It is a sublime apectacle to see a man rining above the prejudices of ages. No right is more glorious to man or angel. For four thousand years the world has been blinded by sophisms, and bound down by useless formulas. Occasionally a bright light has blazed up amid the darkness. exposing the deformities of human government, and pointing out to the down trodden the true road to greatness and prosperity. Luther was one of those lights, and a glorious, divine, illumination he was too. Old, opperseive forms, which had fettered the minds for ages, were scattered by his giant-like arm like cohestiered by this giant-like arm like cohestiered by this giant-like some feeble, sear-some broad and brilliant, some feeble, sear-some broad and brilliant, some feeble, sear-some broad and will and the gloon. But still the work-place and the gloon. But a still the work-place and the gloon of the world are yet group-in-darkness in darkness and the single place in the property of the property in the property in the property is above.
