as to which would win the betting was therefore various—the principal amounts being going to the track, were wagered on Little Red against Medley, and Birmingham against Medley.

under at the same time with her nose in front—she spared neither steel, timber or strength on Aryle, but it would not—certainly not by the aid of her own strength.

This is the first time Aryle has been beaten this spring, and it is a bright feather in Cassidell's cap that she conquered this celebrated horse in the severest race ever run.

departments of labor, for there is often a great loss of time where persons are frequently changing their employment, and the work is not executed so well.

Every means should be thought of to diminish labor, or to increase its power; for instance, by proper arrangement five hands may do as much labor as six persons, according to the mode of employing them.

Every farmer ought to engage in a work, whether of ordinary practice or internal improvement, except after the most careful inquiries; but when begun, he ought to proceed with much attention and perseverance, until he has given it a fair trial.

It is a main object in management, not to attempt to much, and never to begin a work without a probability of being able to finish it in due season.

Every farmer should have a book for jotting all those useful hints which are so frequently occurring in conversation, in books, and gathered in the course of his reading, or in a practical management of his farm.

FARMING.—The storm which has deluged the commercial world is convulsed, are calculated to reconcile thousands to their farms who had grown impatient at the contrast presented between their certain means of comfortable independence and the uncertain riches suddenly resulting from lucky speculations.

FIELD PEAS AND BEANS.—Do not omit to plant plenty of both; if you have no ground that you can specially appropriate for such purposes, plant them through your corn fields; they will not materially abstract from the product of your corn, while they will greatly tend to increase the solid comforts of your household, and add no little to your profits.—Farmer and Gardener.

CHANGE OF THE BODY.—To so great an extent is the renovation of materials carried on in the human system, that doubts may be entertained as to identity of any portion of the body after the lapse of time.

BENEFITS OF MATRIMONY.—None but the married man has a home in his old age; none has friends then, but he; none but he knows and feels the solace of the domestic hearth; none but he lives and freshens in his old age, amid the affections of his children.

It is conjectured with what probability of accuracy we cannot say, that those representations of animals, found so extensively throughout the country, have been objects of worship to the ignorant and superstitious natives.

St. JEROME, Berrien Co., Md., April 15. A SUBJECT FOR NATURALISTS.—We were shown, a few days since a tooth of some unknown animal, which weighed about five and a half ounces, and measured four by seven inches, the nerve of which would hold three-fourths of a pound of shot.

FRENCH WOMEN.—There is a facility of amusement about the French quite enjoyable by the English, and unobtainable to them. Our ideas of good fellowship in society are substantial; we like to be excited and entertained highly when we come together; but to be dressed, and to go out, and to chat, is enough for the Parisian dame.

AGRICULTURAL. MAXIMS FOR FARMERS.—1. The farmer ought to rise early, to see that others do so; and that both his example is followed and his orders obeyed.

MENTAL FEVER.—Of the cause of disease, variety of mind is, perhaps, the most frequent and important. It is the walk of the busy man, the large commercial towns, and we are scarcely fit to remark the hurried gait and care worn features of the ill-dressed passengers. Some young men, indeed, we may see with countenances possessing natural cheerfulness and color, but these appearances rarely survive the age of manhood.

What he would urge is moral. Civilization has changed our character of mind as well as body. We live in a state of unnatural excitement, and we are because it is partial, irregular and excessive. Our muscles waste for want of action; our nervous system is worn out by excess of action.—Thackeray on the Effects of art.

FILLING UP OF LAKE SUPERIOR.—This mighty lake is the largest body of fresh water in the known world. Its length is four hundred and eighty miles, and its breadth one hundred and sixty-one—its circumference about one thousand one hundred miles, and its depth nine hundred fathoms.

Lake Erie, from similar causes, is also filling up. This sheet of water is 270 miles in length, 60 in breadth and 200 fathoms in depth. It is gradually becoming shallower. Long Point, for example has in two years gained no less than 3 miles on the water.

SOMETHING NEW, ROMANTIC AND SUBLIME.—A musical concert is to be given June 14th, by Mr. Jacob Mohler, at Weyer's Cave, Virginia. This sheet of water is 270 miles in length, 60 in breadth and 200 fathoms in depth.

NATURAL CURIOSITY.—Last week we were shown an animal, the like of which we have never seen or heard of. Some boys playing in a canoe, opposite Carondelet, perceived an animal swimming towards the shore; mistaking it for a water-snake, they attempted to kill it.

This strange creature about seven inches long, a dark ash color, and about as thick as a half in circumference. The head and body are of one color, the tail terminated in a fin. Immediately behind the eyes, are lateral formations supposed to be intended for fins, they extend about an inch, and are divided into three distinct branches in miniature.

A school boy of Louisville, the other day, addressed a letter to Thomas H. Benton, requesting him to be a candidate for the Presidency, to which he signed his own, and the names of two of his schoolmates.

As old women met a man with a credit. "Oh Sir," said she, "the fruits of matrimony are not so fruitful," was the answer, "this is only the fruit basket."

LOST LITERATURE.—A young lady down East takes a pint of gin as she goes to bed, to make her rise early.

USE OF A BRICK.—A writer on school discipline says, "without a liberal use of the rod, it is impossible to make boys smart."

SEAL TRAILS.—There have been 121 seal vessels fitted out in New-England waters, and carrying 10,624 men, and carrying 3940 men.
