'Car Talk' to become cartoon on PBS

Public Broadcasting System (PBS) has confirmed its first-ever animated primetime series will be a spin-off of Tom and Ray Magliozzi's hit NPR show "Car Talk."

Car Talk is now on more than 600 public radio stations including Morehead State Pubic Radio. The program, in the midst of celebrating its 20th year on the radio, is heard every Saturday at 10 a.m.

"Click & Clack's As The Wrench Turns" will premiere in summer 2008 on PBS. The program takes off from the hit National Public Radio (NPR) show and follows the "on- and off-air" escapades of Tom and Ray Magliozzi - known to their listeners as "Click and Clack," the Tappet brothers - as they try to fix cars, fend off disgruntled customers and seek out increasingly creative ways to goof off.

The 10 episodes will take place mainly at Car Talk Plaza, a fictional building that houses their radio studio and their famed garage in Harvard Square in the fair city of Cambridge, Mass. The [mis]adventures of Click and Clack involve competition with a nearby garage staffed by sexy hunks, a looming run-in with the feds when their robot mechanic causes a power grid meltdown, and their two-man campaign for president.

"Tom and Ray have been 'animated characters' for years, so it's fitting that we've finally found a way to bring these garage gurus to the small screen," said John F. Wilson, senior vice president and chief TV programming executive. "Even though we hide inside our tote bags every time we say it, we're glad to welcome to PBS these public media figures who can connect with people as quickly as they can with carburetors. We're hoping for a truly unique experience for the viewer that's entertaining and fresh. And through the outreach program, we'll be providing useful public safety tips to complement the series."

PBS is a leading provider of digital learning content for pre-K-12 educators, and offers a broad array of other educational services. PBS' premier kids' TV programming and Web site, PBS KIDS Online ( www.pbskids.org ), continue to be parents' and teachers' most trusted learning environments for children.

In addition, each applicant is invited to make a personal statement as to how being Greek has helped his personal goals.

A fraternity and sorority were chosen as the top chapters of the year, Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity and Kappa Delta sorority.

MSU's Spring Commencement, a happy event

Robert McWhorter didn't take the normal route to become a Morehead State University graduate. After high school, the Georgetown native served five years of active duty in the U.S. Marine Corps before starting on his degree.

"I had come to a point in my previous career path where I experienced stagnation in job promotion," McWhorter told the standing-room only crowd gathered for MSU's Spring Commencement exercises on Saturday (May 10).

"I loved my job, but when it came down to it, I wanted to keep on moving up the ladder and the only thing stopping me was a college degree. At that point, I realized how important my education was, and how my life would be driven by my knowledge base. Coming back to college from the workforce put an entirely new perspective on learning."

As the student speaker, McWhorter of Morehead, addressed the more than 800 MSU students that participated in the ceremony in the Academic-Athletic Center. More than 1,000 were degree candidates.

There were smiles, cheers, and lots of photographs taken as the newest alumni took the ceremonial walk across the stage, signifying the completion of their college degrees. They were greeted by MSU President Wayne D. Andrews who offered a congratulatory handshake to each of those completing graduate and undergraduate degree requirements.

McWhorter completed a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from the College of Business. He will pursue a career in accounting and plans to take the CPA exam.

One of the many honors that McWhorter received during his senior year was a ranking of 22 out of 4,099 cadets throughout the nation, and a No. 1 ranking in Kentucky and Ohio.

In his final words, McWhorter remembered one of his professors, Hollis D. (Wayne) Isham, who died in January.

"In keeping with the words that a great soldier once used, class of 2008, go forth and do great things."

Following the ceremony, the newest graduates were inducted into the MSU Alumni Association by its president, Gary Adkins of Morehead.

Morehead State's summer intersession begins Monday, May 19.

Fairchild named William G. McGowan Scholar

Weylin Fairchild, a Morehead State University junior majoring in business and information technology education, was presented the William G. McGowan scholarship award at the College of Business Student Honors Banquet.

Fairchild, from Winchester, was selected from a large pool of outstanding student applicants to receive the McGowan award, which provides a full tuition scholarship for the student's senior year.

A committee of College of Business faculty members reviewed all applications and forwarded its recommendation to Dean Bob Albert and Dr. Betty Regan, chair of the Department of Information Systems, who interviewed the top three student applicants.

"Weylin not only presented a very impressive resume and application, but he demonstrated great poise and self-confidence during the interview," said Dr. Albert. "We are thrilled to be able to recognize him as the 2008 William G. McGowan Scholar at Morehead State University."

The William G. McGowan Scholars Program was established in part to help increase the awareness of the contribution made by McGowan, founder and chairman of MCI Communications Corporation, to the fields of business, telecommunications and entrepreneurship.

As such, each student applicant was required to write an essay on such contributions made by McGowan. According to Dean Albert, Fairchild's essay was extremely well-written and showed evidence of his in-depth research on McGowan's many business ventures..

Fairchild's academic successes have been significant. He has made the dean's list for five consecutive semesters and has earned the George Scott Jr. Memorial Scholarship for four consecutive semesters. In addition to his outstanding academic performance, he also has demonstrated significant leadership through his role on the Methodist Student Center Leadership Team, as a nominee to the MSU Emerging Leaders Symposium and through his on-campus work as a student technology and resource specialist.

NSF awards Dr. Birriel grant

Morehead State University's Dr. Jennifer Birriel, associate professor of physics, has been awarded a research grant from the National Science Foundation and the Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (EPSCoR). The grant is also supported by the National Laboratory Initiative.

Dr. Birriel will travel to Kitt Peak National Observatory in Arizona. She was awarded observing time on the 2.1 meter telescope to study supernova remnants in the nearby galaxy M101.

"Many of today's cutting edge problems in astrophysics require new observational data taken with large telescopes," said Dr. Birriel. "The National Optical Astronomical Observatory (NOAO) facility at Kitt Peak, just outside of Tucson, Ariz., offers a variety of large telescopes and sophisticated astronomical equipment. Time on such systems is awarded through a very competitive scientific approval process."

Birriel had an article published in the March 2008 issue of Astronomy Education Review. Her article, titled "Demonstrating Absorption Spectra Using Commercially Available Incandescent Light Bulbs," describes novel ways to demonstrate absorption spectra in a classroom setting.

The Astronomy Education Review is internationally known as the preeminent scholarly journal in astronomy education and research.

"As professors, we constantly strive to 'make it real' to students. In astronomy, when we talk about the importance of the spectrum of radiant energy that a star emits, it seems far removed from everyday experience," Dr. Birriel said. "I spent a great deal of time trying to figure out how to make these ideas more accessible to students and I am delighted that my peers and the editor of Astronomy Education Review found my demonstrations useful enough to publish."

MSU intersession starts May 19

Even though Spring Commencement has just happened, Morehead State University students are looking ahead to the summer and fall academic terms.

To accommodate a wider range of students, there will be four summer terms offered this year, including an intersession.

Registration for the general Summer term, Summer Intersession, Summer I and II, as well as Fall 2008 will be available online at MSU's Web site (www.moreheadstate.edu). Students may view course offerings and complete the registration process through the Datatel WebAdvisor.

It may be accessed from the MSU home page's current student link, then by selecting online services and finally WebAdvisor from the Quick Login drop-down box. Classes for the summer and fall will be offered according to the following schedule:

- Summer Intersession: Monday, May 19 through Friday, May 30.
- Summer: Monday, June 2 through Friday, July 25.
- Summer I: Monday, June 2 through Friday, June 27.
- Summer II: Monday, July 7 through Friday, Aug 1.
- Fall: Monday, Aug. 18 through Friday, Dec. 12.

For those not yet enrolled who are considering attending MSU, there is still time to submit an application for the summer or fall terms. Prospective students may call the Office of Enrollment Services at (606) 783-2000 or (800) 585-6781 opt #1 for admissions assistance.

Students also will be able to view and pay their summer bill(s) online via WebAdvisor. Fall 2008 billing will be available for viewing and payment shortly after July 1. Those who are registered for the summer and/or fall terms will receive monthly paper billing statements to keep them informed of their account status. Account balances are due in full one week prior to the start of class for each semester attending.

Although MSU no longer offers a deferred payment plan, students may take advantage of a different option to pay their bill at a later date, while at the same time, confirming that they will be attending classes.

If any student is unable to pay his or her full balance prior to the deadline, he or she may complete an online Statement of Intent, which explains payment requirements. The online statement must be completed by set deadlines to prevent a student's class schedule from being canceled. This also applies to any student who receives financial aid or scholarships, or whose college expenses are being paid by an outside agency. Students may access the Statement of Intent via WebAdvisor.

The pay-in-full or Statement of Intent deadlines are as follows: May 27, Summer and Summer I; June 30 for Summer II and Aug. 11 for Fall.

MSU offers online bachelor's degree "completer" programs designed primarily for graduates of the Kentucky Community & Technical College System (KCTCS). Courses are offered via the Internet and at the regional campuses, providing busy adults the opportunity to complete class work at a time and place convenient to them.

Textbooks for the classes are available from the University Bookstore, located in the Adron Doran University Center on the Morehead campus. Orders may be placed by calling (888) STORE-05 or via the Internet at www.bookstore.moreheadstate.edu . Purchases will be shipped to the address specified by the student. Additional information is available by calling the Office of Enrollment Services at (606) 783-2000; or the Office of the Registrar at (606) 783-2008.

Kappa Delta Pi holds banquet

Morehead State University's Epsilon Theta Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society in education, held its first spring banquet on Saturday, May 3. The formal dinner was held in the Crager Room of Adron Doran University Center and recognized the academic and service achievements of its student members as well as honored two educators for their contributions to the field of education.

Melissa Fannin, third and fourth grade teacher at Rodburn Elementary School, received the KDP - Epsilon Theta "Teacher of the Year Award." The KDP - Epsilon Theta members elected Fannin from a pool of four Rowan County School District finalists.

Criteria used in the nomination of the finalists and the election of the Teacher of the Year Award included commitment in working with Morehead State teacher education students for field placements as well as modeling effective teaching strategies. She received a $100 check to be used for classroom supplies and a certificate for her accomplishment.

Dr. Daniel Grace, associate professor of special education, received the KDP - Epsilon Theta "Honorary Member Award." The KDP - Epsilon Theta Executive Council elected Dr. Grace. Criteria used for determining this award included academic rigor in the classroom, scholarship and innovation, and service toward MSU and the community. A 20-year veteran faculty member of MSU, he helped design and implement the Special Education Program in the College of Education and serves as coordinator for the MAT - Special Education Program.

Ten KDP - Epsilon Theta seniors were awarded Honor Cords for commencement. Special criteria, as determined by the Kappa Delta Pi National Headquarters, were used in the issuance of Honor Cords, which included individual members' accumulation of 10 commitment points. The members earned points by participating in KDP-sponsored community service, fund raising, meetings and other events.

Harr receives certification from NAIM

Shannon Harr, Morehead State University's director of research, integrity and compliance, recently received professional certification from NAIM (National Association of Institutional Review Boards Managers).

"Obtaining CIM (Certified IRB Manager) status is really a feather in the cap for MSU's Office of Research and Sponsored Programs. It demonstrates to agencies providing MSU with extramural funding that we are committed to applying the federally mandated regulations in the utmost accuracy when conducting human subject research," said Harr.

NAIM is an organization of professionals working to protect the rights and welfare of research subjects from undue risks associated with investigational studies. Harr serves on the member committee of this organization.

In his role as director of research integrity and compliance, Harr also oversees research utilizing animals. In March at the Ethics and Compliance and Use conference, sponsored by Public Responsibility in Medicine & Research (PRIM&R), he co-presented "How Can Institutional Animal Care and Use Committees Avoid Over Interpretation of Rules and Subsequent Self-Imposed Regulatory Burden." He presented with Molly Greene of Michigan State University.

In addition, Harr was co-presenter of "Institutional Animal Care and Use Committees for Small Academic Institutions." He presented with Deborah Frolicher of the Scripps Research Institute in California.

"As a member of Public Responsibility in Medicine and Research (PRIM&R), I have had the opportunity to attend a number of conferences which have been instrumental in enhancing my ability to do my job," Harr said. "The knowledge I have gained at these conferences coupled with the connections I have made with research integrity and compliance professionals at other institutions have been invaluable. Being asked by PRIM&R staff to serve as faculty at the recent Ethics and Compliance in Animal Care and Use Conference was a great honor and privilege for me." Harr also serves on the membership committee for PRIM&R.

MSPR to present weather radios to 18 counties

Morehead State Public Radio will distribute 50 Midland AM/FM Weather Alert Radios this spring to 18 primary counties that includes Bath, Breathitt, Carter, Elliott, Estill, Fleming, Lee, Lewis, Martin, Mason, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan, Nicholas, Owsley, Powell, Rowan and Wolfe counties.

"It's our goal at Morehead State Public Radio to inform our listeners about impending weather and to protect the families in the communities we serve. We hope the weather radios will be used at key locations in our primary service region to supplement the national emergency alert system to further protect our listeners," said Paul Hitchcock, MSPR general manager.

The radios will be presented to public officials and placed in public buildings such as schools, health clinics, libraries and first responder facilities. MSPR also will distribute informational brochures on emergency preparedness from the Ready America project provided by the Federal Emergency Management Association (FEMA).

The radios utilize Specific Area Message Encoding (S.A.M.E.) technology, which allows the radios to be programmed to receive only those warnings that apply to local counties. Operated by AC or emergency battery, the radios can be programmed for up to 30 counties and features AM/FM tuning, color coded alert lights and several alarm functions.

MSPR purchased the radios through a Rural Listener Access Incentive Grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

CE to offer Microsoft Publisher

Are you looking for an easy, inexpensive way to create professional-quality brochures, letterhead, newsletters, invitations, or even Web sites?

Morehead State University's Office of Continuing Education may just have the answer. A new, six-week online course called "Introduction to Microsoft Publisher" will show you how you can create stunning and effective documents and applications even if you have no design experience or training. Participants will find out exactly how to use Microsoft Publisher while receiving expert guidance in selecting images, colors, and layouts.

"Students will be amazed by the level of design expertise they can achieve with Publisher. In this hands-on course, they'll quickly develop the ability and confidence to create a wide variety of high-quality documents," said instructor Allyson Benavides.

The course includes a classroom that is open day and night. Students can interact with the instructor and their fellow students in Web-based discussion areas where they can ask as many course-related questions as they'd like. A response is usually promised within one business day, and often arrives much sooner than that.

Students can take "Introduction to Microsoft Publisher 2007" from the convenience of their home or office, and at any time of the day or night.

Additional information on these courses, which are a part of a growing catalog of more than 1,000 classes, including face-to-face and instructor-facilitated online courses, may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Continuing Education at (606) 783-2875, or on the Web at www.moreheadstate.edu/occe.

A Day in the Country set for June 7

A Day in the Country folk art show and sale will be held on Saturday, June 7 at the Morehead Conference Center, First Street, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

For many years, the event was held on Minnie Adkins' property in Isonville. In 2003 at her request, Morehead State University's Kentucky Folk Art Center took over operation of the event.

A Day in the Country 2008 will bring more than 50 self-taught artists from 10 states together to display and offer their work for sale. A few of the participating artists are Minnie Adkins, Isonville; Ronald Cooper, Flemingsburg; Lavon Williams, Lexington; William Miller, Louisville; Jim Gary Phillips, Edmunton; Jo Neace Krause of Tennessee; and Eric Pace of North Carolina.

Visitors to the show can expect to find wood carvings, stone carvings, paintings and more.

"A Day in the Country continues to draw new artists from other states," said KFAC curator Adrian Swain. "We're committed to making the show as diverse and exciting as possible.

"While artists from East Kentucky are the backbone of the event, it's interesting to include the work of people from other regions and cultural backgrounds. It makes for a dynamic mix of talent and personalities."

Last year's show drew more than 1,200 visitors to Morehead.

"We're very excited about this year's event," said Matt Collinsworth, KFAC director. "A Day in the Country drew visitors from 21 states last year. The event is gaining in prominence nationally, and we truly believe that this is the best event of its kind anywhere in Kentucky or central Appalachia."

An auction of works donated by participating artists will be held to raise funds for KFAC to offset costs associated with the event. Jim Gary Phillips, a self-taught painter and auctioneer, will conduct the auction.

An exhibition, titled "Myth & Legend," opens at KFAC Friday, June 6, with a reception from 5-8 p.m. This exhibit includes works by 36 folk artists. The events are held in conjunction with the Clack Mountain Festival and the Appalachian Arts and Crafts Fair.

Complete festival information is available by visiting clackmountainfest.com. Admission to the festival, including A Day in the Country and all musical performances, is $5 for adults

Australian regional campus head visits MSU

Robbie Collins, an Australian educator, recently made a stop at Morehead State University .

Collins, the University of Wollongong's Shoalhaven campus head, had been in the U.S. for a conference and visiting regional campuses. Shoalhaven is located in West Nowra, New South Wales.

On her visit to Kentucky, she had a chance to visit MSU at Jackson, Mt. Sterling, West Liberty and the Morehead campus.

"My visit and exploration of Morehead State and its campuses was an exciting whirlwind tour. Dr. (Will) Kayatin, Dr. (Dan) Connell and the regional campus directors provided me with gracious hospitality and significant insights into the goals and workings behind Morehead in its distributed operation," said Collins.

"This was just what I had hoped to explore on my visit and I am incredibly grateful for the generosity of Morehead State and especially Dr Kayatin. As someone in a similar role to Morehead State's regional campus directors, it is most beneficial to benchmark strategy and operations. As well, I hope there might be further dialogue that provides options for other linkages in time. One option of course is to explore some kind of student exchange. There is no doubt students from the University of Wollongong's Shoalhaven Campus would benefit from a visit to Morehead State and I expect the Morehead students would benefit from visiting the University of Wollongong Shoalhaven Campus as well."

Her guide on the tour was Dr. Kayatin, MSU at Jackson director, who had met Collins at the National Branch Campus Association Conference in Columbus and invited her to MSU.

"She was a delegate/presenter at the conference and we struck up a professional friendship immediately," said Dr. Kayatin. "Through the course of our conversations, she became very interested in our regional campus system model and asked if I would be willing to host her for a site visit.

"I was happy to extend the professional courtesy. In fact, we should be flattered that she selected us, since visiting and researching other regional campus systems is part of her interest in traveling to the states."

Collins also visited Ohio University and a few of its regional campuses.

Americana Crossroads Live slated for May 30

Singer/songwriter John Lilly, folk performer Diana Jones, and the husband-wife duo of Doug and Telisha Williams will perform at the next edition of "Americana Crossroads Live."

Morehead State Public Radio (MSPR) and the Kentucky Center for Traditional Music will present the program on Friday, May 30, at the Morehead Conference Center, located on First Street. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with the music to start at 7 p.m.

Lilly is a multi-talented acoustic music performer from Charleston, W. Va., specializing in Americana, country roots, and traditional folk music. He is recognized internationally as a powerful performing songwriter. In 2005, he won the national "Ghost Writers In the Sky" songwriting contest, sponsored by HankFest, a Chicago-based festival honoring the music of Hank Williams.

Jones' music is informed by the themes that have run through her life - love, loss and redemption. She has shared the stage with Martina McBride, Del McCoury Band, Guy Clark, Odetta, Old Crow Medicine Show and John Gorka among others. She has won several songwriting awards including the 2006 Kerrville New Folk Contest.

The Williams have had an incredible year. Not only have they seen continued success for their debut album "Rope Around My Heart," but they've shared stages with some real legends such as Lucinda Williams, Darrell Scott and Charlie Louvin. The couple met in high school marching band and there hasn't been a time since then that they haven't been playing music together. Living in southwest Virginia, they tour constantly around the South and up into the North.

"Americana Crossroads Live" is supported by Toyota Motor Manufacturing of Kentucky, Morehead Conference Center, Morehead Tourism Commission and EAT Gallery. Community partners include the Kentucky Folk Art Center, Morehead State University's Caudill College of Humanities, Arts and Humanities Council, Office of Communications and Marketing, Root-A-Baker's, and Papa John's.

The series is now heard on 35 radio stations across the United States, Canada and in the Philippines.

Concessions and door prizes will be available. Admission is $5 per person, or $20 for a Family Pack of five. Children, 12 and under, are admitted free.

Additional information on "Americana Crossroads Live" is available on MSPR's Web site at www.msuradio.com or by calling MSPR at (606) 783-2001 or (800) 286-9659.

MSUPD take part in 2008 Click It or Ticket

All too often family members lose loved ones due to motor vehicle crashes. In 2006, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), 42,642 people died nationwide.

Motor vehicle crashes remain a leading cause of death in America - and the leading cause of death for young people ages 2 to 34. However, crashes are non-discriminatory: men, women, the young, the old - regardless of race or ethnicity - are all at risk.

But too many times the drivers and passengers who die have chosen not to wear their seat belts, even though regular seat belt use is the single most effective way to protect people and reduce fatalities.

Morehead State University's Police Department will be joining with hundreds of other law enforcement agencies across the country in renewing a pledge to save lives by intensifying efforts to enforce seat belt laws - among all motorists and around the clock - during the "2008 Click It or Ticket" mobilization, which runs until June 1.

Officers also will be conducting Roadside Traffic Safety Checkpoints at various locations on and around the MSU Campus during this mobilization period. To learn more about the "Click It or Ticket" campaign and the lifesaving benefits of wearing your seat belt, visit www.nhtsa.gov.

MSU announces plan to create modern parking system

After years of concerns about lack of parking and too much green space consumed by parking lots, Morehead State University is moving to create a modern parking system to resolve both complaints, according to Michael R. Walters, vice president for administration and fiscal services.

He announced today (May 23) that MSU will overhaul its parking fees to develop a revenue stream that eventually will lead to the construction and operation of two multi-level parking structures on the Morehead campus. Effective this fall, MSU will begin to upgrade its parking operation by offering individually reserved spaces and more accessible shuttle service for those who park south of U.S. 60.

"We have known for a long time that our parking fees were the lowest in the state and that we could not finance improvements without a stronger revenue base," Walters said. "The state will not fund parking structures and our institution must be able to issue and retire its own revenue bonds for that purpose."

Tentative plans call for the first parking structure to be erected adjacent to the new student recreation center to be constructed between Wilson Hall and Eagle Lake Apartments. That location likely will include the site of Regents Hall. The second structure will be on the west side of the campus with the exact site yet to be determined.

"Our intention is to build attractive, functional structures that will be in harmony with our campus architecture and natural environment while providing safe, accessible parking for the university community and for our visitors," Walters added. "We hope to benefit greatly from the experiences of institutions that are operating such facilities today."

To start that process, effective Aug. 15, MSU's basic parking fees for faculty, staff and students will be $120 annually for spaces north of U.S. 60 and $60 yearly for the lot south of U.S. 60. For faculty and staff members desiring a reserved space, the cost will be $360 per year for parking privileges on University Boulevard and in the Third Street lot between Lappin Hall and the Rowan County Board of Education. Such spaces will be reserved each weekday from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Any unsold reserved spaces in those two areas will be offered to students through a lottery system. Reserved spaces will be numbered.

Walters said MSU will allow employees to purchase parking permits through payroll deduction at the rate of $2.50 per semi-monthly payday for the $60 permits, $5 per payday for the $120 permits and $15 per payday for the $360 permits. Students will continue to pay the entire fee at the beginning of the school year. Temporary employees will pay when they report to work.

Current employees with at least 20 years of service with free parking will retain those privileges at the $120 level, as will existing and future retirees; however, free parking is being removed from MSU's employee recognition system.

"Establishment of a modern parking system can revolutionize the appearance of our central campus and help move us toward our goal of being the best we can be in all things," Walters added. "No one likes higher fees but we have no choice if we want the resources necessary to realize our vision."

Other parking changes for the new school year will include elimination of on-street parking in front of Baird Music Hall to improve passenger safety for the bus loading zone at that location. Parking in the lot adjacent to ADUC will be restricted to visitors by permit only. General student parking will not be permitted on University Boulevard on weekdays.

Questions about parking should be directed to the MSU Police Department's traffic office at (606) 783-2220.

Barnhart to be speaker at EEF event

Mitch Barnhart, director of athletics at the University of Kentucky, will be the keynote speaker at the Eagle Excellence Fund Auction and Golf Tournament June 20-21.

Barnhart's remarks will come on Friday (June 20) in the Crager Room of the Adron Doran University Center. The activities, presented by The Citizens Bank, will begin with a social hour at 6 p.m. followed by a dinner. There also will be a silent auction and a live auction.

Barnhart, in his sixth year at UK, has set a clear course for making the Wildcat program one of the best in the nation. Hired in July 2002, he quickly made a decision to fully fund all 22 varsity sports, and that has produced a wave of firsts among that institution's athletic teams.

In addition to successful basketball and football programs, he has seen baseball win the school's first-ever Southeast Conference title and women's tennis and men's golf win recent crowns.

Among the new revenue streams developed under Barnhart's direction was a record $80 million multimedia rights agreement with Host Communications.

Kentucky spends $1.5 million annually on its nationally-renowned academic center as a total commitment to student-athletics. Under his leadership, the Big Blue Caravan and the UK Athletics Hall of Fame have begun.

"We're excited that Mitch has agreed to join us for this very important event," said Brian Hutchinson, MSU's director of athletics "We believe our fans will enjoy hearing his thoughts and reflections on directing one of the top college athletic programs in the nation."

Along with Barnhart, the social hour, the dinner and the auctions on Friday, the Pepsi-sponsored golf tournament will be held on Saturday (June 21) at MSU's Eagle Trace Golf Course.

Registration for the golf outing will begin at 8 a.m. with a shotgun start at 9:30 a.m. In addition to green fees and cart, the golf outing will feature registration gifts, food and drinks on the course and dinner and prizes following play.

Fans can find additional information about the EEF Auction and Golf Tournament at www.msueagles.com or by calling (606) 783-2088.

Dr. Richard Crofts to serve as CPE interim president

The Council on Postsecondary Education hired a former Kentuckian with extensive experience in higher education administration in several states to serve as its interim president. Dr. Richard A. Crofts of Palmetto, Fla., will serve the Council until a permanent president is hired, a search anticipated to last six to eight months.

The Council's Executive Committee will negotiate the terms of his contract. Crofts will not be a candidate for the permanent president.

Crofts, a 1962 Georgetown College graduate, said he looks forward to returning to Kentucky and that he is honored by the appointment.

"I have great admiration for Kentucky's system of postsecondary and adult education," said Crofts. "Kentucky is highly regarded across the nation and I look forward to contributing to this important work."

Crofts described higher education as his lifelong calling. "I've spent my life devoted to public higher education and that's why I'm here today," he added.

Council member Jim Skaggs, who chaired the search committee, thanked the university presidents for their insights during the search process.

He added, "We look forward to working with Dr. Crofts. We are confident that he will provide capable and insightful leadership and promote goodwill among the Council, university presidents and other constituencies."

Crofts holds a doctorate in reformation history from Duke University. He most recently served as interim commissioner of higher education in Mississippi and has held positions as commissioner and deputy commissioner of higher education of the Montana University System, assistant to the chancellor of the Minnesota State University System, a commissioner of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education and a member of the executive committee of the State Higher Education Executive Officers Organization.

Crofts also has served in many capacities on university campuses, serving as vice president of academic affairs at Mankato State University, associate vice president for research and dean of the graduate school at East Tennessee State University and department chair and full professor at the University of Toledo.

High school juniors and seniors who aspire to be teachers will visit Morehead State University for a week of education and excitement as they experience college life and learn about educational careers.

At Future Educators Association (FEA) Camp, slated for June 8-15, students will participate in academic classes as well as social activities. Students will interact with distinguished mentors, witness teaching and learning methods, become familiar with current educational issues as well as get to know current and future MSU students.

Sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE), the camp is hosted by MSU's Teacher Recruitment Program in conjunction with the Future Teacher Corps.

The camp is free to selected students and 30 are scheduled to attend MSU's program. Selection is based on academic and community achievements as well as the expressed desire to pursue a career in education.

Blastzone making its mark in the music world

Blastzone Entertainment Group, a business owned by Mike and Hope Wilkerson of West Liberty, recently became the Morehead State University Regional Enterprise Center's newest tenant.

Blastzone Entertainment Group provides various business services to several genres of musicians, including rock and roll, blues, country and Bluegrass.

"Blastzone is basically a one-stop-shop for musicians' needs, such as distribution of CDs and downloadable tracks, endorsements, bookings, Web marketing and more," said Mike Wilkerson.

The company expects to have more than 50 CDs in worldwide distribution by July. Thanks to the Internet, Blastzone works with artists from as far away as Australia, Brazil, Sweden, Japan and Great Britain. With a roster of more than 75 clients in less than a year, Blastzone is making waves and trying to put Morgan County on the map when it comes to music.

In July, the company will have its own stage with more than 45 bands at "Rocklahoma," the biggest hard-rock festival in the U.S. The company also is working on venues closer to home including one in West Liberty called Blastzone Free Fest.

"Businesses such as this probably would not have existed before the advent of the World Wide Web. The infrastructure to reach out from Appalachia and work with anyone in the world exists in our Center and what's special about these entrepreneurs is their willingness to risk their personal resources to make a go of a fairly unique business model," said Johnathan Gay, director of the MSU Innovation Center and manager of the Regional Enterprise Business Incubator.

"They have a passion for music and are willing to do their homework to learn how to make this work via the Web."

Anyone interested in learning more about Blastzone Entertainment Group, the Innovation Center of the Regional Enterprise Center may call (606) 743-4005 or visit its Web site at www.moreheadstate.edu/msurec .
