

COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT IS MAKING PLANS FOR GREAT DAY AT BLUE RIBBON PROGRAM MAY 1

The Rowan County Health Department wants to call the attention of all parents to the Proclamation of President Hoover, setting the first day of May as May Day for the Blue Ribbon Day for the little kiddies, a day which means so much to them and so much more to the nation, in the efforts for the protection and development of the nation's children. The purpose is being accomplished by the constant growing interest in the May Day Program throughout the country.

Last year some 40,000 children in Kentucky qualified for the Blue Ribbon Badge of Health, the requirement for which were published in the Rowan County News several weeks ago. This year, the number of Blue Ribbons conferred is expected to exceed by several thousand the mark set last year.

Rowan county has never before been represented in the blue ribbon Day program, due to the fact that this is the first year we have ever had an organized Health Department to take charge of the work.

The local Health Department under the direction of Dr. T. A. E. Evans, and Miss Glada Florence, Health nurse, have been exceptionally busy during the past few weeks completing arrangements for the Blue Ribbon Day program to be held on May 1. A large part of their work consists in checking up and in giving repeated examinations to the children, so that none who can take part will be left out.

All child welfare organizations and all civic clubs and agencies, as well as parents who are interested in the children's health should be actively in cooperation with the Rowan County Health Department. For, in spite of any work that may be done by the department in preparing for the Blue Ribbon Day, it depends on the cooperation on the part of the citizens, parents, and clubs, as to whether the day will be a success or not. The Health Department urges that, all citizens who have the welfare of the children at heart, work in unison with them to make this Blue Ribbon Day a day that is long remembered in Rowan county as it will be other counties.

Under the leadership of Dr. Annie Veesh, May Day in Kentucky has come to be recognized as an occasion for the focusing of the thoughts of the people of the State on the Health of her children.

BOARD OF REGENTS GETS APPOINTMENTS

Judge Allie W. Young and Judge Earl Benff received their commissions from Governor Ruby Laffoon this week, appointed them to serve for a term of four years as members of the Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College.

Judge Young has served in the same capacity since the organization of the school, while Judge Benff was a former member who was replaced by Governor Sampson two years ago. He has since served as secretary of the board and has been in close touch with the school at all times.

Morehead Club At Waltz Home

The Morehead Womens Club met Monday night at the home of Mrs. C. U. Waltz with Mrs. Waltz, Mrs. W. T. Bangs and Mrs. Ernest Jaynes as hostesses.

Plans and suggestions for the program for the coming year were discussed. Mrs. C. U. Waltz and Mrs. G. C. Nickell were selected as delegates to the state convention to be held in Owensboro in May.

Miss Mary Sue Miller sang two vocal solos, as did Prof. Mary George of the Morehead State Teachers College. Following the regular program and business session a waltz was played with a number of prizes being awarded. Delicious refreshments were served.

Methodists To Hold Revival

The official board of the Morehead Methodist Church has invited Rev. V. L. Moore, D. D. Presiding Elder of the Lexington District to hold our revival meeting from Monday Evening, April 18 to Sunday Evening, May 1 1932.

It is hoped that this meeting will be community wide in its scope and effect. We are not thinking in terms of our church, but in terms of Christianity that will affect our community.

Rev. Moore has a splendid personality. He makes friends wherever he goes. It is hoped that everyone will make their plans to attend as many of these services as possible.

REV. V. L. MOORE

MRS. LEE KIDD DIES AT AGE OF 76 YEARS

Mrs. Lee Kidd passed away at his home on March 22, at the age of 76 years. Mrs. Kidd was well known and loved in her community and will be greatly missed by her host of friends and relatives. She was a member of the Regular Baptist Church. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Riley Johnson at the Burvis Cemetery, where her remains were laid to rest.

County Court Tries Number

A rather active session of the Rowan County Court was held here Monday with a number of cases being tried before Judge J. D. Johnson. Among the cases tried was that of James Vaughn charged with selling liquor. Vaughn was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and to serve 30 days in jail.

The case of Clayton Lambert, charged with stealing from a Common Carrier, which had been sent back to county court from the Circuit Court, was continued at the request of the defense.

Monday the sheriff and his squad of deputies established a record for arrests, lodging seven "victims" in the county bastle in less than one hour. Four of them were what is commonly called "Rockwell" Hollers. They were Martin Collins, J. Collins and Jess Collins, and Steve Praley. They were caught gambling with the money on the table, according to officials. Steve Praley was also charged with selling liquor. Clarence Myers was arrested on charge of issuing a cold check as well as of having liquor in his possession. Orville Amburgey was arrested charged with being drunk.

In the damage suit growing out of a collision this spring, when the car of Herb Caudill, driven by his son, Curtis Caudill, and a Mr. Kluge ran together, judgment was issued against both Mr. Caudill and Mr. Kluge to the amount of $21.00 each.

Elliottville School Judged To Be Model

The Elliottville School has been chosen as the model or ideal school of Rowan county for the year 1931-1932. This selection was made by the County Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. Lyda Messer Caudill, after a careful checkup of the score card of standards set up for the county schools at the beginning of the school term by the County Board of Education.

Some of the accomplishments stressed in the score card and attained by the pupils, parents, and teachers of the Elliottville School include the following:

- Development of Ideals and Love of Beauty. This included the beautification of both the exterior and interior of the school building, by pictures and the planting of trees.
- School Fair and Scholastic Activities. In this the Elliottville School won first place in the school section of the County School and Agricultural Fair in October, 1931.
- The Improvement of Rural School Life and Health. Included in this item were practices of cleanliness, teaching of health and maintaining

Enrollment At Additional Rooms

With three days of the mid-semester enrollment period gone, thirty-five more students have already enrolled in the Morehead State Teachers College than at the same enrollment last year, bringing the total enrollment for the semester to well over the 1,300 mark or over 300 more for the present semester than have ever been enrolled at one time in the Morehead college. The total mid-semester enrollment up to the present is 229 students in all departments, with an additional number expected to enroll within the next few days.

Of those already enrolled the amazing feature is the vast preponderance of college students, there being 184 of this class, while only 45 are high school students. This is a decided improvement over past records.

One class in Rural Sociology is so large that Dr. Terrill could not find a classroom large enough to accommodate it, and was forced to hold his meetings in the college auditorium. The new classes have all been organized and are settled to work.

Dr. and Mrs. William Taylor and daughters, Elouise and Joy visited Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Patton.

New Ford V-8 To Be On Display Here

The new Ford V-8 which will be on display of Friday of this week at the Midland Trail Garage, is said to be a notable advance in motor car construction.

The new car is large, long, roomy fast powerful and alert. Its eight-cylinder V-type engine develops 65 horsepower. The car is capable of 75 miles an hour.

Some of the mechanical features are rubber mounting for the engine; downdraft carburetor; automatic spark control; fuel pump; rear fuel tank; soft, flexible springs; large mechanical four-wheel brakes; small steering electrically welded steel-sprock wheels and large tires. The frame is cushioned from the running gear by rubber insulators in the spring shackles and shock absorbers.

The 14 body types may be obtained also with an improved 60 horsepower, 4 cylinder engine at lower cost.

The bodies are said to be fresh and modern from the gracefully rounded V-radiator to rear bumper. Body interiors are roomy and richly finished. Seats are of new style, designed for almost comfort. Driver's seats in all closed cars are adjustable. A large ventilator is provided in the cowl.

Many outstanding features are found in the chassis. These include a strong rugged frame; newly designed, soft, flexible transverse cantilever springs; rubber-cushioned spring shackles and self-adjusting hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers and large brakes.

The rear spring is mounted on the back of the axle housing and is bowed out around the differential housing.

The shape of the frame and design of the springs allow the body to be mounted close to the road, thus lowering the car's center of gravity and improving roadability and riding comfort.

DANIELS AND HUTCHINSON STORE ON RAILROAD STREET IS BROKEN INTO AND ROBBED TUESDAY NITE

Continuing the series of robberies that have kept Morehead anxious to what was next, the store of Daniels and Hutchinson on Railroad street was the scene of a burglary Tuesday night, in which upwards of $300.00 worth of merchandise was stolen. The robbery was not discovered until Frank Hayes opened the store Wednesday morning. Although, residents next door said to have heard suspicious noises in the store during the night.

According to Mr. Hayes, the entire stock had been gone through and disarranged to such an extent that it was impossible to do more than roughly estimate the value of the merchandise stolen. Entire racks and stacks of shoes, many of which were plain box or low-cut shoes, had been torn down and shoes were less mixed. Other merchandise was found in a similar condition. He estimated the loss at around $300.00 but said it might run higher.

Entrance was gained through the back door. Walter Nicoll is said to have driven past the store at about 1:30 a. m. and to have noticed the lights turned on and to have seen two women in the store. He however just glanced in that direction and supposed it was a normal management. People living next door to the Daniels and Hutchinson store are said to have seen people in the night, but they do not recall their names.

The management here will be founded upon as to the perpetrators of the robbery and are following the clues. They are offering a liberal reward for proof.

The robbery is one of a series that started last fall when the J. A. Bays Jewelry Store suffered a large amount, of which nothing has ever been recovered. A short time ago the drug store of Harry Basson was broken into and robbed of over $200.00 in cash, together with a number of fountain pens.

Home Oil Co. Enlarges Plant

The Home Oil Company which was purchased by E. J. Richards last fall has been making extensive improvement and enlargements of their facilities on Railroad Street and have begun branching out in a really businesslike way, that would indicate that the oil business at least has not suffered particularly from the effects of the depression.

Mr. Richards has improved the building which he has leased for a term of years, removing the front and painting it, so that it is now a really attractive place. In it he has his offices and storage for his wholesale department. In another wing of the building he has remodelled and rearranged the room into a modern filling station. He plans to conduct it as a super-service station with all the modern equipment necessary for motoring conveniences.

Mr. Richards has also contracted for the agency for the Phillips Petroleum Products including the famous "Phillips 66" gasoline which is the first of series of ads appears in this issue of the News. About the new gasoline which he is offering for sale, Mr. Richards says:

"The Phillips Petroleum Co. has been recently awarded a contract by the United States Army Air Corps for a minimum of 3,810,000 gallons of aviation gasoline, covering a period from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1932. The majority of this gasoline is the army's highest fighting grade of aviation gasoline with an octane number of 87 at 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

The gasoline which the Phillips Petroleum will supply is 100 percent natural gasoline with the addition of tetraethyl lead.

This material will be used in army zones two, three and four, which includes practically all of the central and mid-western sections of the United States and the west coast.

Work was begun this week and will be hurried to completion, says Mr. Cecil. When completed, it will give Morehead one of the best hotels in this section of the state.

Work was begun this week and will be hurried to completion, says Mr. Cecil. When completed, it will give Morehead one of the best hotels in this section of the state.

Mrs. N. L. Wells has received a car load of flour, 400 packages of garden seed to be distributed among the unemployed of this section.

Fine Show At Trimble Sunday

With a realism that makes its story at once vivid and dramatic, "Disorderly Conduct" is unquestionably one of the most gripping screen epics of recent months, according to critics who were accorded a preview yesterday.

The picture which has its debut at the Trimble Theatre next Sunday tells fearlessly and convincingly the tale of a police officer who doubled crossed himself—who found his refusal to touch tainted money led only to disgrace, and who consequently decided to "go wrong" with unexpected results.

After turning down handsome bribes in performing his duty, Monty Sargeant Dick Fay, Mot's cycle Sergeant Dick Fay, has the lifeline to arrest the daughter of the city's biggest politician and run runner. As a result he is demoted to patrolman's status and sent out on a beat. With the injustice of this honesty doesn't pay and begins to accept protection money that formerly he would have scolded.

Sally Eilers who rose to stardom in "Bad Girl" and "Dance Year" is said to give a dramatic performance that is second to nothing she has done so far. Spencer Tracy in the role of "Fay" the policeman is at his best. El Brendel, in third featured player is El Brendel, he fulfills his mission of keeping everybody happy.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE TO BE AT JACKSON

The District Conference of the Lexington District will be held at Jackson Kentucky April 14 and 15. The official delegation from Morehead are: Rev. A. B. Perkins, pastor, Mr. C. P. Caudill Charge Lay Leader, Mr. John Davis McKinney, Delegate and Rev. George Kison a Local District Conference and Robert Brooks who will take his local license at this session of the Conference.

Crime Picture At Cozy Theatre

A sensational expose of the "inside" of politics and its relation to the underworld of a big city and an intimate glimpse into the lives of the police form the dramatic plot of "The Best of the City" which will be at the Cozy Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, April 13 and 14.

The picture bears conditions that exist in the average American city; most of its thrills are based on actual happenings taken from police records and newspapers; and its startling story brings to life facts which have heretofore been considered too close to home to be told. It does for police what "The Big Parade" did for the American Dough boy.

Walter Huston, the "Criminal Code" fame has the principal role as the fighting police chief pitted against the police. Tom Hawley, the famous "Platinum Blonde," Walter Ford who scored with "Jean Crawford in "Possessed," and the well known character actor, Jean Harlow, have prominent roles and the supporting cast includes Dorothy Peterson, Tully Marshall, Bob Nolan, Bennett Carrigan, Warner Richmond, Sandy Roth and J. Carroll Nash.

"Dey hunt for her" added the half breed significantly.

"Yes we must let them know she's here," agreed Stuart. "Take a lantern and see if you can signal them."

Returning to his quarters, Stuart announced, "The've crossed the lake to search for you. We can see their lights."

"Poor dad! He must be frantic," she said soberly; then her lips curled in a faint smile. "It's early, yet. Too bad to spoil our nice talk, isn't it?"

"It is," he agreed. But think of your poor father."

"Oh, I do, I love him, you know. He's all I've got."

"Well it will be some time before Omar attracts their attention. All my men are up the lake with the freight boats and my paterboro would fill tonight. Your father must have crossed in a big boat. There's nothing to do but wait for him."

"Then I can have another cigarette and we can talk until he comes."

As she strangely calmed, he wondered, or totally without nerves, that she could calmly curl herself in a chair and calmly smoke while her desperate father and his men hunted a socky shore white with surf for her canoe and drowned body. Most women would have paced the clearing outside in frenzy of excitement. In all likelihood this vivid creature, who had for a few hours shared his hospitality at Sunset House, would never again cross his path. In the autumn she would return to the outside world and, in the meantime, in spite of LeBlond's gratitude, the rivalry between the trading posts and open hostility between the company servants would prevent Stuarts seeing her.

"Let me see," she was saying. "I'm to be here six seven weeks more. How am I to endure that Paradise all that time?"

"You might get your father to send him to Fort Hope," he suggested.

"That's a good idea! I'll do it." Then her black brows drew together as she added suggestively: but you know Mr. Jeem Stuart, I'm going to be lonely for someone to talk to."

"So am I, Miss Aurore LeBlond."

"Well the answer is obvious. We'll talk to each other."

He shook his head. "I can't come to your father's place. There'd be war. You'd have to swamp again in the lake," he suggested with a grin.

"What! Wait that long! The wind might not blow for days."

Omar's dark face, following a call outside, appeared at the door.

"Dey build a fire when dey see lantern. I tink a boat follow de shore now."

"Lets go and see," suggested the girl.

With the wash of the surf on the boulders of the shore and the drive of the wind through the neighboring forest in their ears, they stood on the beach, peering into the night. Shortly a light blinked through the night.

"It's a lantern—in a boat explained Stuart. "They're coming for you."

He felt her hand on his arm—felt her windblown hair on his face as he bent to hear what she said. His blood stirred at her touch.

"When will they get here?" she called through cupped hands.

"S' soon."

"Let's go back and talk until they get here."

So the two returned to the house while the sullen Omar waited on the beach.

"You know that little island—I think it's the farthest one to the east—with all the rocks and boulders on the shore?" she asked.

"Yes."

"You remember that split rock that stands partly in teh water? Well if you were to look behind that rock some day, you might find a note from a very much bored person—that is, if you cared to go there and look."

Stuart thrilled at the thought of her words. She wanted to see him again—wanted to talk to him. Then the hopelessness of the situation—the sheer recklessness of attempting to meet the daughter of LeBlond secretly, forced itself upon him.

"You mean you would paddle there some day—alone," Stuart asked, wondering what manner of girl this was who so lightly put her trust in a stranger.

"Perhaps I should so far forget myself," she replied archly, if I found an answer to my note."

"Try me!" he urged, reckless of the outcome in his desire to see this girl so vividly alive, so battling to his curiosity.

Her dark eyes flashed the challenge. "You will be bored, too?"

"How can I help being bored after today?"

"You're improving." A red lip curled in satisfaction. "A little more training and you'll be—"

The yelping of dogs and the sound of voices outside, above the beat of wind, stopped her.

"Here they are! He's coming—dead dad!"

COWS IMPORTANT IN THE FAMILY LIVING

The importance of cows in producing more of the family living from the farm is stressed in a statement from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The cow can contribute much to the family food supply in the way of milk and cream, butter and cheese. There is no substitute for milk and butter, especially for children. The family cow or cows should furnish a quart of milk daily for each child and a pint for each adult in the family, besides cream for table use and for butter.

Farmers considering producing more of their living from their farms should plan to have at least two good cows, freshening several months apart, says the College's statement. Many families could profitably own more than two cows, even for their own use, as dairy products can be a considerable part of the family food supply.

The College is urging all farm families to own cows this year, as a part of their plans to live more at home by growing larger gardens and more fruit, by producing their own meat supply, and by having a good flock of chickens.

SWEET POTATOES

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture.
It is the general practice of home gardeners to use bought slips; some however, grow their own. To these gardeners, and to growers of more extensive areas of sweet potatoes, this discussion is directed.

All sweet potato growers occasionally have losses because of the potato rotting. While it is true that in some seasons the trouble is greater, the likelihood of its occurrence is present every year. Sometimes the signs of its presence come early in the growing season, in that the stand is reduced. Sometimes, the first sign observed is the breaking down of the tubers because of a black, evil smelling rot at the stem end. This condition spreads in storage, no matter how good, and even potatoes that went into storage clean may be destroyed.

Another trouble to which sweet potatoes are subject is soil stain, a spotting and blotching of the potatoes anywhere on their surface. These spots are only skin-deep, and although there are not serious after effects in storage, this skin-spotting affects the appearance of the potatoes, and their sale.

Both these troubles are due to may be present on any potatoes even though the potatoes appear wholly clean. Because they always appear on the surface of the tubers, treating these in a disinfecting solution is the control.

The material to be used is corrosive sublimate, at a strength of 1 to 1000; this at the rate of one ounce of corrosive sublimate to 71-2 gallons of water. Three lots of potatoes may be treated with one batch of the home by dipping them for the following intervals: first lot, 8 minutes; second lot, 10 minutes, and third lot, 12 minutes.

It must be kept in mind that corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison, taken inwardly, but it is not absorbed through the skin of the hands. In pouring away used solutions, care should be taken that no animals drink it. Corrosive sublimate destroys all metals; the containers in which it is mixed and in which treating is done should be of wood or crockery ware.

Usually the container in which potatoes are treated is a barrel. A 50-gallon barrel to hold the corrosive sublimate solution, and a round bottom bushel basket make a good outfit. The closer the fit between the barrel and the basket the better the use made of the treating solution.

A better combination is a tub made by sawing a 30-gallon barrel, thus having a capacity of 15 gallons. In this tub 7 1-2 gallons of corrosive sublimate solution should be poured, next an oats sack should be hung in the tub, and filled with potatoes. [Their level and that of the solution will be found to reach the top of the tub at the same time. After the potatoes have been immersed for proper time, the sack-full is conveniently lifted supported on a plank across the top of the tub, to drain. This treating outfit makes the utmost use of the treating material; there is no waste space.

The treated potatoes may be bedded immediately, or, if they are to be kept for a time, they should be given opportunity to dry, and then stored in bags or crates, dipped or swabbed in the same solution used for treating of the tubers.

All seed sweet potatoes should receive this treatment; home gardeners who set only a few rows will do well to insist that all slips they buy be produced from treated seed.
