BOY INSTALLS WATER PLANT IN FARM HOME

A demonstration of an inexpensive and yet efficient home-made water system for a farm home recently came to the attention of Earl G. Welch extension agricultural engineer for the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky.

At a cost of less than $300, Joe Rhodes, Jr. installed with his own hands a pressure tank system operated by a gasoline engine on his father's farm in Meade county. The engine operates a suction pump taking water from a cistern and pond to the house.

The water is carried about 140 yards and raised 17 feet into a pneumatic tank in a pit beneath a small house holding the gasoline engine. As the cistern does not always provide a sufficient supply, water is taken from a pond after rains and stored in the cistern where it is always available for forcing into the pressure tank.

The Rhodes farm home is thus supplied with running water for use at the kitchen sink for laundering purposes and for a bath room.

Mr. Welch considers it within the realm of thousands of farmers to place similar home-made water systems in their homes during the winter months of "slack" farm work. County agents and the college are always ready to furnish plans for water systems and other farm home conveniences.

CO-OPERATION IN THE OIL INDUSTRY
The Governor of California, thru a newly appointed committee to consider ways and means to utilize the natural gas resources of that state, will cooperate with the oil interests to the end that waste of this valuable product may be eliminated or reduced to a minimum.

Leaders of the oil industry have been sincerely interested in anything in the line of proper conservation and have made earnest attempts to control production and curtail wastage of this product. The problem has been difficult because often, where tremendous amounts of gas are produced, there is no market.

The same subject, namely, the conservation of natural gas, has just been considered at Ponca City, Oklahoma, by the Scientists' Group of the Conservation Committee of the American Petroleum Institute. A report on the subject will be made later to the Institute.

The fact that the oil industry and public officials are co-operating in a harmonious manner to secure a practical solution of this difficult problem is an example of industrial progress and government fair dealing which is encouraging from both a business and a sound economic standpoint.

Small perisopes, similar to those used in the trenches during the war, have been adopted by the Los Angeles police in a campaign against automobile speeders who persist in exceeding the limits while driving through tunnels in the downtown district, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Concealed the police can check the speed of the car through the instrument and pursue it if necessary.

HALDEMAN NEWS ITEMS

We are very sorry to report the death of Erna James, which occurred here Saturday last week. Mr. James was taken ill on Wednesday and his condition rapidly grew worse until Saturday, when he passed into that Great Beyond. As yet we have no definite information as to the direct cause. Our deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives. Mrs. Russel Becker has been confined to her room for the past few days with a severe cold, however, we are glad to know she is recovering nicely and is able to be out again.

Messrs. E. S. Gregory and J. Ervin Bradford were in Owingville Monday evening on business. Misses Mayme Meyers and Sallie Cogswell spent last week-end with home folks near Fallow.

Mrs. James E. Leifow was in Morehead Monday morning. The Glee Club held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the P. Haldeaman building. Several important matters were introduced for discussion. Last week one new member was admitted. Mrs. Fred Early was and feel sure she will assist greatly in the work the Club is doing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Gregory and little son, Billie, were to visit home folks at Owingville Sunday.

Mr. William Harris was compelled to go to Ashland Tuesday for treatment of an eye. Mr. Harris was inured recently while in the employ of the Kentucky Fire Brick Co. Mr. Duell Harris is off duty this week on account of an injury received while working for the Zipp-Beckmeyer Construction Company here.

The Missionary Baptist church had a very delightful luncheon on Thursday evening in honor of the officials of the Kentucky Fire Brick Company and their families.

Mr. & B. Zipp, of Huntington, was here Tuesday.

Mr. Jack Wilson of Morehead was in our midst Monday.

Mrs. James E. Leifow, Mrs. D. B. Leadbetter, Mrs. Dewey Meyers and Miss Margaret Leifow were shopping in Ashland Tuesday.

SAYS SUBSCRIBERS "OWN" THE PAPER

William Southern, Jr. of the Independence (Mo.) Examiner, in an address before Kansas editors meeting at the University of Kansas for their annual Round Table Conference, recently said: "The editor must realize that the subscribers 'own' the paper. Each subscriber is a stockholder. The subscriber is entitled to a square deal and he is not getting it when the paper is run for the benefit of politicians."

Some other high points from Mr. Southern's talk follow: "No newspaper man should ever hold public office, either elective or appointive. The office of postmaster has ruined many a good newspaper. No editor should have a side issue. Employees in my office must give their time and their thought to the paper."

"I believe that public printing should be accepted at exactly the same price as other forms of advertising. I believe that public, political printing is often used to control support, as a reward for support, and that such amounts to paying for political support out of public funds. A paper that cannot make money out of legitimate business has no excuse for living."

"I used to think that a newspaper should publish all the news and suppress nothing. I have changed my mind. If an item of news will not do any public good, tends to hurt any one, brings tears to the eyes of another, or starts a boy downward, I suppress it. I have no rule. I do as I please about it."

"The 'free newspaper' is a menace and deserves no support. I believe in editorials. I run an editorial newspaper. I do not expect people to agree with me always and do not want them to. I change my mind and policy when I want to."

"If I ever print a single issue of my paper with which I am completely satisfied I am going to quit the newspaper business right then."

CALL UPON WOMEN TO SOLVE PARADOX OF DISARMAMENT

Talk of disarmament has become an utter paradox and since diplomats have failed America's women are called upon to help solve the perplexing situation that has arisen from the recent failures of conferences in an article in the Woman's Home Companion for November.

"No sooner had the armaments conference at Geneva made its dismal failure than announcement was made that our country is completing a ship which is capable of equal-single handed with any battle fleet afloat on the seas," says the article. "The Lexington will carry one hundred and six airplanes. She will cost $45,000,000 and will have the largest crew on any ship afloat."

"The absurdity of all this talk about disarmament is emphasized by the fact that this ship was first planned as a battle cruiser. But when the Washington conference of 1921 'put down' the naval program she was simply changed to an airplane carrier."

"We have made no progress toward disarmament. We may have made progress toward new and greater wars. A wise German observer has said boldly that the date when the inevitableness of the new world war was definitely established, was when it was conclusively demonstrated that international disarmament is no question of practical politics for the human race at its present stage."

A Fascist paper in Italy is more cynical. We live in a blessed epoch. Cruisers are laid down and ships of the line launched, but what does this matter if the cycle of disarmament conferences is perfect? Thus historians will be able to say, for example, that between the seventh disarmament conference a universal conflagration broke out which kept the continents a war until the fifteenth conference."

SUGGESTS SELLING ONLY FAT TURKEYS

Only well-finished birds should be placed on the Thanksgiving market because poor birds usually will bring more when fattened and sold later, suggests the department of markets of the Kentucky Experiment Station.

Sometimes producers feel that there is little demand for turkeys except at Thanksgiving time. During the last 15 years the price of turkeys on farms in the United States has averaged nearly 1 1/2 cents per pound higher in December than in November. The January price has averaged about a cent higher than the November price. In 10 years out of the 15, the December price has been 1 cent or more above the November price and in eight years the January price has been 1 cent above the November price.

The 1927 turkey crop in the United States is about 5 per cent smaller than last year, and that of Kentucky is about 8 per cent less than in 1926. Fall weather has been favorable to turkeys and has

KENTUCKY POWER COMPANY

"Electricity-----

The Tireless Servant of America's Prosperity!"

Says Lewis E. Pierson, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce:

"Many factors have contributed to the pre-eminent position of America's workers, but underlying everything else has been the fact that the American wage earner has had more horse power at his elbow than the worker of any other industrial nation."

While the rest of the world wrestles with unrest and industrial strife, capital and labor in America work shoulder to shoulder on a basis that has resulted in higher standards of living than those enjoyed by any other people. The most highly developed system of electric power equipment and facilities in the world has helped make this condition of affairs possible.

Because of the engineering skill and organizing ability which have gone into the expansion of America's power plants, there is available to American industry today more electrical energy than is produced in all the rest of the world combined.

Nearly a million miles of transmission and distribution lines supply American industry with more than thirty million horse power. Expressed in terms of man power, this is equivalent to the potential service of 40 helpers for every worker in this country.

Increasing, as it does, the production capacity of the worker by forty fold, this great industrial force has improved the financial status of American labor approximately thirty per cent in the last fifteen years, while at the same time, materially decreasing the cost of manufactured articles.

In the light of such achievement, it is obvious that the interests of American business and American family life will be served best by the careful preservation of the principle of individual initiative by which such accomplishments have been made possible.

The complete text of Mr. Pierson's address will be furnished upon request.

SANDY HOOK NEWS

(Too late for last week)
The wind and rain on election day must have intimidated the Democrats from the landslide the Republicans got in good old Elliott which has always been Democratic by a large majority. ### ROAD COURTESY

Although the spark of "Road Courtesy" may lately seem to have been entirely extinguished, it begins to look as though all it needed was a little coaxing in the form of a reminder. The increasing number of cars and trucks displaying the little blue and white notice which reads: "This Driver Will Meet All Other Gentlemen Half Way On Any Traffic Situation," is ample proof that the motoring public as a whole is at heart not only willing, but eager to follow a co-operative suggestion.

Inquiry reveals that the little summed strips referred to above, can be had gratis by addressing the Advertising Department of Mack Trucks, Inc., 252 West 44th St., New York City. An official of the company informs us that the "Gentlemen's Agreement" idea has met with an almost startling response from the motoring public. The company promises however, to keep up with the demand by supplying them in any reasonable amount.

A WONDERFUL RECORD

During the first six months of 1927, the American railroads killed only two passengers; last year there were 22 fatalities, and 1915 had 52. The number injured is far larger, of course, counting every injury from torn trousers to broken bones; but even all these totaled only 774.

The use of all-steel cars, better safety signals, the best rail and wheel equipment that science can devise, all contribute to traveling safety. The railroads today are better and safer than ever before in history.

Those interested in the political complexion of the next General Assembly apparently may accurately jot it down that the Democrats will hold a safe majority in the House as well as in the Senate. While reports were not conclusive as to all legislative districts when this item was written, there seems no reasonable doubt that the House will be in command, by a somewhat reduced majority, of the same political party holding control the last session, indicating, of course, a speaker of that political faith. Unlike recent Legislatures, the one beginning business next January will be a strictly stag affair, neither the festivities of November 8. The primary classes in both houses will be abnormally large when the gavel falls.
