W. Va. University Is Punished

Chicago, March.—Too much stress was placed on the athletic side of the life today of West Virginia University from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Inadequate supervision of athletic funds, and proscriptive by alumni were the charges made by the investigating committee, headed by Dr. Geo. F. Zook of the University. The charges (Ohio), and approved by delegates representing 25 institutions.

The college athletes are the center interests of students bodies rank first, the executive committee report, declared, recommending that the board stand against the payment of money to students of athletic skill, and the abolition of prizes and tables. The solicitation of prospective students, decrease of the number of the offering of compensation insure that was also approved by the association. It was charged that alumni of West Virginia University rated a fund with which to induce athletes to attend West Virginia and cooperate in athletics.

Control of each school's athletic policy by the faculty also was one of the delegates who favored the abolition of prizes and tables. The aim of the association, as expressed by H. M. Gray, president of the association, is to make the chairmen of the athletic committee to co-ordinate the athletic and extracurricular problems.—Casey-Journal.

MOREHEAD, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, APRIL 10, 1923.

EAGLES TO PLAY TRANSYLVANIA

Morehead's Normal Eagles will have the strong Transylvania team in the next game of the season, to be played tomorrow. Transylvania boasts one of the strongest teams in its history having its entire lineup of last year with the exception of one player. Morehead's prospects are as bright as it had been hoped for and several of the former stars who had expected to return have been unable to do so.

This will be the Normal nine's first game of the 1923 schedule but Transylvania opened its season last week. In the game here last year between the two schools Morehead bowed to Transy by a 6 to 1 score. The game is remembered by many as it went into the tenth inning with the score tied. Only in the Transyvania game was the game.

Only four letter men have reported for the team on the gymnasium and men have been turning out each afternoon. Coach Downing states that the team is rounding into form in good shape and he believes before the season is half over that he will have an average team.

The probable players for tomorrow's game are: Pitching: Henry Knabb, and Conant; catching: Curran, Miller, and Pippis; first base: Wheeler, and Howe; second base: Fagan, and Carroll; short stop, Carter; left base, Clayton and L. Hodge; outfield, Fowler, Palmer, and L. Hodge; center field, Fowler, Palmer, and L. Hodge; pitcher, Fowler, Palmer, and L. Hodge.

The following games have already been scheduled:

Wednesday, April 11—Transylvania, here.

April 17—Transylvania, Lexington.

April 19—Kentucky, Welshboro. (No contract signed.)

April 24, 27—Rio Grande, here.

May 4—Marshall, Huntington.

May 7—Union, here.

May 11—Marshall, Huntington.

May 15-17—Rio Grande, there.

May 25-26—Marshall, here.

SENIOR CLASS OF MOREHEAD TEACHERS COLLEGE TO PUT OUT ANNUAL THIS SPRING

Staff For Year Book Selected—Plans Being Made To Issue Annual That Will Be A Credit To The College—Work On Book Being Rushed To Completion.

M. T. C. To Go To Wilmore

The Morehead Teachers College and Normal School will be fully represented when the contestants in the Eastern Oriental Association meet on May 21 at Abury College, Wilmore, Ky. The association is composed of Eastern State Normal, Grove, Geo. Bennett, Memorial, Union College, Bethel Academy of Abury College, Cumberland College and Morehead Normal.

The persons preparing for entering the contest have been trained by Miss Evelyn Royalty, head of the English Department. The success of this school in the contests in former years have assurance that the school will have won at least this year.

Miss Elizabeth McKinstry will represent us in dramatic reading and Mr. Ralph Coleman in humorous recitation. Mr. Glen Underwood has been chosen to public speaking and Mr. Hargis Lyon in oratory.

Each year since the school has taken part in the contest some honors have been gained. The first year Morehead took part in the contest and persons were entering, winning fifty per cent. The second year two persons entered winning a first and a second; the third year three entered splitting a first and third place and the fourth year four persons entered, winning three firsts and a second.

The Senior Class of the Normal and College Departments have announced the election of a staff for the purpose of publishing a school annual. Although somewhat delayed in making their plans for this publication rapid progress is now being made under the guidance of "Editor-in-Chief" Robert Stewart and the Editor, Dean Calkins of the Senior College Department.

The students of the two classes are entering whole heartedly and with enthusiasm into the work involved in the undertaking. With everyone pulling the movement success is certain. The school annual as well as being a student book for the present year will be the best message yet studied by schools of high standing to give the movement success is certain. There is not another year of attraction found which makes a great attraction for the present year.

Not alone does it increase the enrollment of the school but it means a boost for the city of Morehead. There is a general average of at least seven hundred students who attend during the school year and five of these will spend from $100 to $150 while here.

This year effort, the merchants of Morehead are receiving at least $70,000 to trade from the students of the school. It is the merchants of Morehead and the editors of this paper ask the students to trade with the merchants who advertise with us.

Let us as a student body express our school spirit by talking annually, buying in bulk, and contributing to its contents. Are you a teacher or a student? Are you a merchant? Fifts for individual and group pictures for the annual will be taken before many weeks, further announcements as to work will be made in chapel. Negotiations are being carried on with engravers, printers, and photographers with the purpose of forming a contract for an entire year's work, and reasonably priced material.

The Phi Delta Literary Society will introduce a new feature into their program at the next meeting on April 13th when they will stage a dramatic play. The court will be held in front of the building and will be open to all persons attending the Morehead Normal.

Judge Arnold Rose will take the bench to hear the charges of the Commonwealth of Kentucky against Miss Irene Hark, who will be defended by Attorney Eural Rose of Lee City, Kentucky. Commonwealth of Kentucky v. Robert Stewart will be the next case.

The program for the evening is: Introduction—Lucille Cosson; Answered by naming a famous lawyer—Emory Rogers Solo—Josephine Beck Mock-trial—Virginia Ham'lon Judge—Arnold Rose

FIRST PLAY IN NEW GYMNASIUM

The first play to be given in the new Public School Gymnasium which is dedicated to the memory of the late high school presentation of "Peaches." The play will be given Thursday, April 12, according to the announcement.

The students and directors have been working on the rehearsals for some time and it is said to be one of the best plays they have ever offered to the public.

They hire out to the local taverns a night clerk and cook respectively they find themselves, but water. A disreputable moonshiner, the wealthy man of the community, sees the winnow little barabara ready for occupation. So he offers to furnish the necessary money to put the manager on his feet and asks for a partnership.

The girl of the circus finds a staunch friend in Miss Reeves, a village girl, who is a friend of her father's. Her worthiness paid his attention, and Mr. Worthington, the serious, absent-minded professor has come to the little country town, to search of a quiet place to study, also finds a friend in Miss Reeves.

Cyrus, the shifless, happy-go-lucky, jack-of-all-trades, runs the barabara, furnishes many a hearty laugh, as do also Mr. Scroggins and her daughter, Sara. Miss Reeves, who is to join a circus. The circus manager and the warabre lady also play important parts in the drama which is one of ever-increasing interest from start to finish.

As this is the first play that has been offered by local talent for some time and it is the first opportunity for the majority to see the new community building a large crowd is expected.

"Peaches" is a lively comedy that depicts the life of the little town of the members of a traveling circus being directed by the circus manager, a good-natured Slop, the principal clown, and his pal Peaches, the pretty little equine, and a number of other characters that is little short of incomprehensible to the country folk, and when

Lucille Cosson will be the first play in the new gymnasium. The program for the evening is: Introduction—Lucille Cosson; Answered by naming a famous lawyer—Emory Rogers Solo—Josephine Beck Mock-trial—Virginia Ham'lon Judge—Arnold Rose

Work On New Gym Is Progressing

Without any great amount of press-angsting, contractors for the new gymnasium and the present gymnasium of the Normal and College of London, Kentucky, are pushing ahead with their work in such a manner as to encourage the belief that they will be able to finish their job on contract time, in spite of the delay experienced in starting. The excavation is practically finished. The work of building and installing the floor and roof structure is about finished. Part of the steel work on the gym is almost and Mr. Calkins confidently expects to begin pouring the concrete within a very few days.

When that is done, he says, the worst will be over and they will be ready to go ahead in record time. The form work and the concrete work will be the foundations of the building, and the most important. Mr. Calkins says, and they are taking as a good sized audience to see it as it is made.

Material for the new buildings are arriving daily and the ground around the site is being covered with steel and concrete. The building is being made by the Normal and College of London, Kentucky, and they are taking as a good sized audience to see it as it is made.

Joseph and Joseph, architects for the new building, are now working Monday looking over the development on College Hill. They appeared well satisfied with the advancement being made in the work.

"Rolling Stones" Please Audience

Miss Irene Stone, 11 years of age and her brother, Harold Stone, 14 years, furnished an evening of real entertainment at the Burgess Hall last Monday and Tuesday nights of last week.

Both Miss Irene and her brother are real entertainers, giving their audience a diversified program of songs, dances and comedy sketches. Their program was so well received that it was present on both nights.

The two young entertainers are displaying pleasing talents in their little Little Miss Irene, who by the way is the youngest comedienne ever on the stage. It was wonderful to hear her work, and such the audience was so much interested in the little Harold, is also clever and had a great appeal to his listeners.

College Athlete Tends To Baby

Some college men tend fanatical some few lawless and others peak to pay the college bills, but Emory Emerson, South Dakota football player, does not choose any of these occupations—he prefers to be a normal man.

Emerson's time not just a class room or with his books is occupied by his work in the University of William, son of a history professor.

His job of normalman, however, is a more active one than the word implies. Emerson has made 20 or more teaching Jacks the redskins, boys and taking the youngster on horse jinks and fishing trips.

"I've been surprised how much exercise I get from training 'Jackie' and the redskins," Emerson says, "and football season. And training Jacks is also a great deal, to make a study of the psychology which should help him to be a normal man."

The role of normalman plays in the present and that is enough to cover all of his upward aims.

Y. M. C. A. Has Entertainment

A most enjoyable party was held Saturday night of March 21st in the basement of Thompson Hall when the Young Men's Christian Association entertained the guests of the Y. W. The games for the evening were in charge of W. L. Stallard and the rest which all took part in, doubtless to the enjoyment of the evening.

The party was given for the purpose of permitting the new students who have entered school at the mid-semester term an opportunity to become acquainted with the other students of the school.

Two of the part of the evening refreshments were served.

Th. Y. M. C. A. was to thank Dr. Lappin for the use of the Thompson Hall and Mr. Stallard for the conducting of the games. The Y. W. has a number of other parties and it is making the party a success.

ANIMALS THAT ARE CRIMINALS
Zoologists report many striking cases of robbery, murder, kidnapping, drunkenness and counterfeiting among animals.

Among humans. There are sneak thieves, highway robbers, kidnappers, drunkards and murderers among all insects, birds and other animals, both domestic and wild.

The following instances of such unwholesome conduct in the animal world have been noted by a contributor to the Pathfinder:

When a big brute elephant in the native jungles runs amuck the members of his herd drive him out and he is condemned to live and die alone. He goes from bad to worse until he becomes a terror to the whole countryside.

Some of the most charming and innocent birds are deliberate murderers. Karl Vogt, the celebrated German naturalist, has observed the habit of "murderous passion" in many birds, especially sparrows. He tells of a stark triangle tragedy. The white male was away. The sparrow lover wooed the female. She was off for a month. He waited, tolerated, then welcomed her. They one day when the white bird was off for another month. He waited, tolerated, then welcomed her. They one day when the white bird was off for another month. He waited, tolerated, then welcomed her.

Many dogs have developed into night assassins, preying upon sheep. Some dogs have been known to serve their masters with the flocks all day and in the darkness of night slyly steal out to murder defenseless sheep. Western cowboys tell endless tales of horses that have been outwitted by their companions of the corral. They viciously attack the other horses and do their best to murder their masters.

There are few murders in the snake family. Occasionally one snake will swallow another, but this is usually attributed to hunger rather than hate. Many snakes despise each other. The King snake, for instance, has no use for a rattler and will seek to choke him to death.

When a bee hives drunk he acid somewhat like a drunken man, reels in flight, falling helplessly on its back and finally slipping it off. The sheep and goats of Alysiania go on regular sprees, eating the beans of the coffee plant.

Monkeys are said to be "born thieves." In the native jungles baboons organize regular bands to plunder adjoining caravans and plantations. Usually they have their chief who distributes spoils at strategic points and lines up his forces to make sure of a "clean getaway."

So far as scientific have been able to ascertain there is only one creature fatter in the animal kingdom. This is the octopus. It was so classified because it lays eggs, invariably digested, in other birds' nests. Although crows are thieves at heart they hold court in which they try their own criminal.

At the close of the court two or more crows fall upon the culprit and punish him.
