FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Morehead, Ky., July 11--"The miracle of our century has been the development of education," Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael said at Morehead State College today. "In the past six decades, this growth, especially in higher education, has been the wonder of the world."

Dr. Carmichael, Consultant to the Fund for the Advancement of Education and the Ford Foundation, told over 1,000 visiting educators and students at the Morehead State College Conference on Graduate Education that education has increased 15-fold since 1900 and graduate education has increased from 6,000 participants to over 300,000, better than 50-fold.

"Even with this fantastic growth, we are in greater need of PhD's than ever before," he said. "Four years from now, we will have 50 per cent more people in colleges and universities than we have now and the greatest need in the near future will be for qualified individuals with the ability and determination to go on to their PhD."

"Our future is dependent on scientists and scholars and their achievements," said Dr. Carmichael.

Dr. Woodrow Strickler, Executive Vice President of the University of Louisville, was the featured speaker at a luncheon following Dr. Carmichael's address.

A panel discussion with Dr. Carmichael and Dr. Strickler was held after the luncheon. Other panel members were: Dr. Raymond Cravens, Dean, Western Kentucky State College; Dr. W. J. Morehead, Ky., July 25---"In the whole range of contacts between ~~the media and the schools, there are relatively few problem~~
the media and the schools, there are relatively few problem areas," said Ben Reeves at Morehead State College today.

Reeves, Managing Editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, told over 1,500 students, educators and press representatives at Morehead's Communications Media Conference that one of the biggest problems facing educators and communications media people is keeping abreast in their own fields.

"It is impossible for us to keep up with everything
new in this era that someone has tagged the 'Information Explosion,'" he said. "The rapid accumulation of raw information and digested knowledge places unheard-of burdens upon the minds and characters of those who follow the learned professions."

Reeves also said that there were ~~four~~ four major problem areas that ~~are common~~ are common between educators and the people of the communications media.
He listed ~~the areas as:~~ that areas as:
~~1. money and how much is needed and where should it~~
utilized be used in the schools, the school curriculum and how it is presented to the students, matters of simple maladministration and complex larceny, and the perennial problem of what is news.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Morehead, Ky., Sept. 25--Morehead State College has set a new enrollment high for the fall semester of 3,236 students.

The previous high enrollment of 2,969 was set in the fall of 1962, President Adron Doran said today.

Dr. Doran pointed out that the total does not include the 336 students who are enrolled at Breckinridge Training School, those students enrolled in the off-campus centers or the persons enrolled in the extension program by mail.

The freshman class is largest with a total of 1,244 students, an increase of 175 over last fall's freshman class of 1,069.

Sophomores number 715, while there are 594 juniors, 555 seniors and 128 graduate students.

Dr. Doran pointed out that the full-time enrollment has increased by over 10 per cent while the part-time enrollment has decreased by over ~~10~~ 15 per cent.

"The fact that the part-time enrollment has declined indicates the higher training level which the in-service teachers have been motivated to attain because of the increased appropriations for salaries in Kentucky," said Dr. Doran.

He added, "Many of the in-service teachers who formerly enrolled in night and Saturday classes from this region have now attained a level of training and rank by attending summer sessions which make it unnecessary to enroll for night classes this fall."

A conference with alumni of state supported institutions and other interested Kentuckians will be held at the New Science Building at Mayo State Vocational School at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, October 17.

Morehead State College will host the meeting which is one of ten being held throughout the state. Morehead President Adron Doran will ~~keynote~~ keynote the meeting which will interpret the Foundation Program for Higher Education in Kentucky. <sup>with EKSC</sup>

The Foundation Program Formula has been developed cooperatively by representatives of the State colleges and the University of Kentucky and has been adopted by the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education.

"We have made great strides in Kentucky with a sound program for financing elementary and secondary schools," said President Doran. "We believe similar progress can and will be made at the college and university levels through our cooperative and united efforts to present a workable plan to the 1964 Session of the General Assembly."

"There are pressures being brought to bear on the institutions of higher education in Kentucky by the large number of students who wish to enroll, the shortage of well-qualified faculty, and the need for more adequate physical facilities on every campus in the state," Dr. Doran said. "These needs can be met and the problems of financing education solved by all of us exerting every effort possible to develop and implement a sound program."

The Morehead State College-Johnson County Alumni Club will provide refreshments for those attending the meeting.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Morehead, Ky. ---From Northeastern Kentucky to Jerusalem is a long step for anyone, especially a girl from a small farming community.

But Ann Sandifer, a 21-year-old Morehead State College senior from Mt. Olivet, made the transition and has returned to the United States after a six-month stay in Israel.

She has been kept busy on speaking engagements throughout the region and when on campus can be found with a group of her fellow students answering questions about the trip.

Last June 21, she boarded the S. S. Jerusalem Special bound for Israel as Kentucky's representative in the International Farm Youth Exchange.

A home economics major from the rural Robertson County, she was selected by the National 4-H Club Foundation as an exchange student with Israel for a six-month period.

"It was a tremendous challenge I had wanted to undertake for as long as I can remember," she said, "because it was an opportunity to learn another way of life by living it."

During her visit, she traveled over 20,000 miles, including stop-overs in Italy and Austria, sharing the work and social life of her hosts.

While in Israel, she lived with five different families and visited Arab and Israeli families from the Northern Judean hills to the desert areas in the South.

ann sandifer 2222222

"I found the people were frank, but kindhearted. The atmosphere of the country was like none other, especially in such holy places as the boyhood home of Jesus Christ in Nazareth," she said.

Recreation for the 21-year-old ambassador consisted primarily of hiking, swimming and sailing. "Festivals and weddings were also noted social highlights," she said, "and the people have a love for good music and reading."

As an exchange student, Miss Sandifer found she had a great responsibility to America. "The Israeli people like Americans in America," she said, "but not as tourists. I decided that if I represented my country well, they would like me and then like my country."

Her formula for success was a good one, as she made many new friends in the small, history-rich country.

"It's funny," she said, "how hard it is for the people there to realize the size of America. Israel is only 260 miles long and 70 miles wide, about one fifth the size of Kentucky."

Although she was kept busy during her visit, Miss Sandifer will receive little opportunity to relax now that she has returned.

"I still have to complete my final semester at Morehead State College," she said, "and I have many talks scheduled and several radio and television appearances to make before I can begin to take life easy."

During her 13 years as a 4-H member, she has won many pins, ribbons and plaques in public speaking, home improvement, junior leadership, clothing, food and other projects. She attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in 1962.

ann sandifer 3333333

Her 4-H career began as a fourth-grader at Deming in Mt. Oliver where she was salutatorian of her graduating class. Her mother, Lucile, is librarian at Deming and her father, Herbert, is a Robertson County farmer.

At Morehead State College, she is a member of the Home Economics Club and the Cosmopolitan Club.
