

TERMS OF PUBLICATION.

THE FLEMINGSBURG KENTUCKIAN will be published weekly on an Imperial sheet, at two dollars per annum if paid in advance...

AGENTS.

Popular Plainer, J. W. Stockwell. Elizaville, Daniel Picklin, Jr. Sherburne Mills, John Andrews.

POETRY.

PLOUGH-SHARE OF OLD ENGLAND.

The sailor boasts his stately ship, the bulwark of our fleet, the soldier loves his platoon, and sings of tented plains the while.

God speed it well; and let it thrive, unshackled every where! The bark may rest upon the wave, the spear may gather dust.

FROM THE RICHMOND COUNTY MIRROR.

SPRING.

I come, I come, ye have called me long, I come o'er the mountains with light and song!

HEMANS.

Spring is here, and let us hie away to the forest or the meadow, and sit down in the smile of the kind March sun.

LEXINGTON RACES.

The first day's race over the Association Course, (Wednesday), was a Silver Plover of the value of $1000.

bear up his haughty front and leave the beautiful harmonies of Nature unadorned? Not a soul without reflection, like a pile Without inhabitants, to ruin runs.

And while we look upon the changing scene before us, that like a vast panorama painted through the eye upon the understanding, the goodness and perfection of that Being by whose beneficence we exist, dare we turn aside in cold indifference?

That changed thro' all and yet in all the same Great in the earth as in th' etherial frames.

FARMERS.—How tedious do all the pleasures of the world appear, when compared with the happiness of a faithful, tender and enlightened friendship!

We'll pluck the brilliant poppies, and the faded poppies, and the withering wheat ears that out to shine the saffron green.

ON CULTIVATION OF TASTE.—A female cultivator, she has in her own person, the secret that attracts charm which operates like magic upon the beholder, fixes the attention and softens the feelings of the heart.

FROM THE RICHMOND COUNTY MIRROR.

SPRING.

I come, I come, ye have called me long, I come o'er the mountains with light and song!

HEMANS.

Spring is here, and let us hie away to the forest or the meadow, and sit down in the smile of the kind March sun.

LEXINGTON RACES.

The first day's race over the Association Course, (Wednesday), was a Silver Plover of the value of $1000.

Fourth day-Posttake, 1 mile heats.

Col Buford's s c Schreibly, 3 years old, by Medoc, dam by Wagon, 3 0 1 1

PRISONERS OF WAR.—General Gaines made application to the first Judicial District Court of this city for the release of a number of negroes, who had been seized by virtue of a writ of sequestration.

Washington Correspondence of the N. York American.—Some idea may be formed of the extent of the whole slave trade in the fact, that in the House upwards of seven hundred private bills came up as the order of the day on Friday next.

THE ABOLITION.

We find in the Chicago American of the 5th inst a statement from Capt. J. Risley, of the steamboat Madison, which requires us to place before our readers—having published accounts of his activity in the daughter of Mr. Hamot, conflicting very materially with his own.

FROM THE CHICAGO AMERICAN.

Mr. Elmer.—It appears that many of the public prints have copied an article from the Erie Observer, a paper under the control of P. S. V. Hamot, of that place; also an advertisement offering $500 for my apprehension; that I am charged with the forcible abduction of a daughter of his.

HART STORM.—The Paulling (Miss) Clarion states that a dreadful hail storm passed over that place on the 25th ult.

Learned all that you have said wisely or unwisely, or fully or inadequately, to the benefit or detriment of our body, mind, and heart.—Demand of yourself a strict account of the employment of all your moments during the preceding twenty-four hours.

REPORT OF MR. CLAY'S RESOLUTION.

The National Intelligencer makes the following remarks on Mr. Wright's report on Mr. Clay's resolution.

CONGRESS.

In SENATE, Friday, April 27, On motion of Mr. White, the Senate took up the bill to provide for the security and protection of the emigrant and other Indians west of Missouri and Arkansas.

CONGRESS.

Mr. White evinced the bill, and went on to say that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

CONGRESS.

Mr. Linn told Mr. Norvell that he understood the bill. The debate was to be no more than an agent.

Mr. Norvell replied that he was far from altering the phraseology so that even a hope of obtaining a seat upon the floor of Congress could not be contemplated.

Mr. White said, and he was, he hoped to live to see the day, when the Indians would be qualified to represent themselves upon the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn spoke more at length in defence of the bill, stating that he thought it an important incidental benefit of the bill to give the Indians the hope of honorable office.

Mr. Lumpkin, Mr. Crittenden, Mr. Davis, and Mr. King, advocated the bill in strong terms. Mr. Niles of Conn., against it.

Mr. Norvell's amendment was rejected 24 to 16—proposing to strike out "Delegates" and insert "Members of Congress."

The bill has since passed and gives to the Indians a territory with distinct boundaries, which is to be secured to them, creates a territorial government for them, with Council of their own choosing, and allows them a Delegate in Congress.

THE ABOLITION.

We find in the Chicago American of the 5th inst a statement from Capt. J. Risley, of the steamboat Madison, which requires us to place before our readers—having published accounts of his activity in the daughter of Mr. Hamot, conflicting very materially with his own.

FROM THE CHICAGO AMERICAN.

Mr. Elmer.—It appears that many of the public prints have copied an article from the Erie Observer, a paper under the control of P. S. V. Hamot, of that place; also an advertisement offering $500 for my apprehension; that I am charged with the forcible abduction of a daughter of his.

I became acquainted in the family of Mr. Hamot about 15 months since, which led to an intimacy of which I was not a contract of marriage with his daughter which was to have taken place early last December.

The rain at first fell in torrents, but was soon succeeded, by an immense shower of hail, which did not cease to fall for several hours.

The London Sun gives an account of some abuses in the coal trade, which have been investigated by a committee of Parliament.

Mr. Wright said that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. White evinced the bill, and went on to say that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn told Mr. Norvell that he understood the bill. The debate was to be no more than an agent.

Mr. Norvell replied that he was far from altering the phraseology so that even a hope of obtaining a seat upon the floor of Congress could not be contemplated.

Mr. White said, and he was, he hoped to live to see the day, when the Indians would be qualified to represent themselves upon the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn spoke more at length in defence of the bill, stating that he thought it an important incidental benefit of the bill to give the Indians the hope of honorable office.

Mr. Lumpkin, Mr. Crittenden, Mr. Davis, and Mr. King, advocated the bill in strong terms. Mr. Niles of Conn., against it.

Mr. Norvell's amendment was rejected 24 to 16—proposing to strike out "Delegates" and insert "Members of Congress."

The bill has since passed and gives to the Indians a territory with distinct boundaries, which is to be secured to them, creates a territorial government for them, with Council of their own choosing, and allows them a Delegate in Congress.

THE ABOLITION.

We find in the Chicago American of the 5th inst a statement from Capt. J. Risley, of the steamboat Madison, which requires us to place before our readers—having published accounts of his activity in the daughter of Mr. Hamot, conflicting very materially with his own.

FROM THE CHICAGO AMERICAN.

Mr. Elmer.—It appears that many of the public prints have copied an article from the Erie Observer, a paper under the control of P. S. V. Hamot, of that place; also an advertisement offering $500 for my apprehension; that I am charged with the forcible abduction of a daughter of his.

I became acquainted in the family of Mr. Hamot about 15 months since, which led to an intimacy of which I was not a contract of marriage with his daughter which was to have taken place early last December.

The rain at first fell in torrents, but was soon succeeded, by an immense shower of hail, which did not cease to fall for several hours.

The London Sun gives an account of some abuses in the coal trade, which have been investigated by a committee of Parliament.

Mr. Wright said that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. White evinced the bill, and went on to say that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn told Mr. Norvell that he understood the bill. The debate was to be no more than an agent.

Mr. Norvell replied that he was far from altering the phraseology so that even a hope of obtaining a seat upon the floor of Congress could not be contemplated.

Mr. White said, and he was, he hoped to live to see the day, when the Indians would be qualified to represent themselves upon the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn spoke more at length in defence of the bill, stating that he thought it an important incidental benefit of the bill to give the Indians the hope of honorable office.

Mr. Lumpkin, Mr. Crittenden, Mr. Davis, and Mr. King, advocated the bill in strong terms. Mr. Niles of Conn., against it.

Mr. Norvell's amendment was rejected 24 to 16—proposing to strike out "Delegates" and insert "Members of Congress."

The bill has since passed and gives to the Indians a territory with distinct boundaries, which is to be secured to them, creates a territorial government for them, with Council of their own choosing, and allows them a Delegate in Congress.

THE ABOLITION.

We find in the Chicago American of the 5th inst a statement from Capt. J. Risley, of the steamboat Madison, which requires us to place before our readers—having published accounts of his activity in the daughter of Mr. Hamot, conflicting very materially with his own.

FROM THE CHICAGO AMERICAN.

Mr. Elmer.—It appears that many of the public prints have copied an article from the Erie Observer, a paper under the control of P. S. V. Hamot, of that place; also an advertisement offering $500 for my apprehension; that I am charged with the forcible abduction of a daughter of his.

I became acquainted in the family of Mr. Hamot about 15 months since, which led to an intimacy of which I was not a contract of marriage with his daughter which was to have taken place early last December.

The rain at first fell in torrents, but was soon succeeded, by an immense shower of hail, which did not cease to fall for several hours.

The London Sun gives an account of some abuses in the coal trade, which have been investigated by a committee of Parliament.

Mr. Wright said that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. White evinced the bill, and went on to say that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn told Mr. Norvell that he understood the bill. The debate was to be no more than an agent.

Mr. Norvell replied that he was far from altering the phraseology so that even a hope of obtaining a seat upon the floor of Congress could not be contemplated.

Mr. White said, and he was, he hoped to live to see the day, when the Indians would be qualified to represent themselves upon the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn spoke more at length in defence of the bill, stating that he thought it an important incidental benefit of the bill to give the Indians the hope of honorable office.

Mr. Lumpkin, Mr. Crittenden, Mr. Davis, and Mr. King, advocated the bill in strong terms. Mr. Niles of Conn., against it.

Mr. Norvell's amendment was rejected 24 to 16—proposing to strike out "Delegates" and insert "Members of Congress."

The bill has since passed and gives to the Indians a territory with distinct boundaries, which is to be secured to them, creates a territorial government for them, with Council of their own choosing, and allows them a Delegate in Congress.

THE ABOLITION.

We find in the Chicago American of the 5th inst a statement from Capt. J. Risley, of the steamboat Madison, which requires us to place before our readers—having published accounts of his activity in the daughter of Mr. Hamot, conflicting very materially with his own.

FROM THE CHICAGO AMERICAN.

Mr. Elmer.—It appears that many of the public prints have copied an article from the Erie Observer, a paper under the control of P. S. V. Hamot, of that place; also an advertisement offering $500 for my apprehension; that I am charged with the forcible abduction of a daughter of his.

I became acquainted in the family of Mr. Hamot about 15 months since, which led to an intimacy of which I was not a contract of marriage with his daughter which was to have taken place early last December.

The rain at first fell in torrents, but was soon succeeded, by an immense shower of hail, which did not cease to fall for several hours.

The London Sun gives an account of some abuses in the coal trade, which have been investigated by a committee of Parliament.

Mr. Wright said that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. White evinced the bill, and went on to say that he had no objection to be admitted on the floor of Congress.

Mr. Linn told Mr. Norvell that he understood the bill. The debate was to be no more than an agent.

CONGRESS.

Mr. Norvell replied that he was far from altering the phraseology so that even a hope of obtaining a seat upon the floor of Congress could not be contemplated.

