

VIKINGS CINCH SECOND PLACE IN LITTLE 8 CONFERENCE GRABBING FRIDAY'S GAME FROM OLIVE HILL

The Vikings of Morehead High cavorted in the wind and cold over Haverock Field at Olive Hill while the Olive Hill High School Comets attempted to redeem their disastrous 1932 football season by a victory over their rivals. That they were unsuccessful in spite of a weak lineup presented by the Vikings, is evidenced by the score: Vikings 32; Comets 14.

Without the service of Turner or Robinson in the back field Coach Holbrook found it necessary to shift Denver Hall to this section and to throw in substitutes in the line. Herb Elam, regular center, was also on the shelf for the week and Roger McKinney took his place as pivot man.

By taking the Olive Hill game the Kings cinched second place in the Little Eight Conference for the third successive year, in all three years being beaten out by Russell.

Friday was a bad day for football particularly for the spectators angle, but a few loyal fans from Morehead and even fewer from Olive Hill braved the elements to see the game. The Vikings clearly outclassed the Comets even with their weakened lineup and proved their superiority from the first whistle. After receiving the ball from the kickoff they drove down the field to go over for a touchdown in the first two minutes of the contest. Honaker made the touchdown but failed in the try for point.

Olive Hill received but failed to gain and punted. The Kings again drove to the ten yard line and lost the game.

The half ended with the score 19 to 0 in favor of the Vikings. In the second half Holbrook sent in practically every substitute he had in order to give all the boys a chance to see action. With this weakened lineup, the Comets played on almost equal terms throughout the last half, garnering two touchdowns while the Kings also gathered two. Olive Hill's second touchdown came as the result of a sixty yard run directly over center while both Morehead and Olive Hill fans cheered.

Olive Hill undoubtedly has one boy, Earl Trier who deserves special mention for his work. He is one of the best backs in the conference and with a good team would go plenty places.

Probably the feature of the game from the Vikings viewpoint was the final drive from the forty yard line which netted a touchdown with forty seconds to go. An end run netted a few yards. Then three quick lineups and three completed forward passes Honaker to Tatum and Tatum went across the goal line for the last marker as the whistle blew.

One more game and the curtain will fall on the 1932 football season for the Vikings. They meet the Ashland "B" team here Friday afternoon in a non-conference game. According to reports Ashland B has a good team and has played practically all the Little Eight teams with the exception of Russell and has won the majority of their games. They are coming to Morehead to take the Vikings into camp if it is possible. It will be remembered that last year a week Oates High team did the impossible and tied the Vikings who were rated at 60 points better. This year the Kings will go into the contest weakened by injuries to such an extent that they will be under a decided handicap.

Taken as a whole this may be said to have been an off season for the Kings. Ever since the first game they have been unable to put their full strength on the field at any one time. Injuries and a few intelligibilities have prevented the Vikings showing their best all season. Of course this fact would not have interfered so much, if the Kings had more than 13 men as first string material.

There is a move on foot, at present, sponsored by the Lions Club to stage a Viking-Alumni game at the stadium on Thanksgiving Day. The receipts will go for the benefit of the hospital.

Eastern Defeats Eagles By 19-0

A horde of Eastern warriors, representing the Eastern State Teachers, led by the versatile offensive play of Ben Horde, candidate for All-State and All-Southern S. I. A. A. honors, swarmed through the Morehead College Eagles at Richmond Friday for a 19-0 victory. The loss was Morehead's second in six games.

Handicapped by injuries and the Downings were no match for the Richmond team on line plays, but swooped through the air to clearly outgain them on passes. An aerial attack with Paul Combs hauling the ball and June Evans generally on the receiving and carried the locals within scoring distance twice during the game, once as close as the three yard strip.

Eastern scored their first touchdown five minutes after the game started. A drive from the fifty yard line carried the Maroons to the one yard line but the Eagles held for four downs and June Evans punted out. Two completed passes and three runs by Horde carried the ball across a few plays later, however.

The second touchdown was made midway in the second quarter, and was a break for Eastern. They carried the ball to the eight yard line (Continued from Page Four)

Alumni May Meet Vikings

Plans are now being made where by a football game to be played at the high school for the last time either on Thanksgiving Day or the day before will have the additional pleasure of seeing their former heroes of the game perform once more for the benefit of their old school, since the funds to be raised are to be used for the children of that institution.

Among those who are figured to take part in the game if it is played are Austin Riddle, Claud Clayton, Ted Perry, Watt Pritchard, Arthur Evans, Graydon Heckney, June Barber, Earl Barber, Clay Trumbo, Luther Jayne, Fuzzy Jayne, Fred Caudill, Fred and Roy Cassidy, Dave Nickell, Jack Lewis, Curt Caudill, and Chas. Adams.

Vikings, six of them in the uniform of the high school for the last time either on Thanksgiving Day or the day before will have the additional pleasure of seeing their former heroes of the game perform once more for the benefit of their old school, since the funds to be raised are to be used for the children of that institution.

Second Semester Courses Increased

Students who are planning to enter the Morehead Teachers College in February, 1933, will find a well-balanced and enlarged program of courses. According to Dean William M. Vaughan, plans have already been completed which will make the mid-winter semester the most valuable one, educationally, the college has ever attempted.

Approximately ten courses will be offered for the first time at Morehead next semester, and old courses will be repeated to take care of the needs of the new student body. The present faculty will be augmented by the addition of six new members, most of whom are regular faculty members on leave of absence for the first semester.

The new courses cover a wide range of subjects and will be distributed among the various departments, thus increasing the possibilities for more intensive work in different fields of study. In the Department of Agriculture, which is headed by Professor H. C. Haugan, Agriculture 52 is a new course. It deals with the study of soils. In the Department of Education, headed by Professor E. V. Hollis, four additional courses are to be offered. They are "Teaching the Common Branches of High School Administration," "Educational Psychology for Elementary Teachers," and "Educational Psychology for High School Teachers." The "History of the West" will be new offerings in the department of History and Government.

Professor Charles O. Purdy, who did graduate work at Columbia University, New York, heads this department and it back on the job this year.

"Ornithology" and "Comparative Anatomy" are new courses in biology. Professor John L. Sullivan, who is studying at the Iowa Agricultural College, Ames, will be back in February.

"Advanced Survey of German Literature" will be offered for the first time here in the Department of Foreign Languages. Dr. Emma O. Bach heads this department.

The Department of English which boasts the largest enrollment of any department in college, offers some twenty-six courses next semester. They cover many phases of English study, the largest number of the courses being in the fields of composition and American and English literature.

Students entering in February will have a total of 180 courses from which to choose. Eighty of these are above the freshman level and the others are open to all students. The number of courses offered in each department or subject are as follows: Agriculture, five; Art, eight; Biology, nine; Chemistry, five; Economics and Sociology, ten; Education, twenty-two; English, twenty-six; French and German, eight; Geography, law, History, and Government, sixteen; Home Economics, six; Mathematics, sixteen; Music, eighteen; Physical Education, eight; Industrial Arts, eight.

DEMOCRATS CARRY KENTUCKY IN AVALANCHE OF BALLOTS BY HUGE MAJORITY PASSING 1928 RECORD

Clarence Sparks Has Broken Leg

Injuries dealt a fourth severe blow to the Morehead State Teachers College football team Monday when Clarence Sparks of Olive Hill, varsity end, broke his right leg in two places midway between the ankle and knee. Sparks, running signals with the varsity, was going up the side line looking over his shoulder for a forward pass, when he ran into the players bench at full speed.

Doctors said it was a severe break, and he was taken to an Ashland hospital for treatment. The injury not only will keep Sparks out of the season's last game against Transylvania, Saturday, but from class for several weeks. Coach Downing was giving the Eagles some new plays to use against Transylvania when the accident occurred.

Downing had planned to use Sparks at defensive guard and blocking back Saturday to add weight to the line. Sparks was playing his second year for the Eagles.

Clarence Clayton, regular halfback, probably will be unable to play against Transylvania. He suffered a sprained side in the first quarter of the Eastern game and was taken from the line-up. Clayton was one of the smartest and hardest playing backs that Downing had. Paul Henry, Mt. Sterling, tackle, suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Union game, and James Maggard of Ashland, an end, broke an arm three weeks ago.

The chances of the Eagles against Transylvania will be slim. Downing is hoping a new set of plays might take the Lexington team unawares.

White House Meet Held At Lexington

At the first meeting of the Kentucky White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, held on October 28 and 29 at the University of Kentucky, county committees were appointed to promote this type of work throughout the state. The meeting at Lexington was under the direction of Dr. W. S. Taylor, dean of the College of Education at the University; he is active chairman of the Kentucky Conference.

The Rowan county committee is composed of Professor Penatt, H. M. Johnson, President Payne, and county Superintendent Lydia M. Caudill. The county committee will study and work in cooperation with the women's clubs, parent-teacher organizations, ministerial organizations and any person who is interested in the educational, medical and social welfare of Kentucky children. Three distinct phases of the subject will be dealt with by these committees in their reports. They have charge of the circulation of literature, printing the facts they find out about the educational, sociological, and psychological aspects of the child; they report what is now being done to improve these conditions and recommend what should be done in the future.

These conferences are the outgrowth of the national conferences, the first of which was called in 1919 by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, and the third by President Hoover in 1930.

Under the supervision of the National Conference the governors of thirty-six states have held meetings. The Kentucky Conference program this year was given in four divisions, the educational department, the medical department, the speaking program, and the program devoted to the social welfare problem in Kentucky.

Some of the leading speakers on the educational program were Dr. R. L. Hoke, professor of psychology of Morehead State Teachers College, who Late election returns indicated that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has carried Kentucky by a vote for in excess of the record established by President Hoover in the 1928 landslide. Roosevelt's majority in the state runs over 185,000, while Hoover carried Kentucky in 1928 by the previously unprecedented majority of 177,000 votes. The entire state ticket went over in practically the same manner, every democrat on the ticket leading by overwhelming majorities. Senator Barkley returns to the Senate by a majority only slightly less than that of Governor Roosevelt.

In the avalanche of votes over the old Tenth District and the old Fifth including Jefferson county are found in the democratic column. The Eleventh District remained close in the Republican fold, but only by reduced majorities.

According to late reports only 25 counties in the state gave Republican majorities. Probably one of the greatest upsets in the entire state returns was that from Carter county which overcame an overwhelming Republican majority of over 2,500 to go Democratic this year for the first time since the Civil War.

Rowan County itself is receiving congratulations from Democratic State Headquarters for the unusual showing they made during the recent election with a majority of 1222. Returns from Montgomery county show that that county which is regarded as permanently Democratic, the majority was in 1926 or 73 larger than that of this county. Bath county gave a majority of around 1,600.

Probably most pleasing to local Democrats was the substantial lead piled up by Congressman Fred M. Vinson. Mr. Vinson led his congressional ticket in the entire state being only a small number behind Governor Roosevelt himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Vinson, incidentally, passed through Morehead on Monday of this week and expressed themselves as particularly delighted with the vote in Rowan county. "You may tell my friends in Rowan county," said Mr. Vinson, "that old Rowan came through better than any county around, and I believe better than any county in the state."

Tabulated returns of the election in this county were published in the last week's issue of the News. The stock law which was being voted in in the Second Magisterial District was approved by a big majority. Four years ago the same law was defeated by a large vote. The stock law is now in force in every district in Rowan county.

MOREHEAD CLUB TO MEET AT WILLETTS

The Morehead Womens Club will meet Monday night of next week at the home of Mrs. H. C. Willett. The program will be in the form of a Colonial Thanksgiving program, celebrating Thanksgiving Day.

EAGLES TO PLAY TRANSY SATURDAY

The Eagles of Morehead State Teachers College will play their last game of the present season on Saturday of this week when they meet Transylvania at Lexington. Downing's team is not conceded much of a chance to win since the injury line has been trailing them so persistently for the past few weeks. In fact, Coach Downing says that he has suffered more in the past two and one half weeks than in the eight preceding years. With Paul Henry and Jimmy Maggard out of the line up with disabled arms, Martindale suffering from a sprained ankle, Clayton on the shelf with a torn hip muscle, Clarence Sparks suffered a broken leg to climax the slump.

Under Frozen Skies

"At last off the shore where the expectant Ojibwak were gathered beneath the fire, the peteboro drifted in the dark. A short distance from the fire, dimly outlined in the shadows at the foot of the medicine stone, stood a small cylindrical tipi of caribou hide, ornamented with the grotesque shapes of serpents and animals. It was the medicine lodge of Jingwak.

"We wait for hem to mak de bog howl, den we go ashore below here," whispered Omar.

"Can you make out Paradise?" replied Jim.

"Parades keep in de dark until he see how de magic of Jingwak work ee it work we have to fight for."

Presently the rattle of shells, mingled with the beat of the medicine drum drifted from the tent. The low hum of the squatted medicine died. The speaker had begun his invocation of the spirits.

At the fire swart faces turned gray with dread.

Suddenly out of the hush, lifted a voice as of the grave. A spirit was speaking.

"The strangers from the land where the sun sleeps is no shaman. He came from the trader at the house of the Setting Sun, the home of devils."

"Where is this conjuror," asked the sepulchral voice, "who tells the Ojibwak his magic is stronger than that of Jingwak, my brother? He is not here! He fears the wrath of Jingwak the great shaman."

Jms muscles stiffened. The moment had come. It was time to strike—but where was Esau?

"He not here!" whispered Jim. But the man at his side, whose "We'd better work toward the canoe," fingers clamped on the horn handle of a knife as he peered at the medicine lodge, stood motionless.

"The stranger has the heart of a rabbit. His mouth is full of lies. He hides from the magic of Jingwak!"

With a glance at the spellbound Indians, Jim took Omar's arm as he muttered, "Come on! They'll go crazy in a minute! We'll be cut off from the canoe!"

Then the iron fingers of Omar dug deep into the arm of Jim as he muttered, "Look."

Despite the medicine lodge stood a apparition. From the nodding head above a chalk white mask with eyes like a grinning mouth, rose the entlers of a caribou. On the skin, but Jim and two Ojibwak were at a body writhed painted snakes. At the cash hung the medicine bag and shell rattler of a conjuror.

A suppressed "Ah!" swept the startled Ojibwak. "The shaman. The haman!"

There was a pause. Wide eyed, the funeral voice from the mask.

"I have come, oh Jingwak! O'tchig, the shaman from God's lake who fears not your magic, is here."

But from the tipi of Jingwak came no sound.

"Come forth oh magician with the split tongue! O'tchig, the shaman from God's lake laughs at your magic!"

Still the lodge of Jingwak gave no sound.

From the squatted Ojibwak rose murmurs of surprise. Why did not Jingwak speak?

Suddenly, in the gloom across the fire, sounded heated words, Jim's eyes turned from the horned shape by the medicine lodge. An inflamed face lit by the glow, faded into the darkness. It was Paradise.

"Does Jingwak, the friend of the trader, Paradise, fear the magic of O'tchig that he hides his face?"

Low groans greeted the strange behavior of the mate conjuror in the tent.

"He's afraid to come out!" whispered Jim, excitedly. "What's Esau done to him?"

The half-breed's answer was a fierce sneeze on the arm.

The Indians lifted the voice of Jimaw. Shortly, above the murmuring of the Rattlesnake: "The strange shaman has put a spell upon Jingwak!"

There was a movement in the medicine lodge. The Ojibwak was thrust aside and the conjuror crawled slowly out. As he rose the rat like eyes in the painted face, avoiding the mask of O'tchig, shifted furtively from side to side.

"He's quit! Esau's got him! We'd better work around behind to nose them off, if they rush!" breathed Jim.

"No, de Indians believe Esau—wait! I tak care of Parades!"

"Look, me the sturgeon, on the great Wabeno!" jeered the voice from the chalk-white mask, as Jingwak's hunted eyes dropped before the rows of fire-lit faces. "His friend the spirit asks me for magic! Behold the medicine of O'tchig."

With an ear-torturing scream, he stiffened his arms and sliced the air, downward to his side.

"Without blood I have taken his ears!" announced the voice from the mask. "Go to him and behold the magic of O'tchig."

The desperate Jingwak turned to escape in the blackness of the spruce, but Jimaw and two Ojibwak were at hand and dragged the panic-stricken sooner back to the fire. Pushing aside the long hair which hung to his shoulders, the Rattlesnake exposed the sides of Jingwak's head to the view of the astonished Ojibwak.

The ears had been removed close to the skull.

For a hushed interval the astonished Ojibwak gaped in wonder at this proof of O'tchig's magic. Then with a roar there was a rush for the impetor who had deceived them with his boasting. But the terrified Jingwak wrenched free of his arms that held him and disappeared into the blackness.

Friday afternoon was devoted to the medical part of the program. Dr. Phillip F. Barbour, President of the Kentucky Medical Association was chairman of the session and the principal speakers were Dr. Alice Pickett of Louisville, who spoke on, "Maternal Health in Relation to Child Health"; and Dr. Julian Estill, of Lexington, on, "The Infant and the Pre-School Problems".

The speaking program was held Friday evening in the ball room of the Phoenix Hotel, President McVey of the University of Kentucky acted as toastmaster at the dinner. The outstanding address of the evening was given by Dr. H. E. Barnard, former director of the National White House Conference, and the man who was perhaps more largely responsible for the success of the last national conference. He chose as his subject "The State's Responsibility to Its Children," and clearly showed by his address that he was an authority upon the subject. Dr. Barnard was one of the first workers in the food and drug legislation and collaborated with Dr. Harvey W. Wiley in drafting our public health laws.

At the Saturday morning session sociological problems were discussed, and the reports of several committees and sub-committees on social welfare were presented. The reports given in this division were under four headings: (1) The Dependent Child; (2) The Defective Child; (3) The Delinquent Child; and (4) Organization and Equipment. Some of the outstanding leaders in social welfare of the state appeared on the program. Emphasis was placed upon giving the handicapped child the greatest opportunity possible to develop to the limit of his capacities and to live a life of greatest possible service and happiness.

Faculty members from Morehead who attended the White House Conference are Dr. R. F. Terrell, Dr. B. L. Hoke, Dr. P. L. Gard and Professor A. Y. Lloye.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calobats, the nasalsinal compound tablets that give you the effects of eucalypt and eucalypt without the unpleasant stings of either.

One or two Calobats at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

Calobats are 25c and 35c packages at drug stores. (Adv)

Home Electric Service Costs

33% LESS

Today Than It Did In 1913

The average cost of residential electric service is today 33 percent lower than it was in 1913, the year before the world war began.

But the average cost of living (prices of food, clothing, shelter, fuel, medical services, etc.), according to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, is 40 percent higher now than it was in 1913.

And the average cost of government (federal, state and local), which was $135 a year per family in 1913, has gone up to $450 per family in 1932—an increase of 233 percent.

Thus, while the average living cost has advanced 40 percent and the cost of government has jumped 233 percent, in the last nineteen years, the cost of residential electric service has come down 33 percent.

Loaded with the same tax burden everyone else has, the electric power companies have so improved operating efficiency as to be able to reduce home electric rates an average of 5 1/2 cents a kilowatt-hour.

INDEPENDENT TEAM OPENS PLAY TUESDAY

The Morehead Independent Basketball team will meet the West Liberty Independents here at the Public School gymnasium on Tuesday night of next week.

EASTERN WINS

The Independent is made up of a number of stars and former stars of this section.

In three downs last five yards. Parson hurled a pass in Morehead's end zone and Macabee batted it down. The Eagles took the ball on the twenty yard strip and on the first play Sheridan fumbled, Eastern covering the oval. They went over for their second marker a few plays later and made the extra point.

Morehead started a touchdown drive in the closing minutes of the half, and advanced the ball sixty yards, making three first downs, but were stopped by lack of time. They had the ball on the fifteen yard strip at the half.

The third touchdown was the climax of a steady drive down the field by Eastern, after they were aided by twenty-five yards in penalized on Morehead. Horde scored all three of the touchdowns and it placed him second in the state's night scorers.

The Eagles bared their talons near the end of the battle, and five completed passes, Combs to Evans, laid the ball to the five yard line, but the heavier line of Eastern's field and a pass into the end zone on fourth down was batted down.

The locals are offering no alibi over the defeat, but it is admitted that they were playing without the services of Paul Henry, tackle, James Maggard, end, and Claude Clayton, half. Clayton was injured in the first quarter and removed from the game. He may be unable to play against Transylvania in the final game Saturday at Lexington.

Eastern made eighteen first downs to Morehead's eleven. They also picked up more yardage from scrimmage, but the Eagles were better from the air.

The skirmish was the highlight of Eastern's annual Homecoming.

The following letter to Mrs. Lester Hogge is self-explanatory:

The following letter to Mrs. Lester Hogge is self-explanatory: Mrs. Lester Hogge, Morehead, Ky., My dear County Chairman:

It is my pleasure, and that of the entire personnel of State Democratic Headquarters, as well as of the Democratic party, to express to you and your precinct workers our very great appreciation for your able assistance in scoring a great Democratic victory in the recent election.

Our faith in the womanhood of Kentucky has been entirely justified. That "willing hands make light work" has been proven quite true during the last few weeks. Without cooperation it would have been impossible to swing the pendulum back to peace and prosperity for our nation.

With high hopes for a period of security and happiness, I am Mrs. Nora Dixon McGee Chairman Women's Democratic Campaign Committee
