

CIRCUIT COURT GOES TO SECOND WEEK OF SESSION WITH MURDER CASES HOLDING CENTER OF STAGE

Chester Duff Freed Of Charge Growing Out Of Bond Deal
Clinton Pierce Given Twenty One Years For Murder Of William Click After Jury Was Out Twenty Minutes; Cassidy Trial Now Going On

After two days of selecting a jury and taking evidence, and after pointed arguments by the opposing attorneys, W. C. Hamilton representing the commonwealth and Jas. Clay the defendant, Clinton Pierce, charged with the murder of William Click was found guilty by a jury composed of Rowan County citizens and sentenced to serve 21 years in the state penitentiary.

The trial attracted considerable attention and held it to the close.

The jury was only twenty minutes in reaching a verdict, and according to one member took but one ballot, every juror being agreed on both the verdict and the sentence imposed.

So far as can be learned the sentence imposed on Pierce was the heaviest ever given in this county, the average sentence being from one to three years.

Clinton Pierce, taking the witness stand in his own defense when called by the commonwealth yesterday, confessed the murder of William Click at Three Lick, Rowan County, last month, and claimed self defense here yesterday.

Pierce maintained in a straight forward manner of testifying that he shot Click through the brain and chest after Click had attempted to stab him with a knife.

"He was one of my best friends and I regret killing him, but was forced to do it in self defense," he said.

The question of the ownership of a knife found under Click's body, drew the focus of both the defense and the commonwealth, and conflicting evidence did not clarify it any. Pierce said that the knife was the property of Click and that Click attempted to stab him with it. Ival Click, son of the murdered man said that he had seen the same knife in Pierce's possession a few hours before the shooting.

The commonwealth rested its case after introducing besides Pierce, four children of Click, and Alf and Chalmers Caskey, John Adams, Morehead police chief, Willis Bailey, deputy sheriff, and J. E. Martin, coroner.

Adams and Bailey testified that Pierce denied the killing when first placed under arrest, but later admitted it, he told the jury.

Pierce was questioned only by the state while W. C. Hamilton prosecuting attorney, reserved his questions until Tuesday morning to allow court to adjourn at 5 o'clock.

In the case of Chester E. Duff who was tried last week on a charge of collecting money from Rowan county unlawfully, Duff was found not guilty, although the evidence developed that the methods used were not strictly of the highest type financial dealings.

The trial of Sam Cassidy charged with the murder of Steve DeBord opened Wednesday morning with a jury summoned from Montgomery county to hear the evidence. Final selection of the jury occupied the morning hours and yesterday afternoon the attorneys for the defense and the Commonwealth made their statements to the jury.

Court reconvened at 7:00 p. m. Wednesday and a night session was held in order to hasten the case. It is hoped to get in all the evidence and give the case to the jury today.

Letty Linton At Cozy

Modern Society, the younger generation and a terrific harvest from past indiscretions figure in a kaleidoscope romance in "Letty Linton," in which Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery will be seen July 6 and 7 at the Cozy theatre.

The plot deals with a heiress who makes a romantic trip through the South American, charming men and then leaves them. After a hectic affair with a romantic Argentinian, she departs for home, meeting on the boat the first man whom she really can love. It is a case of "Love at first sight" on both sides, but the South American follows and in her struggles to extricate herself from the dangerous situation which ensue, she finds her self faced with the choice of prison or blasted reputation. By a clever twist her lover and her mother solve the problem.

Montgomery, as the dionant American who can fight in an emergency, has an engaging and at times extremely dramatic characterization. Niles Aster plays the South American, making a new type of romantic heavy out of the role. Lewis Stone appears as the incisive district attorney and the stern mother is enacted by the well known stage star, May Robson. Charles Cluser Hale contributes a comedy characterization as the maid and other roles are filled by Emma Dunn, Walter Walker and William Pawley.

Health Department Discusses Measles

We now learn that the span of life has been increased from forty-seven years in 1900 to fifty-seven in 1930. Tuberculosis stood as the first cause of death fifteen years ago, it has now declined more than half. Typhoid fever once very prevalent is now a rare disease, and should not occur at all. People could wipe this disease out as completely as they have yellow fever. Diphtheria has diminished more than two thirds since 1913.

There were six deaths in Rowan county last year from typhoid and three of these were contracted from going in swimming. Every one before going in swimming should have the typhoid inoculation and parents should be sure their children have this preventive before giving their permission to go swimming.

Just at this season of the year whooping cough is prevalent and is hardest on babies and young children. Special care should be taken to protect the children from this disease. Whooping cough in its early stage is easily mistaken for a cold, therefore it is prudent to regard every cold in young children as a possible danger signal and care should be exercised to prevent babies and young children from coming in contact with it.

Mothers should get rid of the altogether mistaken idea that children are going to have whooping cough and other so called diseases of children any way, therefore the earlier they get them and get over them the better for the child. They should learn the truth, that children do not have to have these diseases at all.

They are preventable and should be serious disease especially to children, for children only die with it and it not infrequently leaves some after effect that weakens the child, damage to the heart, kidneys and other organs besides the suffering that it causes.

Mothers are earnestly urged not to take chances. When your child develops a cold accompanied with sneezes and sniffles, see a doctor at once and follow his advice. If he advises the vaccine, have him give them at once.

The Rowan County Health Department is ready and will furnish your doctor with vaccines free of charge. Every one should take advantage of this and have their doctor immune them from most all the communicable diseases. We will be prepared very shortly to furnish the vaccine for scarlet fever and will be glad to give your doctor enough to inoculate against that dreaded disease at any time.

This vaccine has been employed upon and is now almost perfect protection against this disease when properly used and there is no danger in its use when used by one knowing the nature. It should always be given shortly to furnish the vaccine for scarlet fever and will be glad to give your doctor enough to inoculate against that dreaded disease at any time.

Do not wait until the child has a chance for these diseases or has already become infested for it will then be too late. Remember that 90 out of every hundred children whom you have to give up to the little white casket could have been prevented. Consult your doctor how to keep your baby well and do not wait until he is sick.

Sister Drowned At Portsmouth

Funeral services for Mabel Bays eleven year old daughter of R. L. Bays of Portsmouth, Ohio, a sister of Junior Bays and a niece of J. A. Bays of Morehead, were held yesterday from the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Flannery at Sandy Hook, Burias was made in the family cemetery by the side of her mother who died in March, 1931.

The parents of the deceased moved to Portsmouth from Sandy Hook eight years ago.

The girl was learning to swim and was bathing with over fifty others in the Ohio river near Portsmouth Wednesday afternoon. She ventured too far from the bank and went under without an outcry. The other swimmers nearby did not see her sink, and it was nearly an hour before efforts to rescue her were started. Her sister discovered the tragedy when she found her sandals on the bank, and a frenzied check-up at the homes of friends gave evidence to the drowning. She was pulled from the water a few minutes later. A fire department life saving squad was unable to restore a spark of life.

The deceased is survived by her father and nine brothers and sisters as follows: Clayton, Ernest, Earl, John, Jake, Irene, Dolly, Hazel and Fred at home and Junior Bays of Morehead.

TEACHERS EXAMS TO BE HELD JULY 14-15

County teachers examinations will be held next month on Thursday and Friday, July 14 and 15.

All teachers who are planning on taking these examinations should be here and ready at that time.

Many teachers are planning to take who have not yet taken the examination and the County Board of Education cannot grant permission to take unless they are fully prepared. If any teacher knows that he is unable to meet these requirements without taking the examination he should be on hand when they are given.

Brown Purchases Spurlock Drugs

The Spurlock Drug Company which was offered for sale under a forced sale agreement among creditors, was recently purchased by N. H. Brown who will operate the store in the same location in the J. A. Bays building on Main Street.

Mr. Brown is well known here having been a long time resident of this city. While he has had no experience in that particular line of business he has previously been connected with the grocery business here. He plans on offering the services of a registered druggist at all times. So far it has not been decided under what name the new owner will operate his business.

With the approach of the election trustees for the various districts of the county considerable interest is being aroused throughout the county. Many candidates are announcing their candidacy for the office which bearing on the selection of the is expected to have considerable teachers in the districts.

Officers have been chosen to conduct the election which will be held in the school houses in each sub-district in the county. Two election officers, a clerk and a judge, are to officiate at each separate election.

While the law has been published in two successive issues of the News, there still seems to be some misunderstanding with regard to its operation. The law simply provides for the election of trustees for each sub-district instead of one. The voting will not be by secret ballot, but by the time honored system of "viva voce" which means that voters will walk in and declare the names of those for whom they wish to vote. Each voter will vote for three trustees.

There has been some discussion as to whether an election will be held since no notices of election were posted. A ruling from the state department of Education states that it is not necessary to post notices of the election, but advises that a notice be published in the county news paper. Consequently in spite of the fact that no notices have been published the election will be held on Saturday, July 2 will be entirely legal and in conformity with the law.

Under Frozen Skies

"You talk now?" grunted the executioner.

Slowly the dry lips of the Indian moved. "He-let dem starve—dees long snow," he moaned in English.

"Paradesen sen' you?" demanded Omar dropping the coal into the kindlings.

"Eef I spik he drive dem alone into de bush—to starve."

The bark and spruce sticks ignited. The red flame licked slowly toward the feet of the man bound to the tree. Before him, arms folded across his deep chest, waited the implacable Omar.

"Paradesen sen' you?" came the reiterated question.

The burning sticks snapped at the feet of the fainting man who fought with his fear. Then, as the heat reached his legs, his nerve crumpled. "What you do eef I spik?" he whimpered.

"You spik alle de truth an we let you go," came the quick answer.

"I spik," murmured the Indian and faintly where he stood.

With vigorous kicks Omar and Jim scattered and stamped out the embers, then unbound the Indian, and doused his face with water while he blinked doubtfully at them from where he lay.

"Paradesen sen' you?" repeated the pitiless inquisitor. The man sitting on the ground nodded.

"LeBlond, he know de?" The prisoner shook his head. "On-lee Paradesen."

"How he mak you do dis ting?" "My familie."

The Indian rapidly explained in Ojibwa that two poor winters and a broken leg had put him heavily in debt to the North-West company for supplies. They had already refused him further "debt" when Paradis had offered to put him on his feet if he would ambush the returning canoe of Jim and Omar, whom MacLauren had seen on the portage.

A grim smile widened on Omar's stiff lips. "I go to dis LeBlond ah-hah. But you go wid me."

"He weel keel me dis Paradesen, eef you tell dem what I spik to you," protested the other.

That it was arranged that the Indian whose canoe was hidden up river, should return at once to LeBlond's and bring his family to Sunset House, where Jim would outfit him with a company. As for Jim Stuart his heart beat high with elation, for, after all, he was to see her again before she went south again, watch that intriguing smile break from the corners of her mobile mouth and her dusky eyes light with mockery. Should he have a talk with her? After the episode with Paradis at the split rock, and from the nature of his mission to the post, it was unlikely, unless she saw them land and approach the trade-house.

And this smooth city man, MacLauren, was he after her as Omar warned him, or was it merely a business trip to his string of posts?

The petterboro finally slid between two islands and Bonne Chance," as LeBlond called his post, lay before them in a large clearing across a mile of straight. The two stories white washed trade and store house was even larger than at Lake Expanso while the number of cabins straggling along the shores indicated a large staff of company Indians.

Jim smiled stiffly at the thought of what Christie demanded of his own little trading station across the lake with his two aids, Omar and Esau, in competition with the resources of Lou's LeBlond. Then the realization that within the hour, he might see talk to her, drove his business worries from his mind.

The coming of the petterboro was drawing curious stragglers to the beach. Jim saw the door of the large trade-house open and two men appear, to stand, hands to face, as if studying the strangers through binoculars. He turned to the men behind him. The face of the Indian was harried with fear. Omar grinned while his slits of eyes, buried between bushy eyebrows and bulging cheekbones, glistened with the light of anticipation. That day he should see Louis LeBlond humbled, threatened with the coming of the Provincial police and his head man, with the sweat of fear on his face at the story of Pierre should tell.

The canoe slid into the beach to a chorus of yelps from the post sled dogs who were driven off by the company servants gathered to inspect and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all ails.—H. O. Hendrix, Homerville, Ga.

Spraying Weeds
 Red Spider Injury
 Due to the favorable weather conditions prevailing the past few weeks red spiders have become abundant and the resulting damage to the foliage is marked. Of the plants attacked the evergreens have suffered most. Yet ornamental shrubs and even grape vines have been attacked. Infested foliage shows many pale spots where the mites have sucked out the sap, thus removing the green from that portion of the leaf. The leaves are webbed on the undersides, and those badly infested turn yellow and drop.
 The adults of these eight legged mites are small being about 1-50 of an inch in length, and the body is reddish in color. One common species feeds on the undersides of the leaves.

of continual reinfestation. Remember to avoid spraying evergreens in the middle of the day or when the temperature is above 80 degrees, as water alone will sometimes result in injury by scalding at such times. A fine ground sulphur, one that passes a 300-mesh screen, is also effective in controlling the pests. In fact, it is recommended over all sprays when the temperature is high. Two or three applications, ten day intervals should be made.

Manufacturers, teachers, investigators and others interested in the dairy industry will discuss all phases of the industry.
 Prof. Fordyce Ely, head of the dairy section at the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Experiment Station, is chairman of the program committee.

THE FALL GARDEN
 By John S. Gardener, Kentucky College of Agriculture.
 The fall garden has several aims. Primarily it is designed to provide crops for winter use, but if the original garden plan, that was made early in the spring does not arrange for vegetables to last until the frost comes, the fall garden may be made to make that oversight good. Thus besides beets, carrots, turnips, cabbages and late greens, the fall garden may include late beans, tomatoes and sweet corn.
 Beets and Carrots.— Beets and carrots may be discussed together because their culture is identical. Both need well-prepared seed beds; both fertilized with well rotted manure amended with complete fertilizer whose percentage of potash is high. Many analyses would serve, but the easy obtainable 3-8-6 or 4-8-6 will do nicely. Fertilizer should be sown where the row is to be, at the rate of one pound to 25 feet of row, and well mixed with the soil. The rate of sowing is about 3 seed per inch, and the seedling should be thinned to 3 inches for the beets, and one and one half for the carrots. If the weather is dry a lightridge may be drawn over the seed, but at this should be raked off when the seed has begun to sprout. One ounce of beet seed sows 50 feet; for carrots, one ounce of seed will be needed for 100 feet of row. The beet variety to use is Detroit Dark Red; the carrot, Chantenay. Sowing time is now. Beets and carrots may follow early greens early beets, and probably early cabbage, do not, properly belong in a specifically fall garden, yet, because their having possibly been overlooked, this note is inserted. If transplants of about 4 weeks old are obtainable, these may be used now in the row of peas just now bearing its last picking but if no such plants may be had tomatoes may be started now, with a fair hope of yielding fruit before the frost cuts them down. Groups of 3 or 4 seeds may be sown in a proper spacing in the row of peas just finishing, and the seedlings thinned to one. An early variety as, for example, Bonny Best, should be used except in gardens where the tomato wilt disease is present, in which case Mar globe should be substituted.

 Beans.— If the original plan did not include continued plantings every two weeks, it is well to begin planning for that arrangement. Best to use are the stringless sort, Stringless Green-Pod, or Full Measure. If volume is desired, especially for canning, Refugee, otherwise known as 1,000 is excellent. It bears its crop in just a few pickings, rather too rapidly to use as a table bean. Picked at the proper stage, before it has become shucky, it is a highly desirable variety.
 Next week the planting of the fall garden will be concluded. At that time will be treated all the crops that any garden should include, up to frost.
 Spring-sown alfalfa is doing well in Rowan county, despite the dry weather in May.

Jamorous FAST STARTERS

221 FEET A SECOND

OR 150.75 MILES AN HOUR, IS THE WORLD'S RECORD FOR MOTOR CYCLES, MADE NEAR CORK, IRELAND, ON NOVEMBER 6, 1910. THE RECORD FOR STARTING MOTORS IN FASTEST TIME ON DAYS OF FREEZING COLD IS HELD BY PHILLIPS 66 GASOLINE. THE REASON IS THAT THIS SENSATIONAL PERFORMING GASOLINE IS HONEST HIGH TEST. ITS GRAVITY RIGHT NOW RANGES FROM 212 TO 218.

PHILL-UP WITH PHILLIPS THE GASOLINE OF CONTROLLED VOLATILITY

"HIGHEST TEST"

at the price of ordinary gasoline

Phillips 66 volatility is 69.6 per cent higher than the average of 28 competitive gasolines. Proved by unbiased laboratory tests based on distillation at 212 degrees.

You are missing a lot of motor efficiency and passing up real savings in money, if your tank is not filled with Phillips 66 . . . the greater gasoline.

Remember, this is the motor fuel which built sensational sales in record-breaking time! And still is forging ahead with amazing speed. This outstanding public acceptance is based on one thing—higher test gasoline without higher price! Thus, throughout the winter, you get all summer high test benefits—from snappier pick-up to longer mileage. Plus split-second starting in freezing weather.

Remember, too, that Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline—which explains why you pay not a penny extra for extra high test gasoline, when you fill up at the Orange and Black 66 shield.
