This page contains a newspaper article about a series of killings that occurred in a small town. The article is dated June 21, 1894, and is printed in the Texas News. The headline reads, "Tolliver Killed. A Band of Five Men Suddenly Appears in Town and Subdues Chic Tolliver's Gang of Six."

The article describes a confrontation between police officers and a gang of five men who appeared suddenly in a town. The police were able to subdue the gang and arrest one of the members, Chic Tolliver. The story goes on to describe the various incidents that led to the confrontation and the subsequent arrest, including the deaths of several individuals.

The article is written in a formal tone, typical of newspapers of that era, and uses a narrative style to communicate the events. It provides details about the location, the players involved, and the outcomes of the events. The text is well-organized, with clear paragraphs and a logical flow of information.