$10,000 BOND SET IN TWIN MURDER CASE

MANY WITNESSES HEARD AT TRIAL

Self-Defense Plea Entered by Haldeman Man; Mrs. Bocoock Testifies

FAILS TO EXECUTE BOND

Charged with two counts of murder for the slaying of John Bocoock and Robert Stewart, Catlettsburg cattle buyers, Arthur Hicks of near Haldeman is held in the county jail here after failing to execute a $10,000 bond. Hicks testified he shot in self defense after the two men had attempted to rob the filling station at Bill Kegley, near Eadon where he worked until last Monday when the shooting occurred.

At an examining trial Saturday, in which the Commonwealth sought to connect the slaying of the two men at the filling station with that of Marion Smith, non-union employee of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company several weeks ago, Hicks was charged separately with the murder of Bocoock and Stewart and a bond of $5,000 on each count was set by Judge C. E. Jennings.

Bill Smith, father of Marion Smith, whose body was found on the C & O railway tracks, and who is believed to have been murdered, testified at the examining trial that several days before Monday's shooting, Bocoock and Stewart had told him, "They understood Hicks had something to do with the murder of Marion Smith," and asked him if there was not a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Marion Smith. Bocoock and Stewart told there was an effort being made to put up a reward in this amount.

Hicks, taking the witness stand in his defense, told the same version that he gave officers the night of the shooting. Hicks said the men came into his place of business, acted loud and rowdy, and he caught one of them putting the salt and pepper shakers in his pocket. Hicks said that the men asked him how much he had in the cash drawer and he replied only a few dollars. According to Hicks' version, Bocoock then said, "Come on with your hardware." For "we're coming with ours." The second man declared that Bocoock made a motion toward his pocket and grabbed him by the arm. Hicks said he then shot Bocoock and turned the gun on the other man when Stewart kept coming at him.

Clarence Piesman, the only other eyewitness to the tragedy, told about the same version as did Hicks. Sheriff Mort May and Deputy Sheriff Jess Caudill, testified that they were in the filling station a few minutes before the shooting and that Bocoock and Stewart appeared to be orderly and that Hicks made no complaint to them of any trouble.

The widow of Bocoock, who lives at Paris, Ky., swore that Hicks had met her husband in Portsmouth several days ago and that Hicks had asked Bocoock to come to Haldeman—that he (Hicks) had a load of cattle wreathed, which he wanted Bocoock to sell.

PREDICT HEAVY HOLIDAY TRADE

Morehead Merchants To Carry Large Stock This Year

Indications, reached on a basis of present employment and existing financial conditions, point to one of the most prosperous Christmases for Morehead and Rowan County people this year, than they have enjoyed since the 1929 depression.

However, if the business done in Morehead during the past 2 weeks is an indication, the prospects for a bountiful yuletide are not as gratifying as might be expected. The past fortnight registered a distinct let-down in business done by local merchants, but it is believed that this may be a fore-runner of heavier Christmas sales; in other words the business sector that people are laying money back in anticipation of Christmas shopping.

To meet the expected volume of Christmas sales, practically all stores in Morehead that handle toys and Christmas lines are laying in large stocks. Bruce's $10 and $1.00 Store will have their Christmas opening on Saturday of this week. Golde's Dept.

Stanfill Wins By 3,000 On Tabulation Of Mahan

Reports from the Secretary of State show that C. C. Stanfill, Republican, of Ravenna, defeated J. N. Kennard, Democrat, of Ashland, for Railroad Commissioner of the 3rd District by approximately 3,000 votes. In a statement issued at Ashland, Mr. Kennard said that a recount when the totals were taken up by the Board of Commissioners would show that he had defeated Mr. Stanfill by upwards of 5,000.

Disastrous Football Season Ended By Morehead Clubs; Freshman Record Best

From the battlefield of the gridiron, Morehead teams came away with little pride to the campaign just ended, and the victories that are salvaged from a generally disastrous season are outweighed by the sting of defeat.

The Morehead Freshmen is the only local eleven that can point to any marked achievements during the year. In fact, the Morehead varsity and the two local High School teams scored but one victory between them. Cap Bill Sroogins and his freshman team did themselves no harm during the year. The Eagles displayed clean early in the season by holding a good University of Ken-game possibly should have been close. In their next start the Freshmen tied Georgetown's gearlings 6-6. Georgetown's touchdown marked the first time that an S. I. A. A. team has scored on Morehead in 2 years. The Eagles finished the season by trouncing Lindsey-Wilson Junior College 37-0 and Transylvania's Freshmen 14-0. A total of 163 points were scored against Morehead College's varsity, while the Eagles were accounting for but 2 touchdowns and one extra point. The net result was a record (Continued On Last Page)

Thanksgiving

Lord, I give thanks For the green gospel of the grass, And the white billowy clouds that pass; For the world's great loveliness, And the rain's healing hands that bless. The fevered meadow and the road Whereon I set my still abode; I thank Thee for the quiet moon Long shadows in the afternoon; For the great peace the blue sky knows, And the red reainment of the rose; For the soft tumult of the leaves, In autumn, on my mantled eaves, For the clear sky on, wind-blown nights, And all the little village lights.

That smile at me through winter's dark Each on a human, tender spark; For apple orchards, while with May, For many a fair sequenced way; For the deep, patience of the pool Within a forest beautiful. I thank Thee for the simple things, Beyond the glory of the kings; For goodly books to read at night In the sweet peace of candle light; For break to break, a child to kiss Ann. O. Dear Lord, for this and this; The love of a woman that shall last Till time itself, and life, have passed. And as the long bright journey ends, Lord, I give thanks for many friends. BOND IS GIVEN IN WINKLEMAN CASE

Rowan Farmer Executes $2,500 In Nickell Scrape

After Dr. G. C. Nickell reported that Fowler Nickell had about one chance in a hundred to live, Manford Winkleman, charged with shooting him Monday, November 18, was placed under $2,500 bond in the court of Judge C. E. Jennings here Saturday. No testimony was taken in the case, other than that of Dr. Nickell.

It had been previously agreed that Winkleman's bond was to be set at $1,000 as Nickell's condition was not considered as serious. However, after the Doctor's report, it was raised to $2,500, for Winkleman's appearance at the next County Court day. In the event that Nickell dies the bond will be surety until Circuit Court.

Nickell was sprayed with pellets from a shotgun. Winkleman is said to have told officers he shot in self-defense after Nickell had turned a shot on him.

400 TO BE GIVEN WORK IN ROWAN

Sixteen Candidates For Morehead Debating Team

There are sixteen candidates for this year's debating teams at the Morehead State Teachers College. They will attempt to uphold a record compiled by Prof. A. Y. Lloyd and his debating teams that has been unequalled during the past 3 years by any college in the state.

The Morehead team will use, in the majority of their debates, the subject: "Resolved: That Congress Should be Permitted by a two-thirds vote, to override any decision of the Supreme Court, Declaring a Law Unconstitutional."

Candidates for the team so far are: T. F. Rogers, W. K. Hall, Nathaniel Griswold, David Leslie, Jr., Charles Schweitzer, Clyde Burton, Alton Payne, Howard Hadden, John Shuey, Erii Dean, Howard Eckles, Elijah Hodge, Martin Frances Harmon, Betty Black, Edith Hayes and Suzanne Langley.

EAGLES BEGIN WORK FRIDAY

Team Prospects Poor; Freshmen To Have Good Quintet

With poor prospects for a winning combination, the Morehead College Eagles, will hold their initial basketball practice Friday.

Lack of a tall center, and a plentiful supply of experienced players is expected to hurt the Teachers in their third S. I. A. A. campaign. Four lettermen have returned from last year's varsity, and the freshmen are sending up a spirited array of talent.

Coach Downing said today that most of the practice during December will be in attempting to work forwards and centers out of guards. There is an abundance of the latter and a shortage at both forward posts and the pivot spot. All practice after Monday will be held behind locked doors Coach Downing declared.

The lettermen returning include John Shuey, of Palmyra, Ind., a guard; John Francis, Carr Creek, guard; John Rosson, Lindsey-Wilson Jr. College, forward; center, and William Ryan, Maysville, guard. J. B. Parsley, who gave considerable service with the varsity last year, is a regular forward and may be at that spot in the opening lineup.

The best bet from the freshman five is Lawrence Carter, who played at the pivot spot for the Eagles. It is probable that he will be playing at forward this year, as much of his effectiveness in pivoting for shots, is expected to be lost through the rule changes. Carter is not a player that gets good distance from his jumps, and Rosson appears a more logical candidate for the pivot berth.

William Ryan is the most experienced man available. He has played for 3 years on the Morehead varsity. Ryan is not a high scorer, but a tenacious guard. Coach Downing said today that he may move to a forward, expecting that he will score more from that point. John Shuey was absent last year at making long shots and proved himself a reliable guard. He will probably hold down the back guard position this season.

Ed Leslie, of Pikeville, a boy who did not come out for basketball last year, may prove the scoring gun for Death From the Air Barring the Inventor The Republicals Odds To Starve Italy Warfare in Ethiopia consists largely in surprising the enemy in some narrow gorge or valley.

But England does not like free speech from another country, through the ether. The British Broadcasting company will not let Marconi talk from Rome to Englishmen over the radio.

Those that make betting a business are often found in their political judgments. They are at least odd, calculating, sentiment does not cloud their vision.

The Republican Presidential nomination the betting now stands: Senator William E. Borah, 8 to 1 Governor Landon of Kansas, 10 to 1 Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, 15 to 1 Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, 15 to 1 Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, Ogden L. Mills, Senator David A. Reed, all 20 to 1.

Professional bettors agree that Governor Landon is gaining, and will probably lead the procession at 6 to 1 in a few days. Band wagon climbers are more and more polite to Governor Landon.

The "sanctions" wall thrown by England and France around Italy, smaller nations co-operating, to "isolate and starve Italy," as Mussolini puts it, is not complete. Two million young orphans are waiting in England for effort to punish Italy for doing to Ethiopia what England and France have done to other, more nearly civilized nations.

The film is a finer art than the novel, stage or the opera. Mr. Wells' open mind proves his youth. The moving picture is greater in its possibilities than book, stage or opera, because it comes with a bang, plus the marvelous power of photography.

Britain's ambassador is conferring with our State department concerning Japan's plan to settle Chinese provinces, containing 35,000,000 Chinese, 35,000,000 more than the total population of Japan.

If the Japanese could control, arm and use 100,000,000 Chinese in the air and on the ground, it would be interesting. But it would not be business, and it is to be hoped that the British government will not persuade our State department that this country ought to attend to it.

Spiritually, politically and otherwise important is the proposed "merger" approved by bishops of the branches of the Methodist Episcopal church. After the Tory election in England prices were soaring on London's stock exchange. Companies that make war weapons and materials were most buoyant. The masses had better be more, bigger and better battleships and war, if necessary.

Friend Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB Hello, Everybody!

"Waterfowl Battle" BY FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter.

It's the same old story, boys and girls. Adventure never shows up when you look for it—always pops up when you least expect it. Take the case of Edgar Columbia.

He chased adventure from Canada to Mexico and back again, but the scare of his life came to him when he went into a lurch room one night to get a cup of coffee.

That cup of coffee cost Ed five cents, and came doggone near to costing him his life. It was in the early part of January, 1928, and Ed was in Portland, Maine. Up there he was a member in good standing of the International League of Hunters, Local 861, and engaged in the work of loading and unloading the boats that come in and out of Portland harbor.

It was a he-man's job, and Ed says he mess up with some pretty hard-boiled characters along the Portland waterfront.

The men who frequent the dock districts in all seaports, Ed says, are apt to be a pretty tough lot. And Portland is no exception to the rule. Human flotilla passed through there from the seven seas and the five continents. There were toughs—crooks, yes, and murderers—all of them flocking to the shabby waterfront Clink as beetles flock to a bright light.

Nice People, These Waterfront Folks. "In Portland these characters could be found on Commercial street, Fore street and the lower part of India street. They hung out in dives, clip-joints, cheap beereries and in the back rooms of wild night clubs.

That was the sort of locality Ed Columbia worked in, and his work was as hard as the neighborhood was rough. When a boat was scheduled to leave in the morning, the longshoremen worked all night to get it loaded.

In the winter those nights often ran a temperature of 15 or 20 degrees below zero, and at such times the men took turns going out for a cup of coffee to keep them warm.

It was on one of those nights, about 2:30 a. m., that Ed started out for a cup of hot Java. He went into one of those all-night lurch rooms of India street, and sat down at the long, wooden lurch counter on one of those round spinning stools. There were 15 or 20 tough-looking guys sitting around at nearby tables, and playing cards, but they didn't worry Ed any, because Ed was just as tough-looking as they were and weighed 187 pounds in the bargain.

Ed ordered his coffee and an egg sandwich. While he was eating his sandwich and sipping his coffee, a tough-looking gent came walking into the lurch room, and with a string of curses, hopped himself down on the stool beside Ed. The tough guy had a pretty good cargo of liquor aboard.

He was in a matter of fact, at that stage of drunkenness where he was getting madder and uglier by the minute. But—well—that was none of Ed's business. He went right on eating and drinking his coffee as if nothing had ever happened.

Ed Takes Abuse as Long as He Can. Suddenly, and for no apparent reason, the drunk turned on Ed and began calling him every name in the book. It seems that some man had stolen his girl from him, and Ed looked like that man. For a while Ed paid no attention to him.

"He was furious," says Ed, "and my indifference didn't help any. Finally, I told him to pipe down and to go to h—l. Then he went berserk. The drunk began yelling at the top of his voice, threatening to kill Ed. Then he jumped to his feet and made a grab with both hands for the stool he had been sitting on.

Those stools were just round seats set in iron pipes. On the bottom of each seat was a sort of stem that fit loosely into the pipe—a metal spike protruding about three quarters of an inch—that the drunk picked up. Holding the metal spike with both hands, he raised it high above his head and tried to drive the spike into Ed's skull.

Hunting Licenses

A survey of the state records on the issuance of hunting and fishing licenses show that sportsmen are now buying more permits than ever before. It is probable that more rigid enforcement of the game laws is mostly responsible for this.

In the central and western parts of Kentucky the enforcement of the laws of the state Game and Fish Commission is more strict than it is in our section of the state. We need more rigid enforcement here. Lack of funds has kept the Game and Fish Commission from putting on enough game wardens to amply care for the situation. The situation has been recently helped but still is not sufficiently cared for.

No game warden has ever challenged the writer in 10 years of hunting in eastern Kentucky. This tends to breed disregard of the hunting and fishing laws in our section. It might be advisable to at least place extra men on during the last three months of the year, and possibly in the spring, as this is when most of the hunting and fishing is done, and the more violations of the law occur.

C. C. C. Camps

People of Morehead and Rowan County have had a first hand knowledge of just what the CCC camps are, what they do and how they are managed. The Clearfield CCC camp is, no doubt, typical of those all over the United States.

The Clearfield camp has done much for Rowan County. Trails and roads have been built over seemingly impassable mountains. Thousands of dollars heretofore lost in forest fires every year have been saved. The CCC camp has been a healthful and beneficial assistance in this county.

So far as we have been able to ascertain the members of the camp have conducted themselves in a manner that deserves commendation. No doubt the officers of the camp are conscientiously aware of the problems that face such a camp as this, and have met the problem frankly and fairly with gratifying results.

Before the camp was placed here, it was no uncommon sight to see from Morehead, forest fires that burned for several days and sometimes weeks. We have seen the entire city surrounded by a ring of forest and grass fires. The condition of the trees bear mute testimony to the loss that was suffered. If the CCC camps do nothing but continue to eradicate the tonnage of flame that have eaten our trees and almost ridged our county of timber, they have done a worth-while job.

It is little wonder that President Roosevelt's great CCC program has drawn approval from throughout the United States. If the Clearfield camp is an indication of general conditions, which it, no doubt, is, then approval must be placed opposite this far-reaching enterprise of President Roosevelt and the present Administration.

Safety On The Highways

Winter, with its increased danger of traffic accidents, is approaching. Slippery roads, difficulty of vision and the necessity of additional night driving because of the decrease in daylight hours will add their hazards to those already faced by the motorist.

With this in mind, Kentucky drivers might well profit by the simple rules for driving, submitted to the New York Sun by a motorist who has had 34 years of experience without an accident, and published by that newspaper with the comment that "most drivers know them, but not all apply them." The rules follow:

Always drive on the right hand side of the road.
Go slow on curves.

When going up hill on high, cut off and float over the crest ready for a quick stop.

Never cut out of line to pass a car unless you are sure of ample room.

Never pass on a hill or a curve.
Slow down for side roads and cross roads.

Never turn your head while driving; let the other passengers enjoy the landscape.

Slow down as it gets dark, and keep below thirty miles an hour after dark.

To these admonitions, The Herald would like to add three others:

Keep your car, and especially the brakes, in good mechanical condition.
Liquor and gasoline simply will not mix.

LESS CORN, MORE HOGS IN ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

Less corn and more hogs are features considered by the AAA for its new two-year adjustment program. Corn reduction for next year may be between 10 and 30 per cent below the base production. It is proposed to pay 25 cents a bushel for the estimated yield of the corn land withheld from production. Contract signers will be required to grow at least 30 to 50 per cent of their base acreage.

Farmers can produce as many hogs as they raised in 1933-34, and will be paid probably $2.50 a head for raising 60 per cent of their base. The plan, it is announced from Washington, would increase pork production by 30 per cent over 1935.

The objective of the proposed new two-year corn-hog adjustment program will be to maintain a balance between the production and consumption of corn and hogs. It is considered important by the farmers of the plan, to prevent excessive production in 1936 and 1937, which it is feared would follow if there were no adjustment program.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE HONORS GOOD STUDENTS

standing as a first year student in home economics.

Eugene Cullton, Parkville, received a cash award for his judging at the National Dairy Exposition in St. Louis where he was third among 57 judges from 19 colleges. Other members of the Kentucky team which placed third in the contest, were Maurice Menshaw, Arlington, and Noel Watson, Somerset.

Fledges to the Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, announced at the assembly, are Paul E. Carrico, Carrollton; Fred McGoodrich, Versailles; John W. A 965-pound Shorthorn steer won the championship for Harry S. Walton, a Mason County 4-H club member, at a baby beef show and sale at the Massville stockyards. The animal sold for 20 cents a pound, almost double the market price. Miss Walton won an additional $30 in premiums.

Corn and county farmers will receive 9 cents a bushel above market prices for corn if they cooperate with a local hatchery. Egg capacity of the hatchery will be increased from 8,000 to 20,000 this year. About 5,500 chickens were in the flock-culling in the county last month.

The U. S. census for 1930 shows that 1,056 of the best potato growers in Bell County averaged 72 bushels an acre. Two years ago, 2,096 families growing KERA gardens averaged 98 bushels an acre. Incomplete reports of the last crop show that growers have moved up to 136 bushels an acre.

Milk and butter are better, call the fatten quicker and land is well fertilized. If lespedza is grown, report Morehead County farmers, averaged $8 worth of soybeans seed and got five loads of hay, and 7 cents worth of lespedza seed every two loads," reports L. S. Rose of Scranton community.

Desk Ramsey, a Elizabethtown farmer, has five-month-old pullets at about 40 per cent production. Community meetings are being held in the county, with the view of showing how to produce high quality eggs at low cost.

A revival of interest in small orchards has been evidenced in Casey County, where the county farm agent has been busy laying out moderate-sized orchards for many farmers. Good prices for fruit last year was the chief cause.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Farmers at Mayfield, Ky., celebrated the arrival of October 15 of the 100th birthday of limestone to their territory.

W. T. Foy and Sons of Owen County bought three registered cattle to improve their herds.

farmers in Logan County are considering CHGETA OSHKOD L3 C quashing in on special orders for early turkey, getting a premium of 2 to 3 cents a pound.

Lee Hopson of Trigg County terraced 15 acres of land at a cost of $150 an acre, and will terrace another 15 acres this month.

In Crittenden county, a representative of the L. C. railway helped conduct community meetings to discuss strawbery production.

The Todd-Caldwell County Dairy Herd Improvement Association was organized last month and a test-order employed.

Several Marshall county farmers are building new barns with ridge and joint ventilators.

Mrs. John Moore, who had the only certified poultry flock in Boyd county last year, is having her flock certified.

In Livingston and Lyon counties, 46,800 pounds of TVA superphosphate were spread on the land last month.

Twenty-five acres of land were terraced on the farm of W. S. Sherrill in Todd County, as a demonstration or a large group of the farmers.

Demands for wheat and barley seed for winter cover crops exceeded supplies in Logan county.

U. K. HOME ECONOMICS STUDENTS COOPERATE TO REDUCE EXPENSES

Cooperative living is helping 26 home economics students at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture to go through college at about half the usual cost. They do their own cooking, serving of meals, banding and general housework.

Getting some of their supplies from home, and buying in large quantities, the daily food cost for these young women is only a little more than 25 cents.

Buffalo Bill Show As One Background For "Annie Oakley"

All cinema records of recent years for color and variety of sets were shattered during the filming of "Annie Oakley," current release depicting the life of the title character, portrayed by Barbara Stanwyck in the title role.

"Annie Oakley" covers a range of events broad in scope, stretching from the American frontier to the capitols of Europe. Its kaleidoscopic scenes, therefore, required forty-six sets, the most interesting and picturesque of which are those of the famous Buffalo Bill Wild West Show. Exact reproductions of Buffalo Bill's arena and the performances given in it were devised from the photographs owned by Ed Phillips, who was assistant arena director with the show for fourteen years.

Although her performances date back a half century, Annie Oakley was the foremost markswoman the world has ever known. Her international tours with Buffalo Bill, her romance with the first man she ever met in an exhibition match, the American era background, her colorful career are vividly delineated in "Annie Oakley." Miss Stanwyck is starred as Annie, with Preston Foster, who recently scored in "The Last Days of Pompeii," as her featured male lead. In other important roles are Melvyn Douglas, Pert Kelton and Andy Clyde. George Stevens directed "Annie Oakley," an RKO Radio Picture.

State, National And Foreign

FRANKFORT, Ky., — Officially advised that direct Federal relief will cease in Kentucky after November 30, Gov. Ruby Laffoon announced that he has made arrangements to provide state relief during the month of December.

After December, the Governor pointed out, the State's relief problem will depend for solution on the incoming administration of Gov. Elect Albert B. Chandler.

The Governor did not explain what form the State relief set-up would take, other than to say there would be "not a cent" spent for overhead.

Uncertain of Amount Needed
"I intend to take care of those who can't be cared for in any other way," the Chief Executive said. "The money to be appropriated by the Legislature to be used for the needy and they are going to get every cent of it."

The Governor said he did not know definitely how much State money would be needed monthly to meet the State's relief needs, but estimated it would be a considerable sum since approximately 60,000 persons now on Federal relief rolls in the State will be cut off at the end of this month.

Workable persons on relief will be cared for by the Governor said, through the F.W.A., but the State must make provisions for children, aged and infirm persons and others unable to work.

The 1934 General Assembly appropriated $2,400,000 for State relief for each of the fiscal years 1934-35 and 1935-36. Only a small part of the current year's allotment has been expended, the Governor explaining he reserved the fund purposely "for just such a situation as has arisen."

State Sent Notice
The Governor's notification that direct Federal relief would end in the state after November 30 came in the form of a telegram received late Friday from Aubrey Williams.

BRUCE'S OPEN TOYLAND SALE THIS YEAR IN NEW STORE LOCATED ON MAIN STREET

Above is a picture of the new place of Bruce's 5c-10c and $1.00 Store, located on Main Street in the stand formerly occupied by the Morehead Department Store.

Bruce's will open their annual Christmas Sale Saturday morning at 8:00 o'clock. Mr. Curt Bruce, proprietor of the store, says they have the most complete line of Yuletide gifts that they have ever carried; a stock of merchandise that will compare favorably with any in Eastern Kentucky.

Bruce, formerly the Morehead 5-10 and $1.00 Store, have had a remarkable growth. Twice, in less than 2 years, it has been necessary to either enlarge their present quarters or move to a new location in order to accommodate an increase in trade.

Washington, Assistant Relief Administrator.
"Final Federal relief grant for Kentucky is being made this month and on further Federal funds for relief purposes will be available," Williams telegraphed the Governor.

LAKE CHARLES, La.,—Angered because his son had been dismissed from the football team, R. A. Russell, a cabinet maker, invaded the high school here and shot P. S. Killen, the football coach, then shot himself.

Killen was in the school auditorium conducting a pep meeting for tonight's game. Russell had him summoned to a hallway and shot him.

Both men were wounded critically.
FRANKFORT, Ky.,—The suit to amendment vote failed in part when Appellate Judge James W. Stites, with the entire Court of Appeals concurring, dissolved a Circuit Court order against the State Board of Election Commissioners.

The order was issued at Paris by Judge J. C. Jones of Frankfort Circuit Court to allow dry forces 20 days to perfect an appeal from his decision denying an injunction against the election board and other State officials.

"Without consideration the merits of the case," Judge Stites wrote in the dissolution order, "it is apparent that the Chancellor (Judge Jones) has abused a sound discretion beyond the time fixed for the meeting of the State Board of Election Commissioners."

NEBO, Ky.,—Sheriff D. Crafton, of Hopkins County, announced he was without a clue to the identity of yeggs who robbed the Citizen's Bank here of $2,460 in currency and an undetermined amount of cash and valuables in thirty-two safety boxes.

The boxes were carried away by the burglars, were found about 500 yards south of the Webster County line, off Highway 41 in Hopkins County, this afternoon. They were returned to the bank before deputy Sheriffs F. C. Wilkey and B. W. Ashby reached the place where they had been abandoned.

The safety boxes weighed 1,500 pounds, and were believed to have been hauled away in a truck. Sheriff Crafton said one of the boxes contained $800.

SYNOPSIS

The future of the still youthful and comely "widow" Marcia Howe...

CHAPTER II

In the meantime, Marcia Howe, the heroine of this escapade, comfortably ensconced in her island home...

But her former experiences had not been forgotten. Had it dimmed her faith in his particular star...

Her start, she confessed, had been an unpropitious one. But she starts sometimes were like that...

The past with its griefs, its humiliations, its heartaches, its failure to behold the future all laid before her...

Today, as she moved swiftly about the house and her deft hands made tidy the rooms, she had that sense of being in step with the world...

Never had there such a comrade as Prince Hal!

Human beings often prove themselves incapable of grasping one another's moods...

She would never want for a welcome while he had strength to wag his white plume of tail...

Jason had had an orphaned niece set in the Middle West...

room at the head of the stairs, and why its fireplace was bespiced with driftwood for lighting...

She was especially desirous the old home should look its best today, for the outside world had contributed a richness of setting that left her much to live up to...

Redwood with good looks and a devil-may-care charm, he had called her his star and pleaded his need of her...

Sometimes she reproached herself for the tragedy and, scrutinizing the past, wondered whether she might not have prevented it...

With his diabolical characteristic of her, she could not see that it did. She might, no doubt, have played her role as a ruler...

She Had Thought of Sylvia Hayden as Farmer Fred, the Product of an Island, Country Town.

better. One always could if given a second chance. Nevertheless she had tried, tried with every ounce of strength in her—tried and failed!

Well, it was too late for that now. Such reflections belonged to the past and she must put them behind her as useless, morbid abstractions...

The house did look pretty, the day was glorious. She was a little with eagerness to see what it might bring. Calling Prince Hal, she stood before him.

"Take good care of the house, old man," she admonished, as she parted his silky mane. "I'll be back."

In spite of her hat, Marcia smiled. "Here's the car," she answered. "What about your trunk?"

unsanctified acting. Little by little, moreover, the picture of her conviction had been forgotten. Miles of distance, years of silence separated her from Jason's relatives...

If she had followed her usual custom and been open with Jason's sister, the dilemma in which she now found herself would never have arisen.

With her coming all her arguments Marcia had worn threads for and against the exposure of Jason's true character presented themselves afresh.

She was still pondering the question brooded in her mind when the car came to a stop beside the house.

The first was a young Portuguese woman, dark of face, and carrying a bulging bag from which protruded bits of embroidery.

Behind her came a slender, stunted girl, burrowed not only with her own suit-case but with a basket apparently belonging to a weaver, whom the girl followed her.

"Now we must find Henry," the girl was saying in a clear but plaintive tone. "Of course he'll be here. I don't know that he's the man just driving in your car. I guessed as much from your description, but with a basket and a hat, he's not the man."

"The little old lady smiled up at her. "Good-by, my dear. You've taken care of me like as if you'd been my own daughter. I ain't much used to jouncing about in cars like this. Are you folks here?"

"Oh, somebody'll turn up to meet you, Mrs. Doane. I'll be right. Good-by."

Then as Marcia watched, she saw the little young creature stoop suddenly and kiss the withered cheek of the old woman.

The slim figure in its well-tailored blue suit the trimly aloof feet, the small hat so precisely fitted over her bright eyes, the wealth of golden curls that escaped from beneath it all shrouded Marcia's speculations.

Well, if she was chagrined, there was consolation in seeing that the girl was equally disconcerted.

As she approached Marcia, she accented her uncertainty with the words: "Pardon me, I am looking for a relative—Mrs. Adams. You don't happen to know, do you?"

"But I thought—I expected—" gasped the girl.

"For a moment they looked searchingly at one another. The girl's eyes were fixed on Marcia's face.

"Well, all I can say is I'm glad I came," she said. "I wasn't altogether sure I should be when I started out. I had to say good-by to Sylvia."

"So, you still find it best to be with me?" she asked. "I don't know. I don't know. I don't know."

"I am going to Paradise—I'm certain of it. The glimpses I've had of the ocean from the train have convinced me of that. Do you live where you can see the ocean?"

"I shall not tell you one thing," Marcia replied. "At least only one, and that is that I had to say good-by to Marcia to you! It makes me feel like Methuselah. I really haven't the amount of dignity."

"You weren't asked until now," observed Marcia with cryptic brevity.

"That wouldn't have mattered. Had I known what you were like, I should have come without an invitation."

"In spite of herself, Marcia smiled. "Here's the car," she answered. "What about your trunk?"

The Day Before Thanksgiving

New England Thanksgiving Busy Time

THANKSGIVING day! How these words spelled days of hard work and worry for the colonial housewife! A festive holiday it was hailed by proclamation, observed as written in the Boston Herald, but actually it represented a day which demanded more preparation than most any other in the year.

In days of yore grandmother would start her Thanksgiving preparation weeks in advance. The first was the turkey, which was the centerpiece of the feast.

Well in advance of the traditional day one would see grandmother take down the mounting web but a few minutes before the turkey would be ground up and gradually the preparation for the turkey was prepared—this also went down cellar to ripen.

Then came the days before Thanksgiving. Some were drafted to collect and crack the butternuts, walnuts, chestnuts, and the cranberries. The turkey was mounted in the kitchen.

The turkey must be caught, killed, plucked, singed and hung up for a day before he was brought to the kitchen. Grandmothers must make her fastidious bread for William ("he does like his so when he comes home").

Then came the day—the house must be swept and spiced. Dozens of pictures must be dusted, the parlor must be opened up, wood brought in for the fire, the chestnuts gathered to put in the fireplace hearth—and so on, and so great process of preparation.

The folks came, hugs and kisses went round, the new baby was dandled under the chin and as the guests retired to the kitchen by the fireplace, seats took place. By one o'clock the Kingworm on Head. Child Cried All the Time. Catarrhs Relieved. "Kingworm started with a white crust on my little boy's head. Then it turned into eruptions and his head began to swell. It was so terrible when he scratched them they would burn, and now he can't rest, but cries all the time."

PLYMOUTH ROCK

BECAUSE of the prolixity of a brochure on historic old Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts, it was brought before the town council of Plymouth within whose border the old rock lies.

Two the feast took place—and then the dishes. Stacks upon stacks of dishes, pots and pans (usually the turkey was sent under the sink for scouring the following day).

As the lights were blown out it was unusual to hear the women folk say, "Didn't we have a good time, but isn't Thanksgiving a tiresome day?"

This was the Thanksgiving of yore contrasted to the modern Thanksgiving of a restful morning, a motor ride through the country or a ride "in town," a sumptuous dinner prepared by

COMMENTS ON CURRENT TOPICS BY NATIONAL CHARACTERS

Opinions expressed in the paragraphs below are not necessarily concurred in by the editor of this newspaper.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY

OUR policy as a member of the community of nations should be twofold—first, to avoid being brought into a war and, second, to promote as far as possible the interests of international peace and good-will. A virile policy tempered with prudent caution is necessary if we are to retain the respect of other nations and at the same time hold our position of influence for peace and international stability in the family of nations.

In summary, while our primary aim should be to avoid involvement in other people's difficulties and hence to lessen our chances of being drawn into a war, we should on appropriate occasions and within reasonable bounds, use our influence toward the prevention of war and the miseries that attend and follow in its wake. For, after all, if peace obtains, problems regarding neutrality will not arise.

OLD GUARD ASSAILED

BY WILLIAM R. BORAH, Senator From Idaho.
I FEEL that the Constitution affords ample power to deal with our economic problems. I should be greatly surprised to find that the vast majority of the people do not feel the same way. But those who once were in a position to exercise these powers refused to act. Why then should we expect them to act if they should be given power again? They permitted monopolies to get control of practically our entire material wealth and to fix the prices which the people should pay. When the export debenture was offered by some of us, which in my opinion would have gone far toward averting the crisis in agriculture, they rejected it. The only thing proposed was to plow up every third row of cotton and thus start a program of destruction in the face of want.

As to bureaus and expenditures, they created bureaus without precedent. However, know the Old Guard has little to offer in the way of a program except repentance, and no one would accept their professions.

CHRISTMAS BUSINESS

Stores, A. B. McKinney and Blair Bros. also have well filled stocks of Christmas merchandise that will go on display around December 1st. In addition to these merchants, many others in Morehead will be able to offer a larger variety to shoppers than at an previous Yuletide.

Groceries and other beneficiaries of Christmas buying are likewise planning for the best business since 1929. The reason for this optimism is that apparently there is more money in the county; employment is definitely 50 per cent less than a year ago; the government will spend thousands of dollars here during the month of December; and the County's 2 largest industrial plants are operating.

Christmas shoppers of Morehead who have heretofore gone elsewhere to purchase a part of their gifts, might do well to look over the lines offered by local merchants before going out of town.
