PEOPLES BANK ORGANIZED WITH $15,000 CAPITAL

Second Banking Institution for Olive Hill to Open for Business Soon as Fixtures and Necessary Supplies Can be Received and Arranged

The first meeting of the subscribers of stock to the new bank promoted for Olive Hill by local men, was called Saturday last and held in the old National Bank Building. Almost all who subscribed for stock were present. Stock was subscribed as follows:

E. S. Hitchins, 38; M. S. Qualls 40; Dr. A. Hillman, 10; J. L. Tabor, 5; J. L. Maddox, 5; E. A. Evans, 5; J. S. Jarvis, 5; E. R. Coleman, 5; N. R. Cobern, 5; Dr. M. W. Armstrong, 5; J. A. Maddox, 5; Edith S. Hitchins, 5; J. B. Denuess, 5; Cecil Erwin, 2; Thomas Tackett, 1; all of Olive Hill. H. B. Riggie of Soldier, 4; W. A. Staunton of New York City, 5.

Mr. Hitchins and Mr. Qualls each subscribed for fifty shares, but had to cut down their subscriptions when it was decided to capitalize at $15,000, and since then have solicited some of their stock to accommodate others who want to be interested.

Affairs along the flanking line of business, and the proposed policies of the institution were discussed by those present, towards the principle of best serving the accommodation of the people to the limit that sound banking will permit. The bank was intended to be organized as a $25,000 institution and more stock was subscribed than was necessary for the chartering of the bank with that amount of capital but it was the sense of some present favoring a $15,000 capitalization.

The charter is expected from the Secretary of State this week, and as soon as received, the necessary amount will be paid in, officers and directors elected, and the bank will open for business most probably in the old National Bank Building.

Titanic Suits Amount to Over $16,000,000

New York, April 21.—Six hundred and fifty-one claims for damages aggregating $16,600,000 have been filed in the Federal district court here against the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, for loss of life, injuries and loss of property in the Titanic disaster a year ago, according to a report made public today of United States Commissioner Gilchrist.

The court recently extended for thirty days the time limit during which certain persons residing abroad may file claims. The time limit for all others to file claims has expired.

Night Rider Threats

Paducah, Ky., April 21.—The Night Riders have renewed their operations in the southeastern part of Livingston county where twelve plant beds were scraped and notes left, warning the planters not to attempt to raise any more tobacco this year, or "we will get your blood." The deprivations were committed in the vicinity of Dyvensburg, where Henry Bennett, an independent buyer, was assaulted by "riders" three years ago, and he recently died from the effects. The sheriff took bloodhounds to the beds but the dogs failed to pick up a successful trail. The facts will be placed in the hands of the next grand jury for a thorough investigation.

Stanley Opens Fight For Senate

Congressman Stanley opened his campaign for the United States Senatorship at Nicholasville, Ky., before a good sized crowd on April 21. It was the congressman's home town and, in addition it was horse-show day, and a good number from the surrounding country was in the city.

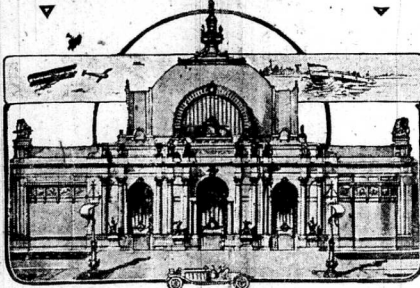

Prior to Mr. Stanley's speech, addresses were made by several of the local candidates for office, as there is a big county fight on, and much interest is manifested.

Kissing

Steubenville, O., April 21.—"Real kissing grows monotonous during the second year, becomes intermittent from the fourth to the sixth year, and stops entirely before the eighth year after the marriage," said Mrs. Minnie Slentz who is seeking a divorce from Andrew Slentz. "From my own personal experience and from close observation of other married couples, I know this is true. Some couples might kiss each other right up until they are sixty in their attempt to fool themselves into thinking that their kisses have the genuine heart glow of first few months of marriage, but it is all bosh."

Last Tuesday, one of the passenger trains arrived on time.

PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, SAN FRANCISCO, 1915.

Copyright, 1914, by Panama-Pacific International Exposition
DESIGN of the Motor Building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. This structure will be one of the largest of the exposition palaces, approximately 275 feet front by 800 feet deep, covering about 210,000 square feet or more than five acres. The dome, which surmounts the center of the front portion of the building, is 130 feet high and surmounted with a turret composed of the prows of modern motor boats, each carrying a searchlight. This point will be used by Mr. Ryan, the chief of illumination of the exposition, for the purpose of lighting up the grounds and adjacent buildings. Other groups at the base of the building will convey, allegorically, the uses of electricity, gas and other mechanical devices which compose the motor. Its modernity is in harmony with the nature of the exhibit which it will house, and its triumphal character is emblematic of that triumph of modern transportation, the automobile. The groups of statuary surmounting the attic will be allegorically carried out to typify the triumph of the motor over the sea and air. On either side of the entire length of the building there will be a frieze 10 feet high in bas relief, giving the history of transportation from the early log cart up to the most modern development of the automobile.

OF INTEREST

To every man, woman, boy and girl in Carter, Elliott, Rowan, Lewis and surrounding counties. Do you have good health? Can you eat anything that you want to eat? Is your stomach in good condition? Does your throat bother you? Does your head hurt you? If you are bothered with any of these ailments, what is the cause? Did you know that bad teeth causes these troubles? And besides they cause the foulest of breath. Have you noticed some of your dearest friends do not want to be very close to you while talking to you? Have you seen some people yourself that made you wonder how they could live and have such bad teeth? And, Oh! that breath!

You have heard this remark dozens of times. How pretty that girl would be if when she laughs she did not show such badly kept teeth; or that young man, how handsome he would be if he would just take care of his teeth. Now young man and young girl don't you know that your dearest friends cannot care for you as much with your teeth in their present condition as they would if you had a sweet breath and your teeth all well kept and in good condition. Now, old man, does your wife care for you like she did when you used to go to see her? You kept your teeth brushed and the decayed ones all filled, and you looked like you had just stepped out of a hand box. If she don't "there's a reason". Now wife, how is it with you? Does hubby ever say you ought to have your teeth fixed up, that perhaps your health would be better and that you would look better? If he does you had better take the hint and even if he does not say much you have them fixed and try the change. I have not worked 13 years for nothing. I think that I know how to do your work. I guarantee every piece of work that leaves my office.

Moose Go It Alone

The Anderson county Progressive committee met at Lawrenceburg, Ky., April 21, with a full attendance, and unanimously resolved to go it alone, also calling for names of candidates.

Announcements

Progressive

We are authorized to announce JAMES B. CRAIG of Rosedale, a candidate for County Court Clerk of Carter County, subject to the Progressive Party at its Primary.

J. B. Craig, of Rosedale, announces himself in this issue as a candidate for County Court clerk.

While we feel there is little we could say that would add to Mr. Craig's recognition throughout Carter as one of her choicest sons and best citizens, we want to say that such men as J. B. Craig are, the kind of men we should have identified amongst our county officials.

During the active part of his 45 years, James grew himself by honest, honorable toil into a man whom Carter should, and is proud to call her own. Twenty-three years of his life he has served his county as public school teacher under a first-class certificate, and has served 11 years as deputy county clerk of Carter, and is a member of standing in the orders of the Masons and Odd Fellows.

The voter who claims to favor the best men—in all particulars—for our county office should favorably consider James B. Craig, for nomination as County Clerk.

Indiana Moose Win

Indianapolis, Ind., April 21.—The Republican-Progressive fight for recognition on the primary board was won by the Progressives today when Judge Remester ordered the city clerk Edward Ramsey to appoint Elias D. Salisbury as a member of the board and to cancel the appointment of Schuyler A. Haas, Republican.

The order is a complete victory for the Progressive party in the city. The case hinged on the definition of the clause "last preceding election." In the primary law, the party having the largest vote in the "last preceding election" being entitled to a place on the primary board. Ramsey considered that the clause referred to the last city election and acted accordingly, appointing Haas to the board. Then the Progressives sued.

WORRY CAUSED BY PROGRESSIVES

Capturing of Every District is Goal Set. A Country-Wide Campaign On to Win Control of Next House of Representatives

Washington, April 20.—The fight for control of the next House of Representatives already is on. The Progressives are taking the lead in arranging for a vigorous country-wide campaign for the election of members of the sixty-fourth Congress. Their aggressiveness is a cause of considerable worry and agitation among the Democratic leaders, who see they will have to combat a vigorous Progressive propaganda with the probability of an uncertain outcome in many congressional districts.

The Progressive leaders in Congress are now devoting their attention to the preliminaries for a militant congressional campaign. It is engaging their activities to the exclusion of everything else, practically. There are 435 congressional districts in the United States, and the Progressives will fight to capture every district.

However lopsided the Democratic majorities may be in the districts of the South, the Progressives will have their candidates just the same, and in this way keep sharp and distinct the line of cleavage between the new party and the old political organizations.

The congressional campaign that is planned looks to the future. Every suggestion that smacks of fusion in any district is to be frowned down from the start. The Progressive party is to keep its skirts clean of alliances with old political parties. It is to forge ahead as an independent, militant organization that stands for the people and scorns compromises.

The first step in the Progressive campaign for the House will be the introduction of carefully prepared bills embodying the Progressive creed as laid down at the National Convention in Chicago last year. These measures are now being drafted, and they will be the party's profession of faith upon which it will go before the public in the congressional campaign. They will furnish a concrete object lesson to the voters of the legislation that will be passed if the Progressives secure control of Congress.

Organizers will be sent out to every district, where the Progressives have a show of winning during the coming fall and winter, so as to work up sentiment for the campaign next year and to pave the way for the nomination of Progressive candidates to Congress.

It is conceded here that the Progressives have made a fine start in the present Congress. The leadership of Victor Murdock has been both brilliant and effective, especially in putting both the Republicans and the Democrats of the house on record as opposed to the publicity of campaign expenditures.

This leaves the Progressive as the only party that stands for effective publicity. These reports are on file with the clerk of the House but are about as inaccessible to the average citizen as if they had not been made. The Democratic leaders realize that if they would hold the House of Representatives they must fight and their plan of fighting seems to be to deluge the country with oratory. A little later the Congressional Record will fairly groan with the speeches of the Democratic spell-binders on the tariff, some of which will be delivered on the floor of the House while others will get into the record by the leave-to-print route.

These speeches will be circulated under congressional frank and Uncle Sam will foot the bill. The new Democratic members of the House, of whom there are many, are showing a decided inclination toward oratory.

Japan and the Jingo

That our land laws must be submitted to Japan for approval is absurd.

If Japan supposes she is to supervise such legislation she must be made to understand that this is something the United States cannot control, and that if she could she would not submit to foreign advice or supervision.

If intercourse on this plane does not suit Japan let her withdraw. If she wants war let her deliver her attack.

The whole alleged outbreak is absurd, and is doubtless the work of a gang of desperate politicians, or is the work of contractors, who insisted on a bigger navy.

If that is the plan to continue such outbreaks to force an expansion of the American navy it may prove better to strike now and destroy the Japanese fleet than to keep on building American ships for the benefit of American contractors or to quiet the jingoes of Japan.

Treaty obligations will be fulfilled to the letter, for a treaty made by the President and two Senators from each State is binding on every State, and every agency of every State, until formally annulled.

We have not seen any provision cited that forbids California to deny to aliens the right to own land. The United States denies citizenship to the Japanese; in the light of that prohibition it is difficult to understand why California may not deny to these perpetual aliens the right to own lands. Other states already have such laws on their statute books.

It is difficult to treat the subject seriously or even patiently. Japan is a bankrupt nation and could borrow no war fund save for purposes of defense. But if these attempted interferences in local government are to be constantly repeated, it may be necessary for the nation absolutely to refuse admittance to the Japanese and to cut off all intercourse.—Louisville Evening Post.

Being A Progressive.

To be a Progressive means a great deal. It means to be always on the forward movement, either as a business man or a politician. It is that position on questions of business or politics that is standing for higher ideals, for the upbuilding of the society and general welfare of a country, rendering the greatest good to the greatest possible number, and not being detrimental to the welfare of any.

To be a progressive means to stand for clean politics and letting the will of the people rule in all questions. It was the violation of this sacred principle that brought the G. O. P. to its humble condition of the present day. That party that has been the proud boast of many millions of American citizens stands today the third party in the Nation, the destruction of it being the acts of "those of it who had begun to think that they were the party and that all others who had loved the name Republican must submit to the bossism of this bossy few." But such bossism only proved disaster to those who thought to run the government themselves at the end of the party lash. But see the result: the bosses were brought to face the fact, "That there were more of the party who loved fair play and honest elections than who were willing to bow down before the Masters and say, 'No my will, but thine be done.'"

To be a progressive means still more: It means to liberate the thousands of children who are now caged up in the unhealthy factories and shops of our country, and to place them in schools where they may be taught the useful arts and businesses of the country, so that at maturity they may be prepared for usefulness and good citizenship.

To be a progressive means; tariff reform, got a free trade tariff such as has always been advocated by one of the great parties, (the party now in power) but such a tariff that will give such protection to the American industries, Agriculture, Manufacturing, Mining and Commerce, as will protect each in its own sphere and will not infringe on any other. We plainly understand that free WOOL will put the American sheep raiser out of business, and not make any material change in the price of clothing. This measure goes to hurt the industries of Agriculture and Herding. Putting all food stuffs on the free list only strikes a blow at the Agriculturist, reducing the products of his labor far below its real cost. To put all articles made of STEEL on the free list goes to hurt the laborer and American Manufacturer and gives an outlet and market to the manufactured products of Europe and other countries where by cheap labor, have made many things for sale, and are now finding a friend in need—America—at the expense of the American Laborer and Farmer. All American products of whatsoever kind need such protection as will prevent the destruction of the industry of whatsoever kind it may be, and promote the happiness and prosperity of the American citizens.

The Progressive party stands for such protection, and we invite all liberty-loving American citizens to join with the Progressive party to help bring about these ends. The Tariff Bill that has been "irritating" the present Congress since its convening will prove an eye-opener and will promote the growth of the Progressive party.

UNDER the recall the old song of "him the rascals out" would lose its tune; like the old sow did the farmer's potatoes, they would be rooted out.

The Referendum: in its simplest and plainest meaning is merely a stay of execution, staying the enforcement of an act which has passed the State's General Assembly and has become law under which the subjects of that law's domain are subject to punishment for their infractions of the act.

The Referendum is only effectually operative for a time period of 90 days next succeeding the ratification of any act of the law making body. An act passed and made to become a law may be challenged under the privilege law of referendum by the people of the state during the succeeding 90 days by the attached signatures of about 5 per cent of the voters, to a referendum petition. The effect of such petition would be the staying, or holding up, and preventing the act against which a referendum is sought, becoming an act in force and effect until the next coming general election, at which time the act will be voted upon, by its approval or disapproval, which is determined by the number of votes cast, for and against, the same as the electing of officers.

This will at once be seen in the Referendum the hope of the people for a direct voice and just representation in the making and approving of the laws under which they must live and by which they must abide; a refuge in the time of statesman's political trafficking; a haven in which may be piloted our ship of state in safety from the selfish piracy of the big interests.

BUT few people have yet been elected to office but what seems to think the public treasury is a fountain of aid for them and their friends. What we need is a set of men in office that will do business for the town, city, county, state and government as if they were doing business for themselves and get the greatest possible value for every dollar spent. Then, and not until then, will such bodies be out of debt and able to have things that the people are so badly in need of—City Times.

This statement is so profoundly true to conditions so close home as to almost warrant our suspicion that he had been on a tour of inspection or has been very thoroughly familiarizing himself with conditions in our section. We are in accord with your feelings as regards the "public treasury rats," but their pillage must, for lack of remedy, continue until the "Recall" cat, which is in course of construction, is completed.

National Progressive Meet at New York

Members of the Progressive Party National Executive Committee which met in New York City recently, passed the following resolutions, which isn't very encouraging to coalition boosters.

"There is neither prospect nor possibility of any amalgamation or combination of the Progressives with either of the old Tory parties," says the official statement.

"The Republican party, under permanently reactionary leadership, presents no hope of genuine progressive achievement. There can be no progressive Democracy, because the Democratic theory of State's rights and progressive legislation are incompatible with each other.

"The method by which the Democratic party, at this moment, is handling the tariff, is precisely the method that has given rise to abuses in the past; the method that insures preference to special influence, and prevents a genuine non-partisan effort to reduce excessive taxes."

$50,000 A YEAR SQUANDERED???

"Teachers to Teach Teachers to Teach" Needed Today.

HEARD AT COUNTRY STORE.

Two Old Timers Express Their Views on Up to Date Educational Methods and Expenses of State Normal School. "Old Fashioned" Training No Longer "Good Enough."

"Say, did you ever notice how easy it is to spend the state's money? That school, the one they call the normal school, uses about $50,000 a year, I hear. That $50,000 is just what the normal school in this end of the state too, might be different when we were boys, Bill. We didn't have to have teachers to teach teachers to teach!"

"The two old codgers in front of the country store shook their heads sadly over the follies and the extravagances of the present day. A young man who had been industriously, willing stick and listening attentively at the same time laughed, and then asked, 'How much of the $50,000 does this country pay?'

"I dunno," answered one of the men. "Well, I do," snapped the other. "A little less than $700, that's all."

"What do you get back for it? An' what do the other counties in the state get for what money they put in?"

"You get a number of trained teachers, and so do the other counties in the state."

"We don't need 'em. The ol' fashioned kind are good enough."

"Hold a moment! Think! When you men were boys a bright youngster could go into any doctor's office for a couple of years, then hang out his shingle and practice medicine. He had the best he could get, but you wouldn't think of having that sort of physician for your family today."

"I'd like to know what that's got to do with teacher's school."

"Just this—that your ideas about school and teaching are about fifty years behind the times. If you must have a trained man to look after your child's body you certainly must have a trained man or woman to look after the child's mind."

"I get mighty tired of you youngsters with all your haw-fangled ideas for spending money. I tell you what, you're tryin' to do things too fast."

"There," snapped the young man again, "I told you you didn't s'eb to think. Two years ago in front of this very store I heard both of you cussin' the Boys' Corn club movement. You said that nobody could possibly grow 100 bushels of corn on an acre of land in this neighborhood or in the state of Kentucky for that matter."

"Well?"

"In this state during the past summer fifty-six boys, boys in the country schools, boys yet under eighteen, grew 100 bushels a much better. Do you two men know that this movement has been handled by the very school you are fussing about? Four thousand boys in this state grew an acre of corn twice in the Boys' Corn club contest. I'd be willing to bet that each one of the 4,000 earned $10 more than he would have earned if there hadn't been any Boys' Corn clubs in the state, wouldn't he?"

"I reckon so."

"Well, then, 4,000 boys earning $10 each makes $40,000 that $50,000 the state is spending on that school, don't it? Seems to me as if it was a rather good investment for the state if it does happen to be newfangled."

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."

TAKE THE CARDUI Woman's Tonic

You may wonder why Cardui is so successful, after other remedies have failed. The answer is that Cardui is successful, because it is composed of scientific ingredients that act curatively on the womanly system. It is a medicine for women, and for women only. It builds, strengthens, and restores weak and ailing women, to health and happiness.

If you suffer like Mrs. Fincher did, take Cardui. It will surely do for you, what it did for her. At all druggists.

Chance For a Gold Medal.

A gold medal to the school boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 15 who writes the best composition, not to exceed 800 words, on the repair and maintenance of earth roads, is to be awarded by Logan Waller Page, Director, Office of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All compositions must be submitted to Mr. Page before May 15, 1913, and medal will be awarded as soon thereafter as the compositions can be graded. The composition may be based on knowledge gained from books or other sources, but no quotations should be made.

After many years' experience in dealing with the public road situation of the country, Mr. Page's belief that ignorance on the subject of repair and maintenance of roads is as much the cause of their bad condition as any other one factor. It is expected that the composition will bring about a better understanding of the subject of repair and maintenance in the rural districts.

Many children living in the rural districts have experienced the disadvantages of roads made impassable through a lack of proper maintenance and it is expected that their interest in the competition will stimulate greater interest among the parents. Bad roads have prevented many children from obtaining a proper education and have prevented doctors from reaching the side of rural patients in time to save their lives.

Any child between the ages mentioned, attending a country school, may compete. Only one side of the paper must be written on; each page should be numbered; the name, age, and address of the writer, and the name and location of the school which he or she is attending, must be plainly written at the top of the first page. The announcement of the competition has been sent to the superintendents of schools in the rural districts. No further information can be obtained from the Office of Public Roads. This announcement should be plain to everyone, and all children will thus start on a basis of equality.

The Child Breadwinner

Why are parents dependent? Chiefly because industry doesn't pay its way, because fathers are killed or disabled by accidents or diseases of industry, and the family is left, through no fault of its own, without the normal breadwinner. And often the normal breadwinner is transformed into a bedridden invalid, an unwillingly cruel burden upon the family instead of the support that he would gladly be.

In most of the states industry either escapes all financial responsibility for the dependents of its wrecked employees, or incurs a gambler's chance of escape by the strange processes of our constitutions, our laws and our courts.

In the absence of workmen's compensation the mother and children must work when disaster befalls a workman's family unless charity or the state provides for them.

Our great grand-children will surely look back upon our treatment of child breadwinners, our acquiescence when industry sacrifices them to itself, with the same wonder and reprobation with which we look back to our cannibal ancestors.

In the near future workmen's compensation, minimum wage boards, pensions for widows and disabled fathers will take the place of child breadwinners, and our American children will all be school children.—Florence Keller, In Trucker and Farmer.

Amos Fultz and family may return here from Portsmouth.

FRUITS COULD BE KENTUCKY GROWN

$17,000,000 Spent Outside State Each Year.

SHOULD GROW THEM HERE.

Schools Are Striving to Help Solve Problems That Will Confront Our Children—Usual to Talk to Older Farmers—Boys' Corn Clubs Point Way to Success.

It is estimated that there are 9,000,000 apple trees of bearing age in Kentucky at the present writing. Our annual crop from these trees is something like 3,000,000 bushels of inferior quality. We spend $17,000,000 for fruits of all kinds that could be grown in Kentucky.

It is useless to talk to many of the older farmers, for they will tell you:

ROOT GRaftING.

"Oh, yes, when I was a boy you could raise all the fruit you wanted to. But now—waa! I reckon it's jus' run out."

It must be the new generation with which we deal if we are to save this annual expenditure of $17,000,000 some time in the future. We cannot go out to every farmhouse in the state and have a chat with the farmer and his boys and girls, so we must find a way to teach them easily and effectively.

The Boys' Corn clubs point the way to success. They have been made possible by the co-operation of teachers everywhere in the country, and the same is possible in fruit culture. At one of our normal schools numbers of the young people who are training for teachers are getting ready for this new crusade.

As rapidly as deft fingers cut roots and twigs to fit snug, they were wound with thread and placed in small bundles. These bundles of ten, fifteen or twenty-five tiny trees were then sent to the country by parcel post. These trees were to be planted in the home gardens of the pupil teachers and the young people trained for a year before being set out permanently.

That the interest in this real vital work of education is growing is shown by the fact that the number of trees

NEW SCHOOLS BEING BUILT.

As Fast as Laws Are Passed For the Betterment of Rural Schools Counties Take Advantage of Them—Secure Services of Experts and Select Teachers More Carefully.

There never was a time in the history of the old commonwealth when its future looked as bright as it does at this year of 1913. No matter where one goes in the length and breadth of the state one hears schools being discussed. Many new buildings are being erected in the place of those which have so long been a disgrace to the communities that have permitted them to exist.

Plans are being discussed in many localities for larger grounds and better equipment. The teachers are being more carefully selected than in the past, and there is a general feeling that school problems should be fairly met and solved.

This feeling has resulted in marked activity in educational matters in all sections of the state. The county authorities have taken advantage of the new educational laws without delay.

The last legislature passed a law allowing county boards of education to protract superintendents to oversee the work done in the schools. At once over forty counties took advantage of the new law, and secured the services of one or more experts to assist the county superintendents in this supervisory work.

Dartless county decided to try a rather unique plan of supervision, which seems to have worked admirably during the school year that has just closed. Instead of striving to reach the 100 small schools scattered over a large county that is often cut to pieces by swollen streams that flow through flat bottom lands the board of education decided to have fifteen supervisors.

These supervisors were all teachers of strong personality and wide experience. All of them held first class certificates and had had normal training. Of course there was not enough supervisors over 100 schools to keep fifteen supervisors busy, so each of them taught his or her own little school out in the country. If the supervisor had taught from Monday through Friday there would have been no time for visiting the other six groups in his group.

The plan outlined for this school year is to hold school from Tuesday through Saturday, thus leaving Monday open for visiting the other schools. By visiting three schools each Monday the supervising teacher would be able to reach all six schools once every two weeks. This makes it possible for the county superintendent to make a report from an expert from every portion of the county twice a month.

With the supervisor handling a small group, had roads can be made the work impossible. There is also the added advantage that at the opening of the school year, when many young and rather inexperienced teachers are in great need of help, the supervisor is close at hand to give the required assistance.

Close and constant supervision is a sure sign of success in any business, and our badly scattered rural schools are no exception. We have not got the returns from our expenditure of money in our rural schools because there was no supervision to learn where the leaks were and how they might be stopped or repaired.

Money and money in any amount needed will come as soon as supervision makes the public know that results will be obtained. Our children have been taught in any fashion that suited the individual. It is in the neighborhood "keep'n' school." Naturally the children did not know what was the matter when they failed to make suitable progress; neither did their parents.

Every one knew that the interest of both the children and their parents suited. They also knew that many of the older children dropped out of school because they were thoroughly dissatisfied.

Reports from county superintendents all over the state show that there is a new spirit both in the teaching force and among the children under this new influence of supervision. It is a simple proposition. It is that both teachers and children are becoming conscious of definite work that is being done in a thoroughly systematic manner.
