Strip Mine Bill Backed By Bureau

By Tevis Bennett
The Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts have combined efforts in sponsoring a national bill which will, it is believed, alleviate some of the undesirable situations resulting from strip and auger mining in Eastern and Western Kentucky. The bill is H.B. 145, introduced by Representative John Stinson of Harrison County. It is cosponsored by Representatives Ashby, Johnson and White.

Major provisions of the bill include: ONE — If the surface of the land prior to strip-piling is classified as 1, 2, 3, or 4 by the Soil Conservation Service, then the operator must grade the overburden to a rolling topography that may be traversed by farm machinery, and the soil profile must be restored. In agricultural production or is suitable for agricultural production prior to strip-piling, then it must be put back in such condition that some day it might again have value as agricultural land.

TWO — The operators would be required to take such precautions as necessary to protect adjacent waterways, and roadways, both public and private, from being damaged or polluted, as a result of the mining operation.

Tobacco Report Probably Won't Stop Any Smoking

There was a smog not too many years back, possibly by Frank Williams, if memory serves correctly, and one of the lines in it went something like this "Puff, puff, puff that cigarette — puff, puff, puff until you puff yourself to death."

It was a humorous song and poked fun at smokers and was good fun and was good humored and entertaining.

The recent indictment of smoking by the government, however, is a serious twist to the subject and should give all smokers a little food for thought.

They will not stop smoking — though some will want to reduce the number of cigarettes smoked. Others will switch to cigars. Some may take to pipes.

For some, who value very little extra years of living, the government indictment of heavy cigarette smoking will have little effect. For others, for young people just beginning or acquiring the habit, the government indictment might mean a different approach to smoking.

"The truth probably is that those who possess genuine will power will act intelligently according to the government indictment. Those who really don't have the necessary will power will continue on the course they have been following."

colleges and the military, will begin to introduce films, films showing lung cancer close up, the deadly results in living, moving pictures, as a means of impressing medical knowledge on citizens. This is the approach the government of Denmark is following to warn its people of the dangers of heavy cigarette smoking today — just as we have used highway accident films to impress upon drivers the dangers of excessive speed and reckless driving.

John Glenn In Political Orbit

Foreigners must think the United States is a wonderful country or something mysterious, perhaps. In England, particularly, where young men are sent to college to prepare for a career in public service, and spend their lives training for politics and government, the news from the United States must be very confusing.

For the latest on our political scene, involving our space program and our politics, is that our first astronaut is now running for the Senate in Ohio. John Glenn, the likable first American to go around the world in a space craft, has quit that field and now is running for the United States Senate as a Democratic candidate.

Just how circling the globe in a space ship qualifies a man for membership in the Senate, or how a Marine career provides the training and experience for a military officer, at 42, to quit and represent a great state in the highest legislative body of the country, is a question which may leave most Europeans a bit perplexed.

New JFK Memorial Is Fitting One

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts has crossed its primary hurdle — approval by Congress. The President's signature on the bill, authorizing federal participation in financing the memorial, was automatic.

The next step must be a vigorous pursuit of dollars from individual citizens across the nation — money needed to match the federal contribution.

In more than one sense, this public fundraising drive will be the most meaningful part of the entire memorial project.

The first order of business, however, was enactment of the federal legislation, designating the cultural center as the official national monument to the slain President, and spelling out the terms of the government's participation.

A host of Senate and House members contributed to its early passage.

Particular credit, however, is due Representative Robert Jones, Democrat of Alabama, who played the major role not only in drafting the bill but in defending it so ably against attack in the House.

It was in any memorial fitting to the late President Kennedy. It is his one, for he did much in emphasizing the importance of cultural pursuits while in the White House and giving them much-needed support throughout the country.

Of course, no one can say that — if elected — he would not make a good Senator. It is possible that he would make the best Senator in the history of his state. If he is elected and does achieve that, it would be about as impressive as was his circling the earth in a space-craft, for he would be achieving this with little preparatory training.

Battle For Water Is Not Over

The plant "water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink" is a familiar one to any English student ever exposed to Coleridge's "Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner."

But it has potentially important and realistic meaning in a much broader sense for much of this country's population today — as much in coastal areas as in the arid plains of the West.

The problem is not the absence of supply but rather of conservation in a form that can meet the nation's needs.

There's ample warning in government studies pointing up the tremendous loss in run-off from denuded forest slopes and in streams polluted by human and industrial waste to the point of complete unfitness.

More and more federal money is being allocated to help cities find other means of sewage disposal than the nation's creeks, streams and rivers.

It's significant, too, that millions of dollars are going into experiments in find ways of converting salt and "brackish" water to usable water by methods cheap enough to be practical for human and industrial use.

There has by no means been progress, but the battle has become increasingly acute as demands increase from a burgeoning population.

MacArthur's Life Is Inspiration

There's a move afoot on Capitol Hill to revive the title of "General of the Armies" for conferral on retired General Douglas MacArthur.

Efforts to authorize such a move is being actively fostered by Sen. Stuart Symington (D. Mo.), former secretary of the Air Force, and Rep. Mendel Rivers (D. S.C.), ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee and slated to become its chairman next year.

It was accorded the late Gen. John J. (Blackjack) Pershing, the storied hero of World War I.

No one has been so close that designation since.

There have been many brilliant and dedicated military leaders in the nation's history since that time, but perhaps none with so long a record as that achieved by MacArthur.

He is remembered by every schoolboy who ever studied modern military history as the leader who came back from disaster at Bataan, and as a leader with the courage of his convictions.

Will The South Be Solid?

Virginia's apple-cheeked Sen. Harry Byrd gave the old adage "silence is golden," a political application in 1960 when then-Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard Nixon were jousting for a key to the White House.

The Old Dominion Democrat avoided an appearance in denouncing the party's camp during the campaign with an endorsement of Nixon. But he also declined to fracture his "golden silence" to support his own party's standard-bearer.

How much that absence of endorsement may have contributed to the final outcome is problematical, but the record shows Virginia ended up in the Nixon column, just as had been the case four years earlier when Eisenhower carried the state.

Senator Byrd is adopting the same silent policy on the question of whether he'll actively support President Lyndon Johnson this summer. But his reaction doesn't sound quite the same when accompanied by his own observation that Virginia supported Johnson at the 1960 convention.

This may be highly significant and it may foretell a solid Democratic front for Johnson in the South.

Caught in the Act

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where one of them big automobile companies is coming out with a new car. They aim to put some out next month and call 'em the "1964-4 Models". The other car makers will fall in line and they ain't no telling where the thing will stop. I'm expecting it to get to three or four showings per year, all done in fractions.

It's going to be a little confusing special to this young generation that ain't learned much arithmetic and has trouble with fractions. Johnny, that already can't read nong no good, ain't going to recollect if he's driving a 1964 Wab or a 1964 W model.

The fellers that designs new car models was claiming the American public needs more than one new car showing a year. It could drive a 2-hour wagon through that fire rucks that they ain't got and it wouldn't do no good. A heap of folks will be buying a 1964's model when they ain't got a good start yet on paying for their 1964's.

These automobile companies is the master thinkers of our age, recollect a few years ago when they come out with all these rain cloud colored cars. They claimed they was not only pretty but they were also going to help you, the road accident. They allowed as they fire rucks had always been painted red so folks could 'em and get out the way. I ain't no mathematician, but it proves that wrecks ain't caused from not seeing the other feller. It proved that fire trucks had light as well as painted black, like funeral cars.

I don't know, Mister Editor, what this world is coming to. Fer instance, Ed Doolittle's daughter, coming by the country store Saturday night looking for Ed, said he hadn't been home since "lunch". Ed's daughter works in one of the city offices and all done in fractions.

Us rural folks, as a general rule, ain't got but three eating times a day, breakfast, dinner, and supper. Dinner comes at close to 12 noon as we can get it, ain't supper come after it gets too dark to work. We ain't got no such thing as "lunch" around here and whenever I use the word dinner in my little piece you'll know I'm talking about the meal that comes about the time of day when the sun is straight up and down over the top of the house.

Me and my old lady was talking about these matters the other day and she allows as how, just when it looks like the country folks know I'm talking about automobiles in fractions, I ain't too shure we'll make it one of these weeks.

Yours truly,
Claig Sprout

The Governor emphasized — and it will be a balanced budget and no new taxes or increases in present laws.

After education, the budget concentrates on roads, and road maintenance.

No money is provided for capital construction. The Governor elaborates on the subject, judge that Kentucky will witness a state of mind in this area, also classroom structures at MSU. Also, no money is provided for producers and usually, intelligible for Federal loans.

The budget will provide for cooperation with the federal government in an effort to upgrade general education in Kentucky, particularly the state university.

Medicinal Matters

General Health Questions Will Be Answered

By Dr. Herbert D. Hudnot Medical Director St. Claire Medical Center

This will be the first of a series of short articles on subjects related to medicine. It will from time to time include some items of interest concerning the St. Claire Medical Center.

Most people don't understand modern medicine very well. Medical facilities and therapy have gotten so complex that a patient often feels he doesn't know what to do. All times he talks to his doctor about the problem at hand, the role of the physician in counseling a patient is not changed through the years.

Diagnosis and operations have changed — there are more exact means of diagnosis, but the physician still has the important job of explaining things to his patients. Many times we forget that the role of the word doctor is "teacher."

Perhaps there are some more general questions about health, disease, hospitals and modern medicine that you will ask by mail. I should like to answer them if you should talk to your family doctor about them. Some of the questions will be chosen to be printed in this column. Only questions bearing the name of the writer will be answered; however, names of the questioner will not be published.

Difficult Job For All Editors

One of the tough tasks for the Editor of this newspaper, or any other newspaper, is to "rate" the news. When we say "rating" we do not mean "manage" or "control" the news, but to select the news items that should be included in the newspaper.

What stories should receive 60, 60 or 60 headlines? What should be put out, or cut to a minimum?

What should appear on page one and give prominence as a "lead" item? The smaller communities believe its meetings, plans, and news reports.

Reached goals, the most important good Editor tries to arrange (not manage) the news so that the recording of events affecting the people, and the news of the highest impact on the economy, are given prominence.

The world is growing smaller, more complex, and to many, a happier place in which to live.

Proposed Change On Cable Called 'Sound Idea'

The News Editor I have noted with interest the proposal by Mr. Pack of Morehead TV Cable, Inc., to add WSAZ-TV and Channel 27, plus an FM channel to the cable for an additional charge of 50¢ per month.

It sounds like a very good bargain and it would have been a gain and it would have been a gain and it would have been a gain and it would have been a gain.

I plan to vote "yes" on the poll which will be held on the 15th of this month. This would be a free music, plus two more channels, sounds good.

printed several news accounts, and editorial comments, about the indigent care problem at St. Claire Medical Center. . . It is the one blotch on this health facility that has grown, and been treated more favorably, than most anticipated.

Perhaps the best explanation we can offer is the statement, and plea, Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., made Tuesday before the Rowan Fiscal Court. Following is the recital of conditions and request for at least $3,500 a year to help ease this burden.

"The 15 member Board of Directors of Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization, is proud to report that St. Claire Medical Center has recorded satisfactory growth since it opened in July of last year. Plans are being prepared for additional specialist assistance and services to provide our people with adequate medical care."

"The hospital administrator, Sister Mary Edwin, and the Chief of Staff, Dr. Herbert Hudnal, concur in this progress report and future planning. The time may not be early when Morehead will be called the health center for this area of Kentucky which will accrue to the economic, social and physical well-being of all of our people."

"This is the bright side of the picture. We feel an obligation to report to you, the elective, and governing unit of Rowan County, that St. Claire Medical Center has encountered a considerable problem that should be the concern of every citizen and of our county government. This is the indigent care (non-paying patients) problem at St. Claire."

"The hospital records show the percentage of indigent patients at St. Claire Medical Center is undeniably high . . . more than twice the state, or national average. At least all of these non-paying patients are from Rowan County, and many from the rural sections where the economy is perhaps not as high as in Morehead."

"The Foundation has given its full cooperation to the Hospital Administrator. However, the Hospital, composed of about 1,200 members who contributed to its leviate this indigent patient problem."

"The Foundation owes $22,000 at the Citizens Bank and the Peoples Bank of Morehead as its final payment of the one-fourth of the cost of the hospital and medical center. This obligation is secured by promissory notes by the 15 members of the Board of Directors of Northeast Kentucky Hospital Foundation, Inc., and by progressive Morehead business and professional men and women who have contributed generously of their time and money."

submit to the Fiscal Court that the people of Rowan County have not been burdened with one cent of taxes for this fine hospital that is operated by the dedicated Sisters."

"It was realized from the outset that the Foundation could propose, and pass a bond issue for a hospital. This is the plan followed by about 50 Kentucky counties so that we would not be burdened for eternity, and through every future generation, with this tax. The people of Rowan County subscribed over $900,000, and the Foundation has fully met its obligation with the exception of the $22,000 heretofore mentioned."

"The indigent care problem is alleviated in the voted hospitals, because tax money is used for that purpose. The procedure of their Fiscal Court is to allocate all the revenue from the bond tax to the hospital, and it is used for the over-all operating expenses, including indigent patients."

"When a hospital was proposed for Morehead in 1950, the Foundation Board of Directors unanimously opposed taking the 'easy path' by having our people vote such a bond issue, which would have been approved since our people in desperate need of health facilities. The Foundation remains firm today in opposition to an additional tax levy, and would recommend such procedure only as a last resort."

"Our perusal of the financial records of Rowan County we find that prior to the opening of St. Claire Medical Center it was the accepted practice for the County Judge and/or the Fiscal Court to issue vouchers of 'Approval,' or 'Assent,' in the amount of $50 to have these indigent Rowan County patients admitted into hospitals at Lexington, Mt. Sterling, Maysville, Flemingsburg, West Liberty and Ashland. These, and other hospitals, would not admit these people who desperately needed hospitalization and medical attention, until the county guaranteed the initial $50."

"Rowan County's financial records also show numerous, and repeated, expenditures for food and clothing for indigent citizens. The Foundation believes that the practice of issuing the $50 assistance vouchers is not the best approach because: 1. This sustains an unenviable burden on the County Judge and members of the Fiscal Court in approving one individual and turning down another; 2. Patients who obtain such a $50 gratuity are prone to think this covers their hospital bill when it generally is many times this amount; and 3. Many of the indigent are emergency patients, requiring immediate medical treatment and hospitalization."

"After much deliberation, and weighing this alarming indigent care problem, the Foundation recommends that the Rowan County Fiscal Court appropriate $300 a month ($5,000 annually) to St. Claire Medical Center for indigent care; that this money be used only for indigent patients who are bona-fide residents of Rowan County, and that the Administrator of St. Claire Hospital submit in writing, to the Rowan County Fiscal Court before the end of each fiscal year (June 30) a statement of how this money was applied, detailing the indigent patients, services and treatment. The Foundation recognizes that $300 a year will cover only a part of the hospital bills of these County's indigent patients. At the same time, the Foundation is aware that Rowan is not a rich county, although local tax revenues have climbed more, percentage wise, in recent years than in any neighboring county."

"The foregoing statement," and request, was presented to the Court by bankers Glenn W. Lane and J. Roger Caudill, who head the indigent care committee. Other members of the Foundation, including Dr. C. Louise Caudill and Commonwealth Attorney E. M. Hoggie spoke briefly about this ever-growing problem."

"The petition bore the names of these 15 members of the Board of Directors of the Foundation which spearheaded the community effort that made our dream of a hospital at Morehead come true. C. P. Caudill, John Rogers, Glenn W. Lane, Eldon T. Evans, E. M. Hoggie, J. M. Clayton, William R. Ruzor, Aubrey Kautz, Dr. C. Louise Caudill, Dr. Adron Doran, Dr. E. D. Blair, Otto P. Carr, Bob Allen, D. B. Caudill, and W. E.

Craucher, and the ex-officio members of the Foundation Board — Sister Mary Edwin, Dr. Herbert Hudnal and Dr. Warren Proudfoot."

Significant in the request are: 1. Rowan County has, in the past, guaranteed $50 before indigent patients would be admitted to out-of-town hospitals; and 2. St. Claire, probably only one of Kentucky hospitals in towns the size of Morehead, was built without a bond issue on which the people will be paying for generations to come."

"We must face the reality that although Morehead has experienced growth and prosperity, many of our rural people have had a tough row to hoe with small tobacco bases and limited incomes."

"After the Foundation presented this request the Court spent the rest of the morning hearing pleas from people, mostly aged, for medicine, coal and food. County Judge Plannery, and the Court, said this was a pitiful occurrence at every level of the court."

'63 Traffic Mishaps Set A New Record Tobacco Meeting At Morehead To Hear U of K Specialists

Traffic accidents killed 43,400 Americans last year — a record toll. They hit an unprecedented death rate of 110 a day. They injured an estimated 1.6 million persons, only enough so they were dispersed at the accident beyond the day of the least.

They cost about $7.7 billion in wage losses, medical expenses, insurance and property damage. The National Safety Council, in reporting the figures Saturday night, said the 1963 total exceeded the previous record of 40,897 set in 1962 by six percent.

With every month of 1963 except January recording a higher toll than the corresponding month of 1962, the record went far beyond the old one.

Bootlegging

Due to a recent article in this local paper concerning a meeting at the M.S.C. which clarified the subject to the people of this county and to the personnel and students at this great College of ours. 1. I am sure the faculty and those who attended the meeting on the 23 of Jan 1964 are as concerned as much as I, W. C. Flannery Co Judge of Rowan Co am about the Welfare of our College and Co residents. 2. There has been to me and other county officials if asked a bad reflection or slanted in that respect. I wish to state that as a Co official I have issued, and C. E. Lewis the sheriff awarded and received convictions on all cases in bootlegging in Rowan Co where they must pay and swear to the affidavit when they receive proper warrants where—our State police and County Sheriff can do their duty, which as of now they have. I further wish to have worked with and the officials, whom I have complimented with the Ky State police for a marvelous job which they are doing I wish to compliment remarkable job they are doing Statewide. 3. Now to get down to the root of the matter, our college is a fine institution of higher learning. I think the students who come here are a fine group of students. They are no different than any other boys and variously get off base occasionally and do such things as write checks without sufficient funds when shopping they occasionally pick a small object up without paying for it and once occasion hampered the fire dept in extinguishing a blaze at what is known as Lil Abners Rest, and committed minor violations such as traffic citations, all these things are misdemeanors which some of us have had in the process of growing up and I further state that they should not be treated as criminals. 4. It has been narrated about that some of the alcohol beverages consumed by the college students has been purchased in wet territory

Senator Morton Picks Nominees For West Point The Senator Thurston B. Morton has picked his nominees for the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. The two principal choices are Tyler B. Parsons, 18, Louisville, and David Black, 19, Atlanta. The senatorial system of nominations to the service academies allows the senator to nominate candidates to matriculate simultaneously at each of the four academies — Military, Naval, Air Force, and Merchant Marine. Morton had just the two openings at West Point. In addition to choosing a principal nominee for each opening, three successive alternates are picked. The nomination devolves upon them in the order of their names, following the principals: Morton's alternates are: First, Clyde W. Trevathan, Paducah; second, Gary N. Seibel, 18, Fort Thomas; second, Michael W. Burkhardt, 16, Junction City, and Ron Russell, 17, Louisville, and third, Howard T. Legislature— (Continued from page one.) The Finance Department has been given full blast nights and weekdays to meet the tentative deadline set by Breathitt for introducing the budget. Basically, the legislators already know what State agencies have requested in the next two years. Bulky documents with all the details were distributed to them at the legislative conference. What they don't know is the Governor's recommendations on the requests. They will come Monday afternoon. "A good many small-type items that don't relate directly to State Government have been cut or reduced," Joyner said.

Leaf Average— (Continued from page one.) A total of 766,063,211 pounds of leaf have been produced at an average price of $59.03 per hundred. Gross sales for the total 1962 crop totaled 70,863,750 pounds and averaged $55.42. FEDERAL JOBS CUT— The next two years will see almost 6,000 jobs eliminated from the Federal pay roll, the White House reports. The Hatchery, press aide, said that the heads of 47 departments and 23 agencies have chopped 291 government jobs for the fiscal year ending June 30, and an additional 316 for the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1965.

brought back onto the college campus and there being consumed by other students or consumed. Now I suggest to Dr. Adrian Doran and the administrative staff that if these things are going on that they cooperate themselves with the local Governmental bodies and try to curtail a great deal of these problems before they come to the attention of the local authorities. 1. I ascertain the thought if there are alcoholic beverages being consumed on the M.S.C. premises as they stated at the meeting, why then don't they the college make a complete raid on the dormitories rooms and parking areas. If they request improper searches and seizure then they have the chance to do so. I hereby state that a Co official sworn to by oath that I will have a part of any illegal procedure or use my office to publicly harass the citizens of this Co. 2. If the College are receiving these undesirable students at enrollment time, why then don't they do a better job of screening the enrollment. 3. If these students are permitted to enroll at M.S.C., then I am going to treat them with due honor and fair judgment and fair in scoring and is ninth in the nation with a 27.0 average, and Ware (14.8) at the guards. Akin is the Eagles' second leading scorer with a 20.5 which is good for the number three spot in the conference. Kohler is averaging 11.5 points in his two starts while the other forward spot will probably be manned by 6-4 senior Bob Hoover, a real scrapper who is averaging 5.3 points and several rebounds a game. The line, Morehead freshman team will host the Villa Madonna frosh at 5:00 p.m. Saturday in a preliminary to the 7:30 East Tennessee game. MSC Co-Ed Found Israeli People 'Frank But Kind' In Long Visit

From Northeastern Kentucky to Jerusalem is a long step for anyone, especially a girl from a small farming community.

But Ann Sandifer, a 21-year-old Morehead State College senior from Mt. Olivet, inside the Transilvania and has returned to the United States after a six-month stay in Israel.

She has been kept busy on speaking engagements throughout the region and even on campus can be found with a group of her fellow students answering questions about the trip.

Last June 21, she boarded the S. S. Jerusalem Special bound for Israel as Kentucky's representative in the International Farm Youth Exchange.

A home economics major from the rural Robertson County, she was selected by the National 4-H Club Foundation as an exchange student with Israel for a six-month period.

"It was a tremendous challenge I had wanted to undertake for as long as I can remember," she said.

Ann Sandifer
said, "because it was an opportunity to learn another way of life by living it."

During her visit, she traveled over 20,000 miles, including stopovers in Italy and Austria, sharing the work and social life of her hosts.

While in Israel she lived with five different families and visited Arab and Israeli families from the Northern Judean hills to the desert areas in the South.

"I found the people were frank, but kindhearted. The atmosphere of the country was like none other, especially in such holy places as the boyhood home of Jesus Christ in Nazareth," she said.

Recreation for the 21-year-old ambassador consisted primarily of hiking, swimming and sailing. "Festivals and weddings were all so noted social highlights," she said, "and the people have a love for the good music that is so common."

As an exchange student, Miss Sandifer found she had a great responsibility to Americans in Israel people like Americans in America," she said, "but not as sentry my country well, they would like me and then like my country."

Her formula for success was a good one, as she made many new friends in the small, history-rich country.

"It's funny," she said, "how hard it is for the people there to realize the size of America. Israel is only 200 miles long and 70 miles wide, about one fifth the size of Kentucky."

Although she was kept busy during her visit, Miss Sandifer will receive little opportunity to relax now that she has returned.

"I still have to complete my final semester at Morehead State," she said, "and I have many talks scheduled and several radio and television appearances to make before I can begin to take life easy."

During her 13 years as a 4-H member, she has won many pins, ribbons and plaques in public speaking, home improvement, junior and senior citizenship, and other projects. She attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago last year.

Her 4-H career began as a fourth grader at Deming in Mt. Olivet, where she has a sister, a brother, a brother-in-law and a sister-in-law. Her father, Herbert, is a Robertson County farmer.

At Morehead State College, she is a member of the Home Economics Club and the Cosmopolitan Club.

A contest to select "Mrs. Kentucky" will be sponsored in March by the Homebuilders' Association of Louisville, 310-11 Madrid Building.

The Louisville title 21 years old and over anywhere in the United States are eligible to enter the 21-year-old contest.

State champions and Mrs. America will be chosen for their ability as homemakers and for their poise, personality, good grooming and participation in community activities.

Mrs. America of 1964 will be selected from among champion homemakers representing each of the 50 States and the District of Columbia during the Mrs. America Pageant next Apr. 2-12 in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The pageant still held in conjunction with the St. Petersburg State of States, sponsored by The Suncoasters, an organization of leading businessmen.

Miss Ruth Brooker, managing director of Mrs. America, Inc., said Mrs. America of 1964 will win a dazzling array of prizes, including:

Brooker said that each State titleholder also will receive valuable prizes, including:

A complete trip to St. Petersburg for herself and her husband when she competes in the national finals.

A 16 mm color print of the film to be made of the Mrs. America Pageant plus a gift package of soaps and detergents.

Welfare Pay Rose In All But 1 Area

Payments to Kentucky's public-assistance recipients increased in all but one category during 1963, State Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell has reported.

The total of monthly grants during 1963 amounted to $24,106,000. Total funds for the blind, aged and disabled increased by $1,143,288, but dropped by $1,216,700 in the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) category. This reflected an overall drop of $72,477 for the entire public assistance program during 1963.

Powell said the 1963 changes were caused by a shift in the number of recipients in various categories during the year.

In December 1963, the ADC program provided grants to 73,800 people — about 5,000 less than were on the rolls in December 1962.

The State Economic Security Department has been reviewing ADC cases for the past year in an effort to find and remove those who were originally eligible but no longer are.

ADC funds disbursed in 1963 totaled $21,399,763, compared with $23,615,522 in 1962.

The other three categories of public assistance had increased numbers of recipients in 1963, Powell reported.

Old Age Assistance recipients increased by about 1,600, to a total of 25,000 on the rolls in December. There were 2,388 recipients of Aid to the Needy Blind in December 1963, Powell said, an increase of only 24 over last December. Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled was provided for 2,307 recipients in December, for an increase of 426 over the same month in 1962.

Seek $10 Million For Leaf Research At University

A $10 million increase in federal budget requests for tobacco research at the National Tobacco Research Laboratory in Lexington has been asked by Rep. William H. Natcher.

In testimony before a House Agriculture Subcommittee last week, Natcher, of Bowling Green, said the money was needed for an immediate expansion of tobacco research, including investigations to determine any detrimental effects smoking may have on health.

The Lexington facility has been allotted $435,000, which he said research projects being conducted by the Commonwealth of Kentucky have been set down for $86,000 in a $15 million request for tobacco research made by President Johnson.

The subcommittee is holding hearings to determine if more federal funds should be authorized for investigation of the effects of cigarette smoking.

Half The People Are 90 Days From Bankruptcy — Kellerman

A federal bankruptcy referee says the lure of easy credit is leading people to declare bankruptcy in record numbers.

S. W. Kellerman Jr., became a referee in 1960 when 254 bankruptcy petitions were filed in U.S. District Court at Louisville. Last year, the number was 2.

Kellerman said that many persons are so eager for "something of material value" that they are willing to assume "back-breaking obligations" to obtain it.

"They seldom ask how much an item costs. It's how much a week. Saving has been discouraged," he said, "and people are living from payday to payday."

"I am inclined to believe that half the people are 90 days away from bankruptcy," he said.

Kellerman said the problem is national in scope, has many complex causes and presents no simple problem. But, the bankruptcy referee said, an educational program to teach the actual costs involved in a purchase might help.

"Most people lack a basic course in economics," he said,

Fisherman Has Larger Choice In Kentucky Than Anyplace

A fisherman has more chances to catch a greater variety of fish in Kentucky than in any other state. That is the opinion of the Fishery boys of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and a host of Kentucky men and women whose favorite pastime is catching fish.

Reasons back of this assertion are many, not the least of which is the fact that Kentucky has eight major lakes constructed by the U. S. Corps of Engineers and those are the old starfish — Dale Hollow, Cumberland, Kentucky, Hermiton, Dewey, Rough River, Buckhorn and Nolichucky.

And ready for fishing almost immediately, although the final completion dates have not yet been reached, are gigantic Barkley, alongside Kentucky Lake where a good amount of water will be impounded by early spring; Barren No. 2 and Fishtrap. These lakes offer specialties in fishing, but nonetheless they contain about every species of fish native to Kentucky.

Then, to augment this vast acreage of water, there are the state-owned lakes scattered throughout Kentucky, stocked and managed by the Department and many of which are havens for vast throngs of local fishermen. The abundant water is further augmented by a new program under which Act 100, celebrated Public Works funds are matched by state agencies and under the direction of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, new lakes are being constructed. To date, under this new program, two new lakes have been completed and six more are under way.

Then there's the Chain of Lakes program under which highway fills are utilized to impound water, and this program already has created many acres of new fishing waters. Not to be overlooked, too, are the approximately 13,000 miles of running water within the confines of the Commonwealth where variety of fishing is furnished and the 50,000 farm ponds which are mecca for local and farm family fishing right in the back doors of many Kentuckians.

Add to these facts the story of the abundant supply of many varieties of fish, the accessibility of the favorite fishing spots and the fine job of management carried out by the Division of Fisheries and it can readily be understood why Kentucky offers the finest variety of fishing anywhere in the southeastern United States.

In the past few years many miles of water lakes constructed by have been discovered and these small streams have been stocked with the rainbows. Year-round fishing is offered in these waters.

And now for the fishes:

Kentucky is known as the bass capital of the world. There's the largemouth and smallmouth, the yellow bass and the white bass and the Kentucky bass. They're available in just about every lake and stream in Kentucky.

Add to those the crappie crop; the bluegill and shellcracker; the freshwater drum and the catfish; the buffalo and the redear; and the experimentally stocked rock fish, a salt water white bass that gives promise of adapting itself to Kentucky waters, and you have a well rounded family of fishes the like of which no other state may boast.

And there's fishing of every type in Kentucky. You may cast the artificial lure, you may jig fish with nightcrawlers; the garden worm is an excellent bait; minnows take great strings of fish. There are favorite times of the year for the use of these various baits, but a fisherman need not be idle a single day in Kentucky if he fishes.

Even in muddy water he'll catch fish. The black bass, the largemouth and early spring. All species go wild in the spring, summer and fall and when the winter freezes over, a great segment of Kentucky fishermen are taking fish, by fishing through a hole in the ice.

Fishing is a 365 day a year pastime in Kentucky. Even when it is leap year, they'll have an added day in which to catch fish.

Falcon proves it's America's toughest compact in the rugged Monte Carlo Rallye!

Four Falcons started from Oslo, four from Paris, on routes calculated to be equal in difficulty and length. Weather conditions varied from clear, better road through freezing fog to blinding snow—and the time schedule kept us guessing for days. Here a Falcon weets through a sudden snow shower, testing question in a practice run.

only 163 were still in the rally when the field straggled into Monaco—but they included all eight of the specially equipped Falcons that originally started!

Through-out-of-eight record was perhaps more remarkable than the fact that, despite a banheap formula that favored the smallest cars, a Falcon captured second place overall. One car can have luck — but ought leave to have total performance. Because the Rallye entails a variety of working and road conditions the content can provide and because it winds up on the most remote byways in the French Maritime Alps, it is a supreme test of all the car's abilities. Falcon steering had to be flawless to clear the above 1,000-foot drop. Those fabulous V-8's had to run like dynamo.

The final results in the Monte Carlo Rallye gave Falcon 2nd place overall, 1st in Class 8 of the Touring category, 1st and 2nd in Class 3 of the much tougher Grand Touring category, 1st and 2nd in the final three-hour test in the Monte Carlo circuit. The best finish by a Valiant was 88th overall. Falcon gained invaluable experience in how to build a car better, make it tougher, sharpen up its total performance. That's the real reason Ford is interested in open competition—and why Ford-builders cars have got so much more to show drivers. Drive one and see; it won't leave six lights, or a burn you can't hear for four miles in stormy weather, or the other special rally equipment—but it'll sure surprise you!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

Boys' Work Facility Located In Morgan

The United States has approved $22,000 in grants for construction of two boys' work camps in Eastern Kentucky, the State said Monday.

One grant authorizes $10,198 for facilities at a wooded site on Lake Cumberland. The State will provide another $88,000.

The second grant of $22,500 will go toward construction on a campsite in Morgan County. The State will also put up $32,500.

The Child Welfare Department previously announced plans to build the camps.

The Cumberland camp is expected to be the most ambitious project to become a national prototype of the Division Conservation Corps of the 1960's.

The Morgan County camp is to be built at a wooded site near Lexington and from the State Reception and Diagnostic Center at Lyndon.

They would work at clearing the 56-acre tract and also would help in fire fighting, conservation and reforestation of the surrounding 25,000-acre area.

The Morgan County project will be built at the State Forestry Division's Woodhead Tree Nursery. It would house 40 younger boys — down to age 16.

Child Welfare Commissioner Richard Chestnut said bids will be asked on the Cumberland facilities as soon as designs are finished. Included will be living quarters, administrative offices, and access roads.

Chestnut said construction at the Morgan County site will begin in several weeks.

"It's planned for the younger boys for whom there is only the overcrowded facility at Kentucky Village," he said.

"The separation of children by age, experience, and behavior is difficult."

32,000 Carriers Now Serve Rural Postal Patrons

Rural free delivery of mail grows bigger every day. It costs $75 million, about six percent of the total Post Office Department budget, and serves 20 percent of the nation's population. The number of persons getting rural free delivery has risen 40 percent in the last 20 years and today totals 85 million. But the number of rural mailmen has decreased 25 percent now numbering 32,000.

Senator Frank Carlson of Kansas called the state of RFD, 67 years ago, "a noble experiment which has contributed greatly to the social, economic, and cultural life of our citizens in rural and suburban America."

Kentucky's New Travel Show Display

KENTUCKY'S NEW TRAVEL SHOW EXHIBIT, featuring a panel of rotating elements which alternately show two different and inviting Kentucky scenes, will be used at travel shows throughout the midwest to attract vacationers to the state. The State Department of Public Information's 30-foot long exhibit also displays illuminated color photographs of Kentucky State parks and other tourist attractions and provides ample space for travel folders. Public Information Commissioner Cattie Lou Miller (center) discusses the attractive new exhibit with Mrs. Frances Durrett, one of the State travel division employees who act as hostesses when the exhibit is on display. Travel Division Director W. L. Knight listens to the recorded message which tells prospective vacationers of Kentucky's many attractions. A large map of the state (in front of the phone) shows the location of Kentucky's lakes and resort areas. Two identical exhibits have been constructed to permit coverage of out-of-state travel shows.

Kentucky Produce Carried In Wide Area By Trucks

When the dinner bell rings to night in New York, Chicago, Denver and Los Angeles — not to mention all the towns and cities in between — families will sit down to meals that are almost certain to feature one or more Kentucky-produced vegetables, fruits or meat products.

The state's trucking industry plays a vital role in distributing those products from coast-to-coast. According to the Kentucky Motor Transport Association, fifteen major produce markets in the nation report that all fresh fruits and vegetables received at those points from Kentucky arrive by truck.

While Kentucky-based "over-the-road" or long-distance, trucks carry state agricultural products to communities hundreds, or even thousands of miles away, a sizable army of farm trucks are kept busy hauling the produce from the farm to its initial market, from which it is distributed nationally.

There are 101,666 registered farm trucks engaged in carrying food to market in Kentucky. KMTA pointed out. This is nearly 40 percent of all trucks registered in Kentucky. They make their presence felt in the statistics that always serve as a barometer of any industry's value. The statewide trucking organization notes that the Louisville Stockyard arrives at 99.5 percent of cattle arriving by truck, slightly lower percentage — 93.3 percent — at that point by truck. Trucks score a clean sweep on calves and hogs, however, with 100 percent of incoming shipments arriving by truck.

EDUCATION BILL

President Johnson signed legislation setting up a $12 million program to help colleges build classrooms, laboratories and libraries. The measure authorized $25 million in grants and $300 million in low-interest loans over three years. President Johnson called it the most significant education bill in history.

ECONOMY AND 1964

Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges says the United States economy probably will expand 3 percent to another record in 1964 and prices will remain fairly stable. In the interview and outlook on the state of the nation's economy, Hodges said that personal income has bounded upward $300 per person in three years, and may rise $100 more in 1964.

Ward Urges Another Road Bond Issue

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward urged Thursday a new highway bond issue to continue Kentucky's road-building program. Funds from bond issues voted in 1956 and 1960 will be exhausted by the end of the fiscal year, he told the Kentucky Petroleum Marketers Association convention.

A new issue will be necessary to match funds offered to the state under the federal highway program, Ward said.

"If we must go into debt to build a road system," he said, "let's do it... that's what private industry would do."

Ward told a reporter a bond issue proposal might be submitted to the General Assembly in March.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has said he would ask the legislature to approve a vote by the people on such an issue this fall. He said it would be an alternative to an increase in gasoline taxes or automobile-license fees. It would be, Breathitt said, in "the area of $100 million."

State School Head Is Moving To Abolish Way He Got Post

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, Kentucky's new superintendent of public instruction, says the last election, if he had his way, would be the last election of Dr. Sparks' specific goals to obtain approval by the current State Legislature of a bill to amend the office appointive and not elective.

"I will promote passage in the Legislature of an amendment whereby members of the State Board of Education will be elected by popular vote on a partisan ballot," he said. "They would then choose a commissioner of education to serve as their executive officer."

Seven Board members now are appointed by the Governor, usually from various sections of the state.

Dr. Sparks' plan already has been endorsed by the Kentucky Education, School Administrators, Parent-Teachers, and School Boards associations.

"In the last 10 years," he added, "all states have adopted this plan to keep public education out of politics as much as possible. Our changing state of Ohio is catching up. The new concept of educational leadership in the hands of truly professional administrators, plus a direct relationship with representatives responsible to the people."

He plans no immediate major reorganization in the Department of Education. Whatever changes are made will be done after a study in which Department personnel will discuss means "where effectively. We will determine what services we should offer and the type of organization to most efficiently provide these services."

This planning will incorporate recommendations made by the New York consulting firm of Greenup, McCormick and Paganet in a study made last spring. It was authorized by the Governor's Commission of Public Education.

A minor change already effected in charge of these bureaus.

These included Samuel M. Alexander, Valley Station, already an assistant superintendent, who handles administration and finance; Don C. Bale, Hardyville, instructional; E. P. Hilton, Greemp, vocational education; and Ben F. Coffman, Slaughter, rehabilitation services.

In praising the "splendid job" by his predecessor, Wendell P. Butler, Dr. Sparks also expressed his appreciation for Butler's cooperation in the changeover.

Dr. Sparks served as an assistant superintendent for six weeks before assuming the top position. "This has been most helpful to me in making a smooth transition," he said.

Dr. Sparks' new superintendent brings post over 30 years of experience in teaching and administration on the secondary and elementary level and 15 more on the K. E. A. in 1959-60 and its Teacher Education and Professional Standards Committee.

Nine-County Heart Clinic Scheduled Here On Feb. 19

Physicians in the nine-county area of Bath, Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup, Lawrence, Menifee, Morgan and Rowan have been invited to take part in a one-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent patients to be held in the Rowan County Health Department, Feb. 19.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association and the State and County Health Departments, the clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient, along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. It also provides an opportunity for the referring physician to consult with the clinician regarding his patient.

Necessary expenses of the clinic are being underwritten by the Kentucky Heart Association and the Kentucky State Department of Health. Clinic personnel, as well as space and equipment, will be provided by the Rowan County Health Department and the State Health Department.

Only those patients who have been referred by a physician and have a written referral will be admitted to the clinic.

Highway Program To Impart Information To Officials

The Kentucky Department of Highways will concentrate on providing pertinent information about its giant program to all interested parties during the 16th annual Kentucky Highway Conference at the University of Kentucky.

The meeting will be held Mar. 10-11 with an expected attendance of 500 state, local and county officials, as well as Highway Department personnel.

"We're especially interested in attendance at this meeting by the local and county officials from throughout the state, as well as Chamber of Commerce representatives and other groups which have a vital stake in the highway program of Kentucky," Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said.

"We're working now on developing a program for the conference which will be both informative and beneficial to all who attend," Ward said. "There is much information and many facts about the program which we want to give to the leaders of the state and we're sure they will be interested in learning more about the highway program."

Ward, himself, will appear at two of the general conference sessions and will be available for informal talks with interested groups. Also scheduled on the program are M. W. Tindler, deputy commissioner for Rural and Secondary Highways, and H. H. Sandusky, director of that division.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt will address the group, as will John Whitman, Breathitt's assistant for Area Development and executive secretary of the President's Appalachian Regional Commission. He will report on the status of the program, of which roads and highways are a prominent part.

First general session of the conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. Mar. 10 at Memorial Hall. The remainder of the two-day program will be held at the University Student Center.

Fraud Is Alleged In Payments For Retraining Aid

Martin County authorities said Saturday two families had paid $85 to men who said they would help obtain training for unemployed persons.

Officers picked up two suspects and held them on charges of reckless driving while the investigation is under way.

Unemployed fathers in the area have signed recently for training courses at the Mayo Vocational school at Paintsville. They are to receive about $16 weekly under a government program while in training.

Authorities said three or four families had complained about callers who stated they were from an employment office in Paducah. One family gave $20 and another $75 in belief they were signing for job training, officers added.

Library Services Set A Record Last Year

Record numbers of new books, recordings, films and framed pictures furnished by the State Department of Libraries enriched local libraries in 63 Kentucky counties last year, according to statistics released by Miss Margaret Willis, State Librarian.

The State Department of Libraries also increased the geographic span of library regions by creation of the new three-county Pine Mountain Region and addition of three other counties to existing regions. This brings the coverage of Kentucky's network of 12 library regions to 63 counties, Miss Willis said.

The 104,730 books selected, catalogued, and shipped through the state by the Department last year included 55,900 volumes for Bookmobile use and 48,830 for county libraries and regional headquarters collections.

The Department also supplied 1,518 photograph records of serious music with ins and other educational subjects and added 38 educational films to its film library in Frankfort. Films are available on request through regional libraries.

Both books and records are catalogued, bound in plastic jackets and ready for use on arrival at the libraries. The Department added 146 framed pictures to county libraries.

The agency's reference division answered 22,878 requests for information or material. Frankfort residents checked out 16,171 books from the reference library and 3,097 volumes were added to this collection during 1963.

Fifteen new Bookmobiles were ordered by the department last fall and were delivered this month. Some of the new vehicles are being used in LaRue, Taylor and Perry counties which have initiated their first Bookmobile service. Eleven other counties received the vehicles as replacements of older, smaller Bookmobiles.

These 11 counties are Johnson, Harlan, Laurel, Union, Bullitt, Magoffin, Bell, Leslie, Fendleton, Rockcastle, and Knox.
