Hundreds Asked To Resign by Chandler; College Is Affected

Entire Morehead Board of Regents Included in List That Governor May Release

ROAD DEPARTMENT IS HIT

Hundreds of men who head the numerous Boards and Commissions in Kentucky, were asked yesterday to surrender their resignations to Governor A. B. Chandler. Chandler said that it was the first step in his reorganization plan, but, throughout the State, the move was eyed as the Chief Executive's initial step toward whipping the Legislature into line, and also the easiest manner to get "out" of Tom Bess' men and some Republicans.

Chandler's move was the most sweeping that any Kentucky Governor has made in more than fifty years.

The entire Board of Regents of the Morehead State Teachers College has been asked to resign, according to Frankfort dispatches.

Mr. Chandler will not accept the resignations of those persons he desires to remain, most of them his staunch supporters. Frankfort politicians.

The present Morehead College Board of Regents is composed of Judge D. B. Caudill, Morehead; Judge Earl Sudd, Mt. Sterling; Dr. J. W. Ross, Olive Hill, and Dr. A. O. Stone, Morehead. None of these men are members of the State Bar, unless it is Dr. Stone, who is serving out the unexpired term of Senator Aille W. Young.

Under an earlier law, passed during the LaFolton administration, Governor Chandler has the power to "fire" or dismiss any of the executive officers of the State.

Included in the program is immediate curtailment of practically all activity in the State Highway Department.

The immediate acceptance of resignations in the State Highway Department, the State Tax Commission and the State Public Service

POLITICS BUSINESS

ADVERTISING LINEAGE: The increased newspaper advertising business that was done during Christmas season, is a definite indication of business optimism. There is a general trend towards better business in local business.

Morehead stores are stocked this year with the heaviest lines of Christmas merchandise they have ever carried. The stock is being fast depleted by "cash" shoppers.

CHRISTMAS PAY CHECKS: State employees were told the amount they would get for their pay after being staggered by the announcement from Governor Chandler that all heads of departments were being asked to resign. The second major haymaker that landed smack on their chins was the announcement from Dan Talbot that December checks would not be mailed out Christmas as they have been done in previous years.

CONTEST SUIT: Many local Democrats prefer to say little and

Morehead Stores Offer More Christmas Stocks Than Ever Before; Shoppers Urged To Purchase Here This Year As Merchants Can Fill All

"At Christmas play, and make good cheer for Christmas come, but once a year. Again at Christmas time did we wear the holly wreath on the Christmas hearth, the bright snow showed the earth, and I wish you Christmas day, and far and wide, Jesus the King, and the Saviour is come! There on more wood the wind is chafed, but let it whistle as it will, we'll keep our hearts merry still. 'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house and a creature was stirring—not even a mouse."

Christmas is almost on us. With it Morehead merchants and business houses bring thousands of beautiful offerings, many of which are portrayed in this special Christmas edition.

Toys, gifts, mechanical toys, wagons, tractors, scooters, sleds, and guns, are being sold at every store. The list of descriptions may be found at half a dozen stores in Morehead. It is no longer necessary to go elsewhere to secure that particular toy or gift desired for Morehead stores are capable to "pass it to you across their daily decorated counters."

At Morehead's 4-10 and $1 Store on Main street is a wide selection of toys, gifts, and mechanical toys, and advertised widely this year for it is a spot that has attracted hundreds of shoppers during the week. Goide's are stocked in the ceiling and the quality and value of the gifts offered are attested to by the fact that they are being carried out by the armloads every minute of the day.

Then there is J. B. McKinney's department store, where Santa Claus has left a complete line of things for the supper and plenty of delightful gifts for the company. Bieb's presents a variety of wonderful gifts this year from expensive ones to those priced more reasonably for the common man.

Kentucky Power and Light Company has a complete line of electrical goods and other useful products and is at hand at the George, 2.5; John Rowan, 2.5; and Oba Mae Willoughby, 2.5.

Lloyd Receives Award For Paper On Slavery Question

"The Slavery Controversy," a paper written by Dr. A. Y. Lloyd, Head of the Department of History, Morehead State Teachers College, has received a grant of one hundred dollars from United Daughters of the Confederacy. The grant was made from the Jefferson Davis Historical Fund.

SHOP AT HOME

An Editorial

For years many people have been leaving Morehead each December and purchasing their Christmas gifts in larger cities. This year in 1935, however, it is necessary to go to the city to purchase gifts. For Morehead merchants have prepared to meet fully and capably care for the Morehead shopper.

Money spent at home will come back to you but money taken away from Morehead merchants, for all they are the backbone of the community in which we live, and they offer to you merchandise as good as can be found elsewhere, at comparable prices.

Prexy Is Convinced

"I haven't been at Morehead long enough to know just what to think about it, but I am sure that it is a matter and do something about it." President Harvey A. Babb declared Monday in an address at the annual football banquet.

Babb said that he believed two things that may be the matter with athletics is failure of the student body and faculty to give wholehearted support to the teams.

"From what I understand, the players have not had the right mental attitude," declared the Morehead president. "I'm going to get all the bottom of things."

Morehead High Paper Wins Ad Lay-Out

The Viking Voice, Morehead High School paper, won first place in advertising in the state-wide contest sponsored by the Kentucky High School Press Association. They also won third in feature articles, the winning article being one by the editor, Harvey Tackett.

Jennings To Call More Than 40 For Depositions Here

Thomas Completes Testimony Except For Calling Major Carl D. Norman

ATTORNEY HAMILTON REPRESENTS TESTAMONY

The taking of depositions in the contest suit of J. J. Thomas, defeated by E. T. Jennings, Morehead, by eighty-one votes for Representative of the Sixth Rowan District, was resumed Saturday until Tuesday morning by agreement of counsel representing both men.

W. C. Hamilton, Mount Sterling, representing Thomas, said it was necessary that he be in Chattanooga over the week-end and Attorney Claude Crookshank and W. E. Proctor, who did the cross examining for Jennings, agreed to the recess.

More than twenty witnesses were examined by Thomas, who testified that he was a member of the 1 Morehead precinct, Haldeman and Hays and Farmers, where Thomas alleged the election was corrupted. Most of them testified they saw armed guards at the polls on election day, but did not know any attempt was made to part of patriotism and National Guardsmen to intimidate voters.

Proctor and Charlie Hogg, Harrison precinct worker and at-large leader of the union at the Harrison-Century Fire Brick Company, testified at Monday morning. Hogg said that County Judge Jennings and Proctor, who is County Attorney, had secured a warrant on him, without having an affidavit taken, prior to the election so that he might not know any attempt for the integrity of Thomas and the Democratic Party.

Older Boys Meet Adjourns Sunday

The Older Boys Conference of the Eastern Kentucky District, held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association, adjourned here Sunday morning after a four day meet. Approximately 100 delegates from High Schools in the State were in attendance at the session.

T. Aubrey Morse, Secretary of the Community Y. M. C. A., Lexington delivered the principal address at the closing session at 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning. Dr. G. H. Fern, Pastor of the Morehead Christian Church delivered the conference sermon. The delegates were entertained at several dinners and banquets during their stay. Among those who appeared on the program were Dr. J. D. Falk, Dean of Men at Morehead College; W. H. Vaughan, Morehead College Dean; Howard E. Moore, President of the Morehead High School.

LET CONTRACTS FOR BUILDINGS

Word was received here Saturday that contracts for the construction of a Science Building and a dormitory were let at Louisville Saturday.

The Struck Construction Company of Louisville was awarded the building contracts for $257,300 for both buildings. President H. A. Babb, of the Morehead School, said that approximately $16,900 was saved by letting the bids jointly, instead of separately.

The Link Electric Company had the low bid on wiring and the electrical portion of the job at $16,420. The Whitehurst Plumbing and heating company of Ashland was awarded the plumbing contract for $23,300. The heating contract will be let at a future date.

By the original loan-grant from the Works Progress Administration $255,000 was provided for the Science Building and $181,000 for the dormitory.

Morehead Debaters Engage Ky. Wesleyan

The Morehead freshmen and varsity debating teams opened the season here Sunday morning, meeting teams from Kentucky Wesleyan College. Howard Eckles and Allen Payne upheld for Morehead in the Freshman Debate the affirmative side of the question "Resolved: That Congress should be Empowered to Override by a two-thirds vote, decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress Unconstitutional." The first debate was held in the afternoon while in the evening Howard Hadden and Elijah Hogg of the Morehead team upheld the affirmative side of the same question against the Wesleyan varsity opposition.

Shopping For A Clothes - Conscious Younger Set

In the last generation and for generations before that, Christmas meant but one thing to the kiddies, stuffed sticks of candy and new toys, playthings galore. But today, my how things have changed. The younger set has become clothes conscious. No longer do they talk entirely in terms of electric trains and fire engines. Those things are, of course, enjoyed and appreciated on Christmas day and for days afterward. Thrills, however, do not last forever. More and more are the younger generation interested in appearing like their elders.

Little girls want to wear clothes like their older sisters and like their mothers do. Tired they are of clothes cut to a pattern that has been tried and trusted for years. They want a change, and that change is to more fashionable lines in their clothes. Ask them, Mother, and you will find that they are really serious about it. Too long have they listened to their elders discuss the very latest in styles without having an effect upon them. So this year, if you want to please the little lady, give her more clothes—she'll be the proudest young lady on the street.

Not Only the Girls
Little men, too, have become intensely interested in the styles of the clothes they wear. No ordinary plain suits for them, absolutely not. They are demanding the very latest in pleated-back suits, the more they are pleased. The mood of the younger generation have changed, they are just as conscious of their appearance, as are their elders. It is true also that the newer styles make the youngsters look more spry and span, make them look more manish and, as a result, act ore manish.

So this year, when you are doing your Christmas shopping for the little one, remember that a gift of smart, up-to-date wearing apparel will make them happier than any gift ever made them.

PLUNGING FEET FOREMOST IN TO CHRISTMAS

By ARCHIE ANDREWS
While you're reveling in happy anticipations of a jolly Yuletide and gazing every now and then to this business of picking out Christmas gifts, you might just as well tackle the problem from the bottom and work from the ground up, as it were.

And by way of footnote, you might count the feet on your gift list. We don't mean "measure how many feet long the list is, heaven forbid; but how many pairs of feet on your Christmas list you could do something nice and cozy for.

Slippers to the Rescue
Probably by now you are anticipating what we are driving at, and with a supercilious smile you are saying—"Oh, you mean gift slippers." Well to be brutally frank that is exactly what we mean, and we don't say it apologetically even though you have given gift slippers and gift slippers for Christmas.

We repeat, gift slippers; because like nice friendly greeting cards, they never leave the recipient cold. There is a nice cozy atmosphere to lounging in or bonjour slippers that few other gifts possess. Then, too, if you have given slippers before, just remember that there are yearly models in slippers just as in motor cars—and the 1936 models are not only streamlined and beautiful to behold but they've cornered the market on comfort.

New Styles Are Intriguing
We've hinted there's a lot new in lounging slippers this year. Naturally the stylists haven't been sleeping. Some of the slippers you see in the stores today are more luxurious some, so you can wear them for bridge or about the house and still feel well shod. Some have almost no heels, and then there are high spirited ones of the "mule" type with heels tall enough to satisfy a Cuban Canica dancer.

If you're choosing them for grandmother, you can pick nice easy quilted ones of satin in lovely jewel shades, and trimmed with a conservative but nevertheless gay pompadour. Mother would probably go for a smart pair of D'Orsay's that are so trim and handy to wear around the house at any time. Sister Sue, at college, would revel in a pair of corduroy scarfs, with fluffy cuffs and in such gorgeous shades as sapphire, garnet or emerald. Dad or Grandpop would swell with pride over a pair of velvet lounging slippers, with swanky club stripes to match or contrast with a lounging robe—or a "swelligan" pair of red or brown ones in soft kidskin. Big brother Bill wants something different, so for him consider a pair of beaver velvet sheepskin slippers, one of the newest comfort conceits, or coolie sandals of raffia, or a flexible pair of soft leather ones that fold up and pack away in no space at all in a week-end bag.

As for the tots, you can take your pick from cuddly, fur-lined bunny slippers; sheep's wool moccasins; fluffed booties or a hundred and one other novelties so cute and amusing that the kiddies will want to wear them to bed, too.

METROPOLITAN AT COZY SHOW

Just because music is classical it isn't necessarily good, and by no means taken all popular music is by no means bad.

Those are the contentions of that most colorful of America's concert singers, Lawrence Tibbett, who returns to the talking screen in the 80th Century production, "Metropolitan," coming Friday and Saturday to the Cozy Theatre.

Tibbett, who would like to see the return of some form of democracy to art, and who is one of the most vigorous debunkers of "artistic" singers, says:

"Personally, I'd much rather hear the Duncan sisters or the Boswells harmonizing a good popular tune, than a pair of hams murdering the love duet from 'Tristan and Isolde.'"

"To me art is good art when it produces a worthy emotion, and if you are charmed by Dick Powell or Rudy Vallee, that's okay with me. The only persons I want to see exterminated are those who don't like any kind of music."

"I know," continues Tibbett, "that there is a great deal of so-called classical music that I get no enjoyment from at all, and I'm quite frank in saying so. I think everyone else should have the same privilege."

In "Metropolitan," which was personally produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, Tibbett acts the leading role in a dramatic comedy written about an opera singer's heartaches, thrills, romance, struggle and eventual triumph.

The songs which he sings in the picture cover a wide range, from the classical prologue in "Pagliacci" to the ever popular Tibbett favorite "The Road to Mandalay."

Virginia Bruce, Alice Brady, Cesar Romero, Luis Alberni, and George Marston, Sr., are prominent in the supporting cast of Metropolitan."

GIFTS THAT COULD GO, WITH LOVE, FROM YOU TO YOURSELF

Haven't you ever had the impulse, when you were buying a lot of things to go as gifts to other people, to pick out something to be delivered, wrapped as a gift, and tagged with love, admiration, affection, esteem, enduring respect and unwavering devotion from you to yourself? For instance, laying it on the line for silk pajamas for Uncle Joe or Aunt Jayne or Brother George, the while sleeping in candy-striped cheesecloth yourself! Well, anyway, the impulse is a good test of a gift's worth and we'll confess that we felt it a few times as this store of gifts took shape.

State . National .. Foreign ...

Demanding prevailing wage scales on all WPA projects, a mass meeting of more than 300 Iowa labor and unemployed delegates Monday voted a State-wide strike on WPA projects effective January 2 and authorized the State Labor Federation to represent all groups involved.

The resolution authorizing the strike, which would affect about 26,000 persons if successful, ordered formation of local strike committees and asked all labor unions or support. It specifically provided for "lawful" picketing of all WPA projects.

A fight over whether Communists should be allowed to speak threatened to break up the meeting.

Chairman J. C. Lewis, State Labor Federation president, ruled that Ira R. Meade, who said he represented the Communist Party of Iowa, could not have the floor. Half a dozen of Meade's supporters kept the session in turmoil for fifteen minutes with shouts of "Lewis is a Mussolini" before they left.

Lewis ruled the resolution was adopted after an aye and no vote in which groups supporting Meade tried to out-vote the strike sympathizers. The resolution was adopted by a committee of fifty representatives of trade unions, unemployed groups, Townsend clubs, and "social justice" organizations.

New York, Dec. 15—Calab J. Milne IV, actor and member of a wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphia family, disappeared Saturday from his New York apartment and Monday was reported kidnaped for ransom.

At the Woodstock, N. Y. home of his mother, a woman who said she is an aunt of the youth, asserted he had been kidnaped, that a ransom note had been received, and that Federal agents were working on the case.

The woman declined to give her name, but said she was a sister of Mrs. Frederica Lucy Milne, Caleb's mother. Mrs. Milne, she said, left hurriedly for New York. Department of Justice agents here said merely, "No Comment."

Carnegie, Okla., Dec. 15—Six persons were burned to death today as fire ravaged the four room farm home of George Bailey, thirteen miles west of Carnegie. Two other houses burned severely. Five fled the house safely.

A defective flu, apparently caused the blaze.

Tienstin, Dec. 16—The Japanese-supported autonomous State in East Hanoi province threw its armed forces into action for the first time today, seizing Tangku, strategic port and railway center twenty-seven miles east of here.

Several were reported killed and wounded on both sides in a brief battle between the autonomy forces and the retiring Tangku garrison.

The attackers timed their assault to take place while the Chinese peace preservation Corps, under Gen. Shang Chen, retiring Hanoi Governor, was being transferred southward.

GARRARD COUNTY 4-H CLUB MAKES PROFIT FROM CALF PROJECT

The Garrard County 4-H Club made a profit of $181.71 per member fattening calves in 1935, according to a report made at the club's annual banquet and celebration of winnigs at the fat cattle show at the Bourbon Stock yards in Louisville.

Sixty calves fed by the Garrard county club and exhibited and sold at the Louisville show returned a profit of $3,395. This included cash prizes totaling $758 won at the show.

The best carload from the county which was the grand champion carload of the show, sold for $16 per hundred pounds. The other three carloads brought $12.50, $11.90 and $11.50. The calf owned by Miss James Charlotte Sanders, which was the grand champion single calf, brought $1 per pound.

In addition to the cash prizes offered at the show, "The Central Record," Lancaster newspaper, and

HIGH PRIZE WON BY WORKER AT KENTUCKY EXPERIMENT STATION

International honors again came to Kentucky when Dr. J. S. McHargue, head of research chemistry at the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Kentucky, received the first prize in the $5,000 awards sponsored by the American Society of Agronomy. Dr. McHargue's outstanding work in investigating the importance of iodine, manganese, copper, zinc, nickel and other minor chemical elements in the development of plants and animals won for him this high award and placed him among the outstanding scientists of his time.

It long has been known that nitrogen and potassium are necessary in the soil in sufficient quantities to promote proper plant growth, and that through plants and food these elements are passed along to animals and man. It also had been observed that the tissues of plants and rogen, phosphorus, calcium, magnesium contained small amounts of the minor chemical elements, including iodine, magnesium, copper, zinc and others. Whether soils always supplied these minor elements had just been extensively investigated until the Kentucky Experiment Station's department of research chemistry under the direction of Dr. McHargue began its investigations. This work revealed that some soils are deficient in the minor elements just as they are in the major elements.

Second prize in the awards also went to a native of Kentucky, Dr. James E. McMurtrey, formerly of Burkesville, now a scientist in the United States Department of Agriculture. Both Dr. McHargue and Dr. McMurtrey are graduates of the College of Agriculture.

EXPERIMENT STATION WINS 22 PRIZES AT INTERNAL SHOW

The Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Kentucky, won 22 prizes on 31 head of sheep and cattle at the International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago.

Included in the list were several first prizes and championships and two reserve championships. A cross-bred wether lamb in the Experiment Station's flock was champion of its class and reserve grand champion of the entire sheep show. A reserve grand championship also was won in the sheep carcass class, in competition with 104 entries.

Other awards included first and third on Cheviot wether lambs, first and second on pens of Cheviot wether lambs, first and champion on cross-bred wether lambs, reserve champion Cheviot, second, third and fourth on Cheviot yearling wethers, third and fourth on cross-bred yearling wethers, fifth on Southdown wether lambs and fifth on pen of South wether lambs.

Showing four Aberdeen-Angus steers, the Experiment Station placed third and sixth in the class for steers, weighing between 750 and 875 pounds, 13th on a group of 3 Angus steers and 14th on an Angus steer in the class between 875 and 1,000 pounds.

WHY CAN'T XMAS SHOPPING BE FUN?

By ELSTON REEVES

About this time of the year millions of otherwise happy people feel an attack of "pre-holiday blues" coming over them. It's a sinister epidemic—a most unseasonable indisposition caused by a sudden discovered deflation of the pocketbook, a vast worry over how to spread it over a formidable Christmas list, and a vague premonition of scurrying about, hysteria and disappointment in attempting to please the scores of people that must be pleased at Christmas time.

So take the advice of an experienced Christmas shopper, and relax—do your shopping gracefully, easily. Take time out, and let your head save your feet and your purse—and above all, get some fun out of it!

The Inevitable Budget

Of course the logical way to start with your Christmas shopping is with some sort of budget. You don't have to be a mathematical expert to work the budget plan out successfully either. You can do the whole thing by more or less approximating the amounts you want to spend for the different names on your list. For example, if you have the magnificent sum of a hundred dollars to spend on Christmas gifts and twenty people to buy presents for, you just figure roughly that you can spend around five dollars on each one.

It's a good idea to keep the budget elastic, and here's the way to go about it. For instance if you find a perfect "dab" of a handbag at $3.95 for Aunt Hetty, then the savings you've made on this purchase you can add to your gift for Grandma Zender. If Uncle John's red bedroom slippers come only $2.50, you can take the difference and buy a much nicer hostess tray for your mother-in-law. Naturally it is important to get your bargain gifts first, because then you know just how much you have to work with in buying the other gifts. This is not difficult to do if you start your shopping early when the variety offered by the shops is biggest. And while you are looking for bargains watch the ads in the papers faithfully. The best bargains are offered first, and nine times out of ten you will find them in the newspaper advertising.

Little Tots Come First

Now when you go about your Christmas shopping, think first of those to whom Christmas means the most. Naturally, we mean the Kiddies. Take in the toy departments and you're sure to warm up to the good old holiday mood. Every year there are so many new toys introduced that trip through Toyland is always a delightful revelation, even if you get to old your joints squeak like the springs in a hobby horse. Toy manufacturers get their inspiration from practically every where—from the comic strips, the movies, the news of the day, from the radio, the world of sports, etc., etc.—so no matter how many toys a youngster has, you're sure to find something new to bring shouts of glee on Christmas morning.

And the beauty of buying toys to please a youngster is that you don't have to spend a lot of money. Hundreds and hundreds of wonderful toys can be bought for two dollars, one dollar, and even less—and bring a world of fun to little tots who receive them. Of course to pick the toy that's going to be the youngster's favorite is something of an art. Some lucky people have the knack and can buy a toy for two bits that a youngster won't part from even when he goes to bed; but most of us don't possess this subtle perception. However, you can always get good suggestions from the salespersons. They'll tell you the things that like the eyes of the kiddies when they visit the store, and from considerable experience in catering to the whims of young tots, they have a wealth of knowledge that is invaluable as a help in picking something for little four-year old Susie, as well as six year old Jimmie, and any other youngster you want to please at Christmas.

Shopping For "HER" Gift.

Next to the kiddies, the one we really like to delight at Christmas is the "little woman." And it makes no difference whether she is a wife, a mother, or a thoughtful sister or an aunt—she ought to be remembered in some very special way. Since women are home bodies at heart, no matter how modern they are in mind, something with a home appeal is always good. You can make it modern too, if you turn to electricity. There are electrical gifts galore that never fail to thrill womanhood, and while an electric dishwasher may not have the clatter of a milk-coat no housewife would fall to give thanks by the carload upon the prospect of ending that withering, three-times-a-day task of dishwashing. Or take a gift like one of those attractive hostess trays with a "five electric toaster in the center, and trays for relishes and goodies around it. It's a splendid gift that a woman will proudly show to her friends; and she would also prize such things as an electric vacuum coffee maker, a waffle iron, an electric mixer that takes the elbow-grace out of so many kitchen tasks, or an electric iron, refrigerator, or any other electrical household need.

Gifts Modest — But Good.

Or if your gift must be more modest, a woman's heart can be touched by so simple a gift as a nicely decorated bread board and knife, a pair of matching wallbracket flower pots, a sandwich tray, a spun aluminum muffin bowl, a wooden salad set, or some of the interesting new wood-ware that is enjoying such a vogue on smart tables today. By browsing through any hardware or department at this time of the year you can net all kinds of suggestions for gifts that homelodies always welcome.

A Gift of Glamour — Silver

For someone on whom you would like to make a lasting impression you can think of no better suggestion than this: Why not spend your silver for silver? Gifts of silver are gifts enduring; and you can spend as much or as little on them as you please—they will still be impressive. Truly there are a host of modern inspirations in silver, and in the new metals that stimulate silver; so that whether you are moved to choose a whole set of flatware, a bonbon dish, a coffee service, candlesticks or centerpiece bowl, you are sure to find something interesting and rich looking. And when you select silver choose it conservatively as you would any lifetime gift.

Linens Always Acceptable

If you are textile minded you can find a lot of excellent gifts by inspecting the linen counter. Lovely linens for the table are welcomed by any woman who does a lot of entertaining, and you can choose from exquisite banquet cloth, luncheon sets, initialed napkins—or you can turn to elegant bed linens and be sure of pleasing the housewife who prides herself on the niceties of home-making.

Let Us Forget — Music!

Now in conclusion, no matter what manner gifts you are buying, you can't do your Christmas shopping without being reminded of music — for Christmas must, above all, be musical! If your home has a radio that no longer is capable of reaching out and bringing in the plethora of Christmas carols with bell-like clarity, Christmas would be an opportune time to replace it with a 1935 model. The new thoroughbred models are not only vastly superior in every way, including looks, but they are offered at surprisingly economical prices. As a matter of fact, green room music-connections are a result of radio. If you doubt it witness the tremendous increase in amateur night progress. So for the benefit of those relatives and friends who have talent alone must-keep them that some day (you never know when) may turn in to radio popularity consider musical gifts on your list also.

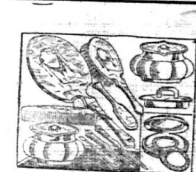

Toy Novelties Galore.

Just a word about some of the newer toy novelties on the market. Many of the newer toys imitate the playthings of oldsters. For example, steamboat electric trains become increasingly popular now that the streamliners are running all over the country. The corner grocery store, in toy size, is more elaborate and complete than ever. There are racing sets that make all manner of things in motion, and there are new chemistry sets that perform marvelous chemical phenomena (on a safe scale, of course). Then there are hammer and nail sets that provide an ideal outlet for a child's pounding instincts. And the G-Men and Buck Rogers have brought on all manner of toy cars from the sub-machine gun that emit sparks to spectacular ray guns, not to mention the conventional cowboy revolvers and Indian bow and arrows. Marionette theatres, real electric dances, modern doll houses, knockabout baby carriage and games by the score attract the interest of little girls who are writing Santa what they want for Christmas.

By W. E. CRUTCHER

The action of the Campus Club at the Morehead State Teachers College and the ensuing developments that grew out of their resolutions denouncing the Morehead athletic programme, has been a topic of controversy and conversation on every corner and in every place where such things are aired out through public opinion. At the same time there are perhaps a quarter-million other Kentuckians that have read and discussed the Morehead situation and the criticism that has been directed at the department of athletics.

It has certainly not been a help to the college for many things that were not counted on have been brought in, and, in a manner, aired out.

There is perhaps no finer gentleman on the staff of the Morehead State Teachers College than G. D. Downing, the man we assumed was the principle target that the criticism has been directed at. A man of high character—integrity that is above reproach. Dewey Downing is well-liked not only by his hundreds of friends here, but by thousands throughout the state of Kentucky. His personality is frank and honest—his morals are clean.

No matter how much you may be prejudiced one way or another, it must be admitted that the Morehead State Teachers College has not had a football team such as we should all like to have—and in reality should have. Morehead is an institution founded, based and supported on the same principles as Eastern, Western and Murray. The athletic set-up in these four institutions should be about the same. Yet, Morehead in football is the "weak sister" of the same. Coach Downing has had ample time to produce a winning football team. We do not doubt but that he has failed to receive the co-operation of the faculty, the administration and the student body. We do not believe he ever will. We know that the team did not keep training. We know that they were suffering from some sort of poisoning before the Eastern game. We know that a large number of the men counted on for this year's team did not return to school. All this is true, and it could be that the criticism at Coach Downing is unjust. However, the other three State Teachers Colleges, no doubt, face the same situation as does Morehead. They have overcome them. Why can't we?

All of this is not said in defense of the Morehead coach nor support of the Campus Club. It might be also added that Mr. Downing has enjoyed success with his basketball team. The record is down in black and white, and it will show that Morehead record on the hardwood is as good as that at any college in Kentucky, considering the short time that the Eagles have had a basketball team, and the many unfavorable handicaps. There is no one who can truthfully and conscientiously say that Mr. Downing has not produced in basketball. He has won no state championships, but he has been close to copying them on two occasions.

The same may be said of baseball. Mr. Downing has produced perhaps the best diamond teams in Kentucky. He is to be commended on the performance of the squads he has coached in these two sports.

However, the Campus Club did not direct their criticism at Mr. Downing's record in these two sports. It is well that they did not.

In expressing the following solution to this unwanted situation, we feel that we are expressing the opinion of fully 90 per cent of the student body, the faculty and the supporters of Morehead athletics. We would propose that the Board of Regents:

- (1) Make G. D. Downing athletic director and head basketball and baseball coach at the college, allowing him ample authority.
- (3) Allow ample funds and workshops for building up the athletics program.
- (4) Employ an advertising manager that can put Morehead sports, as well as other phases of the college, on the map of Kentucky. In other words, put the college daily and weekly before the reading eyes of Kentuckians.
- (5) Retain the present Freshman Coach.

To be sure, all this will result in a greater expense, but it will be worth it to Morehead College in the long run, if they have to curtail costs in other departments to do it.

This may not be a logical solution to the difficulty, but we believe it is. It is not a compromise between the two "warring factions," but rather a concession to the present critics, for even the most radical of them admit that Dewey Downing is too high type of a man and a gentleman to lose, but at the same time, is not in a position to give Morehead winners on the gridiron. Those who have brought the criticism, in many instances admire Coach Downing as much as any of his friends.

Court Prospects At U. K. "Not So Good"

With the opening game out of the basketball team is preparing to enter the hardest and most important of its history, meeting such powerful teams as New York University, Pittsburgh, Notre Dame, Michigan, State and Butler, besides the leading fives of the south.

Because the Wildcats were hard hit by graduation and the failure of an All-American center, Leroy Ed. outstanding candidates are Ralph wards, to return to school, Coach Adolph Rupp does not expect his 1935-'36 team to be as strong as in previous years, although he still believes that his boys will give good account of themselves and win a majority of their games. The team this winter is being built around three veterans; Capt. Millard Anderson and Warfield Donohue, guards and Garland Lewis, lanky center. Both regular forwards were graduated and the youngsters are fighting it out for these places. The outstanding candidates are Ralph

Carlisle, Joe Hagan and Rice Walker. All are big boys and plenty able to take care of themselves. The Kentucky team last year made an enviable record under Coach Rupp who is entering his sixth season at Kentucky. The 1934-'35 Wildcats won 18 games and lost only two. The teams which beat Kentucky last year, New York University and Michigan State are again on the schedule this year and Coach Rupp's boys hope to gain revenge.

Morehead Defeats Holbrook 34 To 16

Eaglets Lose Close Battle To Kentucky Fresh

The Morehead College Eagles looked impressive in their opening basketball game, brushing past Alfred Holbrook of Manchester, Ohio, 34-16. Morehead did not attempt to run up a high score, being content to play a slow defensive game after turning up a sizeable lead. Lawrence Carter, sophomore from Harlan, tallied eleven of Morehead's fifteen points in the first half, and added four the short time he played the last half, to grab scoring honors. Parsley also played well for Morehead. Ryan, regular forward, was out with an injured arm, but should be in shape before the opening of the S. I. A. A. campaign in January.

The University of Kentucky freshmen ran up a 9-1 lead the first five minutes and protected it to win from Morehead freshmen 25-19 in the preliminary. The Eagles had the most fans but couldn't cash their opportunities. Smith, Hazel Green boy surprised everyone with a great display of rebounding and defense.

CAMPUS CLUB ASKS PROBE OF ATHLETIC DEPT.

A complete and thorough investigation in the athletic department of the Morehead State Teachers College was requested here Saturday by the Campus Club, a student organization composed partly of athletes, after they made charges in a resolution denouncing the present system.

A called meeting of the club was held Saturday afternoon at the college, at which the passing of the resolution was the only business. After the charges against the athletic department had been set out, the resolution read: "The Campus Club of this institution, in an earnest effort to secure for Morehead as good athletic programs as possible hereby go on record as respectfully asking the board of regents to make a complete and thorough investigation of the athletic situation at the Morehead State Teachers College."

Another portion of the resolution read: "We, hold the freshmen coaching staff in the highest esteem and feel that the portion of the athletic department is successfully conducted. The seven different clauses in the resolution set out:

- (1) Under the present management of athletics at Morehead College the sports at the institution have a record that is as poor, or poorer, than any college in the State and shouldn't cash their opportunities.
- (2) The athletic department has made no steps toward advancement of sports.
- (3) The Morehead football team scored but one victory, that over a minor foe, during the past season.
- (4) In athletic circles, all over the state, Morehead is known as the "weakest sister" when it ought to be among the strongest.
- (5) There is available material for a winning football team that could be obtained, but apparently what effort there is to secure competent and capable players is wasted by failure to keep them at Morehead for varsity material.
- (6) Morehead has never won a football game from a member of the S. I. A. A. Conference.
- (7) The members of this club disapprove of the fact that in many instances in years past the awarding

Bill Thompson, president of the club, and a member of last year's football squad, said that the secretary had been ordered to mail copies of the resolution to the members of the board of regents, to President H. A. Balb, Dean W. H. Vaughan, Varsity Coach G. D. Downing and Prof. E. D. Judd, chairman of the athletic council. A number of football letter-men were present at the meeting. The forward of the resolution stated that it had been unanimously adopted.

Soot water is excellent for plants. Put soot taken from chimneys, furnaces and stoves into a bag and suspend bag in a pail of water. Let stand for a week before using.

There is nothing like a beautiful piece of red lacquer to give the most color that lings a room from its state of former drabness. It may be a magazine rack or a coffee table. But the lacquered pieces we have in mind are exquisitely done with a finish as smooth and suave as an eggshell. The designs in gold are fine and delicate and the appearance of these exceptionally lovely pieces is quite different from the average lacquered furniture.

If the mixture has been made too stiff do not add more milk to it. Beat an egg and add gradually until mixture is of desired thickness.

To prevent shoulder straps slipping off, cut a piece of tape long enough to hold straps. Sew one end of tape to inside of dress on shoulder seams. Then sew one-half of strap faster on shoulder seam and the other on the loose end of the tape.

Grease spots may be removed from tan shoes with gasoline. Wet sponge with gasoline (keep away from fire), rub over spots, dry and polish.

To remove glass stoppers from bottles, take a piece of twine, double and put it around neck of bottle twice. Have someone hold bottle, then take ends of twine, one in each hand, and work back and forth until neck of bottle becomes warm. Stopper can then be removed.

Custard pies should be baked in a hot oven for the first ten minutes. The crust will then be set and filling will not sink through crust. Reduce heat after first ten minutes so that filling will not boil.

Something quite different in the way of ash trays are charming little oak leaves made of hammered silver and beside being extremely useful they have the added virtue of being in keeping with your table silver. So many ash trays look out of place if you want to put them on the table.

If cake is to be baked a long time it is wise to line the bottom of pan with oil paper.

WESTERN town which was her home. How he had laughed at her rebellion at being a school teacher, and how indignantly he had hated she might not always be one!

Oh, he knew what to say—knew much better than Billie Sparks, the soda counter clerk, or even Howard Fuller, the acknowledged boss of the town. In fact he made both of them seem quite commonplace—even Hortie. Fancy it!

Apparently he had been almost everywhere—except in Alton City. Old he should never have been there when he had visited just about every other corner, both of America and Europe. Not that he had deliberately said so. It was while trying to find out where his home was that she had stumbled upon the information.

And came to think of it, she did not know now where he lived, she suddenly remembered. She actually did not know whether he had a father or a mother; a brother or a sister.

So occupied was she with her thoughts she had not thought once of Prince Hal. In fact, she had supposed that he had gone up the beach with Marcia. Now she suddenly became aware that he stood staring across the beach, searching at its surface as if he sensed something beneath.

"Not at all. I just thought perhaps you'd rather."

Marcia shook her head. "I want to sit in Newbury and see if it doesn't catch," she explained, avoiding the girl's eyes. "We are too hungry to risk having our dinner spoiled. You might just wait and eat the chop for Mr. Heath and fix his spoon. Find out, too, if there is anything more he wants. You needn't hurry back. I'll keep things waiting for you."

The task suggested did not, apparently, displease Sylvia. "Here goes Red Ridinghood," she murmured, taking up the tray. "All in the name of heaven, you'll know the wolf has eaten me."

In spite of herself, Marcia smiled. She opened the door and stood watching the girl disappear down the stairs for the hall was unlighted and the tray heavy. "I'm safe," called a merry voice from the bottom of the stairs.

Marcia came back into the kitchen. She finished preparing the lobster, straightened the silver on the table, and to Prince Hal. Ten minutes passed. Fifteen! Half an hour went by.

She sighed and stooped to pat the setter. The fog was lifting. By afternoon the weather would be fine—just the right sort to get the boat off. He would be home late with the men while they worked. The house was close. She longed for air and the big beaches of the out-of-doors.

Sylvia returned with the tray. Her eyes were shining. "He ate every bit of it," cried. "You should have seen Marcia! It would have done your heart good. The poor lamb was almost starved. He asked for you the first thing. I don't like her altogether. She's just carrying up the tray, although of course, he was too polite to say so."

"You explained I was busy?" "Yes. But at first he didn't seem to care. He came to the beach and became shy as a lamb. Did you hear us laughing? The potato would fall off the fork. It's not as good a nurse as you. My hands weren't so steady. I'm going back again for his wet clothes. We can dry them here by the fire, can't we?"

"Yes, indeed." "It's a pity there isn't a tailor at hand. His suit ought to be pressed," said Sylvia. "Morgan was so kind with eagerness. 'I'm quite used to presiding men's clothes. I always pressed Jason's.' This time the name dropped unthought from her lips. Indeed she was not conscious she had uttered it. She was not thinking of Jason.

Sylvia was glad Heath was steeply-very glad indeed. She did not begrudge him his moment of his stumber. But what a deepening came into her eyes when she saw him with eyes wide as a child. His eyes were wonderful—so dark and penetrating. They bored right through you. And then he blushed with such eagerness, watching the treacherous sun, as if he were afraid to lose a word. Such attention was distinctly flattering. Even though your chatter was trivial, he dignified it and transformed it into something of importance.

"A robber—that was what he was! A robber—a bandit, such as one saw in the movies!"

"That explained why he was so well-dressed," said Hortie. "He must have been in a fascinating manner. He was a gentleman burglar."

All up-to-date villains in these days were gentlemen. Not that she had ever encountered a villain in the flesh. Still, she had read romances about them and was there not one in every two who was a gentleman? They were not difficult to recognize.

It was exhilarating—wonderful! A thief in the room overhead! Think of it! Very things! Whether just the police in the countryside were searching! He was no small, cheap type of criminal. He did things on a big scale and, moreover, he was a gentleman! He had been broadcast about him and so doubt at this instant detectives and crime inspectors were chasing up and down Washington, dealing through cities, and keeping telephone wires hot in wild search for the gentleman asleep upstairs!

Why, that very morning had not Elisha, the Wilton sheriff, who had had frankly admitted he yearned for excitement, helped undress the wretch and put him comfortably to bed? The man in the situation almost overcame her.

It seemed as if she must have someone to share the joke. But no one should share it, she thought. The wiser because of her. The poor, hunted fellow should have his chance.

It was a little venturesome and risky, she thought, but she should at least be found out she would, without doubt, be clapped into jail. Still she resolved to take a chance.

She was just about to give up when she had known Stanley Heath to be what he was? Nobody. She would not even let her suspect it.

The important thing was to await an opportunity. She would be able to do about—return the handkerchief she held in her hand to its place beneath the brick. Then all would be over. There would be no more of the kind—this was Alton City—it had been fully—daily.

But Wilton was not dull. In spite of the fact that only this morning Elisha, Wilton's sheriff, who had been a part of a stirring up, it seemed with electricity. If she chose, she could hurt a bomb-shell into its midst in very minute time. But she did not choose to.

Instead she intended to play her own quiet game and keep what she knew to herself. She wondered why. Perhaps she was afraid of the big adventures. Yes, that must be it. She was in love with him—in love with a bandit!

Sylvia's imagination had traveled so swiftly and so far that it came to earth with a crash when Marcia opened the door.

"You're not along the buffetting of the salt breeze nor the exhilaration of walking against it that had transformed her into something radiantly lovely. From within glowed a strange fire that made her another creature altogether.

"Why—why—Marcia!" breathed Sylvia, bewildered. "You look like a glorious war-dog," cried Marcia. "The fog has lifted and the sky is a sheet of amethyst and gold."

"Yes. She is floating tranquilly as a dove." "What is her name?" "She has a name. I don't know it." "Mercy on us! That ought to satisfy even Elisha."

"It did," said Marcia.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for December 22 MALACHI FORETELLS A NEW DAY

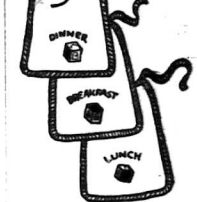

LESSON TEXT—Malachi 1:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me. Malachi 3:1. PRIMA TOPIC—God's Best Promise. Casua TOPIC—God's Best Promise. JUNIOR TOPIC—How God Sent His Best Promise. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Bringing in a Better Day. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Preparing the Way of the Lord.

(The lesson committee has provided as an alternative a Christmas lesson, using the text, Matthew 2:1-12.) The subject of today's lesson is broader than the printed text. In order effectively to teach this lesson, the entire book of Malachi should be studied. The prophet pointed out the sins of the corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages, and failure to pay tithes, with the portrayal of the coming judgment as a glorious new day with Christ reigning in his glorious kingdom.

1. The Base Ingratitude of Israel (1:1-5). a. God approached them with the tender affirmation, "I have loved thee. It was the burden of the prophet to declare this fact unto them (v. 2). It was the burden of the prophet that they failed to discern God's good hand upon them. Israel's attitude toward God is shown in the skeptical question, "How needs hast thou loved us?" (v. 2). Malachi answers this question by showing God's choice of Jacob and his passing by of Esau, his destruction of the golden calves, his saving of Israel. b. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17; 3:7-15). 1. Against the priests (1:6-9). 2. Against the people (1:10-14). c. Profanely (1:6). Their profanity consisted in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. The name of God is not an usual way to be thus guilty. d. Sacrilege (1:7-9). Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and drink before the altar. e. Greed (1:10). They were not willing even to open the doors of God's house without pay. Service to God should be out of a heart of love for him. f. Weariness (1:12-13). Because of the absence of love, the routine of priestly duties became tiresome. g. Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-9). Those not apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and love will not unmercifully demand an accounting. 2. Against the people (2:16-17; 3:7-15). a. For ungodly marriages (2:11, 12). God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that he might raise up a holy seed (v. 15). Marriage was the best method of transmitting the purpose. Marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside his purpose. b. Divorce (2:13-16). Divorce in Israel was the source of great sorrow. Even the tears of the wronged women were the tears of the Lord (v. 13). The sabbages of the man who had thus treated his wife would be an abomination to God. c. Public wrongs (3:5, 6). (1) Sorcery or magical arts. This includes the practice of occult sciences, such as spiritism, necromancy, fortune telling, etc. (2) Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than the direct parties concerned. It is a cancer which gnaws in the very heart of society. It fails to regard the marriage relation should be regarded as a public sin. Such sinners should be ostracized from society. (3) False swearing. (4) Oppression of the hireling, the widow, and the fatherless. (5) Turning aside the stranger from his rights. d. Withholding tithes from God (3:7-12). Failure to pay tithes is robbery of God. His claim upon Israel was a tenth, plus free will offerings. Our responsibility is to give as God prospers us (I Cor. 16:1).

Fairy Story Is Told on Danish Postage Stamps

A fairy story from the post office is very unusual, but the Danish post office is sending them out in millions. It is a hundred years since Hans Anderson was born, and running through the leaves in the books of stamps that bear his picture is the "famous" story of the little girl who sold matches and struck the last three or four she had to try to keep warm before she died.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Elimination of Body Waste is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is doubly important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without gripping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milsinna Wafers

These little, round, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal in full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Cleared thoroughly, they soothe, they correct acidity in the stomach, they regulate the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milsinna Wafers come in bottles of 250 and 450. 250 and 450, respectively, are in convenient time for your handling containing 15 and 30 capsules, respectively. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Start with these delicate, effective Milsinna Wafers in your bathroom. Professional samples sent free to registered physicians or dentists if request is made on professional letterhead. Send Postcard, No. 44931 (2-5-39), to: Milsinna Wafers, Inc., 4405 17th St., New York 18, N. Y.

Mr. Thomas' contest has not set well with Rowan countians. The sentiment in Bath county is more evenly divided. Mr. Thomas probably had good assurance he would win the contest in the House of Representatives before he contested. The majority of the proof so far, however, rests in Jennings favor.

CITY COUNCIL: Mr. John Calvert, new member of the City Council, the only man that could break through the old council's ticket, although the race was exceptionally close, takes his seat at the first meeting in January.

Mr. Calvert has always been a staunch supporter of any method that would keep business at home instead of letting it go out of Morehead. He should be especially interested, for, like many of the rest of us, he is affected and is the victim of outside peddlers. It will be interesting to note if Mr. Calvert proposes any remedy. An occupational tax has been suggested, among other things.

athletic program partly because the players did not have the right attitude and had not kept training.

"The team just couldn't take it," declared Head Coach and Athletic Director G. D. Downing in the opening remarks of his address. Saying that he had been the target of considerable criticism. Downing stated that the entire story had not been told "In 15 years of coaching experience the last football season has been the most nerve-racking in my career," he declared.

Downing said that the majority of the team could neither block nor tackle and when he attempted to give them intensive drills in blocking or tackling, six or seven of them reported the next day with injuries. He is not criticizing the team, for in many cases they did the best they could. He pointed out, however, that many members of the team had broken training during the season.

The Morehead athletic director said that the team was in no condition to play at any time during the season. The humiliating defeat we suffered at the hands of Eastern was beyond the team's or my control. The day before the game, 17 men were poisoned at the evening meal, and they could barely move during the second half." Downing said the only reason the game was played was that a large crowd of homecomers were already here, and he did not wish to cash reflections on anyone by calling it off.

"I'll tell you another of the reasons we had such a poor team," he said. "Out of an ordinary 1924 varsity and a good freshmen team, 24 of the boys that we had counted on being available this year did not return to school."

Downing said he had no complaint to make of either the faculty or athletic committee. "The athletic committee gave me practically everything I asked for," he said.

Concluding his remarks he said that what Morehead needed is more good material, and a better mental spirit.
