

ALFIE'S ADDRESS.

CAIRO, April 26, 1837.

Editor of the Observer & Reporter:

My absence from home has prevented me from heretofore noticing a card in your paper... I am not to be considered as having any interest in the district in Congress. In declining as I do, the call on me, made no doubt by my friends, some of whom have long known me, and whose support I have ever gratefully received...

For the last eight years, Amos Kendall (who, before he was driven from Kentucky by public indignation, had reduced this State to almost utter ruin), has been emphatically the President of the United States... He has been the executive of the State, to Washington he has for eight years, ruled an infatuated and imbecile old man, riled and rained this nation; and such has been the nature of his rule, that he has left behind him, not only a debt of $10,000,000, but a ruin to be continued in the plenitude of power by the present incumbent of the executive chair...

When Amos Kendall became Governor of Kentucky, public credit was high, and the people were contented... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit...

This breach of faith and the constitution, the first measure of relief for the disease created by Amos, and which he promised to cure, was found but to increase rather than abate the malady... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State... His next prescription for relief against his own acts or evils brought upon the country, was to repeal and annul the constitution of 1820... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State...

All know that Amos and his creatures have been opposed to the constitution, and they were loud for the election of Clay... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name...

projects, crude and absurd, as he could only write them; and when submitted to the public, he would be written in English and the orthography corrected, &c. Then Jackson was to copy the project, and to submit it to his cabinet as his own production, thereby leaving it to his cabinet to sign, and to be free of all its total incapacity for high office... He did so well as to have the whole cabinet filled, but his incapacity to draft, in intelligible language, any scheme or subject he might wish to submit to their consideration, necessitated that he should employ for the purpose the honorable man that filled Jackson's cabinet...

When the President was driven from Kentucky by public indignation, he had reduced this State to almost utter ruin... He has been the executive of the State, to Washington he has for eight years, ruled an infatuated and imbecile old man, riled and rained this nation; and such has been the nature of his rule, that he has left behind him, not only a debt of $10,000,000, but a ruin to be continued in the plenitude of power by the present incumbent of the executive chair...

When Amos Kendall became Governor of Kentucky, public credit was high, and the people were contented... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit...

This breach of faith and the constitution, the first measure of relief for the disease created by Amos, and which he promised to cure, was found but to increase rather than abate the malady... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State... His next prescription for relief against his own acts or evils brought upon the country, was to repeal and annul the constitution of 1820... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State...

All know that Amos and his creatures have been opposed to the constitution, and they were loud for the election of Clay... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name...

ernment out of the way of competition, and he would be written in English and the orthography corrected, &c. Then Jackson was to copy the project, and to submit it to his cabinet as his own production, thereby leaving it to his cabinet to sign, and to be free of all its total incapacity for high office... He did so well as to have the whole cabinet filled, but his incapacity to draft, in intelligible language, any scheme or subject he might wish to submit to their consideration, necessitated that he should employ for the purpose the honorable man that filled Jackson's cabinet...

When the President was driven from Kentucky by public indignation, he had reduced this State to almost utter ruin... He has been the executive of the State, to Washington he has for eight years, ruled an infatuated and imbecile old man, riled and rained this nation; and such has been the nature of his rule, that he has left behind him, not only a debt of $10,000,000, but a ruin to be continued in the plenitude of power by the present incumbent of the executive chair...

When Amos Kendall became Governor of Kentucky, public credit was high, and the people were contented... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit... He had a great deal of money, and he had a great deal of credit...

This breach of faith and the constitution, the first measure of relief for the disease created by Amos, and which he promised to cure, was found but to increase rather than abate the malady... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State... His next prescription for relief against his own acts or evils brought upon the country, was to repeal and annul the constitution of 1820... Amos then found out that the fault was in the courts, not in the banks of the State...

All know that Amos and his creatures have been opposed to the constitution, and they were loud for the election of Clay... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name... He had run his race—he had lost all that he ever had in the State—a traitor to his best friend, a nuisance to his country, a pest to his people, and a disgrace to his name...

I wish it not to be understood that I mean to leave the struggle to others. Very different is my determination. I have reached a time of life when I can only wish to live to be servicable to my country, and my family... I wish it not to be understood that I mean to leave the struggle to others. Very different is my determination. I have reached a time of life when I can only wish to live to be servicable to my country, and my family...

WILLIAM O. FANT (SADDLER E.) RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be ready to receive orders for all the various articles of his trade... He wishes to employ two good and steady journeymen, to whom he will give constant employment and liberal wages.

NOTICE. JOHN B. MOORE, Richard Moore, James Moore, Mordecai Moore, Catharine Moore, Nancy Murphy, Elizabeth Burras, Mary Moore, Sarah Moore, the unknown heirs of Richard Moore deceased, Take Notice, That we shall apply to the Fleming County Court at their June Term, 1837, to appoint three commissioners to convey to us several tracts of land which Richard Moore died and bound himself to convey in his lifetime which he has failed to do.

Young Hal Corn. WILL stand the ensuing season on the stable of the subscriber, living on the road leading from Flemingsburg to the Upper Blue Licks, 4 miles from Flemingsburg, 5 miles from the Upper Lick.

FARM FOR SALE. I WILL sell my farm lying on the head of the Poplar Plains, Fleming County, consisting of one hundred acres of bottom land, about fifty of which are cleared. The land is well watered and timber in the greatest abundance.

ECLIPSE. WILL stand the ensuing season at the stable of Taylor M. Williams, on a half mile east of J. Dudley's plough factory, and one and a half miles north of Flemingsburg, on the road leading to Maysville by the way of Taylor Mill. The pedigree &c. will be given in bills.

INSTRUCTOR. BY Virginia, This thorough bred horse will stand the ensuing season on the stable of Isaac Darnall, two miles south west of Flemingsburg. Further particulars will be given hereafter.

Mountain Leader. OUT of Mason's Old Mountain Leader, so celebrated as a shure foot getter, is a large and very fine Jack, and will stand at the stable of the subscriber living one and a fourth miles east of Flemingsburg.

$50,000. NEW AND CHEAP GOODS. WE have just received and are now opening from the cities of Baltimore and Philadelphia, a large and superior assortment of CLOTHS, selected with great care, and at a very favorable time in the market; which we now offer at lower or than they can be obtained west of the Allegheny mountains.

WILLIAM O. FANT (SADDLER E.) RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be ready to receive orders for all the various articles of his trade... He wishes to employ two good and steady journeymen, to whom he will give constant employment and liberal wages.

NOTICE. JOHN B. MOORE, Richard Moore, James Moore, Mordecai Moore, Catharine Moore, Nancy Murphy, Elizabeth Burras, Mary Moore, Sarah Moore, the unknown heirs of Richard Moore deceased, Take Notice, That we shall apply to the Fleming County Court at their June Term, 1837, to appoint three commissioners to convey to us several tracts of land which Richard Moore died and bound himself to convey in his lifetime which he has failed to do.

Young Hal Corn. WILL stand the ensuing season on the stable of the subscriber, living on the road leading from Flemingsburg to the Upper Blue Licks, 4 miles from Flemingsburg, 5 miles from the Upper Lick.

FARM FOR SALE. I WILL sell my farm lying on the head of the Poplar Plains, Fleming County, consisting of one hundred acres of bottom land, about fifty of which are cleared. The land is well watered and timber in the greatest abundance.

ECLIPSE. WILL stand the ensuing season at the stable of Taylor M. Williams, on a half mile east of J. Dudley's plough factory, and one and a half miles north of Flemingsburg, on the road leading to Maysville by the way of Taylor Mill. The pedigree &c. will be given in bills.

INSTRUCTOR. BY Virginia, This thorough bred horse will stand the ensuing season on the stable of Isaac Darnall, two miles south west of Flemingsburg. Further particulars will be given hereafter.

Mountain Leader. OUT of Mason's Old Mountain Leader, so celebrated as a shure foot getter, is a large and very fine Jack, and will stand at the stable of the subscriber living one and a fourth miles east of Flemingsburg.

ROAD LETTING. THE President and Director of the Turnpike and Macadamizing Company, have the honor to announce that they have contracted for the construction of a portion of the road, to be completed in 1838. Sealed Proposals will be received at Dudley's Hotel, in Flemingsburg, on Friday, the 26th day of April, at 2 o'clock, P. M. for the construction of twenty miles of said road—five miles south of Mayville, five miles north of Flemingsburg, five miles north of Flemingsburg, and five miles north of Flemingsburg.

WILLIAM O. FANT (SADDLER E.) RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be ready to receive orders for all the various articles of his trade... He wishes to employ two good and steady journeymen, to whom he will give constant employment and liberal wages.

NOTICE. JOHN B. MOORE, Richard Moore, James Moore, Mordecai Moore, Catharine Moore, Nancy Murphy, Elizabeth Burras, Mary Moore, Sarah Moore, the unknown heirs of Richard Moore deceased, Take Notice, That we shall apply to the Fleming County Court at their June Term, 1837, to appoint three commissioners to convey to us several tracts of land which Richard Moore died and bound himself to convey in his lifetime which he has failed to do.

Young Hal Corn. WILL stand the ensuing season on the stable of the subscriber, living on the road leading from Flemingsburg to the Upper Blue Licks, 4 miles from Flemingsburg, 5 miles from the Upper Lick.

FARM FOR SALE. I WILL sell my farm lying on the head of the Poplar Plains, Fleming County, consisting of one hundred acres of bottom land, about fifty of which are cleared. The land is well watered and timber in the greatest abundance.

ECLIPSE. WILL stand the ensuing season at the stable of Taylor M. Williams, on a half mile east of J. Dudley's plough factory, and one and a half miles north of Flemingsburg, on the road leading to Maysville by the way of Taylor Mill. The pedigree &c. will be given in bills.

INSTRUCTOR. BY Virginia, This thorough bred horse will stand the ensuing season on the stable of Isaac Darnall, two miles south west of Flemingsburg. Further particulars will be given hereafter.

Mountain Leader. OUT of Mason's Old Mountain Leader, so celebrated as a shure foot getter, is a large and very fine Jack, and will stand at the stable of the subscriber living one and a fourth miles east of Flemingsburg.

ROAD LETTING. THE President and Director of the Turnpike and Macadamizing Company, have the honor to announce that they have contracted for the construction of a portion of the road, to be completed in 1838. Sealed Proposals will be received at Dudley's Hotel, in Flemingsburg, on Friday, the 26th day of April, at 2 o'clock, P. M. for the construction of twenty miles of said road—five miles south of Mayville, five miles north of Flemingsburg, five miles north of Flemingsburg, and five miles north of Flemingsburg.

WILLIAM O. FANT (SADDLER E.) RESPECTFULLY informs the public that he has established himself at Flemingsburg, where he will always be ready to receive orders for all the various articles of his trade... He wishes to employ two good and steady journeymen, to whom he will give constant employment and liberal wages.

NOTICE. JOHN B. MOORE, Richard Moore, James Moore, Mordecai Moore, Catharine Moore, Nancy Murphy, Elizabeth Burras, Mary Moore, Sarah Moore, the unknown heirs of Richard Moore deceased, Take Notice, That we shall apply to the Fleming County Court at their June Term, 1837, to appoint three commissioners to convey to us several tracts of land which Richard Moore died and bound himself to convey in his lifetime which he has failed to do.

Young Hal Corn. WILL stand the ensuing season on the stable of the subscriber, living on the road leading from Flemingsburg to the Upper Blue Licks, 4 miles from Flemingsburg, 5 miles from the Upper Lick.

FARM FOR SALE. I WILL sell my farm lying on the head of the Poplar Plains, Fleming County, consisting of one hundred acres of bottom land, about fifty of which are cleared. The land is well watered and timber in the greatest abundance.

ECLIPSE. WILL stand the ensuing season at the stable of Taylor M. Williams, on a half mile east of J. Dudley's plough factory, and one and a half miles north of Flemingsburg, on the road leading to Maysville by the way of Taylor Mill. The pedigree &c. will be given in bills.

INSTRUCTOR. BY Virginia, This thorough bred horse will stand the ensuing season on the stable of Isaac Darnall, two miles south west of Flemingsburg. Further particulars will be given hereafter.

Mountain Leader. OUT of Mason's Old Mountain Leader, so celebrated as a shure foot getter, is a large and very fine Jack, and will stand at the stable of the subscriber living one and a fourth miles east of Flemingsburg.