NUMBER FORTY-TWO.

VIKINGS WILL HAVE HANDS FULL SATURDAY WHEN LOCALS INVADE RUSSELL FOR ANNUAL FLARE-UP

An then came the deluge! And after that—

A question much more vital and absorbing than "Who will be elected November 8" is occupying the minds and conversation of football fans in Morehead right now. For on Saturday afternoon of this week they expect to have decided for them all the most important problem, "Who is champion of the Little Eight Conference?" For on Saturday Morehead expects to look like the Deserted Village, while everyone, young and middle-aged and old, treks to Russell to see the Vikings make their big bid for recognition in Eastern Kentucky football circles, and attempt to knock, boot or otherwise remove the Russell Red Devils from the throne they have occupied for the past two years. And the big question in the minds of the fans, overshadowing more presidential elections, and such small details, is can the Vikings do it this time? For once there will be neither Democrats nor Republicans, but all Moreheadians back the Vikings with their hearts and their voices and encouraging them to do the impossible and BEAT RUSSELL!

The Russell Red Devils are admittedly the favorites to win their third straight conference crown by defeating the Vikings Saturday. In the two conference games they have played the scores have been decidedly more impressive than the Vikings. They are well equipped with reserve material in which the Kings are decidedly weak. In the case of equal strength in a first string this reserve strength might tell a story.

There are however a few hardy souls in Morehead who believe the Vikings can and will win. Maybe they have no logic and no football sense or maybe they're just plain dumb, but they believe it nevertheless. They can't see why Russell should be able to raise 'em any better or bigger or faster than Morehead and Rowan county. And they refuse to believe that they can teach 'em any more football than Roy Holbrook or Cavanaugh Rice or put more fight in them than those same two.

In conformity with the usual program alike to which nobody pays any attention the usual number of injuries are likely to keep stars off of both teams. We learn that Russell is expecting to go into the game minus the services of their backfield ace, Wyant as well as several others and that Coach Eddie Blicke than whom there is no cleaner sportsman in Eastern Kentucky is being forced to rebuild his team. Well, maybe so. But one thing is certain, and that is that Blicke, with or without Wyant and others will put his best team on the field when they meet the Vikings for they are as determined to maintain the conference leadership as the Vikings are to topple them from the top round.

Incidentally, Coach Holbrook also has a major worry in Russell Barber who suffered an arm injury in the Grayson encounter and who has been on the shelf since that time. Russell may be able to play Saturday but it looks doubtful. If he is out of the contest the Kings will be without the services of a star tackle and will be correspondingly weakened. However, here again Coach Holbrook is expecting to put his strongest organization on the field and the Red Devils win they will win from the best Morehead has available.

SENATOR LOGAN

HERE SATURDAY

Senator M. M. Logan will speak in Morehead Saturday night in the interest of the candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency of the United States. Senator Logan is well known here and is unusually popular. He is certain to attract a large crowd, not so much because of his oratory, as because he numbers among his personal friends a following in both parties.

Senator Logan will speak at the county house Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m.

Elliott County Has Successful Fair

The Elliott County Fair, held at Sandy Hook, October 21, showed a great increase in the number of exhibitors and in interest of the people, over the fair of last year, which was held in four divisions.

Four hundred and forty-eight exhibits were entered in the home department and two hundred and fifty five farm products in the agriculture department.

Approximately twelve hundred people attended the fair, which was made possible through the co-operation of the teachers of Elliott county, Superintendent Mollie H. Greene, and County agent E. D. Rice.

The judges were, W. C. Wilson, Lexington, Mrs. J. A. Bays, Morehead, and Mrs. D. B. Caudill, Morehead.

Several athletic events in which the various schools of the county took part were also on the program for the day.

The people of Elliott county are looking forward to a bigger and better fair next year.

Cozy Theatre Has Big Pictures

The new season at the Cozy Theatre promises much in the way of high class entertainment, according to Mr. Hartley Patton, manager of the theatre. Mr. Patton has established and maintained a program of exceptionally high class and the theatre has renewed contracts that guarantee a continuance of such programs. They are offering a large number of the greatest pictures made.

They realize of course said Mr. Patton, that they cannot possibly show every picture made. Nor can they buy every big picture. But their annual percentage of big pictures is as high as any theatre in Kentucky. The equipment at the Cozy has just been gone over and given a real house cleaning. It has all been repaired and brought up to date, so that patrons of the theatre will find both the sound and the screen greatly improved and the equal of the sound in other theatres nearby.

The Cozy has been fortunate in being able to book many of the big pictures that have been widely advertised and talked of. Bookings on some of these pictures at the Cozy include such pictures as Horse Feathers, with the Four Marx Brothers; Love Me Tonight; Grand Hotel; Smith's Thrift; 70,000 Witnesses; Fatheads; Blond Venus; and a continuous string of big pictures every one wants to see.

Six Still Captured In Sheriff's Raids

Six stills were captured, fourteen gallons of moonshine whiskey and six hundred and forty gallons of mash were destroyed, and six men were taken into custody in raids conducted this week by E. W. Bowman, federal prohibition investigator.

Among the outstanding features of the game were the sterling work of Graydon Hackney starting his first game at end for the Eagles, and June Evans made a decided impression.

Morehead kicked off to Rio Grande to open the second half, and the ball was put in play on Rio Grande's 20 yard line. An exchange of punts placed the ball deep in the visitors' end of the field. Rio Grande attempted to punt, but Brashear broke through the line to block the kick. Holaday scooped up the ball and ran it 11 yards toward Rio Grande's goal line before he was tackled and brought

RICE AND THATCHER SPEAK FOR REPUBLICANS

Hon. Heber H. Rice, of Washington, D. C., assistant attorney general, addressed a meeting of Republicans at the court house on Saturday night. Mr. Rice discussed the coming national election and pleaded for a united front in the re-election of President Hoover.

On Friday afternoon Maurice H. Thatcher of Louisville addressed a crowd here Friday afternoon. Mr. Thatcher is Republican nominee for the office of United States Senator.

Rowan County Ballots Are Now Ready

Ballots for the presidential election of Tuesday, November 8, are printed and ready for final delivery. The ballots this year are of such size that they are unhandy, due to two things. There are six tickets in the field with presidential electors. Three tickets have complete slates for every office. The fact that the ballots are printed for the election of congressmen from the state at large necessitated the printing of nine names in each of the three, making it one of the largest ballots ever printed in a national election.

This is the first time it has ever been found necessary to vote for the congressman from the state at large, due to the ruling of the federal judges shortly before the August primary that the redistricting bill passed by the 1932 legislature was unconstitutional. Since that time however the supreme court of the United States has held a somewhat situational and in Mississippi to be constitutional and the Kentucky law has been carried up for a decision in the higher court. It is not believed however that a decision will be handed down in time to affect the election this year and printers have received instructions to proceed with the printing.

Parties represented on the ballots this year are, in the order in which they appear, Democratic; Republican; Socialist-Labor; Communist; Socialist; Prohibition. So far as we have been able to learn there are no adherents to either of the minor parties in Rowan county. The only parts of the ballots likely to receive any attention in this county are the Democratic and Republican tickets.

Eagles Grab Game In Last Quarter 10-7

The toe of June Evans, Morehead half back accounted in perfect style for the necessary points to give the Eagles of Morehead State Teachers College the lead and the game in the feature football contest of Eastern Kentucky last Saturday, when the Eagles by the margin of a field goal grabbed the game from a tie in the final breathless moments of the encounter. The final score was Eagles 10; Rio Grande 7.

The game was one of the hardest fought and most stubbornly contested ever played on the local field. At the end of the first half neither team had succeeded in registering and the count was as it was in the beginning, nothing and.

Among the outstanding features of the game were the sterling work of Graydon Hackney starting his first game at end for the Eagles, and June Evans made a decided impression.

Morehead kicked off to Rio Grande to open the second half, and the ball was put in play on Rio Grande's 20 yard line. An exchange of punts placed the ball deep in the visitors' end of the field. Rio Grande attempted to punt, but Brashear broke through the line to block the kick. Holaday scooped up the ball and ran it 11 yards toward Rio Grande's goal line before he was tackled and brought down on the 15 yard line. On three plays Sheridan and Clayton carried the ball to the four yard line and then Sheridan smashed thru left tackle for a touchdown. Sheridan made the extra point on a line buck. Morehead 7 Rio Grande 0.

Early in the fourth quarter Burkhardt took a punt, starting on Morehead's 40 yard line, and tucking it comfortably under his arm, raced down the sideline to score a touchdown for Rio Grande. Carr kicked the extra point to tie the score.

Morehead received the kick and after an exchange of punts Rio Grande fumbled the ball on Sparks recovered for the Eagles. On a series of plays, featured by a thirty yard run by Clayton, Morehead carried the ball to Rio Grande's 20 yard line where Evans dropped back and booted the field goal that won the game.

As the game ended the Eagles had worked the ball down within scoring distance of the visitors' goal.

Both teams made six first downs. Morehead completed two passes for a total gain of 80 yards and Rio Grande made 81 yards on three completed passes.

Jimmie Maggard playing end for the Eagles suffered a dislocated elbow and will probably be a loss to the Eagles for the balance of the season.

WORK OF DISTRIBUTING CLOTHES AMONG NEEDY SCHOOL CHILDREN IS BRINGING HAPPINESS AND JOY

Biggest Tire Will Be Here Nov. 1st.

Did you ever see a tire 12 feet high and 4 feet wide, that weighs more than half a ton? "You won't find any in my stock," says Ray Perry, the Goodyear dealer in Morehead, "but you will find such a tire in front of my garage on Tuesday, November 1, from 10:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m."

"This giant $5,000 tire is towed by a special bus equipped with the big address system, and touring the United States.

Nobody knows how long it will take to wear the tire out, but it ought to be good for several hundred thousands of miles.

Goodyear engineers were going to build the tire much larger but had to stay within a 12 foot limit because of low bridges, railroad underpasses and other obstructions on the highways. In one place five feet wide and eight inches deep to get under a bridge.

The tire will be in Morehead for four hours.

The wheels of the local chapter of the American Red Cross have been turning the past week with the result that many Rowan county children who previously were all too inadequately clothed are now able to go to school in the morning warm and comfortably dressed and able to put their minds on their work without the worry of whether they are going to be able to complete the year without clothes to wear. For this week saw the beginning of the distribution of the clothing, dresses, slip, and underwear for the girls and overalls, shirts and underwear for the boys. For several weeks the ladies of the county have been hard at work cutting and sewing, getting ready for the climax of their labors, the day when they could lean back in their easy chairs at their homes without being haunted by the sight of these little underfed, poorly clothed children who paraded so bravely during her School Fair.

Over two thousand garments have been completed these nimble fingers of the public spirited women of Rowan county. More are in the making and each stitch is being taken with all the more pleasure because these women realize that some Rowan county toil will thus be enabled to go through the winter in comfort.

Over one thousand garments have already been distributed in the county to the needy children in various school districts by the Red Cross and more are being given out daily and as rapidly as the call are made and demands investigated, needs are being supplied.

According to Mrs. Wells, the only need that remains to be taken care of is the supplying of shoes to the many hundreds of barefooted boys and girls in the county. This need, she confidently hopes will be taken care of in the near future, so that there will be no real suffering in this county this winter.

With regard to the method of distributing the clothing Mrs. Wells stated that the teacher in each community and district together with a chairman from each district was acting as a committee in each district in the county. These committees in each school district investigate each child brought to their attention, decide on the merits and then make application according to the requirements of the community. School children in two districts have already been completely outfitted, and others are receiving attention as rapidly as possible.

As one prominent citizen said, "If the Red Cross had done nothing more in Rowan county, they have justified their existence."

MRS. ERNBERG GIVES TALK HERE TUESDAY

Mrs. Anna Ernberg of Berea gave an interesting talk at the training school at the Morehead State Teachers College on Tuesday of this week on "Household Arts. Mrs. Ernberg had on display at the training school a beautiful exhibit of her work and art.

While in Morehead Mrs. Ernberg was the guest of Mrs. John Howard Payne.

Under Frozen Skies
 CHAPTER VIII
 When Esau left Jim and Omar and started down the sturgeon river on his mad mission in search of Jimgwak he traveled all the first night watching the pouring shores for the red embers of a dying fire. For once Paradise was warm and the coming of the men from Sunset House he would lose no time in guarding the river road over which they must pass. So the old man rode the swift current through the shadows his eyes straining for the glow of a campfire on the foliage of the shore.

Before dawn the roar of the white-water drifted to his ears, and he landed. For he would need the light to inspect the strange rapids and decide whether he could run them or would have to carry around. So Esau hid his canoe, went deep into the woods, and boiled his tea over a dissipative fire masked from the river by thick timber, ate and slept.

Later in the morning he walked downstream to the head of the rapids. Across the river was the cleared space at the end of a portage trail. The white-water was impassable; the Indians carried around it. But the veteran, who had passed his life on the wild rivers of western Kiewid, did not return to his canoe and drop down to the portage. Along the opposite shore he followed the rock-scattered white-water as it foamed and churned and thundered through a half mile of clamoring chaos. Then he returned to his canoe and started downstream for the head of the portage, for not even the trained eyes of Esau Othguk, who, in his youth, had run the Chutes of Death at Winisk and the Long Sault of Mad River had found a way through for his canoe.

Then at the head of the portage, the old man saw another canoe leaving the beach, as again an Indian fire at him from the shore.

"Ah-hah!" he cried, his furrowed face glowing with the exaltation of his mad purpose. "So you catch old Esau? Well come on! Catch him!" Esau sighted his rifle and fired at the sternman battling with the pole to free the canoe from the fierce suction of the lip of the flume.

Splintered by the bullet, the bending pole snapped in the Ojibwa's hands. He lunged head first into the racing current, and, followed by his yawning canoe was swept into the rapids.

Shifting his load forward to make the canoe bow heavy, Esau rose with his setting pole. As his boat tilted toward the dip of the long chute, the old man waved his hand at the pursuing canoe and men on shore as his cry of defiance, "Come and get me!" was drowned in the drum-beat of the rapids.

No rifle shots followed the doomed figure standing with setting pole in the stern of the birchbark, as it leaped forward. In awe the men of Paradise watched the mad canoeer deliberately steer his craft into the maw of death.

Down into the maelstrom of broken water plunged the canoe, guided by Ojibwa in the stern. Following the spruce pole of the gallant old black water channels past the boulders-omanded with foam, the knife-edged rocks thrusting thrusting thru the spume, checking with his pole when the way was blind, then on grazing calamity by a paddle's breadth as he rode the roaring reaches, went the dauntless old voyager.

The old Indian was crossing the river a quarter-mile above the rapids, when, to his consternation, two men appeared on the portage.

With a lunge of his paddle, Esau swung the nose of his canoe to the opposite shore. Was it Paradise on his way up-river, or traveling Ojibwas who would pay him slight attention? He had paddled but a few strokes when he saw a canoe carried from the forest and slid into the water. Leaping into the boat, the two packers started straight across the head of the rapids. They were trying to cut him off! It was Paradise!

Furiously Esau drove his paddle, angling across the current for the opposite shore, so keen brain grappled with the situation which confronted him. He could land and take to the bush—ambush the two men in the canoe if they dared follow him up. But there were others behind them on the portage. That meant losing canoe and outfit—defeat. Without these he could not find Jimgwak.

Then at the head of the carry a third man appeared. There was a puff of smoke, a faint explosion of a rifle above the drumming of the rapids, and a bullet whined past Esau's face.

As the two canoes swiftly approached each other, the old Ojibwa made his decision. Life meant little to him, now. There was one chance in ten of his coming through; but he would make the great gamble for that one chance—for Jim and the memory of his dead father. The trail to Jimgwak led through the half-mile of white-fury ahead.

He stopped paddling, reached for his rifle, an fired at the bowman in the boat cutting across his course.

Hit, the paddler slumped back into the canoe. Close to the suck of the first drop the sternman seized his pole and fought to check the drifting canoe, as a second shot passed over Esau's head.

Then, at the head of the portage, the old man saw another canoe leaving the beach, as again an Indian fire at him from the shore.

"Ah-hah!" he cried, his furrowed face glowing with the exaltation of his mad purpose. "So you catch old Esau? Well come on! Catch him!" Esau sighted his rifle and fired at the sternman battling with the pole to free the canoe from the fierce suction of the lip of the flume.

Splintered by the bullet, the bending pole snapped in the Ojibwa's hands. He lunged head first into the racing current, and, followed by his yawning canoe was swept into the rapids.

Shifting his load forward to make the canoe bow heavy, Esau rose with his setting pole. As his boat tilted toward the dip of the long chute, the old man waved his hand at the pursuing canoe and men on shore as his cry of defiance, "Come and get me!" was drowned in the drum-beat of the rapids.

No rifle shots followed the doomed figure standing with setting pole in the stern of the birchbark, as it leaped forward. In awe the men of Paradise watched the mad canoeer deliberately steer his craft into the maw of death.

Down into the maelstrom of broken water plunged the canoe, guided by Ojibwa in the stern. Following the spruce pole of the gallant old black water channels past the boulders-omanded with foam, the knife-edged rocks thrusting thrusting thru the spume, checking with his pole when the way was blind, then on grazing calamity by a paddle's breadth as he rode the roaring reaches, went the dauntless old voyager.

Drenched with spray, his leaking canoe scarred with wounds from a hundred rocks, he fought his way until suddenly the river widened into an unbroken barrier of white water. With a groan, Esau read his doom written in the hurried boulders which barred his path. He had made the fight taken the long chance for Jim, and now it was over! But Esau Othguk would go down fighting!

Cinnamon Toast Is Tea-Time Treat

By Jane Rogers
 Cinnamon toast with a glass of milk will make a wholesome and nourishing afternoon snack, and they'll love it.
 This is the way I have always made it: Cut and toast slices of bread. Spread them with butter and sprinkle generously with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar—two tablespoons of cinnamon to the cup of sugar. Place the slices in the oven close to the flame. When the sugar has melted and bubbles slightly, remove the toast from the oven and cut off the crusts.

MRS. MORRIS ATTENDS LIBRARIANS' MEETING

Mrs. Alice Palmer Morris, librarian of the Morehead State Teachers College, attended the annual meeting of the Kentucky Library Association, which was held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week in Lexington, Kentucky.

The Kentucky Library Association is an organization whose membership is made up of the executives from the colleges, high school and public libraries of the state. The purpose of the organization is to keep its members fully acquainted with all affairs pertaining to the field of library work. The association is a marked success, the last meeting being the twenty-fifth since its formation.

The meeting last week was held on the campus of the University of Kentucky. An excellent program was given on each of the three days of the meeting.

Members of the cabinet for the Y. W. C. A. have been chosen by the sponsors, Miss Curaleen Smith and Miss Exer Robinson. They are as follows:

Mildren Whitt President
Josephine Jeffers Vice-president
Mildred Johnson Secretary
Marianna Thomas Chairman of the Music Committee.
Elizabeth Denny Chairman of the Social Committee.
Mildred Johnson Publicity Chair.
Josephine Jeffers Chairman of the Membership Committee.

Vesper services under the auspices of the Y. W. group are held every Sunday evening from 5:30 to 6:15 o'clock. After the services sandwiches, pies, cakes and milk are sold.

The students and faculty are invited to participate in the vesper services.

3,000,000 FAMILIES HELPED BY RED CROSS

Distress in All Areas Met by Giving Food, Clothing and Other Aid.

More than 3,000,000 families throughout the nation were given relief of various types by the American Red Cross in the past winter, to aid them in their distress caused by unemployment, drought and other misfortunes.

A major relief task, due to unemployment and other unusual conditions in the bituminous mining counties in twenty states, was met by the Red Cross chapters alone, or in cooperation with other agencies. In these 143 counties, the Red Cross aided 90,000 families through giving groceries, school lunches, clothing, flour and other necessities to combat privation.

Flour, milled from government wheat turned over to the Red Cross by Congress, was given to 600,000 persons in the period from March 8 to June 20, the close of the fiscal year. Flour will continue to be given through the winter of 1932 and Red Cross chapters also will give cotton clothing, made from government cotton turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

The Red Cross faces the busiest winter since the days of the World War, Chairman John Barton Payne said. "It is organized in virtually every one of the 3,672 counties in the United States, and co-operates with all agencies to meet distress wherever found. The flour has proved of great benefit, and the cotton clothing will give wide distribution."

While carrying on nation-wide these unemployment and other relief measures, the Red Cross also was engaged in its regular peace-time activities in public health nursing, service to ex-service men and their families, teaching home hygiene, life saving and first aid. The Junior Red Cross, composed of almost 7,000,000 school children, also rallied to the support of the society's relief efforts, and the children aided others of their age in practical ways, formed sewing and food canning classes and won of great assistance in chapter relief work.

While the wheat and cotton were given by the U. S. Government, no money was paid and no pay for the necessary work entailed. The Red Cross will meet this expense of almost $500,000 from its treasury. Citizens can aid by joining as members of the local Red Cross chapter during the roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Clothes for the Needy

Women volunteers sewing for the needy under direction of the Red Cross produced 250,000 garments last year, and will produce millions of garments in the winter of 1932-33. These will be from the millions of yards of cotton cloth distributed by the national Red Cross from the 500,000 bales of cotton turned over to the organization by Congress. Cloth was sent to all chapters requesting it, and later it was proposed to send some simple, ready-made garments, including trousers, overalls, underwear, stockings and sox.

Huge Task of Nurses

Red Cross public health nurses, who work in hundreds of communities, are meeting the greatest demands in history for their services, due to the depression. Visits in maternity cases, protecting the health of infants and children, and aiding mothers in distress due to unemployment of the bread-winners have taken them into thousands of homes. The nurses made 1,357,000 visits to or on behalf of individuals, and inspected 949,000 school children. More than 58,000 adults were instructed in home hygiene and care of the sick.

Blind Readers Get Books

Books in braille for reading by the blind are made by women under Red Cross direction. Last year 2,513 such books were produced in single copies, and 3,538 in double copies. Fiction, biography, history, economics and school books were among those printed in braille. The Red Cross sends them to libraries for free distribution to blind readers.

SIXTY DISASTERS IN 1932 ADD TO NATION'S DISTRESS

Red Cross Spends $2,760,000 To Help Victims of Catastrophes.

In a year of great misfortune caused by economic depression, in which the American Red Cross assumed heavy burdens of relief for the unemployed, the organization also responded to emergency needs in 60 disasters in the United States and its insular possessions.

During the twelve months ending June 30, 1932, the Red Cross gave aid to 75,000 families totalling 328,000 individuals, with expenditures of $2,760,724. The people were in distress because of drought, food, forest fire, tornado, snowstorms, mine explosion, or other similar great disaster.

TIMELY FARM CIRCULARS

The following agricultural circulars can be obtained from county and home demonstration agents or by writing to the college of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Renovation and Remodeling clothing. As the subject indicates, this circular deals with cleaning, washing and general renovation of clothing, deep. Then spread a little of the top soil in the hole, to place around the roots. Fill about half full and press the dirt down with the foot. Then completely fill, but do not press down the last dirt.

begin growing in the spring.

In transplanting big trees and shrubs, dig the holes large enough to accommodate the roots spread in a natural position. After the plant has been tried in the hole, and the hole found large and deep enough to accommodate the spread out roots, loosen the dirt in the bottom at least two inches deep. Then spread a little of the top soil in the hole, to place around the roots. Fill about half full and press the dirt down with the foot. Then completely fill, but do not press down the last dirt.

Do not put trash or litter in the chain. Soil about the roots of the plant is better than other material. Manure, leaves and similar material can best be used as a mulch around the plant after the hole is filled with dirt.

All new set trees should be wrapped with newspaper and tied with string from the lower branches to the ground. This protects the trunk until the plant is established and the bark hardened to the sun. Leave the paper on until it rolls away.

Grapefruit and Vitamin C

There was a time when we thought that what we had to have, if it came to first principles, was just "enough to eat." But science has taught us differently. What we have to have is sufficient of this and of that, especially of the essential vitamin C.

When we first heard of this vitamin as the "antiscorbutic" vitamin, we said to ourselves, "Well, we're not going on long sea voyages or Arctic expeditions where we will have to live on bread and salt meats, so we don't need protection from scurvy!"

That is what we used to say—now we know that for healthy bodies, sound teeth and good skins we simply have to have enough of this vitamin.

That is why the report of a study of antiscorbutic potency of canned and fresh grapefruit, which appeared some months ago in The Journal of Home Economics, is so interesting. The study was made by Grace MacLeod and Lela Booher of the Nutritional Laboratory of Teachers' College of Columbia University, and led to the conclusion that canned or fresh grapefruit has a vitamin C potency of the same order of magnitude as lemon or orange juice or tomatoes, raw or canned.

This Applies To Us

So, should the family get tired of its orange juice and lemon juice, and look askance at tomatoes for the nonce, substitute grapefruit. It's good, and just as good for them.

Sunday Night Supper

SUNDAY night supper is usually pretty cold sort of comfort. Nine times out of ten, it is a meal of left-overs, left as they are. And people are hungry for this meal. Most folks go for a ride Sunday afternoon, or bar-b-qing that, a good brisk walk—even a concert or a movie or a pleasant visit with friends gives one an appetite.

as well. Here's a little menu, for instance, which will awaken a lot of Sunday night enthusiasm!

Salad of Canned Sauerkraut with Sliced Bermuda Onions and French Dressing
Cheese Rarebit

With this serve as near beer as the law allows.

Real Rarebit: Melt two tablespoons butter and two cups grated cheese, one-half teaspoon mustard, salt and paprika; stir till just melted. Add one-half cup milk or cream and one-half cup canned catsup; stir till smooth and hot. Avoid boiling, and serve at once on toasted crackers or toast with strips of bacon. Serves four.

Real Food for Sunday Night
Why not serve real food for Sunday night instead of a little of this and a little of that? Keep the left-overs until Monday and make something nice out of them—you can. If you will put a little time to it, for Sunday night choose something that is easy to prepare and good and substantial

They've Never Tasted a Tonic!

THESE are not patent medicine children. Their appetite needs coaxing. Their tongues are never red, cheeks never pale. And their bowels move just like clockwork, because they have never been given a habit-forming laxative.

You can have children like this—be as healthy yourself—if you follow the advice of a famous family physician. Stimulate the vital organs. The strongest of them get help at times. If they don't get it, they grow sluggish. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is a mild, safe stimulant.

When a youngster doesn't do well at school, it may be the liver that's at fault. Often the bowels hold enough poisonous waste to dull the senses. A spoonful of delicious syrup pepsin once or twice a week will avoid all this. It contains fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin, and does a world of good to any system—young or old. You can always get this fine prescription preparation at any drug store. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

Get some syrup pepsin today, and protect your family from those bilious days, frequent sick spells and aches. Keep a bottle in the medicine chest instead of cathartics that so often bring on chronic constipation. Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin can always be employed to give clogged bowels a thorough cleansing, with none of that painful griping, or burning feeling afterward. It isn't expensive.

COMFORT

calls for proper lighting

Medical men and illuminating engineers have, in the last few years, made some important investigations and discoveries about the relation of eyestrain to various bodily disorders.

Eyestrain may cause headaches, digestive upsets, nervousness and irritability, with the usual discomfort that goes with these troubles.

Proper lighting in your home—with properly fitted glasses for those needing them—will end the most common cause of eyestrain. Proper lighting means neither too much nor too little illumination.

Ask our local manager about your residential, store or office lighting. He will gladly advise frankly after making an inspection . . . with no charge for his service.

Red Cross to Enlist Great Army of Members to Fight Distress

Last year 4,004,459 men and women joined the American Red Cross as members during the annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. A peace-time army even greater than this will be needed in 1933 to support and carry on the nationwide relief work of the Red Cross. There are 3,639 Red Cross Chapters and they have 10,000 branches.

Prolonged drought caused the Red Cross to go with help to 68,000 families in the northwest. Here in 144 counties in North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Washington and Iowa the Red Cross spent $1,980,000 from its own treasury to feed and protect people through the winter and spring.

Other grave disasters were floods in southeastern states, where the organization spent $192,000 from its treasury and $65,000 local contributions to help 13,000 persons.

More than 50,000 people were homeless from floods in tributaries of the Mississippi river and again the Red Cross faced a long relief task, aiding these people. The national organization gave $108,000 and local contributions were $10,000.

The Red Cross always maintains a state of readiness to meet these sudden emergencies, and funds and other essentials to this work are supplied. In part, by the annual roll call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day. Every citizen can support this worthy activity through joining as a member in the local Red Cross chapter.

VIKINGS

At present Russell leads the conference with two wins and no defeats closely followed by the Vikings with two wins, no defeats and one tie. Boyd County takes third and with one loss and two wins. Race-land who lost to Grayson Friday in an upset encounter, is fourth tagged by Grayson with one win and two losses. Olive Hill and Greenup are tied for the cellar position.

So this year as last and the year before that there is but one team between the Vikings and the conference leadership, Russell. Can Russell repeat for the third time? We're just enough of a die-hard, hard-shell radical to repeat that we insist on being shown.

Yea, Vikings!

SUNDAY SCHOOL 9:45 A. M. Morning Service 10:45

There will be no Sunday evening services for the next two weeks as we are cooperating with the Baptist in their revival. Also there will be no mid-week prayer meeting for the next two weeks.

The young people are cooperating with the Y. W. C. A. next Sunday.
