The Time Element.

One problem that the student of the Morehead State Teachers College is facing is "How shall I spend my evening?" To the majority it may seem that it is difficult to answer the question but let us view the situation. First the student is told by his teachers for a certain amount of study and the work presented in the class room. Second unless he can meet the qualifications established in the minds of his instructors he "flunks" out.

On the basis of these two statements let us investigate whether this is all that is required of the student. During the past semester how many evenings have been and will be devoted to sports, lecture numbers, social events, literary and dramatic clubs and other extra-curricula activities excepting to say "to not attend all of these." On the other hand the student is condemned for lack of school spirit if he does not come out and support his team. The college authorities feel that the money spent to bring creditable talent here is wasted unless the students attend. Socially he is said to be backward unless he makes an effort to engage in the social activities, and for lack of participation in the other fields mentioned he is frowned.

The question is one of time. As long as he is obligated to meet the standards of the institution he must attend to the time in the phases of school life mentioned. They are of undisputed value yet can they all be attended without the first fundamental purpose of the educational institution being violated?

As a remedy we suggest fewer extra-curricula activities at which the entire student body is expected to attend as the faculty as well. In the classroom this is quite evident.

Perhaps there is no panacea for this overbalanced program. The student must place the student's own treasure in a category on a higher level. As an example a few evenings ago Law Barrett presented his lecture, "Slow Smoke" and it was the highest paid number to be presented here. It was well worth the time of any student. Other than being highly inspirational it was instructive and entertaining. We are told that it was the highest paid number to be presented here.

Would it be possible to suspend the policy of bringing a number of lecture programs here and have only a few of the highest quality? As we begin on the balancing of the field of study and extra-curricula activity we are suggesting such.

Hard knocks are necessary both to smooth down men or carry marble.

Hang on to your original idea: Columbus was once thought to be an idiot.

The hero of today has no title deed for tomorrow.

Hero Worship

There is a story afloat that in the time museum just off Broadway in New York there is a priceless treasure exhibited in a small glass case. Thousands gaze upon it with awe and wonder. The treasure is a cigarette. The cigarette is claimed by the museum management was tossed aside by Andy Warhol. Imagine a devoted follower of Warhol is a teacher and carries a cigarette with her. Probably he pressed it in her memory book. Long ago she surely tossed it in the garbage can. Perhaps she is no busy body but she never thinks of the blow chewed by the great Americans and.

But that is just another example. A few years ago Walter Conner was a certain young chap in one of our leading universities as an All-American end. Instantly he became the hero of the institution. The coaches were wild about him. The story is told and much for that after our gridiron hero finished a season in a student rendezvous adjoining the campus, a wadded pocket upon the chewed and flattened straw, tenderly wrapped in a handkerchief and carried in her hand. Probably he pressed it in her memory book. Long ago she surely tossed it in the garbage can. Perhaps she is no busy body but she never thinks of the blow chewed by the great Americans and.

Hollywood furnishes numerous examples of hero worship and the hero ideal. It is a great money making machine. The conservative reader dreams of The wish to see the relics of the hero of the day must in some way be linked with idol worship and hero worship. If he is civilized but there is more than a little of the pagan yet in us.

BEWARE!

Call an editor a gay old dog
And he will grin with delight;
But call him a cur—your'd better jog
For he is sure to growl and bite.

There are a few very who have not been effected by the general economic depression. One of them is a man who has been suggested that he should be given the duty of finishing an editorial. Here it is:

"A pessimist is a chump who thinks everything is wrong. An optimist is a chump who knows everything is wrong and doesn't give a darn."

The Difference

The following is given as an observation in the state delirium during the cycle of a love affair:

And they learned the joy of a kiss
They knocked out all the space
Anti-socialistic.

The following was picked up by the reporter from an interesting interview with Opal Winters who recently had been married. "If you hear some breakfast food, then a drink of coffee."

'Student Protests' Brings Answer

Dear Editor:

In following up the Editorial, "Student Protests" in the last issue of the Trail Blazer, we believe that it is partly our duty to set forth certain of the causes for such protests as offered by the student body. We desire the consideration of the proper authorities, in the hope that they will make some investigation as to what later bring about remedies when remedies are needed.

The chief source of discontent among the student body is centered about the school cafeteria.

Our complaint arises over the prices charged for the different articles of food. We cite the following investigation on this point: At the school lunch house you can secure a plate lunch for thirty five cents. There are generally well prepared and the servings are invariably larger than those at other places. We then compared the prices at the cafeteria. The prices are as follows:

The following is for comparison:
Plate lunch at a down-town eating house, price 25 cents, consists of meat, 3 vegetables, salad, milk, but, and the bread necessary for the lunch.
These are the prices at the school:
Meat (beefsteak during tournament 20 cents)
3 Cans vegetables 15 Cts
1 Ctn Milk 10 Cts
Bread (5 to 10 Cts)
Butter 5 Cts
Sauce 5 Cts
Total: 40 Cts or over for meal.

We fully realize the necessity of the cafeteria in paying expenses and not going in debt. But, on the other hand, it should not be a profiteering business. We must also consider the fact that it is necessary for the school business houses to make a profit in order to stay in business. They must meet more overhead than the cafeteria can meet, hence, higher prices. From which the cafeteria is exempt.
We ask a reduction in prices, if water and drained her crank one."

The chief worry among the student body over the recent educational convention at Detroit was not over how those delegates got back but the fact that they got back at all.

Sad But True

Lecturers: "Look at the home whizbang has wrecked."
Old Sack: "Treat" (his) but home look at she ships water hash (his) wrecked."

Now that the cage tournament is over, we notice several who don't seem to wish to get back to normal before spring vacation.

There must be a reason.

Undoubtedly it is recommended the members of the "M" Club and "Snoosh" Crutcher for positions with the New News Union as "best butchers." No other demonstration of the ability would be asked than their display of products during the recent cage game.

It is not clear what but everything at the tournament was a big success but it has been left to Mr. Hicks and Prof. Hollis to really give the psychological causes as to why our users were not taken away during the cage game and come down to their staff.

TISH TISH TISH THAT'S THE FINISH!!!

possible without setting the size of the servings, or as it were "robbing more out of the pockets." To counteract these malpractices, the student body complements the management for the military conduct during which the food was served. However, we wish to call your attention to the statement in the college review, 1931-32, regarding the cafeteria.

"The school maintains and operates a cafeteria for the convenience of the students. The average cost to students during March, and April, was 17c and 17c 'breakfast' for the dinner and 25c for supper. There are, as if, any places, to be found in the country where such wholesome food is served at such reasonable rates. Students rooming in town are obliged to eat in the school cafeteria. Many members of the faculty frequently avail themselves of this privilege."

Freshmen Are Still Freshmen

After a perusal of the results of the intelligence test recently administered to a class of freshmen group of a few students, the writer is pleased to announce to that same group that "you are as ignorant as the average freshman." What you don't know will fill all the volumes in the Congressional Library and you will be listed about the state of mental darkness. But freshmen, beware, as long as you give such foolish answers you had better be so and not be so.

Examine some of the answers below and we hope in all your mental darknesses will understand the reason why.

Q. A father is always (1) than his mother to stay in business. They have a son.
P. A. Wiser, stronger, richer, older, or taller.
Q. What is the definition of a Freshman, think what the height of the people will be a thousand years from now!

Here is another bright answer: In wedding there is always P. A. Minister, music, flowers, bride or cake.

There are just samples of what you don't know. To mention other mistakes as revealed by your test names us to show that you are not alone in your mental lettingting. The writer has evidence that all of these answers are correct that A. I test given had a few years ago brought forth the following:
Q. The athlete is a vegetable, fish, lizard, snake.
A. Snake.

Q. John Wesley was most famous in literature, science, war, religion.
A. War, (and the question was: "What was a Methodist").

Q. The number of a Korean's legs is two, four, six, eight.
A. Eight.

JOHNSON COUNTY CLUB ORGANIZES
At a recent session the students enrolled from Johnson county perfected an organization. Plans for the summer were discussed and representatives of that county assure us that it is to be a "diverse" club.

The officers elected follow:
President—Eugene Chandler
Vice Pres.—Cyrus Williams
Secretary—Ray Preston
Treasurer—Ray McEneaney
Manager—Mike Robison

The names of forty seven Johnson county students were placed on the list.

book in called "The Status of Rural Education" and part two "The Next book in American Education"; Advertisement "Beligion" (Associated Press); and Twelve Tests of Character (Associated Press). The last two mentioned are non-productive books both by Henry Emerson Ford.

"The closing," the writer says, "I want to repeat the assertion with which this article began, viz., that a careful reading of the books here recommended will give you as much personal and practical understanding as a summer session of college classes. If you are not planning to attend college this summer, read these books and prove or disprove my assertion."

CARTER COUNTY CLUB IS LARGE

The organization of the Carter County Club was effected for the year 1931 when forty students from that county met Tuesday evening, March 17, thirty nine students are enrolled from Carter.

An election of officers was held with the following being named to the positions:

President—Carl Reeves
Vice Pres.—Raleigh K. Ballard
Secretary—Virginia Ellender

Mrs. Layne was named as sponsor of the club.

The executive committee of three was named. The date for the next meeting has not been named and will be on call of the president.

TRUMPETERS GIVE POPULAR PROGRAM
A group of clever entertainers who completely captivated their audience in the tribute that may be said to be cathedral Trumpeters and Fern Crawford who presented the last number of the lecture program in the college auditorium on the evening of March 16.

Musical numbers ranging from classical to popular as presented by the Trumpeters interspersed by excellent vocal numbers of Fern Crawford furnished a spicy variety of entertainment seldom equaled.

NORMAL SENIORS ELECT OFFICERS
Selecting as sponsors Miss Juanita Collins and Miss Leticia Collins of the Normal School Seniors perfected their class organization at a meeting last Friday afternoon.

The following seniors were named to lead the activities of the group during commencement season.

President—Kernell Reister
Vice Pres.—Virgil W. Preston
Secretary—John Smith
Treasurer—Otto Maguire
Sergeant at Arms—Henry Bates

Considered the best biography of Herman Melville ever published.

Ridge, A. M. Supture. An attempt to evolve a standard by which one may select good literature from mediocre.

Stacy, Lyle, Father Minneapolis. This chronicle of the Mississippi begins with reminiscences of the author's childhood on a plantation on the banks of the Mississippi. There is a brief history of the river, its exploration, and steam boating days and finally a complete story of the flood of 1927.

Turnbull, Athabald Douglas. Commodore of the United States Navy. The biography of a great seaman of the War of 1812.

Uthermeyer, Louis. Blue Rhine. A day by day guide for travelers in Germany with particular attention to the Rhine and Black Forest regions.

Warwick, Edward and Pitts, Henry. Early American Costume. A history of the history of costume in America from the earliest Virginia settlements until about 1820, giving also more than a glimpse of the people themselves.

Worth, James Phillips. A Century of Fashion. Written by the son of the founder of the house of Worth, this book is an intensely personal record of the part played by fashion in the development of fashion during the last century.

Library Notes

The following are a few of the books which have been cataloged and are available during the past week.

Bates, Katherine Lee. America. The Dream.

A collection of patriotic poems in which is caught the impetuosity, the enthusiasm, the dynamism, the vigor and the power of the land.

Cramer, L. C. Desert Drama. A history of the Pueblo Indians of New Mexico from 1540 to 1928, written by a man who has been assigned for the government on four Indian reservations. It contains many interesting and amusing reminiscences of the author's own experience.

Evans, Mary. Costume Through the Ages. A history of the development of costume from the ancient Egyptians and Assyrians to the early twentieth century.

Blackman, Helen. My Life Transformed.

"The amazing story of a young girl, deaf and dumb from infancy and the teacher who, through wisdom, devotion and untiring perseverance broke down her spiritual handicap."

Marquand, Andre. Aspects of Biography. A series of lectures, originally given at Trinity College, Cambridge, discussing modern biography, biography as a work of art, as a science and as a means of expression.

Mumford, Lewis. Herman Melville.

Considered the best biography of Herman Melville ever published.

Ridge, A. M. Supture. An attempt to evolve a standard by which one may select good literature from mediocre.

Stacy, Lyle, Father Minneapolis. This chronicle of the Mississippi begins with reminiscences of the author's childhood on a plantation on the banks of the Mississippi. There is a brief history of the river, its exploration, and steam boating days and finally a complete story of the flood of 1927.

Turnbull, Athabald Douglas. Commodore of the United States Navy. The biography of a great seaman of the War of 1812.

Uthermeyer, Louis. Blue Rhine. A day by day guide for travelers in Germany with particular attention to the Rhine and Black Forest regions.

Warwick, Edward and Pitts, Henry. Early American Costume. A history of the history of costume in America from the earliest Virginia settlements until about 1820, giving also more than a glimpse of the people themselves.

Worth, James Phillips. A Century of Fashion. Written by the son of the founder of the house of Worth, this book is an intensely personal record of the part played by fashion in the development of fashion during the last century.

LEW SARETT

squirrel, duck, goose, moose, bear and such which had come to the lake to get something to eat. He also interpreted the sounds of the woods during the night and morning.

Perhaps among the most pleasing was his interpretation of the power of the water and the demonstration of the relationship between the complexity of the flying of a bird and the movement of a fish.

In connection with his lecture Mr. Sarett read several original poems.

It cannot be said that Mr. Sarett did not uphold the splendid reputation as a lecturer which he has pre-ferred him.
