might yet come before the Federal Court after the final decision of the Kentucky courts.

Taylor Pardon Could Not Be Considered

He said that as the case stood the question of the validity of the Taylor pardon could not be considered by the Supreme Court.

He said that when the case should finally be disposed of by the State or by the Federal Court, the Federal Court might review the action of the State courts as to whether any substantial right of the defendant had been violated.

The opinion was based on the ground that the equal rights clause of section 641 Revised Statutes does not apply unless recognized by State laws or the State constitution.

The opinion was unanimous.

Are There Diamonds in Ky?

I have been asked this question a number of times, but have hesitated to say what I really think about the matter for fear of being regarded as visionary.

It isn't very far from the bungalow to "Diamond Dykes," as they are called. I know men who have studied the field, and I have seen "dykes" by the hundreds, and one or two diamonds said to have been found there.

I have long been of the opinion that the probabilities are that they will be found.

Recently a diamond expert, David C. Draper, was brought from the Transval, South Africa, to study the Elliott County field. His report was favorable. The daily papers of the land gave it in full. Late developments claim that chrysoberite have been found there. If so, this is the only chrysoberite mine in America.

A SCIENTIFIC WONDERS

The cures that stand to its credit make Bucklen's Arnie Salve a scientific wonder. It cured E. R. Mulford; lecturer for the Patrons of Husbandry, Weynabro, Pa., of a distressing case of Piles. #### CHAPTER XX. Ned's Clearing.

On the next day after his return and having several notices about town which need his father's attention, Ned, who had been in the city since the day he had left home, had a long talk with him.

"That was worth noting to Portland for it is not," said Ned, showing the result to his father. "I should say so," replied Mr. Jackson, "and then there was $1,000 here."

"I had thought to take that, but you think father?" queried Ned. "Under the circumstances I think with our bank treasurer that it would be wiser to refuse it now," said Mr. Jackson. "You are right, Ned," replied Ned, "but I don't want to lose it."

"You are right, Ned," replied Ned, "but I don't want to lose it." "That is all right," said Mr. Jackson, "but you must be careful of what you do. If you find you can do little work on yourself it is best to let the whole time to direct his men."

Ned's advertisement brought a few farmers who were willing to buy a head of sheep for $15 per car, and this led to Ned's first sale.

Within a week Ned had his first cleared and was leading his cows and was also looking after the men who were delivering that which he had purchased. From his own lot he had six car loads of spoolhorn sticks, in addition to all his hog poles. He also found several leads delivered by neighbor farmers.
