MOREHEAD, Ky., Jan. 14---Morehead State University has entered its teacher preparation program in national competition.

The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE) is considering MSU's program for one of its 1970 distinguished achievement awards to be presented next month, according to Dr. James H. Powell, Dean of the School of Education.

The proposal emphasizes integration of professional education courses with actual student teaching experiences and the individual approach that allows nine different staff members to guide and support each student teacher.

This is accomplished through the teacher education professional semester which provides maximum assistance to the student teacher through a rotating 4-4-4-4 plan in which the prospective teacher spends four weeks on campus in classes and four weeks off campus doing actual student teaching.

By repeating the pattern twice, each student is assured of eight weeks on campus and eight weeks off campus during his professional semester.

During the eight weeks of on-campus experience, the student teacher participates in professional education classes that integrate on-campus laboratory experiences with off-campus practice teaching. Through such mini-courses as microteaching taken on campus and from the assistance and support offered by his team of supervisors in off-campus teaching situations, each student is guaranteed individual guidance that encourages the full development of his teaching strengths.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 12---The Board of Regents of Morehead State University has commissioned Kentucky artist Gene Gray to paint the American Bald Eagle as the university's official symbol.

A Lexington resident who considers himself "an illustrator of animals and a painter of life", Gray is rapidly becoming one of the nation's most popular young artists.

Dr. Adron Doran, President of Morehead State University, describes Gray as "a truly outstanding wildlife artist whom we feel will accurately and vividly portray the bald eagle. "

"We have desired to have a portrait of a bald eagle to display on the campus for a lengthy period of time, " said Dr. Doran, "as Morehead athletic teams have long been identified as the Eagles. We sincerely feel that in Gene Gray we have a great talent who will provide us with a painting worthy of display as the official Morehead State University Eagle. "

Gray will journey to central Florida during the first of March to spend several weeks studying the bald eagle in its natural habitat. The bald eagle, which is a national symbol used on currency, seals, and documents, is a near extinct bird enjoying total immunity from hunters and trappers. Only 250 of the species are thought to exist in the central Florida region near Ocala where Gray will be assisted by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission in his search for the bald eagle.

Anima Graphics, Lexington, will print a limited edition of 2,000 copies for Morehead State University which are expected to be sold prior to the release date of Sept. 1. The original painting will hang on the Morehead campus, while the limited edition of prints will be made available for sale to alumni, students, faculty, and friends on a "first come, first serve" basis. Each of the prints will be signed by Gray and President Doran. Individuals who would like to have athletic coaches or other individuals on the Morehead campus sign the prints may do so.

Financing of the project is being handled through the MSU Alumni Association and no state funds are involved. Individual Morehead State University prints, with a colorfully illustrated cover jacket, will be priced at $25. Any proceeds above costs will be used by the Alumni Association for scholarships. Interested individuals should contact the Bureau of University Affairs, Morehead State University, for further information.

Gray calls the opportunity to paint the bald eagle "one I have long dreamed of as this great bird symbolizes the American spirit. I am most pleased to join with Morehead State University in this endeavor."

In less than three years, Gray has released 15 paintings and drawings. Five of these have already become collector's items and the remaining will soon have identical status.

Gray is married to a former Morehead State University student, Peggy Jo Dingus, from Martin, Ky. They have two children.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 13---The School of Sciences and Mathematics at Morehead State University again is awarding 15 scholarships to high school students based on competitive examinations in five academic areas.

The grants, effective this fall, are $800, $400 and $200 in biology, chemistry, geoscience, mathematics and physics.

Brochures explaining the second annual program have been distributed to every high school in Kentucky.

Students interested in the geoscience grants do not need high school geology courses to qualify. Physical science or general science is sufficient background.

High school seniors applying for the scholarships are to take exams Feb. 28 on the MSU campus. Students may compete in two subject areas but will be eligible for only one grant.

The first place winner in each subject will receive a four-year scholarship valued at $200 yearly. Second place carries a two-year grant worth $400. Third position will receive a $200 grant for one year.

Each continuing scholarship is renewable each year only if the recipient maintains an overall grade point average of 2.5 and a major field average of 3.0, based on a 4.0 scale.

The grants represent a waiver of the $100 semester registration fee charged Kentucky residents. No cash awards will be made.

Applications for the examinations are available at the offices of high school principals and guidance counselors or may be obtained by writing to Dr. William C. Simpson, Dean, School of Sciences and Mathematics, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 23 --- It's a question of who outranks whom when Mrs. Anthea Boarman of Lexington goes to class at Morehead State University.

But Mrs. Boarman also has some authority. She is judge of the Fayette County Juvenile Court and, at 25, is among the youngest lady jurists in the youngest lady jurists in the country, if not the youngest.

The unique situation was created by Mrs. Boarman's enrollment in the MSU graduate school where she is working on a master's degree in English. After that, she hopes to earn a master's in psychology.

Besides their family and professor-student relationships, the professor and the judge also have another common interest--the law. Mrs. Boarman has a law degree from the University of Kentucky. Her father, an unusual academician with four doctorates, also has a law degree from John Marshall Law School. A linguistics expert and author, he has been on the Morehead State faculty since 1963.

The lady judge commutes to Morehead twice weekly for night classes after a busy day in her law offices and at the courthouse where, as juvenile trial commissioner, she operates the Juvenile Court.

Mrs. Boarman did her pre-law studies at Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. She finished law school in 1967 and was admitted to practice in 1968.

Parental influence in the classroom does not end with her father's class. She is taking another course from Dr. Ruth Barnes, her mother and also a professor of English at MSU.

However, Mrs. Barnes may not be considered in the rank question. She only has two doctorates.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 24--- Cincinnati television star Len Mink will be featured Saturday night as 30 Morehead State University coeds compete in "Premiere" eliminations of the third annual Miss MSU Pageant.

Mink, host of WCPO-TV's Len Mink Show, is master of ceremonies for the 8 p. m. competition in Button Auditorium on the MSU campus.

Ten entrants will be selected for the pageant's final night, March 14, when a successor is to be chosen for the current Miss MSU, the former Gayle Lyon, later named first runner-up in Miss Kentucky competition.

Both the "Premiere" and final pageants are official preliminaries of the Miss Kentucky Pageant which sends its state winner to the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City in September.

Mink, a 22-year-old vocalist and guitarist, has been performing professionally since 1967 and is popular with college audiences. He has made three appearances on national television.

Five judges considering beauty, talent and poise will narrow the field for final competition. Both pageants are sponsored by MSU's Panhellenic and Interfraternity councils.

This year's contestants include:

Donna Smith, 19, Corbin sophomore; Cathy Dickerson, 18, Ashland freshman; Jackie Osley, 21, Jenkins junior; Rita Steppe, 19, Dayton, Ohio, freshman; Anne Levi, 21, Georgetown senior;

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 25---A regional drama comprised of three one-act plays scheduled March 20, 21 and 23 will be the next major production of the Morehead State University Drama Department.

Tentatively titled "Kentucky Mountain Fantasies," the trilogy takes its name from a book with the same title containing three folk plays published in the 1920's by Percy MacKaye.

A narrative thread ties the production together with a theme common to all three plays - exploitation of the land and the people of the Eastern Kentucky mountains. Folk music and dancing are planned for the show.

The script, adapted by Mike Chapman, London senior, includes two of MacKaye's plays, "Timber" and "Napoleon Crossing the Rockies." It also incorporates a third play, "Fight the Land," by Calvin Spears.

The production is intended to provide an opportunity for younger students new to the drama department to gain experience in all phases of production, according to J. Larry Roof, assistant professor of dramatic arts and play sponsor.

MOREHEAD, Ky., Feb. 27---Harrison Salisbury, Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter, author and expert on Russian-Chinese relations, is coming to Morehead State University Thursday, March 5, under auspices of the 1969-70 Concert and Lecture Series and the MSU Student Council.

The 8 p. m. lecture at Button Auditorium will concern the ideological split between Russia and Red China. Attendance is open to full-time students and series members.

Now one of the assistant managing editors of the New York Times, Salisbury won his coveted Pulitzer Prize for excellence in foreign reporting in 1954 with a series of articles based on his five years as Moscow correspondent and on extensive travel in Soviet Central Asia, a region almost unknown to Westerners.

Salisbury's observations of what he calls "the rising conflict between Russia and Red China" are based upon his experience in Russia and trips in 1959, 1966 and 1967.

He was the last American reporter to visit North Vietnam with the approval of the U. S. State Department. His articles on U. S. bombing of North Vietnam were front-page features across the country in late 1966 and early 1967.

Also a war correspondent in World War II, Salisbury once was banned from Russia for articles considered critical of the Soviet system. He is the winner of a recent George Polk Memorial Award in Journalism and the author of three new books: "Orbit of China," "Behind the Lines-Hanoi" and "The 900 Days - The Siege of Leningrad."

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 3 --- Seven fine arts events are scheduled by Morehead State University from Friday, March 6, through March 11.

"Carmina Burana," Carl Orff's setting of 24 profane poems dating from the 13th century which were discovered during the 1880's in a Bavarian monastery, will be performed Sunday, March 8, by the Morehead State University Concert Choir and Percussion Ensemble. James Ross Beane will conduct the 3 p.m. performance in Baird Recital Hall and Jay Flippin and Jo-Anne Ray are the duo-piano team for the program.

Dr. David Appleby, a newcomer to the MSU piano faculty, will present the Kentucky premiere of a sonata by contemporary composer Thomas Avinger in a solo recital Friday night at Louisville Baptist Seminary. He also will perform March 8 at Union College and again March 17 at Morehead, when his program will include sonatas of Schubert and Avinger and works of Villa-Lobos, Brahms and Ravel.

Two art exhibits are showing at the Claypool-Young Gallery through Friday, March 20. Sculpture by Carl Floyd of the University of Kentucky's Department of Architecture and Sculpture is being shown in the gallery. Work by first-year printmaking students at Morehead State is on exhibit elsewhere in the building.

Landis Baker, pianist from Eastern Kentucky University, will be featured in a guest recital Monday at Baird Recital Hall. The 8 p.m. concert will include three Chopin preludes, a Brahms sonata, and Ravel's "Le Tombeau de Couperin."

Robert Walshe, former member of the El Paso Symphony and a new MSU faculty member, will be presented in a horn recital in Baird Recital Hall Tuesday, March 10, at 8 p.m. He will perform a work by Saint-Saens on a valveless hunting horn and music by Mozart, Leighton Lukas and Ellis B. Kohs. He will be assisted by Patricia Walshe, piano and harpsichord; Frederick Mueller, bassoon; William Kessler, flute; and Ken Smelko, tympani.

Two faculty members from Interlochen Arts Academy will be guest recitalists in Baird Recital Hall Wednesday, March 11, at 8 p.m. Luis Grinhauz, first violinist of the resident string quartet at Interlochen, and Berta Rosenohl-Grinhauz, pianist will perform works of Telemann, Debussy, and Strauss.

All events are free to the public.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 10 --- Two Morehead State University faculty members are heading north next week to show off some unusual photographic techniques and represent Kentucky's art educators.

Donald Young and Douglas Adams, assistant professors of art, have been invited to participate in the Western Arts regional conference of the National Art Education Association meeting March 23-27 in Milwaukee.

Young will be the only Kentuckian on the conference program. He will demonstrate the processes of "photochemigraphics" and "photoillusionography."

The first technique involves drawing and painting with photographics without a camera or enlarger. More than 30 examples will be exhibited. The second concerns projection of transparencies onto three-dimensional objects. Young has been experimenting with both processes for a year to develop them as art media.

Adams is representing the Kentucky Art Education Association (KAEA) of which he is president.

The MSU musicians will perform March 18, 19 and 20 in the Coliseum at Mobile, Ala., home of the National Junior Miss Pageant.

"This is the best stage band we've ever had and this trip certainly is our greatest honor up to this time," said Director Gene Deaton in reaction to the coveted invitation.

Morehead State's 20 bandsmen will compete in Region Four at Mobile against bands from Southern Mississippi, Loyola, Southeastern Louisiana, Jacksonville State (Ala.), Louisiana State, Missouri, Glassboro State (N.J.) and Alabama. The stage band from North Texas State will perform in a guest concert.

"Each band was chosen as the best group in its part of the region," Deaton said of the opposition. "Our kids know they're going up against the best but we're shooting for that trip to the national finals."

All competing bands were selected from auditions.

Deaton's aggregation includes 19 undergraduates and one graduate student. The band's vocal group, the Intimate Circle, will accompany them as spectators. Also making the journey will be associate conductors Robert Schietroma and Jay Flippin.

"We walk for those who can't" is the motto of Lambda Chi Alpha's 48 members on Saturday, March 21, for their fourth annual "walk-in" from Maysville to Morehead.

While walking more than 40 miles and 12 hours on Ky. 32, the fraternity men will collect for the Easter Seal Drive in Mason, Fleming and Rowan counties. The hike, accomplished in shifts, will pass through Maysville and Flemingsburg and end at the campus in Morehead.

Jack Sims, Bowling Green junior and president of Lambda Chi Alpha at MSU, said contributions will be returned to each county's Easter Seal campaign.

The "walk-in" begins at 7 a. m. at the Maysville home of Dr. W. H. Cartmell, prominent physician and vice chairman of the MSU Board of Regents. Dr. and Mrs. Cartmell will provide breakfast for the volunteer hikers.

The fraternity's goal is $1,200 in donations for the day. Slightly more than $1,000 was collected last year.

The 20-piece group was picked as one of the three best bands and three MSU bandmen won individual trophies: Brooks Callihan, Greenup sophomore, best first trombone; Reginald Richwine, Mt. Holly Springs, Pa. senior, best lead trumpet; and Johnny Brown, North Vernon, Ind. junior, best jazz trumpet.

Director Gene Deaton, assistant professor of music, accepted the band's finalist trophy. Ten colleges and universities were represented at the regional level.

The MSU band will be considered for the national festival in Washington on the basis of tapes made during the Mobile competition.

"The judges used words like 'great' and 'fantastic' to describe our performances," Deaton reported.

Judge Urbie Green, one of the best known jazz trombonists in the world, said of the Morehead State aggregation:

Deaton described his musicians as "real fine students of music" and expressed hope for an invitation to the national eliminations where the country's nine top college stage bands will compete.

"We'll know later this month," Deaton added. "Going to the nationals would be a dream come true."

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 25---A new educational opportunity for area residents is now available at Morehead State University's Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center in the form of an Adult Learning Laboratory.

Open to everyone over sixteen (16), the lab is located on the 7th floor of the Education Building at MSU. The lab will be open on Monday and Thursday evenings between 6 and 9 p. m.

The Adult Learning Laboratory offers--free of charge--an "up to the minute" variety of education, specifically designed for adults who want to improve basic educational skills such as reading and math.

The heart of the "learning lab" is a scientifically developed system called "programmed learning": a kind of "do it yourself" educational system that allows students to work at their own individual level at their own speed. Programmed learning uses textbooks, filmstrips, records and tapes to present subject matter that has been carefully organized into logical sequences so it can be easily learned.

If a student runs into any difficulty with a lesson, the learning lab coordinator, who is always on duty when the lab is open, may be called on for help. An assistant coordinator will also be available for aid.

"According to statistics gathered in learning labs in Ohio, North Carolina, and New York, the learning rate was shown to be twice as fast in learning labs than in conventional classrooms," says John Gaus, Learning Lab Specialist for the AABEDC.

Although planned with the basic education student in mind, the lab has material available up to the college level. No high school or college credit is directly available through the lab, but students can use lab facilities in preparation for the general equivalency diploma. (GED)

Another unique feature of the lab is its informal policies in relation to attendance. "There are no regular hours for anyone enrolled," Mr. Gaus said. The students are free to come and go as their schedule allows, during the time the lab is open, from 6 to 9 p. m., Mondays and Thursdays. Additional hours may be added later according to student demand. This flexible attendance policy suits the needs of working people, women with children, and others who cannot meet classes on a regular basis.

The Lab is a project of the Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center. The Morehead-based lab is the second such learning facility in Eastern Kentucky funded by the AABEDC. Another such lab has been operating near Vanceburg in Lewis County for almost two years.

The AABEDC is itself a project of the U. S. Office of Education under Title 3 of the Adult Education Act. Operating since 1967 at Morehead State University, the AABEDC has initiated a number of experimental projects throughout the thirteen-state Appalachian region to improve the quality of adult education.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 27---A 44-year-old career soldier who rose through the ranks from private to lieutenant colonel is the new professor of military science at Morehead State University.

Lt. Col. Arthur L. Kelly, a native of Springfield, Ky., and a decorated veteran of three wars, has been jointly appointed by the Army and the MSU Board of Regents to succeed Lt. Col. Thomas A. Harris who retired last month.

Originally assigned to Morehead State last summer as associate professor of military science, Col. Kelly now takes command of the University's Reserve Officer Training Corps program.

"Colonel Kelly has proven to be an excellent administrator and a fine example of military leadership," MSU President Adron Doran said in announcing the appointment. "We are confident he will continue the solid program initiated by Colonel Harris."

Kelly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Kelly of 405 West Main St., Springfield, and is married to the former Ollie Hays of Springfield. They have five children.

His military career began as an enlisted man in World War II. He was commissioned in 1951 and saw command duty in the Korean Conflict. His wartime service resumed in 1966 as an artillery battalion commander in Vietnam.

The University of Nebraska graduate has received several decorations, including the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Air Medal, Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry and the Army Commendation Medal.

Kelly's military education includes graduation from the U. S. Marine Corps Command and Staff College. He has published two magazine articles on the role of artillery in combat operations.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 27 -- More than 400 exhibits from 30 schools have been entered in the 7th annual Northeast Kentucky Regional Science Fair Saturday, April 4, at Morehead State University.

Fair Director Maurice Esham said high school and junior high projects will be open to the public starting at 10 a.m. in the Laughlin Health Building.

Judging starts at 1:30 p.m. and winners will be announced at 3:30 p.m. Prizes include a trip to the International Science Fair this summer in Baltimore, Md. for the first place winner.

The U. S. Navy annually awards a one-week trip to a naval research laboratory to the fair's runner-up.

Morehead State University's School of Sciences and Mathematics grants two four-year academic scholarships to seniors with outstanding exhibits.

Last year's winner was Billy Gardner, now a junior at Fleming County High School. Lloyd Story Jr. of Fleming County High was named the fair's top teacher. His sister, Sue Story of Flemingsburg, now a sophomore at FCHS, won the junior high award as a freshman.

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 27---The annual Morehead State University Northern Kentucky-Southern Ohio alumni banquet, scheduled for Friday, April 3, will feature a concert by one of the nation's outstanding stage bands.

Performing will be the 20-piece, award-winning Morehead State University stage band which has just returned from the Mobile Jazz Festival with four trophies and an opportunity to appear in the National Collegiate Jazz Festival in May.

The group will appear, along with its vocal group, the Intimate Cycle, following the 7:00 p. m. banquet at the Lookout House in Fort Mitchell.

Dr. Ray Hornback, Vice President for University Affairs at Morehead, said a large number of alumni are expected to attend and pointed out that parents of current Morehead students are invited to attend as well as parents and high school students who are interested in learning more about Morehead State University

Tickets for the banquet are $3.50 each and may be reserved by writing or calling the Alumni Office at Morehead State University.

"We are thrilled to be able to bring our award-winning stage band to northern Kentucky for this annual event," said Dr. Hornback, "and we know those in attendance on April 3 will be in for a treat as this is truly one of the finest bands in the country."

Directed by Gene Deaton, the MSU Stage Band won a "best band" trophy at the Mobile Jazz Festival and three members of the band won individual trophies as best performers on their instruments.

Dr. Hornback pointed out that the Stage Band performance will follow a short presentation by Rondal Hart, Director of Alumni Affairs. "We want to emphasize," said Dr. Hornback, "that speaking will be held to a minimum as we wish to feature our great entertainment groups."

MOREHEAD, Ky., March 27 ---The Morehead State University Board of Regents has approved a budget of $15,158,220 for the 1970-71 academic year.

In other action, the board authorized formation of a nine-member Committee on Student Appeals, approved a new master's degree program in adult education, and okehed the awarding of honorary master's degrees.

The new budget is up from the $13,941,567 budgeted by the board in 1969-70 and reflects an increased appropriation by the 1970 General Assembly of $657,912 for the fiscal year.

"This budget is an extremely conservative one," said President Adron Doran, "and only provides for a continuation of programs at their present levels with a cost of living increase in salaries."

The committee on student appeals, composed of six faculty members and three students, will serve as an appeals board for students who have been suspended or expelled by the Vice President for Student Affairs or the Dean of Students.

Suspension or expulsion rulings upheld by the newly-formed committee can then be taken to the Board of Regents if the suspended or expelled student so desires.

The new master's degree program in adult and continuing education, a first in the state, is a natural outgrowth of Morehead State's Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center which was established in June, 1967. Since the center's founding, MSU has become the recognized regional center for adult education and members of the federally-financed center will comprise the faculty of the new program.

The honorary master's degree program will permit the Regents to award honorary MA degrees to individuals who have distinguished themselves in the fields of education, business, industry and the professions. The Board felt that it should not award an honorary doctorate because the University does not offer programs in which a person may earn a doctor's degree.

The MSU junior from Mariba, Menifee County, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brewer. A 1967 graduate of Menifee County High School, Glenna is majoring in Spanish and hopes to enter the diplomatic service as an interpreter.

She is the fourth Morehead State student picked for the trip.

"Glenna is an excellent student and she will give a good account of herself and the university in Spain," said Dr. Olga Mourino, professor of Spanish and the winning coed's academic adviser.

Most of the funds for the summer excursion are provided by the Spanish Club through various projects during the school year. Private donations also are applied to the $1,000 goal.

Glenna will be in Spain from early July until mid-August to earn college credit in Spanish culture and civilization. The term includes side trips into the Spanish countryside and one visit across the Straits of Gibraltar to North Africa.

She will be traveling with students from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill. and live in a women's residence hall at the University of Madrid.

To be eligible for the summer scholarship, a student at MSU must have a 2.5 grade point average in Spanish. Miss Brewer has a 3.4 average (on a 4.0 scale) in 10 Spanish courses at Morehead State.

No individual tickets will be sold for the performance.

Larry Keenan, Morehead State's excellent touring pianist, will be a soloist with the orchestra. He recently was named first alternate in the young artists' competition of the Musical Performing Arts Association meeting in Flint, Mich.

The concert program includes works by Berlioz, Bruch and Beethoven.

Since 1955, when the Louisville Orchestra released its first recording on its own label of the premieres of newly commissioned works, the name and reputation of the Orchestra became and still is that of one of the most imaginative musical institutions in the country. By the end of 1969, the Orchestra had released 96 LP's containing 220 compositions by 110 composers.

Now in its third year under Mester's direction, the Orchestra has expanded its season to 12 programs, added 6 Sunday matinees and embarked on series of programs of unparalleled variety. In just two brief seasons Jorge Mester has welded the Louisville Orchestra into an ensemble easily equal to the reputations of the "near-great" orchestras of the nation and has himself been welcomed to the podiums of such orchestras as the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Boston.

The Orchestra also has as its Associate Conductor Yoav Talmi, who shares the podium with Mester locally and on tour. In addition to being a conductor, Talmi is a pianist and composer, having appeared in Louisville also in recital and the premiere performances of a new commission which he conducted and recorded with the Orchestra.

The gathering of friends and alumni of MSU starts with a social hour at 6 p. m. in May Lodge of Jenny Wiley State Park. Dinner will be served at 7 p. m.

Special guests include Gene Gray of Lexington, the wildlife artist who has been commissioned to paint the American Bald Eagle as Morehead State's official symbol. The painting will be sold by the Alumni Association to finance scholarships

MSU President Adron Doran is to welcome the group and report on the growth of the university in the past year. Alumni Association President Ted Crosthwait, superintendent of Bardstown City Schools, also will address the meeting.

"Morehead State University has a large number of alumni concentrated in Eastern Kentucky," Crosthwait said in announcing the meeting. "We hope our many graduates and friends of the University will be with us at Jenny Wiley."

Parents of MSU students and other interested persons also are invited. Tickets may be ordered in advance from the Alumni Association or may be purchased at the door. Admission is $3.

The meeting agenda includes an appearance by the MSU Stage Band, winner of the recent Mobile Jazz Festival.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 27---Seven concert bands won superior ratings last weekend in the second of four high school spring music festivals at Morehead State University.

The competition is sponsored by the Morehead Region of the Kentucky Music Educators Association (KMEA).

Junior high superiors were Coles of Ashland and the seventh and eighth grade bands from Maysville.

The festival attracted 14 bands.

Keyboard events are scheduled Tuesday and the festivals conclude Saturday, May 2, when more than 1,200 students appear for solo and ensemble vocal performances.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 27---Ever ridden a carousel?

There's one coming to Morehead State University next month when the MSU drama and music departments present Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel," a world-famed musical which ran for almost 900 performances on Broadway.

The production is scheduled Thursday, May 7, and Friday, May 8, in Button Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p. m. Admission is $1.25 and tickets will be sold at the door each night.

Based on the play "Liliom" by Ferenc Molnar, "Carousel" is the story of Billy Bigelow, a young barker for a carousel, and Julie, his sweetheart, and their lives in a New England town of the late 19th century.

Familiar songs in the show include "June Is Bustin' Out All Over," "If I Loved You," and "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Directing is Dr. J. G. Barfield, assistant professor of dramatic arts, who this year has directed "A Company of Six," "Hamlet in Rehearsal" and "Everyman IV."

Musical director is Douglas G. Englehardt, assistant professor of music. J. Larry Roof, assistant professor of dramatic arts, is technical director. He recently directed "Please Keep Off The Grass."

More than 60 persons are involved directly in "Carousel," making it one of the largest and most complex productions in MSU theatre history.

MOREHEAD, Ky., April 30 --- The prospect of war between Red China and the Soviet Union was discounted Thursday by a veteran U.S. diplomat appearing at Morehead State University.

Charles E. Bohlen, former deputy under secretary of state for political affairs and an expert on U. S.-Soviet relations, told an International Relations Day convocation that leaders of the two Communist giants are aware of the "grave consequences" of such a conflict.

The former U.S. ambassador to Russia predicted the ideological split will widen and the Sino-Soviet propaganda battle will continue but stop short of war.

In other matters, the retired statesman expressed doubt the Soviets would ever accept reunification of Germany but he forecast better relations between East and West Germany.

Bohlen, former interpreter for Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, described the Middle East struggle as potentially more dangerous to the world than the Vietnam fighting.

The diplomat said he had detected "the smell of isolationism" in Congress as a result of America's "tragic involvement" in Southeast Asia.

Bohlen said he is confident of a "meaningful" agreement with the Soviets in the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) now underway in Vienna.

He was introduced by MSU President Adron Doran.

SPECIAL TO THE MOREHEAD NEWS

A new and unique project for the elderly has been started by the Institute on the Aging at Morehead State University in cooperation with the Legal Research and Services for the Elderly program and the Daniel Boone Convalescent Center.

The project is designed to provide recreational and social activities for older citizens of Rowan County. Participants also have the opportunity to sell handicraft goods they make.

Any older citizen living in Rowan County who wishes to participate, may do so by calling any of the three participating agencies. For those without transportation, the free bus provided by Legal Research and Services for the Elderly will pick them up at their homes and transport them to the Daniel Boone Convalescent Center. The center has made available a large working area for the project.

After arriving at the center, the participants may work on a variety of activities including ceramics, weaving, handicrafts, and art or they may just visit. Instructors and volunteers will be on hand to teach the activities and to assist in all arrangements.

The sessions are scheduled on Monday and Friday of each week from 1 p. m. till 3:30 p. m. The bus will return the older citizens to their homes each afternoon.

"Mrs. Ellie Holloway of the Daniel Boone Convalescent Center has provided the spark for this project," says Harry Hitch, director of MSU's Institute on the Aging.

The Institute has volunteered its services and has contributed $200 toward the purchase of handicraft supplies.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 4---Morehead State University's Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center has received a second federal grant to conduct a teacher-training workshop.

The $52,000 allocation will be used to train 52 teachers from the 13 Appalachian states in the fundamentals of teaching reading to adults.

Morehead State received $78,000 last year from the Office of Education to conduct a summer workshop for adult basic education teachers.

The reading workshop, scheduled June 15-July 3, was developed because adult basic education teachers in Appalachia don't have sufficient training in reading.

It is designed to develop four-man training teams from each of the participating states. Such reading teams would then go back to their home states to conduct reading clinics for adult basic education teachers.

Workshop Director Ann Hayes said the three-week session would be divided into three phases.

Husain Qazilbash, assistant professor of education at MSU, recently completed an exhaustive study on dialect throughout the Appalachian region. Data compiled in his study will be used to provide the teacher-trainees with insight in the unique speech patterns they encounter.

The workshop sponsor, the Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center, located since 1967 on the MSU campus, was created to improve adult basic education in Appalachia.

Besides summer workshops, the AABEDC also operates 14 demonstration projects in 11 Appalachian states.

MOREHEAD, Ky., May 7 --- More than 100 black students marched into an assembly program at Morehead State University Thursday morning and announced 21 demands on the campus administration.

Scheduled originally for discussion of the Vietnam controversy and resulting campus unrest across the U.S., the morning convocation was diverted to racial issues when the unnamed group of black students filed quietly into Button Auditorium carrying placards and banners.

After waiting for two other speakers to finish, Lexington sophomore Hosea Johnson delivered the black demands, ranging from creation of an Afro-American studies department to a campus ban on the Confederate flag.

Both Johnson and the other black spokesman, Lexington freshman Felix Williams, praised MSU President Adron Doran for his attitude and record in racial matters but they branded other campus administrators as "terribly corrupt." Both claimed racist policies were being used without the president's knowledge, especially in disciplinary matters.

Dr. Doran, who interceded at one point to give Johnson time to complete his remarks, addressed the convocation in response to the list of demands and called for "more of the reasonable, responsible discussion we have had in the past concerning black affairs."

"You don't solve problems by making demands," he said. "We accomplish things by keeping respect and regard for each other and by rational discussion of these matters."

Dr. Doran, recognized statewide for his biracial policies, said MSU "has come a long way from the Jim Crow days of the past." He recounted several of the university's racial firsts among state universities, including admission of black undergraduates and recruitment of black scholarship athletes.

The president pledged to continue his "open door" policy of hearing student complaints and said the black grievances would be examined.

Dr. Doran told the convocation that MSU students, not the administration, would decide if martial law would come to the campus as it has elsewhere.

"We don't want violence here and we won't have it as long as we remain men of peace and reason," he added.

The convocation was one of three suggestions accepted by the university as a memorial to the students killed at Kent State. Student Council made the recommendations late Wednesday.

An American flag over the Administration Building was lowered to half-staff and classes were dismissed for the first hour of the convocation.

James B. Deweese, superintendent of Graves County Schools, Mayfield, will receive an honorary Master's degree in educational administration. Miss Mary E. McClafferty of Paintsville, a social studies teacher at Paintsville High School, will be awarded an honorary master's degree in teaching.

Bert Wellman of Rt. 1, Catlettsburg, a member of the Boyd County Board of Education, and Mrs. Virginia N. Chapman of Covington, a member of the Covington Board of Education, each will receive an honorary master's degree in education.

The degrees will be conferred by MSU President Adron Doran during commencement proceedings for 934 persons, the largest graduating class in the university's 48-year history.

Dr. Franklin M. Mangrum, head of the Department of Philosophy and faculty representative to the MSU Board of Regents, is principal speaker for the 10 a. m. ceremony in Laughlin Fieldhouse.

Deweese has headed the Graves County school system since 1942. His career began in 1932 as teacher and coach at Almo, Ky. A 1932 graduate of Murray State University, he is a past president of the Kentucky Association of School Administrators and was a member of the statewide committee which implemented and formulated Kentucky's Minimum Foundation Program.

Miss McClafferty, a 1935 graduate of Morehead State, has taught in the Paintsville city system since that time. Active in civic affairs and teaching improvement, she has encouraged many students to attend college and is a former member of the MSU Alumni Association Executive Committee.

Wellman has served two school districts, 18 years on the Catlettsburg city school board and 12 years on the Boyd County Board of Education. He is active in the Kentucky School Boards Association and twice has been chairman of the group's Northeastern Kentucky Region. The veteran board member also has been active in scouting and the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Chapman has served 12 years on the Covington board, including eight years as chairman. A past president of the Northern Kentucky Region of the Kentucky School Board Association, she is active in Eastern Star and the PTA and has been in business since 1942.

The four presentations will be the first since MSU's Board of Regents approved the granting of honorary master's degrees earlier this year.

Science 355-G, Population, Resources and Environment, will be taught for the first time in the fall semester. Carrying three semester hours of undergraduate or graduate credit, it consists of a general survey of ecology.

"This new course was designed by students and will be used as a science elective," said Dr. M. E. Pryor, chairman of the MSU Division of Biological Sciences. "We hope to eventually add enough courses to offer a minor and perhaps even a major in environmental science."

Already approved for summer school is Science 360-G, Workshop in Environmental Biology, a series of field trips dealing with ecological factors.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- A respected surgeon, a nationally-recognized Boy Scout leader and a versatile professor received the top awards Saturday night during the annual awards banquet of the Morehead State University Alumni Association.

U.S. Circuit Judge and former governor Bert T. Combs was the featured speaker for the dinner attended by more than 700 alumni, friends and guests of the university.

The association's 1970 "Public Service Award" went to Dr. W. H. Cartmell of Maysville, vice chairman of the MSU Board of Regents and chief surgeon at Hayswood Hospital.

Lucien Rice of New Brunswick, N. J., assistant director of school relationships service for the Boy Scouts of America, was named MSU's "Outstanding Alumnus."

Allen L. Lake, associate professor of biology at MSU and author of three textbooks, received the "Distinguished Faculty Award" of 1970.

Thirty-eight students -- 22 now enrolled at Morehead State and 16 recent high school graduates -- each were awarded $200 Alumni Association scholarships for the 1970-71 school year.

Recipients include:

Sheryl Binion, Bob Mays, Joyce K. Swin, Josephine Thompson, Debra Buskirk, Gary Lewis, Paul S. Caudill, Connie S. Daniels and Donald C. Butler, all of Morehead; Ann E. Leslie and Josephine Vinson of Greenup; Deborah J. Burkich of Alexandria; Janice Cushman and Diane L. Engels of Florence;

David C. Booth and Virginia Crawford of Russell; James R. Lane and Marsha G. Manley of Sharpsburg; Deborah A. Brown of Mount Sterling; Jerry Fugate of Grassy Creek, Morgan County; Linda S. Hasenstab of Fort Thomas; Gary Chaney of Stanton; Teddy A. Johnson of Jenkins; James D. McGlone of Olive Hill; Rita L. Schupp of Louisville; Henry L. Sparks of Blaine; Linda A. Payne of Cincinnati; Sandra Stephenson of Union;

Mike W. Straw of Independence; Robert Clifford of Cynthiana; Virginia Conley of Wittensville; Anna L. Douglas of Eminence; Anita Mullins of Belcher; Kay E. Neuman of Loveland, Ohio; Betty J. Regel of Austin, Ind.; Patsy Watts Casebolt of Jackson; Patricia A. Weaver of Flemingsburg; and Janie Jett Mason of Mount Olivet.

Dr. Cartmell's award was presented by last year's winner, Morehead Mayor William H. Layne.

The prominent surgeon has been an MSU regent since 1956, longer than any person in the university's history. Named distinguished alumnus of Maysville High School last year, he has the MD degree from the University of Chicago and has been in practice since 1930.

Rice's award was presented by the 1969 recipient, Fola N. Hayes of Nashville, Tenn., regional supervisor of the Jefferson National Life Insurance Co.

A 1956 graduate of Morehead State, Rice was a regional scout executive in Zanesville, Ohio, before being promoted to the national staff. In 1965, he was named "Professional Scouter of the Year" in the U.S. The Morehead native was a four-term president of the MSU Alumni Association.

Lake's award was presented by Dr. Franklin M. Mangrum, last year's winner and professor of philosophy.

A popular and active professor who has taught more than 100 hours of different courses in college, Lake joined the MSU faculty in 1957. Besides his textbook credits, he also has been published extensively by the Kentucky Academy of Science and the National Association of Biology Teachers.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 1---Morehead State University President Adron Doran has been commended by MSU alumni for developing lines of communication which prevented "needless and tragic campus violence" this year.

In a resolution adopted by the Alumni Association and announced by its president, Ted Crosthwait of Bardstown, Dr. Doran was hailed for "great wisdom" in placing students on all university committees and keeping student dissent within peaceful limits.

The alumni expressed gratitude for his leadership and judgement during tense moments on the MSU campus during the 1969-70 term. Despite several protests and demonstrations, there was no violence and no arrests.

The resolution, in full, reads:

"We as alumni of Morehead State University are cognizant of the many and varied perplexing problems which face university administrators, faculty and students throughout the nation today. We are aware that many of the campus disorders are directly related to the armed conflict in Viet Nam, social injustice within the borders of our own country, and man's pollution of his environs."

"We are also aware that many campus disorders have occurred as the result of the failure of the various elements of our campus communities to establish effective communications channels."

MOREHEAD, KY., June 1 --- Morehead State University's largest graduating class gave President Adron Doran a standing ovation Monday morning in tribute to his leadership.

The surprise reaction of the 907 graduates came in response to the traditional "charge" which encouraged the Class of 1970 to help build a better world.

Earlier, the day's principal speaker urged the graduates to base life's vital decisions on "the best evidence available" and not on personal prejudices and assumptions.

In a plea for reason rather than emotion, Dr. Franklin M. Mangrum said decisions founded on carefully-analyzed facts would help them conquer issues and problems waiting in the outside world.

Dr. Mangrum is head of the MSU Department of Philosophy and faculty representative on the Board of Regents.

The philosophy professor appealed to the Class of 1970 never to accept so-called facts without question. To do so, he said, would be to forfeit the advantage of education.

"The unexamined fact is not worth believing," Dr. Mangrum said in a paraphrase of Socrates.

More than 6,000 parents, students and faculty members packed Laughlin Fieldhouse for the traditional ceremony. The record class surpassed last year's 854 graduates, then an all-time high for MSU.

Four persons received honorary master's degrees, the first in Morehead State's 48-year history. Recipients included James Dewese of Mayfield, superintendent of Graves County Schools; Mary E. McClafferty of Paintsville, a teacher at Paintsville High; Mrs. Virginia Chapman of Covington, chairman of the Covington Board of Education; and Bert Wellman of Catlettsburg, a member of the Boyd County Board of Education.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 3 --- Effective late this summer, Morehead State University will initiate a new academic calendar which eliminates extension of the fall semester into next year.

Approved after a year of detailed study by faculty, students and staff, the new schedule starts the 1970 fall semester registration Aug. 24 with classes meeting Aug. 27. The semester closes Dec. 19.

Spring semester registration begins Jan. 11, 1971, and classes start Jan. 14. The semester ends May 7.

A special, three-week spring "intersession" opens May 17 and finishes June 4. The regular eight-week summer session in 1971 begins June 14 and closes Aug. 6.

The new "intersession" replaces the post summer session which will be in effect for the last time this summer. The "intersession" is intended to accommodate special programs like independent study.

Adoption of the new schedule moves the spring break from mid-April to March 13-21. Previously, Morehead State's fall term began in mid-September and ended in late January. Spring semester traditionally ended in early June.

"The new calendar will provide a great deal more flexibility," said MSU President Adron Doran, "and we made the move only after a year of extensive study."

Dr. Doran cited several advantages of the new system, including more time for students to find summer jobs, reduction in student travel expenses by combining semester break and the Christmas vacation, additional time for faculty members to prepare for new courses between semesters and more class time for potential summer graduates whose use of the new "intersession" might allow them to complete degree work in time for summer commencement.

Also, the new schedule will be more convenient for students transferring to Morehead State from other schools and for students preparing to enter professional schools at other universities.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 5---Morehead State University received final approval Friday of a project to make the campus radio station 5,000 times more powerful.

Sen. Marlow W. Cook notified university officials that the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) had approved a $64,000 grant to MSU for equipment needed to boost the output of WMKY Radio from 10 watts to 50,000 watts.

Also Friday, the Corporation for Public Broadcasting announced that WMKY would receive a $15,000 grant for the employment of additional personnel.

Morehead State's project was among only 10 approved nationally by CPB from 120 applications. The smaller grant will furnish salaries for a news and public affairs director and a traffic and promotion manager.

Donald F. Holloway, associate professor of communications and director of the MSU Institute for Public Broadcasting, which operates WMKY, said news of the two grants made Friday "a banner day for public broadcasting in Eastern Kentucky."

The $79,000 approved Friday and $26,000 in university funds will allow the five-year-old FM station to expand its coverage area from one county and 11,000 persons to 12 counties with a population exceeding 127,000.

Holloway said construction would start this summer and the 50,000-watt station would be broadcasting on its new frequency by early fall. The station's offices and studios will remain in Combs Classroom Building on the MSU campus.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 9---More than 50 teachers from 13 Appalachian states will converge on Morehead State University this weekend to attend the Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center's Adult Reading Workshop.

For the second year the Appalachian Center has received U.S. Office of Education funds to conduct a teacher training workshop for educators located within the Appalachian region.

This year's grant of $52,000 will be used to train 52 teachers in the fundamentals of teaching reading to adults. The workshop, scheduled June 15-July 3, was developed on the premise that most adult education teachers in Appalachia do not have sufficient training in reading.

The workshop is designed to develop four-man training teams from each of the participating states. These reading teams will then go back to their home states to conduct reading clinics for adult basic education teachers.

According to Workshop Director Ann Hayes, the three-week-session will be divided into three phases: an overview of reading, diagnosis of reading disabilities and actual teaching of adult students.

The Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center has been located since 1967 on the MSU campus. Its purpose is the improvement of adult basic education in the Appalachian region.

Besides hosting this summer's workshop, the AABEDC also is currently operating 14 demonstration projects in 11 Appalachian states.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 18 --- Few were surprised recently when Morehead State University's 1970 distinguished faculty award went to Allen L. Lake, associate professor of biology.

Since his arrival on the MSU campus in 1957, the 45-year-old biologist has proven himself a versatile and dedicated teacher and researcher, a skilled academic writer, a talented photography enthusiast and a wise counselor of youth.

His scientific contributions to Morehead State include the nationally-recognized discovery and reconstruction of the fossilized root system of a giant, 235 million-year-old plant, detection of a rare microscopic organism in the University Lake, publication of three textbooks and the chairmanship of a well-received "Ecology Day" convocation.

Also, Lake has produced more than 10,000 "micrographs" of biological subjects, many of which are used as teaching aids. The photographs of highly-magnified objects were the basis of a one-man photography exhibit last winter at MSU's Claypool-Young Gallery. More than 300 of Lake's color and black-and-white prints and color slides were displayed for 10 days in one of the gallery's most popular showings of the year. The professor began his micrography hobby years ago as a natural union of his interest in photography and science.

A transplanted New Yorker who loves Kentucky as a native son, Lake also has made his mark in extra-curricular activities at MSU.

He founded in 1958 and continues to advise the Diving Eagles, a group of scuba-diving buffs. His service to Prae-Mediorum, an honorary for pre-medical and pre-dental students, earned him an award of appreciation. His expertise in the medical area prompted the School of Sciences and Mathematics to appoint him the official advisor for students preparing for medical or dental school.

His classroom versatility is reflected in the more than 100 semester hours of different courses he has taught at MSU and, for seven years beforehand, at Lees Junior College. Now a specialist in biological courses, he is generally regarded as one of the most effective teachers on the MSU campus.

Allen Lake the teacher has found time in his busy life to become equally admired as Allen Lake the devoted father of five children and Allen Lake the church elder who helped found Morehead's Faith Presbyterian Church and represented his adopted state at a national church convention.

Lake married his hometown sweetheart from Jamestown, N.Y., the former Betty Phillips, a teacher of art and English at Rowan County High School in Morehead.

The popular professor has degrees from Edinboro State College (Pa.) and the University of Buffalo. He is pursuing a doctorate in biology at the University of Kentucky.

"We came hesitantly to Kentucky some 20 years ago," Lake recalls, "but now we never intend to leave. This is our home and we're glad to be here."

At Morehead State, the feeling is mutual.

MOREHEAD, Ky., June 18---The Morehead State University Eagle is a reality.

A painting of the majestic bald eagle has been accepted from Gene Gray of Lexington, the Kentucky artist who was commissioned last February by the MSU Board of Regents to paint the university's official symbol.

"We are thrilled by the vivid and striking portrayal of our eagle," said MSU President Adron Doran. "Gene Gray again has proven himself to be one of America's truly outstanding wildlife artists."

Gray, who considers himself "an illustrator of animals and a painter of life," traveled to Florida to observe the near extinct bird in its natural habitat. His painting resulted from hundreds of photographs and sketches.

"I had long dreamed of painting this great bird which symbolizes the American spirit," Gray said. "It was a labor of love."

Animal Graphics of Lexington is printing a limited edition of 2,000 copies of the Morehead State University Eagle which will be sold to students, faculty and friends of the university on a "first come, first serve" basis. The original painting will hang on the Morehead State campus.

Each of the prints will be signed by Gray and President Doran. Signatures of other MSU personnel will be available by request.

Delivery of the first prints is expected by Sept. 1. Individual copies with a colorfully illustrated cover jacket are $25 with an additional $2 mailing fee. Orders may be placed with the MSU Bureau of University Affairs.

Financing of the project is being handled by the MSU Alumni Association and no state funds are involved. Proceeds above costs will be used for scholarships.

"We have long desired a portrait of the bald eagle because our athletic teams proudly call themselves 'Eagles,'" Dr. Doran added. "Gene Gray's great talent has given us a painting worthy of display as the official Morehead State University Eagle."

In less than three years, Gray has released 15 paintings and drawings. Five have become collector's items and the others soon will have identical status.

He is married to a former Morehead State University student, Peggy Jo Dingus of Martin, Ky. They have two children.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- B. F. Reed, Drift, treasurer of the Turner Elkhorn Mining Company, has been reappointed to the Morehead State University Board of Regents for a record fifth term.

Mr. Reed was recently reappointed to the Board by Governor Louie B. Nunn, making him the first Morehead board member to be so honored by five governors.

The highly respected mining executive was first named to the Morehead Board in 1953 by Governor Lawrence Wetherby for a one-year period filling out the unexpired term of E. R. Price. He was reappointed by Governor Albert B. Chandler in 1958 and has served on the board continuously since that date. Governor Bert T. Combs reappointed him in 1962 and Governor Edward T. Breathitt reappointed him in 1966.

"B. F. Reed has been a great force for good during his 13 years as a member of the Board of Regents," said Dr. Adron Doran, MSU president since 1954, "and it represents a high level of confidence in Mr. Reed and the university that Governor Nunn has renamed Mr. Reed to the Board of Regents."

Dr. Doran added, "Men of Mr. Reed's abilities, judgment and foresight are rare indeed, and the great stability and wisdom which he brings to our board make the operation of this university that much easier."

One of the highlights of Reed's service on the Morehead Board was the opportunity he had at this June commencement to personally present a Bachelor of Arts degree to his granddaughter, Connie Lee Ankrom, of Williamson, West Virginia.

And while he beamed with delight at the sight of one his grandchildren receiving her diploma, there have been many other occasions when he has proudly watched a mountain youth march across the stage after having helped the youngster get through school who would not have had the opportunity had he not known B. F. Reed.

"Mr. Reed has a big heart," said Dr. Doran, "and his services to the people of the region are a legend. In his own quiet way, B. F. Reed is one of the great men of Kentucky."

A native of Shamokin, Pennsylvania, Reed came to Kentucky in 1927 following graduation from the Shamokin Business College and experience with the J. P. Burton Coal Company of Cleveland, Ohio.

He became a highly respected and trusted coal executive whose services to the Commonwealth of Kentucky have been great. He served for many years as a member and chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission, was president of the Wheelwright Kiwanis Club, and has received the Silver Beaver and Silver Antelope awards for his work with the Boy Scouts.

Other positions he has held are the chairmanship of the Board of the First Guaranty Bank of Martin, the chairmanship of the Board of the Hazard Gas Company, and a Directorship of the National Coal Association.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Applications are being accepted for Morehead State University's second annual High School Summer Art Institute, scheduled July 6-18.

Don Young, assistant professor of art at MSU and institute director, will be assisted by Douglas Adams, assistant professor of art, and Edwin L. Clemmer, instructor of art.

The two-week institute includes instruction and experience in drawing, painting, photography and sculpture. Field trips and social activities also are planned.

An admission fee of $100 includes instruction, materials, meals and housing in MSU residence halls.

"The institute is designed for high school students who wish to learn more about art and especially on the college level," Young said. "The program provides concentrated experience in various art media and gives students an opportunity for learning in a situation geared strictly for art."

For additional information, contact Summer Art Institute, Department of Art, Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Morehead State University has received a $365,000 grant from the U. S. Office of Education for continuation of its Appalachian Adult Basic Education Demonstration Center.

This year's grant marks the fourth year the AABEDC, a "Special Project" under the Adult Education Act of 1966, has been in operation at Morehead State University.

The Appalachian Center, one of 21 similar projects throughout the country, has as its purpose the improvement of the quality of Adult Basic Education in the Appalachian region.

The Center is operating 14 experimental modules in 11 Appalachian states. Each of the modules test or demonstrate certain components of the Adult Basic Education program. The project in Mississippi is testing the usefulness of a specially written newspaper for adults with low reading levels. In Kentucky, reading instruction is linked to driver education. The Ohio project is experimenting with home instruction and in Alabama, television lessons are being produced especially for adult students.

The AABEDC is also running a Teacher-Trainer Workshop in Adult Reading and administering several research studies, including one on Appalachian dialects. The Center will also administer a master's degree program in adult education to begin at Morehead during the fall term.

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Cloyd McDowell, Harlan, has been reappointed to the Board of Regents of Morehead State University by Governor Louie B. Nunn.

McDowell, who is President of the Harlan Coal Operators' Association, will be serving his second consecutive term on the board.

An alumnus of Morehead State University, he received the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1935 with his work being done in economics, sociology, history and government.

Following graduation from Morehead, McDowell taught in the public schools for 12 years before accepting his present position.

"Cloyd McDowell has been an exemplary member of the Board of Regents," said Morehead State University President Adron Doran, "and we are extremely pleased that Governor Nunn has renamed this dedicated public servant to our Board."

Dr. Doran added, "In his first four-year term of office, Cloyd has exhibited a high degree of understanding of the problems facing higher education and has brought the viewpoint of the alumni to the Board's deliberations."

McDowell was recently honored by the Morehead State University Alumni Association by being named an honorary life member of the association.

A native of Harlan, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. McDowell and graduated from Harlan High School. He is married to the former Lillian West. They have one daughter who is on assignment with her husband in Pakistan by the United States Health Services doing research in cholera.

MOREHEAD, Ky. --- Dr. Adron Doran, President of Morehead State University, has been reappointed to the Southern Regional Education Board for the fifth consecutive four-year term.

Dr. Doran was first appointed to the SREB by Governor Lawrence Wetherby in 1954 and was reappointed by Governor A. B. Chandler in 1958, Governor Bert T. Combs in 1962, Governor Edward T. Breathitt in 1966 and Governor Louie B. Nunn in 1970.

The Morehead president served as a member of a three-man committee which organized the first legislative work conference of the SREB and was speaker of the conference during the 1952, 1953, and 1954 sessions.

The SREB is a 16-state compact devised to improve higher education in the South.

Dr. Doran served on an SREB committee which helped establish the Western Interstate Compact in Higher Education and represented Kentucky as a member of the first committee of the SREB on educational television.

"I have developed many friendships and contacts throughout the South during my service on the SREB," said Dr. Doran, "and I am pleased that Governor Nunn has renamed me to membership on the Board."

MOREHEAD, Ky.---Two new administrators have been named for Morehead State University's Upward Bound program.

Donald B. Tackett, guidance counselor in last year's program, has been elevated to director and Charles Gilley, former principal of Bath County High School, is his new assistant.

Tackett's duties include supervision of a staff of 14 student assistants, six counselors and 14 instructors. Upward Bound serves more than 100 disadvantaged students each year. The program starts with an eight-week summer school on the MSU campus.

The new director holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Morehead State and returned to his alma mater last year from the public schools where he was a teacher, coach and guidance counselor.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lawson of Portsmouth, Ohio, and is a native of South Portsmouth, Ky. Tackett is married and the father of two daughters.

Gilley, a graduate of Lynn Camp High School, is the son of Mrs. Nanny Elwood of Gray, Knox County. He has both the A.B. and M.A. degrees from MSU.

His education experience includes teacher, coach, elementary principal and high school principal. The Owingsville Jaycees selected him last year as the "Outstanding Young Educator" in Bath County.

Gilley is married to the former Barbara Moore of Martin County. They have two sons.
