MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 2 --- Two Morehead State University students, Linda McKee and Wayne Clifford, recently attended the five-day National 4-H Congress in Chicago and came away with top awards.

Miss McKee, a freshman home economics major won the Ohio competition in home improvement. A sophomore agriculture and business major, Clifford was top in Kentucky's agriculture competition.

The congress program was "patriotic, religious and moving as well as fun," said Miss McKee. The 4-H delegates were given special concerts by The Cowsills, The Chicago Symphony Orchestra and the New Christy Minstrels.

Other highlights of the congress for the 1600 delegates were tours of the Chicago museums, meeting Miss America and a $30,000 breakfast given for them.

To enter the state competition, 4-Hers had to belong to the club at least three years and show evidence of having done extensive work in a particular category.

Miss McKee, a 4-H member eleven years, redecorated her bedroom, refinished and upholstered a chair, refinished a drop-leg table, a writing desk and chair and bronzed a pair of baby shoes. Her sponsor, the S & H Company, gave her a pair of silver candlesticks.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman McKee of Manchester, Ohio.

Sponsored by the International Harvester Company, Clifford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Clifford of Cynthiana. A 10-year 4-H member, Clifford raised dairy cattle as well as field crops. His improvement during the ten years of work was the basis for his winning the Kentucky agriculture competition.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 3---Dr. Gregor Ziemer, program director of the Institute of Lifetime Learning, will be the keynote speaker at a conference on the aging to be held at Morehead State University Monday, January 13.

Business leaders, personnel directors of industry, mayors, school superintendents, retired persons, and university people interested in programs for the aging are being invited to the conference, said Dr. Morris L. Norfleet, Vice President for Research and Development at Morehead State University.

The one-day conference will open at 9:30 a.m. with registration in Alumni Tower. At 10:00 a.m., Dr. Adron Doran, Morehead State University President, will deliver a short welcoming speech.

Dr. Ziemer, who received his BA degree from the University of Michigan, his MA from the University of Minnesota, and his PhD from the University of Berlin, will speak at 10:15. His subject will be "Too Old for What?" He recently published a book by the same title and his works also include "2,010 Days of Hitler" and "Education for Death."

Eugene Hoke, Kentucky Commissioner on the Aging, will outline Kentucky's state plan for the aging at 11:00 p.m. Following Hoke's talk, a selected panel will present its reaction to the keynote address and the state plan for Kentucky.

The afternoon session will begin at 1:00 p.m. with "To Touch a Child," a film depicting the development of a community school program.

Following the viewing of the film, small groups will discuss the needs for the aging and present summaries of each group's discussion.

At 2:30 p.m., Dr. Norfleet will lead the group in the formulation of a regional plan for a program on the aging.

"With the increasing number of people of retirement age who have a tremendous amount of experience and skill to offer, it behooves a university to help develop a means whereby these people can contribute to society along their lines of specialties and to help provide a re-orientation of their lives," Dr. Norfleet said.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 4--Political figures "run in the family" of Linda Davis, a sophomore from Grayson majoring in mathematics and business at Morehead State University. Currently serving in Kentucky's House of Representatives is Linda's brother, James Adair Davis. Her father served for 17 years in the Kentucky General Assembly, and her mother was a state senator for four years.

Does Linda have hopes of continuing the political traditions of her family? "I'd like to work in a government office," she said, "but I don't know that I ever will."

Linda is an honorary page in the Kentucky Senate and served in this capacity for several weeks of her mother's term. She was invited to Governor Nunn's inaugural ball, but was unable to attend because of classes.

The three Davis legislators are all graduates of Morehead State University.

James, a business administration major, graduated in 1963. At the age of 25, he was sworn in as a Kentucky representative.

Linda's mother, the former Pauline Burton, graduated from Morehead in 1939 and also attended University Breckinridge School.

James Harry Davis, Linda's father, graduated from the University in 1936. He served three terms in the House of Representatives and was elected to three in the Senate. Before his death in 1957, he won the senatorial primary in his district.

Mrs. Davis served a short remaining senate term in her husband's place. She took over his campaign and was elected to a full senate term.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 8--Works by San Francisco, California, bayarea artists will be on display in the Claypool-Young Art Building at Morehead State University January 8-22.

Entitled "Small Prints," the exhibition will consist of a wide selection of works by such well-known artists as Richard Diebenkorn, Arthur Okamura, Nathan Olivera and William Wiley.

The prints are graphically illustrated in black and white.

Although print making is a dying art, California print makers produce a wide selection of their variety of approaches to print making.

Gallery hours are: Monday and Wednesday, 10:00 a.m. -10:00 p.m.; Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 10:00 a.m. -5:00 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday, 1:00-5:00 p.m.

The "Small Prints" exhibition is a traveling show booked through the San Francisco Art Institute.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 16---Dr. E. Paul Torrance, an international expert on creativity in education, will conduct a day-long seminar at Morehead State University Friday for area high school counselors.

The session will concern creativity and disadvantaged youth. Sponsored by the university's "Operation Talent Search," the seminar also will involve Morehead State University faculty members.

Dr. Torrance, chairman of the Department of Educational Psychology at the University of Georgia, has published numerous books, magazine articles and booklets on his subject.

The seminar opens at 8:30 a.m. in Room 503 of the Graduate Studies Building. University faculty members will join the discussions at 2 p.m.

"Operation Talent Search," a federally-funded special project, covers 21 Eastern Kentucky counties and is involved in identifying disadvantaged high school graduates with exceptional academic potential, supplying them information and assistance on student aid and encouraging dropouts to return to school.

MOREHEAD, Ky. Jan. 17 -- Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology at Morehead State University, is one of two candidates for the presidency of the American Vocational Association.

The AVA, the second largest educational organization in the nation with 50,000 members, is the only national professional organization devoted exclusively to vocational and practical arts education.

Dr. Grote, who was nominated by the Division of Industrial Arts of the AVA, is opposed for the top position by Joseph J. Carrel of Purdue University.

Balloting by mail will take place in February and the new president will take office on July 1.

"It is certainly a distinct honor to be nominated for the presidency of the AVA, " said Dr. Grote, "and if elected I will do my utmost to represent with distinction Morehead State University and the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

Dr. Grote has been at Morehead State University since 1960 and has guided the School of Applied Sciences and Technology through a period of great growth and development.

He holds the B.S. degree from Eastern Illinois University, the M. Ed. degree from the University of Missouri, and the Ed.D. from the University of Illinois. The 40-year-old is married and has four children and is the immediate past-Lt. Governor of the Kentucky-West Virginia District of Optimist International

Dr. Grote has been a teacher and director of adult education in school systems in Illinois and was state supervisor of industrial arts in the Kentucky State Department of Education.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 28--University Breckinridge speech and drama students captured 12 trophies in the recent Middlesboro High School Invitational Speech Tournament.

The U. B. S. delegation won first place trophies for all four junior high events. Junior and senior high students won more first and second place trophies than did any other school. They returned to Morehead with six first place trophies, three second place and three third place awards.

University Breckinridge was represented by 22 students under the supervision of Mrs. Patti Rae Smith, Mrs. Maye Williams, Mrs. Byron Wentz, and Harlen Hamm.

Individual winners were Laura Sadler, first place in prose reading; Carol Grote, first place in poetry reading; Virginia Landreth, first place in junior high prose reading; Linda Wentz, first place in junior high poetry reading; Susan Smith, first place in storytelling; Tim Porter, first place in public speaking; Jim Williams, second place in broadcasting; Roger Hoffman, second place in original oratory; Laura Hackney, third place in prose reading; Terri Holbrook, third place in original oratory; Leslie Smith, third place in storytelling; and Debra Pack, second place in discussion.

The Breck students competed against 325 others from Tennessee and Kentucky.

SPECIAL TO: THE COURIER-JOURNAL

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 28----The small boy cried happily when he saw the cake and presents. He was seven years old but it was his first birthday party.

Small school and community libraries soon will expand overnight because more than 3,500 books have been collected, repaired and catalogued.

Servicemen in Korea and Vietnam will get a touch of home from packages prepared by someone who cares.

These projects were not started by a national or worldwide charitable organization but by a group of students at Morehead State University. Their motto is "involvement" and they call themselves the Community and Student Volunteers (CSVs).

Founded less than two years ago, their purpose, simply, is to help the disadvantaged and improve their own lives at the same time.

Their other projects include volunteer work at a hospital, recreation classes for mentally-retarded children and Christmas clothing for poor families.

Two children's homes have been aided considerably by the CSVs. They have purchased indoor play equipment, tutored students at night, arranged for "sponsors" to send letters and gifts to the children and helped dig potatoes at one home where the vegetable garden supplies most of the food. A CSV-built outdoor playground is planned for the spring.

To date, most of the volunteers' work has involved only about 20 students but recruits are joining regularly as the word spreads. Advice and support come from two faculty members and two clergymen.

csv 2222222

Project finances are donated by sympathetic churches or obtained through fund-raising drives. Frequently, the volunteers use their personal funds. A modest membership fee underwrites clerical expenses.

Formation of such a group seemed only natural for students who mainly are training to become social workers. Other volunteers come from the ranks of elementary education and recreation majors. Still others are in unrelated fields but share the same zeal.

Projects often require use of weekend and night leisure time but CSV continues to go and grow.

Is the group too busy for new work?

"Certainly not," said a CSV spokesman, "we're always looking for new ways to serve."

The CSVs also have an unusual attitude toward publicity. They want none for themselves, only for the cause.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 29 -- "Magnifico."

Patricia Parker, a senior at Morehead State University, used the Spanish word for "magnificent" to describe her two-month study session in Spain last summer.

The 23-year-old elementary education major studied at the University of Madrid with students from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill. Her two courses with six semester hours credit were offered through a cooperative arrangement with MSU, Augustana and the University of Madrid.

Pat's study of Spanish history and literature was made available through a scholarship financed by the Spanish Club (El Club Espanol) at Morehead State University.

She was the third MSU student sent to Spain with funds raised by the Spanish Club through bake sales and dinners and from private donations.

The club's sponsors, Dr. Olga Mourino and Dr. Adolfo Ruiz, professors of Spanish at MSU, hope to maintain the scholarship on an annual basis but more funds are needed this year because of rising travel and housing costs.

Dr. Mourino estimates $1,000 will be needed this summer and university funds cannot be used for overseas study.

Miss Parker is active in the current fund effort, telling all who will listen that her experiences in Spain were invaluable. Her classes were conducted entirely in Spanish as were most conversations outside the classrooms and dormitories.

Besides becoming fluent in the language, Pat was exposed to Spanish culture through side trips into the cities and villages. The last two weeks were devoted entirely to travel, including a visit to Lisbon, Portugal.

The scholarship idea was conceived by Dr. Mourino at the same time she organized the Spanish Club.

Pat Parker hopes to put her new training to work this summer in Michigan's migrant labor camps teaching Mexican-American children.

"It was an unforgettable summer and I will always be grateful to the Spanish Club and others who helped raise the money," the Norwood, Ohio, coed said.

This year's goal will not be reached without a marked increase in private contributions, according to Dr. Mourino.

"We must have help from outside the university community if the scholarship is to be funded again," she said.

Contributions may be sent to Morehead State University Spanish Club in care of Dr. Olga Mourino, Fourth and Battson Streets, Morehead, Ky. 40351

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 30--The originality, exuberance, honesty and vitality of America's pioneer society will come alive February 11 at 8:00 p.m. on the stage of Button Auditorium at Morehead State University when Ballet America appears in "Big Country," a story of early America.

Comprised of twenty dancers, four singers, and a pit orchestra, "Big Country" is presented in a new style created by Burch Mann.

In Miss Mann's words, "I've tried to create a dance style depicting a time and place in history when a handful of hardy Europeans were turning a raw, untamed land into America, and themselves into Americans."

Inspired through an aversion to dogma, Miss Mann produced an art form that could express a new pioneer society, rather than continuing to imitate dance forms which continue to voice an older civilization. Her work has led to outstanding achievement as a choreographer, including writing and choreographing dance scenes for the Walt Disney Studios.

Though some dancers of Ballet America are featured, every performer is of solo caliber. All of the young people have years of technical background.

The company has made two successful national tours, and appeared on numerous television specials.

"Big Country" journeys back across America, revisiting its unbelievably rich and exciting heritage. The ballet is set in three parts of the country: the prairie, the Appalachian Mountains and the delta country.

Variety calls Ballet America "a zestful, exciting and lightning-paced folk ballet. It recaptures magnificently the energy and spirit that built the West."

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 30 --- Would it be feasible to establish a regional computer center for public schools and colleges in Eastern Kentucky?

A 28-member task force will gather at Morehead State University Monday, Feb. 3, as part of the search for an answer.

Starting with a luncheon session at noon, representatives of schools, business and government will study the concept of assisting educators in recordkeeping and instruction with data processing equipment.

Two computer firms have assigned engineers to the study which is financed by a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission. The investigation began last year.

The task force specifically wants to learn if public school systems and institutions of higher education need high-speed data processing and if such systems are economically feasible.

Suggested uses include registration of students, class scheduling, attendance recordkeeping, cost accounting and computer-assisted classroom instruction.

The task force is headed by Dr. Morris L. Norfleet, MSU Vice President for Research and Development.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 30--Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $100,042 for an educational project at the Federal Youth Center near Ashland.

Called "Project Newgate," the program is expected to help about 40 inmates earn a high school certificate, prepare for college or vocational school and make preliminary adjustments for life after their release from custody.

Officials of FYC will cooperate in the year-long project which is financed by the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) as an extension of the "Upward Bound" program now used in high schools.

University personnel will adapt "Upward Bound" procedures to the institution setting in order to provide a more scientific, psychological and sociological rehabilitation program.

The project will involve individuals ranging in age from 16 to 21. Its staff will include eight full-time teachers and counselors and 10 part-time tutors.

Approval of the MSU grant marks the first time "Project Newgate" has been authorized for a federal penal institution. Two programs last year were staged in Oregon and New Mexico state prisons.

Only six "Newgate" grants will be made this year, according to OEO and U. S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky.

Besides intensive academic study for six hours daily, the students will attend night and weekend cultural and sports events in the Ashland, Ky. -Huntington, W. Va., area.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 31--Nineteen new student members of Kappa Pi, International Art Honorary, were recently initiated during a candlelight ceremony at Morehead State University.

Founded at the University of Kentucky in 1911, Kappa Pi is one of the only international groups having a chapter on the Morehead campus.

Kappa Pi members at Morehead State University must have a B average or better in art, have accumulated a minimum of twelve credit hours in art and have the recommendation of campus members. A prospective member's attitudes toward art and present or future contributions to art are considered.

The purpose of Kappa Pi is to put art on a high plane of endeavor.

Morehead's Kappa Pi chapter members sponsor an international film series on campus, host gallery exhibit openings, give two art scholarships each year, and serve as guides through the new Morehead art facilities.

A new project of the art honorary at Morehead is setting up a yearly trip to large United States galleries. This year's trip during the second semester will be to Washington, D. C.

Don Young, assistant professor of art at Morehead, sponsors the Kappa Pi chapter. Eugenia Comer, instructor of art, aids the student film committee.

Officers of the Morehead group are: Eddie Fox, president; Don Feldman, vice president; Molly Eubank, secretary; and Janet Worthington Mangan, treasurer.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 1 --- Morehead State University has been awarded a $10,000 federal grant to develop a method of training teacher aides for the public schools.

The advance planning funds came from the U. S. Office of Education.

Project details are to be completed by May 1 for funding of the actual training program this summer.

If plans are approved, the project will involve in-service training of teacher aides in the Bath and Elliott County school systems. Also, teams of trainers from 30 Eastern Kentucky school districts would receive new instruction at Morehead State University during the 1969 summer session.

In addition, 100 persons would be trained as teacher aides during a one-week, concentrated workshop to be conducted on the MSU campus in August.

Project director is Dr. Milan B. Dady, Head of the Department of Elementary Education at MSU.

######

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 6--Starting in September, Morehead State University will award 15 new scholarships yearly based on competitive examinations in five academic areas in the School of Sciences and Mathematics.

The grants will be for $800, $400 and $200 each year in biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics and physics.

Brochures explaining the new plan are being distributed to every high school in Kentucky.

High school seniors applying for the scholarships will take competitive exams March 29 on the MSU campus. Students may compete in two subject areas but will be eligible for only one grant.

The first place winner in each subject will receive a four-year scholarship valued at $200 yearly. Second place carries a two-year grant worth $400. Third position will receive a $200 grant for one year.

Each continuing scholarship is renewable each year only if the recipient maintains an overall grade point average of 2.5 and a major field average of 3.0, based on a 4.0 scale.

The grants represent a waiver of the $100 semester registration fee charged Kentucky residents. No cash awards will be made.

Applications for the examinations soon will be available at the offices of high school principals and guidance counselors or may be obtained by writing to Dr. William C. Simpson, Dean, School of Sciences and Mathematics, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky. Feb. 8 -- Two men prominent in Kentucky politics will make appearances at Morehead State University next week.

U. S. Sen. Marlow W. Cook will address the annual meeting of the Morehead Chamber of Commerce Monday at 6 p.m. in the Doran Student House. About 100 persons are expected to hear Kentucky's junior senator.

Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford will be principal speaker Wednesday night at a dinner meeting of the MSU Political Science Club. The 6:30 p.m. session in Alumni Tower Dining Room will include a question-and-answer session with club members.

MOREHEAD, Ky. Feb. 8 -- Morehead State University has received an Ampex videotape recorder from the Ampex Foundation, Redwood City, Calif., for use in the University's educational television network.

A Model 1000-A videotape recorder arrived in Morehead this week from the non-profit organization. Ampex Foundation donated the machine, and the University paid only the shipping costs.

The black-and-white recorder has been completely re-conditioned, and its value is at least $15,000, said Dr. Norman Tant, director of instructional media at Morehead State University. It cost a minimum of $35,000 when it was new.

The machine will be used in the University's television studio to help produce high quality films which will be used in both closed circuit on-campus programs and on the state-wide educational television network, Dr. Tant said.

"We hope to have the videotape recorder ready for use within the next three weeks, " Dr. Tant said.

MOREHEAD, Ky. Feb 8 -- Nine public concerts and recitals saluting U. S. composers are scheduled this month by the Morehead State University Department of Music.

All programs are open to the public without charge.

The American Composer Festival starts at 3 p.m. Sunday with a faculty recital at 3 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall. Featured will be Earle Louder, assistant professor of music, on the euphonium, and Mrs. Lucretia Stetler, instructor of music, at the piano.

Compositions of two MSU faculty members will be spotlighted Thursday, Feb. 13, at 8 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall. Works for the flute, baritone horn and piano by Dr. Frederick Mueller, assistant professor of music, and compositions for woodwinds by Mrs. Violet Severy, assistant professor of music, will be performed by other music department instructors.

The University's 78-member Concert Band under the direction of Earle Louder and David Bushouse, instructor of music, will be in concert Friday, Feb. 14, at 8 p.m. in Baird Rehearsal Hall.

Fatty Toops of South Charleston, Ohio, will present her senior recital Saturday, Feb. 15, at 2 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall. She is a clarinet student of Dr. William Bigham, professor of music. Assisting her will be Gale Dalton of Portsmouth, Ohio, on trombone, and Trina Kettlehake of New Carlisle, Ohio, at the piano.

The month's third faculty recital will feature Karl Payne, instructor of music, at the piano in Baird Recital Hall at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 16. morehead - concerts 2222222

He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Payne, well-known concert pianst and teacher in Cincinnati.

Dr. Robert Hawkins will direct the MSU Symphony Band in concert Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 8 p.m. in Baird Rehearsal Hall. James Martin, instructor of music, is associate conductor. Gene Norden, instructor of music, will be featured saxophone soloist.

Mrs. Vasile Venettozzi, assistant professor of music and a lyric soprano, will perform Thursday, Feb. 20, at 8 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall. Mrs. Stetler will accompany her at the piano.

Eleven concerts are planned for the marching and stage band clinic Feb. 21-23 on the MSU campus, including second concerts by the symphony and concert bands. All special programs during the clinic have been designed for high school bandsmen from six states who will attend the three-day work session. About 100 high schools will be represented.

The public schedule resumes Tuesday, Feb. 25, with an organ recital by Mrs. Severy at 8 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall.

Larry Keenan, instructor of music, winds up the month-long observance with a piano recital Thursday, Feb. 27, at 8 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall. He is first organist for the annual "Stephen Foster Story" at Bardstown, Ky.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 11--Capt. Leonard C. Henderson, assistant professor of military science at Morehead State University, has been promoted to major.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Henderson, 225 Spruce St., New Windsor, N. Y.

Maj. Henderson is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and was assigned to the MSU faculty last September after serving with the 1st Cavalry Division in the Republic of Vietnam.

His new rank insignia was presented by Mrs. Henderson and Lt. Col. Thomas A. Harris, professor of military science at MSU.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 13--Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant for the training of public school librarians in the use of educational media.

Funds will be used for a month-long institute this summer for 30 librarians on the MSU campus. Opening July 7, the training offers six semester hours of credit in selection, evaluation and organization of educational materials.

Each participant will receive a stipend of $75 weekly during the training program.

For additional information, contact Dr. Jack Ellis, Director of Libraries, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

SPECIAL TO: THE LOUISVILLE DEFENDER

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 13 --- Despite its location in a predominantly rural area with a small Negro population, Morehead State University has been the pacesetter in human rights for Kentucky's state-supported institutions of higher learning.

Under the compassionate leadership of President Adron Doran, the university has recorded equality "firsts" in all areas of collegiate life, including admissions, sports, housing, faculty employment, social life, student government and scholarship aid.

Morehead State was the first previously all-white, Kentucky statesupported institution to admit Negro students and have its president recognized as a leader in the field of human relations.

Dr. Doran, president since 1954, was hailed in 1959 as an "outstanding champion of freedom and full citizenship in Kentucky" when presented the Lincoln Key of the Kentucky Education Association (KEA). He was the first recipient from college ranks.

His program of "full scale integration without fanfare" was accomplished within three years of his appointment as the university's seventh president since its founding in 1922.

The MSU Board of Regents dropped the color barrier in September, 1956. Two Negro teachers had attended the 1956 summer session and four full-time coeds enrolled for the fall term.

Morehead State's enviable list of accomplishments in human rights hit a new high last year when a Negro coed was named Homecoming Queen. Lydia Lewis, a Maysville junior, was elected by a student body with about 200 Negroes among its more than 6,000 members. She had a vote margin of 2-1 over her white opponents.

Marshall Banks of Ashland, now an MSU faculty member and track coach, was the first Negro varsity athlete in the Ohio Valley Conference (OVC) and the first Negro to receive an athletic scholarship from an OVC school. A track standout in his undergraduate days at Morehead, Banks later became the first Negro faculty member and varsity coach in Kentucky's previously all-white state-supported colleges.

Howard Murphy of Springfield, Ohio, was the first Negro to play varsity football in the OVC while at Morehead State. Tommy Gray, Birmingham, Ala., received the President's Trophy in 1966 as Morehead's most outstanding athlete and is now with the San Francisco 49ers.

Morehead was the first state school to play Kentucky State College in all intercollegiate sports. MSU also cooperates with KSC for a political science internship in state government, called the "Frankfort Semester Plan."

In housing, Morehead was the first state-supported institution to integrate its dormitories and married student apartments.

Negroes have been represented on the MSU Student Council for 10 years and have held membership in campus social clubs. Mike Jackson, a Henderson senior, is the current president of the "Varsity M Club," an organization of varsity athletes. Four Negro students at MSU have been listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Morehead was the first to grant graduate assistantships to Negro students. One such position is now held by Langston Smith of Jackson, Miss., special assistant to Roger L. Wilson, MSU Vice President for Student Affairs. Smith, who works with both whites and Negroes, is primarily responsible for liaison between the administration and Negro students. He is the first Negro to hold such a position at any of the previously all-white state universities.

In academics, Morehead State was the first to integrate an off-campus technical program, opening its nursing course to Negroes in 1956.

Two more firsts were recorded last week when Dr. Broadus Jackson, a specialist in Negro history, joined the MSU faculty. He is teaching a new course entitled "The Negro in American History." Dr. Jackson became the third Negro faculty member.

Maurice Strider, formerly of Lexington, became the university's second Negro instructor in 1966. He is an assistant professor of art.

Mrs. Adron Doran, the First Lady of Morehead State University, also has been active in promoting racial equality on the MSU campus. She founded the Cosmopolitan Club which has as its purpose "to formulate a bond of union, develop mutual respect, create an enduring friendship and cultivate good will among students of different races and nationalities."

The club, in cooperation with the National Conference of Christians and Jews, sponsors annual "human relations days" involving high school students.

Businessmen of the city of Morehead share the university's policy of individual merit rather than race, creed, religion or national origin.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 18 --- Hitchins and Grayson Prichard high schools in Carter County captured the top three awards in the recent Regional High School Drama Festival at Morehead State University.

Jack Robinson, a Prichard sophomore, was named best actor and Saundra Burke, a Hitchins senior, was chosen best actress.

In addition, Hitchins tied with Ashland Paul G. Blazer High School for the best play.

Five schools received superior ranking for their plays, including Hitchins, Prichard, Ashland Blazer, Boyd County and Fleming County.

Boys named to the all-star cast were Billy Gardner, Fleming County; Alan Cordial and Greg Blevins, Ashland Blazer; Mike Ross, Hitchins; and Danny Steward, Raceland.

Girls picked as all-stars were Kathy Peffer, Prichard; Bobbie Kouns and Brenda Parsons, Boyd County; Marian Abbott, Ashland Fairview; and Darlene Young, Ashland Blazer.

Jack Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robinson of Grayson, was east as the professor in Prichard's production of "The Lesson" by Eugene Ionesco. He was directed by Mrs. Janice Osborne.

Saundra Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Burke of Grayson, Rt. 1 portrayed Emily in the Hitchins group's production of "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan. She was directed by Miss Deanna Phillips.

Also competing in the festival were Ashland Holy Family, University Breckinridge of Morehead and Mount Sterling.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 18--Morehead State University ranks 21st nationally in the production of initially certified teachers, according to a recent study by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities.

Of 969 public and private institutions studied from September, 1966, to September, 1967, Morehead's ranking was based on 1,026 graduates qualified to teach when they left the campus.

The AASCU survey covered 92 per cent of the total number of U.S. teachers eligible for certification.

Morehead was the only Kentucky institution with top 25 ranking in any of the AASCU study areas, including initially certified, kindergarten, elementary, junior high, high school and graduate program teachers.

The association also reported MSU was one of two schools approved this year for education and counseling projects in prisons. Morehead's "Project Newgate" at the Federal Youth Center near Ashland starts next month.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 20--Six student groups at Morehead State Univer-.sity have received permission to seek affiliation with national social fraternities and sororities.

The university's student life committee, comprised of administrative faculty and student representatives, voted to allow three campus fraternities and three sororities to apply for chapter status with Greek letter social organizations.

Two of the groups already have been approved by national organizations.

Theta Sigma Tau Sorority is now the Epsilon Chapter of Chi Omega National Sorority and Zeta Alpha Phi Fraternity is affiliated with Tau Kappa Ep-

Others seeking national status with their target organizations in parenthesis are Kentucky Group Zeta (Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity), Alpha Theta Epsilon (Theta Chi Fraternity), Lambda Kappa Tau (Delta Zeta Sorority) and Chi Phi Delta (Kappa Delta Sorority).

The student life committee's action marked the first approval of national social fraternities and sororities in the 47-year history of Morehead State Univer-

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 20--A New York petroleum engineer has donated his lifetime fossil collection to Morehead State University.

Jack H. McLellan of the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., an amateur paleontologist, compiled his "Atlantic Coast Neogene Mulluscan" collection in Virginia and North Carolina.

Most of the material came from phosphate pits, according to Dr. Jules R. DuBar, head of the Department of Geoscience at MSU. McLellan's discoveries of vertebrate remains from the pits were given to the U.S. National Museum.

The donated materials will be used in current research projects and as a reference collection.

Dr. DuBar described the gift as "very valuable."

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 20--Eugene R. McCane, a 21-year-old Morehead State University history major from Lewis County, is among 1,106 United States and Canadian college seniors designated by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation as among the best future college teachers on the North American continent.

A 1965 graduate of Lewis County High School, he is the son of Mrs. Jewell McCane of Vanceburg Rt. 2. The Woodrow Wilson Designate is a member of the MSU Latin Club and National Honor Society.

He is the first Morehead student selected by the Wilson Foundation in the university's history.

The 1, 106 designates, representing 349 colleges, were finalists in competition for which 11,704 candidates were nominated last October. All designates were interviewed by panels of college professors and academic administrators.

Lists of the designates have been sent to all graduate school deans in the U.S. and Canada with recommendations that each student receive fellowship awards for graduate study.

Those not receiving fellowships will be granted direct financial assistance by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation which is supported by the Ford Foundation. In 1968, 85 per cent of the 1,124 designates received first-year fellowships from graduate schools of their choice.

Sixteen other colleges and universities also had designates for the first time this year.

McCane hopes to do graduate work in classical history. He was nominated for the Wilson program by Dr. Frank Mangrum, head of the MSU Department of Philosophy.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 20--Public school educators from throughout Eastern Kentucky have been invited to Morehead State University Monday, Feb. 24, to discuss kindergarten programs.

Principal speaker at the day-long session in Alumni Tower will be Barbara Casey, specialist in early childhood education, Appalachian Regional Commission, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Mary P. Northcutt, professor of education at MSU and conference director, has asked each district to send four representatives. The session is being financed by the Southern Education Foundation.

More than 75 persons are expected to review costs, methods and benefits of extending public school programs to all five-year-old children.

Dr. Northcutt is chairman of the Committee on Early Childhood Education in Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 21--Mrs. Frances Childers, 123 Rawcel Heights, Morehead, is returning to school after an absence of more than 50 years.

The 72-year-old Mrs. Childers has enrolled at Morehead State University as the first participant in the William M. Caudill Senior Citizens Fellowship Program, which allows persons above the age of 65 to enroll for courses at the University without paying fees.

Mrs. Childers has enrolled in a course in piano under the supervision of Dr. Glenn Fulbright, chairman of the Morehead State University department of music.

A native of Rowan County, Mrs. Childers attended Morehead Normal School and completed work equivalent to the first class teachers certificate when she was 16. She later briefly attended Sarah College in Lexington.

She took some private music lessons several years ago from Mrs. Joe Phillips of Huntington, W. Va., and Mrs. Bill Emerick of Morgan County. Both teachers were graduates of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Mrs. Childers became interested in taking music courses at the University while she was participating in an adult Radio Program sponsored by the University under Title I of the 1965 Higher Education Act.

"I decided to go back to school as a means of staying active, " said Mrs. Childers, "I can't agree with some older people who simply give up because they are old enough to retire. "

Mrs. Childers said that she possibly will enroll for other courses in music, "Depending how I progress on the first course."

FOR RELEASE SUNDAY, FEB. 23

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 23--Three Morehead State University history professors will offer courses directly involving the Negro in history during the summer term beginning June 18.

Dr. Victor B. Howard, Dr. Broadus B. Jackson, and Dr. Perry E. LeRoy have developed the three courses in a cooperative fashion to provide an opportunity for high school teachers, as well as full-time graduate students, to receive an intensive nine hours of study in the area.

Dr. Howard will teach "The Slavery Controversy in the United States." Dr. Jackson, who is teaching "The Negro in American History" this semester, will teach the same course during the summer and Dr. LeRoy will teach "Africa to 1900."

"All three of these men are outstanding scholars with a concentration of work in the areas in which they will teach these courses this summer," said Dr. Roscoe Playforth, Dean of the School of Social Sciences. "We sincerely feel that they will provide the type of summer program which will be meaningful to individuals who are interested in studying the Negro in history."

Dr. Howard, who has been at Morehead State University since 1966, has concentrated his studies on nineteenth century American history with emphasis on the slavery controversy, while Dr. LeRoy, who has been at Morehead since 1961, 'is a recognized authority on African history.

Dr. Jackson, who became the third Negro faculty member at Morehead when he joined the faculty in January, is a noted historian who has concentrated on U. S. history with emphasis on the American Negro.

Dr. Jackson came to Morehead from the chairmanship of the history department at Maryland State College. A graduate of Fisk University, he earned the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Indiana University.

He has taught at Elizabeth City College in North Carolina, Prairie View A. and M. in Texas, and was the first full-time Negro faculty member in the College of Arts and Sciences at Georgia State College in Atlanta. While organizing the history department at Jackson State College, Jackson, Miss., Dr. Jackson was the first Negro to lecture on the University of Mississippi campus.

His current course in the history of the American Negro has an enrollment of 45 students.

Dr. Jackson, who is a native of Harlan and whose wife is from Winchester, was offered positions at six other universities but accepted the Morehead offer because of "the university's commendable record in human relations, my respect for President Adron Doran, and the university's location in my home state."

The 42-year-old is the first Negro to hold a full professorship at Morehead State University.

Persons interested in enrolling for the courses should contact the Director of Admissions, Morehead State University.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 25 --- Theta Sigma Tau Sorority at Morehead State University has become a colony of Chi Omega National Sorority with full chapter status scheduled for late spring.

As one of three local MSU sororities with permission to seek national affiliation, Theta Sigma Tau was approved by the Chi Omega National Governing Council and will become known as the Epsilon Theta Chapter.

Chi Omega is among the oldest Greek letter societies for women, being founded in 1895 at the University of Arkansas. The second chapter was established at Transylvania College in Lexington.

At present, Chi Omega has 151 active chapters, including four in Kentucky. Morehead is one of two Chi Omega colonies in the state.

Theta Sigma Tau has been a recognized local social sorority on the MSU campus since January, 1968.

Officers of the new Chi Omega colony at Morehead State are Sally Simpson, Morehead senior, president; Mary Schuster, Frankfort junior, vice president; Sandra Mabe, Jenkins senior, secretary; Becky Hogge, Morehead junior, treasurer; and Linda Wilson, Loveland, Ohio, sophomore, pledge class president.

Faculty advisor is Mrs. Mary Netherton, instructor of French.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 25 --- Zeta Alpha Phi Fraternity at Morehead State University has become an affiliate of Tau Kappa Epsilon National Fraternity with full chapter status scheduled later this year.

As one of three local MSU fraternities with permission to seek national ties, Zeta Alpha Phi and its 50 active members were pledged to TKE during private ceremonies conducted by Rodney Williams of Louisville, TKE Province Supervisor for Kentucky.

He was assisted by J. R. Tinsley, instructor of history at MSU and advisor to Zeta Alpha Phi. Tinsley is among three active TKE alumni on the MSU faculty.

Tau Kappa Epsilon was founded at Illinois Wesleyan University in 1899 and adopted its present name in 1902. The fraternity has four chapters at Kentucky colleges. Morehead is the only TKE affiliate in the state.

Zeta Alpha Phi was organized on the MSU campus as a social fraternity in 1965.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 27---Nine faculty members will be featured Tuesday, March 4, in the fourth dedicatory concert of the Inaugural Series sponsored by the Morehead State University Music Department.

The series, which began last October, commemorates occupancy of a $1.2 million addition to Baird Music Hall which includes a 300-seat recital hall. The three-story, 30-room annex was completed last September.

Starting at 8 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall, James Martin will direct the faculty group in presentation of 20th century chamber music, consisting of works by Americans Ingolf Dahl and Elliott Carter, Russian-born Igor Stravinsky and Frank Martin of Switzerland.

Participants will include Robert Schietroma, percussion; Joseph Martin, oboe; Suanne Hower, cello; Larry Keenan, harpsichord; Karl Payne, piano; William Bigham, clarinet; Frederick Mueller, bassoon; John Stetler, trumpet; Eugene Deaton, trombone; and Earle Louder, trombone. Dr. Robert Hawkins will be conductor.

The fifth and final dedicatory concert is set for April 20.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 1 --- Dr. Robert E. Hacke, assistant professor of English at Morehead State University, has signed a contract to write a college linguistics text for Charles Scribners' Sons, New York publishers.

Dr. Hacke has completed the outline, introduction, and first chapter for the text, which will be titled A Linguistic Handbook for College English. He expects the book to be approximately 350 pages in length, and completion date is set for March 1970.

The purpose of the book will be "to provide a handbook for college English courses which will satisfy the needs ordinarily met by a handbook and also utilize transformational-generative grammar and other branches of modern linguistics."

The book will be used for college composition or literature courses, methods courses for elementary teachers and English teachers, and as a resource handbook for elementary and English teachers.

Presently in his second year at Morehead State University, Dr. Hacke taught three and a half years at Pikeville College.

Dr. Hacke obtained his Ph.D at St. Andrews University in Scotland, a B.D. from McCormick University in Chicago, and a B.A. from the University of Arizona.

The book, which he will spend the summer writing, will be his first major publication.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 4--Morehead State University is a tradition with the family of Vyron A. Smiley of Prestonsburg.

The Smileys have had three children graduate from MSU, three others attended Morehead, and two daughters are now enrolled at MSU.

Presently carrying the Smiley name at Morehead are Veronica Ann, a freshman, and Deborah Sue, a sophomore. Both are elementary education majors and hope to become special education teachers.

Being No. 12 and 13 on the list of 16 living Smiley children, the latest MSU Smileys admit they were influenced by visits to the campus during family graduations and by advice from older Smileys who graduated from Morehead.

"James started it and has been chiefly responsible for the rest of us choosing Morehead State, " says Veronica.

James Smiley, the first family member to earn an MSU degree, teaches at Pikeville College. Younger brother Wayne, No. 2 on the graduation list, is on the faculty of Hazard Community College. Elizabeth Smiley teaches grade school in Cynthiana. She is the latest Smiley to wear an MSU cap and gown.

Nick, Rick and Judy Smiley attended Morehead State but moved on to other colleges. Rick is now in the Army. Two other brothers also graduated from Kentucky universities.

The yearly trek of Smiley children to Morehead and other campuses has not been easy. Mrs. Smiley, a housewife, and her husband, a disabled, retired carpenter, are not able to pay all of the college expenses but their children have won scholarships, earned loans and worked to stay in school. Older Smiley: have helped the younger ones who, in turn, will help the even younger.

A ninth Smiley expects to continue the family tradition at Morehead this fall. Martha, like most of her brothers and sisters, has been accepted at MSU for admission as a freshman after she graduates from Prestonsburg High this spring.

But the Smiley-MSU love affair may not end with her. Younger sister Dinah, a PHS sophomore, and brother Phillip, an eighth grader, also have started asking questions about Morehead State.

"At our home, if you don't want to go to Morehead, " says Veronica, "you're not a true Smiley."

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 5 --- Pierre Salinger - politician, lawmaker, newsman and presidential confidant - will lecture next Tuesday at Morehead State University.

The 43-year-old former White House press secretary to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson will present "The Kennedy Years - Before and After" at 2 p.m. in Button Auditorium, following a luncheon at Alumni Tower at 12:45.

At 3 p.m., the former U. S. senator from California will conduct a question-and-answer session with students.

Salinger, a native of San Francisco and history graduate of the University of San Francisco, moved into the limelight in 1959 when he became press aide to then-Senator John F. Kennedy. He ran the senator's press operations through the vigorous campaign of 1960 and moved to the White House with the new president in January, 1961.

Following the assassination of President Kennedy, Salinger remained briefly as President Johnson's press secretary but resigned to write his best-selling book of the Kennedy era, "With Kennedy."

Salinger was appointed to the U.S. Senate in 1964 to complete the term of the late Clair Engle of California. He was a candidate for the seat that same year but lost to Republican George Murphy.

A Navy hero of World War II and former reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle, Salinger has credentials as a world traveler. He accompanied President Kennedy to all conferences with world leaders, including the historic summit with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna in 1961.

Now a vice president of Continental Airlines, Inc., Salinger took a leave of absence last year to work in the presidential campaign of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 8--The No. 1 college attraction in the U.S. is coming to Morehead State University March 20.

The Lettermen, a singing trio with more than two dozen hit albums, will be in concert at 8 p.m. in Laughlin Fieldhouse as a Student Council Special Event.

They were named in a Billboard Magazine poll as the most popular entertainment group now appearinggon college campuses. In addition, the Lettermen have made numerous network television appearances, including the Kraft Music Hall last week.

The concert will be free to MSU students and 200 three-dollar adult tickets will go on sale at the university business office Monday, March 10. Tickets not sold in advance will be available at the door.

It will be a return engagement in Morehead for the group described by the Hollywood Reporter as "three young men who sing songs as the composers hoped they'd be sung."

"They can take a song that was a hit 20 years ago and make it a hit all over again and they can do it without changing the original concept of the song," said television and recording star Connie Stevens.

The Lettermen made their nightclub debut in early 1962. The group consists of Tony Butala, Gary Pike and Jim Pike.

MOREHEAD, KY., March 10---Five University Breckinridge students returned from the two-day Smokey Mountain Forensic Tournament with high honors this week.

Carel Grote won the second place trophy for her poetry reading and Sheryl Binion won the second place trophy in extemporaneous speaking. Terry Holbrook, Laura Sadler, Roger Hoffman, and Missès Binion and Grote were selected to advance to the semi-final rounds of the tournament.

Selected to represent University Breckinridge in the final round were Miss Binion, Miss Sadler, Miss Grote and Roger Hoffman. Only six students were allowed to participate in the final rounds of each event, and UBS's four representatives were the most finalists from any one school.

The University Breckinridge delegation defeated opponents from seven states.

The two-day tournament, held in Gatlinburg, Tenn., was sponsored by Carson-Newman College.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 11 --- The costume room in the Combs Building at Morehead State University easily could be mistaken for the wardrobe department of a movie studio preparing for an historic epic.

Marvin Phillips, assistant professor of dramatic arts, is directing a crew of two seamstresses and nine student volunteers in the manufacture of 73 colorful costumes needed for the upcoming production of "The Student Prince."

"In this show costumes, more than setting, aid the actor and the audience in establishing character, mood and historic period," said Phillips, who also is co-producer of the three-act operetta scheduled March 21, 22 and 24 at 8 p.m. in Button Auditorium.

The opera workshop production, described as "lavish" in comparison with past plays, requires many types of costumes, including ball gowns with four to six yards of material in colored laces, satins, brocades, taffetas and novelty prints.

Both costume and setting decor will be the result of extensive research in the style mid-19th century Europe.

Lyrics for "The Student Prince" were written by Dorothy Donnelly. Sigmund Romberg wrote the music.

Co-directing with Phillips is James Davis, assistant professor of music, who also will sing the title role. Doug Engelhart is music director and Dee Thomas is choreographer.

Choruses are being trained by Mrs. Vasile Venettozzi and Gene Deaton, assistant professors of music.

The female lead is Susan Stevens, Ashland freshman and the reigning Miss Ashland.

"The Student Prince," set in Heidelberg, Germany about 1860, is the story of a young prince who falls in love with a commoner while betrothed to a princess. Prince Karl makes plans to elope with the girl, an innkeeper's daughter, but his father dies and he becomes king before they get away. Two years later, the young king goes back for her but learns she is marrying another commoner.

Tickets will be one dollar in advance and $1.25 at the door. All performances are open to the public.

MOREHEAD, KY., March II---The Business Education Department of Morehead State University will host a vocational business conference for business educators and businessmen on April 18.

Dr. Lloyd V. Douglas, University of Northern Iowa, and R. T. Fitzgerald, International Business Machines, will discuss the topic, "Confrontation 1969: Business Requirements vs. Business Education Preparation."

Dr. Douglas will be the morning speaker, Fitzgerald will speak at a luncheon, and a panel of well-known Kentucky educators will discuss the topic at an afternoon session.

All business educators and interested businessmen are invited to attend the conference, said Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology.

Reservations for the conference luncheon may be obtained by writing to: Business Education Conference, Box 868, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, KY., March 12---Friday, March 21, is the deadline for filing applications for graduate assistantships at Morehead State University.

Assistantships are awarded through the Office of Graduate Programs to outstanding seniors or graduate students who have been admitted to the graduate program at Morehead.

A graduate assistant registers for up to 10 hours of work each semester and devotes 20 hours per week to his assistantship duties. A stipend of $2,200 is paid for the regular academic . year, and the recipient pays the regular Kentucky resident and . incidental fees.

Applications are available from Dr. John R. Duncan, acting dean of graduate studies, Administration Building, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 12 --- Mary Ice, 20-year-old junior at Morehead State University, lost her cool.

She cried with joy at the news of her selection by the MSU Spanish Club for an all-expense paid trip to Spain this year for a six-week summer term at the University of Madrid.

Miss Ice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Ice, 2515 Bradley Ave., Louisville. A 1966 graduate of Durrett High School, Mary is majoring in Spanish and plans to become a high school teacher in Louisville.

She is the third MSU Spanish student picked for the trip and the first Kentuckian.

"Mary is an excellent student who will give a good account of herself and the university while in Spain," said Dr. Olga Mourino, professor of Spanish and advisor to the Spanish Club (El Club Espanol).

Funds for the summer excursion are provided by the club through various projects during the school year, including dances, dinners, bake sales. Private donations also are applied to the $1,000 goal, according to Dr. Mourino.

Mary will be in Spain from July 7 until Aug. 14 to earn six hours of college credit in Spanish history, literature and folklore. The term includes several side trips into the Spanish countryside and one visit to Portugal.

She will be traveling with students from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., and will live in a women's residence hall at the University of Madrid.

To be eligible for the summer scholarship, a student at MSU must have a 2.5 grade point average in Spanish. Miss Ice has a 3.5 average (on a 4.0 scale) in 10 Spanish courses at Morehead State.

She applied for the trip with the idea of improving her Spanish.

"I felt a Spanish teacher would have to speak the language in everyday life to do a good job in the classroom," Miss Ice said.

She will be exposed to plenty of Spanish usage during her visit. All lectures, tours and practical exercises are conducted entirely in the native

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 26---The Morehead State University Board of Regents today approved a tentative operating budget of $12,193,333 for the 1969-70 fiscal year beginning July 1. The budget will be approved in its final form at the next board meeting in June.

In other action, the Board approved the reduction of compulsory ROTC to only the freshman year for all male students, approved the affiliation of three social fraternities and three social sororities with national organizations, and adopted a policy regarding the use of campus facilities by off-campus speakers sponsored by student organizations.

The Board also approved Morehead State University's participation in the University Press of Kentucky with eight other institutions, established the James G. Collier Lecture Series in the School of Social Sciences, and added two student members to the Graduate Council and to the Committee on Admissions.

The Board, which met from 10:00 a.m. until 3:30, also approved a new major in urban affairs, accepted the resignation of 40 non-academic personnel, approved the employment of 81 new non-academic personnel, and approved leaves of absence for 14 members of the faculty and staff.

The reduction of compulsory ROTC from two years to one came as a result of the belief by administrators, faculty, and students that "one year gives ample time for students to decide if ROTC is for them and is a much sounder program than a two-year compulsory one, " said President Adron Doran.

National social fraternities which the Board approved for affiliation with local fraternities were Theta Chi, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Sigma Phi Epsilon. National sororities approved were Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, and Kappa Delta.

The policy adopted regarding the use of facilities for off-campus speakers by student groups outlines the following steps: 1. All requests for off-campus speakers by student organizations must be made at least five days prior to the event and should be made to the Dean of Students. 2. If the request is not approved, the student organization may appeal to the executive committee of the Committee on Student Life. 3. If the request is again rejected, an appeal may be made to the entire committee on Student Life.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 29---Dr. C. Nelson Grote, dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology at Morehead State University, has been elected president of the American Vocational Association.

The association, which is the second largest professional organization in the United States, has a membership of 44,000 with a quota of 50,000 set for this year.

Dr. Grote will begin serving his one-year term of office in July. Following his term of office, he will serve as past president on the Board of Directors and as a member of the executive committee for another year.

The presidency of the AVA is rotated among the six divisions of the association, and Dr. Grote is the fourth president from the industrial arts division. The other five major divisions are: agriculture, business and office education, home economics, trade and industrial education, and technical education.

Dr. Grote was nominated for office by the House of Delegates at the 62nd annual convention in Dallas in December and was elected by a mailed ballot by the membership. His opponent was Dr. Joe Carrel of the School of Technology, Purdue University.

"Part of my job as president will be to assist in getting legislation affecting vocational education considered and funded," Dr. Grote said.

He stated that the AVA is well known for its prowess in effecting legislation in Congress. The 1968 amendments for vocational education were passed without a dissenting vote in Congress, Dr. Grote said.

Dr. Grote served as division program chairman at the AVA Dallas convention, and he is presently a member of the Industrial Arts Policy and Planning Committee and the Department of Post Secondary Education. He has served on various AVA committees.

He is a member of the American Association of Junior Colleges, American Industrial Arts Association, National Association of Industrial and Technical Teacher Educators, American Society of Engineering Education, Phi Delta Kappa, grote elected 2222222

Kappa Delta Pi, and other various professional and fraternal associations.

Dr. Grote, received his B.S. in Education from Eastern Illinois University, his M.Ed. from the University of Missouri, and Ed.D. from the University of Illinois.

He has been at Morehead State University since 1960 and was formerly state supervisor of industrial arts for the Kentucky State Department of Education and assistant director of the Trade and Industrial and Distributive Education for the Kentucky State Department of Education. He has been in the field of education for 18 years.

Dr. Grote is the second AVA president from Kentucky. Dr. Ralph H. Woods, president emeritus of Murray State University, served as president during the 1938-39 term, representing the agriculture division.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 29--The week of March 31-April 4 has been designated as "Religious Emphasis Week" at Morhead State University, and several activities have been scheduled in conjunction with the observance.

A convocation featuring a trio of college musicians is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Laughlin Fieldhouse.

The musicians, known as Kent, Cliff, and Phil, organized the group while they were all students at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky. Kent, the leader, is the son of missionaries in Korea, where he spent much of his youth. He has spent the past two summers as a folk singer in youth camps, conferences, and rallies across the Southeastern United States.

Cliff, a pre-med student, toured Scandinavia, Europe, and Asia as a tenor soloist with a musical organization called the School Band and Chorus of America. He also played cornet in the band. His parents are engaged in the ministry of the Salvation Army.

A pre-theology student, Phil has a featured role in the musical show, "Up with People," for a year and a half. His home is now Tallahassee, Fla., where his father is district superintendent of the Methodist Church.

Also scheduled on campus is the showing of the Billy Graham film, "The Restless Ones," Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. in Button Auditorium. AAdmission will be $1.

The various campus religious graoups will conduct separate observances, and some community Holy Week activities will be conducted for both college students and townspeople.

Twenty-one chapters of regional FFA members are represented in the day-long event, which will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration in Button Auditorium

The objective of the day is to provide a chance for members of FFA chapters to participate in 33 different contests. Each participant will be vying for district honors.

Future Farmers will be officially welcomed to the campus in a general session at 9:30 a.m. Dr. C. Nelson Grote, dean of the School of Applied Sciences and Technology at the University, will deliver the welcoming address.

The Chapter FFA Sweethearts will be presented during the morning session. and they later will be escorted on a tour of the campus by members of the Home Economics Club.

Contest competition, which will be held in the Industrial Arts and Home Economics Building, will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Entries in the record book contest are comprised of the best books of each chapter. These books are composed of the various projects undertaken throughout the year. Included in these projects are tobacco, corn, hay, soil-water conservation, home improvement, and dairy products.

The parliamentary procedure contest consists of the officers of each chapter conducting a regular meeting. The public speaking contest will include prepared and impromptu speeches.

, • , £ta day at msu 2222222

Each contest will have a group of judges appointed by the agriculture department. Some of the judges will be University staff members.

Saturday's winners will represent the area in the state finals at the Kentucky FFA Convention in Louisville.

FFA Day will conclude in Button Auditorium at 3:00 p.m. with the presentation of trophies, ribbons, and other honors won by FFA members during the day.

The Agriculture Club at Morehead State University will act as hosts for the participants. Club members will conduct several campus tours throughout the day.

Chapters sending representatives are:

Betsy Layne, Boyd County, Ezel, Fleming County, Grayson Prichard, Johns Creek, Lewis County, Louisa, Mason County, Maytown, McKell, Johnson Central, and Menifee County.

Morgan County, Bath County, Prestonsburg, Rowan County, Salyersville, Sandy Hook, Tollesboro, Virgie, and Wurtland.

The contest day will be dedicated to the late Dr. William R. Bingham, an associate professor of agriculture education at the University of Kentucky. He was a former state supervisor of agriculture education for the Kentucky Department of Education.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 1----More than 700 students from 75 high schools are expected to attend the annual convention of the Eastern Kentucky High School Librarians Association at Morehead State University Friday.

The meeting will begin with registration at 8:30 a.m. in Button Auditorium. Following registration the students will be given a campus tour, which will include the materials room of the Johnson Camden Library, the University television production studio, University Breckinridge School Library and closed circuit television facilities, and other points of interest.

Dr. Ray Hornback, Morehead State University Vice President for University Affairs, will deliver a welcoming address at the first general session at 10:45 a.m. in Button Auditorium.

"New Dimensions in Librarianship" will be the topic of a speech by Dr. Jack Ellis, Morehead State University director of Libraries, at the morning session.

At the second general session, which will begin at 12:45 p.m., election and installation of new officers will be held and other items of business will be discussed.

"The purpose of the convention is to make the library profession more attractive to the students and for the students to get together to compare ideas," said Mrs. Opal Le Master, chairman of the conference.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 3----Much excitement has been created recently in Kentucky by basketball championships, such as the Ohio Valley Conference championship playoff between Morehead and Murray, the NCAA championship, and the Kentucky high school championship last week in Louisville.

Morehead didn't win the OVC basketball playoff, but Morehead students are now excited about their new state champions---champions of the "A" Division of college debating in Kentucky.

Craig Martin of Campbellsville and Don Cetrulo of Ft. Thomas won the state championship at the University of Kentucky Saturday.

"The 'A' Division is the most proficient type of debating in the state and includes only varsity debaters," said Mrs. G. C. Webb, Morehead State University debate coach. "In this specific forensic event the teams must debate on both sides of the resolution and must cross-examine and be cross-examined by their opponents."

Morehead's novice team finished second in the "C" Division. Four Kentuckians represented the University in this competition. They were Mike Greene of Georgetown, Dan Egbers of Ft. Thomas, Lynda Phelps of Hodgenville, and Tom Hauger of Dayton.

The "A" Division state championship trophy is the fifth first place trophy won by Morehead debaters this season. The novice squad took first place honors at the University of Michigan, Manchester College in Indiana, and at Morris Harvey College. The team also won first place at Bellarmine College.

During spring break, Morehead will enter two teams in the National Novice Tournament at Bellarmine College in Louisville. This will be a two-man switchsides event.

Following the novice tournament, the squad will give forensic demonstrations in several high schools in Northern and Eastern Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 4---Ah, spring break, a time for relaxing in the sun, surfing in the sea, and....studying???

Spring break for Morchead State University students is next week, but not all students are taking the traditional break of soaking in the rays on a sunny Florida beach.

Of course, there are the usual groups bound for places such as Daytona, Ft. Lauderdale, Orlando, St. Petersburg, and even as far south as the Bahamas, where one group of fraternity brothers are flying. But there are also other students who will be occupied where the sun is not shining so brightly.

Among these are the athletes at Morehead. Willie (Hobo) Jackson and Lamar Green of Morehead's basketball squad will be bouncing basketballs instead of beach balls. The dynamic rebounding duo will be participating as members of Kentucky's All Stars against a team of Indiana All Stars in two basketball games for charity.

The track team has two meets scheduled during the break, as do the tennis team and golfers. The busiest athletic team during the break will be the baseball team, which is scheduled to play seven home games in five days, including three in one day against Centre College on April 9.

Another Morehead student who will be entertaining the public is magician Bill Birchfield of Mt. Sterling, who will be pulling rabbits out of hats for three nights at a minstrel show in Mt. Sterling.

Seeking cultural enlightenment are several members of the Kappa Pi art fraternity, who will be touring points of interest in New York City. Twentyfive drama club members at the University Brockinridge School got the jump on others this week by going on a tour of Broadway shows and points of interest in New York.

The Morehead athletes won't be the only ones competing during the vacation period. The Morehead State University novice debate team will enter the National Novice Debate Tournament at Bellarmine College in Louisville from Thursday through Saturday. Two teams will represent Morehead. • 7

Paula Raines, a Morehead freshman, said that her week's schedule is pretty well filled. On Monday, she and other students will help judge the National Forensic League contests on campus, and later in the week they will attend a drama workshop in Cincinnati.

While some students are simply enjoying themselves, others such as Rita Endicott, a sophomore, will be catching up with term papers, book reports, and other assignments due following the vacation.

"I have five term papers, two book reports, and two tests to study for during the break, so it won't be much of a break for me," Miss Endicott said.

Others will spend the break working to earn extra money for college. This group includes married students who will work on campus to gain a little extra cash, and single students who are going home to work. One student said he was going to work three days picking oranges in Florida in order to pay for his trip.

The 10-day period might be called a "break" by some, but to others it will be rather back breaking. One student who will have to work and study instead of relax has suggested that the University have a vacation period later for those who had to work and study during the regular spring break.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 17---Connie Vater, a cute blonde at Morehead State University, is attending college in preparation for a career as a "stripper."

A quick word of explanation is in order. A "stripper" is a person who prepares negatives for plate making in the offset method of printing.

Miss Vater, a freshman from Alexandria, Ky., is the only girl taking graphic arts courses at Morehead. She currently plans to complete a twoyear graphic arts program for an associate degree, but she would like to take further training in the art of printing before entering the field.

She is now taking two graphic arts courses and learning to operate a stubborn Linotype machine. She will also take courses in color and design and offset lithography.

Edward Nass, assistant professor of industrial education, says the 48-year-old Linotype machine is tempermental like a woman, but Connie feels that it plays no favorites because she is a female. "I agree that the machine's like a woman, " she said. "It is subject to changing its mind at any time, and it always gets contrary when I'm in a hurry."

In addition to learning to operate the Linotype machine, a keyboardoperated machine which casts lines of type, Connie has learned how to handset type, how to set up printing forms, a few photographic principles, and how to operate some letter presses, including the Original Heidelburg and the platen press.

She has printed letterhead stationary, business cards, and a two-color post card. She also had an exciting experience with a Virkotype, which embosses letters.

connie vater 2222222

"One day I was making some business cards on the Virkotype when some paper fell into a collecting tray and burst into flames," she said. "I thought I had caught the whole printing shop on fire but some of the guys helped me put the fire out."

There are always a lot of men around to help because Connie is the only girl in all of her graphic arts classes. "Sometimes it's rather embarrassing being the only girl because I feel like I'm in the way. The guys seem to guard their language, but after almost two semesters they are getting used to my being around and refer to me as one of the guys, " she said.

When she first started taking graphic arts classes, she had an embarrassing moment. On the first day of class, she followed the men out of class, thinking they were leaving the building. "I was almost in the men's rest room before I noticed where they were going, " she said. "After that, I was careful where I followed the guys."

Connie plans to enter the advertising field after completing her program. "I will probably take some advanced training after leaving Morehead, " she said. "I feel that I will then have as good a chance as most guys at landing a good job in industry."

"I advise other girls who are interested in art but are not great artists and not interested in teaching to try graphic arts," Connie said. "Right now there is not much competition from other females, and I would like some female company in my classes."

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 18 --- A unique approach to piano instruction will be presented Thursday, April 24, at Morehead State University, where a one-day seminar is being co-sponsored by the National Piano Foundation and the MSU Department of Music.

Sister Rose Francis, head of the piano department of Brescia College, Owensboro, is conducting the workshop for area music teachers from 9 a.m. to l p.m. at Baird Music Hall.

Based on broader musicianship through group instruction, the new teaching method departs from the traditional approach. Sister Francis will discuss new methods and ideas for teaching sight reading, improvisation, ear training, melody harmonization, and repertoire.

The seminar will feature discussions and demonstration of this modern approach to piano teaching, based on new insights into the learning processes, employing established principles of group action and reaction, and new teaching techniques and materials.

Larry Keenan, instructor of music at MSU, is coordinating the seminar.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 19---Those who like Spanish food and believe in helping good causes belong at Morehead State University next Tuesday night.

The MSU Spanish Club is hosting its annual banquet at the Doran Student House Cafeteria to help raise funds to send a student to Spain this summer.

Served from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., the dinner will feature authentic Spanish dishes and entertainment. Tickets are one dollar and will be available at the door.

The banquet and other fund-raising activities, plus individual gifts, provide the $1,000 needed each year to send an MSU Spanish student to summer school at the University of Madrid.

Dr. Olga Mourino, professor of Spanish, is sponsor of the Spanish Club (El Club Espanol).

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 19---Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $124,733 for a 12-month extension of Project Upward Bound.

The U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) provided the funds to continue MSU's pre-college academic and cultural program for high school students from low income families.

About 100 students involved in Upward Bound are selected from 14 Eastern Kentucky high schools and must show college potential.

Upward Bound starts each year with students attending the regular MSU summer session. They return to the campus eight times during the school year.

The latest extension will carry Morehead State's Upward Bound into its fourth year.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 20---Jay and The Americans, one of America's leading pop singing groups, are coming to Morehead State University Thursday, May 8.

Appearing as a Student Council Special Event, the quartet will perform at 8 p.m. in Laughlin Fieldhouse.

The concert will be free to fulltime MSU students and 200 tickets will be sold to the public at $2.50 each, according to Quentin Hatfield, McCarr senior and chairman of the Student Council Entertainment Committee.

Tickets will go on sale at the University Business Office the week of the concert. Any remaining will be available at the door.

Jay and The Americans - Jay Black, Kenny Vance, Sandy Yaguda and Marty Sanders - are all from Brooklyn and have been singing together since 1961.

Their most recent record hit, "This Magic Moment," sold more than one million copies. Other big sellers include "Come a Little Bit Closer," "Only in America," "Cara Mia," "Livin' Above Your Head" and "Some Enchanted Evening."

They have made two European tours and performed for every entertainment media in the U.S.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 20--Finesse.

Dictionaries define it as "fineness of skill" and at Morehead State University finesse is produced at the Personal Development Institute organized and directed by Mrs. Mignon Doran.

"Enhancement of the inner self as well as the outer beauty of young people" is the goal of PDI, a non-credit, five-week course designed to sharpen social skills.

Although Mrs. Doran is not salaried, she devotes most of her time to the Institute. Her enthusiasm for PDI is reflected in enrollment statistics. The Institute is operating at full capacity with a waiting list of applicants exceeding the number which can be accommodated this semester.

The course is free and learning materials are provided by the university.

Mrs. Doran hopes to see PDI evolve into curricular offerings on the elementary and secondary levels as teachers are prepared to direct such programs.

Realizing that students preparing academically for their careers also need social confidence and self assurance to be successful, the wife of MSU President Adron Doran has pioneered in the personal development of students since coming to Morehead State in 1954.

Her past activities were on an informal basis with small groups but now with the machinery of PDI she can serve many more students through experiences and instruction by examining the importance of personal appearance, diet, wardrobe, makeup, manners, grooming, voice quality, personality and human relations.

The Institute is not a "charm school" and its students are not becoming overly sophisticated. Instead, they are developing as polished and cultured young men and women.

Ĵ

PDI not only has the services of Mrs. Doran but also utilizes the talents of other university personnel, community leaders and state and national consultants.

"Personal development is an art, " says Mrs. Doran. "If and when we learn a few trade secrets for successful living, we need to develop ourselves to our full potential."

Morehead State's PDI is the first of its kind in the South. Fewer than 10 exist in the country.

The Institute's program is not limited to the MSU campus. Mrs. Doran has presented parts of the course to school counselors and social workers throughout Eastern Kentucky. She will work with such federally financed groups as Head Start, Upward Bound, Talent Search, Newgate and Accelerated Learning Program for Students (ALPS), as well as student teachers.

Traveling and talking of personal development is nothing new to the First Lady of Morehead State University. While president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in 1962, Mrs. Doran conducted 235 self improvement seminars and journeyed more than 75,000 miles.

Her motto for PDI is "know, grow, go and glow." She feels students who know how to develop themselves will continue to acquire new social prowess. And they will become better motivated and have the lustre of success and self confidence.

"The Personal Development Institute provides a wonderful situation for students to learn to interact for future advancement, " is the opinion of PDI student Bill Bradford, Russell junior and president of the MSU Student Council.

The institute is headquartered in the Research and Development Center and operates under the supervision of Dr. Morris L. Norfleet, Vice President for Research and Development.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 21---The "Sing Out Kentucky" cast of the "Up With People" movement will perform at 8:00 p.m. Saturday, April 26, in Button Memorial Auditorium at Morehead State University.

Admission to the event, which is open to the public, is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children. The performance is sponsored by the Morehead State University Newman Club.

The "Up With People" movement began in the summer of 1965 in Michigan, and it has expanded from a cast of 130 young people to 150 casts with more than 15,000 students.

The "Sing Out Kentucky" cast of "Up With People" is composed of approximately 100 high school and college students who want to show Kentucky and the United States that the majority of today's generation are not hippies or draft card burners, but interested young adults who want to create a better world.

"Sing Out Kentucky" was formed in May, 1966, when the national touring cast of "Up With People" visited Covington and Cincinnati. Since then "Sing Out Kentucky" has performed throughout the state at high schools, county and state fairs, civic and social clubs, and veterans hospitals.

Essentially, the performance is aimed at turning the minds of people from worry and tension to positive thinking about their fellow man.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan has called the sing-out movement "the most hopeful thing that has happened this century."

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 22---Gayle Lyon, 21-year-old senior from Columbus, Ohio, has been named Miss Morehead State University of 1969.

Miss Lyon, a speech and drama major, was chosen over 14 other coeds in the second annual Miss MSU Pageant on the Morehead State campus.

The brown-eyed, brown-haired beauty was selected by five judges on the basis of talent, beauty and poise. She was second runner-up in the same pageant last year and recently finished second in the Miss Central Ohio Pageant.

Miss Lyon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lyon, 2839 East Cleft, Columbus. She hopes to become a high school teacher after graduation in June.

By winning the MSU crown, the new titlist advances to the Miss Kentucky Fageant next July 26 in Louisville. The state winner represents Kentucky in the Miss America finals next September in Atlantic City.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 24---Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $400,000 for a 12-month continuance of the Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center (AABEDC) on the MSU campus.

The funds were supplied by the U. S. Office of Education and will enable the center to operate for the third consecutive year. More than 200 such grants were requested nationally but only Morehead State University and 27 others were funded.

Created under the Adult Education Act of 1966, the Morehead center strives to improve adult basic education in Appalachia by developing experimental, research and demonstration projects.

The AABEDC currently sponsors nine special projects in seven Appalachia states; Kentucky, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Executive Director George W. Eyster expects the new funds to allow expansion of existing programs and addition of new projects in three other states with counties within Appalachia.

Morehead State's AABEDC presently has two Kentucky projects - an Adult Basic Education Learning Center in Lewis County along the Ohio River and an experimental program of computer-assisted instruction in mathematics which has been made available in several Eastern Kentucky counties.

The Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center at MSU is supervised by the university's Department of Research and Development.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 26-Based on his first effort, Shaw Pong Wan is destined for academic fame at Morehead State University.

The 18-year-old senior at Louisville Atherton High School visited the MSU campus last month to test for competitive, academic scholarships in the School of Sciences and Mathematics.

Exams were given in five fields and the soft-spoken native of Formosa topped the competition in both areas he tried. The performance theoretically entitled him to two four-year scholarships but the rules permit only one scholarship per student.

Shaw, who hopes to become a research chemist, elected to accept a grant in chemistry which is valued at $800. The scholarship is renewable each year on condition he maintains the required grade point average.

Besides the scholarship covering tuition, the Morehead State administration has awarded Shaw an institu-

He will hold a part-time job in the chemistry department while majoring in chemistry and mathematics.

Edward Cline, Shaw's counselor at Atherton, was not surprised at the youngster's extraordinary grades.

"Shaw is an exceptionally bright student with a very sound background," Cline said. "He will give a good account of himself at Morehead."

The scholarship winner is from a family of professionals. His father, Keng-Nien Wan, is Nationalist China's ambassador to Italy.

Shaw lives with his sister, Mrs. David N. C. Yang, 937 Cherokee Road, an instructor of data processing at the University of Louisville.

Dr. W. C. Simpson, dean of the School of Sciences and Mathematics at MSU, is impressed by Shaw's record. "Our faculty is looking forward to having Mr. Wan as a student this fall," Simpson said.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 29--For most of one evening this week, governors of 28 states will be entertained by representatives of Morehead State University.

The Friday night banquet at the National Republican Governors Conference in Lexington will be treated to a musical program featuring students, a faculty member and an alumnus of Morehead State.

The MSU musicians were invited by Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn last December to perform for his 27 GOP counterparts. Mrs. Adron Doran, wife of the MSU president, worked with Mrs. Nunn in arranging the entertainment.

When each governor enters the ballroom of the Phoenix Hotel, he will be greeted by his official state song played by organist Larry Keenan, instructor of music at MSU.

While dining, the governors will hear the 19-piece Morehead State University Stage Band under the direction of Gene Deaton, assistant professor of music.

Singing with the band will be "The Intimate Circle, " a quartet of Morehead State students. Solo vocals will be presented by Brad Jones, a junior music major, and Gary Holcombe, an MSU graduate who is director of vocal music at Bardstown High School.

Holcombe, onetime featured vocalist in "The Stephen Foster Story" at Bardstown, will be accompanied by Keenan, former organist for the outdoor historical musical. e.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 3 ---- Brenda Bussell, Sharpsburg freshman at Morehead State University, is a fan of the Reader's Digest.

12 8- 1

Miss Bussell and MSU are featured in the magazine's May issue in an article concerning Project Upward Bound, a "war on poverty" program aimed at high school students with college potential.

Authors Carl T. Rowan and David M. Mazie started the article with an account of Brenda's struggle to move from her low-income background to college.

Mazie interviewed her and several other Upward Bound students during a one-day visit to the MSU campus last fall. Morehead State and three other institutions were recommended to the editors of Reader's Digest as the best Upward Bound programs in the U. S.

Dr. Thomas Billings, national director of Upward Bound, suggested the writers visit Morehead first. They did and the results appear on page 39 of the May issue.

Morehead State University recently had its Upward Bound program funded for the fourth straight year. More than 100 high school students from deprived backgrounds will attend summer school this year on the MSU campus and return for eight weekends during the 1969-70 term.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 7--A "Learn to Swim Campaign" for non-swimmers will be conducted this summer by the Division of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at Morehead State University.

The classes will be held in Senff Natatorium on the campus, and anyone in Rowan County between the ages of 6 and 16 can participate. Enrollment will be limited to 40 persons for each of four sections, said Dr. Charles Thompson, who will direct the campaign.

The sessions will be held five days a week for about two weeks. Persons can enroll for only one class, and enrollment will be on a first-come basis. Anyone wishing to register may do so in Room 200 of the Laughlin Health Building. Phone registration will not be permitted, Dr. Thompson said.

Two sessions are scheduled for June 30 through July 11. One session will meet from 3:30 p.m. until 4:20 p.m., and the other will meet from 4:30 until 5:20. Two other sessions will meet from July 14 through July 25 at the same time periods.

A $2 incidental fee will be charged for the class. Everyone enrolling in the class must follow the University pool rules.

The swimming students will be taught by the method advocated by the Red Cross, Dr. Thompson said. They will be taught rhymthic breathing; floats including the jelly fish, prone, and back float; finning; fluttering; and the basic human swimming stroke.

Instructors for the class will be Morehead State University students who are qualified as water safety instructors, water safety aides, or swimming aides. Each instructor will receive special training prior to the beginning of the class, Dr. Thompson said. #

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 8--Bill Bradford, Russell junior, has been reelected president of the 6,000-member student body at Morehead State University.

The incumbent turned back Darrell Carter, Dayton, Ohio, junior, to win a second term starting in September. Bradford maintains his non-voting seat on the MSU Board of Regents by virtue of the victory in campus-wide elections.

Also reelected was Connie Ankrom, Williamson, W. Va., junior, as treasurer of Student Council. She defeated Richard Herlihy, Peekskill, N.Y., sophomore Larry Knipp, Olive Hill junior, won the vice presidency over Glen Coatney, Kettering, Ohio, junior, in the closest race. Knipp's margin was 70 votes out of more than 2, 200 cast.

The secretary's post went to Pat Terry, Frankfort sophomore, over Kay Ludwick, Highland, Ohio, sophomore. Steve Jamison, Louisville junior, swamped Taskel Ross, Shively junior, for the reporter's office. Sharon Maggard, Lexington junior, defeated Bill (Bud) Wooten, South Shore junior, for historian.

In other balloting, the Morehead State undergraduates decided by a 3-2 margin in favor of increasing the semester entertainment fee from $2 to $5. However, the measure must be approved by the Board of Regents.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 10---Morehead State University will hold its second annual communications institute the first two weeks of the regular summer term---June 15-28.

The institute will be open to junior and senior high school students, college students, and teachers.

Three divisions of study will be available through the institute: forensics, drama, and radio-television. Dr. Jack E. Wilson, assistant professor of speech at Morehead State University, will direct the institute.

The forensics division, under the direction of Mrs. G. C. Webb, will concentrate on debate, but will offer instruction in discussion, extemporaneous speaking and oratory.

Featured in the drama division, which will be directed by Marvin Philips, will be work on one-act plays, duet acting, interpretative events and various aspects of technical theatre.

The radio-television division will include sessions in announcing, news writing, and radio and television production. Special emphasis will also be placed on study for the third class radio-telephone operator's license with broadcast endorsement. James Uszler will direct the radio-TV sessions.

Under special arrangement, students who will be juniors or seniors in high school may receive up to three hours credit for work taken in the institute. Students wishing to receive such credit must make arrangements with Dr. Wilson no later than two weeks prior to the beginning of the institute.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 11---What are all of the words in the English language depicting sound? Adventure? Color? Fear?

Answers to these and related questions are being sought by a husband and wife team of English professors at Morehead State University in one of the most ambitious research projects in the history of Kentucky education.

Dr. Lewis W. Barnes and Dr. Ruth B. Barnes have involved more than 100,000 elementary, junior high, senior high and college students in their work and more are to come.

The two linguistics experts long have realized the need for such information and their interest gave birth to "CAFAEL."

Representing "composition aid for all educational levels, " CAFAEL's goal is a graded, categorized and systematically-ordered word list in areas where language must carry a statement or stimulus in terms of the senses, emotions, time, space, size effects and others.

The Barneses are convinced CAFAEL will enable students and teachers to speak and write more effectively and, in a secondary role, improve communication efforts of the mass media, business and industry.

To date, the project has involved the Jefferson County, Bourbon County, Floyd County and Louisville Catholic school districts. Students on all grade levels in each system were assigned to list all words concerning their particular category.

In Jefferson County, for example, lists were prepared for words of touch, taste, smell, sight and sound. Louisville's Catholic students are listing words of power and security, two of the four basic human drives. Bourbon

CAFAEL 2222222

Þ

County is assembling word lists for motion. Floyd County is listing words of affection, another basic drive.

CAFAEL operates in three steps - collecting, refining and illustrating. The "collecting" or compilation of word lists is underway in three of the four districts. Jefferson County has finished collecting and its word lists are being "refined" or sorted by the research team on the MSU campus. The "illustrating" process, also to be done mostly at Morehead, consists of the preparation of sentences and paragraphs showing use of the materials in oral and written composition.

In short, CAFAEL not only will provide complete lists of words for human communication but also how each properly would be used.

Side benefits include providing a valuable learning experience for teachers and students, allowing all levels to contribute to learning in a cooperative venture, producing real information on the recognition of children as to what they know, feel and recognize as sensory and emotive words, furnishing raw data for experimentation in oral and written communication and revealing differences among groups of students based on geographical and socio-economic factors.

Students acting as word "collectors" are being encouraged to search dictionaries, thesauri, comic strips, newspaper and magazine articles, television, radio, local idiom and slang.

When completed, the CAFAEL materials will be owned jointly by Morehead State University and each of the participating school districts. Representatives of the various systems will determine outside use of the information.

The project's co-directors hope to have the first phase of CAFAEL finished this summer. They are working under a faculty research grant provided by the university and administered by the School of Humanities.

Assisting with CAFAEL are fellow English department faculty members Dorothy Bray, Frances Helpinstine, Victor Venettozzi and Dr. Robert Hacke.

Ten additional school districts are being considered for CAFAEL participation and the Barneses are anxious to involve several others.

In addition, Dr. Barnes and his wife want to recruit student groups at Morehead State as word "collectors."

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 13 --- Thirty public school librarians from two states have been selected to participate in a five-week Summer Library Institute at Morehead State University.

Dr. Jack D. Ellis, director of libraries at MSU, said more than 300 persons applied for admission. Each participant will receive a weekly stipend of $75 while the institute is in session from July 7 to Aug. 8.

Funds are being supplied by the U.S. Office of Education under Title II of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

The institute's objective, according to Dr. Ellis, is to improve school libraries as media centers by increasing librarian training in the selection, evaluation and organization of educational materials.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 14---Billy B. Gardner of Flemingsburg, winner of the Northeast Kentucky Regional Science Fair two months ago, captured two awards in the 20th annual International Science Fair last week in Fort Worth, Texas.

Gardner, a 15-year-old sophomore at Fleming County High School, was presented a certificate and $100 U.S. Savings Bond as first place winner in competition sponsored by the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleur Engineers.

He received a plaque and $75 for second place in entries considered by the American Society for Metals.

Gardner went to Texas after winning the regional fair sponsored by Morehead State University and held in late March on the MSU campus.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gardner of Flemingsburg. His prize-winning exhibit concerned physical thermoelement relationships. Lloyd Story of Flemingsburg, Gardner's science teacher, accompanied him to the international fair which involved 391 finalists from 214 regional fairs.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 14---Morehead State University will cooperate with colleges and universities from six states in a detailed study of social welfare training and job adjustments.

The School of Social Sciences at MSU has offered the volunteer services of 24 students majoring in social work for the study, according to Dr. Roscoe H. Playforth, school dean.

The project is sponsored by the Southern Regional Education Board and will start in September.

Morehead State's part of the research will involve seven seniors and 17 juniors, Dean Playforth reported.

Seniors graduating next month will make regular reports on their new positions and juniors will record class and outside activities on campus.

Main objective of the "Undergraduate Social Welfare Project" is to speed recruitment of social welfare graduates for positions in welfare agencies of the South.

The SREB wants to know what events and experiences help or hinder the transition from student to employee. The students and graduates will recount experiences which influence their course in college, in seeking employment and early employment. Each volunteer observer will report bi-weekly for a year.

In addition to helping students find jobs, the study also will enable Morehead State and other colleges to identify strengths and weaknesses in their social welfare programs, Playforth said.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 16 --- Is it a photogram? Or maybe recorded light sculpture?

The art department at Morehead State University is in a quandary. A professor and a student have developed a new light composition technique but no one has come up with a suitable name for it.

Mrs. Christine Burton, Vanceburg graduate student, and Don Young, assistant professor of art, began experimenting with light composition last summer and the results have been interesting.

Mrs. Burton discovered that by reflecting light through certain common objects she could create identifiable objects on photographic paper. Young, her advisor, has been offering technical advice and encouragement.

The works have been shown twice and were well received at both the Kentucky Education Association and Kentucky Art Education Association conventions.

Mrs. Burton, who colors some of the compositions by hand, thus far has refused to sell or trade any of the 50 she has completed.

Her raw materials for the new art form have included paper cutouts, straw, marbles, wood, salt, plastic sheets, dishes and alum. With a hand-held light in the darkroom, Mrs. Burton arranges the conglomeration of objects on the surface of photographic paper and then exposes the paper.

She has been urged by some friends to sell her work through commercial galleries. Two outlets already have requested exhibitions. Thus far, Mrs. Burton has said "no."

"I'm still working by trial and error and I don't think the process is well enough developed to consider its commercial possibilities," she reported.

Young believes the new technique has great potential because of its newness and imagination. The work now being produced by Mrs. Burton belongs to the "surrealistic" school of art, according to Young, but their goal is "realism."

In simpler terms the imagery created on the paper is not clear enough to be easily recognizable but Mrs. Burton is determined to polish the technique.

Young has recommended her work for a one-man show at the university's Claypool-Young Gallery.

Other MSU art students are intrigued by the Burton project and have been experimenting themselves.

One student teacher demonstrated the technique for her high school art class in Ashland and said they became very excited.

"We're not sure what to call it," Young said, "but it definitely is unique."

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 20--"We aren't doing 'Hamlet' as a TV western," said Dr. J. G. Barefield, "but we aren't doing it in the traditional Shakespearean theatre manner either."

Curtain time is almost here for "Hamlet in Rehearsal, " the Morehead State University Drama Department's fourth major production of the year. Opening night is Thursday; curtain time is 8 p.m. Performances of Shakespeare's famous tragedy will also be held at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

"We're doing this show partly for the benefit of those who immediately panic when the name 'Shakespeare' is mentioned, " said Dr. Barefield, the director. "We believe Shakespeare wrote this play with the enjoyment and entertainment of the audience in mind, and those are important objectives."

He pointed out that on a college campus, just as anywhere else, people have varied interests and differing attitudes as to what constitutes "entertainment."

"We seek to appeal to those who haven't read Shakespeare since high school--in fact, to those who haven't read Shakespeare at all, " he said, "as well as to the scholar and the critic."

The play has undergone a decided transformation in the MSU version. The original five-act tragedy has been combined into two acts. Costumes are not traditional. Three primary aids of dramatic interpretation--set, lighting and sound effects--have been given roles consistent with their great importance. Much of the Elizabethan dialogue has been updated for clarification, and some deletions from the original have been made.

Moreover, the whole play can be done in just a little over two hours-including intermission. This is about the standard length for a modern threeact play.

ł

ł

By a concentration on the story line of the play, rather than a psychological in-depth study of each character, it is hoped that the end product will be one of thought-provoking entertainment, said Dr. Barefield.

"We're not 'overhauling' Shakespeare, " said the director, "just presenting him in a different way, so that the general audience can enjoy the play--without losing the essence, we think, of its greatness."

"As Professor Glen O. Allen of Idaho State University recently noted in an article in The Journal of Aesthetics and Art Criticisms, . . . . if we withdraw and study the play dispassionately in the effort to understand the prince and his problem in a historically relevant way, we lose the reality of his inner conflict and thus the main source of our aesthetic satisfaction, " Barefield pointed out.

"The unusual approach to 'Hamlet' that audiences will see beginning Thursday night is designed to get the average theatregoer involved, in a very real sense, in the problems of the play--regardless of whether he prefers Shakespeare, Tennessee Williams or Mickey Spillane, "Dr. Barefield concluded.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 21, ---- A nationally-recognized mountain missionary concerned with both spiritual and economic needs will be principal speaker Sunday, June 1, for the 46th annual baccalaureate service at Morehead State University.

The Rev. Ralph W. Beiting of Lancaster, dean of Kentucky Mountain Missions for the Catholic Diocese of Covington, will address the university's largest graduating class, 873 degree candidates, at 4 p.m. in Button Auditorium.

Father Beiting's parish involves four counties with an area of 1,000 square miles and 45,000 persons. In addition, his deanship duties involve directing the church's missionary and social endeavors in 25 Eastern Kentucky counties.

For his dedicated work in Kentucky Appalachia, Father Beiting was presented the Lane Bryant Award last year for distinguished volunteer service to America and earlier this year was named the Governor's Outstanding Kentuckian by Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

From the start of his pastorate in 1950, Father Beiting has carried on a dual apostolate. Besides tending to the spiritual needs of his parish, he has worked on every level to improve the economic plight of the Appalachian poor.

Ranging from distribution of food and clothing to appearances before congressional committees, Father Beiting has sought to attack poverty with every available means.

In the summer of 1965, he founded the Christian Appalachian Project, Inc., a non-profit organization designed to provide jobs for the poor. Now in its fourth year of service in Jackson County, The CAP, Inc. has carried out several developmental, training and employment programs.

Future plans call for CAP projects to employ more than 100 men. Already in production are woodworking, farming and dairy enterprises. The organization also operates a summer boys' camp and offers adult basic education courses.

Father Beiting involves more than 2,000 national volunteers each year in the work of CAP, Inc.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 21---The annual Morehead State University Alumni Awards Banquet will be held at 7:00 p.m. Saturday, May 31, in the new multi-purpose room of Button Auditorium.

Awards to be presented include the Outstanding Alumnus Award for outstanding service to the University and Alumni Association, the Distinguished Service Award for contributions to the University and the region, and the Distinguished Faculty Award for excellence in teaching and research.

Special recognition will be given to alumni who are band directors and members of the medical profession. Guests for the occasion will include members of the Fresident's Club, who are persons who have made considerable donations to the Alumni Association, and graduating seniors.

Tickets for the banquet cost $2.50 each and may be obtained from Rondal D. Hart, Director of Alumni Affairs, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky, May 22 ---- Billy Henson of Maysville will sing his senior recital Sunday at Morehead State University.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Henson, 912 E. 5th St., will perform at 3 p.m. in Baird Recital Hall.

Billy is a member of the MSU Concert Choir and Chamber Singers and had featured tenor roles in university productions of "Il Tabarro" and "The Student Prince."

He was chosen by the voice faculty as a music department honor student. His recital program includes works by Purcell, Schubert, Donizetti, Mozart and Barber. MOREHEAD, Ky., May 22--A graduate of Morehead State University will be honored at the 46th annual commencement program Monday, June 2, for her lifetime of dedication to public education.

Mrs. Marie R. Turner of Jackson, superintendent of schools in Breathitt County for 35 years, will receive an award for "distinguished and meritorious service to public education in the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

Mrs. Turner, the former Marie Roberts, was graduated from MSU in 1940. Her career includes three years as a classroom teacher before being appointed superintendent.

She operates a school district of more than 3,700 students and 14 schools.

Mrs. Turner has been active on the local, state and national levels in improving public education and has appeared before several congressional committees on behalf of federal education aid programs.

In addition, Mrs. Turner has been a strong force in community and state economic development planning.

Despite her demanding public life, Mrs. Turner found time to be a devoted wife and mother. Her husband of 49 years, Ervine Turner, died last year.

She has three children; Mrs. Treva T. Howell, State Sen. John R. Turner, and Miss Lois Turner, all of Jackson.

One of her schools, LBJ Elementary, recently received an educational innovation award from Gov. Louie B. Nunn. The school was cited for its nongraded, team teaching program.

Mrs. Turner will participate in the traditional processional with this year's graduates. Her award will be presented by Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 22---The Morehead State University colony of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority will be installed as Gamma Psi chapter in ceremonies this weekend.

Preparation for installation will begin Friday morning with initiation ceremonies in the Home Economics Building on the MSU campus.

New chapter officers will be installed at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Home Economics Building and an installation banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday at the Mountaineer House.

Dr. Ray Hornback, Vice President for University Affairs, will give the banquet's welcoming address, followed by a response by Jane Sprinkel of Dayton, Ohio, Sigma Sigma national awards chairman.

Participants in the installation program will be Lynn Hendrickson, president of Gamma Tau Chapter at West Virginia Institute of Technology; Iris Hudson, past president of Psi Chapter at Marshall University; and Mrs. Frank Battin of Youngstown, Ohio, national chairman of alumnae advisory boards.

Mrs. Thomas L. Jones of Denver, Colo., installing officer and national collegiate secretary, will present the charter. Dianne Mount, Louisville junior and chapter president, will accept it.

Seventeen coeds will be initiated as undergraduate members and 15 as alumnae members. A six-member alumnae advisory board will also be installed. Its members will be Mrs. Elmer Anderson, Mrs. Floy Patton, Mrs. Jean Rogers, Mrs. Judy Rogers, Dr. Jean Snyder, and Mrs. Deane Tant, all of Morehead.

The Morehead colony of Sigma Sigma Sigma was formerly Alpha Gamma Epsilon, a local sorority founded three years ago. It became a colony of Tri-Sigma this spring.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 22--The small boy cried happily when he saw the cake and presents. He was seven years old but it was his first birthday party.

Small school and community libraries expanded overnight because more than 3,500 books were collected, repaired and catalogued.

Servicemen in Korea and Vietnam got a touch of home from $175 worth of packages prepared by someone who cared.

These projects were not started by a national or worldwide charitable organization but by a group of students at Morehead State University. Their motto is "involvement" and they call themselves the Community and Student Volunteers (CSVs).

Founded less than two years ago, their purpose, simply, is to help the disadvantaged and improve their own lives at the same time.

Their other projects include volunteer work at a hospital, cleanup work at an old cemetery and Christmas clothing for poor families.

Two children's homes have been aided considerably by the CSVs. They have purchased indoor play equipment, tutored students at night, arranged for "sponsors" to send letters and gifts to the children and helped dig potatoes at one home where the vegetable garden supplies most of the food. A CSV-manned painting project recently brightened several rooms at one of the orphanages.-

To date, most of the volunteers' work has involved only about 20 students but recruits are joining regularly as the word spreads. Advice and support come from three faculty members and two clergymen.

Project finances are donated by sympathetic churches or obtained through fund-raising drives. Frequently, the volunteers use their personal funds. A modest membership fee underwrites clerical expenses.

Formation of such a group seemed only natural for students who mainly are training to become social workers. Other volunteers come from the ranks of elementary education and recreation majors. Still others are in unrelated fields but share the same zeal.

Projects often require use of weekend and night leisure time but CSV continues to go and grow.

Is the group too busy for new work?

"Certainly not, " said a CSV spokesman, "we're always looking for new ways to serve."

The CSVs also have an unusual attitude toward publicity. They want none for themselves, only for the cause.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 23 --- Scholastic excellence does not carry the right to subvert academic freedom and personal liberty in the disruption of college campuses, Morehead State University President Adron Doran told an academic honors day assembly Thursday.

He commended the MSU student body and faculty for not following the example of others who have brought "dishonor and disrepute to themselves and their institutions."

Dr. Doran told more than 400 honor students and scholastic award recipients their achievements had brought "great honor" to Morehead State University and that their labors in a democratic framework "to advance the cause of education will stand as a monument when other universities go up in smoke and are reduced to rubble."

The president defended academic freedom and constitutional rights as "pearls of great price" in American democracy but cautioned the honorees "never to desecrate this day, this institution and this nation by irresponsible deeds and words."

"Honor must not be equated solely with having attained a high level of academic achievement," Dr. Doran said. "We must look, however, to how preparation and experience have conditioned us to serve our fellow man."

He called on the entire university community to devote itself to "a recognition of the brotherhood of man and a willingness to engage in peaceful and lawful pursuits instead of pitting class and race against each other while following a course of violence and destruction."

In special presentations, Eugene R. McCane, Vanceburg senior, was recognized as the university's first Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He has been awarded a four-year doctoral fellowship in history at the University of Kentucky.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 27--Morehead State University has another new national social fraternity - Lambda Chi Alpha.

Former local fraternity Tau Alpha Epsilon has been accepted as a Lambda Chi Alpha colony with 36 active members and eight alumni.

The new colony became the eighth MSU local Greek letter social group to gain national affiliation. Full chapter status for Lambda Chi Alpha at Morehead State is scheduled next year.

As a local, Tau Alpha Epsilon was founded on the MSU campus in 1964. As a colony, the group becomes the fourth Lambda Chi Alpha affiliate in Kentucky.

Lambda Chi Alpha is among the largest national social fraternities with more than 175 chapters. It was founded in 1909 at Boston University.

Among alumni initiates in the MSU colonization were Dr. Paul Ford Davis, dean of undergraduate programs; and Dr. Clay Van Sink, associate professor of business.

Officers of the new Lambda Chi colony at Morehead State include Carl Rollins, Midway junior, president; Jack Sims, Munfordville sophomore, vice president; Glen Coatney, Kettering, Ohio, junior, secretary; Alonzo Watts, Pine Top senior, treasurer; Thomas Bennett, Covington junior, scholarship chairman; Arthur Cafarelli, Syracuse, N. Y., senior, ritualist; Mike Davis, Centerville, Ohio, senior, rush chairman; Rick Eisert, Louisville senior, pledge educator; and Danny Dove, Ashland sophomore, social chairman.

Richard Crowe, research assistant and director of Wilson Hall, is the fraternity advisor.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- A popular professor, an insurance company executive and a five-term mayor received the top awards Saturday night at the annual Awards Banquet of the Morehead State University Alumni Association.

The 6th Distinguished Faculty Award went to Dr. Frank M. Mangrum, head of the Department of Philosophy.

Recipient of the Distinguished Alumnus Award was Fola N. Hayes of Nashville, Tenn., regional superintendent of the Jefferson National Life Insurance Co.

The association's Public Service Award was presented to Mayor William

More than 800 alumni and friends of the University attended the banquet in the multi-purpose room of Button Auditorium where more than 70 MSU graduates who have distinguished themselves in the fields of medicine and music education in Kentucky were given special recognition.

Twenty-eight students -- 23 now enrolled at Morehead State and five recent high school graduates -- were awarded $200 Alumni Association scholarships for the 1969-70 school year.

Recipients include:

Nathaneal Hall, Sheryl Binion, Kerry Martin, Joyce Swim, Josephine Thompson, Joey Vinson and Herbert Hedgecock, all of Morehead; David A. Collier and Patsy H. Watts, both of Jackson; Janet Wilson, Jimmy Denniston and Hobert Owens, all of Mount Sterling;

Robert W. Clifford of Cynthiana; Virginia Crawford of Russell; Janice Cushman of Florence; Anna L. Douglas of Eminence; Janet A. Gorden of Mount Orab, Ohio; James Lane and Marsha G. Manley of Sharpsburg; Virginia Conley of Wittensvill

Ann E. Leslie of Greenup; Anita Mullins of Belcher; Kay Newman of Loveland, Ohio; Kaye Newman of Washington Courto House, Ohio; Patricia Pinto of Louisville; Betty J. Rigel of Austin, Ind.; Gloria Roberts of Elkhorn City; and Patricia Weaver of Flemingsburg.

Dr. Mangrum's award was presented by Dr. Madison Pryor, chairman of the Division of Biological Sciences and last year's recipient.

The philosophy professor is the first faculty member named to the MSU Board of Regents, having been selected by the university faculty last year.

Dr. Mangrum is a past president of the Kentucky Philosophical Association and serves on four of the university's administrative committees. Before joining the MSU faculty in 1959, he earned a Ph.D from the University of Chicago.

Hayes, a member of the classes of 1942 and 1948 at MSU, served four consecutive terms as president of the Alumni Association.

A former high school coach and principal, he turned to an insurance career in 1953. The Morgan County native has been active in alumni affairs every year since leaving the campus.

The alumnus award was presented by Ted L. Crosthwait, superintendent of Bardstown city schools and last year's honoree.

Mayor Layne was recognized with the Public Service Award for his longtime cooperation with MSU officials in city-university matters and his effective administration of city government.

Elected for four terms starting in 1946, he returned to the mayor's office in 1966 for an unprecedented fifth term. Mayor Layne is a past president of the Kentucky Municipal League.

The mayor's award was presented by W. E. Crutcher, publisher of The Morehead News and last year's recipient.

Release on receipt

MOREHEAD, Ky., Janet Vaughan, a pretty Flemingsburg blonde, will represent a milestone for Morehead State University when she graduates Monday.

The 22-year-old coed will be the 10,000th person to receive an MSU degree since the university was founded in 1922.

Janet is No. 476 on the alphabetical list of this year's 880 candidates for degrees. Added to the 9,524 total through 1968, she becomes No. 10,000.

By the time MSU President Adron Doran has presented diplomas to all of Monday's degree candidates, the all-time degree list will stand at more than 10,400.

Miss Vaughan, a physical education major who plans to teach in high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Vaughan of 435 Fountain Drive, Flemingsburg. She is a 1965 graduate of Fleming County High School.

A Dean's List student throughout her MSU career, Janet has memberships in both of the university's women's academic honoraries, Cardinal Key and CWENS.

In addition, she has been active in Kappa Delta social sorority, a twotime member of the HomecomingCourt, the sweetheart of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, a Campus Club calendar girl, a staff member of the student newspaper, a member of the Open Forum and Sigma Delta, physical education honorary.

Also, Morehead State's 10,000th graduate is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

"I'm proud to be the 10,000th alumnus and this distinction will create even fonder memories of my wonderful years at Morehead State University," was her reaction to the news of her unique position.

"At the moment, I have mixed emotions about graduating," Janet said. "I'm reluctant to leave but still anxious to start my professional career."

Her contribution to MSU history may not end with Monday's ceremony. She hopes to come back for graduate work.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 4 --- Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $19,200 to help four junior colleges improve their biology courses.

The University will host a six-week summer workshop for instructors from Lees Junior College at Jackson, Sue Bennett College at London, Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes and Southeastern Christian College at Winchester.

Two instructors from each school will be on the MSU campus from June 23 to Aug. 1. Biology courses at each school will be analyzed in comparison with university requirements for freshman and sophomore students.

Dr. Madison E. Pryor, chairman of the Division of Biological Sciences, will direct the workshop. He will be assisted by Fred Busroe, instructor of biology.

Dr. Pryor siad the workshop's objective would be to develop a close interrelationship between the MSU biology program and those at the four junior colleges.

Funds are being provided by the National Science Foundation.

> MOREHEAD, Ky., June 6 --- When Robert Schietroma of the Morehead State University music faculty describes some of his instruments as unorthodox, he makes an understatement.

> Schietroma gets musical sounds from rusty brake drums taken off junked cars, galvanized pipe, blocks of wood and cowbells.

The music instructor is a specialist in percussion and the unusual instruments are needed for modern compositions based on oriental and African sounds.

Besides giving his students an opportunity to improvise with different types of instruments, the extraordinary collection is providing Schietroma with low-cost suggestions for high school band directors who want more percussion sounds but cannot afford extra conventional instruments.

Fabricating the suspended brake drums took a week's spare time and caused a junk dealer to question Schietroma's sanity.

"It unnerved the fellow to see grown men roaming through his junkyard and banging on brake drums," Schietroma recalled. "I explained that we needed drums of different pitch but the man seemed anxious for us to find our materials and leave quickly."

The brake drums, bells and galvanized pipe have been used in three concerts of the MSU Percussion Ensemble and Schietroma reports a "generally good" reception.

"Moving the instruments on stage looks like you're getting ready for an auction but attitudes change when the music starts," Schietroma said. "Our students haven't mastered the techniques yet but they're doing better than I anticipated at this point."

Schietroma, who also is music director of University Breckinridge School, is optimistic about the future of his unorthodox instruments.

"After all, when you can produce authentic musical sounds from a pile of junk, there must be hope," he quipped.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 10 --- Adult basic education specialists from seven midwest states will visit Morehead State University Wednesday after inspecting an MSU-sponsored educational project in Lewis County.

The unique "fly-in" workshop involves 30 adult basic education administrators from Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The Kentucky stopover, one of three nationally, starts Wednesday morning in Lexington. Leaving Lexington at 8 a.m., the group will visit the Adult Basic Education Learning Center on the Ohio River at old Lock and Dam Site No. 32 in Lewis County.

Following a picnic luncheon with the center's staff and Lewis County school officials, the ABE visitors travel to the Morehead campus for a series of meetings and demonstrations starting at 2 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the University of Missouri at Kansas City with the Kentucky trip hosted by the Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center at Morehead State University.

Nationally, the group also is visiting ABE centers in Philadelphia, Pa. and Raleigh, N.C.

While in Morehead, the midwest administrators will receive reports on the Ohio State Module Learning Center at Waverly, Ohio, a special project of MSU's ABE Center. Mrs. Elaine Kirk, coordinator of educational television at Morehead State, will present a micro-teaching demonstration.

Sue Stevens will outline MSU's "computer assisted instruction" project which involves adult basic education. A report on the Appalachian Center's operations will be submitted by George W. Eyster, executive director.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 13 --- Morehead State University is helping a Northern Kentucky city organize its recreation planning.

The City of Fort Wright-Lookout Heights is being surveyed by the MSU Recreation Department to determine future needs for recreational facilities.

Operating under a federal grant and at no cost to the City Council and City Recreation Commission, university personnel have interviewed the community's students and this month are surveying individual families.

Volunteers from various civic clubs will start distributing questionnaires door-to-door next Wednesday in Fort Wright-Lookout Heights, according to Rex Chaney, project director and director of recreation education at MSU.

Student samplings were completed last month and the entire report is scheduled for presentation to city officials in July.

Chaney said the project goal is to list existing public and private recreational facilities and community needs for new programs.

Dr. Paul Drews is chairman of the City Recreation Commission.

The survey would cost the city at least $5,000 if made by a private firm, Chaney said.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 13 --- More than 300 high school and college musicians from 28 states and Canada will have a lesson in Kentucky history next month during the fourth annual Cumberland Forest Music Camp at Morehead State University.

Shortly after the two-week camp opens July 13, its name will be changed to "Daniel Boone Forest Music Camp" to coincide with the new name of the national forest which surrounds the MSU campus.

About 40 per cent of the camp enrollment represents Kentucky communities, according to Dr. Robert Hawkins, camp director and director of bands at Morehead State.

The 27-member faculty includes 15 visiting artists from as far away as California and Boston, Mass.

University credit, ranging from one to three semester hours, will be offered for those enrolled in the college undergraduate and graduate divisions. The third group and the camp's largest is the junior-senior high school division.

Before closing July 26, the camp will have provided individual and group instruction in all instrumental areas, conducting, theory, twirling and marching techniques.

Costs are $90 for Kentucky residents and $95 for out-of-state students. Applications will be accepted until opening day.

All activities of "Daniel Boone Forest Music Camp" are scheduled on the campus of Morehead State University with camp headquarters at Baird Music Hall.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 14---Morehead State University will unveil its new $250,000 television production facilities next month during an instructional media workshop involving 44 public school teachers.

Designed as part of the statewide production system of Kentucky Educational Television (KET), the new MSU studios and equipment will be used for the first time during the five-week training session in the use and preparation of audio-visual teaching aids.

The workshop opens Monday, June 23, and ends Friday, July 25.

Dr. Norman Tant, workshop coordinator and director of instructional media at MSU, said the new facility would be incorporated in workshop classes during late July.

The equipment was activated last month for coverage of student body elections.

Financed with federal funds, the workshop offers six semester hours of graduate credit. Each participant will receive a weekly stipend of $75.

Workshop faculty members include Dr. Tant, Steve Young, instructor of audio-visual education; and Mrs. Frances Gwinn and Mrs. Donna Vick, oncamera teachers for Channel 15, Kentuckiana Educational Television, at Louisville.

MOREHEAD, Ky. ---As long as people appreciate good stories and good men, they will remember W. H. (Honie) Rice at Morehead State University.

The 65-year-old superintendent of buildings and grounds is retiring July 1 but he leaves a rich legacy of humorous anecdotes from this almost 39 years of being the chief "fixit man."

Like the time, several years ago, when a distraught coed ran away from her dormitory after threatening to kill herself over an unhappy romance. The dorm director and the girl's roommates found her on a hill overlooking the campus.

"Honie" was called for assistance and arrived at the dorm just as the search party and the weeping coed were returning.

He asked if he could be of help and the dorm director asked, "Can you mend a broken heart?" His reply is immortal. "Why not? I've fixed everything else around here."

Or the time when several football players decided they needed a day off from classes. They fastened the front door of the main classroom building with a log chain and announced a strike.

Rice was called to reopen the building and he marched up to the front door with a pair of bolt cutters in his hand. Some of the players protested but "Honie," a former football great at Kentucky muscled his 6-2, 240-pound frame up to the door and snapped the chain with a classic pronouncement.

"Strike's over," he said. And sure enough, it was.

rice 2222222

Two facets of "Honie" Rice's character have never been questioned at MSU- his wit and his devotion to the university.

From the time he joined the staff of a small, struggling teachers college in early 1931, to the time he retires next month from a vibrant, growing university, he has been the man people relied on to keep the physical plant operating.

President Adron Doran and the MSU Board of Regents asked him to reconsider his retirement but he politely refused.

"It's time for a younger man to take over, " the strapping civil engineer says of his decision. "They have a good man to take my place and he can do a better job of keeping up with the pace."

The pace has been breathtaking, especially since 1954 when Dr. Doran became the university's seventh president. What used to be a sleepy little college with 350 students and seven buildings has grown into a regional university with more than 40 major structures and in excess of 6, 200 students.

Rice started with a staff of seven and today runs a department of more than 200.

"I feel good about my years at Morehead because I've always done my best, " he said recently. "Whatever I am, I've done it here."

In addition to recognition as one of the top physical plant administrators in the country, "Honie" has a unique distinction on the MSU campus. He is the only person to have two facilities named in his honor.

The W. H. Rice Maintenance Service Building, a $227,000 structure, and Riceville, a 20-unit complex of houses for married students, signify the university's gratitude for his lifelong service.

rice 33333333

ş

"Honie" hasn't been the only family member connected with MSU. His wife, Virginia, is retiring on the same day after 22 years as an assistant professor of education.

One of his two sons, Lucien H. Rice, graduated from Morehead State and is a Boy Scout executive in Zanesville, Ohio. He is immediate past president of the MSU Alumni Association.

"Cave Man, " as Rice was called during the days when he played tackle for UK, is looking forward to bridge, baseball and MSU sports in his retirement.

When "Honie" leaves the campus July 1, he will be taking his title with him. His successor, Glen Boodry, now assistant superintendent, will be known as "director of physical plant."

"I feel like a famous baseball player who is having his uniform number retired, " said "Honie."

"It's a good feeling."

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 20---Guidance counselors and school administrators from throughout Kentucky will participate in a day-long conference on the development of guidance programs at Morehead State University, Tuesday, June 24.

MOREHEAD, Ky., --- Spring graduates of Morehead State University have been challenged to help find answers to America's domestic ills without sacrificing democratic processes.

Rexford S. Blazer, chairman of the board of Ashland Oil and Refining Co., told the university's largest graduating class and more than 5,000 visitors that the class of 1969 possessed the "intelligence, skills and character" to bring the U.S. out of "this period of anxiety."

Addressing the 46th annual commencement program, the Ashland industrialist criticized unlawful dissent but said protests had "aroused the nation to the existence of pockets of poverty, to injustices too long maintained, to inequities that must be eliminated, to talents too long ignored and to possibilities too long overlooked."

He called on the 855 graduates to "help formulate peaceful and intelligent responses and develop a means of answering the critics of our society through accomplishment."

University President Adron Doran conferred degrees on 791 undergraduates and 64 graduate students. Janet M. Vaughan of Flemingsburg was identified as the university's 10,000th graduate.

Eugene R. McCane of Vanceburg was recognized as the university's first Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He has been awarded a four-year grant for doctoral study.

Mrs. Marie Turner, superintendent of Breathitt County schools for 38 years, received a special award for her lifetime of dedication to public education. She was a member of the MSU Class of 1940 and is the dean of Kentucky school superintendents.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- The Morehead State University Board of Regents has approved the creation of a University Senate with one-fourth student representation, making MSU the first public university in Kentucky to allow significant student voting membership.

Traditionally, university senates are based on an all-faculty concept.

When operational this fall, the Morehead State University Senate will have 49 members, including 12 students, 12 members of the administrative staff and 25 from the faculty.

Its duties and responsibilities will include serving as an advisory body in the development of school policy, as a communicative link among the university's various elements, as a voice of the consensus of the university community and as a coordinator of university committees.

Morehead's unique setup resulted from a year-long study of faculty senates throughout the United States by a special committee of faculty and administrators. Both the MSU faculty and Student Council also have approved the proposal.

In voting unanimous approval of the University Senate, the Board of Regents commended the planning committee and stated the institution-wide body would provide a sounding board for future problems.

In other business, the board:

Approved an all-time record budget of $13,941,567 for the 1969-70 school year, up from the $11,487,249 allocation for 1968-69.

Authorized an affiliation with Norton's Infirmary in Louisville for a medical technology program.

Okehed a master's degree program in psychology.

[].

Approved an increase in the student entertainment fee from two dollars to five dollars per semester. The hike had been ratified in two student body referendums.

Named the 136-man athletic dormitory in honor of George Dewey Downing, the university's first coach and athletic director. "Downing Hall" bears the name of the man who coached basketball, football, baseball and swimming from 1923 to 1935.

Renamed Doran Student House to "Doran University Center" effective at the completion of a $2.8 million renovation and expansion of the original structure completed in 1957.

Administered the oaths of office of new board member Charles D. Wheeler of Ashland and returnee Bill Bradford, the student representative. Wheeler, a state representative from the 100th District, recently was named to a four-year term by Gov. Louie B. Nunn. Bradford, a Russell junior, is student body president. He began his second one-year term on the board.
