An Endorsement

Voters of Rowan County should reigh carefully the nominees for State Senator, before casting their ballot in the November 5th election

This county has rightfully had the State Senator from the 31st district of the capable and efficient late Judge Allie W. Young. This fall Rowan County has a nominee, although of opposite political faith than Judge Young she is deserving and can capably take her place in the halls of Kentucky's legislature

Mrs. Ethel Ellington, of More head, has been nominated by th Republican party. The Democrats nated a man from Ma County, who is also possible legis nber. But Rowan County, although one of the smallest in voting strength in the entire district actually has more at stake than all the other 5 counties put together. That is the Morehead State Teachers College, representing an investment of several million dollars, and standing here as an educational center for forty counties.

It is not the intention of the intelligent voters of this county to attempt to "hog" the Senatorial position; but with so much at stake th Morehead and Rowan County, we should take in full consideration the possible consequence if our State Senator should be from some place

Mrz. Ellington has been a school from a personal knowledge of her. t must be said by all that she is capable of handling the position She would be a credit to this district, and certainly a friend to education. The Morehead College would surely ro; lose anything if Mrs. Ellingte were elected. Mrs. Ellington is a graduate of the Teachers College; has completed her work on a Masters degree at the University of Kenis a graduate of Bowling Green Business Coilege and has had practical business experience in the field of banking and accounting. having worked as assistant ashie of a bank and an accountant in a large business corporation. Someimes it is wise to forget party a: finations, and to the Democrats of this county it seems that the Senatorial fight is one of those times when we should lar aide party differences and work toward the electies of one that will be a quifriend to the 'netitution that w prize the highest.

Danger Of Dictatorship

schools and in part, those affected indirectly. And while on the subject of parade let us pause to pay tribute to the College band whose music contributed greatly to the success of this, the largest parade of school children ever staged in Rowan countries.

In the afternoon, the athletes of the various schools were pitted against each other in races, jumps and other events. Approximately 150 against each street in races, jumps and other events. Approximately 150 boys and girls took part in these events. The winners in these con-tests will represent this county, along with the winners of the scholastic tests, in the State Rural School ent st Lexington.

Tournament of Lexington.

In the department of school exhibits was abown the work of the children of all subjects. There was a greater Zumber of exhibits than ever before displayed in this county, and they were of a better quality of workmanhip than those of previous years. The manual training department has shown a greater growth than any other part of the fair. The exhibits this year were large in number and excellent in quality. In summing up this comment large in number and exceisent in quality. In summing up this comment let us quote a slogan carried by one of the schools in the parade, "Like the Dionne quintuplets the Rowan County Schools are growing bigger and better," and the Fair is keeeping pace with this growth.

COUNTY

At the request of many friends and parents interested in better schools for their children. I have consented to make the race for a member of the Board Education. I propose to stan dirmly as a non-partiana candidate who is opposed to consolidation of schools; I favor leaving the schools as cleasily as possible to the pupils.

I believe the strictest sconeny-though be used in the administration, and special efforts be given to making comfortable surroundings for the teachers and pupils.

I promise to do all I can toward securing the equalization fund to pay the teachers, and raise their standards for same according to their qualifications and ability.

If elected I will faithfully do my duty, honestly and fairly as I can between man and man.

Honjng that I merit your support, I am,
