Clinic Is Given For Tuberculosis In Rowan County

Doctors Will Be At Haldeman and Elliottville On Monday

X-RAYS SET FOR APRIL

The tuberculosis clinic sponsored here during the past week by the County and State Health Departments closed yesterday and moved to other parts of the county. Tests were given yesterday at Haldeman and Elliottville on Monday. On Tuesday mid-semester students at Morehead College will be examined.

Those who show a positive test may have an X-ray taken at the local health office the first week in April. The work in Rowan County is being conducted by Dr. T. A. E. Evans, County Health Physician, Dr. Floyd of the State Board of Health, and Miss Dolly Hansen, field worker.

Dr. Evans said it was the duty of every health officer to insure their own health, in order to insure their own health, to have a tuberculosis test made. There is no cost at these clinics, but if the test shows positive, one dollar is charged for an X-ray, which will determine whether the tubercle is in the lungs, and how bad the case is. Especially in the cases of younger persons it is advisable to get a test made, and if their test is positive, means of curbing the disease may be adopted.

Many Moreheadians, both adults and children, took advantage of the clinic here this week. In many cases the test showed positive.

Applications Are Being Received Here By Robert Lee Marsh For Loans To Rowan County Farmers

Applications for emergency crop loans for 1936 are now being received at Midland Trail Garage by Robert Lee Marsh, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The emergency crop loans will be made only to farmers who can not obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1936 crops and in no instance may exceed $200 to one farmer. Farmers are not eligible for emergency crop loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Farmers will also be considered ineligible if they have an application pending with Resettlement Administration, have received assistance from that organization this year or are indebted to the Resettlement Administration for an unpaid loan. As in the past, the security for an emergency crop loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlord or others having an interest in the crop to be financed will be required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the emergency crop loan is repaid. Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at St. Louis, Missouri.

Red Cross Appeals For Money To Aid 2,000 Homeless

Ohio River Floods Kentucky, But Warning Prevents Casualties

WATERS RECEDING TODAY

Red Cross workers, aiding 2,000 homeless, appealed yesterday for donations of clothing and shoes as the Ohio river passed a crest slightly above the 50-foot stage.

The water, seven feet above flood stage, moved into Kentucky, inundating low-lying sections of cities and towns as far as Evansville, Ind., and forcing an increasing number of persons to evacuate their homes.

Health authorities renewed a warning against disease and urged persons in flood districts to submit to inoculation for typhoid fever.

Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux said the water would commence to recede at Cincinnati Wednesday.

At Henderson, Ky., a peak of 10 feet above flood stage was expected to be reached late this week. Scores of families already had fled their lowland homes at Evansville, Ind., a few miles upstream.

East of Henderson, a dust storm that followed a rain was reported at Owensboro.

Hickman, in the southwest corner of Kentucky, miles below the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, also reported a "black blizzard" following high winds and rainstorms that blotted vision of the river channel.

One hundred lowland families in the vicinity of Hickman prepared to evacuate their homes Thursday as the Mississippi, swollen by northern tributaries, stormed to within one foot of flood stage. Little damage was predicted barring further precipitation.

Along Kentucky's northern border where the flood struck last week, waters were reported either stationary or receding, but rains were seen in many places.

The river remained stationary yesterday at Vaneburg, Ky., but dropped about a foot at Ashland, Ky. Both towns last night reported precipitation.

High waters in other sections were reported as flood-torn communities sought to repair $500,000,000 dam. (Continued on Page 4)

Senate Approves Budget Measure By 37 To 0 Vote

Administration Measure Scores Sweeping Victory In General Assembly

6 REVOLTERS GIVE GROUND

Responding to the wishes of Gov. A. B. Chandler, the Senate yesterday passed its budget bill after approving amendments increasing total expenditures by $713,000, preserved intact the "dictatorship" clause and rolled it onward to final passage without a dissenting vote. It was approved by a vote of 37 to 0.

The group of six revolting State officials, headed by Attorney General B. M. Vincent, failed to present the substitute bill they threatened to offer, calling for a general reduction in the total amount and presenting an appropriate amount provided for elective officials.

Twenty-four amendments to the bill were approved. Fifteen of them provided for increases in the budget commission's apportion as outlined in the original bill, while the remainder were to correct typographical errors and the general verbiage of the bill.

As finally approved, the bill calls for expenditure of $47,513,253.61 during the coming two-year period. The increases voted had been agreed on at a conference last night by members of the Governor and Senators. The largest item in the increase called for $250,000 additional a year, or $500,000 for the period, for tax-ouch textbooks.

Test of Electric Meters Is Ordered By Ky. Power Co.

E. E. Curtis Says Local Rates Compare Favorably With Same Size Cities

CHECK TO START MONDAY

E. Curtis, Mr. Sterling, District Manager of the company, stated this morning that the company is very much surprised at the report.

Mr. Curtis said that if the grand jury and the citizens of Morehead would compare the rates charged here with that in cities approximately the same size as Morehead they would be very favorable towards the local rate.

"Although we feel that our meters are absolutely correct, I have ordered that all electric meters in Morehead be checked, beginning next Monday morning," Mr. Curtis declared. It will be a complete test, he said.

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 26, 1936

FLOODS TAKE HEAVY TOLL

During the past week this country has sustained flood losses running into hundreds of millions of dollars in property and more than 200 lives are known to have been lost. Starting in the New England States, rivers have overflowed their banks in twelve States, including Kentucky, causing thousands of citizens to lose their homes and all their personal belongings. Many business concerns have been permanently put out of business and the damage done will likely be followed by disease which will claim thousands of lives.

The federal government has appropriated millions of dollars to aid in rehabilitation and the Red Cross is caring for the suffering and homeless. The great humanitarian organization has sent out a nation-wide appeal for funds and it is hoped our people will respond liberally to the call. Donations can be left at Red Cross headquarters or with any of the local banks.

It is not likely that Morehead, situated as it is, will ever suffer serious damage from high water, but we can never tell when our fair city will be visited by some catastrophe or plague, necessitating assistance from the Red Cross—and if such a time ever comes "The Greatest Mother of Them All" will be ready to come to our aid. Those of our citizens who can should at this time come to the assistance of these thousands of homeless people and make liberal donations to aid in this great work.

The Red Cross has done much for the poor and suffering of this community; it has indeed been a friend at a time of need, so under existing conditions it behooves our citizens to contribute liberally to this great national organization and help in every way we can to alleviate the suffering of these poor unfortunate human beings.

DOING OUR PART

Mid-semester enrollment at the Morehead State Teachers College opens Monday, with an additional 200 to 250 students expected. This year, unlike as in the past, these students should be able to find livable accommodations. Heeding the plea of college officials, Morehead property owners have climaxed a year's building program that has seen many new residences decorate places where heretofore stood ramshackle structures.

The Morehead State Teachers College is rapidly growing year after year. Moreheadians are fast realizing that it is to their advantage to expand as does the College—for Morehead College is a living and breathing part of this community and of Eastern Kentucky. Much of our livelihood depends on this institution, and to foster its progress is to our civic and financial betterment.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Mrs. Guy Snyder has created an award at the Morehead Consolidated School that is a commendable advancement towards better citizenship and leadership. Mrs. Snyder voluntarily made the donation that will award a medal to the student chosen as the "best citizen."

The award was made partly through memory of her late husband. His very life is an example that our boys and girls will do well to copy. He exemplified a high-type citizen, a public-minded individual and a civic leader. With his passing Morehead lost one of its greatest benefactors and citizens. However, there remains with us his wife—another perfect example whose very life is a goal at which any of us might commendably try to achieve.

INTERESTING AND ENLIGHTENING

Some of the most enlightening and interesting speeches to be heard are those of the Morehead Men's Club. Within these meetings there is expounded much of the experience and wisdom that our business and professional men have accumulated through many years. These are no fancy speakers—but men that speak straight from the heart and to the point.

The Civil Works Administration in Kentucky expended $9,965,588.10, while, prior to December 31, 1935, the Works Progress Administration has spent $4,158,679.61 on projects only.

The eleven weeks campaign at the First Christian Church continues with interest and enthusiasm. Last Sunday marked the fourth report and was one of the most enthusiastic. The total amount for the four reports is $338.08. Division No. 3, Mrs. W. C. Lappin, leader, ranks in the lead with a total of $87. Division No. 4, Mrs. Ernest Jayne, leader, came second with a total of $77.48.

Other three divisions rank close together, but some twenty dollars behind the leaders, all ranking pretty close together and no indication as to who will be the final winners on this 200 subscriptions and something over $100. Their reward will be handsome initialed silver for the serving of 100 people. The dining room and kitchen of the church are being equipped in an up-to-date manner for the serving of most any occasion.

During this campaign the social side of the church is being emphasized and the results thus far are in proportion to, if not greater, than the money being raised.

Senate Approves

Moore, Franklin, inquired if the Governor intended to veto the bill or to strike out the increases agreed upon previously.

"I'll not promise definitely as to the entire bill, but to amendments that I have agreed upon previously, I'll stand by," the Governor said. When the Senate convened it was apparent that the uprising that had occurred over the week-end had been quelled, and that the Administration would have easy sailing on the bill.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey have poked fun at about everything and the latest to get its share of kidding is the Western Thriller. "Silly Billies," their current bit of satire, includes all the thrills that commonly provide the smug, old-fashioned sage-brush sagas, but, as Woolsey said while the picture was filming, "No westerns was ever like this."

There are vicious desperadoes and a stage coach hold-up. Peril rides the plains in the persons of a hundred bloodthirsty Renegade whites, do their dirty work. The U. S. Cavalry rides to the rescue—and arrives late. The boys are destined to dance on the lynching rope, to be scalped, to be burned at the stake, to perish in quicksand—in short, to endure all the breath-taking thrills of twenty Westerns crammed into one madcap comedy. Lovely little Dorothy Lee, who has been with the boys in just about every picture they have made, is again romantically teamed with Wheeler. Harry Woods, Ethan Laidlaw, Delmar Watson, Dick Alexander and Chet Thunderbird complete the supporting cast which is supplemented with some two hundred extras in spectacular scenes of a gold rush trek and the climactic Indian massacre.

Many Factories Open In State

Practically all divisions of trade and industry were seriously disorganized throughout large areas of the East as a result of the floods according to reports to the Department of Commerce from 32 cities just received by its Louisville District Office. During much of the week both retail and wholesale activities were brought to a virtual standstill in the Pittsburgh area as well as in large sections of Maryland, Virginia, New England and some other parts of the East. With plants inundated, industrial production also was greatly curtailed during the week. The vigor of seasonal influences, however, accelerated the upward trend of retail buying in substantially all regions of the country that escaped the devastating floods. Most of the reporting cities the margin of gains in retail trade over the previous and the 1935 weeks were more marked in the upward trend of retail buying favorable to shopping activities. During the week Easter buying became an effective stimulating factor.

Louisville reported that retail sales of women's and men's clothing and shoes were up nearly 30 per cent for the week and 10 to 15 per cent above 1935. Dry goods, sport apparel, groceries and farm implements bucked largest in orders to wholesalers, whose volume this week exceeded last year by 8 to 12 per cent. Sharp expansion occurred in manufacturing operations, particularly in building materials.

National Re-employment Service reported 655 placements during week, an increase of 68.8 per cent over preceding week's placements. Louisville bank clearings registered 15.7 per cent increase over corresponding week of last year.

Burlington tobacco sold over loose bin floors during season just closed totaled 172,327,875 pounds, which brought $32,295,948 to Kentucky growers. Total poundage for dark flint tobacco of Western District estimated at approximately 29,000, or about 50 per cent of which has been sold.

Reports from Scottsville, Ky., are that mules are bringing better prices at present than since the war—over 250 mules having been sold during one day, several pairs of which brought over $500 per pair. Veterinarians have been issued to prohibit shipments of corn on the cob into Kentucky from West Virginia, Indiana, Ohio and other states infested with the European corn borer.

Work to be begun soon on new brick building to house showers, lockers, dressing rooms, etc., adjacent to Keller Stadium, Paducah, Ky., under a $19,000 WPA appropriation.

A branch factory of Goodall Worsted Company of Sanford, Maine, and Cincinnati, Ohio, makers of men's palm beach clothes, being planned at Maysville, Ky., to employ 400 persons with a weekly payroll of between $5,000 and $6,000; estimates place the cost at $55,000 or $60,000.

Detroit distilling interests have bought old McBrayer property at Mt. Sterling, Ky., and plan to spend $30,000 converting it into a modern 150-barrel plant, operations to begin in about 60 days.

The Harboursville Brick Company is to begin operations April 1st; repairs are being made, new machinery has been purchased and 30 men will be employed.

The Tobacco Blending Corporation, Louisville, Ky., capitalized at $10,000, has been chartered.

Pipeline companies reported 12 wells completed in the Owenboro oil field, 8 being producers, good for 1,175 barrels of crude oil.

HEAVY DECREASE SHOWN IN U. S. TOBACCO PRODUCTION

How tobacco acreage in the United States shrunk about 35 per cent from 1929 to 1934 is shown in summary on tobacco issued by the Census Bureau's Census of Agriculture made in 1935 and just received by the Louisville district office of the Department of Commerce. Production in 1934 was likewise exactly 435,000,000 pounds less than in the big boom year of 1929. There were 1,237,117 acres planted to tobacco in 1934. Of the 651,248 acre reduction in the tobacco acreage, about 465,000 acres occurred in the States having over 100,000 acres of tobacco in 1934, namely, North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia. The decrease in acreage in most of the important tobacco-producing States resulted from reducing the acreage of tobacco per farm reporting rather than in a decrease in the number of farms raising tobacco. Large decreases took place in those States which produce primarily cigar-tobacco.

The average acreage per farm reporting was 1.5 acres, or 24 per cent less in 1934 than in 1929. Decreases of one acre, or more, per farm reporting occurred in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Connecticut and Massachusetts. Maryland was the only State producing over 10,000 acres of tobacco in which the acreage was larger in 1934 than in 1929.

Farms on which tobacco was harvested in 1934 numbered 422,166, of 10,809 less than in 1929. Seven States reported decreases of over 1,500 in the number of farms having tobacco. In Wisconsin the farms reporting tobacco decreased about 6,300, in Ohio 4,400, in Kentucky 4,100, in Pennsylvania 3,600, in Indiana 3,100, in Virginia 2,700, and in West Virginia 1,500. These decreases were partially offset by an increase of about 14,000 farms having tobacco in Tennessee and North Carolina. Almost two-fifths of the total United States tobacco crop of 1934 was produced in North Carolina.

Bureau of Air Commerce announced approval of $20,778 improvements at Middlesboro, Ky., municipal airport.

men with whom he made his home here is survived by Mrs. Seymour Stevens, of Allen, Ky.; Mrs. H. W. Wheeler, of Isonville, Ky., and Mrs. Winfield Skaggs of Ashland, Ky., and St. Petersburg, Fla.; eleven grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren.

lina, Kentucky was the second leading tobacco producing States, having about one-fourth of the United States total. Tennessee and Virginia, each with about one-ninth of the national production, ranked third and fourth, respectively.

In comparison with most other crops, the average acreage of tobacco per farm reporting is small. The average acreage per farm reporting tobacco was 2.9 acres in 1934. This compares with an average acreage per farm reporting of 18.6 acres for corn, 39.8 acres for wheat, and 13.9 acres for cotton. The average acreage of tobacco per farm reporting exceeded five acres in only three States; Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maryland. In all of the States which produced over 50,000 acres in 1934, the average acreage of tobacco per farm reporting was less than four acres.

FRED ASTAIRE SINGS ON BATTLESHIP IN "FOLLOW THE FLEET"

The world's largest land battleship was placed in commission at the RKO studios as a setting for scenes of "Follow the Fleet." Authentic in every detail from gun turrets to hatch covers, the ship's draught was built to exact dimensions of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, flagship of the battle fleet. The set represents the Pennsylvania's quarterdeck from the superstructure aft, including turrets one and two, except for one particular. Instead of the Pennsylvania's three fourteen-inch gun turrets, the screen craft was given the two sixteen-inch gun turrets of later model ships.

Never before in film history has a battleship setting of such grandeur and authenticity been constructed, according to Captain H. A. Jones, U. S. N., who acted as technical adviser to Director Mark Sandrich.

On this set, scenes for the opening musical number of the show were filmed. The number is "We Saw the Sea," one of seven Irving Berlin melodies in the score. It is sung by Fred Astaire on the deck of the ship. He is backed by a forty-piece sailor chorus accompanied by a ten-piece band.

GOVERNOR CHANDLER CALLS ATTENTION OF ALL FARMERS TO LESPEDEZA WEEK

March 23-28

In a letter addressed to the Kentucky Lespedeza Growers' Association, Governor A. B. Chandler stresses the importance of lespedeza and calls attention to lespedeza week in Kentucky. His letter follows:

R. B. Giltner, Secretary, Kentucky Lespedeza Growers' Association, Eminence, Ky.

My Dear Mr. Giltner: Because of the importance of lespedeza and other soil building legumes in the soil conserving and erosion control plan of the federal government, I am glad to call the attention of the farmers of Kentucky to lespedeza week, March 23-28.

This type of clover is proving of incalculable value to Kentucky agriculture in rebuilding the soil, furnishing valuable pasture, hay and seed, and promoting the development of a greater interest in livestock. I am informed that this crop is adapted to any character of soil in this State.

It is my hope that county agents, teachers of vocational agriculture, agricultural workers and farm leaders will stress the importance of lespedeza in their respective communities during this week.

Cordially yours, A. B. CHANDLER, Governor. No legume or grass yet discovered has proven more valuable for the prevention of soil erosion and the building up of depleted land than lespedeza.

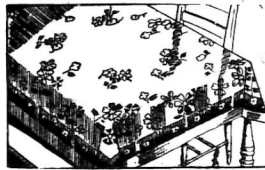

It fits perfectly into the new soil conservation plan, recently adopted at Washington, to take the place of the invalidated AAA, and land sown to lespedeza will undoubtedly meet the requirements of the new plan. April is the right time to sow lespedeza and any Kentucky farmer who has not already grown this miracle legume would do well to investigate its merits.

Life begins at forty and so do fallow arches, lumbago, bad eyesight and the tendency to tell a story to the same person three or four times.

to the news flashes while you and Mr. Health transact your business. It will be a while before I have realized it since you can speak."

"Nodding courteously to Health's direction, Horatio Fuller disappeared."

"You, Mr. Fuller, are you having a feeling?" Stanley Heath declared looking after him. "I congratulate you."

"Thank you."

"You are a settled thing?"

"She nodded."

"I hope you will be very happy."

"She did not reply at once. When she did, it was as if with a bounding new and appealing."

"I shall be. I never appreciated Hurtle until now. I was too busy, vain, rather-headed, to have realized it since knowing Marcia."

"We all want to be different after we have seen Marcia," Stanley Heath said gently.

"We don't just want to be—we set about it," was the girl's grave reply.

"Sit down, Sylvia, and let us talk of Marcia," ventured Horatio Fuller.

"I am deeply sorry if I have wounded her—indeed I am."

"The girl searched his face."

"I cannot understand you, Mr. Health," she said. "What has Marcia done that you should have left her as you did? Hasn't she believed in you through thick and thin? Blood for you against everybody—going blind at that? Few women would have had such faith in a stranger."

"I realize that. You do not need to ask me," he answered. "It is precisely because she has gone so far I believed her capable of going farther yet—the whole way."

"What do you mean by the whole way?"

"To the end."

"Well, hasn't she?"

"He shook his head."

"No. She has fallen short—disappointed me cruelly. When it came to the final test, her affection collapsed. Oh, she has been wonderful to me so quickly. Do not think I fall to appreciate that. She has far outdistanced every other woman I ever knew."

"You are simply disappointed because her, doubtless the impossible. Human nature is frail—a woman's heart the frailest thing of all. I have always said so."

"You wrong Marcia," cried Sylvia hotly. "Her heart is not frail. Neither is she the weak sort of person you have pictured. In all the world you could not match her loyalty or the depth of her affection. If after the experience we three have lived through together you have not discovered what she is it is futile for me to attempt to show you."

"You came into our lives like a meteor—entirely detached from everything. We knew nothing about you and in the face of damning evidence you offered neither Marcia nor me one word of explanation. Marcia asked none. Without a word of explanation we believed in you. I had not her faith. I freely confess I thought you guilty. Oh, I liked you sufficiently well to be ready to help you save your skin. But Marcia cared enough for you to want you to save your soul."

"When you were taken ill, we both wanted you to die—I willingly and desperately. Here by another difference had you been able to detect it. What happened as a result of this enforced intimacy? You know—know far better than I."

"I fell in love with Marcia," replied the man without an instant's hesitation.

"You fell in love?" Sylvia repeated her lip curling. "You call it love—the poor thing you offered her? Why, Marcia would have gone to the world's end with you. She would have been on the right. She would have faced any humiliation for your sake. If prison doors closed upon you, she would have remained faithful to you, she would have opened and afterward followed you to any corner of the earth in which you chose to begin a new life."

"That's where you're wrong, Sylvia," contradicted Health. "Marcia was not ready to do that. I tried her I should and she refused. When I told her I should return to her, and asked her in so many words whether she was willing to face shame and public scorn for my sake she turned her back on me. She could not go to that length."

"Are you sure she understood?" asked Sylvia, stepping nearer and looking fearfully into his eyes. "There is a shame Marcia never in this world would face for any man, but it is not the shame you have just described."

"It is the shame of wronging another woman; destroying a home. In the village where Sylvia has been brought up, we believe in marriage as a sacred, enduring sacrament—not a bond to be lightly broken. When you offered Marcia long, she was not ready to be lightly broken. When you offered Marcia long, she was not ready to be lightly broken. When you offered Marcia long, she was not ready to be lightly broken."

"I never offered Marcia any such shameful position, Sylvia," cried Stanley Heath. "I would not so far insult her."

"What you are married."

"What I can't understand, Mr. Winslow, is why you didn't recognize her as a thoroughbred from the beginning," Horatio Fuller remarked.

"You're a right to berate me, young man—a perfect right. I ain't got to put up no defenses. 'Twas the circumstances that blinded me. Besides, I had only a single glimpse of Mr. Health. Remember that. After he was took sick I never saw him again. Had we got acquainted as we have now, everything would 'a' been different. Flaidin' them jewels."

"Great hat, man! I had a diamond ring in my pocket when I came to Wilton, but that didn't prove I'd stolen it."

"I know," Elisha acquiesced the sheriff. "Eleanor 'an' me lost our bearings entirely. We got completely turned round."

"That's with a Ph Bets Kappa key," jeered Horatio. "Godfrey!" Then turning to Sylvia, he added in an undertone: "Well, so far as I can see the other person in the case, had we heard through this affair is our Aunt Marcia."

Elisha overheard the last phrase.

"That's right," he agreed with cordiality. "The Widder's head piece can always be relied upon to stay steady."

"Those head-piece" inquired Stanley Heath, puzzled by the term.

"Marcia's. Here in town we call her 'The Widder.'"

"Well, you'll not have the opportunity to call her that much longer."

"You don't tell me!" Elisha regarded him, open-mouthed. "Humph! So that's how the wind blows, is it? Well, I can see this mix-up would 'a' ended my chances anyway. Marcia'd never have had me after this. Disappointed as I am, though, I ain't no sight of comfort in knowin' she won't."

Breck and Soldier In Charity Match Saturday

Soldier Stamped Selves As Strong Team In Regional

Barker, Kelley of Panthers and Long, Breck Center, Are Good

MATCH WILL START AT 7:30

The Soldier High School basketball team, runner-up in the 14th Regional Tournament, and Breckridge Training School, which boasts an excellent season's record, will ring the curtain down on the court sport here Saturday in a post-season game. The tilt was made possible by the Christian Church, and the game will be played for their financial benefit as a part of a campaign to raise money to pay off a street-paving indebtedness.

The Soldier team will bring their 2 star performers in Barker, all-Regional guard, and Kelley, left center. To offset this Breckridge has a high scorer and excellent defensive man in Captain Long.

The game is scheduled to start at 7:30, and will probably be played on the Morehead College floor. Soldier created a mild sports sensation here with their performance in the Regional meet. Playing a dogged, well-coached type of basketball, they eliminated Olive Hill 21-19 and Ashland 20-15 before succumbing to Russell in the finals.

During the season Breckridge and Soldier broke even, each visiting team winning by a close score.

JOPLIN PREACHES

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. George A. Joplin, president and field secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, Louisville, preached at the Baptist Church last Sunday evening. Dr. Joplin was here in the interest of Go-to-Sunday-School Days which are being planned for the month of May, and visited in the home of Dean W. H. Vaughan.

THE EASTERN KENTUCKY SPORTSMAN SPEAKS...

On Fishing

The N. E. Kennard Hardware Company which annually has one of the best windows for fish and game enthusiasts, have gone themselves one better with a display this week. Jack Helwig, manager of the store and an ardent sportsman himself, is mostly responsible for this exhibit.

In the writer's estimation the last year's window was one of the best in the State, and that includes those in the large sports dealers in the cities.

The Kennard exhibit deals almost exclusively with fish caught in local streams, with the bass and muskies occupying the center spot. Rods and reels, latest fishing tackle, spoons, flies and all sorts of artificial bait and equipment for "Isaak Walton's" is included.

To look at the window exhibit is to bring a yearning to take to the streams.

Local fishermen are almost universal in their opinion that the recent flood will help fishing in these parts this spring unless there is too much rain hereafter. The high water did much to clean streams out.

Henry C. Haagan, the affable professor who is head of the Department of Agriculture at Morehead College, proudly displayed a new rod this morning, which had been purchased from Sutcliffe Co. All of which reminds us of that big pike that Henry Clay caught something like a year ago.

It is to be noted that Fish and Game Associations similar to the one in active existence in Morehead, are being organized in surrounding counties. Last week Fleming county sportsmen held their organization meeting, with a fine turnout of interested sportsmen. Judging from the interest being shown all over the State in these new organizations, now the vim and vigor which the officers and membership are displaying, the outlook for good fishing and hunting in years to come is greatly improved.

Apparently, the poacher, fish-trapper, dynamiter and other game law violators are in for a none-too-good season, for at least it seems that general public opinion is swinging the balance towards the honest sportsman.

It would be a wise move, it seems at this time, for the Licking Valley Fish and Game Association to begin stocking the small reservoir created by the dam at the new power and light plant on Triplett Creek. This is one of the best spots in Eastern Kentucky for game fish, and if properly stocked and the gizzers and trappers kept out should be a great fishing spot.

So far fishing licenses have not been selling very rapidly at the County Clerk's office. Kentucky intends to enforce its laws stricter this year, and the advice is not to go out without fishing license. Real sportsmen are more than glad to pay this one dollar fee, for it not only helps to keep out out-of-State competition, but the money goes to enforce the State laws.

In last Sunday's issue of the Courier-Journal a snapshot of Dr. C. U. Hornoh and Dr. A. F. Ellington, two of Rowan's outstanding hunters and fishermen, was reproduced. It showed them holding a string of bass, which were caught in local waters in less than an hour's time. More power to you, Doctor, and Doctor.

Breck Team Wins 10, Loses 4 Games

Laughlin's Boys Complete Season With Excellent Record

Captain Bobby Laughlin and his Breckridge Training School basketball team have completed a successful campaign, winning ten games and losing four. Two of their losses were at the hands of Soldier and Ewing, whom they later defeated. Mt. Sterling is the only team to hold an edge on the Breckridge boys.

Scores of Breckridge games: Breckridge 21; Frenchburg 19. Breckridge 18; Mt. Sterling 20 (overtime).

Breckridge 30; Sandy Hook 16. Breckridge 25; Ewing 31. Breckridge 7; Mt. Sterling 26. Breckridge 28; Haldeman 9. Breckridge 21; Grayson 19. Breckridge 22; Flemingsburg 13. Breckridge 26; Ewing 20. Breckridge 14; Soldier 17. Breckridge 25; Haldeman 14. Breckridge 23; Soldier 20. Breckridge 31; Flemingsburg 21. Breckridge 37; Grayson 21.

Hicks Succeeds D. D. Caudill As Loop Head

Carl Hicks, Principal of the Catlettsburg High School, succeeded Dennis D. Caudill, Morehead, as President of the Eastern Kentucky Athletic Conference at a meeting held in the Henry Clay Hotel at Ashland last night. Mr. Caudill has served as head of the organization for the past year.

Other officers elected were: John McClothin, Principal Boyd County High School, vice president; Bradley Black, sports editor Ashland Daily Independent, secretary-treasurer.

The Olive Hill High School Comets, coached by Bennie Martin, were officially awarded the basketball championship for the year.

heart, a former college football star, Alan Baxter, has turned public enemy. Miss Sidney is sentenced to a long prison term because of her innocent association with him. She makes a successful jail break with a friend and cell mate, Pert Kelton, unaware that Miss Kelton has been put on her trail by G-men who hope she will reveal the hideout of Baxter, still at large. Miss Sidney gets a job in a hospital and meets Melvyn Douglas, a famous, but temporarily blind, scientist. However, Baxter, madly in love with her, puts his gang on her trail and she is forced to flee. Hunted equally by the law and the underworld, she seeks refuge in Douglas' home.

Knott Captures Club Tourney At College

Knott County won the annual intra-mural club tournament at the Morehead State Teachers College, defeating Pike County in a game which was tied 6 times. The final count was 21-20.

Sixteen teams entered the tournament this year, and it took 6 days before the meet was finished. A silver cup was awarded the winning team by the Physical Education Department of the College.

Managers Eye 4 Team Proposal

Meeting of the Kentucky State League May Be Called Soon

Baseball leaders throughout this section were favorably considering this week the proposal of last year's league heads to make the Kentucky State organization a four-team circuit—with Morehead, Owingsville, Flemingsburg and Mt. Sterling holding the charts.

Managers were almost universal in their opinion that the only way the teams could be financially independent this year was to make the league a four-team affair, thereby eliminating much of the high bidding for

Spring Football Practice Starts At M. C. Monday

Baseball Will Probably Be Abandoned This Year, Coach Says

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETS

Coach G. D. Downing of Morehead College announced today that spring football practice at the school will start Monday morning. Approximately 40 candidates are expected to report for the team. The spring practice will last 4 weeks, Downing said. The athletic council is scheduled to meet at the College this afternoon. They are expected to decide whether Morehead will have a baseball team this year. Downing expressed the belief that it almost impossible to arrange an intercollegiate schedule.

Downing said the school will sponsor a diamond ball league and possibly track as a part of the spring's sports program.

Parents Helped Sidney Climb Success Ladder

The first battle Sylvia Sidney fought and won was at the age of twelve when she persuaded her parents to permit her to follow an acting career.

Today, at the age of 24, after five years in Hollywood, Miss Sidney is starred in the title role, her twentieth film production, of Walter Wanger's Paramount romance drama, "Mary Burns, Fugitive," which comes Sunday to the Cozy Theatre.

Miss Sidney's parents not only gave their consent to her embarking in the theatrical profession, but they offered aid. The actress received private dramatic instruction until she was fifteen. She made recitations at a Little Theatre. Then she entered the Theatre Guild school, making her first hit on the legitimate stage with her role in "Bad Girl," which won her an opportunity to make good on the screen.

In "Mary Burns, Fugitive," Miss Sidney is seen as a girl hunted by the law, a victim of circumstantial evidence. Unaware that her sweet-
