Lincoln's Goal Was Preservation Of Union — Not Integration

The disputes and demonstrations over the pace of integration and the use of force, either to effect integration against the wish of the majority...

It is good, in this atmosphere and in these times, to look back upon the words of the man who raised an army and invaded the South to maintain the Union...

Fear Must Not Hamper US

The Air Force Association recently issued a policy statement which expressed concern over what it termed the Administration's military planning.

In effect, the statement charged the Administration and the State Department with a "paralyzing fear" of nuclear war. This is leading to a preoccupation with the dismantling of the very strategic tools which have served us well...

Unquestionably the AFA warning comes at an appropriate time and the nation should take it to heart. The greatest negotiating Secretary of State in history, Dean Rusk, has often expressed the fear of, or impossibility of, successfully engaging in nuclear war...

The AFA does not want fear to paralyze the military planning of the nation, or hamper it, to an extent that will result in a nuclear stalemate that could be turned into a beneficial opportunity for an aggressor who took advantage of both the military help and the relaxed atmosphere which will result.

GOP Again Faces Cannibalism

Arthur Krook, writing recently in the New York Times, has pointed to a major danger facing the Republican Party. The veteran conservative columnist believes the current drive of Republican liberals, to block the nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater, might destroy any chance of a Republican victory at the polls in 1964.

So bitter and fantastic is the drive to turn back the Goldwater tide, Krook reports, that it could well wreck the party.

In other words, their attitude too often is that they must stop Goldwater, whatever the cost, even if they do win the Democratic victory. The danger resulting is that Goldwater supporters, even if they do not win the San Francisco convention in June, might be so thoroughly embittered that they will not enthusiastically work for a GOP victory in 1964.

On the other side of the coin, if Goldwater does manage to win the nomination, after a bitter, divisive party fight, his image might be damaged so compromised before the American electorate (by his own party) that he cannot succeed in the election.

Therefore, the Republicans are doing just what Richard Nixon so often appealed to the party not to do — practicing cannibalism.

Council Candidate Seeks Free Space For All Job Aspirants

Editor, The News

You hit the nail on the head in the Editor's Pen column last week when you pointed out that being a member of City Council is a thankless job. It is a payless job, too, unless $5.00 (five dollars) a month is considered pay. And yet, what would happen to the city if no one were willing to serve as councilman?

The news media of the community have a special obligation to inform the public. The fact that they are granted an exemption from property taxes upon their printing presses, transmitters, and other equipment used in their business as charged to the candidates for office from which the aspirants expect to gain all their livelihoods such as sheriff, jailer, or governor.

I suggest that the Morehead News and radio station WJOR be allowed free of charge at weekly intervals the names of the men who are candidates for City Council and that space or time be made available free of charge to any candidate for office who wishes to make known what he is for and against. The election is less than two months away and virtually no one knows who is running.

Norman Tant Candidate for City Council

The Morehead News fully recognizes, most respectfully, its obligation to report frequently and in detail on the activities of elected officials at all levels. This has long been a policy of this newspaper, acting in behalf of the inherent right of the people to know how well (or how badly) they are being governed. Candidates for public office do not, by any stretch of the imagination, fall within the same category as duly-elected public officials; therefore, this newspaper feels no obligation, moral or otherwise, to report on their activities, except by application of the same standards which apply to anything else which is published in this newspaper.

The proposal of our good friend Norman Tant seems — in essence — to be that since the city council post which he seeks pays only $5 a month, the advertising expense of his and other candidates' campaigns should be borne by the news media of the community. This does not fall within our interpretation of our obligation to the public. —The Editor

Claig Sprout ... and His Friend, TIMOTHY TUGMUTTON

Dear Mister Editor: I see by the papers where a fellow named Thomas Morris is an assistant to Defense Secretary McNamara. I have discovered two leaks in the Pentagon. When things leak in the Pentagon, Master Editor, it's a good thing they are using a gold-plated clip to hold tubes in place in their missiles and paying 49 cents a piece for 'em. It was found a 2-cent clip without the gold plate was just as good and sells for $88,000 a year. Then it was ordered to get out on the models of screwdrivers from 25¢ models, saving $12,000 a year.

They ain't but one way 526 different models of screwdrivers could get in, that's right. They ain't but one way 526 different models of screwdrivers could get in, that's right. They ain't but one way 526 different models of screwdrivers could get in, that's right.

U.S. Smokes Are Gaining Overseas

Gains in the manufacture of American name-brand cigarettes in overseas markets are helping to make the export business for U.S. burley tobacco growers.

Many of the top brands produced by American manufacturers are now being made in various countries of the world under licensing arrangements with domestic companies there.

These brands use the high ratio U.S. burley which mark cigarettes produced in American factories, and their quality is strictly maintained.

The trend to licensing arrangements for U.S. brands overseas is growing and now covers most of Europe, as well as countries in other parts of the world.

R. C. (Dick) Tracy, vice president in charge of export promotion for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, reports from Geneva, Switzerland, that U.S. brands made locally there now comprise 75 percent of the total Swiss cigarette market — surpassing the production of the type of blended cigarette preferred by smokers around the world.

The preference of foreign smokers for the U.S. type blend in cigarettes is reflected in a current report by the Foreign Agricultural Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, which notes:

"The introduction of new filter tip brands and new blended cigarette types containing high quality imported leaf stimulates cigarette sales in many countries.

"Greater quantities of American blended brands, either imported or produced domestically, has enhanced cigarette sales significantly in a number of countries."

The world output of cigarettes is continuing to climb, and the U.S. is a major producer. The rising trend in cigarette consumption in Western Europe and other areas is causing a great increase in certain Asian countries which are now becoming important suppliers of high-quality leaf for blending with domestic leaf. The production of the American blended type cigarette, therefore, is one of the most important factors affecting world trade in leaf tobacco.

West Is Honored For Draft Work

Jack H. West of Morehead, this week received a 15-year certificate and lapel button for voluntary service with the Selective Service System. West is a member of Local Board No. 1.

By Joe Jordan

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week the Louisville Journal commented upon the previous week's Battle of Chickamauga, a defeat for the Union Army of the Cumberland under the commander, Maj. Gen. William S. Rosecrans. "There is," it said, "unfortunately no room to doubt that the fine Army of the Cumberland has met with a very bloody repulse beyond Chattanooga. We have for some time past had a painful anticipation of exactly what has occurred."

The writer then went on to cite various errors made in the mingling about of Union troops in the weeks preceding the battle, asserting that it should have been apparent to all, as it was at the time to him and evidently to the Confederate high command, that the Federal forces were being so disposed as to make them vulnerable to attack and to almost certain defeat. He concluded that there had been "a sad lack of generalship in high official quarters."

In the next day's issue, the same newspaper carried a story which may be cited as typical of the total disregard of security precautions by the press, both North and South, during the Civil War. "We" had received intelligence, which comes from a source whose reliability is vouchsafed, "it said, and then went on to state in Tuesday's paper, exactly where both right and left wings of the Union Army rested Monday night. Furthermore, it reported reinforcements were being sent to Rosecrans' camp from Gen. Grant, by way of Decatur, Ala."

All the newspapers obviously felt perfectly free to disclose whatever they learned about troop movements, plans for future operations, and all else that might be of interest to their readers — and to the enemy. Perhaps the fact that such information frequently was erroneous kept enemy intelligence from using it.

A dispatch from Clarksville, Tenn., said: "Col. S. D. Bruce, who has formerly commanded this post, is absent on furlough at his home in Lexington, Ky., and, it is rumored here, is ordered at the expiration of his leave of absence to resume command of his own regiment, the Twentieth Kentucky." The story said Col. Bruce's departure was "much regretted by many citizens here whom he has conciliated by his conservative policy." The Twentieth Kentucky (Union) infantry regiment at that time was in Louisville on provost duty.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

This was the regiment which Lt. Col. Charles S. Hanson had surrendered to Confederate Brig. Gen. John Hunt Morgan after putting up a stubborn defense of the railroad station at Lebanon July 5. Since Gen. Morgan's first wife had been a sister of Col. Bruce, one may speculate that the Tennessee duty spared Col. Bruce the necessity of having to surrender to his former brother-in-law.

During the same week the Louisville Journal ran a story under this headline: "Unfortunate Occurrence — Three Citizens Shot by a Soldier."

The Attorney General, Robert F. Kennedy, believes the Administration's civil rights stand may hurt his brother's chances for reelection to the Presidency in 1964. RCHS Victor 41-13; Meets Wheelwright

Rowan County High School, fresh from the most convincing triumph in the two-year revival of football at the county school, takes on Wheelwright here tomorrow (Friday) at 1:30 p.m.

Without thus far this season in four outings, the Floyd County eleven is reported to be a "big team." RCHS Coach Paul Ousley said this week.

"However, with the momentum of a win behind us," the Viking mentor said, "we expect we can handle them."

The local eleven won its first game of the season Friday, scoring a thumping 41-13 win over Madison Central, with Arnold Hodge racking up five touchdowns to account for most of the Viking scoring.

Hodge tallied on runs of 65 and 54 yards and tallied on pass plays that covered 55, 40 and 53 yards. Gary Casper was on the throwing end.

end of Hodge's scoring plays.

The other RCHS touchdown was tallied by fullback Larry Porter on a seven-yard plunge.

Hodge also tallied two extra points, while Ronnie Porter, Ed Crisp and Gary Lambert also added conversions.

Rowan County High led 20-6 at halftime.

Madison Central scored from 20 yards out after scoring an errant RCHS pass in the first half and scored its other touchdown on short yardage late in the contest.

Rowan County's first win during its football revival came in mid-season last year against Fleming County. The score was 22-6.

Fire Safety Week Observance Is Set

Hold a family fire drill during Fire Prevention Week. This is an urgent request of Fire Chief C. B. McCullough. "Particularly for nighttime fires, remember that the closed bedroom doors will hold back flames and smoke and allow extra time for escape."

For upper floor escape, use any available porch and garage ladders, or trees as ways through. Be sure that wadded towels work easily and that they are low and large enough to get through.

Pick an outside assembly point where the family will meet, and be sure everyone understands the rule "once out - stay out."

Forest Fire Season Begins In State On October 1st

Kentucky's fall forest fire season officially begins Oct. 1. State Forestry Commissioner J. J. Matlick warned today.

Several Kentucky states go into effect on that date, he said. "The fall forest fire season begins on Oct. 1, and we must be prepared to handle the increased number of fires which may occur during this period."

Matlick said that the state will prohibit the setting of fires near woodland if brushland during the season except between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. when the land is covered by snow. Setting any fires without taking these precautions to prevent their spread is prohibited.

"These laws were made to protect the state's timber," Matlick said, "and we are taking every possible step to see that they are enforced."

"We experienced the most severe spring forest fire season on record this year, and while weather conditions were responsible for the extent of the fires, man was responsible for starting them. Strict adherence to the laws governing fires will result in far less damage to Kentucky's timber," he said.

Matlick pointed out that his department's Forestry Division has stepped up law enforcement activities in an attempt to cut down on the setting of fires this fall. Gene L. Butcher, State Forestry Division director, said other steps are being taken to get the state fire fighting operation in top condition.

Mechanical fire fighting units, stationed at a central location in each of the state's nine forestry districts, have been repaired, overhauled and are being assigned to specific areas within the district close to potential fire areas.

Training classes will be held in each district during the next few weeks, Butcher said, to review fire-fighting procedures and the use of flying clubs.

"The idea of a college flying club is not new, but the lack of a trained leader has hindered plans in the past. This year, with the semester only in its second week, active support for the proposed club is being shown by some students and faculty members," said Pawlik.

Methyl Bromide Is A Popular All Plant Bed Preparation

By Adrian Razor County Agent

Methyl bromide, used to kill weed seeds, has become very popular in recent years with farmers to prepare their beds in the fall. It is very effective on all weed seeds except white clover. Soil temperature must be above 50 degrees F. for it to work. Looking at a bed that was treated on Monday's place, I found it was completely bare of weeds except on one side where he had worked it but had not treated it. This area which was not covered by plastic was extremely weedy and had some grass. For this reason, it looks as if it was quite effective in killing the weeds.

For the sake of those who have never made a bed with gas there are some of the main things we need to do: Plow the area to be treated and smooth it down in advance. Work the soil to a fine loose condition just before treatment. The gas penetrates only as deep as the soil is properly worked. Soils need to be moist but not wet for the most effective kill. The gas is applied under a plastic cover at three or more points in the bed. Therefore, the cover needs to be supported a few inches above the soil so the gas can move over the bed. For the supports, make two or three rows of low mounds of plant bed soil the length of the bed about five feet apart. After treatment, rake these mounds back into place.

For the cold treatment. Since methyl bromide is a liquid, we need to provide evaporating pans to catch the liquid. This can be one-half of an tin pan or similar articles. If you use a tubular pan you will need three lengths of plastic tubing, one for each pan, or you can use the jiffy applicators which usually hold three cans each. If you use plastic tubing, be sure to anchor it in the pans so pressure from the pans will not move it.

Unfold or unroll the cover on top of the bed supports beginning at the end toward the wind. Seal the end of the cover completely with soil in a trench provided for this purpose. Seal thoroughly. A poorly-sealed cover may let gas escape and result in poor weed control. Release one pound for every 100 square feet or nine pounds for a bed 9 x 100'. Leave the cover on for at least two days. The hot treatment method is the same as the cold treatment except you won't need the evaporating pans. Arrange your tubes or applicators in the same manner as above. Heat at least two and one-half gallons of water to a temperature of 160 degrees and pour it into the hot water. It will take 3-5 minutes to release each can of methyl bromide.

Leave the cover on the bed for at least six hours depending on air temperature and soil moisture. Do not preheat cans! After the bed is treated, ditch it thoroughly to keep water run off from carting in weed seeds and diseases. A light raking next spring is all that is needed. Mulches may be used if available such as plastic which has been washed and so forth. Since methyl bromide is a poisonous gas and its vapors are extremely dangerous, be sure to observe all the precautions mentioned on the container.

Here are a few general precautions: Do not spill it. Do not breathe the vapor. Do not preheat the cans. Also, be sure all connections on the applicator are tight and working properly. If you need further information on using this gas or if we can be of help to you, let us know here at the Extension Office.

Soil Testing

Soil testing has been classified as an inventory of the soil's food needs that is taken before one buys fertilizer. A farmer who has his soil tested is much like the smart housewife who checks the pantry before buying groceries. The soil test determines just what the soil lacks. Let's keep in mind also that the best fertilizers for crops depend on a balanced amount of plant nutrients. This means that the various elements are dependent on each other, and that a limiting factor will not do the job even though we might use heavy amounts of this material. As a fertilizer will not do the job unless the soil elements and make them unavailable to the plant. Line is needed to bring the pH of the soil into favorable relation to the other elements and then the nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash applied in the correct amounts can do their job. It is important for growth and so forth.

It still isn't too late to have a test run for your cover crop, tobacco field, or your cover crop, to checkweed in your strawberry patches. The material to be applied before the soil is frozen in late fall or early winter. Be sure to clear the weeds in this material is applied. It is effective only in germinating weed seeds that are not on weeds which have already emerged.

Cover Crops

Many of us are finished housing tobacco now and since this is probably one of the best pieces of ground we have on our farm, it is time to protect it. Now is a good time to sow that cover crop and whether it be wheat, rye, or something else. Let us get it sown so that the ground will have a good cover before fall rains set in. Many fields lose tons of soil and many, many pounds of plant food because they haven't been protected in this manner. If you have any questions on cover crops, feel free to call on us. Our number is 784-5457.

Forest Supervisor Robert F. Collins said this cash return amounts to 13¢ an acre for fiscal 1963. An additional 10 percent of the gross receipts is made available to the National Forest for construction and maintenance of roads within the forest boundary.

Income is derived principally from the sale of timber, and Collins said there is "every indication that this will increase each year for some time to come."

Eagles, State's Surprise Eleven, Have Open Date; Meet TPI Next

Morehead's high-flying Eagles, with two wins to their credit, have been the early season surprise among Kentucky's college football teams.

Guy Penny's Eagles, footballers in their two opening encounters, downed Butler University 31-13 and Saturday night handed favor-able Marshall University a rather easy 19-4 defeat.

"We were still uncertain about how strong we were after the Butler game," said Penny, "but our performance against a good Marshall club has encouraged the coaching staff greatly."

Penny noted that "our superior conditioning was a deciding factor against Marshall" - something we cannot count on in upcoming games.

The Morehead mentor found it hard to conceal his pleasure with the performance of several front-liners.

"Mike Gottfried and Leo Wessel were real standouts in the backfield," said Penny as he pointed to the fact that star halfback Howard Murphy saw action in only one play and Wessel came on to fill in for the injured senior in fine fashion.

Wessel, a 175-pound senior from Louisville, ground out 63 yards in ten carries and snagged four passes for 61 yards and a touchdown in the best performance of his career.

Gottfried, a 170-pound sophomore quarterback from Crestline, O., hit on nine of 12 passes for 134 yards and two touchdowns in a passing show which swayed the more than 8,500 fans.

Penny also couldn't say enough about his two great ends, Richard Pare and Jack Smith. Pare turned in another fine defensive effort while Smith caught four passes for 49 yards and was a stalwart on defense.

Other linemen drawing praise were 230-pound Williamson, All-American guard Scott Davidson, 235-pound tackle Jim Osborne, 235-pound tackle Roy Lucas, 206-pound center Ron Ratliff and 195-pound guard Ken Howard.

Adding Wessel in the running attack against Marshall were fullback Russ Campbell who garnered 37 yards on 11 rushes and halfback Dennis Brown who got 26 yards on eight rushes.

Morehead escaped the rough tussle with a minimum of minor injuries although Penny's youngsters will have two weeks to prepare for OVC toughie Tennessee Tech following an open date this weekend.

The rest will give Murphy ample opportunity to be at full strength while injured halfback Stacy Burton is also expected to play for the Oct. 5 encounter at Cookeville, Tenn.

Following the Tennessee Tech game, the Eagles return home for a homecoming tussle with Murray Oct. 12.

Real Reason

Republicans oppose a cut in income taxes, saying it would set off a time bomb that would set off a passing show which swayed the more than 8,500 fans.

New Telephone Center Slated In Olive Hill

INAUGURATED - Dr. George P. Archer of Prestonsburg Wednesday was installed as president of the Kentucky State Medical Association for the 1963-64 term. The ceremony took place at the annual KSMMA meeting being held this week in Lexington.

Construction has started on a new modern telephone switching center for Olive Hill which will be placed into service in April, 1964, according to Mike Keller, district manager for General Telephone Company of Kentucky. Keller said the change will be made at a cost of about $202,000.

The new building will be located diagonally across the street from General Telephone's present switching center on Mill Branch. It will contain 1,600 square feet. The building is expected to be completed late this year and the new automatic telephone equipment will be installed as soon as the building is finished.

The change to the larger more modern equipment, is necessary to keep pace with the telephone growth experienced since Olive Hill first went to dial in 1954. Then, only 532 telephones were connected to the system which has now increased to 1,340. During this period, General construction crews have extended telephone lines into many sections of Olive Hill and Carter County. An example of this is the Pleasant Valley, Graham and Carter Caves areas to be completed later this year.

When the new switching center goes into service next April, all Olive Hill customers will be given new telephone numbers. The new seven-digit numbering system will start with 286 instead of the 326 now in use. A complete new telephone directory is planned for distribution just prior to the April change over. Customers will be advised separately by mail of their new telephone number as soon as the assignments were complete.

Reaction To Bible Reading Rule Is Distressing To Breckinridge

Declaring he is amazed and distressed at some reaction to the recent Bible-reading opinion, Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge said today he plans to issue further opinions on related religious questions.

"I want to adhere to the line drawn by the Supreme Court and not wander to the right or left," he said. "It's a very fine line that has been laid down."

Breckinridge said the major question coming up soon concerns the "release time" system — under which public school pupils are permitted to leave classes to attend religious instruction.

Some legal observers view it as the best solution for those who object to the Supreme Court's decision against required Bible reading.

ing and prayer during regular classroom hours.

Breckinridge recently interpreted the Bible ruling as all but ending the Bible reading in Kentucky common schools. He advised state school officials.

He believes he was on the mark in releasing the opinion. So did all assistant attorneys general who agreed with the eight-page document in a rare display of unanimity.

The vehement emotional reaction from one segment of the population was somewhat unexpected.

Letter-writers denounced Breckinridge as a man who "turned down" in or as a Communist, atheist or Catholic — and in one instance all three.

The thing that startles and distresses me is the complete lack of appreciation of constitutional government," Breckinridge said. "These people have no regard for the protective rights of the minority."

He said the Supreme Court made it clear that the right to read the Bible does not carry with it the right to impose one's will on unwilling listeners.

"People have a way of thinking their religion is it," he said. "They forget there are more than 250 religious sects in this world."

Breckinridge said favorable comment included a promise from an Eastern Kentucky minister that he would take legal action if the high court's Bible ruling is violated.

He said he has had "many requests that I reconsider my decision" — as though I exercise any discretion in the matter.

Breckinridge's Bible opinion, after that has no force of law, was drawn up with painstaking care and research. Every staff member of the attorney general's office — including those who are Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — was consulted.

Breckinridge studied the massive data on related cases, collected all memoranda from his assistants and wrote the opinion in several days at a quiet place away from the office hubbub.

"The preparation has not kept the results of controversy from spilling into the political arena."

Both Democratic gubernatorial nominees Edward Breathitt Jr. and his Republican foe, Louis Nunn, who first raised the issue — now are taking pains to tell voters they favor prayer and Bible-reading in public schools.

Both sources close to Breckinridge commented:

"He is practicing law. They are running for office."

Vicar Defends Wife's Right To Wear Slacks

A Church of England minister is defending the right of his pretty blonde wife to wear slacks in public.

"Why shouldn't my wife wear slacks?" asked the Rev. Donald Lugg, 28, vicar of St. Alphage, at Seaxhall in County Kent, near London. "Why shouldn't my wife wear slacks like any other attractive young wife?"

Mrs. Lugg, 35, mother of two children, appeared at a recent church bazaar in a pair of fairly tight-fitting green slacks. The vicar wore a blue open-necked sport shirt.

A number of parishioners complained this was not dignified dress for a vicar's wife or a vicar.

1963-64 MAJORETTES—These six young ladies will compose the majorette corps of the 1963-64 Morehead State College Marching Band. They are: (front row) Carolyn Coyan, Bellbrook, Ohio; Deanie Kohls, head majorette, Alexandria; and Jane Truitt, Bellbrook, Ohio. Second row: Sandra Nieubic, Paintsville; Susan Nalle, Ashland; and Candi Williams, Morehead.

Majorettes and Cheerleaders Are Elected For School Year

The majorette and cheerleading squads for the 1963-64 school year have been chosen and have already taken part in Morehead State College football games.

The majorettes are chosen by the head majorette and by the MSC marching band drum major. They are Carolyn Coyan, Sandra Nieubic, Susan Nalle, Candi Williams and Jane Truitt. The head majorette is Deanie Kohls.

The student body elected five cheerleaders to the varsity cheerleading squad last spring. They are Linda Rawlings, Diana Davis, Sherrie Wasem, Sciece Amwake and Lois Krompasick.

'Good Secretaries Hard To Find,' State Aide Says

Qualified secretaries who can take over a job with a minimum of supervision are in the "hard to find" category for State government, according to private industry. State Personnel Commissioner Walter R. Gattis has announced.

"We have quite a few applicants on file for typical and clerk stenographer positions," Gattis said, "but there aren't many on the call for a secretary with one or two years experience, or for the type of administrative secretarial positions."

Gattis commended the work of such groups as the National Secretaries Association (International) for training programs such as the Certified Professional Secretary examinations which are aimed at upgrading the proficiency of the secretarial profession.

These examinations, Gattis said, cover all phases of secretarial work and are aimed at promoting the designation "C.P.S.," a standard of proficiency in the secretarial profession. Examinations are given in this area in May at the University of Louisville. In December of Louisville, before Dec. 1.

Competition Aids State In Buying

Competition among the five manufacturers which supply the bulk of the nation's "quality tires" for new automobiles will now allow Kentucky governmental agencies to take advantage of substantial savings in purchasing tires and tubes this fiscal year.

State Finance Commissioner David H. Prichett said this week that true competition among the tire companies will now allow an additional five percent as compared with prices for the same products during the past year.

Prichett said the Finance Department has signed a one-year contract with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., to be in effect through July 31, 1964, which offers a reduction of 10 percent from the tire industry's confidential "State Director of Purchases Maurice P. Carpenter cited an example of the tire savings for the both years was $18.15, which meant a count the price to the State was $15.32 each. This year the contract price is $15.41.

The first major breakthrough in automotive supplies was accomplished last year when the State received its first competitive offers for school bus bodies. Until last year, bus body bids were all of over $60,000.

The result was a savings of over $200,000 this year alone on new purchases by local school districts through the State departments of Finance and Education.

Farm Bureau Favors Two Amendments

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Board of Directors this week voted to support two proposed amendments to the Constitution of Kentucky. Both amendments will appear on the ballot in the regular election Nov. 5.

One of the amendments would remove from the constitution the salary limits on all state elective officers. It would then be left up to the Legislature to fix all pay scales.

The other amendment would allow the people to vote on as many as five amendments to the constitution at any one time. Presently, the limit is two. And it would shorten the interval of issuing a call for a constitutional convention. Currently, two legislatures must agree to call the convention, the people must approve the call and the third Legislature then issues the call.

Under Section 246 of the Constitution of Kentucky, all state elective officers except the governor are limited to $12,000 yearly; all circuit judges to $8,400; and all other public officers (mainly city and county) to $7,200.

Removing the salary limitation will come nearer assuring that qualified people seek elective positions," the board said.

Speaking in support of the call for a constitutional convention, the board had this to say: "In 1960, Farm Bureau supported the call for a constitutional convention, which carried in most rural areas of Kentucky. In fact, FB was one of the first and most active organizations in Kentucky to support the call.

"We feel that the amendment will provide sufficient safeguards as the people will have the opportunity to vote twice. One vote would be cast to call the constitutional convention, and the other vote would be to either approve or disapprove convention proposals.

Feed Grain Program To Change Little

Price support for corn, grain sorghum and barley in 1964 will again be made available through both loans and support payments, R. O. Wilson chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, pointed out today. Growers who qualify for the support by participating in the 1964 feed grain program, for which the sign-up period is planned for early next year.

The total national average price-support levels for the three feed grains in 1964 will be the same as in 1963, the Chairman explained, but a slightly larger proportion of the support will be made available through loans. As last year, the loan rate will vary according to counties. The support payment for each of the three grains, however, will be the same amount per bushel in all counties.

New Tennis Courts Added At MSC

Two new tennis courts are being completed at Morehead State College as the result of a Student Council request for added recreational facilities. Morehead State College President Adron Doran, after deliberation of a Student Council request for facilities, authorized the building of two new concrete courts at an estimated cost of $2,000. Due to inclement weather, construction on the new courts was hindered, but they are now nearing completion and will be operational in the near future. As a result, time spent by those waiting for an open court will be greatly reduced.

Morton Says Goldwater Is Leader

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman, said Saturday night Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is leading the race for the GOP presidential nomination but denied aspirations to be Goldwater's running mate.

"I'm not running for anything," Morton said in a news conference preceding his dinner address at a 6th District Republican fund-raising rally on the Wabash College campus, in Crawfordsville, Ind.

"Sen. Goldwater certainly doesn't have enough delegates pinned down now for the nomination," Morton told newsmen. "But he has more than anyone else. If he can hold on for the next 10 months, he could win."

Morton, frequently mentioned as a vice-presidential candidate or a dark horse candidate for the top spot, said he believes Goldwater would look elsewhere for a running mate if he won the presidential nomination.

"Sen. Goldwater knows how hard it is to pick up seats in the Senate," Morton said. "And after all, I inherited his job as Republican Senate campaign chairman."

"History will show that the naive, unsophisticated handling of foreign affairs has been the greatest weakness of the first three years of the Kennedy administration," Morton said. Asked for clarification, he said the administration's dealings with France were a good example.

The administration, Morton said, has appeared to follow a policy of "being nice to our enemies and sticking our friends in the backside."

"As to the accomplishments of the Kennedy administration, he said he thought that it had carried out a "very wonderful reeducation of the White House."

Cigarette Money; Jobs?

Controversy Rages Around Tax Cut Proposal's Real Effect

Will an income tax cut produce "cigarette money" for the average taxpayer, or three million new jobs?

The Kennedy Administration has tried to put across its $11.1 billion tax reduction proposal as a pep pill for the economy—a stimulus that would provide better business, improved profits, higher wages and more jobs and ease the burden on taxpayers.

Republicans disagree and assert that there should be some guarantee of a check on government spending before a tax cut is put into effect.

One congressional leader who is opposed to the cut said it would provide only "cigarette money" for the average taxpayer.

For some chain smokers, the prospectively saving won't even cover cigarettes.

The typical family has an income of about $7,000. The $7,000-a-year man with a wife and two children pays $630 in income taxes, assuming that he itemizes deductions and that these follow the normal pattern.

The $7,000-a-year man cited above would pay $490 under the new reduction bill scheduled to come up in October.

His share of the proposed $8.8 billion reduction in individual taxes would be $211, or about 21 percent of his present tax bill.

Applying the same formula to an income of $10,000 a year would produce a reduction of $302, while the $30,000-a-year man would save $535. At the $100,000 income level the total tax would be reduced 34 percent, from $36,720 to $24,142.

These computations take into account the revisions which will be made in the tax rules if the bill is passed.

Some state taxes no longer are deductible; tobacco tax, gasoline taxes, motor vehicle and drivers licenses, taxes on alcoholic beverages and taxes on real estate taxes, state and local income taxes, personal property taxes and most sales taxes.

Because of these changes, the taxpayer who has been taking the standard deduction of 10 percent would get a larger cut than the person who has been taking itemized deductions.

In the case cited above the $7,000-a-year taxpayer would save $131 if he itemized deductions. A taxpayer in similar circumstances who has been taking the standard deduction would save $168. He now pays $720 and his tax would go down to $552.

The similarly situated man who makes $3,000 a year pays $60 in taxes, and this would be eliminated entirely under the new tax bill. On a $4,000-a-year salary, tax would go down from the $240 to $140, and at the $5,000 income level, the tax would be reduced from $420 to $220.

The saving would be $258 for the taxpayer with an income of $10,000, and it would run up to $896 for the $20,000-a-year man.

The sharpest percentage cuts would be in the $2,000 income class, the average reduction would be 40 percent.

In the $3,000-$5,000 range, reductions would average 25 percent, those in the $5,000-$10,000 range would get reductions averaging 20 percent, and the average decrease in taxes would be 15 percent for those with incomes above $10,000.

There would be some special tax breaks for those in certain situations—elderly taxpayers for example, or those who have to move a long distance to take a new job.

The administration has said that the main point is not the amount of individual tax cuts, but how much over-all spending power would be generated by putting $11.1 billion into the pockets of individuals and businesses. Administration economists say the

Craft Catalog Due Off Press Early In October

A 32-page catalog advertising the wares of Kentucky craftsmen will be off the press in early October, according to State Commerce Commissioner James H. Nutter.

Titled "Kentucky Gifts from the Hands of True Craftsmen," the catalog will contain pictures and descriptions of 337 craft items available for 21 producers and craft centers in the state. Nutter said 50,000 copies will be printed for wide distribution over the nation.

Copies may be obtained from the Division of Arts and Crafts, 304 Wilkinson St., Frankfort.

We wonder what the workers of 1953 would think of a thirty-five hour week.

average taxpayer would spend 92.84 percent of his tax saving and that this would provide a healthy boost to business.

By building demand for more automobiles, household appliances and other goods, the tax bill could create some three million additional jobs in the next few years, the administration contends.

SPOKESMAN... Phillip Lucco, 26, acts as spokesman for a group of U.S. students who refused to surrender their passports upon arrival in the U.S. by way of Madrid following a visit to Cuba. The group demonstrated against a State Dept. order invalidating their passports for visiting Cuba.

NEW POSTMASTER GENERAL

President Kennedy nominated John Gronouski, 43, to be postmaster general. Gronouski, a Wisconsin tax chieftain, formed the appointment "the greatest honor of my life."

State Industrial Development Plan Chosen As Model

The program of promoting industrial development in Kentucky has been selected as a model for demonstration to a team of visiting officials from Costa Rica as part of a hemispheric "Alliance For Progress" plan to advance private enterprise.

The project is sponsored by the U. S. Department of State, Agency for International Development, and is being handled by Consey Research, Inc., internationally recognized consultant on development programs.

Leonard T. Kernen, deputy commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Commerce, headed the state's delegation which outlined Kentucky's program of industrial development to the visiting officials.

COMPARES ADMINISTRATIONS

Treasury Secretary Dillon, a Republican, said recently that Federal spending has grown at a slower rate during the Kennedy Administration than during the last three years of Dwight D. Eisenhower was in the White House. Dillon served under Eisenhower as Under Secretary of State and was named to his present post by President Kennedy.

'Worm Grunting' Pays Some Practitioners $65 A Week

Very early nearly every morning a strange scene is created in the neighborhood of the Florida panhandle.

Whole families of back-country folk are taken by truck to remote, wooded places to ply an unusual trade — worm grunting.

Hundreds of people earn part or all of their income at some point along this down-to-earth trail.

Worm grunting or grubbing, as some folks can grunt up a quart of worms in very little time, other can't raise a quart in a day of grubbing.

Grubbers that know do it like this. An "old" wooden "stob," rounded and smoothed with use is driven into the ground and skillfully creased across its top with a long heavy strip of metal. This creates a resonant, throbbing sound that can be felt in your feet from far away and drives most worms in a 30-foot circle out of the ground.

As the long, pink worms crawl up they are gathered by the grunter's helpers and he moves his stob to repeat the process in a new place.

This is the production department of a major local industry.

selling worms for bait to fishermen. The worms are sold to wholesalers for about $2.50 a two-quart can containing about 500 worms and enough rotten sawdust to keep them alive.

The wholesalers charge retailers about $3.50 a can. The retailers will peddle them in small quantities to fishermen for about $6. The prices vary from season to season, depending on how the fish are biting.

One grunter said he earns $65 in a good week. Distributors and retailers are dependent on the fickle whims of fish and the men who try to catch them and experience dizzying extremes of success.

Distributor Brady Fallon said he will sell 150 to 200 cans a week in the good fishing months of April, May and June but not nearly as many at other times.

All of worm dealers the "red wrigglers" boys are the aristocrats. Fallon told of one wriggler man who made a trip through Joubert, Ga. last year.

"Just imagine," Fallon said. "This fellow was on a road will tour — just selling worms mind you — and he had a big, white Cadillac with a driver in a real chauffeur's outfit."

Maysville's Sewage Plant Plans Again Are Bugged Down

A planned sewage treatment plant — focal point of an issue that once brought state legislators to bear on Maysville in the form of $1,000-a-day fines — hit a new stumbling block Friday.

Mason Circuit Judge John A. Bresline Jr. dismissed condemnation proceedings brought by the city to take 22.4 acres of land for the plant site. Bresline, commenting on what he called an "astounding" fact, said Maysville as a third-class city lacks power to condemn lands outside city limits. Other class cities have such authority.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Duke, owners of the property, had appealed after a condemnation value totaling $33,500 was placed on the land. They contended the city did not have the power to condemn Maysville, after a 12-year fight against a sewage treatment plant, Fallon told of one wriggler man who made a trip through Joubert, Ga. last year.

The pact ended the long fight to stop dumping of raw sewage into the Ohio River, in violation of anti-pollution laws.

Contracts for the plant, under the agreement, were to be awarded by December.

Barkley Sculptor 'Puts Finger' On Another Capitol Statue

Walker Hancock, sculptor of the Alben W. Barkley statue to be dedicated at the State Capitol Tuesday, Oct. 3, arrived in Frankfort recently and promptly "put the finger" on Henry Clay.

The noted sculptor, who now makes his home near Gloucester, Mass., fitted a new finger on the Clay statue, enshrined in the Capitol rotunda along with likenesses of Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, and Dr. Ephraim McDowell. Clay's statue is plaster, Hancock said, and has been repaired at least once before. Like the McChown figure was completed in Rome and the bronze cast at a foundry there. Now in Frankfort, the figure has been erected on the marble base under Hancock's supervision. It will be kept under wraps until it unveils next month.

The lowering figure of Lincoln in the center of the rotunda, bears the date 1811 and was the first one installed in the rotunda hall of fame. The figure of Jefferson Davis, the last, took up residence there in 1937.

Barkley's likeness will fill out the sound's in corner standing 7 feet, 4 inches tall atop a St. Genevieve marble base similar to those already in the rotunda, the bronze was cast in Rome this summer when Hancock was sculptor-in-residence at the American Academy there.

Working mainly from a foot-high stack of photographs, a suit of Barkley's clothes, and a pair of shoes, Hancock first made a small plaster model to decide general composition and posture of the figure. This "sketch" model was then translated into a half-size scale model of the finished piece. The scale model allowed for some details, including folds of the garments, contours of the face, etc.

Barkley's family and a few close friends advised the sculptor on facial expression, gestures, etc., as work progressed.

Senator Lausche (D, Ohio) criticized President Kennedy's will-forged minister, Andre A. Gromyko, the possible relaxation of East-West tensions. Lausche said in a prepared Senate speech that he cause Gromyko "deliberately led" about the presence of offensive Soviet missiles in Cuba last year. "I am loathe to believe that President Kennedy... could ever again place any credence in what Mr. Gromyko might have to say."

Thin Plastic Film Causes 10 Deaths Annually In State

An average of 10 children in Kentucky die each year as a result of misuse of thin plastic film. New parents are especially warned of the dangers of plastic film, since most deaths occur in children under the age of two years.

More deaths from plastic suffocation occur in the fall and winter months, Victor Fuqua, director of Accident Prevention, Kentucky State Department of Health, said today. Many times death from plastic suffocation occurs when a child is away from home visiting relatives or friends.

Plastic film, intended to protect clothing after cleaning and laundering, for packaging new linens, foods, toys, sporting goods, etc., often becomes full of static electricity, then adheres to what ever it comes in contact with. A helpless infant has no defense against this cause of death, Fuqua said.

"Extreme caution and common sense should be used in dealing with this problem. Never use a plastic bag as a makeshift cover for mattresses, play pens, baby carriages, or upholstered furniture. Never give a plastic bag to a child as a plaything. It is not for children. Never keep a plastic bag after it has served its intended purpose, Fuqua pointed out.

"No argument is answered by an epithet.

Western Parkway Dedication Set

The Western Kentucky Parkway, Kentucky's newest and longest, will be dedicated Oct. 28 by Governor Bert T. Combs and other state officials. Exactly two years from the day they turned the first spadeful of dirt on the project.

The ceremony will be held near Leitchfield at the interchange of Highway 259 according to Gov. Combs, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward and the Kentucky Turnpike Authority. This is where ground was broken for the 127-mile Elizabethtown to Princeton route. Program arrangements will be announced in about a week.

Approximately two-thirds of the new highway will be ready for traffic by dedication time, with the section from near Nortonville to Princeton scheduled for completion before the first of the year, according to Commissioner Ward.

"We cannot have the entire 127 miles open to traffic by Oct. 28," Ward said, "but we feel an obligation to the motoring public to dedicate and open to traffic usable portions of the Parkway as soon as possible." This also will allow thousands of Kentuckians to use the road and attend a ceremony many before extremely had web there.

The highway roughly parallels US 62, an old, two-lane highway, and connects with the Kentucky Turnpike at Elizabethtown. It shortens the distance between Elizabethtown and Princeton by some 15 miles and will cut driving time considerably. Built to high design standards, it is a divided, four-lane facility with limited access. Its construction was financed from a $18,000,000 revenue bond issue. There are 84 bridges and overpasses along the route, the longest of which is the bridge across the Green River near Rockport.

Chevrolet was luxurious before, but you should see it now. With smart new styling, the '64 Chevrolet looks even longer (but isn't). There's even a whole new series of three bucket seats as standard equipment. (The new Impalas and Bel Airs are more luxurious, too. Even the lowest priced Biscaynes have new foam-cushioned seats front and rear and more than just luxury from Chevrolet. A choice of 16 power teams, for instance—and six V8's up to 425 hp (optional at extra cost). And quieter transmissions. Jet-smooth ride with Full Coil suspension. Flush-and-dry rocker panels, Delco-tron generator, self-adjusting brakes and other low-upkeep features. If you've ever wondered how luxurious a Chevrolet could get—with all the extra-cost options there are to choose from—that seems to be entirely up to you.

Take your first look at the first CHEVELLE!

You've never seen anything like this totally new line of cars before. Chevelle is new in everything but the big cars, soft parks easily. Yet the interior dimensions of its Body by Fisher provides a generous amount of head, leg and shoulder room. (Chevelle's trunk is big and roomy, too.) The ride is surprisingly smooth with a rugged coil spring at all four wheels. And not so surprisingly for Chevrolet, the new Chevelle offers a choice of engines ranging from an economical 120-hp 6 to a 220-hp V8 (optional at extra cost). Choose the Chevelle you like best from the three series—the Malibu Super Sport, the Malibu and the 300 Series, eleven models in all—at your Chevrolet dealer's.
