Morehead Man Victim Of Gunshot

A self-inflicted gunshot wound Sunday claimed the life of Marvin Sturgill, 55, at his home on Highway 22 about three miles east of Morehead.

Rowan County Coroner Buck Moore says Sturgill was sitting down on the back steps of his home, propped the gun up and discharged the 12-gauge weapon with a yardstick.

The dead struck him in the chest, Jones said. Mrs. Sturgill had left the home about 11 a. m. when she returned about noon, she discovered the body in the backyard.

Members of the family could be for no motive, the coroner said. Sturgill was born Nov. 20, 1907, a son of the late Miles and Nancy Stapleton Sturgill.

18 Cases Served From Rowan By Mental Units

A record-breaking 1,881 mentally ill and physically handicapped Kentuckians were rehabilitated during the past fiscal year, according to a report released by the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services of the Kentucky Department of Education.

Ben F. Coffman, director of the bureau, said this total is 105 more persons over the previous record of 1,776 established in 1962.

In Rowan County two persons were rehabilitated and 18 cases served by the Bureau of Rehabilitation.

Kentucky has advanced to 21st place in the nation in the number of rehabilitated in the number of 100,000 population, a comparison by William S. Lee, Jr., director of the bureau, said last year, the State was 24th.

Of the 6,445 persons who have been rehabilitated in the last 10 years, 2,773 more than the previous 10 years.

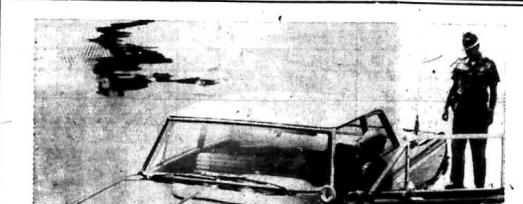

The bureau does not consider a person fully so until he is working on a job and self-supporting.

Employee Earnings Must Be Reported Promptly-SSA

Thomas B. Thompson, district director of Social Security Administration, in Ashland, said today that all employers who have employed persons in jobs covered by social security are required to report their earnings accurately and promptly.

Employers who fail to report earnings in a workable manner will be penalized. This "little bit" may be the factor which determines whether the employer will be penalized.

Once considerably larger, the Negro population in Morehead has dwindled in recent years. Segregation was prevalent colored people in 1864 that segregated to all-Negro schools in Owensboro or Mt. Sterling.

Safety Lane To Check Autos At The Kentucky State Fair

SAFETY LANE—State Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern drives the first automobile, an unmarked State Police cruiser, through the 1963 free inspection Safety Lane at the Kentucky State Fair.

The checking of your car for safety defects is a very simple matter and one which every motorist can do.

State Public Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern pointed to motor vehicle defects as one of the prime contributing factors in traffic accidents and asked Kentucky motorists to have their autos safely inspected at the Department of Public Safety Safety-Check Lane.

The safety-check lane set up will be located at the auto-raceway on the east side of Fairgrounds Gate 4 is located on Crittenden Drive.

Based on a sample of 12,666,600 motor vehicles safety-checked in nine states and the District of Columbia, the study revealed 20.7 percent of the autos had faulty brakes and 25.1 percent needed headlights adjusted.

According to the National Safety Council, the estimated number of deaths caused by mechanical defects is closer to fifteen percent than the previous estimated five percent.

Commissioner Lovern said the State Fair Safety Lane will give thousands of Kentuckians a chance to see how they may be able to save lives previously lost by mechanical failures such as "brakes", steering, defective brakes, lights, tires, wheels and windshield wipers.

The free safety-check lanes at the State Fair will offer motorists an opportunity to detect motor vehicle defects before they contribute to an accident.

Every person taking his car through the safety-check lane registers, receives a number, and thus qualifies for a drawing at which free automobiles will be given away.

Area Labor Day Accidents Were Minor In Spite Of Abnormal Traffic Flow

Although ideal weather conditions contributed to heavier than normal traffic over the Labor Day weekend, only two minor automobile mishaps were reported in Rowan County during that period.

State Police District Chief Allen pointed out that the record in Rowan County was "much better than the Faith of July" adding that not a single person was injured here during the 78-hour period.

A car which had stopped at the intersection of US 60 and Kentucky 32 was struck from the rear about 3:55 p. m. Friday.

Reports indicate that a vehicle driven by Roma Webb, 38, of Jacobs, Ky., stopped at the intersection, started to pull into US 60, stopped only to miss oncoming traffic and was hit by a car driven by Jesse Collins, 55, of Morehead, Rowan.

Damage was slight, Trooper Marvin Jennings said. The only other weekend mishap reported was a truck operated by a Morehead man on a charge of being in the wrong lane.

Verbal Royce, 27, of Route 3, was charged after his one and one-half truck collided head-on with an auto on Sunday in the area of the intersection of US 60 and Kentucky 32. The Royce truck, which was carrying a load of concrete blocks, attempted to turn into Kentucky 32 and struck the Clark vehicle in the front.

Robinson's report said the truck then went to the south side of Kentucky 32 to avoid an embankment and into a field, traveling approximately 250 feet before stopping.

The 11-county state police district covering the Morehead area is headed by Trooper James M. Jones. Past night was the 100th anniversary of the Labor Day weekend.

During the period from Friday morning through Monday night, there were only seven motor vehicle accidents, and only two injuries in the entire district, State Police said.

Three other accidents happened in Rowan County earlier in the year.

Slippery road conditions contributed to an accident in which a Morehead couple were injured Wednesday.

Trooper Jennings said Andre B. Bowne, 46, and his wife, Mary Jane, 46, were hurt when the 1962 model pickup truck in which they were riding skidded off Kentucky 32 about three miles north of Morehead Wednesday at 9:50 p. m. Rain had been falling.

The truck went out of control, Jennings said, rounding a sharp curve on a wet road and plunging into an embankment.

Jennings noted that the highway was under construction and a number of accidents have occurred at that location.

In another mishap last Wednesday, a tractor-trailer ran off Kentucky 32 about four miles east of Morehead.

The driver, James Haskell Campbell, 43, of Bristol, Va., told officers he was driving to a sleep.

Trooper James A. Farley said the truck went out of the highway, turned over the ditch and came to rest on a concrete block wall in front of the home of Earl K. Kinsinger.

A car driven by William Leach, 48, of Covington, Ky., was struck from the rear near Farmers last Thursday at 1:45 p. m.

Driver of the other vehicle was Guy Childers, 64, of Ashland.

Trooper Farley said Leach had slowed his car to make a right turn on a wet road when the accident took place.

The trooper said evidence indicated that Children was following too closely.

Sticker Sales Lag; Violators May Face Court

With only 268 city motor vehicle stickers sold out of a potential total of 1,500, city officials this week said they would move quickly to bring about compliance with the sticker law.

City Clerk Minnie Preston said the only alternative to failure to purchase the annual sticker would be to cite violators into city court where they would be subject to fines and court costs, in addition to the sticker fee of $10.

The permits which were due Sept. 1, are on sale at City Hall.

Big, Green, Good Leaf Crop Forecast

Big, green and hard to handle but a promising cigarette crop nonetheless, that was the general estimate of the 1963 burley harvest now getting under way.

The outlook, however, is not so bright as the biggest and perhaps the greenest burley crop on record. The crop has been a record, says a variety of Kentucky burley exporters.

The crop, however, should be far superior to last year's offering, which were heavy but generally of the poorest quality seen in recent years.

Cutting got under way in earnest last week, and estimates yesterday were that 20 to 30 percent of the crop has been harvested.

Massie, who said he was "very optimistic" about the crop at this time, warned that the big green leaf crop and crowded tobacco barns designed for smaller harvests, could cause trouble after being housed. He urged extra attention to curing conditions.

Only one industry part is up as it should. Continued rain has helped the tobacco growing instead of allowing it to ripen in the field, Massie said.

Many growers are cutting from a distance to be ripened well as still green about a half dozen leaves from the top he added. Massie expressed the opinion that the use of H-30, the controversial anti-cancer chemical, is causing the tobacco to yellow on top.

The plants this year generally have 25 to 28 leaves, and are holding their bottom leaves well. Massie said.

He emphasized that the big, sappy tobacco would soon begin to cure. The University is conducting a hydrometer, or even a few dried leaves on the back porch.

Many growers are emphasizing the use of either coke or bottled gas as the only suitable methods of artificial drying, he said.

Cutting in their own areas is not as far advanced as it is in the Blue Grass area, he estimated that 15 to 18 percent of the leaf has been cut in South Kentucky, but in the north it is scarcely begun on the late Northern Kentucky crop.

Tourism Committee For Fifteen Northeastern Counties To Meet

A newly-formed committee to promote the tourist and travel business in Northeastern Kentucky will have its first meeting Oct. 10 at Carter Caves State Park near Whitesburg.

Representatives from 15 counties making up the Northeastern Kentucky Tourism Committee will meet with several state officials to discuss the possibilities of creating a modern up-to-date tourist area in Northeastern Kentucky.

"We want to acquaint the people in this section with their possibilities and their responsibilities," she said.

Gov. Bert Coombs will address the committee at 1:30 p. m. Other speakers on the program, which gets under way at 8:45 a. m., include State Commerce Commis-

Of course you won't intentionally deprive your children of all the advantages an education offers.
 But have you checked their study-areas recently?
 Is there really adequate lighting that promotes good study habits?
 In fact, it's a good idea to check the wiring in your entire house. If lights dim when you start appliances or your T-V picture is fuzzy when you turn on certain lights, your electrical circuits are being over-loaded. This means that you aren't getting maximum power for your appliances and lights.
 Have your electrical contractor check your wiring soon. Adequate wiring pays for itself in greater safety.

Employee Earnings

worker's family gets social security benefits when the worker retires, dies or becomes disabled.

Thompson said there are three employer classifications: (1) Employers who operate a trade or business; (2) Housewives who have domestic workers in and around their homes; (3) Farm operators who hire farm hands.

"All these employers should ask the worker should have social security card when he is hired," Thompson said. "You, as the employer, should put in your permanent records the name and social security number exactly as they are shown on the card. You will need these two items when you report the worker's earnings to Internal Revenue Service."

"You, as the employer, should put in your permanent records the name and social security number exactly as they are shown on the card. You will need these two items when you report the worker's earnings to Internal Revenue Service."

An employer who operates a trade or business should keep a record of all wages paid within a calendar quarter, Thompson added. During the month following the end of the quarter, the employer prepares a report of wages paid to each worker in Form 943, which is available at the Internal Revenue Office.

Thompson explained that a calendar quarter is a three-month period: January, February, and March make up the first quarter, and the three 3-month periods following make up the second, third, and fourth quarters. The maximum amount of wages to be reported for one worker in a single calendar year is $400, but there is no minimum amount — any wages paid to an employee in covered work must be reported.

Housewives, however, report the actual cash wages paid to a household worker only if the worker is paid $50 or more in the quarter. Room and board do not count but childcare counts if paid in cash. Household workers are reported on the household report form, which is available from the Social Security Office or the Internal Revenue Office.

Thompson emphasized that farm employers have a different set of reported only once a year. If the farmer pays $150 or more each wages to a farm worker in a year, or has a farm hand working for him 20 or more days in a year for cash pay figured on a time basis, he must report those wages and pay the social security tax. In January of each year the farm employer files a return on Form 943 reporting the name, social security account number, and total wages of each of his farm workers who met the above requirements during the preceding year. Error In Advertisement Causes Extension Of Local Tire Sale

A Morehead retail outlet, Meadows and Crager Goodyear Store, will break a precedent for the next three days by continuing their annual sale of automobile and truck tires.

This decision was reached after an advertisement in the Meadows and Crager Company in the last issue of The Morehead News bore an incorrect signature, indicating their annual tire sale was being conducted at a competing Morehead retail store.

The signature of the company also might have temporarily conveyed that a concern other than Meadows and Crager was the franchised dealer in Rowan County for Goodyear tires and affiliated Goodyear products.

Meadows and Crager is the only franchised retail dealer that Goodyear has in Morehead. The error resulted in the insertion of an advertisement that had been made up in matrix (engraving) form by the Goodyear company.

The newspaper pointed out that this is a regrettable error but sometimes happens since the signature lines generally do not come to the proofreader as they are inserted as the pages are made up for the press run.

He added: "We have decided to offer these special tire prices for three days this week (today, Friday and Saturday) so the motorists of this area can take advantage of our annual sale."

Cramer also said this "is a regrettable mistake, but we are correcting it by offering these tires at a reduction for the balance of this week."

Production Up

State's Farmers Set Records In Six Categories During 1962

Kentucky farmers set six records last year in burley tobacco, corn yield per acre and total crop value, soybean acreage and soybean production, and the total of cattle and calves, and milk production, according to Harold Bray, director of the Division of Market and Farm Marketing in 1962 produced more than $15 million from 1961, but this was offset by an increase of almost $4 million in Federal government support payments.

Tobacco again was by far the biggest cash producer among crops, 493,515,000 pounds selling the crop values as compared to 478,858,900 and 62.6 percent of 1961. Burley, which totaled 92 percent of the tobacco crop, sold for only $58 per hundred weight average, however, as compared to $66.70 in 1961. The prices were down, Bray said.

The sharp price decline in tobacco was particularly evident in December, when more than $16 million worth of leaf was sold that is the same month in 1961. And 28 percent of last year's crop was carried over for 1963 sales, compared to 15 percent of the 1961 crop.

Corn, the second biggest cash crop at $74,477,000, increased slightly from 16.3 percent to 16.8 percent of crop values. Hay (12.7 percent), $37,422,000, was third, and soybeans (7.7), $12,089,000, fourth. Over 30 percent of the total accounted for by tobacco, corn, hay, and soybeans.

The sharp average price for corn remained stable at $1.15 per bushel, because of the Federal price support program, but the average price for hay increased from $22.90 to $24 a ton and the price for soybeans from $2.24 to $2.30 a bushel.

Kentucky's 150,000 farms include 48 million acres in farming, or 67 percent of the state's total land value. The land and buildings are valued at $2,865,000,000.

Most crops produced good to excellent yields, but the 1962 season was somewhat unusual because of a wide variation in weather conditions, Bray said.

Harvest of principal crops grown on Kentucky farms last year totaled 3,584,000 tons. This was 2 percent below the 3,654,000 tons harvested in 1961 and 19 percent below the 1954 average. Thirty reductions in wheat and barley crops accounted for much of this decline. Smaller reductions in hay, corn, sorghum grain, and soybean crops were practically offset by increases for tobacco and soybeans.

Production of fire-cured tobacco (type 22) in the state last year was 9,429,000 pounds, 6 percent above the 8,863,000 pounds produced in 1961. Fire-cured tobacco (type 23) totaled 10,230,000 pounds, 10 percent more than in 1961 and 12 percent above the average. One-sticker tobacco (type 35) totaled 11,575,000 pounds, 11 percent more than in 1961. Green River Kentucky, yielded 7,567,000 pounds, or 77 percent above the 1961 figure.

Corn production for grain in Kentucky in 1962 was 64,728,000 bushels, 5 percent above the 61,780,000 bushels produced in 1961 and 7 percent above the 10-year average. However, the yield of 58 bushels per acre, the highest, topped the previous high record, 55 bushels. Kentucky farmers harvested 1,116,000 acres of grain, the same as in 1961, but 37 percent more average because of more participation in the Federal Feed Grain Program.

Hay production last year totaled 2,393,000 tons, 7 percent less than in 1961, but 6 percent above the 10-year average.

The record inventory of 2,354,000 cattle and calves on Kentucky farms January 1, 1962, was 5 percent above the 2,242,000 head of year earlier. Kentucky ranks 13th in the nation in cattle totals. The record inventory of 2,354,000 cattle and calves on Kentucky farms January 1, 1962, was 5 percent increase in milk cows during 1962 helped to achieve the record. Kentucky is 14th in the nation in total cattle and calves.

Milk cows two years old and older continued a slight decline, 1 percent last year — the ninth straight year to show a decline. However, the Bluegrass State still ranks 14th nationally in milk cows two years old and older with 543,000. Beef cows have doubled in number in Kentucky since 1955, while milk cows have declined 17 percent.

For the sixth straight year, Kentucky made cheese, a total of 598,000 pounds, enabled the Commonwealth to rank third among American cheese-producing states. And Kentucky's production of unadulterated evaporated milk, 202,344,000 pounds, advanced to second place, behind only Ohio. Sales of dairy products now rank third, behind tobacco and meat animals.

The total value of all cattle and calves in Kentucky January 1 was $203,496,000, or 7 percent above a year earlier. At $129 each, the average value per head was $203,496,000, or 7 percent above the 1961 figure.

Turkeys in the state at this year's start totaled 80,000, or 10 percent fewer than the 81,000 of Jan. 1, 1962. The 65,000 breeder hens were 10 percent more than the 59,000 of the previous year. Higher average value per head increased the total value by 12 percent at the end of 1962.

In a grouping with seven neighboring states in 1960, the last year for which figures are available, Kentucky tied with Virginia for third lowest in taxes per acre and also was fourth lowest in taxes per $100 of full value of farm real estate.

Kentucky's and Virginia's tax per acre that year was 80 cents, as compared to Illinois' $4.07, Indiana's $2.39, Ohio's $2.27, Missouri's 96 cents, Tennessee's 63 cents, and West Virginia's 39 cents.

Kentucky's tax per $100 of full farm real estate value was 52 cents, as compared to Illinois' 63 cents, Indiana's 99 cents, Ohio's 94 cents, Missouri's 86 cents, Virginia's 55 cents, Tennessee's 50 cents and West Virginia's 44 cents.

Six Counties Paid Half Of The Sales Tax

Six counties paid about half of the state's sales tax in 1961. Revenue Commissioner Robert Bell said Sunday in making public the first report on sales tax collections by counties.

Jefferson County businesses paid about 30 percent of the state total, $27.4 million of the $94 million collected from the three percent sales tax.

Fayette County was next (7.7 percent), with Kenton (4.27 percent), Daviess (3.07 percent), Campbell (2.77 percent) and McCracken (2.74 percent) in order in joining Jefferson in contributing 49.83 percent of the total.

Bell said the data had certain limitations and that some of the figures are estimates.

He added that the amount of business from a particular county is an indication of the amount of tax business carried on in it but does not mean that the residents of that county paid the tax. Bell said market location is important.

The Cincinnati influence was noted in Kenton and Campbell counties, while Fayette drew business from other areas in the Bluegrass region, he said.

Kentonsians in 33 states also paid $2.7 million to Kentucky in sales and use taxes with Illinois leading the list, followed by Ohio and Tennessee.

Head was up $2 over the previous year and $12 higher than the five-year average.

Hogs totaled 1,444,000 on Jan. 1 of this year which was 2 percent above the 1,386,000 a year earlier and 5 percent more than the five-year average. The total value of all hogs in the state at the year's start was estimated at $24,640,000, compared to $33,680,000 a year earlier, an increase of 3 percent.

Table listing various receipt categories such as Want All Comforts, Forest Service Wonders Why Campers 'Left Own Yards', A. U. S. Forest Service official says he wonders some campers why they leave their own back yards for camping trips into the national forests, Writing about the agency's experience in trying to meet the public demand for more forest facilities in the wilderness, the official said most campers have their own tent trailers, gasoline stoves, fold-up tables and chairs, and every one said he had never left as though they had never left their own back yards, The officers - William W. Huber, assistant regional forester for the Southern Division - said his agency is attempting to change the camping areas being provided for them by such education, "In general," he said, "the American camper is a very social, quite gregarious, and likes crowds. Campers tell us they are coming to meet their friends and to educate them to use the more isolated camping areas. But sometimes they do not know anything about camping or act as they do at home and leave a heck of a lot of mess behind them," Huber said the carefree 20 percent cost taxpayers millions of dollars each year through the thoughtless abuse of recreation resources, "They are the ones who cause erosion on trails by taking their dogs, they carve their names on trees, and even cut rocks. They are the ones who drive jeeps and motorcycles in scenic areas closed off to them. They are the hunters who leave cattle gates open, who shove the farmer's cow. They destroy beautiful flower areas to get hot dog roasting sticks. They are the ones who take home state plants, dig up topsoil, leave trash all over, remove road barriers to get cars closer to camp, and leave camp fires unattended to cause forest fires," Huber said the remaining 5 percent of the campers are the destructive people who have nothing of their own, not even good sense, destroy everything they can, "These vicious people steal bathroom fixtures including mirrors, they take the paint off the walls, they break they shoot at and away to show how clever they are. They use shingles from pavilions to make a fire and deliberately set the woods on fire,"

Table listing various receipt categories such as Gas Refunds In Kentucky $2 Million, By Tim Bennett, State farmers filing federal and state claims for federal gasoline tax refund in 1962 were rewarded $2 million, the amount of $2,073,376.70 of this amount, $2,041,136.90 was refunded by the state and $32,239.80 was refunded by the federal, It's interesting to note, however, that a small number of farmers filed claims for both the state and federal refunds in 1962 compared to the large number of farmers who have in Kentucky, In 1962, only 22,000 farmers filed for the federal refund and those filing for the federal refund only amounted to 16,782, The Kentucky farmers have until Sept. 30 to file claims for the federal gasoline tax refund. Combs Names Seven To Parole Group

Gov. Bert Combs has appointed seven members of a new commission created by the second 1963 special session of the Legislature to act as general advisor to State Government on prisons and the parole system.

Combs said the first task of the new Commission on Correction and Community Service will be to advise him on appointment of two additional members to the State Parole Board. The special legislative session increased board membership from three to five members.

Appointed members of the new commission are: Paul Oberst, University of Kentucky College of Law, Lexington; George Stoll, a Louisville businessman; Commonwealth's Attorney Maubert Mills, Madisonville; Earl Bellows, AFL-CIO legislative agent, Olive Hill; Circuit Judge L. R. Curtis, Louisville; and J. W. Hodges, Elizabethtown, and Dr. Hollis Johnson, Louisville psychiatrist.

Combs said the Commission also will advise him on the selection and appointment of a career penologist as commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Corrections.

Creation of the commission and increased membership on the Parole Board are included in an act adopted by the special legislative session to aid in rehabilitation of prisoners by modernizing parole procedures. The act empowers the Parole Board to decide when a prisoner is eligible for parole.

The act is not effective until October 1, but, Combs said, "the new commission can begin studying its problems immediately so that it can have some recommendations well under way by the time it becomes an official body."

New Contract Approval Is Asked Of PSC

East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative and Kentucky Utilities Company last week asked the Kentucky Public Service Commission to approve a new contract whereby the two utilities agree to interconnect their electric generating and transmission systems.

The two systems have operated on an interconnected basis since 1961. The new contract will, in effect, pool the output of the generating plants and interconnections of both East Kentucky and Kentucky Utilities. Dispatching for both will be handled at Dix Dam.

The interconnection of the two systems will work to the advantage of the consumers of both systems by avoiding costly duplication of facilities which would be required if the two utilities were each isolated from the other.

The initial term of the new contract is 10 years, with provision for automatic renewals for 10-year terms unless cancelled by either party.

Signing the contract, which is intended to become effective Feb. 1, 1964, were Alex B. Veech, Finchville, president of East Kentucky, and Floyd I. Farman, Lexington, Kentucky Utilities president.

Leaf Handling Caution Urged Now That Housing Season Here

Burley tobacco growers have been cautioned that now, the time for the careful handling of burley which keeps good tobacco from going to market as offgrains which nobody wants.

W. J. Stator, executive secretary of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, noted that each year the Association, which administers the price support program, must reject baskets which do not meet the standards considered for "merchantable tobacco."

Before the Association can accept a basket of burley for price support, it must be inspected for the presence of any foreign matter, mud or other dirt, or for anything else which makes it substandard.

"At this time of the year," he said, "we hope growers will take precautions to keep from being caught with tobacco, cut and ready for housing, still out in the field when the rains come. Few buyers are interested in muddy tobacco, and it can be sold only at a severe discount."

"We appreciate the growers' problems in cutting and housing crops this year. But it is still a fact that dirty, improperly handled tobacco finds little interest on the warehouse floor. It usually ends up in the no-support grades. Pullers for the Burley Association, as well as for the major buyers operating on the markets, examine baskets of burley before they are formally accepted."

The reason for this is simple: Burley unacceptable to certain standards cannot be used by the manufacturers, and cannot be resold by the Burley Association. Pooled burley must be moved eventually through normal trade channels or the important buyers of supply and demand will be upset.

Second In Series Of Long-Rifle Matches Scheduled

The second and deciding match in the 1963 long rifle shoot between Kentucky and Pennsylvania will be fired at Barbourville, Oct. 12.

Col. George Chinn, director of the Kentucky Historical Society, has announced that a committee "appropriately has decided to hold the shoot-off at the annual Daniel Boone Festival in Barbourville."

Ten picked marksmen from each state will use the flint-lock muzzle-loading rifle made famous by Daniel Boone in his explorations opening up Kentucky.

The first match will be fired Sept. 28 at the Daniel Boone Home, near Reading, Pa. Boone and his wife Rebecca are buried in Frankfort.

The Kentucky-Pennsylvania shoot developed from a controversy over whether the flint-lock rifle, developed in the 18th century when Boone moved to Kentucky via North Carolina, should properly be called the "Pennsylvania rifle" or the "Kentucky rifle."

Pennsylvania claim the weapon. First was made by Pennsylvania gunsmiths. Kentuckians retort that Kentuckians refined the rifle and made it famous.

Area Clinic For Sawmill Operators Set

One-day clinics for Kentucky sawmill operators are scheduled next week in four different sections of the state, according to James A. Newman, University of Kentucky Extension Service forester. Planned to cover many subjects of interest to sawmill operators, the clinics are sponsored by the UK Extension Service and the Kentucky Department of Conservation's Division of Forestry.

Clinic dates and sites are: Sept. 9 - Jerry's Drive-In, Morehead; Sept. 11 - Lakeview Motel, Southwinds Restaurant, near Scottsville; and Sept. 13 - Pete Light Restaurant, west of Cadiz. Each clinic will open at 9:30 a.m. and end at 2:30 p.m.

Speakers at each clinic will be: Kenneth C. Compton, forest products technologist, Central States Forest Experiment Station, Columbus, Ohio; Gilbert E. Brown, head, UK Department of Forestry; and Chauncey J. Lehr, marketing and wood utilization specialist, Kentucky Division of Forestry.

No Polio Reported In State During 1963

Not a single case of polio has been reported in Kentucky so far this year.

"There are not even any suspect cases," Health Commissioner Russell Teague said Friday. The state epidemiologist, Cliff Todd, said, "This is the latest in the season in my 12 years with the department that we haven't had a case. We had seven by this time last year."

The summer months are considered as the polio season, but reports usually start coming in around March or April. The latest national report is 173 cases compared with 389 at this time last year.

The last two years in Kentucky have been marked by a tremendous drop in cases. Only 28 were reported in 1961 and 26 in 1962 compared with a 10-year average of 431 per year from 1951 to 60.

Also appearing on each program will be the local county Extension agent, who will introduce the program, Newman, discussing the purpose of the clinics, and E. M. Conway, also with the Central States Forest Experiment Station, summarizing the day's program.

"Paralytic cases still are proportionately high," Todd said. "There were 19 in 1961 and 26 last year."

No deaths have resulted from polio in the last two years. In comparison the average was 26 deaths per year from 1951 to 60.

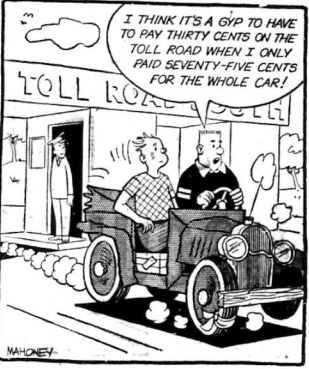

The record polio year in Kentucky was 1962 when 1,782 cases were reported, 921 of these paralytic. The death toll that year was 129, also a record.

Health officials attribute the decline of polio to the Salk and Sabin vaccines. The Sabin variety, a live virus, is used mostly now in Kentucky.

Teague said 90 percent of Kentuckians have been immunized against the one-dread disease and that some counties have reached 90 percent immunization. Clinics usually were sponsored by local medical societies and volunteer organizations.

July Money For Welfare Up $19,000

Public assistance payments to Kentucky's needy totaled $3,233,201 in July, State Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell has announced.

The total amount was $19,900 more than in May of this year, Powell said, with all categories except Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) showing an increase.

ADC cases received $3,483 less than in May, due to a decreased number of eligible recipients on the rolls. There were 1,808 more children and 208 more adults on the ADC caseload in May, Powell said. The average payment for those still on the ADC rolls, however, increased by a few cents in July.

Powell said the decreased number of recipients in this category has resulted from more intensive re-investigation of ADC cases, which has turned up some who are not eligible and have been dropped from the program.

The other three categories of public assistance showed increases in the total amount of payments.

Old age assistance recipients received $2,823,464 in July, an increase of $46,446 over May. Aid to the invalid blind totaled $152,724 in July, for an increase of $1,907, and aid to the permanently and totally disabled totaled $580,079 in July, for an increase of $5,257 over May.
