

C. E. BISHOP DRUG STORE IS AGAIN VISITED BY BURGLARS TUESDAY NIGHT, WHO MAKE GOODY HAUL

For Third Time Within Last Few Months Store Is Entered; Burglars Get Away With About $500 in Merchandise; Burglars Believed To Be Local Talent; Clearfield Supply Company Also Robbed

They say the third time is the charm, which is probably the reason burglars at the C. E. Bishop drug store on Tuesday night, got away with merchandise valued at approximately $500 as nearly as it could be estimated. It is the third time within recent months that the Bishop store has been entered, each time by the same method as this time and once by the hold-up who was sentenced to the penitentiary at the last term of court.

The burglars this time were highly successful from their viewpoint. And, judging from the systematic manner in which they went about their work they knew exactly what they were after, where it was kept and when to get it. Every fountain pen in the store was taken together with a number of valuable pipes and other material. Included in the haul were a number of packages of razor blades, a razor stropper, some fishing tackle and a number of minor articles. The fountain pens were valued at approximately $300.

The burglar or burglars were evidently preparing for the future, as they included in their booty three dozen pairs of rubber gloves which were no known to us outside of a rental or kitchen, except that of a thief from leaving fingerprints.

Entrance was made through the back door. Following the previous burglary, when the panel of the door had been broken, a new door together with a new lock had been put in. The old lock had been used as an additional protection. In the Tuesday night robbery, the lock had apparently been broken with a key and the bolt which was held by a thin piece of wood had been forced open. The wood around the bolt indicated that this method had been used, as it was torn away.

There seems to be very little doubt now that the series of robberies that have aroused Morehead people during the past few months has been the work of a local gang. It is evident that none but local talent could so thoroughly familiarize themselves with the arrangement of the stores which have been robbed. For example, the ones who robbed the Batson Drug store a few months ago was unquestionably entirely familiar with both the arrangement of the store and the location of the money. Likewise, the ones who entered and robbed the J. A. Bays Jewelry store which has been fairly well protected. And in the case of the Bishop store they must have had certain knowledge, such as could only be obtained by being around and observing closely.

Morehead seems to have become a center for activities of this sort. During the past weeks, six box cars on the C and O. have been broken open and robbed of merchandise varying in value from $100 to $150 each time. All efforts to apprehend the burglars have failed. Apparently officials are up against someone who is not merely breaking in and robbing, but one who is mixing a bit of brains in his work, as witness the including of rubber gloves in the haul Tuesday night.

According to reports from the houses at the Clearfield Supply Co. in Clearfield was also broken into on Tuesday night, and a quantity of flour, coffee and other groceries taken.

Summing the robberies of the past few months up, Morehead merchants and business men have lost since they started, approximately $600 by the robbery route, a sum that none of them are prepared to donate to that particular kind of charity. Someone is evidently making a soft living at the expense of the local merchants. It is hoped that before long, some definite clue will be found that will aid in bringing the thieves to justice.

Cisco Kid Is Cozy Feature

Penty of action, a wealth of romance, a fast moving story with a surprise ending, and gorgeous photography all feature "The Cisco Kid" Fox drama opening at the Cozy Theatre with Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe in the colorful roles of a reckless border bandit and a cavalry sergeant on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

With Conchita Montenegro as the dark charmer who attracts both men but cares only for one of them, and Norma Lane as the pioneer widow for whom Baxter risks his freedom, the feminine lead of the picture is amply provided for.

Lowe, hearing that his enemy is operating north of the border, starts after him. The chase leads to Carizma, where Baxter is making violent love to Miss Montenegro, much to the annoyance of the sergeant.

Baxter gets away, with Lowe's bullet in his shoulder, and rides to Miss Lane's ranch where it is nursed back to health. Lowe tries to have Miss Montenegro betray Baxter, but she scornfully refuses, and the sergeant trails his enemy to the ranch, only to find him gone on a mysterious mission. This mission involves a hold-up on another to get money to keep Miss Lane from losing the ranch and Lowe follows him only to be involved in a shooting affray in which Miss Montenegro pretends to be wounded.

Baxter escapes, however, and gives Miss Lane the money. Lowe hot on his trail, comes to the ranch but the bandit is about to escape again when an unforeseen accident occurs which changes the whole train of events and provides an unusual climax.

The exterior scenes were made on the exact locale of the story, near Tucson Arizona, and the supporting cast includes Charlie Stevens, James Bradbury Jr., Willard Robertson, Chris Martin, Fredrick Burt, Jack Dillon, Douglas Haig and Marilyn Knowlden Irving Cummings directed from Alfrey Cohn's story based on O. Henry's picturesque characters.

Commencement Last Friday Nite

Dean Wm. H. Vaughan of the Morehead State Teachers College, delivered an inspiring address to the largest graduating class ever to complete the course at the Morehead High School last Friday night. Dean Vaughn was introduced by Mrs. Lyda Messer Caudill, County Superintendent. Dean Vaughn took a quotation from Emerson as the topic of his discourse and delighted his audience with his simple clear-cut statements.

Following a selection by the band W. W. Jayne, principal of the High school presented the seniors with their diplomas. The following received diplomas: Margurite Wheeler, Luther Jayne, Mildred Caudill, Ralph Cassity, Grace Evans, Clay Trumbo, Audrey Hall, Bertha Hall, Fred Caudill, Eileen Sidney Evans, Marie Thomas, June Evans, Enna McDaniel, Charles Adams, Nelle Cassity, Clara Caudill, Mrs. Grace Cooper Clark, Mrs. Nelle Caudill Corwell, Lawrence Johnson and Carl Barber.

Miss Marie Thomas was class valedictorian while Miss Edna McDaniel was salutatorian.

Eighth grade diplomas were presented to a large eighth grade graduating class.

Expenses For Summer School Are Low

It will cost approximately $49 to make seven hours credit at Morehead State Teachers College for a six week term this summer, according to figures released a few days ago from the business office of the college.

The estimated necessary expenses for a six week term follows:

Board, $4.50 per week, approximately	$27.00
Room rent in dormitory	9.00
Incidental Fees	2.50
Books-supplies (approx)	10.00
College P. O. box rent	.50
Total Expenses	$49.00

This estimate does not include the deposit fee of $3 which covers possible damage to school property and is returned less assessment for damage.

These figures are based on expenses in the Morehead dormitories. Meal expenses are estimated from cafeteria prices.

Students returning to school for the summer will find many improvements in the college cafeteria—terrazzo floors, a celotex ceiling, new chairs and tables, two counters, and various electrical devices. Club parties and dinners during the summer sessions will be held in the terraced garden, which will be formally opened next Friday. The lights for the garden have just arrived; and workmen are busy this week, terracing the land back of Allie Young Hall.

The schedule of courses has been enlarged to meet the demands of the summer school. Various new subjects are being offered, and the teaching staff is being increased.

Let Contracts On House Removal Masons Hold District R. A.

It has been definitely decided by the State Highway commission that the Flemings road will enter the Midland Trail at the west side of Morehead. The road will follow the route back of the H. L. Roberts property and enter Route 60 one block west of the Red Front Grocery store.

Details of obtaining the rights of way were definitely settled at a meeting of the fiscal court Wednesday, when bids were accepted for the removal of buildings along the right of way. Some spirited bidding took place and the court finally decided to accept the low bids on each building. The result was that contracts for the work were awarded to four separate bidders.

J. R. Thomas received the contract for the removal of the J. W. Wells garage building, having submitted the low bid on this particular place. The contract for the removal of the Ambrose Bliar dwelling was awarded to Genmore Roberts, J. L. Nickell received the contract for the removal of the R. G. Mauk buildings, the J. L. Barker buildings and those of C. H. Tackett.

Contracts for the removal of the H. L. Roberts buildings and those of Guy Snyder, D. C. Caudill and Ida Curtis Profit were awarded to E. Elam.

The work of removal is to begin at once according to the contracts. Mr. Jimmy Wilson was in Morehead this weekend.

Inclement weather prevented the attendance of the large crowd expected at the Ninth District Convention of the Royal Arch Masons here last Thursday afternoon. However the hundred or more who did brave the elements to attend thoroughly enjoyed the work and the entertainment furnished by the local chapter and went home with a new conception of Morehead hospitality.

Morehead Chapter 158 conferred the degree of Mark Master on four candidates, all of the Royal Arch Masonry. The Master of the Third Degree was H. H. Meador, the Most Excellent Master; and Apprentice 81 of Ashland the Royal Arch degree.

Supper was served by the ladies of the Christian Church in the cafeteria of the Teachers College.

Among the prominent guests in attendance at the convention were John L. Rees, of Covington, Ky., Grand High Priest; J. M. Gachran, Mayville, Ky., Grand Scribe; C. E. McDaniel,ynthians Ky., Grand Master of the Third Degree; O. W. B. Meador, Ashland, Ky., Grand Master of the Second Vail; and C. P. Rafp, Inspector for the Ninth District.

The local chapter who had charge of the arrangements were highly complimented by the visitors for the success of the convention as were all the teams which took part in conferring the degree work.

Fiscal Court Being Sued For Interest

According to newspaper stories published this week the County Judge of Rowan County and members of the Rowan County Fiscal Court have been sued in federal court by persons and firms holding bonds of the county for the recovery of interest due on the bonds. Members of the court have not as yet been served with notice of the suit, according to Judge J. W. Riley, County attorney.

The suit is the outgrowth of the last bond sale of $30,000 in county bonds by the present fiscal court of Caldwell and Company and funds from which sale were deposited in the Caldwell and Company Trust Bank in Knoxville, Tennessee. It will be recalled that at the time of the failure of Caldwell and Company, it was reported that Rowan county had suffered a loss of approximately $30,000, the proceeds of the bond sale.

Some time this spring suit was filed by the present fiscal court against members of the old Fiscal Court seeking recovery of the funds lost through the closing of Caldwell and Company. According to Judge Riley this suit was filed for two purposes, first to relieve the present fiscal court from any responsibility in the matter, second to clear the name of the old fiscal court, and third, primarily, to fix the responsibility where it must belong. It has been reported and is believed that other companies besides the Caldwell Company were instrumental in having the bonds sold, and it has been intimated that this will be brought out when the suit is up for trial. Action of this would relieve the local situation and place the blame where it belongs.

With regard to the present suit Judge Riley stated that, in view of the fact that the fiscal court has already instituted suits to recover the face value of the bonds, and in view of the further fact that the present fiscal court has no authority to make payment on the bonds, they have entered an order of the books to refuse to make payment of the interest on the bonds until they have court authority for doing so. This places the action up to the holders of the bonds. The suit which is said to have been filed is for the purpose of collecting interest on the bonds.

However, Judge Riley added, that the court is making preparations to meet the interest and with that end in view, is setting aside sufficient funds to meet payments. If the court should decide in favor of the bond holders, the Fiscal court will be prepared to turn over the money when the court order comes through.

The bonds have been resold of course and are now in the hands of innocent purchasers, which alters matters considerably, so far as payment is concerned. There seems to be little doubt but that the federal court will of necessity order the fiscal court to pay the interest and the bonds, due to that fact, at the same time the court action will clear the local court of responsibility in the matter.

Eagles Take Marietta Twice

Morehead College Eagles made unanimous in their favor in their two game series at Jayne Memorial Stadium here last Friday and Saturday, winning both contests from Marietta College of Marietta, Ohio the first by a 8-6 margin and the second by a score of 7 to 4.

Neither game could be said to be of the air tight variety as both of the ball-batters featured freely with errors. Center tossed the pill for Morehead in the first at-bat and allowed only seven scattered hits. Only one of the visitors runs was earned the others being the result of Morehead's costly errors. The visitors were shut out by Center's sterling offerings for seven innings when they scored one run without a hit. Errors in the eighth and ninth enabled them to pile up five more and make the score close.

Center struck out eleven men. Reter was the only Marietta player to get more than one hit off the Morehead twirler, garnering three out of four times up. Maggard, Heberlein and Oxley made three each for the Eagles.

Charles Williams opened the Saturday contest for the Eagles and offered some good ones, allowing but two hits in the seven innings he worked. A wretched back caused him to retire, in this frame and Barlow took up the white man's banner to win the game 7-4. The game was featured by the heavy hitting of the local and the stellar box work of Williams and Barlow. Morehead touched the visitors for 13 hits and allowed but six.

BOOKER MULLINS IS FEELING BETTER

Friends of Booker Mullins who has been seriously ill for several days, will be delighted to know that he is again feeling much improved, and is able to be out and about. Mr. Mullins was very seriously ill Saturday and Sunday but showed decided improvement Monday. He is hopeful that he will soon be able to resume his work at the Morehead Grocery Company.

Annual Poppy Sale To Open

The annual sale of "Poppies" is being held this year under the auspices of the American Legion Auxiliary which has recently organized here the sale will commence in a few days and it is hoped to make it an even greater success than it has been in the past. The girls at the college, through Dean Smith have promised to cooperate in selling the poppies and in making the sale a success. Funds raised through the poppy sales go to help in the rehabilitation program that is being carried on by the Auxiliary in the nation.

It is of interest to know that the poppies sold by the auxiliary are all made by disabled service men and that the work of making the poppies serves a twofold purpose, that of giving employment to men who otherwise would have nothing with which to occupy their minds, and of furnishing a little extra money for comfort to a few of the men who are more than give their lives for the rest of us. When the girls come around, don't fail to buy a poppy. It will mean that you, too, have remembered. And it will make some poor fellow, who made a sacrifice for you happy.

The Morehead Methodist Church, South, was dedicated Sunday, with appropriate exercises which included an address by Bishop W. F. McMurray, D. D., of Kansas City. There was a large crowd present to hear Bishop McMurray. Excerpts from Bishop McMurray's address follow:

"Man has worshipping instinct. No man has lived but that, has had a hunger for God. The desire of the race is for God, this is the central characteristic of that human race. Some one has said that cities have been built without walls, without money, faces have been brought together without an organized government, but no man has yet found a city without an altar in it for worship. The test for a universal instinct has been that a man is searching for God. No man has ever sunk so low as to obliterate the desire for worship of God. None have risen so high, either in social position or wealth where the desire for worship could be blotted out. The worship is so characteristic of the race and his desire for God so strong and unrelenting unless man has a God revealed to him, he will create a God of wood or stone."

"We are fortunate. We live under the dispensation of the Holy Spirit. We take the things of Jesus Christ because the Holy Spirit shows their full meaning. Good people have a great task and God cannot win with a stoop shouldered discouraged people. He can win this world with a heroic church that has victory written in their hearts. The church has been tried as to its performance. There are Christians who seem to be built and encased, missionaries who seem sent out, Churches to be built, hospitals to be built and orphanages to be constructed and cared for. Ours is a great church with a great God. No Christian can win a battle for God who is stoopshouldered, sunken chested and a weaking. Every child of God must be a victorious soldier and not a defeated soldier before he starts out."

Bishop McMurray closed the sermon by quoting an illustration from Roger Babson's: Mr. Babson was addressing a group of business men, non-Christians, Jews, Protestants, Catholics and every type man. Mr. Babson told the story of a great ship that had been put out and guaranteed to make a certain speed. The day for the test came, every thing was ready and when the ship was sent out, it went under its own steam, but when they had done their best the ship fell short of the guaranteed speed. They went back checked over the ship and returned it to sea again the next day, but try as they would, it would not make the speed. They wired another old ship architect that he must come, but he replied that he was too busy and his time was taken until six that night, but if they could get the blue prints there he would check them that night. The blue prints were sent by trusted messenger, when he went over the plans, he wired this simple message: Add two inches to the rudder. She must have a greater grip on the sea. Then Mr. Babson closed his address by saying that the commerce of this country needed but one thing: that one thing being that all business men need a greater grip on God. The Bishop closed his address by saying the churches' business is to give the world a greater grip on God.

The Bishop then proceeded to dedicate the building when the trustees had come forward in front of the altar and presented the building free of debt.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Oppenheimer and children spent Sunday in Olive Hill the guests of his sister, Mrs. Urcel Felling.

Under Frozen Skies

Lowering the rifle, Paradis said with a chuckle: "Now that I have my gun jump, I will make a leetle hole through your heart, Monsieur Jeem Stuart." Then he raised the rifle and took deliberate aim.

The leveled rifle was yard away with low bush between. It was hope test if he rused Paradis couldn't miss him. Then sucking in a deep breath, Jim deliberately folded his arms on his chest, and taking a deep right, I'm ready! Now—right through the heart!"

For a space the black tube covered the chest of the man whose eyes did not waver. "Your arm is on de way. Deshot would not be a clean one," muttered the man whose finger slowly curled on the trigger.

Jim Stuart's gaze held the grimace face behind the black tube slightly on his laboring heart, but doubt slowly chilled him. Had he misjudged his man Did Paradis, after all, intend to murder him? Slowly under the strain the sweat broke from his forehead. Better to take the chance of a rush than to be shot like a spy against a wall. Then as Jim stiffened for a head long leap, his laugh Paradis dropped the gun but.

"Now we go see Louis LeBlond!" Jim let the breath out of his lungs. It had seemed minutes while he had looked in to the gun muzzle. It had taken all the nerve he had. But it had worked—that trick; or was Paradis merely bating him?

"Get nto your boat! Take de stern and paddle! If you move, I shoot you for sure!" Ordered Paradis. Jim did as he was told. Facing him with the gun in his hands Paradis squatted in the bow of the boat, and they started along the shallows of the shoals.

"You think you are lucky I did not shoot you, Monsieur Stuart of the Hudson Bay; But when Louis LeBlond hear you come to meet his daughter—den you wish I shoot. Dat beeg dog whp of black Jules—ah! I can hear t seng now, Crack! She go on your back."

The threat of Paradis fell on deaf ears, Jim was not worrying over LeBlond. But he did not relish the humiliation of being brought into the post by the unbalanced Paradis. He pictured the mirth in the eyes of Aurora LeBlond. But as for the jealous and demented Paradis, he almost pitied him. There would be no mercy when she learned how he had smied upon her movements, and LeBlond? She'd laugh at him just as she did that night at Sunset House.

Beyond the island off the split rock, across a half mile of quiet water, lay another and larger one. As Jim paddled leisurely ignoring the abuse of the man squatting in the bow of the boat, holding his rifle, he wondered whether this straight was visible from LeBlond's place on the mainland.

"You didn't tell me how far your place is from here," he said as the water began to boil behind his paddle.

Three-four miles. Not far don't hurry, Louis LeBlond he weel soon enough teach you to come sneaking round de south shore for de love leetly.

Then as the man in the bow jerked himself to an upright position, Jim suddenly realized that he was no mad, but drunk.

On his knees, Stuart rapidly drove the light birchbark out in to the strait with hi briak stroke. From LeBlond's canoe could not be seen! With a burst of his heavy body Jim pulled the leetle canoe over as he plunged into the water.

As the medicine canoe vanished, with a cry the surprised Paradis slid headlong into the water as his rifle exploded. Rising beyond peach of the boat, for a moment he beat the water desperately, then sank. As he rose again to the surface, coughing from allowed water Stuart opened his eyes to push the hummerine Paradis to the boat. But frantic with fear the drowning man flung himself at Jim's neck.

Holding the struggling Paradis away with a stiff left arm, Jim sucked in a deep breath and sank beneath the surface then as he rose, struck the gasping man fiercely in the face, the fingers which clutched Stuart's throat, relaxed, and he pushed the half conscious trader to the boat floating bottom up.

"Now can you hear that dog whip sing!" he laughed. But the man Jim held beside the overturned boat was too busy coughing to hear—too frightened to answer.

"You're a clever man with the Indians Paradis but there are a few tricks you don't know," taunted Jim as he swam by the boat. "Look out You'll roll into the lake if you move! he warned as the dazed passenger lifted a white face to the man in the water.

New Zealand Spinach.—This is a green of slightly different nature in that the "greens" consist of the growing tips of the branches of the plants which grow even in the driest and hottest weather, furnishing more green as the season progresses. The seed should sown a lot of two or three at a spacing 3 feet apart and one seedling should be left in each "hill" for the plant finally becomes as large as a tomatoe plant. The 3 feet away from any other row. Only mount of spinach produced isonorous, for when one terminal shoot is removed two replace it. The flavor is similar to that of spinach; in fact many persons consider it better. Table preparation is the same as for ordinary spinach. The only variety is "New Zealand."

No insects bother New Zealand spinach seriously, except that the black flea beetle is sometimes trouble some at the seedling stage, thorough sowing is the best way, with a 1-to-6 mix justing at this time, but not after, to give lead arsenate and lime, will prove effective against flea beetle.

WEEDS CAUSE BIG LOSSES ON FARMS

Losses on Kentucky farms due to weeds are enormous, declares Eric C. Vaughn, of the College of Agriculture, who has been making a special study of this problem. There is no way of estimating this loss in terms of money, but it probably runs into millions of dollars every year. Weeds increase the cost of production, reduce yields and the quality of crops. Weeds detract from the appearance of farms and so reduce their selling possibilities. Certain weeds are poisonous to stock and others impair the flavor and quality of dairy products. Mr. Vaughn says that most of the harmful weeds found in Kentucky are not native of the state but were introduced from other states or countries. They have come here chiefly in common farm seeds. One seed of dodder or sorrel to 3,000 seed of red clover seems almost negligible, and yet this number may infest fields in which clover is sown at the rate of 1,000 plants of dodder or sorrel to the acre.

A new seed law which becomes effective in Kentucky July 1 requires all lots of agricultural seed in containers of a pound or more to have attached tags showing the purity, germination, percent of weed seed and number of noxious weeds per pound. These tags will enable farmers to know the true value of seed which they buy.

THE MELONS CROPS

Besides watermelons and cantaloupes, the melon crops include cucumbers and early and late squash. All the list falls under what are known as "warm" crops, those whose planting must not be postponed until the ground has become definitely warm. In Kentucky, as a whole, that time is May 1, though in some sections it is safe to anticipate this date at least by a few days.

The general custom is to plant the melon crops in "hills" well enriched with manure, but the method of planting them by rows is catching into quite general use, particularly in the event it is designed to spray for insects and diseases. The soil should be fairly fertile, for all the melon crops are gross feeders. Although stable manure is an excellent fertilizer as far as it goes, there is decided advantage in furnishing additional phosphorus, as well, to make the fruit set. In field practice, land capable of producing 30 bushels of corn per acre should be used, this top-dressed with from 5 to 10 tons of manure, plowed under or disked in, and 500 pounds of superphosphates broadcast and dragged in. For garden plantings, the same applies, or the general garden fertilizing recommendations made earlier in these columns may be followed. If the "hill" method of planting is to be followed, manure may be used as customary, but from 1-4 to 1-2 pound of superphosphate should be mixed with it. For the row planting method more seed is required than when planting is done in hills, but the probability of a full stand is better. Watermelon seed is planted 3 to 4 inches apart in rows 8 to 10 feet for cantaloupes; 3 to 4 feet for cucumbers and bush squash; and from 5 to 8 feet for running squash.

After the cucumber beetle and the rigors of the season or soil have taken their toll, thinning is done. For watermelons and the running squash the final spacing of the plants should be 3 feet; for cantaloupes and bush squash, 2; and for cucumbers, 18 inches. For the hill method of planting, the final stand of plants should be 2, for all melon crops. Additional fertilizer may be done side-dressing with nitrate of soda when the plants are in full bloom, and again, two weeks later. This preserves the vigor of the plants and increases the bearing season. The rate of using nitrate is 300 lbs. per acre each time, or in smaller plantings 1 pound per 100 square feet, or 1 pound to each 100 feet of row.

Cultivation for all the melon crops should be extremely shallow, for the roots lie just under the surface; the ground should be left as level as possible.

Unfortunately all the melon crops are subject to the ravages of quite serious pests, chief among them the cucumber beetle and the melon louse. Their control will be discussed in a later article. Varieties are as follows: For watermelons, Kleckley and Stone Mountain; for cantaloupes, Rocky Ford, Hale's Best and Tip Top; for cucumbers, Davis Perfect and Long Green; for bush squash, White Seal Seed; for running squash, Summer Crookneck, White Cushaw, Table Queen and Hubbard.

RECOMMENDS DRY MASH FOR POULTS
Feeding dry mash during the first few weeks practically eliminates the danger of ever feeding turkey poultlets. Any one of the dry mash mixtures provided for chicks will do for poults, provided it contains dry milk and bonemeal.

When skim milk or buttermilk is available it should be fed to poults and the very first, and the best, mash low in protein be mixed at home. Skim milk can either be fed sweet or sour, and should be given as soon as the poults are removed from the incubator or as soon as the setting hen is removed from the nest. Skim milk is considered better than cottage cheese or clabber because it contains the milk sugars. Feed skim milk sweet during cool weather, but when warm weather comes sour milk should be fed continuously. "Turkey Talk," a circular issued by the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, recommends the following dry mash starter: 20 pounds of ground yellow corn, 15 pounds of wheat bran, 20 pounds of middlings or shorts, 10 pounds of finely ground or pulverized oats, 15 pounds of dried buttermilk or skim milk, 5 pounds of alfalfa leaf meal, 2 pounds of steam bonemeal, 2 pounds of cod-liver oil and a pound of salt. Place this mash before the poults in self feeders when they are removed to the brooder. Start feeding grain after the first week. Place a cracked corn in open hoppers and the poults will gradually increase the amount of grain consumed. As soon as the poults will eat shelled corn it need no longer be cracked. If skim milk or buttermilk is available omit dried buttermilk from mash and keep liquid milk constantly available in place of water.

SUMMER GREENS

By John S. Gentry, Kentucky, College of Agriculture. There is probably no garden in Kentucky in which greens have not already played an important part. In fact the season for harvesting spring greens is almost over. Greens would be a welcome addition to the diet the winter through if only to their value otherwise, but quite too many of us associate "greens" with spring. There are two hot weeds, Swiss Chard and New Zealand spinach, to have them, arrangements must have been made in time. That time is now.

Swiss Chard.—Swiss Chard belongs to the beet family, resembling somewhat the stock beet or Mangold Wurzel, but bred to produce top growth. Its flavor and method of preparation are much similar to those of red beet tops, which some persons are already accustomed to use for greens. To those who are not already acquainted with this excellent green, a well-surprise is in store.

The seed should be sown now, drilled in a drill at a spacing of about two inches. When the plants are about 3 inches tall they should be thinned to a stand of about two inches, the thinnings used as greens. The plants that remain should be allowed to produce about 6 leaves, when harvesting may begin, two-thirds of the large leaves being broken off, the rest left to grow out again. This characteristic of Swiss Chard has given it the name "Cut and come again" for it will furnish greens all summer long and even past the first few fall frosts. A thirty foot row, as one packet of seed will produce, will furnish a least two servings of greens for an average family the season through.

Few insects bother chard, but even if the blister beetle destroys the leaf tissue, the fleshy midribs may be trimmed and used. The variety is Spinacea.

EASTERN TO PLAY TWO GAME SERIES

Morehead Teachers College Eagles after a successful series with Marietta College of Ohio here last week meet Eastern Teachers here today and tomorrow in a two game series which may mean the baseball championship of Kentucky, since few of the other colleges are featuring the national pastime as a major sport this year. The games will be played at Layne Stadium.

Morehead has played six games this season, four of them vs. Morris Harvey College of Barboursville, West Virginia. They have lost three games all of them to Morris Harvey and won three, two from Marietta and one from Morris Harvey making the season thus far an even break.

In view of the recent rivalry between Eastern and Morehead, the present series should be interesting. A victory by either team in both games will make the season a complete success for that team.

We have all helped to make ELECTRICITY your most inexpensive servant

YOUR electric service company strives constantly to provide electric service more economically. That's one reason why electricity is so inexpensive today.

There is another reason. With the rate schedule arranged so that the unit price is less with each additional use, our customers have reduced their own rates by applying electricity to more and more of their household tasks.

This working arrangement between customer and company makes electric service constantly more useful and constantly lower in cost. As you make fuller use of the service, your rate is always going down.

Electricity is cheap!
